(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, Oct. 8.—The English dramatist's new play—translated and adapted by Herren Schwarz and Lothar—met with a considerable amount of success, Mr. Maugham being still remembered with pleasure by the habitués of the Kleines Theatre on account of his clever piece Shipwrecked, produced here some years ago. I take it Lady Frederick is known to English playgoers, so that a detailing of the plot will be superfluous. The grateful rôle of the elderly, yet fascinating and generous, heroine met with full justice at the hands of Frau Lili Petri, an actress who took Berlin by storm twenty years ago in the French play Fall Clemenceau at the Lessing Theatre. Frau Petri was at her best—which is saying a good deal—in the scene in the third act, where Lady Frederick disillusions a youthful suitor by forcing him to witness the secret arts of her "make-up." The amusing scene brought down the house, and the success of the piece was assured. The remainder of the cast might have been better, if we except Fraulein Gruning and Herr Ziegel, whose renderings were capital.

BOOKING for Caruso's three performances at the Royal Opera is brisk, notwithstanding enormous admission prices, and within a few days there will not be a seat to be had in the legitimate course of things, and the street dealers will make a fortune. On Oct. 20 the famous tenor sings in Aida, on the 22nd in Bajazzo, and on the 24th in Martha.

THE famous Italian actor Giovanni Grasso and his Sicilian company gave a performance, in their native language, at the Wolzagen Theatre last week. The play selected was the three-act drama Feudalismo, by Angelo Guimera, from which Herr Eugen d'Albert drew the plot of his successful opera Tiefland. It is as revolting a tragedy as can well be imagined, and Signor Grasso in the rôle of the shepherd, Vanni, spared us none of its horrors. That he acted with great temperament and was well supported and applauded is all that is necessary to record.

MME. SARAH BERNHARDT gives a season at the Hebbel Theatre this month, bringing, as usual, her own company with her. The opening performance—on the 21st—is Sardou's La Sorcière, which is followed by Zamacoi's Les Bouffons, Porto Riche's Le Passé, Adrienne Lecouvreur, and La Dame aux Camélias. The season, according to present announcements, will not last longer than a week.

AT the Trianon Theatre, the four-act comedy Die Liebe Wacht, by MM. de Caillavet and De Flers, met with an exceedingly cordial reception last Tuesday. The acting is particularly bright, and the piece will certainly enjoy a lengthy run.

A NEW satirical comedy by Gustav Wied—the clever Danish author whose Twice Two Are Five has made such an unprecedented hit—will be produced for the first time on any stage at the Berliner at the end of the week. The title of the piece is Erotik; it is in three acts, and a one-act comedy, also by Herr Wied, will serve as a curtain-raiser. The title of the latter is Erinnerungsfest (memorial festival), "an act in four rooms." The production is being anticipated with much interest.

AT the Lessing, Ibsen holds the chief place in the week's bill: Rosmersholm and Ghosts are being performed with superb casts. The ever-popular farce Die Raub der Sabinerinnen affords a vivid contrast by two performances in the week.

SIGNORA DUSE will give a single performance here this month, appearing on the 28th at the Deutsches Chamber Playhouse in the rôle of Ella Reutheim in Ibsen's John Gabriel Borkman.

IN 1749 the following advertisement appeared in the papers:—"At the New Theatre in the Haymarket, this present day, to be seen a person who performs the several most surprisnig things following, viz.:—First, he takes a common walking-cane from any of the spectators, and thereon he plays the music of every instrument now in use, and likewise sings to surprising perfection. Secondly, he presents you with a common wine-bottle, which any of the spectators may first examine; this bottle is placed on a table in the middle of the stage, and he (without any equivocation) goes into it, in the sight of all the spectators, and sings in it; during his stay in the bottle any person may handle it, and see plainly that it does not exceed a common tavern bottle. Those on the stage or in the boxes may come in masked habits (if agreeable to them), and the performer (if desired) will inform them who they are. Stage, 7s. 6d. Boxes, 5s. Pit, 3s. Gallery, 2s. To begin half-an-hour after six o'clock." A great crowd assembled, and sat patiently till nearly seven o'clock, when, finding no performance to commence, they proceeded to raise their cat-calls. On this a person came forward who promised the audience their money should be returned if the performer did not appear. A man shouted out that if they would come again the next night, at doubled prices, the conjurer would go into a pint bottle. A candle was thrown on the stage, which was the signal for a row. In the rush to escape among the more peaceable, the Duke of Cumberland lost his diamond-hilted sword, on which a cry was raised that "Billy the Butcher" had lost his knife." Boxes and benches were then torn up, the curtains and scenes torn down, and an immense bonfire made of them opposite the theatre entrance. Next day the manager wrote a letter to the papers complaining of the loss of his property, and protesting that he was the dupe of an impostor. Samuel Foote is said to have been the wag on this occasion.

HEIDEGGER, Master of the Revels in King George's I.'s reign, was famous for his singular ugliness. The following trick was once played off on him. The Duke of Montague, having invited him to a tavern, made him drunk, and when he was asleep had a mould of his face taken, from which was made a mask, and the Duke provided a man of the same stature to personate Heidegger at the next masquerade, when the King, who was apprised of the plot, was to be present. On his Majesty's entrance, Heidegger as usual bade the band strike up "God save the King." But no sooner was his back turned than the impostor bade them play "Over the water to Charley." The company was thunderstruck, and Heidegger ran to set the matter to rights, swearing that the band were drunk or mad, and ordered them most peremptorily to recommence "God save the King." The moment he retired, the false Heidegger commanded "Over the water to Charley" again. The band thought the master mad, but durst not disobey. This went on, to the delight of the King and his courtiers, till, after the band had been kicked out of the orchestra, and their commanding officer driven half frantic, the counterfeit presentment stepped forward and assured the King that he was the true Heidegger, and that the other was only the devil in his likeness.

HALL CAINE'S FIRST PLAY.

Notwithstanding the generous confidence of my friends, coupled as I fear it was by my own opinion, that under favourable conditions I could write a play—says Mr. Hall Caine in his interesting autobiography "My Story," just published by William Heinemann—I made no serious attempt to do so until dramatic pirates began to appropriate my novels. Then I remembered Wilson Barrett's request, and sent him my first Manx novel, thinking the subject and chief character might suit him. He answered that both seemed promising, and asked me to see him immediately, for he had reached a crisis in his fortunes when a change in his programme was necessary.

It was early spring, I remember, one of the worst of the second winters that come to our English climate, and I was staying with my people in Liverpool; but with the utmost eagerness I packed my bag and set off for London, hardly knowing yet where the drama lay in my narrative story, and seeing many perplexing difficulties.

A few miles out of Liverpool, travelling by the Midland route, we were overtaken by a very dense fog, and at Derby, to my great chagrin, I was compelled to leave the train; but what seemed to my impatience to be the most vexatious accident proved to be the most fortunate circumstance. The fog, which enveloped almost the whole of England, lasted eight days; I sought refuge from it among the hoar frost in the heights of Dove Dale, and while waiting in the old Isaac Walton Inn (alone there and thrown entirely on my thoughts) for the clouds to lift that cut me off from London, the clouds in my brain were also dissipated, and I thought my play for all practical purposes was produced.

Then, with a full scenario, I completed my journey, and found Barrett more than content. We struck and signed a bargain straight away, I remember—two guineas a performance for me until my royalties reached £800, when my interest was to end, and though I had not a penny piece of this money in my pocket, and everything depended upon the opinion of the public, and my fortune was like a glistening bubble in the air, I came away from our interview with the sense of possessing more wealth than I had ever yet known to be in the world.

Not only was my money not yet earned, but my play was not yet written, and toil and pain and sleepless nights there were to go through before it got itself done. And even when I came to an end and thought the curtain had fallen for good, I realised from the sharp criticism of my colleague that I had been working in a medium that was new to me, and not all the supernatural wisdom I had won in earlier days as a dramatic critic had taught me the hundred and one technical tricks that are necessary to success on the stage.

What Barrett himself did to make my first play a practical effort it is unnecessary to say, but sure I am that without his knowledge of the "ropes" of the theatre the dramatic instinct on which my friend Blackmore had counted to produce "a grand and moving drama" would have gone for nothing, and, conscious of this, I insisted on coupling Barrett's name with mine when the play came to be produced.

Before that, of course, there were the rehearsals, and though in my ignorance of stage-management, I took little or no part in them, I remember as a unique experience the first moment when, stumbling through the pall of darkness which lies over "the front of the house" in daytime, I first heard my own lines spoken by an actor on the stage. It was almost as if something of myself had in a dream, by a hypnotic transfer, passed into the mouth of somebody else.

By the time of the first public performance this elusive sensation had naturally passed away; but then came another emotion equally new to me, and yet more thrilling; the emotion created by the tears, the laughter, the applause, and, above all, the silence of the audience. It is just once in a man's life that he produces his first play, and perhaps he may be pardoned if after the lapse of years he puts the experience out of proportion.

I think it was a notable first night in some respects. The audience was great, for in all the years since I have never seen so many really distinguished people in one place. The acting was great, too, and the reception was generous and almost tumultuous. I remember, as something seen in a sort of delirious trance, through a mist of blinding tears, that at the fall of the curtain the whole audience was on its feet, and that when Barrett led me in front of the curtain there was a roar that dazed and stunned me.

It was not until an hour or two afterwards that I came to myself in some measure, and then, with my friend Tirebuck, who had come up from the country to share my great experience, I was tramping up and down Oxford Street in the early morning, and making the silent throroughfare ring with peals of foolish laughter. Being too poor to think of a room at an hotel, we were to sleep at a little shabby boarding-house in Bloomsbury, and having suddenly remembered that we had not eaten anything since breakfast, we were searching for a restaurant that would be open late enough to give us a supper. We found one at length in the form of a smoking coffee-stall at the corner of Berners Street, and there we ate roasted potatoes with a pinch of salt. And then home to our dingy lodgings like creatures walking on the stars.

BOADEN, adapting Ann Radcliffe's "Romance of the Forest" to the stage of Covent Garden Theatre, records the anxiety he felt about the proper presentment of its supernatural incidents. The contrivance he hit upon has since become one of the commonplaces of theatrical illusion. It was arranged that the spectre should be seen through a bluish-grey gauze, so as to remove the too corporeal effect of a live actor, and convert the moving substance into a gliding essence. The plan, however, was not carried into effect without considerable difficulty. Mr. Harris, the manager, ordered a night rehearsal of the play, so that the author might judge of the success of the effects introduced. The spectre was to be personated by one Thompson, a portly, jovial actor, whose views as to the treatment of the supernatural upon the stage were of a very primitive kind. He appeared upon the scene clad in the conventional solid armour of the theatre, with over all a grey gauze veil, as stiff as buckram, thrown about him. Mr. Boaden describes his horror and astonishment at the misconception. It had been intended that the gauze, stretched on a frame, should cover a portal of the scene, and that the figure of the spectre should be seen dimly through it. But even then the contour of Thompson was found very inappropriate to a phantom. It was necessary to select for the part an actor of a slighter and taller form. At length a representative of the ghost was found in the person of Follet, the clown, "celebrated for his eating of carrots in the pantomimes." Follet readily accepted the part: his height was heroic, he was a skilled posture-maker, he was well versed in the duties of a mime. Still there was a further difficulty. The ghost had to speak—only two words, it is true—he had to utter the words "Perished here!" and, as the clown very frankly admitted: "'Perished here!' will be exactly the fate of the author if I'm left to say it." The gallery would recognise the clown's voice, and all seriousness would be over for the evening. At last it was determined that the part should be divided; Follet should perform the actions of the ghost, while Thompson, in the wings, out of the sight of the audience, should pronounce the important words. The success of the experiment was signal.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDARE.—New Theatre, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Z. Andrews; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. Richards.—The Silver King is being presented here by Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company. Mr. Sydney T. Pease appeared as Wilfred Denver, and completely won the hearts of the audience; Miss Gladys Hastings-Walton is charmingly effective as Nellie Denver; Captain Herbert Skinner is dramatically played by Mr. Chas. Freeman; Tom Paulton is as popular as ever as Daniel Jaikes; Mr. Claude Graveley is successful as Geoffrey Ware, and Samuel Baxter is well played by Robert R. Ashby.

ABERDEEN.—His Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—The Thief is powerfully presented this week by Mr. George Alexander's company. Mr. Stephen T. Ewart's acting as Chelford is masterly; and Miss May Congdon is no less successful and impressive as Marise Chelford. Mr. Gerald Ames plays with spirit as Raymond Leyton; and Mrs. Leyton is gracefully portrayed by Miss Nancy Dibley. Mr. Alfred Lugg makes a good Harry; and the Detective is very well impersonated by Mr. Cyril Cattley. All the other parts are capably filled. The piece is preceded by the comedietta Too Happy by Half, which is brightly played by Miss Irene Leonard and Messrs. Marmont and Lugg.

Palace Theatre.—Lessees, The United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—Miss Florrie Forde is rapturously encored again and again; and Mr. Herbert Clifton has also a most enthusiastic reception. Another excellent turn is that of Cummin and Seaham, a pair of versatile artists; Mr. Ernest Montefiore and company appear with success in a highly dramatic sketch, The Little Colonel; and among the other good turns are those of Steely and Dowton, burlesque artists; Bella and Greta, duettists and graceful dancers; Mr. Arthur Boyne, a droll comedian; and the Eeduns in a first-class vocal scena, The Spider and the Fly.

Beach Pavilion.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. David Thomson.—Among the artists this week are Miss Violet Davidson and Miss Muriel Collie, vocalists; Mr. David Thomson, humorist; Master George Henry, Highland dancer; and Mr. Jack Marson, vocalist and raconteur.

Alhambra. — Proprietor, Mr. John Sinclair; General-Manager, Mr. George B. Lee.—Included in this week's company are Mr. N. C. Bostock, the veteran comedian; Mr. Dan Fraser, Scotch comedian; and Miss Nellie Ellienne, comedienne and dancer. Mr. Fraser sings solos to the illustrated songs most effectively.

Empire.—Manager, Messrs. R. Calder and J. Montague.—The following excellent artists are members of the company this week:—Mr. Archie Murray, coloured comedian; Miss Marie Rose, vocalist and dancer; Mr. Arthur Bright, descriptive vocalist; Miss Ada Brogden, soprano; Mr. George Millard, comedian; and Prof. Montague, conjurer and ventriloquist.

ABERTILLERY.—Theatre Metropole.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. J. Seaborn.—The production of the drama The Lighthouse Robbery this week by an excellent company is exceptionally good. Mr. Henry Horne as Tom Manly is capital; Miss Hilda Baynton is a natural Rose Prescott; William Farren, alias Squire Hammond, is in the capable hands of Mr. William Annesley; his son, James Hammond, is portrayed in a masterly manner by Mr. Percy Beresford; Mr. Herbert Lewis is a successful David Morris; Ruth Manly is presented in a pleasing style by Miss Maggie Stewart; and Mr. Sammy Foster makes quite an ideal Sam Kidder, a stage-struck rustic.

The Pavilion.—Lessees, Messrs. E. and H. Tilney; Manager, Mr. E. Pryce.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott is here in A Wife's Triumph. Mr. Ernest R. Abbott scores high as Robert Dewhurst; Frank Wilton is successfully presented by Mr. Frank Stephens; Mr. Vincent W. Carlyle makes an excellent Ellis Jordan; Miss Ada Abbott deserves special praise for her portrayal of Bessie Dewhurst; Miss Florence North is good as Alice Wilton; and Margery Crib is played naturally by Miss Isabel Singleton. The humour of the piece is in the capable hands of Mr. Edwin Keene, who scores heavily as Ben Bradford. The Bioscope is also shown to advantage.

ACCRINGTON.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Messrs. Sidney Rennef and G. M. Copping's company is presenting Loves Rules the World here. Miss Conyers Radcliffe as Maud Carruthers, in the pathetic passages, is exceptionally good; Mr. Richard Vane infuses plenty of power into the character of Harold Kingston; Mr. Stephen Langton as Stephen Blight plays with ability; Mr. Sidney Rennef is a capable Jim Dixey; Mr. Matt Russell a clever Farmer Carruthers; Mr. Alex Wilson Whynne a successful Paul Carruthers; and Mr. G. H. Langley does justice to the rôle of Sir Edward; Mr. Walter Dale is funny as Billy Binks, and has the able assistance of Miss Kitty Russell as Kitty Snowdrop. Miss Constance Medwyn submits a careful study of Flo Morton; and Miss Annie Brunette is seen to advantage as Mother Grimble.

ALDERSHOT.—Royal and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—If We Only Knew, the new play by Messrs. Harry Nicholls and Chas. Ross, is well supplied with melodramatic situations, and the historical costumes and charming old customs, together with the fine staging, go a long way in making the play in question the success it is. Mr. P. A. Gawthorn's is a talented portrayal of the polished villain, Dick Steen; whilst Mr. Ernest Young gives a meritorious enactment of the gallant Ensign Willmott. Mr. Harry Nicholls plays the rôle of Slippery Sam with a rich vein of low-comedy humour, and he scores heavily; Miss Sylvia Morris is a charming actress, and in Barbara she has a rôle which fits her like a glove; Miss Kate Kearney's conception of the ancient doll-like spinster Priscilla is excellent; Ruth has a vigorous personator in Miss Margaret Van Hollister; whilst Miss Violet Langley's is a capital portrayal of the widow, Mrs. Thornhill. Mr J. Benedick-Butler is good as the merry-making merchant Bignell; and Messrs. Wm. Ames, Henry Jessop, George Page, Alfred Wynne, F. Rosse, H. W. Parkinson, F. Thorpe Tracey, and Albert Bernard do well in other parts. Misses Cicely Nicholls and Lorna Treherne as waiting-maids are also well placed. The melodrama is effectively staged, several capital sets being carried, whilst special music is rendered by the orchestra.

ARBROATH.—New Public Hall.—Mr. John Clyde, the popular Scottish actor, and a good all-round company, presented Hall Caine's The Manxman on Saturday and Monday evenings. The scenery and appointments, by Mr. Ray Ashmore, were all that could be desired. The trying part of Kate was in the capable hands of Miss Lena Levenston; Miss Jeanie Macintosh, as the maid at "The Manx Fairy," played the part with ease and natural freedom; Mr. H. Macaulay with great energy represented Cæsar Cregeen; and Mr. Clyde did well in the part of Pete.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Comic opera has possession here for the week, during which Mr. Mouillot's company is producing Tom Jones. Miss Margaret Stonor plays Sophia with rare charm and vivacity, and proves her possession of a voice of singular sweetness and volume; Miss Florrie Saunders as Honor is admirable, and sings with charming effect; old-world refinement and eccentricity of manner are imported into the characterisations of Miss F. McEvoy as Miss Western, Miss Olive Elton as Lady Bellaston, and other actresses of talent. Mr. Cyril Thompson is the ideal Tom Jones, and uses his fine baritone voice with good vocal effect; Mr. Geo. Elton as Partridge is extremely funny; and Mr. Alfred H. Majilton makes Blifil a prominent personage. Messrs. A. J. Nicholls as Alworthy and Mr. Fred Seymour as Squire Western, a fine old English gentleman, are well cast; Messrs. Michael Dwyer, C. Lane, H. Courtin Stagg, George, and Montrose are useful in minor characters, and the chorus is very effective.

Empire Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—Monty Walker, known as the happy swell comedian, gives a diverting turn; the Bioscope exhibits the Royal Club Motor Races at the Isle of Man and a series of funny films. Premier Juveniles, managed by Alfred Graham, appear in their vocal scena, A Concert on the Lawn; Bosanquet and company appear in the episode, The Fiddler's Windfall, in which some startling musical effects are produced; Mr. Leslie Race is a refined comedian; Fred W. Millis gives a ventriloquial sketch very cleverly; the principal turn on the list is Miss Harriett Vernon, who appears in the favourite song scena, "A Yule-tide Story," a special turn for her benefit night being "Sunshine and Shadow"; Dex, the necromancer, is a treat; and the Bros. Ford introduce some expert dancing, with an accompaniment of song.

Picturedrome (Star Theatre). — Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.—Between the animated picture exhibitions turns are given by Mr. J. H. Wakefield, coon singer and dancer, and Mr. Osmond Penistone, illusionist and smoke-sketch artist. The most notable pictures are the Story of Samson and Delilah, in exquisite colours, views of Sunny Madeira, The Fireman's Daughter, The Chieftain's Revenge, and a comic series of pictures.

ATTERCLIFFE.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manageress, Miss Ethel J. Hope.—This week's selection of interesting and amusing pictures is drawing crowded houses. The principal films are What Willie Did, An Indian Romance, Oh! that Umbrella, Motor-boat Racing, and Blind! Chorus songs are rendered by Mr. Glanmore Jones.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Pease; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry Sanders.—The premier position of this week's excellent programme is held by Mr. Phil Ree's Stable Lads in a novel comedy act, introducing a number of songs and dances; much enthusiasm is evoked by Hinton and Wooton in a football match on bicycles; a popular turn is that of Mr. Frank Cumminger and Miss Colonna, whose vocalism and sand-dancing are heartily applauded; the Morrellis (lady and gentleman) give a pleasing comedy, musical, and vocal act; Miss Edith St. Clare is a smart comedienne; Dalton and Euston, cross-talk comedians and dancers are good; so also is Mr. Harry Taylor, Hebrew comedian; and the Attergraph pictures of Motor-boat Racing complete the bill.

AYR.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. E. Cardwell's juvenile pantomime company in The House that Jack Built is here for the week, and judging from the opening night it should have a successful run. The pantomime is completely staged, and the dresses are pretty. Miss Daisy Wood as Jack makes the "principal boy" very fascinating; while the same may be said of the Jill of Miss Dolly Dodds. As Aunt Purdy Mr. Jammie Watson makes a great deal of the part; and Graham and Barron as Scraggs and Scraggles are extremely funny in their knock-about business. Miss Jennie Hughes makes a captivating fairy; little Gladys Wyse as Wee Macgregor renders some catchy songs and acts well; Mr. H. Hillerby as the Squire is quaintly funny. The Forget-Me-Not Quartette dance daintily.

BARNSTAPLE.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, the Long Bridge Trustees; Manager, Mr. Harry Ashton.—A hearty welcome was accorded on Monday to Miss Harriet Greet's company in The Sign of the Cross. A sterling representation of the redoubtable Marcus was submitted by Mr. Wallace G. Court; Mr. Burton W. Yaldwyn, delineated with skill the inhuman Nero; Messrs. G. Osmond Tearle, Rupert Carlton, Donald McAdam, and W. Montaigne, as the Roman "big-wigs," supported the general effect. Miss Vera Crichton as Mercia quickly established herself as a favourite; Miss Effie Dane faithfully depicted Stephanus; and Miss Nora Craigie and Miss Dorothy Lambert possessed an accurate conception of their respective parts.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Royalty Theatre and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Frederick Melville's play The Ugliest Woman on Earth is being presented here. Mr. Philip Darien is a capital and convincing Jack Merryman; and Mr. Leyton Cancellor displays much cleverness as Hubert Gold. In the title-rôle Miss Beatrice Homer shows great ability and is a great success; Miss Gertrude Harrison as Rose Courtney and Miss Nellie Jackson as Aggie Brown are both attractive impersonations; and Miss Violet Macaree is an entertaining Mority.

His Majesty's Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Mr. Monckton Hoffe's company in Irene Wycherley is here. Mr. Charles Garry as Philip Wycherley is quite brilliant; Miss Maud Henderson as Irene Wycherley surmounts a difficult task with great artistic delicacy; and Mr. Edward Sorley is an interesting Mr. Chesterton.

Tivoli.—Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edgar G. Laban.—The following popular artists are appearing here this week: Walton and Lester, Ike and Will Scott, May Marton, Chas. Russell, Stuart and Stuart, Zelleni, Rose Sartella, and Vernon's Bioscope.

New Hippodrome.—Owners and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ralph D. Fenton.—A monster programme of pictures is being shown here this week to capital houses, the films being interspersed with pleasing songs by Mr. James Basnett

BARRY DOCK.—New Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden.—Mr. Wentworth Croke presented The Christian to a crowded house on Monday. As John Storm Mr. P. Gedge Twyman was a great success; the Glory Quayle of Miss Margery Fane showed great promise; Mr. John Hastings Batson as Father Lampugh was really excellent; Messrs. Edward Ouston and G. Montague Lane did well in their respective parts; Miss Gladys Vernon scored a success as Polly Love; Mr. Bert Conway worked hard in the double parts of Lord Storm and Paul; and Miss Alice Maude gave a finished portrayal of Mrs. Callender.

BATH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—In Captain Drew on Leave that delightful actress Miss Cynthia Brooke scores another conspicuous success as Mrs. Moxon; Mr. Charles B. Vaughan also makes a great impression by his candid and sincere rendering of Capt. Drew; as Chester Hassell Mr. Gerald Venning handles the part with excellent effect, his scene in the third act with Miss Brooke and Mr. Vaughan being admirably sustained; Miss Nora Carton (whose company it is) portrays the featherbrain flirt Miss Mills with the necessary assurance; Mr. Tom Mowbray is well suited to the rôle of George Moxon, and Mr. Willox Cadogan as Ernest White is amusing. The farce Cut Off with a Shilling is the curtain-raiser. Mr. Frank Withers is the business manager for the tour.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Crowds are attracted twice nightly to witness the beauty and hair competitions that are being held this week for money prizes presented by the management. The numerous ladies who have braved criticism have been received with the greatest enthusiasm, and aroused either admiration or amusement. In the regular bill Edith Chantler, a rising young vocalist, is the first to appear, to be followed by the Lyons Trio in a laughter-creating pantomime and dancing act; Phil Bransby proves himself a character comedian who shows that originality is still possible; Lambert and Hands gain applause for their well-arranged vocal scena; a just ovation is accorded to Chanti, whose quick-change act baffles description, while his national dances are executed with wonderful accuracy and nimbleness; Hilda Mascot secures many admirers as a comedienne and dancer; Gibbon and Bell indulge in many difficult acrobatic feats, supplemented by some pretty dancing. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux, as usual, wind up the programme.

BEDFORD.—Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is this week appearing in the sparkling musical comedy, The Belle of Mayfair. The company is a very powerful one, and the chorus and scenery are excellent. Mr. Stephen Hall is a good representative of the "peppery" Earl of Mount Highgate, and his "Military Man" goes with a good swing; Mr. Stanley Ravenscroft has a pleasing manner, and his personation of Raymond Finchley leaves little to be desired; Mr. Sydney Burt is most amusing as Sir John Chaldicott; Mr. Michael Raven possesses a fine tenor voice, and is excellent as Hugh Meredith; the Comte de Perrier is comically presented by Mr. E. Batting. Of the ladies, Miss Nellie Branwell as Julia is a dainty dancer and a sweet singer; Miss Dora Lyons is a pretty and vivacious lady's maid; Miss Patricia Weldon gives to the part of the Princess the necessary gracious dignity; and Miss Denny Fitzherbert as Lady Chaldicott adds greatly to the success of the piece.

BELFAST.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Messrs. Plimmer and Blake's musical comedy, Happy Hooligan, is the attraction here this week. In the title-rôle Mr. Wm. H. Lester was thoroughly successful, his vocalism and dancing being first class; and much praise must be accorded Miss Lottie Wilson for her charming impersonation of Widow Johnson. Much merriment, in their respective rôles of Donald Macgregor and Max Guggenheimer, is created by Messrs. Jos. J. Sullivan and John K. Hawley. In the rôle of Nettie Miss Blanco Moure is an excellent dancer; Miss Rosie Lyndon a bewitching Rose; Mr. Harry Emeric an admirable Charley Flipp; and Miss Olive Stuart a delightful Daisy.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—The star here is Carl Hertz (assisted by Miss Emmeline D'Alton), whose illusions are certainly extraordinary. His reception on Monday was tremendous. Park's Eton Boys and Girls provide a capital vocal entertainment; a hit has been made by Percival, the comedian at the piano; Mr. Mike Cray, a good juggler, introduces his canine companion, whose feats are really wonderful; as comedians, Messrs. A. W. Scott and Medley Barrett create much merriment; and the bill is completed by the Two McKays, "the military maids," Miss Lily Ward, comedienne, and the Palace pictures.

Royal Hippodrome.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Will Sley and Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—Bellman and Moore top the bill, and this clever American duo have been very successful. The speciality act of the Iben-Obed Trio (including the great Arabian giant), is one of the best items on this first-class programme; and John G. Brandon and company appear in their pathetic American sketch, The Girl and the Tough, which is exceedingly well acted and capitally staged. The feats of McLeavy Brothers, barrel jumpers, are certainly wonderful; and the spectacular absurdity by Burke, Andrus, and Frisco, is decidedly unique, being one of the funniest items on the programme. Dallas and Varden, in their comedy act; Harley and Melton, comedians; W. B. Raby, comedian; Miss Edie Anderson, comedienne; and the Hipposcope are also here.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—To the great delight of his many Belfast admirers, Mr. Mark Sheridan is here, and this inimitable comedian is drawing big houses. The New York Nippers are a smart combination; Bert Welda and Dorothy Wynne introduce juggling, dancing, &c., into their speciality act with much effect; the mimicry of Mr. J. P. Ling is really first class; and the Five Olracs provide a good act, entitled The Tourist and His Tormentors. Miss Nellie Martell is a good danseuse; and Mr. Jock Mills, Scotch comedian, and the Bioscope complete.

New Alhambra Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—The exhibition of pictures here is certainly unique, and, under the management of Mr. Will White, the following films have been exhibited: The Crime on the Mountain, The Reluctant Dog, The Story the Boots Told, Jane Shore, The Farmer's Daughter, &c. Mr. Jock Henri, the favourite Scotch comedian, also appears; and Cestria, comedy juggler and acrobatic waiter. On Monday both houses were crammed to the doors, standing room only being available.

St. George's Hall.—General-Manager, Mr. Robert Wilson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur.—The popularity of this latest addition to Belfast amusements is certainly increasing, and this week, under the direction of Mr. Hugh Beckett, some beautiful films have been exhibited, including Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night, Cairo to Khartoum, Grandfather's Birthday, Our Pretty Typist, &c. The winner of the St. George's first singing competition, Mr. Robert Meharg, is appearing with marked favour; also Mr. Clem Hacknee, American baritone. Another competition, instituted by the enterprising manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur, resulted in one guinea being awarded on Monday to a Mr. A. Moreland for the best lines written on St. George's Hall and its entertainments. On and after Monday next it is intended to have matinées daily at this hall, an experiment that will be watched with interest.

BILSTON.—New Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John M. Dawson; Business-Manager, Mr. S. Hadskis Dawson.—Mr. Wilson Benge and his company are presenting The Eve of Her Wedding this week. Mr. Benge is very successful as George Tremain; and Miss Sadie Smith wins much sympathy as Mavis Leverton. Mr. Wallace Campbell does effective work as Dean Clifton; and Miss Effie Bartlett makes a capital adventuress as Renie De Yelle. Mr. Arthur E. Holland is very good as Jack Hearne, a cripple; and Miss Daisy Cook is successful as Gwendoline Younger. Other parts are effectively filled, and the scenery is very fine.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant; Secretary, Miss Isabel Morris.—A week's engagement of Messrs. Lionel Glenister and J. W. Wood-Ingram's company in the comedy Jack Straw has proved thoroughly successful. The title-rôle is assumed by Mr. Glenister, who gives a fine and consistent rendering of a difficult and important part; Miss Florence St. John plays Mrs. Parker-Jennings with great skill and effect; Mr. A. T. Gullifer is excellent as Mr. Parker-Jennings; Miss Lucy Milner is an admirable Ethel Parker-Jennings; and Mr. Christmas Grose is an efficient Vincent Parker-Jenings. As Ambrose Holland Mr. Frederick Moyes scores an undeniable success; Mr. J. W. Wood-Ingram is a good Count Adrian von Bremer; Lady Wanley is cleverly enacted by Miss Edie Graham; and Miss Estelle Despa as Mrs. Withers and Miss Jessica Waters as Rosie Abbott accord valuable assistance. The cast also includes Mr. J. Edgar Stevenson, Mr. Ernest Graham, and other able artists. The petite play A Long Journey forms an interesting curtain-raiser. Both company and piece have created an excellent impression here.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—After a somewhat lengthy absence Cinquevalli, the prince of jugglers, again heads the bill, and arouses all his customary enthusiasm. Mr. Alfred Whelan, a versatile mimic and variety entertainer, is on a welcome return visit, as also is Miss Winifred Hare, a charming and accomplished comedienne. Mr. Charles Frazer, in a clever comedy illusion, Enchanted Iona, is a prominent success; and Mr. Mike Nono, a smart comedian and dancer, makes a hit. The Brothers Ashley are well received in a comic boxing sketch; Miss Violet Stockelle, comedienne, is a general favourite; the Three Comedy Chanters, pleasing vocalists, are a reliable turn; and Larry Lewis, comedian, Miss Eileen Bernard, Irish comedienne, and Brown's Royal Bioscope complete an excellent programme. Mr. Ernest Denney is musical-director.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—When Knights Were Bold, with Mr. James Welch in the company, has again proved irresistible, and for Mr. Welch it can be said that he has amply repaid his admirers for their patronage. His personification of the little knight evoked the most boisterous laughter, and the support was well worthy of the recognition it received. Miss Audrey Ford's charming portrayal of Lady Rowena held everybody delighted; Miss Helen Palgrave was most apt and natural as the Hon. Mrs. Waldegrave; Mr. Arthur Grenville played the part of Isaacson to considerable advantage; Mr. George Desmond as the Hon. Charles Widdicombe acted well; as did Mr. Guy Lane as the Rev Peter Pottleberry; and Messrs. Geo. Tully, Leopold Profeit, and the Misses M. O'Hea, Gwendoline Rayne, and Turrell assist ably and gracefully. The Changeling is played for the front piece.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—The Girls of Gottenberg, has returned with an infusion of fresh talent, which makes it doubly welcome. Happy Fanny Fields delights her admirers as Mitzi; Mr. Edmund Payne retains his original rôle of Moddlekopf, which he has made stronger than ever; and Messrs. Leslie Holland, Fred Allandale, Fred Payne, and Jocelyn Hope form a tower of strength as Otto, Albrecht, Brittlbottl, and the General. The Misses Masie Gay, Thelma Raye, Florence Phillips (whose efficiency in a saltatorial display is marked), Florence Melville, and May Weston add grace and beauty to the show.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—A Soldier's Honour has attracted well here with a big company, including the authoress, Miss L. Addison (Mrs. F. G. Kimberley) and Mr. Kimberley. Mr. Kimberley's portrayal of that true soldier and a man, Captain Deane, has thrilled and pleased immensely; Miss Addison's characterisation of the notorious thief, Cora Lee, is a fine piece of acting; Mr. T. Ellis makes a congenial rôle of the faithful Captain Temple; Mr. Hugh Hughes embodies the character of Henry Thornton admirably; Miss E. Barton is appreciated for her charm as Doreen Illingworth; Miss Edie Macklin's personification of Jemima Eliza is extremely good and popular; and the others do very well.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Her Luck in London is a big draw here, with Mr. Geo. Kirk and Miss Mary Neil's company. The acting of Miss Neil as Nellie Harborne is still a highly dramatic feature; Mr. Douglas Cecil prospers well as the Hon. Fitzgerald O'Connor; Mr. Frank Strickland shows ability as Richard Lenowen; and Mr. Douglas Tremayne, Miss Beatrice Hudson, Miss Mary Clavering, Mr. T. Lionel Ellis, and Miss Florrie Groves play their accustomed parts with undimmed lustre.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—A Girl Redeemed from Sin is engaged here, with Mr. Geoffrey Fulton's company. Miss Olive Fulton's portrayal of Nancy Lee keeps the audience in full sympathy with the part; Mr. J. Monkhouse acts in manly style as Will May; Mr. Clinton Baddeley as Ernest Sylveston acts with the greatest ease and with perfect style; and Mr. John E. Tomlinson and Miss Fanny Olive, as the aged couple, elicit much sympathy. Mr. Victor Knight, Mr. Wallo Spinner, Miss Ada Oxley, Miss Gertie Pawle, Mr. Phillippe Orr, and several others contribute.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. B. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Lake.—An Unwedded Wife is scoring here, with Miss Ethel Van Praagh and Mr. J. Edward Whitty's company. Miss Van Praagh's acting in the titular-rôle, Marion, elicits loud applause for its many effective points; Mr. Geo. D. Dapier as Frank Hawthorne makes a good impression; Mr. Chas. Stirling presents the villainous character of Philip Blackstone in a strong light; and the boy, Reggie, is cleverly played by Little Doris. Mr. Whitty as P.C. Runyin is a strong force, and a humorous one; and Mr. Will Casey, Miss Jessie Gillette, and others act well.

Palace Theatre, Bordesley.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—The Old Home is a great attraction here, presented by Mr. Roland Yorke, with a strong cast of well-known actors. Mr. Harding Thomas as Daddy Deane gives a strikingly fine portrayal; Miss Nina Blake-Adams has a rare hold of the audience as Hazel Deane; Mr. T. W. Dunscombe's acting as the Rev. Eric Armstrong is convincing; Mr. Roland Yorke's powers find capital expression in the rôle of Lord Avondale; Mr. Fred L. Connynghame's humour as Sam Adams is keenly relished; and Mrs. J. W. Braithwaite and Miss Mattie Crawford are good members of the cast.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—Eden Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—Mr. Walter Melville's company opened to a full house on Monday in A Girl's Cross Roads, this being a return visit. Mr. Charles Franmore sustains the part of John Meadows in good style; Jack Livingstone is capitally portrayed by Mr. J. Fortescue; Mr. Fred Hodson is funny as Toby Turvy; Mr. Edward Chester (Cuthbert Lumley), Mr. Fred Withers (Luke Ramsden), and Mr. Edward Valentine (Dr. Weston) render their parts in a painstaking manner. Miss Dorothy Hildebrande is a charming Constance Cornell; and credit is due to Miss Daisy Meynard as Tilly Vane. Miss Nita Langford plays in a most energetic way as Nellie Meadows; and Miss Hilda Beverley is forcible in the title-rôle.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Another visit of Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company in Florodora has to be recorded here this week. Mr. Fred Eastman continues to play the part of Anthony Tweedlepunch, and, having now essayed the rôle well over a thousand times, custom has made it in him a property of easiness. Mr. Stanley White does well as Cyrus Gilfain; Mr. H. W. Crofton gives every satisfaction as Frank Abercoed; and Mr. Herbert St. John's assumption of Captain Donegal is a meritorious one. The Lady Holyrood of Miss Edith Housley is an admirable portrayal; whilst Miss Maisie Ellinger as Dolores, and Miss Bessie Middleton as Angela Gilfain are likewise charming.

Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—The Walls of Jericho, capitally played by Messrs. Dauncey and Leveaux's company is again the attraction here. An excellent Jack Frobisher is found in Mr. Alfred Goddard; and Mr. Russell Barry ably accounts for Hankey Bannister. Mr. Ben Lewin is a good actor, but his make-up as the Marquis of Steventon is altogether too youthful; Miss Nancy Beresford is well suited to the part of Lady Alethea Frobisher; and the other characters are all in very good hands.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Mr. J. C. Piddock and company top this week's bill, and appear with great success in a musical fantasy entitled The Capture of Venus. Mr. Piddock represents Mars to perfection, and receives excellent assistance from Mr. Gus Oxley, who proves himself to be a great comedian. Other enjoyable turns are supplied by N. T. Kioto, a wonderful Japanese equilibrist; Tray and Rich, comedians and dancers; Polo and Florence, equilibrists; the Raymond Trio, in a musical act; Irene Rose, a charming vocalist; Flo Cecil, comedienne; and Surrie Lindon's Entertainers, in a sketch. Vernon's Imperial Bioscope continues to show all the latest and best pictures.

Hippodrome.—Manageress, Mrs. Fioni.—The pictures of the Franco-British Exhibition are proving very attractive fare here. Songs are rendered by Miss Ada Clarrisse; and the Jeans are well received in their comedy.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Mr. A. Clifton Alderson, supported by an excellent company, has presented with every success the interesting drama, entitled The Coal King. In the character of Tom Roberts Mr. Alderson submits a powerful and realistic impersonation; Mr. Ulick Burke, in the title-rôle, is highly satisfactory; the Walter Harford of Mr. George Hanbury is a good performance; Miss Winifred Love as Grace Shirley wins favour; Mad Ann in the hands of Miss Joan Wellman is a forcible impersonation.

The Gaiety.—Lessee, Mr. Wm. Yates Gregory; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baugh.—The star turn at the above popular resort has been supplied by Blanche and Diacoff, in their clever cycling act; Sill and Sillcott are a couple of pleasing comedians; and Miss Ada Whitton, comedienne; Dick Bradley, Mint and Mart, Marcus Boyle, and the Bioscope complete.

Hippodrome.—Lessees, Messrs. Doyle and O'Connell; General-Manager, Mr. Tom Doyle.—An unusually strong series of pictures is featured at the "Drome"; the Ives appear in a clever ball-punching display.

BOLTON.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton and their London company had a flattering reception here on Monday evening, when Taming of the Shrew was performed before a large and fashionable house. Miss Lily Brayton as Katharina portrayed the varying moods of the character with consummmate skill; and Mr. Oscar Asche imbued the rôle of Petruchio with reckless abandon, his rendition being of a high order of merit; Miss Muriel Ashwynne was a pleasing Bianca; Mr. Henry Kitts gave a clever study of the part of Grumio; Mr. G. Kay Souper made a handsome Lucentio; and Mr. Herbert Grimwood an excellent Baptista. Other parts were admirably taken. In addition to Taming of the Shrew, Othello and The Two Pins have been given during the week.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—The principal item here is the Human Chameleon, Mysticus (?), who appears in his mystifying, yet funny, entertainment entitled "Spirits? Spiritualism? or What?" Other turns are Miss Kity Kennedy Allen, comedienne; the Olmars, Roman statuary acrobats; Charles Santon, male soprano and double-voiced vocalist; the De Breans, in their Japanese entertainment; the Norman and Leonard Trio, in a musical incident, The Itinerant; the Ramlos, whirling comedians, in their comedy gymnastic speciality; Sadie Seymour, a refined comedienne; the Bros. Curran, in a screaming boxing act, Taking the Census; Charles R. Whittle, comedian; and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

Empire Varieties.—Proprietor Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; General-Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. R. Harrison.—Signor and Madame Borelli appear in their humorous imitations; and other contributors to the programme are Adele Lincoln, comedienne and eccentric dancer; Ida Kathrena, "the dolly girl"; Conan and Doyle, comedians; Bert Woodward, cycling coon; the Denaro Bros., juvenile equilibrists and acrobats; the Prinellas, in their farmyard scena, A Country Flirtation; Jessie Starr, lady Scotch comedian; Phillips and Terry, in their comedy duologue, entitled Taming the Lion; and the Bioscope.

Victoria Hall.—On Wednesday evening a grand concert was given here, at which there appeared Madame Melba, Willie Backhaus, the famous pianist, Szigeti, eminent violinist, Mr. Landon Ronald, composer, and Mr. Vincent Needham, solo flautist.

BOOTLE.—Muncaster Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Wilmott; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Young.—The stock company is this week presenting The City Outcast, the principal characters being excellently played by Messrs. Albert E. Sember, Stanley S. Gordon, Alfred D. Adams, Tom Solly, Cyril Grier, and Misses Nina Vaughton, Kathleen Magee, and Effie Macintosh.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—Mr. Granville Barker and his company opened here on Monday in that brilliant comedy, Man and Superman. Mr. Barker was at his best in the difficult rôle of John Tanner, and had a great reception from an appreciative audience. The Roebuck Ramsden of Mr. Michael Sherbrooke was excellent; two clever studies of the American father and his son were given by Messrs. James Hearn and Frederick Lloyd respectively; and Mr. David Powell as Octavius Robinson, and Mr. Richard Haigh as Straker were distinctly good. Special praise must be accorded to the ladies of the cast. Miss Francis Dillon as Ann Whitfield was simply charming; and Miss Auriol Lee imparted distinction to the character of Violet; while other clever performances came from Miss Helen Rous and Miss Frances Wetherall.

BRADF

Madge Beresford, and Mr. B. J. Coyne contribute to the interest and success of the piece.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—One of the quaintest and most expert juggling acts imaginable is presented by W. C. Fields, who elicits roars of laughter and hearty applause; Henry Coutts, in his protean sketch Outflanked, does some remarkably quick changing in full view of the audience; as a juvenile mimic Agnes Tina displays exceptional talent; Ian Colquhoun's baritone songs are rendered with power and dramatic effect, in character; in native costume, Seener and Fridkin's Russian Troupe of singers and dancers go through an animated and clever performance; Arthur Jefferson and company present a wildly absurd but very amusing sketch, Home from the Honeymoon; Bessie Butt is a charming comedienne and dancer; J. A. Wilson, comedian, reappears with his remarkable dog Towser, with the usual success; and some very funny pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—A pantomimic and cleverly executed juggling act by the Seven Perezoffs, viz., An Animated Supper at Maxim's, elicits a lot of applause here this week; Madge Allan is a pleasing singer and dancer; Dan Whitley's capital comedy is productive of much merriment; Sivroni, in a burlesque sketch, Opera Gone Mad (assisted by Amy Broughton), elicits much laughter; Happy Attwood's comedy is of a droll order; Love Germs is a well-acted and amusing sketch given by the Smythsons; the Lecardo Brothers are good acrobatic comedians; in their vocal extravaganza Ancestral Spirits MacKinnon's Scottish Meisters are highly entertaining; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux are interesting.

BRIDLINGTON. — ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE. — Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—The municipal orchestra, which has been so successful during the season, under the able conductorship of Mr. Norfolk Megone, finished their engagement on Sunday evening, when a large and enthusiastic audience assembled at the sacred concert. The vocalist was Madame Naomi Odille Bell. This week Mr. Arthur Randall's costume concert party are securing big houses. Miss Ethel Dunbar is a charming soprano and excellent dancer; Miss Bertha Zander's contralto voice gives great pleasure; Mr. Bryan O'Sullivan possesses a baritone of good compass; Mr. Bert Williams is a most amusing comedian; and Mr. Arthur Randall's humorous songs and smart patter win great applause.

NEW SPA AND GARDENS.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—The popular Will Catlin's Pierrots are drawing full houses here this week. Mr. Farren Sumner's songs are finely rendered; Mr. Tom Catlin renders some most amusing lyrics; as does also Mr. Con Brierley; Mr. Harold Franklin shines as a lady impersonator; and Mr. Will Catlin proves himself a first-class artist in his various items. The concerted numbers and song scenas by the members of the troupe are excellent; and Mr. Harry Taylor is a brilliant piano soloist and accompanist.

THE PALACE.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Delmar.—The Royal British Circus commenced their second week here on Monday, with some new items added to their varied programme. There is plenty of fun, and the entertainment is amusing, the various artists being highly applauded for their performances.

BRIGHTON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Mr. Frank M. Thorne's company opened here on Monday with The Woman Pays, and attracted a crowded audience. Mr. Phil Harper submitted a masterly impersonation of Sid Armstrong; Mr. Dunlop Stewart was highly effective as Luke Morland; Mr. John Davidson achieved great success in the rôle of Roger Marchant; Miss Kate Blair's Nell Morland was admirably enacted; Miss Anena Walton made a diverting Polly Stokes; Mr. Beresford Innes was well suited as Cyrus Treadgold; Miss Florence Thorne was a capital Tabitha; Miss Maud A. Russell imparted great sympathy to her representation of Madge Armstrong; and Mr. Frank M. Thorne afforded much amusement as Micky Maloney. Admirable support was given by Mr. Claremont Gaskell (Nathan Moss), Mr. A. T. Jones (Captain Holt), and Mr. J. K. Wilson (Peter Hallam).

ALHAMBRA.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—T. E. Dunville, the very eccentric comedian, is enthusiastically applauded for his entertaining songs; the Five Musical Palmers achieve great success with their instrumental selections; Starr and Leslie, in an act comprising juggling and musical selections, score heavily; Daisy Almer sings and dances herself into great favour; Stacey and Williams are a capital pair of comedians; Kato's Komical Kidgets are popular in their marionette entertainment; Queenie West is well received in song and dance; Barrett and Knowles are smart patter comedians; Kate Fraill is delightful in songs at the piano; and the Alhambrascope pictures are very interesting and amusing.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Vesta Victoria achieves distinct success with her very entertaining songs; Shaun Glenville and company make a great hit in the amusing sketch The Art of Deception; the Three Royal Dreadnoughts are clever rifle shots; Alice Hollander, the Australian contralto, sings artistically; Frank Silvo is a quaint comedy juggler; Lillie Soutter is a pleasing characteristic comedienne; Clotilde and Musta, with their well-trained cockatoos, submit a good turn; the Two Kays are cordially received in their novelty scena, The Nightingale; Harris and Worth, sporting comedians, win hearty applause; Les Barrois are smart hand balancers; and the Barrascope pictures are amusing.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Scholey.—Mr. Norman V. Norman and company are here this week with Under the Red Robe, and are warmly welcomed. Mr. Norman V. Norman gives a picturesque and masterly enactment of Gil de Berault; Miss Beatrice Wilson also achieves conspicuous success with her charming and artistic portrayal of Renée de Cocheforêt; Mr. Sam Wilkinson cleverly handles the character of the vapid Captain Larolle; Mr. Alfred Gray is deeply impressive as Cardinal Richelieu; and others meriting commendation include Mr. Reginald P. Lamb (Marquis de Pombal), Mr. Cyril Percy (Mons. de Fargis), Mr. F. Ambrose Flower (Sir Thomas Brunt), Mr. Norman Leslie (Lieut. Manet), and Miss Katherine Harrington (Suzette).

PALACE PIER THEATRE.—Mr. Arthur Cornell's company is here this week with The New Clown. Mr. Arthur Cornell is highly entertaining as Lord Cyril Garston (the new clown); Mr. Frank H. Morton, as the circus proprietor, Mr. Dixon, merits warm praise; Mr. Thomas Ford's representation of the real clown, Thomas Baker, and Mr. B. Harrison's enactment of Billy, a strong man, are very effective; Miss Olive Wilton makes a charming Rosie Platt; and Miss Una Mainwaring and Miss Eileen Terence are graceful as Maud Chesterton and Winnie Chesterton respectively.

COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. M. Barrasford; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Fred Bauer.—The exhibitions of animated pictures here continue to attract good houses. John Bull's Bread-basket is descriptive of the work on the Canadian cornfields; The Highway Robbery is replete with sensational incidents; The Gipsy Girl's Gratitude conveys a dramatic story; The Mountaineer's Son and Charlie's Dream are interesting; and much amusement is afforded by Miss Pimpernel's Gown, Mr. Simpson's Artful Ruse, and McGrady's Capture. Illustrated songs are contributed by Mr. Percl Lennard. Mr. Arthur W. Briggs gives the descriptive pianoforte accompaniments to the whole series of films with marked skill.

CONCERT HALL, WEST-STREET.—The Anglo-French and American Kinematograph exhibitions opened here on Wednesday evening, when a capital series of pictures was submitted, comprising subjects dramatic, interesting, and amusing. The programme was varied by pianoforte selections by Miss G. Williams, songs by Miss Phyllis Victoria and Mr. Vincent Walker, and a mirth-provoking absurdity, Friday, the Amateur, by Robins and Kruso.

BRISTOL.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—This week we have the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, and on Monday Faust was played to a remarkably good house. Mr. Edward Davies both sang and acted well as Faust; Miss Elizabeth Burgess, who was in excellent voice, scored a pronounced success as Marguerite; Mr. Arthur Winckworth sang admirably as Mephistopheles, and his caustic humour was effective; Mr. Hebden Foster has a nice baritone voice, and sang with artistic taste as Valentine; Miss Christine Ritz was pleasing as Siebel; and Martha and Wagner had satisfactory exponents in Miss Douglas Wilson and Mr. Alexander Richard. The orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. Walter Van Noorden, did full justice to Gounod's music, and the chorus was both strong and effective. The opera was staged in a realistic style. On Tuesday evening Tannhäuser was staged, and the superb rendering of the overture, under the direction of Mr. Eugene Goossens, will long be remembered. Mr. Hanns Robert both acted and sang well in the title-rôle; Miss Beatrice Miranda displayed much ability both as a vocalist and an actress as Elizabeth; Mme. Ina Hill sang well as Venus; and Miss Annie Walker made a pretty Shepherd Boy, vocalising charmingly; Mr. Charles Victor was highly successful as Wolfram, his rendering of the beautiful solo "O star of eve" being most commendable; Mr. Arthur Winckworth made a stately and impressive Landgrave, his fine bass voice enabling him to do full justice to his numbers; and Messrs. Alexander Richard, Charles Brierley, Albert Felton, and William O'Connor did well as Biterolf, Reinmar, Schrieber, and Walther. The excellent work done by the competent and evenly-balanced chorus deserves favourable mention. Il Trovatore, Carmen, Esmeralda, Cavalleria Rusticana, Pagliacci, and The Bohemian Girl are also in the week's bill.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Alty.—Mr Frederick Melville's company is here with the interesting drama Her Forbidden Marriage, the play being well staged. Mr. Harry Lonsdale acts excellently as George Maddison, and fine expositions of their respective parts are given by Miss Geraldine Le Sage as Lucy, Miss Agnes Imlay as the Mother Superior, and Mr. Louis Hector as Charles Devereux. The remaining characters are all in competent hands.

PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Arthur Dando and company are successful with their musical sketch The Phonograph Belle; Binns and Binns amuse with comedy and music; Walter Ellis and company have a good comic sketch, The Sleepwalker; Marie Neilson is an expert dancer; Pearce and Ward (Kitty and Fred) entertain with smart dancing and boxing; Lotto, Lilo, and Otto are clever trick and fancy cyclists; Fred Tenby, comedian, is successful; and Ada Cerito is a pleasing comedienne. The performance concludes with a good selection of animated pictures.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire. — Charles T. Aldrich, American entertainer, does an excellent turn, including quick-change work, conjuring, &c.; Wilson and Waring score a success with their sketch The Ugly Duckling; Ida Young is a pleasing vocalist and dancer; the Bright Trio do a good musical act; Ethel Dove is a smart comedienne and dancer; Stevens and Gillard amuse with comedy and lightning sketches; Diana Hope and company have a good dramatic sketch, Her Good Name; Billy French, wooden shoe dancer, is appreciated; and Fred Russell, ventriloquist, is also in the bill. Some up-to-date animated pictures conclude the entertainment.

COLSTON HALL.—Ralph Pringle's animated pictures and variety entertainment continues to be well attended. The speciality films this week include The Press Gang, John Bull's Bread Basket, and Noble Jester's Deceit.

BROUGHTON.—VICTORIA THEATRE, LTD.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—The Belle of the Ball is this week presented by Miss Violet Osmund, under the direction of Mr. Alexander Loftus. Miss G. Melville ably sustains the title-rôle, dancing and singing well; Miss Florence Watson makes a charming Queenie Trevor; Mr. Johnnie Schofield as Tibbs bubbles over with fun; and Alice and Mary are comical ugly sisters in the hands of Miss Ethel Bertram and Miss Corona L'Estrange. Mr. Charles Adeson as Farmer Jones also contributes to the fun; Mr. Robert Hyett sings well, and ably presents the hero, Sir Francis Lake; and good support is given by Mr. Llewellyn C. Hughes as Bobbie Fletcher, Mr. W. E. Chewd as James Foster, Mr. E. H. Bertram as Showman Jack, and Miss Vera Grafton as Lucy. The choruses are well sustained under the direction of Mr. Joseph D. Rogers, and the dresses are very pretty.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett and Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—Fred Karno's company is here in Mumming Birds and London Suburbia, a couple of side-splitting burlesques, which are well played by a strong array of comedians. In addition, good variety turns are submitted by Mr. James Graydon, comedian; Miss Ivy Proudfoot, who is meeting with hearty applause; Fred Carr and Ada Rose, in A Winning Double; Miss Kitty Douglas, who sings well and dances cleverly; and Mr. Russell Carr, in a really good ventriloquial act. Living pictures conclude.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS. — THEATRE ROYAL. — General-Manager, Mr. Auguste A. Peuleve. — Miss Loie Esmond's company in The Sorrows of Satan occupies the boards this week, the leading rôles being enacted by Mr. Edward Neville, Mr. F. Douglas Howard, Miss Rosie Neville, Miss Hilary Burleigh, and Miss Loie Esmond. Nana is billed for Wednesday night.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—This popular entertainment reopens with a capital programme, including Nora Doone, a smart dancer; Muriel Blair, a pleasing vocalist; Onda and Walonell, gymnasts; Allan Hanbury, comedian; the Sisters Beatrice, duettists and dancers; and a sketch, The Devonshire Dad, cleverly presented by Mr. Victor Widdicombe, Miss Clara Russell, and Mr. Richard Neville.

CAMBRIDGE. — NEW THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company opened a six nights' engagement here on Monday with The Village Blacksmith. Mr. Sam Livesey made an ideal hero, his John Strong being in every way worthy of an actor of his ability; Kate Strong was in the capable hands of Miss Maggie Edwards; Miss Lily Leicester rendered with charm the boy, Harry Strong; Mr. Albert Sinclair made himself perfectly odious as Captain Leo; Mr. Edwin Maydew was good as Lucas Marler; Mr. Thomas E. Marshall (Jeremiah Parkins), Mrs. T. C. Livesey (Sal Parkins), and Miss Cissie Le Grande (Ruth Parkins) were thoroughly at home in their parts; Mr. George Willon was excellent as the manager of the music hall. The scenery and appointments were all first class.

GUILDHALL.—Poole's Myriorama, which holds such a high place amongst entertainments of this character, is at the above hall. The variety portion also is of quality, consisting of the Five Royal Banzais, a troupe of Japanese experts; Little Togo, who quickly became a favourite; and the Seven Bramusas, a clever troupe of juvenile musicians.

CARDIFF.—NEW THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—Sir John Hare's farewell performance here has created intense interest, and many have been disappointed in obtaining admission to the theatre. Sir John's inimitable performance in A Pair of Spectacles has evoked the most intense enthusiasm, and the efforts of his excellent company have been keenly appreciated.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—George Bastow is here with his famous character songs, and achieves distinct popularity; Arthur Lennard has a warm reception; Tom Edwards brings down the house with his ventriloquism; Ross and Lewis are a brilliant duo; the Molasso Quartet provide a smart "cyclonic" dance entertainment; and two clever juvenile artists who win genuine applause are Miss Margaret and Master John Rawson. The Lyric Quartet in harmonised picture songs; Les Voces, two vocalists with beautifully-blended voices; and Marie Empress, a smart comedienne, add to the success of the performance.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Under the Management of Mr. Rollo Balmain.—The New East Lynne has been performed here by Mr. W. W. Kelly's company. Mr. Frederick Harker is a very creditable representative of Archibald Carlyle; Mr. W. H. Garbois capably fills the part of Captain Levison; and Miss Beth Elliott impersonates Lady Isabel with pathos and reality. Mr. Richard Nugent appears successfully as Murty O'Flynn.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton. Fred Maxwell and company are here in a stirring playlet entitled The Last Command. The rôle of Captain Yewlett is well undertaken by Mr. Maxwell, and Miss Lois Du Cane portrays Lola with becoming pathos. The Denwartz Troupe of juvenile acrobats create much excitement; the Sisters Cora make a "hit" with their catchy songs and clever dancing; and the Bros. Millicent do some remarkable feats on the trapeze. Belle Braham renders pictorial songs in fine style; Jim Cheetham astonishes his audiences by his bird mimicry and whistling; Mlle. Bartenelli, contortionist, is distinctly clever; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux complete the bill.

CARLISLE.—H.M. THEATRE.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stowart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—Mr. Frank Bertram's company in The Breed of the Treshams hold the boards here this week. Mr. Sydney Bland as the Rat gives an artistic and finished performance; Mr. W. R. Winning does well as the Hon. Clement Hungerford; Miss Mildred Hodgson is a winsome Margaret; and Miss Grace Harlington plays Batty to perfection. Mr. Alfred Holles is an impressive Viscount Dorsington; Mr. Howard Brennan is all that could be desired as the Hon. Francis Tresham; and Mr. George Trail cleverly depicts the kindly Sir Henry Curwen.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Morgan.—The Carmos present a startling herculean and juggling act here; Maude Mortimer scores an enormous success with her catchy songs; Alec Kendall convulses the audience with his funny patter; Fred Barnes is a capital light comedian; and Kitty Wager, Fred Poplar, Leonora and Kendrich, and Laura also entertain. The Pepiscope completes.

NEW PUBLIC HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Sydney Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Thomas France; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Uden.—The pictures here this week include For a Wife's Honour, Greed of Gold, and The Cross Roads of Life, all of which are much appreciated. Mr. Chas. May is an excellent comedian.

CASTLEFORD.—ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Cr. Hy. Masterman, J.P.—This week a delightful entertainment is afforded by an interpretation of A Merry Maid, by Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. E. Cardwell's company. Mr. Vivian Wakeman in both singing and acting makes an ideal Larry O'Hooligan; Miss May Gibson as Peggy O'Hooligan plays the character in just the right spirit, and she is very charming in her songs; Mr. W. S. Hutchinson is extremely funny as Biddy O'Hooligan, and keeps the house in roars of laughter; Mr. C. W. James gives a humorous sketch of Sharp Scrivener, a lawyer; Miss Fanny Adamson as Vere de Vere acts well, and she possesses a pleasing and well-modulated voice; Wee George Wood is well known here, and his funny business is warmly applauded; Mr. Neil Hardy fully appreciates the humour required for the Hon. Cecil Toft; Miss Ray Watson appears with much success as Flossie Kixie; Mr. Harry Leander causes no end of amusement as an impossible German, Von Swank; while Mr. Howard Lawrence as Thady Clancy proves himself to be an actor and vocalist of considerable ability.

QUEEN'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and W. H. Emerson; General-Manager, Mr. Will H. Emerson; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Travis.—The Fimans head the bill in a scena The Fire Station. They dance well, and cause no end of fun with amusing dialogue; Elmo and Rigo as acrobatic knockabouts cause screams of laughter; Mlle. du Roche has a sweet and well-modulated voice, and her songs are much appreciated; the Stanley Urchins, a sextette of boys and girls, work hard, and with much success, as singers and dancers; Wal Owen as a silent comedian evokes much amusement; Musical Zelda manipulates a number of musical instruments with much skill; George Rapley is a burlesque comedian, and he causes hearty laughter; Dan Kino, assisted by local children, in a scena, Britannia's Navy, receives well-merited applause. The Loyal Dominion Company's animated pictures are good, and conclude an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard.—Mr. George Edwardes's Merry Widow company is here under the general management of Mr. Fuller Allen. In the title-rôle Miss Mysie Devine is a favourite, and delights all in her interviews and duets with Prince Danilo, a character played with ease and ability by Mr. Frank Greene; Mr. Edward d'Arcy as the Baron Popoff misses no opportunity of creating laughter; Mr. Fred Fowler represents Nisch with ability and discretion; as Vicomte Camille de Jolidon Mr. Ripley Evans gives a highly creditable performance; Miss Ada Thomas is excellent as Natalie.

CHELTENHAM.—OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—On Monday Messrs. Taylor, Platt, and Trevor Lowe's company are here, with You Never Can Tell. Miss Gwladys Morris acts with distinction as Gloria Clandon; and her lover, Valentine, is cleverly represented by Mr. Leslie Hamer. The parts of the twentieth-century youngsters, Dolly Clandon and Philip Clandon, are played with liveliness and point by Miss Clara Earle and Mr. Donald Calthrop; Miss Catherine Stuart cleverly hits off the Shavian conception of a "new" woman, Mrs. Clandon; Mr. Trevor Lowe suavely impersonates the delightful old waiter; Mr. J. Edward Pearce is capital as the old-fashioned Fergus Crampton; Mr. Charles Daly is well placed as Finch McComas; Mr. George Howard is a capable Bohun; and Miss Ivy Fenton is all that can be desired as Crampton's immaculate parlourmaid.

CHORLEY (Lancs.).—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Santé.—Mr. Frank Lindo is appearing here this week with his company in Home, Sweet Home. The drama is capitally mounted. As Stephen Armitage Mr. Lindo excels and is much appreciated; as David Armitage Mr. D. Lawrence Doyle gives an excellent study; Mr. Archer Brown appears with good effect as Duke of Ancaster; Mr. Helsby Wright capitally undertakes Lucas Lyle; Dick Redmayne is strongly interpreted by Mr. Richard Walsh; and Mr. G. Rogers is good as Lord Silvermore. Joan is charmingly rendered by Miss Marion Wakeford; Miss Hetty Webster capitally portrays Lady Somerton; Miss Maude Leslie Cudd ably undertakes Sybil Fay; and Miss Violet Esmo is good as Dora. David Garrick was billed for Friday night.

CLYDEBANK.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—Miss May Lillian Levey tops the bill her this week and scores heavily with her catchy songs. Doyle and Gibson are a pair of good comedians and dancers; Neil Nelson, Scotch character comedian, is well received; Belford and Mars, comedy entertainers, cause much laughter; Lily Davies sings some good chorus songs; and the pictures shown on the Bioscope are very entertaining.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Chas. Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Mr. John Gerant and company are here with At Duty's Call, Mr. Gerant taking the part of the renegade, Harold Allison. Mr. Ernest St. John plays General Gordon with much cleverness; Mr. Charles Calvert makes a manly Capt. Allison; Miss Beatrice Western is good as Dora Drummond; Mr. J. Jelly Dillsen humorous as Jerry O'Hallaron; Mr. Frank Morton does well as Jack Spencer, being ably seconded by Miss Laurie O'Neill as Mary. Miss Ada Roscoe is a satisfactory Salema.

HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—Mr. John Tiller's name is prominent on this week's bill with the musical absurdity Queen of Monte Carlo. The piece is dressed quite in accordance with Mr. Tiller's well-known lavish style, and creates a deal of amusement. It is under the management of Mr. H. Garside and the bâton of Mr. Peter Flitcroft. The leading feature is its excellent finale. The Sisters Iris, vocalists and dancers, are redemanded for their clever dancing; the Hippodrome Quartette excel with well-executed dances; and the Martinette Troupe, in a novelty act, introduce much funny business. Will Lytton shines as a comedian.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. R. J. Bell. —Two Little Vagabonds, by Hardie and Von Leer's company, opened a week's engagement here on Monday, and played to a good house. The play is admirably staged and the company is an excellent one. Miss Florence Dalton as Marion Thornton is commendably earnest; Mr. Richard A. Green as George Thornton gives a very effective representation; and the vagabonds of Miss Denise Zaleski (Dick) and Miss Alice Leon (Wally) are very clever assumptions. The other minor parts are well taken.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Thomas F. O'Brien.—A burlesque sketch entitled Fun in a Gymnasium introduces smart acrobatic work; the Avocas, male quartette, are heard with much pleasure in an operatic scena entitled The Reckless Miner. Alf. E. Passmore, comedian, proves exceedingly diverting; the Watson Family are accomplished musicians; Fields and Lewis, in sensational burlesque, amused; the Misses Edwardes, duettists, are very pleasing; Harry Kirk, comedian, contributes capital songs; the Pichel Troupe of acrobats are clever and original, and the Palascope also contributes to the amusement of the evening.

COVENTRY.—THE OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—Mr. Reginald Dance presents Beau Brocade, and gives a very fine rendering of the title-part. Miss Ruth Mackay submits a charming impersonation of the heroine, Lady Patience Gascoyne; the blacksmith is vividly portrayed by Mr. Dalziel Heron; Mr. Frank Darch makes a good Earl Stretton; and good representations are furnished by Mr. F. Powell (Sir Humphrey Challoner), Mr. S. Lathbury (Mr. Mittachap), Mr. E. Irwin (Jock Meggs), and Miss May Brooke as the maid Betty. The piece is preceded by a one-act play, The Proof, by Alice C. Greene.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. B. Wright.—The top turn this week is supplied by the Four Holloways, marvellous acrobatic and trick cyclists on the tight wire. Mr. John Humphries and his company appear in a very funny episode, entitled Ancient Britons; Mr. H. C. Charlton as a conjurer introduces some clever and original tricks; Fred Dunstan is an amusing comedian; the Columbia Comedy Trio are humorous; and other artists are Vera Mayne, the Stowe Brothers, and Merton and Rydon. The Bioscope pictures show St. Kilda—its birds, rocks, fish, and people.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Dance; Manager, Mr. K. Draco.—An exceptional programme is being well appreciated this week, the star turn being that highly-successful sketch, An Outside Chance, the outstanding feature of which is the remarkable acting of Master Edward Garrett. The Dunedin troupe are accomplished trick cyclists; the Three Cape Girls are clever, especially in long-boot dancing; Eddie Hayes and Mona Wynne are American dancers; La Belle Nello, "the queen of equipose," is artistic and graceful; Chas. Stevens is a good comedian; Minnie Paget, on the concertina, and the Crown Trio of speciality artists, also appear. The Bioscope pictures conclude.

CREWE.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Howard.—Messrs. Bennett and Wray's company, in Miss Hook of Holland, is drawing full houses here. Miss Ethel James makes a dainty Sally Hook; Miss Muff Carew as Mina infuses plenty of "go" into the part; and Miss Molly Trevor is good as Gretchen. Mr. Edmund Russell as Mr. Hook is a capital merriment merchant, being ably assisted by Mr. Fred Dark as Simon Slinks; Mr. J. B. Fox plays admirably as Captain Adrian Paap; Mr. Adrian Burgon is good as the bandmaster, Van Vuyt; and Mr. Robert Corray is suitably placed as Schnappa.

CROOK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Wallace Davidson, Ltd.; Resident-Manageress, Mrs. Wallace Davidson.—Mr. Chas. H. Lester's company is appearing in Crook for the first time this week in the emotional drama A Life for a Life. The character of Don Leon is satisfactorily rendered by Mr. Chas. Lester; and Miss Beatrice Anderson as Eulalie has an excellent reception. Miss Dorothy Riddell as Kate Evelyn is clever; and Mr. Richard Bosco makes an ideal Pedro. The part of the Sheriff is well taken by Mr. Charles Osborne; and Mr. Claude Seaton as Bunker Bill is also good.

CROYDON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Roland Daniel; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Archer.—The Gay Gordons is being played here by a first-rate company. The mounting leaves nothing to be desired, the chorus is well balanced, and the dresses are superb. Miss Zena Dare wins all hearts with her sweet and enchanting rendering of Peggy Quainton; and she has a capital partner to work with in Mr. Stanley Brett, whose portrayal of Angus Graeme is received with marked approval. Mr. Edward Lewis makes a quaint and curious Nervy Nat; Mr. Wilfred Norman cuts a droll figure as Edmond Siddons; Mr. Ernest Torrence is in his element as Andrew Quainton; Mr. Paul Plunket makes the most of Corporal John Smith; Mr. Buchanan Wake is adequate as Archibald Speedy; Mr. J. Sims Woolley causes a sensation as Jack M'Phrisky; and Messrs. John Woolley, Edward Leith, Reginald Adair, and J. Carlisle make capital out of the rôles of Marquis of Dalesbury, Viscount Belstairs, Lord Elmington, and Lord Merlsham. Miss Eugénie Vernie's fine acting as Janet M'Leod receives cordial greetings; Miss Madge Vincent acts and dances admirably as Victoria Siddons; Miss Nellie Dade gives an excellent character sketch of Charlotte Siddons; Miss Doris Stocker deserves praise as Mary M'Leod; and Miss Ada Fraser makes a charming Lady Millicent Graeme. The augmented orchestra is under the bâton of Mr. Arthur Spittle.

HIPPODROME AND NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Osmond.—Mr. Douglas Bruce's company in The Girl Who Lost Her Character is here this week. The Rev. Robert Everton is played in capital style by Mr. E. Maclean; the part of Jack England is sustained by Mr. Harold Macartney in a most convincing manner; Mr. George Asquin as Dick Punch is particularly good; Mr. Richard Ferris as Captain Geoffrey Caversham and Miss Lydia Mannington as Marian Franklyn cleverly sustain the villainy of the play; Mr. George Mitchell submits a fine impersonation of James Sutton; and Mr. Augustine Bowerman acquits himself admirably as Detective Weathersby. Miss Marie Poulton as Isabella Jones calls for special mention; Miss Sybil Hare as Rose Seymour proves herself a capable artist; and Miss Violet Ennis Lawson gives an effective portrayal of the title-rôle.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Bell; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hal Cummings.—Mr. Hubert Druce's company in The Cheat is here this week. Mr. Edward Ferris as Lieut. Richard Blanchard plays his part with great success; Mr. Frank Cooper as Stephen Blanchard is admirable; Miss Eugenie Francklyn is charming as Joan Feilding; Miss Daisy Atherton as Marjorie Vorland gives a graceful impersonation; Mr. Royston Keith is good as General Blanchard; Mr. Edward Y. Rae as Colonel Paget acts in capital style. The remainder of the company includes Mr. Windham Guise, Miss Helen Russel as Ethel Hardy, Mr. Edward O'Neill as Captain Phillips-Rivers, Mr. C. Goodhart as Dr. John Vorland, Mr. Max Leeds as Lieut. Brabazon, and Mr. Charles Crawford as Lieut. Neyland.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Theatre, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Hersee.—The Gentle Mackweys, in their comic wire act, are highly appreciated; Gus Blake and Maud Granby are very clever in comedy duologue; Morny Cash, on his return visit, was well received. Other good turns are Chas. Rowen, comedian; Mlle. Haydee, with her miniature theatre; Vernando, ventriloquist; Sadi Simpson, comedienne and dancer, and the Pepiscope, with up-to-date pictures.

DARWEN.—PUBLIC HALL, PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Lessees, Messrs. Thomson, Leivers, and Bennett; Manager, Mr. J. E. Thomson; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Kerrigan.—The Rowntrees top the bill here this week in their clever duets; Carl Bennie is a ventriloquist of no mean order; Geo. Castrey, comedian, receives well-merited applause; and great admiration is aroused by Arthur and Angus, comedy duettists and dancers. The usual excellent pictures conc'ude the bill.

DERBY.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley.—Mr. Allan Wilkie's Shakespearean company opened on Monday with The Merchant of Venice. Mr. Wilkie gave a remarkably fresh and enjoyable reading of Shylock; and the Portia of Miss Carrie Baillie was a most intelligent and satisfactory assumption. Ample justice was done to Antonio by Mr. John Paley; and the Bassanio of Mr. Alexander Marsh was also exceedingly good. Mr. Marsh is a Derby man, and naturally more than ordinary interest was centred in his fine impersonation. Mr. Frank Royde and Mr. Ernest Digges acquitted themselves admirably as Gratiano and Lorenzo respectively; Mr. Ian Fleming gave a diverting depiction of Lancelot Gobbo; Miss Mildred Surrey made a charming Nerissa; and the same may be said of Miss S. Hunter Watts as Jessica; the remaining characters all being in excellent hands. Hamlet, Julius Cæsar, Romeo and Juliet, As You Like It, She Stoops to Conquer, and Richard III. are also in the week's bill.

Palace. — Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes.—An entertaining star turn is provided this week by the Jees, in their sketch, The Musical Smithy. The various numbers, played on anvils, horseshoes, &c., meet with all-round approval. Miss Georgette Thierry's company is responsible for a dramatic playlet, entitled A Daughter of the Revolution, which is highly successful; T. C. Edwards, an Australian baritone, is deserving of praise; Violet Gibson and her White Coons appear to advantage as vocalists and dancers; Charlie Rose is a talented comedian and dancer; the Tintos, in African Gambols, provide much hearty laughter; and Royston and Royce are smart comedy dancers. The Bioscope, with an exciting film, concludes.

DEVONPORT.—Theatre Metropole.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—The Metropole has a strong attraction this week in The Little Breadwinner. Mr. J. A. Campbell's company includes Mr. Alfred Maurice, whose conception of Joseph Prior is exceptionally good; and Mr. H. P. Peppin, whose Lord Dorington is excellent. Mr. Reginald Brown as Richard Lawrence is a capable actor; and Little Miss Winnie Crump gives a fine representation of the title-rôle.

Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor.—Grace and refinement are characteristic of this week's programme. Charcot and his automatic man furnish a mystifying exhibition; Lena Shirley and Claude Anderson deservedly reap encouraging plaudits for excerpts from Il Trovatore; Horace Pollock and company have a well-written little sketch by A. W. Pinero, entitled Hester's Mystery; Lèse Rolland, Continental equilibrist, is a finished exponent of her particular art; the Krags are past masters in the gymnastic business; and Miss Dorma Morgan is an attractive American comedienne. Chas. Bignell, comedian, and Archie Royor, humorous acrobat, materially contribute to the evening's enjoyment.

DEWSBURY.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, the Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Asquith.—The drama Straight from the Shoulder is being presented by Mr. R. A. Roberts's company. In the rôle of Dr. Francis Bedford effective acting is shown by Mr. Matthew Boulton; the "absolute rotter," Gleeson, has his wickedness well depicted and defined by Mr. Leonard Clarke; as Millicent Grant Miss Beatrice Burdett plays with effect and attractiveness; very pleasing and successful is the impersonation of Mary Gleeson by Miss Frances Bruce; the humour is largely exploited by Mr. Fred Beck in the amusing character of Jim Green, in the exposition of which he makes a marked success; Miss Edie Casson is a very clever exponent of Miss Brittle; whilst Gladys Brittle is entertainingly vivacious as represented by Miss Beatrice Moore. Other rôles are capably and consistently dealt with.

DONCASTER. — New Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—The Lady of Ostend was the bill of fare on Monday. Mr. Lawrence Brough was from the first a prime favourite, and his popularity increased as the play progressed. Mr. William Spray was naturally amusing as Dick Whortles; the title-rôle received a good interpretation at the hands of Miss Kitty Develin; as Dick's wife Miss Barbara Glyn was especially engaging; Toby Krockett, a prize-fighter, was well presented by Mr. William Macready. On Thursday evening The Cruise of the Saucy Sally by the same company was the attraction.

DUBLIN.—Gaiety Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Hyland.—Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company commenced a short season here on Monday, when Lady Frederick was produced for the first time before a large and and appreciative Dublin audience. Mrs. Brown Potter gives a capital impression of the title-rôle; Mr. Philip Cunningham distinguishes himself as Paradine Foulde; Lord Meriston is well represented by Mr. Herbert Garthorne; and as Lady Meriston Miss Rosemary Rees takes the part exceedingly well. Mr. Reginald Van Ranney as Sir Gerald O'Mara is in every respect admirable; and Miss Phyllis Manners as Mme. Claude does remarkably well. Mr. Cecil Bevan is successful as Captain Montgomerie; Miss E. Nolan O'Connor is well placed as Angelique; Admiral Carlisle is in the safe hands of Mr. Shirley Lea; and Miss Edith Deverill is capital as Rosie. The Peacemaker is the curtain-raiser.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—The Scarlet Pimpernel is being presented in capital style by Mr. Fred Terry's company. Mr. Fred Terry plays the part of Sir Percy with great judgment and excellent effect; Miss Miriam Lewes charmingly portrays Lady Blakeney; Mr. Horace Hodges is highly successful as Chauvelin; the Prince of Wales of Mr. A. E. Anson is carefully acted; and Mr. J. Carter Edwards submits a humorous impersonation of Brogard. Mr. Alfred Kendrick sustains the rôle of Sir Andrew Ffoulkes with no little skill; and the parts of Captain Dewhurst and Lord Grenville are capitally played by Mr. Malcolm Cherry and Mr. Frederick Groves.

Empire. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—A feature of the programme here is the amusing sketch Billy, presented by the Craggs, which causes no end of laughter; and Elsie Kerry is a favourite comedienne, her catchy songs being well appreciated. W. H. Downs, the coloured ballad vocalist, sings in good style; and George Newburn enhances his reputation as a mimic. In a dramatic episode, Told in a Flat, Harry Rogers and company score successfully; and Kathleen Gray receives due recognition as a comedienne. Gwennie Yeo in a smart clog-dancing act is cordially encored; the Gothams are applauded; and the Empire Pictures deserve mention.

Tivoli.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—A diversified bill is headed here by Harry Roxbury and company, in The Prince of Monte Carlo; the Sisters Henderson are expert instrumentalists; the Cameo troupe give a fine acrobatic performance; and Frank Coyle, the continuous comedian, makes a hit. Beattie and Babs, juvenile entertainers, in A Pavement Rehearsal, are extremely popular; and Albert Damm and page boy give a smart and clever acrobatic turn. In a neat and artistic dancing act the Brennans score; and the Bioscope, depicting Mary is Dismissed, is also an attraction.

Round Room Rotunda.—Poole's Myriorama entered on their second week here on Monday, and judging by the measure of support accorded since the opening this entertainment is highly popular. In addition there are: The Snow Family, eccentric knockabouts and expert skaters; Miss Phyllis St. Claire, operatic and ballad vocalist; Harry Dowsett, eccentric comedian; George French's troupe of cyclists; and Bert Gates, ventriloquist and guide. The animated pictures add interest to the programme.

World's Fair and Music Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—A good programme is made up of the following:—Edwards and Ward, comedy entertainers; Tom E. Swift, descriptive vocalist; Rita Lyons, comedienne; Walter Conilla, chorus vocalist; Jim Merry, comedian; Bett and Bett, the comic couple, and the cinematograph.

Pavilion, Kingstown.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Jack Macdermott.—The Gay River Company opened here on Monday, and met with a good reception. Mr. Frank Dunlop, an amusing comedian, was warmly received; as a song and dance artist Nora Walker achieves distinction; Mr. Bert Byrne is a most diverting comedian; Miss Harriett Fawn sings her songs in taking style. Others who contributed to the success of the programme are: Miss Connie Olives, Miss Harriet Greene, Mr. Francis Rayne, Miss Nellie Crawford, and Mr. Charles North.

DUDLEY.—Opera House.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Baron H. Harriss' No. 1 company in The Prince of Pilsen has delighted Dudley playgoers this week. Mr. Harry Kilburn as Hans Wagner was exceedingly droll and created endless laughter; Miss Sophie Harriss, splendidly gowned, was greatly admired; Mr. Leslie Owen was excellently placed as the Prince, and gave a bold rendering; Mr. Arthur Geary was successful as Lieutenant Tom Wagner; and Mr. Charles Rogers was cleverly humorous as the Earl of Shrimpton. Miss Nellie Lomas was daintily pretty as Nellie Wagner; and Miss Mabel Dent as Sidonie was decidedly chic, and proved herself a good dancer. All the principals' songs were well rendered, and received unstinted applause.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. B. Peberdy.—The following clever artists are much applauded by good houses:—The Burnells, in Over the Garden Wall; the Lombards, equilibrists; Shenton's Chicks, in The Children's Birthday Party; Maximilian Trio, in a balancing act; Bains and Reed, acrobats; Sisters Duquesne, vocalists and dancers; George Lawrence, actor-vocalist; and Jack Gearle, comedian. The Empire pictures are very enjoyable.

Public Hall.—Hon. Sec., Mr. W. Pearson.—The Twentieth Century Pictures and Variety Company is giving a good show here this week. An excellent programme of pictures is provided, interspersed by variety turns by Miss Rosie Gordon, a singer of sensible songs; Milford and Lewis, refined sketch artists; and Handel and Lee, saxophonists and musical experts.

DUNDEE.—Her Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company is here in The Christian. As Glory Quayle Miss Doris Gilham held the sympathy of the house from start to finish; the part of John Storm was admirably played by Mr. Henry Renouf; Miss Margaret Brodie was exceedingly good as Polly Love; and the rôle of Lady Robert Ure was well sustained by Miss Catherine Maude. Mr. George R. Montford gave an admirable study of Lord Robert Ure; and Mr. Oswald Marshall was an excellent Horatio Drake.

Palace Theatre. — Lessees, the United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—That mirth-provoking sketch, The House of Tinn, is being presented here by J. G. Kiddie and company with great success. Prince Arthur is ably rendered by Albert Wyndham and company; Lily Burnand's descriptive songs are warmly received; and Ruby Norton, comedienne, has a flattering reception. George S. Melvin, Scotch comedian, improves at every visit; Lisbon and Barker, in their act, Extemporising, and Allis and Cassati, in A Funny Few Minutes, prove admirable merry-makers. Archie Pitt's quaint style suits his ditties to a nicety. The Bioscope completes the bill.

Gaiety Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—A fantastical dancing scena, entitled A Belfry Dream, is presented here by Mabel Fairchild. Another brilliantly illuminated scena, A Dream in Fairyland, is artistic and clever. The Four Delewares cause much amusement by their Revels in a Billiard Saloon; and Belle and Bright, in their laughable act, Along the Sands, are amusing. Yohle and company contribute a pleasing musical interlude; the Four Spanish Goldinis introduce several novel tricks and feats into their carpet-spinning act; Michael Kemble repeats his former successes; Orlando uses his fine voice to advantage; Ivey Aberdare and Maude Beaumont, comediennes and dancers, are well received; and the programme is completed by Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, whose vocalising is much admired.

Empire Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—Some very fine pictures are being shown here by the Franco-British Moving Picture Company, the most popular being Wild Goose Chase, The Captain's Wives, Scandalous Boys, and an excellent film depicting episodes in the life of Robin Hood. In addition to the picture programme excellent variety turns are provided by Teddy Bland, a rattling good comedian; Rose Bell, a smart soubrette; and James Miller, a very fine baritone singer.

Newman's Picture Palace.—The films shown here this week include The Reprieve, Through Central France, Force of Habit, The Great Bully, and a host of others. Donaldson and Emslie, assisted by a troupe of well-trained local children, produce a very amusing scena, entitled Fun on an Irish Farm, which reflects credit on all concerned.

Kinnaird Hall.—The U.S.A. Animated Picture Company opened a short season here on Monday, when a large audience enjoyed the up-to-date programme provided for their delectation. The Eucharistic Procession, The Quebec Pageant, and The Marathon Race, were amongst the most popular items. The necessary accompaniments were tastefully furnished by Mr. Frank Hobbel.

DUNFERMLINE. — Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Manager, Mr. W. E. Potts.—Miss Winifred Maude's company provides the bill-of-fare here with The Convict, which was presented on Monday. Mr. Victor Du Cane appears with credit in the dual parts of Freddy Freckles and Alphonse Godin; and Miss Winifred Maude achieves success as Dora Renshawe.

EASTBOURNE. — Pier Pavilion Theatre.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. Frank Stanmore's company is appearing here in The Gay Deceivers. Miss Dorothy Chard, the possessor of a pretty face and tuneful voice, is a most attractive and charming Dora; Miss Dora Lane, in dainty manner, takes the part of Winnie; Miss Kate Chard, refined and dignified, is an unqualified success as Mrs. Dewar; Miss Pauline Primm is a popular maid Rosie; Mr. Mark Lester gives a delightfully humorous performance of Joseph; Mr. Frank Stanmore as Lord Reggie does much in an able manner; Mr. Douglas Philips is an earnest and interesting Frank Dewar; Mr. Arthur Dennis works hard and well as Colonel Dewar; Mr. Francis Chamier is an animated Major Kurrie; Mr. Leslie Hawkins sings and acts capably as the burglar Pinch; and Mr. Will Capers satisfactorily represents the policeman Parker. Mr. E. Ramsey is the musical conductor.

Devonshire Park Theatre.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray, King, and Clarke.—Mr. Ian Maclaren and company are paying a return visit here with a round of well-known plays. On Tuesday evening The School for Scandal was performed. Miss Violet Sterne was a pretty, fascinating, and keenly interesting Lady Teazle; Miss Claire Townshend brightly and girlishly played the rôle of Maria; Miss Muriel Dole was a delightfully pointed Mrs. Candour; and Miss Gertrude Littlewood a capital Lady Sneerwell. Mr. Ian Maclaren lightly and easily assumed the part of Charles Surface; Mr. George Relph gave a fine account of the hypocrite Joseph Surface; Mr. Murray Hathorn was a restrained and effective Sir Peter; Mr. F. Stafford Dawson a particularly able Moses; Mr. Gordon Phillott a capable Sir Oliver; and the parts of Sir Benjamin and Crabtree were satisfactorily filled by Mr. J. V Bryant and Mr. F. Stafford Dawson.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Holloway.—The Woodwards occupy the place of honour here in their daring balancing act. The Whittakers in a sketch, Dick Whittington, introduce effective cat imitations; the Sisters Eugénie are smart and finished trapeze and acrobatic artists; Dacey and Lewis sing, dance, and tumble, and supply a very popular turn; the Empire Trio sing pleasingly and introduce effective dancing; Mr. Tom Dunmore is a comedian with a pronounced style; Bert and Dora sing and patter well; Miss Violet Ashcroft pleases as a vocalist; and new pictures are shown on the Biograph.

ECCLES.—Crown Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. G. F. Slatter.—Montague Beaudyn and his company, with Send Him Victorious, are enjoying strong patronage. Mr. Beaudyn as Captain Frank Allison depicts the character in a clever, manly way; Mr. G. M. Montanini capably fills the part of Colonel Heinrich Kauffman; Mr. James Burt makes the most of his opportunities as Sergeant Max; Miss Marie Robs gives a praiseworthy impersonation of Countess Kara Von Mecklinberg; and Miss Irene Munroe as Ethel Hardinge is well placed. Much fun is caused by the efforts of Mr. Arthur Tomlin and Miss Cicilia Crawford in the respective parts of a manservant and a lady's maid. The Power of a Wicked Woman was billed for Thursday and Friday.

EDINBURGH.—Royal Lyceum Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Wm. M. Downie.—The boards of this house are occupied this week by Mr. George Alexander, Miss Irene Vanbrugh, and the St. James's Theatre company with The Thief. Mr. Alexander's performance of Richard Chelford is full of the qualities of grace, humour, and passion which the actor has at ready command. Miss Irene Vanbrugh as Marise Chelford plays with a gaiety in the lighter scenes that renders the power and emotion of the later acts more deeply impressive. The acting of both artists in the second act produced a great effect, and the audience recalled them with enthusiasm at the close. Mr. Dawson Millward is a dignified and pathetic Raymond Leyton; and the Harry of Mr. Reginald Owen is a fine piece of acting with many dramatic touches. Miss Nina Sevening plays Isabel Leyton with much feeling, and her personal charm gives additional attraction to the part; and Mr. E. Vivian Reynolds is an admirable Mr. Protheroe. The play is preceded by an amusing comedietta, The Nursery Governess, in which Miss Jean Sterling Mackinlay, Mr. Ashton Pearse, and Mr. Harcourt Williams act with spontaneity and finish. Both pieces are handsomely staged.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—The musical comedy The Dairymaids, performed by Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company, is paying a return visit this week. Miss Phyllis Dare is again the leading attraction, and in her part of Peggy she gives a performance in which her skill in acting, singing, and dancing never fails to charm. She is supported by an excellent company, which includes Miss Edith Blanche as Lady Brudenell, Miss Rose Edouin Lewis as Miss Penelope Pyechase, of the ladies' seminary, to the humour of which she does ample justice; Miss Lottie Sargent, who is very funny as Eliza, the maid-of-all-work; and Miss Gladys Ivory, a sweet Winifred. Mr. E. Statham Staples is an admirable Lieut. Sam Brudenell; Mr. Fred Leslie, jun., and Mr. Percy Marshall are very amusing as Lieut. Frank Meredith and Dr. O'Bryne respectively; and Mr. Harry Dent gives a capital account of Joe Mivens. The other ladies and gentlemen in the smaller parts contribute to the success of the performance. The piece is picturesquely mounted, and there is a full and well-trained chorus.

King's Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—A capital programme is presented here in which Mr. Harry Radford and Mlle. Valentine give an exceedingly clever and laughable turn, including several smart juggling feats. Pipifax and Panlo appear in a comic acrobatic act; Mr. W. J. Williams and Mr. Tom Warden are excellent comedians with a fund of racy Irish humour; the Szarvasi-Ferencz Troupe perform some wonderful acrobatic feats; Mr. Wal Croft sings several humorous Scotch songs; Walker and May, comedians and dancers, are deservedly popular; Mr. Leslie Talmage is a magician of merit; and Miss Bessie Knight, comedienne, Miss Yvonne Lamor, comedienne, and pictures by the Bioscope complete the programme.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Mr. Laurence Irving and Miss Mabel Hackney are here this week presenting the tragic sketch 009 West, in which these accomplished players give ample proof of their ability in parts which call for the display of powerful acting. An excellent programme includes the Jackson Family in a musical entertainment, which comprises admirable solos and ensemble playing; the Bros. Redmond, whose clever acrobatic act has a dash of real humour; Miss Adey Spencer, a pianist of undoubted merit; Miss Marion Scott, a charming comedienne with a sweet, expressive voice; Kisbey, a comedian, who burlesques smartly various styles of music hall performers; Mr. Reichen and his little dogs, which show their natural intelligence and the patient training of their master in several surprising tricks; the Lukushimas, Japanese jugglers and acrobats, who provide an entertainment both pleasing and effective; and the well-known comedians Spry and Austin in new songs. The Bioscope also depicts an amusing scene, The Dart.

EXETER.—Theatre Royal.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. George Alexander's company with The Thief is drawing large and appreciative houses. Miss Marie Volini as Marie Chelford and Mr. Rupert Lister as Richard Chelford greatly enhance their reputations by their powerful acting; Mr. Cyril Harcourt as Raymond Leyton correctly interprets a difficult part; and Miss Jean Cadell acquits herself with becoming ease and grace as his wife. Mr. Owen Nares is good as Harry Leyton; Mr. Luke Forster is all that could be desired as Protheroe, the detective. The play is preceded by a cleverly-written comedy entitled Too Happy by Half, of which Mr. Charles Keen and Miss Eillen Kerin are the principals.

FALKIRK.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—Mr. William Greet's chief company is this week fulfilling an engagement with The Sign of the Cross. The company is one of all-round excellence, and the piece appeals to the local playgoers with all its wonted charm and interest. The leading parts are in capable hands. Mr. Cyril Austin Lee gives a finely impressive portrayal of Marcus, his rendering of the part being accentuated by his commanding stage presence and a nicely modulated voice; Mr. Charles Aldred as Tigellinus, Mr. C. Yorke as Nero, and Mr. Frank Wood as Glabrio being also prominent; Miss Constance Little makes a dignified and tender Mercia, and the subordinate parts are exceedingly well played.

FOLKESTONE.—Pleasure Gardens Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—On Monday the Moody-Manners company opened their annual grand opera week with Mlle. Zelie de Lussan specially engaged as Carmen, which was acted to a packed and enthusiastic audience. Mlle. de Lussan possesses a beautifully-toned voice, which, aided by her magnetic acting, frequently held the house spellbound. She was ably supported by Mr. H. Weiss, who, as Don José, acted with natural ease, his fine tenor voice being heard to great advantage; as the Bullfighter Mr. Marshall Vincent was a distinct success, and his baritone voice has undoubtedly gained in richness since his last visit to Folkestone; Miss Rosa O'Farrell sang sweetly, and gave a natural study of Michaela; Mr. R. Brookes made a dashing Smuggler; and Mr. Van Lachterop extracted all the quiet humour possible out of the droll character of Il Dancairo. Miss N. Gill and Miss M. Jeffries made graceful Cigarette Girls; and Messrs. H. Schofield and G. Gorst were excellent as Dragoons. The clever dancing was a feature of the opera; and Mr. Cuthbert Hawley deserves great credit for his skilful directorship of the augmented orchestra. Cavalleria Rusticana, I Pagliacci, Faust, Madame Butterfly (first time in Folkestone), Lohengrin, and Bohemian Girl are also in the répertoire of the week.

Leas Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—The Gipsies and their Jester are again drawing splendid audiences here. Miss Dorothy Francis is a charming soprano; Miss Florence Croft an extremely popular vocalist and entertainer at the piano; Miss De Buisson dances gracefully; Mr. Walter Grigg is a good baritone; Mr. Edgar Berte scores heavily in monologues; and the Jester, Mr. Will Gane, is an established favourite. They were accorded a benefit on Wednesday last.

GAINSBOROUGH.—King's Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Stear.—On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday Messrs. Dice and Frewar's Variety and Bioscope company appeared here. The Selwyns gave a clever illusionist entertainment. Miss Amy Sagmar (comedienne), Miss Madge Bryde (serio), Mr. Will Fox (ventriloquist), Miss Ada Sylvester and Zennue (the boy juggler) also appeared. Mr. Fred Dice is a clever dancer; and a number of interesting animated pictures were also given.

Empire Hippodrome.—Proprietors, the Gainsborough Syndicate.—This house is now running on the two-performances-a-night system, and opened on Monday with a company performing the sketch, Napoleon at Waterloo, Clown Caban and his French circus, and a selection of animated pictures.

GATESHEAD. — King's Theatre. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager and Licensee, Mr. Harold Arnold.—Jack Lorimer, an entertaining Scot, heads the programme submitted here this week; Steel and Lang, an American duo, show us something novel in the shape of dancing; Sisters Marion sing two duets very sweetly; O'Malley and Brown have a very laughable comedy sketch named You're Still a Friend of Mine; Cavalli, a local ventriloquist, is up to date; the Ramsey Trio are seen to advantage in a knockabout act; Stella Stahl is a chic comedienne; Will Mitcham, instrumentalist, and the usual pictures by Vernon's Bioscope complete the bill.

Metropole Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder.—Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's company, in The Love that Women Desire, has done good business here this week. Mr. Sydney Leyton presents a powerful depiction of Philip Carnaby; and Mr. Morris Maud does an excellent Richard Abingdon. The chief female part, that of Sybil Thorburn, is ably undertaken by Miss Aimee Grattan Clyndes.

GLASGOW.—Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphrys.—Glasgow has again an opportunity of seeing the evergreen drama Rob Roy, presented in first-class style by Mr. William Mollison. The special feature of the present production is the appearance of Mr. Ben Davies in the part of Francis Osbaldistone, and it is almost needless to say that this gentleman's singing in the rôle is a rare treat to lovers of Scottish song. The Bailie Nicol Jarvie of Mr. Mollison teems with humour and character, and grips the audience from first to last; Mr. William Calvert fills the title-part, and in appearance and bearing realises the bold Macgregor admirably. The Diana of the cast is Miss Retta Macallister, who sings the familiar folk songs with much sweetness and grace; Mr. Whitford Kane does well in the part of Rashleigh; as Dougal Mr. R. B. Drysdale acts well and shows acquaintance with the Highland accent; Mr. Clifford Morgan is Major Galbraith, and sings "The Bold Rob Roy" with capital effect; Mr. Henry Deas gives due weight and dignity to the part of Captain Thornton; and the declamatory lines of Helen Macgregor are well rendered by Miss Evelyn McNay. Sir Frederick Vernon is ably represented by Mr. Leslie Lingham; an attractive Mattie is found in Miss Ethel Armit; other well-filled parts being Owen (Mr. Leslie Newton), Fairservice (Mr. Wm. A. Mackersy), MacStuart (Mr. Rutherford Mayne), and Saunders Wylie (Mr. Murray Graham).

King's, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—Brewster's Millions, one of the most enjoyable comedies that has visited Glasgow for some time, opened here on Monday to a crowded house. The scenery is most effective, particularly the yacht scene, the cloud and lightning effects being very realistic. The company, under the direction of Mr. Percy Hutchison, is a thoroughly capable one. A better Monty Brewster than Mr. Percy Hutchison makes would be hard to imagine. Mr. Hutchison enters into the spirit of the character, and presents a neat and meritorious study of the part Mr. Cyril Rawdon gives a good portrayal of Charlie Harrison; Margaret Grey is admirably impersonated by Miss Cicely Stuckey; and the Mrs. Dan de Mille of Miss Violet Ley was a painstaking effort. Good work is also done by Mr. Aubrey Mather as Joseph McLeod, Miss Frances Davie as Janice Armstrong, Mr. Henry Hampson as Archie Golding, and Mr. Charles Esdale as Frank Bragdon.

Royalty, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Carpenter.—For the first time in Glasgow Mrs. Dot was produced on Monday night to a well-filled house. The leading part is taken by Miss May Palfrey as Mrs. Dot, the well-provided-for widow of a brewer. Her rendering of the title-part is altogether delightful, and meets with the full appreciation of the audience. She is ably assisted by a clever company, including Mr. F. Kinsey Peile as James Blenkinsop, who gives point to the author's clever cynicisms; Mr. Basil Hallam as Freddy, Miss Evelyn Beaumont as Nellie, Miss Annie Hill as Lady Sellenger (an able representation), &c. The success of the piece is assured, and the author, Mr. W. Somerset Maugham, is to be congratulated on his brilliant and sparkling effort. Mrs. Dot is preceded by A Lively Dinner, which was also received with favour.

Royal Princess's.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—Mr. James Bell this week presents an interesting drama of Parisian life in The Idol of Paris, in which Miss Annie Bell gives a magnificent rendering of Flare-Flare, a variety star, a wayward but good-hearted woman swayed with contending passions. Mr. Charles Stafford as Victor Cashelle represents with great acceptance a French nobleman who ultimately marries the "idol." A grand figure finely played by Mr. Gordon Robey is Prince Sergius Zoresky, of a Russian secret society; Mr. Wilson Howard as Phillipe d'Esterre gives a strong picture of a Parisian man-about-town. This somewhat serious drama is enlivened by the exquisite comedy supplied by Miss Annie Megson as Anne and Mr. Frank Dale as Tatave; while Miss Phena Powell as Mme. Sancterre, a severely censorious old lady, adds much to the fun. Mr. Chris Roberts as Theo Decline represents a typical Frenchman; while Mr. R. J. Hamer amusingly pictures the stage doorkeeper. A natural portrayal of a family lawyer is given by Mr. Pringle Roberts as Gustave Langloise. Ably-handled characters are Olympia Sosage, a stage dresser, by Miss Grace Noble; Rachel Bernhardt by Miss P. Anderson, and a confidential servant by Mr. Richard O'Neil.

Metropole, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—The attractive drama The Girl with the Angel Face is presented here this week by Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Willard's company. Miss Florrie Green takes the character of Angel Leigh, and fills it with great effect; while Mr. Fred G. Evison as Jasper Death is seen to advantage. Admirable support is given by Messrs. H. Naylor Grimson, Austin Mortimer, Arthur Gilroy, Dobell Lyle, Allan Charles, Miss Mildred Carr, Miss Phyllis Dailley, and other members of the company. The scenery is pretty and effective, and a large audience showed their marked approval of the production on the opening night.

Lyceum.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Mr. Walter Melville's company, in that taking and popular drama The Soldier's Wedding, has moved from the Princess's, and is proving equally successful here, a crowded house enjoying every scene of it on Monday evening.

Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Manners.—Gus Elen is the star here, and in his scena "The Wrong-'Un's Bedroom" he gives a clever turn; while his other songs go with a fine swing. Queenie Leighton scores with a dramatis song, "On and off the stage," very cleverly worked up; Mendel, the blind pianist, again proves his marvellous memory and wonderful ability, while several of his items contain a welcome touch of humour in addition; Ludwig Amann once more impersonates the great ones of the past and present with wondeful fidelity; David Stewart is well received for his American illustrated songs; a hand-balancing turn of more than usual merit is given by the Paxton Trio, and was accorded a great reception; Daisy Martell is a neat dancer; Fatmah Diard is a soprano vocalist of ability; and Will Johnson is a lively and energetic comedian.

Zoo-Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Councillor E. H. Bostock; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. H. A. Bostock.—The most exacting of Councillor Bostock's patrons cannot but congratulate him on the fare he has placed before them this week, every item on the programme being most interesting. The Macdonald Trio appear in a musical scena with a rustic setting; Lily Tiso sang well, but appeared to greatest advantage in a Dutch song and dance; the Cheers put their performing cats through an entertaining show, the evidence of careful training being most marked; Hallam and Stanton give an enjoyable sketch, brightened by some fine vocalisation; the Melroses (Lalla and Mat), in a comedy duo, introduce some capital mimicry of society manners, and also some fine dancing and singing; Mme. Florence Kay, a contralto of excellent quality, furnishes a good account of herself in a few popular songs; the Lafaille Troupe submit a gymnastic and equilibristic show of a most original and sensational order; Bradley and Barnes, an American singing and comedy duo, score with some smart dialogue and harmonious duets; the sporting sketch, Black versus White, is of a thrilling nature and is well presented, the acting of Miss Mabel Wynn being especially impressive. The cast also includes Jephtha, the coloured boxing champion of England and Africa, who participates in an exciting set-to during the sketch. The Bioscope concludes.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Evan Good.—Whit Cunliffe again tops the bill here, and this excellent light comedian (who is to be in Glasgow at pantomime time) comes provided with several clever new songs. A novel turn, but quite evidently to the taste of the audience, is provided in three scenes from The Grip of Iron, with Fredk. Powell in his famous part of Simmonette, the strangler. Alix Lukos, in a song-scena, gives half a dozen clever impersonations of famous men; the Four Maisanos contribute a clever and amusing musical turn; Belle Davis and her Pick-chicks catch on greatly in their song and dance items; Tom E. Hughes again contributes his amusing study of an out-at-elbows swell; Spry and Monti, in a smart turn; Nancy St. John and Billie Burford, comediennes; and Wilfred Burnand, who gives a life-like imitation of Neil Kenyon, are also popular items on a lengthy programme.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—The Selbinis, in their really wonderful trick cycling, make a first-rate star turn here, and are heartily received. Leoni Clarke, the cat king, introduces his varied and interesting collection of trained animals; Ernest Rees, comedian, is very amusing in his songs and patter; Will Harris is a smart dancer; the Hyde and Cody Trio of acrobats are responsible for an enjoyable item; Marie Blythe's songs go well; Bliss and Bliss shine as comedians and dancers; Rita and Roma are accorded deserved applause for their clever act; and the Bioscope is kept up to date.

Coliseum. — Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—Charles Darnley's company in The Brigands of Tarragona affords half an hour's continuous laughter, the principal characters being taken by Charles H. Bell and Annette Sellens. The Lancashire Singers, in their various part-songs, show splendid training; clever protean work is done by Herbert Shelley in his Irish episode Dan the Outlaw; the musical sketch of Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas is a pleasing feature; and the wonderful exhibition of hoop rolling by Frank L. Gregory's troupe commands hearty applause. The music-hall tit-bits of Gus Garrick are highly amusing; Tennyson and Wallis have always something good; and Daisy James scores with her umbrella-hat song.

Gaiety, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—Fair business has been done here this week, the special attraction being the appearance of Will Probyn's Brooklyn Comedy Four in an entertainment entitled "The Mirthful Mariners." Their quartettes are very well rendered, and worth hearing. The basso profundo has a voice of telling quality. Oliver Conroy, the popular comedian, gives some old and new songs from his répertoire, and meets with much encouragement; Jim Harte's company presents a mirth-provoking absurdity entitled The Virginian Mummy, the various parts being well sustained by Messrs. Harte, J. H. Richmonde, C. F. Bradie, and Miss Nelly Devere in a way that goes to make a fine entertainment. The Bioscope display, which is always an important feature here, is unusually interesting this week.

Panopticon.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—Among the variety artists Fred Lester, descriptive vocalist, is the principal, and his several songs were heartily applauded; while Miss Lillie Vere is a sprightly comedienne and dancer. France and Francis, comedy acrobats, also pro-

Makes the Skin as Soft as Velvet.—Beetham's "La-rola" preserves the Skin from the effects of the sun, winds, and hard water. Entirely removes and prevents all roughness, redness, irritation, tan, &c., and Keeps the Skin Soft, Smooth, and White at All Seasons. Invaluable for the Complexion; Delightfully Soothing and Refreshing after cycling, motoring, golfing, tennis &c. Gentlemen will find it won vided capital amusement; and not the least interesting part of the entertainment is that portrayed by the Bioscope with a splendid series of amusing and instructive pictures.

GLOUCESTER.—PALACE.—Proprietors, Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. C. W. Poole.—The De Wynne Bros., athletes, with a quiet and effective style, are first favourites here; Karr and Kooney, in new business, go as well as ever; the Brothers Harrison, with their eccentricities, cause roars of laughter; Rozel, in his gymnastic performance, is applauded; and the Five Juanitos, with acrobatic speciality, are extremely smart. The Sisters Ford sing a couple of character duets well, and the Miltons are a clever couple of skaters; Miss Ivy Adelaide is a bright comedienne and dancer, and Mr. Dan Filmer amuses with comic songs.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors, Poole's Theatres, Ltd.—The popularity of animated pictures is shown by Messrs. Pooles relying entirely on that form of entertainment in catering for the patrons at this theatre. Illustrated songs are interspersed.

GOOLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Fred Greaves.—Mr. Carr Loates' company opened here on Monday in the musical comedy drama At the World's Mercy. Mr. L. Rodway as Captain Frank Manley gives an excellent piece of acting; the rôle of the villain, Jabez Barber, is ably taken by Mr. Carr Loates; Mr. G. D. Knight is an excellent Morris Goldstein; Mr. J. Boxer as Charley Smart and Miss C. Milford in the dual-rôle of Skittles and Kitty Knolt keep the house continually amused, their songs and dances being well received; Miss K. Saunders is a delightful Dot; Miss M. Bee plays with much spirit the rôle of Alice Lloyd; Mr. W. Griffin gives able support as Slouching Sam; and Mr. W. Leonard works hard as Dan. The musical drama A London Outcast is announced for the latter part of the week.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — ROYAL AQUARIUM. — Sole Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company are appearing here this week in Leah Kleschna. Mr. William Clayton gives a strong portrayal of Kleschna; Mr. Hamilton Deane delicately handles the character of Paul Sylvaine; Mr. Algernon J. Hicks makes an excellent degenerate Raoul; Mr. Gilbert Heron gives a clever character study of Schram; Mr. Charles Barrett is a good General Barton; and Miss Bessie Rignold gives a sympathetic rendering of the reclaimed Leah.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. George Gilbert.—The Derrington Family of cyclists, are very popular; Sisters Transfield appear in a clever musical act; Woolmer Young is an excellent comedian; Ernesto is an exceptionally smart juggler; Bros. Bright are ideal athletes; Donal McDougall is a big success; Doodles is back again creating much merriment.

BRITANNIA PIER PAVILION.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—Arthur Norton is creating a sensation as a wrestler; Kitty Lorraine is a pleasing comedienne; the Brontes appear in a smart duologue, entitled "Saucy Maud"; Mostoc is a clever instrumentalist; Len Keppel is a good comedian; and Ena Soutar, soprano, and Rose Gower, vocalist, complete the programme.

THE GEM.—Proprietors, the Yarmouth Amusement Centre, Ltd.; Resident-Director, Mr. C. B. Cockran.—An excellent set of films is being shown here this week, including A Case for Sherlock Holmes, A Workman's Honour, and Viligant Police Commissioner. The illustrated songs, "Bombardier," "When the Berry's on the Holly," are very popular.

GREENOCK. — ALEXANDRA THEATRE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—Mr. George Dance's company top the bill here in the lively musical comedy sketch The Burglars' Ball with undeniable success; Fanny Robina, burlesque artist, is accorded a big reception; the Acmes are seen to advantage in a musical act; and smart turns are contributed by Florry Cooper, descriptive vocalist; Fred Smart, comedian; and Billie Bint. The Alexandroscope proves an interesting item.

EMPIRE. — Responsible-Manager, Mr. Edward McCormick; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. J. Colquhoun.—Harvey's American Boys and Girls are the principal attraction here, and submit a popular song and dance speciality; Venturini presents his illusion, "The Mysterious Bedroom"; Ryan and Hill give a clever and amusing acrobatic turn; and other good items include Ethel Loftus, the comedy girl; Tom Garland, ventriloquist; Mark Leslie, the swell coon; Bert Anderson, society conjurer; and the Bioscope.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry L. Skivington. — The programme here includes Sears, the American illusionist, who holds the audience spellbound with his amazing tricks; Walker and Lake prove very popular comedians; the cycling turn by the Westwoods is highly appreciated; and others who appear successfully are Shawlene, the well-known siffleur and mimic; Selbo, an expert club juggler; Mabelle May, comedienne and dancer; Charles Banks, with his dog Wolf; and the Claymores, dancing jugglers; while the Dromoscope shows an amusing series of pictures.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—Diana of Dobson's, presented by Miss Lena Ashwell's company, is being received with enthusiasm, and on Tuesday evening the Mayor and Mayoress of Grimsby, accompanied by several members of the Corporation, paid an official visit to the theatre. Miss Emelie Polini appears as Diana, and her fine acting in the emotional scenes, as well as in the lighter comedy parts, is greatly admired; Mr. Frank Woolfe is also responsible for excellent work as Captain Bretherton, portraying this member of what Diana calls "the ornamental class" with good effect; Mr. W. Kingsford-Pearce accomplishes good character acting as Sir Jabez Grinlay; Miss Gwynneth Galton is successful as Mrs. Cantelupe; Mr. Edward Harrison is good as P.C. Fellowes; Miss Dorothy Garth gives a clever impersonation of an old woman, and also represents Miss Jay; whilst the other shop girls are ably played by Miss Violet Gould as Miss Smithers, Miss Eva Lonsdale as Miss Kitty Brant, and Miss Olga Esme as Miss Morton; whilst Miss Daisy England as Miss Pringle and Miss Clarissa Selwynne as Mrs. Whyte-Fraser also do good work. Diana of Dobson's is preceded by The Bishop's Candlesticks.

THE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Jack Pleasants' quaint comedy is as highly appreciated as ever, and he is presenting excellent new songs; Simms and Simms introduce a pleasing instrumental turn, combined with an abundance of humour; Terry and Bentley are clever comedy artists, the lady dancing prettily, and the gentleman accomplishing smart acrobatic work; Gracie Grahame retains her popularity as a comedienne; Nell Emerald is a vivacious singer with good songs, and also dances well; Don and Mabel appear in a capital vocal speciality.

GUERNSEY.—THEATRE ST. JULIAN'S.—Lessee, Mr. Ed. Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—This week we have E. Selman, character-comedian; Daisy Hurdle, comedienne; Jimson's Pets at Home; Leonard Gorney, speciality dancer, delighted all; Capt. Ellis and Son, clever instrumentalists, in their comedy musical act; Lucie Bernard, in capital illustrated songs; the Four Kelleys, in a smart acrobatic act; and Raymond's Bio-tableaux.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company is here with Lady Frederick. Miss Mabel Love is charming everyone by her portrayal of Lady Frederick Berolles; Sir Gerald O'Mara is ably taken by Mr. Patrick Quill; as the cool, blasé Paradine Fouldes Mr. Robert Minster gives a magnificent performance; Miss Eleanor Delaporte is effective and well placed as Lady Mereston; Mr. E. F. Meads' Lord Mereston is one of the hits of the play. His acting in Act 3 is a triumph. Mr. Edward Bonfield is good as Captain Montgomery; Captain Gerald Gambier is an ideal old salt as Admiral Carlisle; Miss Lynn Fontanne is suited to the part of Rose. The subordinate parts are exceedingly well played. Lady Frederick is preceded by The Peacemaker.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Pictures are again the attraction at this house. Vicky, the premier English mandolinist, and Nance Elder, comedienne, also appear.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Reg. H. Foster.—H. O. Wills is proving immensely popular with the Palace audiences, his eccentric comedy bringing down the house; Cassie Walmer is a clever comedienne, well received and smartly dressed; Annie Heath is a capable singer and clever dancer; the Five Broadway Girls give every satisfaction; Keith and Merson, comedians, Bros. St. Clair, trick cyclists, Gladys and Alber, clever acrobatic comedy artists, also appear.

HAMILTON, N.B.—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. René Clayton. — Mr. Harry Roxbury's company, with Mr. Tubby Edlin as the bright particular star, is topping the bill and proving an excellent draw here in The Prince of Monte Carlo. Dolly Denton is a dainty comedienne; and the Brothers Zenary are excellent in a novel acrobatic turn. Godfrey James, the singing collier, is well received in a couple of songs; and Mr. Pat Lynch dances very cleverly. Jack Neil is a amusing Scotch comedian; Sid Kenneth and Maud Kane amuse in their comedy duo, "Just a Few Words"; Blake and Amber are clever in a bit of burlesque business entitled Sowing a Little Seed; and the Bioscope, with some interesting films, concludes.

HANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Douglas Elphinstone.—Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company is presenting Peter's Mother. Miss Lilias Earle as Lady Mary is natural and unforced, her beautiful elocution being a great treat; Mr. Eille Norwood as John Crewys artistically fills the rôle with a charm of manner and expression rarely seen; Mr. Vivian Gilbert's Peter is highly commendable; Mr. Townsend Whitling plays Sir Timothy with great skill; Miss Hilda Sims has a pretty part as Sarah, which she plays perfectly; Mr. Walter Russell as the Canon is most praiseworthy; Mr. Edward Jephson as Dr. Blundell proves himself a gifted actor; Miss Mary Griffiths as Lady Belstone plays in a most natural manner; the part of Miss G. Crewys is well sustained by Miss Josephine Rae; Miss Ada Rainey (Mrs. Hawell), Mr. P. Wright (Ash), and Mr. S. Smith (a footman) also do well. There is a pretty curtain-raiser entitled Turtle Doves.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—A splendid all-round programme is submitted this week, which includes Alf Gibson, a quaint comedian, who sings three songs successfully; Harry Simms, a smart swell comedian; Tom and Marie Motrama, who made a gigantic hit, and are reluctantly allowed to retire; Spencer and Marks, speciality comedians; Calile and Walker, who are the essence of smartness; Baker and Balfe, xylophone players; Jenny Manningo, in a daring and novel heavy juggling act. Raymond's Biotableaux shows very clearly and distinctly Motor Racing in the Isle of Man and Yacht Racing in the Solent. A great attraction is Gipsy Woolf, in a magnificently staged and luxuriantly dressed song-scena, The Margate Mermaid. It is very pretty, and great assistance is given by six clever ladies. Raymonds have installed a new Bioscope at the Grand, and a great improvement is noticeable in the pictures.

KING'S.—Lessees, Messrs. Moore and Kennedy; Acting-Manager and Operator, Capt. F. Shaw.—A finer programme has not been presented than this week's series of pictures, chief of which are The Fisherman's Daughter, Salome Dance, Grandfather's Pills, Enoch Arden, Tramp in Clover, Crazy Conjurer, Moving In, and Catch Me If You Can. Miss Ethel Yorke is a charming comedienne, with sweet voice and catchy chorus songs.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding Smith.—For the first three nights of this week the incomparable Ellen Terry makes her first appearance in Harrogate in Geo. Bernard Shaw's Captain Brassbound's Conversion. Miss Terry gives a delightful performance as Lady Cicely, always natural and genuinely amusing; Mr. James Carew makes a fearless and manly Capt. Brassbound, and Mr. George Fitzgerald is duly snobbish and dignified as Sir Howard Hallam; Mr. Story-Gofton supplies a clever sketch of the Rev. Leslie Rankin, and Mr. Max Montesole is funny as the unwashed Mr. Felix Drinkwater; Mr. Hay Cameron is dignified and impressive as the Cadi, and small parts are in effective hands. Miss Terry's gown, by Miss Edith Craig, was greatly admired. The play was very well mounted. For the rest of the week Mr. Louis Calvert's company was billed in Sunday.

THE KURSAAL.—General-Manager and Musical-Director, Mr. Julian Clifford; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. R. Eldrid.—Mr. Wilfred Virgo is the vocalist this week, and the Munograph is showing new films. Three changes per week.

HARTLEPOOL.—EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. C. Ferrier.—The pictures this week are drawing crowded houses at each exhibition. The list of films includes two very interesting ones—The Dublin Horse Show and The Launch of the Menas Geraes; Mother's Darlings, The Magic Sack, and The Rocking-Chair cause considerable amusement, and a host of others are thoroughly enjoyed.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—We are favoured this week with the welcome visit of Mr. Edward Compton and his famous comedy company, which opened on Monday with Davy Garrick. Mr. Compton played the name-rôle for the 1,459th time, and achieved his customary success; Miss Kathleen Leigh was a charming Violet; and the whole cast assisted in a perfect representation. The one-act comedy, The Desperate Lover, preceded. Miss Viola Compton gave a pleasing performance as Mistress Prue, and was ably supported by Misses Marie Hassell and Jess Morton, and Messrs. Henry Worrall, Neville Clifford, Lawrence Meade, Ivan Leslie, Wallace Johnston, and J. W. Austin. The other plays billed are The Rivals, The Gentleman in Grey, The School for Scandal, and A Reformed Rake. Mr. Henry Crocker stage-managed.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Vivian-Fisher; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Walter Norman.—George Dante, an entertaining comedian, appears first on the programme; a series of pictures of agricultural life in Canada is graphically depicted on the Bioscope; a very pleasing vocalist is seen and heard in Miss Dora Harrison; an American duologue by Fred Pollard and Kitty Grey is very amusing; the delightful ballad singing of Miss Bessie Watson, who renders her songs with sweetness and expression, wins the hearts of all her listeners; the Indian Hercules exhibits remarkable feats of strength, breaking any coin in halves given him from the audience; the droll manner and sayings of Roderick Dew afford plenty of laughter material; Tee and Tee keep the audience in good humour; and an interesting sketch is introduced by Wake and Dean.

PIER PAVILION. — General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—Mr. Arthur B. Malden is giving a series of cinematograph lectures of visits to different parts of Europe. These include on respective evenings Ireland, Switzerland, Italy, &c. One of the most interesting is a tour though the Italian cities. Mr. Malden describes the views represented in a concise and graphic manner. From Dover Harbour we are taken to Paris, where an animated scene is shown of the Champs Elysees; from thence to Turin, Genoa, and Rome. In Rome the principal objects are exhibited, and the adjacent resorts of tourists are realistically displayed. Each lecture concludes with a visit to the White City.

PUBLIC HALL.—The People's Picture Palace Company, so well managed locally by Mr. Henry Gray, present an excellent series of animated pictures this week. Among them, The Black Princess, depicting exciting scenes in the Soudan, An Arabian Legend, dealing with rival Persian carpet merchants, and The Bully and the Recruit are good samples.

ST. LEONARD'S PIER. — Entertainment Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas. — This week the farcical comedy In the Soup is presented by Mr. Ernest Dare and excellent company, the piece being capitally stage-managed by Mr. Leo St. Clair. Horace Gillibrand has a very suitable exponent in Mr. Erik Charles Stirling, who well realises the possibilities of the rôle; Miss M. Lowe-Dare is high-spirited as Judith Gillibrand, and plays the part in excellent style; Mr. Ernest Dare as Abernethy Ruppershawe gives point to the selfish characteristics of the rôle, and makes things lively all round; Mr. James Westfield is amusing as Bates, and Mrs. Bates is well impersonated by a lady whose name is not in the cast for the part; Mr. Leo St. Clair does well as Paul Hemming; the Moppert family have good representatives in Mr. Lionel Waltham as the French father, Miss Kate Lang as Mme. la mère, and Miss Elizabeth Lang as Delphine, who respectively add much to the tout ensemble. The remaining rôles have suitable exponents, and the piece is well dressed and adequately staged.

HEREFORD.—GARRICK THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. P. Barnsley.—Messrs. M. Alwyne and A. W. Thompson's company is giving us an opportunity of renewing acquaintance with the ever-popular My Sweetheart. Mr. Wilfred Brandon acquits himself admirably as Tony, and his musical numbers are rendered in a manner that gains great praise; Miss Violet Hurley is a fascinating Tina, and wins success with her acting, singing, and dancing; Mr. M. Alwyne submits a most amusing and telling study of Dudley Harcourt; a fine exhibition of character acting is given by Mr. A. W. Thompson as Joe Shotwell; Miss K. Brathy is eminently satisfactory as Mrs. Fleeter; and other parts are in capable hands.

HORWICH.—NEW PRINCES'.—Lessees, The Horwich Theatre Co.; Manager, Mr. R. H. White.—This week Miss Rose Moncrieff provides the attraction, The Bells of Old York and The Curate. In the former Miss Rose Moncrieff gives an excellent rendering of the dual-rôle, Angel Grantham and Trumpeter Romney Kent; Mr. W. Carriden plays satisfactorily the part of Captain Romney Kent to perfection; Mr. Rass Challis, the author of both pieces, plays the muscular parson, the Rev. Philip Gordon, and arouses well-merited approval. In The Curate, Mr. Challis again plays the parson cleverly; Mr. W. Carriden as Gilbert Westwood is a truculent villain; Mr. F. Caranah does well as an old English gentleman; Fred Davis as the yokel is amusing; Mr. Dick Eckersley is much in evidence as Sergeant Snipe; and Miss Moncrieff gives a very fine performance as Dick the Trumpeter. Miss Maud Hastings plays May Verner in a pathetic manner, and Miss Gussie Everitt as Katinka is effective, Miss Dot Robins as the garrulous Mrs. Muggs creating roars of laughter.

HUDDERSFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. J. Phillips.—Mr. J. W. Turner and company are here on a return visit. On Monday was presented The Lily of Killarney. Mr. J. W. Turner sang with much skill as Myles na-Coppaleen; Miss Christine Gomez sang sweetly as Eily; Mr. Charles Le Sueur displayed commendable vocal ability as Hardress Cregan; and Mr. Tom Griffiths was very effective as Danny Man. Maritana, Il Trovatore, Daughter of the Regiment, Martha, Faust, and the evergreen Bohemian Girl are also in the repertory.

HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—In the most attractive programme provided this week we have Chas. and Lily Charlene, in their juggling and musical entertainment; Miss Sara Rosebury, refined comedienne; the Alberto troupe of equilibrists; Maurin's novel Fairy Fountains; Frank Leslie, comedian; Viviana and company, in a well-arranged dancing scena entitled "The Toy Shop"; Frank Elliston and company in the brightly-written costume play My Lady Betty; and some interesting films on the Bioscope.

HULL.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Morton's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—An appreciative audience have given welcome to Robert Courtneidge's company in The Dairymaids this week. The dressing and mounting are worthy of the production, and the company is one that reflects credit upon Mr. Courtneidge's discrimination. Peggy, in the hands of Miss Clare Marsden, is a charming personage, her singing of the "Sandow Girls" and "Little Stranger" catching on with the house. Mr. Johnny Osborne is a favourite in Hull, and his last visit in Tom Jones is remembered to his credit. His Joe Mivens is most amusing. Miss Gladys Silvani is an excellent Eliza. The remainder of the cast are all capable, and The Dairymaids speaks another success for the management.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Manager, Mr. Tom Bogue.—After a lapse of years that inimitable and sterling comedian Mr. Ed. Terry is here for a week in répertoire, the plays produced including the ever-popular Sweet Lavender, with Mr. Terry in the rôle which has brought him fame in every corner of England. Phenyl is undoubtedly one of Mr. Terry's best parts. As Sweet Lavender Miss Gwendolen Wren plays most sympathetically; Miss Edith Coleman was all that we wished for as Minnie Gilfillian; Mr. Kenneth Brampton was cast as Clement Hale; and read his part satisfactorily; as Mrs. Gilfillian excellent service was done by Miss Sophie Lingwood; Miss Agnes Knight was a clever Ruth. Liberty Hall, The Magistrate, and Fiander's Widow have been in the bill. In each and every rôle Mr. Terry did himself justice.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Under the title of Married to the Wrong Woman a strong drama is served up at the Alexandra this week. Miss Gertrude Boswell makes a striking Ruth; Capt. Gladwin finds a fitting representative in Mr. Oswald Craig; and Mr. Chas. Vivian's Jasper Skinner is commendable.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—Tom Fay and company appear with the old success, The Yorkshire Lad in London, and Pat in China is presented by Fay Bros.; the Sisters Jonghmans' vocal efforts are greatly appreciated. Other artists include Sidney Dolf, the Cecelias, the Lannons, and Tom Gatt. Mr. Graham celebrated his third anniversary of the opening of this hall, when extra turns were provided.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Slingsby.—A Broken Promise, a musical absurdity, presented by Stanley and Vandyke, assisted by Horace and Edmunds, is the hit of the bill this week; Mr. E. is a very witty turn; Munro's Black and White Comedy Team appear with much success. Other favourites include Emma Don, Rose D'Aulby, the Evalos, and the Sprees.

THE CIRCUS.—Manager, Mr. E. Emerson.—Mr. Sydney Carter's pictures have commenced again here.

ILKESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—The Mystery of Edwin Drood is the attraction this week, the players being the company of Mr. Morton Powell. Mrs. Powell is seen in the rôle of Rosa Bud, to which she does justice; Mr. Bartlett Garth displays much ability in the heavy part of John Jasper; Mr. G. Ridgway Thorne makes the most of his opportunities as Edwin Drood; and Mr. J. Henry Twyford is in good form as Neville Landless, whilst Mr. Richard Harris is all that can be desired as Septimus Chrisparkle. Durdles finds an amusing representative in Mr. David Phillips; Miss May Beatrice as Helena Landless gives a pleasing performance; Deputy and Princess Puffer are suitably represented by the Misses Jennie Risley and Addie Adair.

ILKLEY. — BRIDGE PAVILION. — Lessee, Mr. Sydney Carter; Manager, Mr. Edwin Bryan.—The New Century Pictures still draw crowded houses, there being a change of films every week; Mr. Will Fieldhouse, the Yorkshire humorist, is paying a visit this week, his songs and patter being much appreciated.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors, the Ilkley Urban District Council; Manager, Mr. Frank Hall.—Fabbro's Royal Electric Singing and Talking Pictures are here, and good houses testify to the quality of the entertainment provided. In addition to a fine display of animated pictures, the Fabbro's Columba Quartette gives some good selections. Others on the bill are Mr. Leslie Sears, character comedian and impersonator; Miss Bessie Farrell, comedienne; Mr. Cecil Bradley, tenor; and Miss May Vincent, American soubrette.

IPSWICH.—LYCEUM.—Mr. W. Payne Seddon presents Mr. Comyns Carr's dramatised version of Dickens' "Mystery of Edwin Drood." Mr. C. H. Croker King in the part of John Jasper gives a fine interpretation; Edwin Drood is capably played by Mr. Riddell Robinson; Mr. Leslie Rea does well as Mr. Crisparkle; Mr. Charles Bruce is effective as Neville Landless; and Mr. Edward Thirlby is satisfactory as Mr. Grewgious. Mr. Lloyd Townrow is an amusing Durdles, and Rosa Budd, in the keeping of Miss Nita Charlton, is charming, as also is Helena Landless, as played by Miss Gladys Jonson; Mrs. William Mallalieu scores as the proprietress of the opium den; and the Misses Eleanor Gilbert, Laura Bolt, and Agnes Byron, and Irene Ross all deserve honourable mention. The singing of the Choir Boys from Nolan's Academy is effective.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The strong bill here this week is headed by Miss May Moore Duprez, who is as vivacious as ever; the Faludy Troupe of acrobats give a really marvellous exhibition of daring; the Austral Trio, in a mélange, entitled A Musical Evening, are accomplished musicians as well as amusing mimics; the Prince Milner Trio are clever performers on the tight wire, and especially with hoops; the Melbournes give a bright duologue; Will Walton and Peter Bermingham sing parodies; Ray and Lingard caused much merriment with a sketch entitled The First of April; and the Bioscope concludes.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson.—This week Mr. Reginald Dance and company present Raffles. Mr. Lewis Edgard gives an excellent portrayal of the part of A. J. Raffles, while Mr. C. Kean does full justice to the part of Mr. Curtis Bedford; Mr. Arthur Bell is well placed as Harry Manders, and Mr. Oswald Griffiths gives a capable rendering of the part of Crawshay; Mr. P. Alexander looks and plays the part of Lord Amersteth to perfection, and Miss Brenda Gibson gives a first-class rendering of the part of Mrs. Vidal; while Miss B. Marsdene plays the part of Gwendoline Conron with skill; and Miss Eva Bevington does full justice to the character of Marie. The piece is preceded each evening by the comedietta Jerry and a Sunbeam, which is well received.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. E. Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—The vaudeville season closes here this week. The star turn is the Four Kelleys, in a truly marvellous acrobatic act; Daisy Hurdle, a chic comedienne, should procure a couple of songs more suited to her charming personality; Jimson's dogs are clever tykes; Leonard Gorney is a good speciality dancer; and other turns are E. W. Selman, comedian; Capt. Ellis and son in comedy musical act; and Lucie Bernard with illustrated songs. The entertainment ends with Raymond's Bio-tableaux.

KIDDERMINSTER. — NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Gudgeon.—This week Messrs. Alfred Northway and W. V. Garrod present the drama The Prodigal Parson. In the rôle of the Rev. Tom Gadley, Mr. Logan Darra excels; Mr. Alfred Northway ably portrays the character of Enoch Jaggins; and Mr. Chas. Ashwell that of Ben Jaggins; Messrs. Walter Vincent and Owen Remonde are good respectively as Ned Kettlepin and Phil Drive, a handyman at the vicarage; Miss Violet Hammersley plays the part of Fern Gadley in an artistic manner. The play is well staged.

KIRKCALDY.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—A capital bill this week is headed by Miss May Henderson, the dusky comedy queen, who is making a great hit; Mr. Dion Wade proves himself a comedian of undoubted ability; Lochlynne, the farmyard mimic, has a rousing reception; and Mr. Percy Maye as a female impersonator is marvellous, his serpentine dance being worthy of particular notice. Miss Beattie Bloom is a good comedienne with capital songs, and a smart and funny juggler is Wisper; Miss Jeannie Deans, Scotch comedienne, is a clever dancer. The Bioscope concludes.

LANCASTER. — GRAND THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. C. Howitt.—Mr. Lingford Carson's company is here under the direction of Mr. George A. De Gray in A Fight for a Throne. Mr. John S. Millward appears to advantage as Jack Fortesque; Mr. Gerald Bryne is well cast as the King of Saxovinia; Mr. Charles E. Linney is an admirable Prince Otto, and Mr. Tom Roydan is well suited to the rôle of General Ronda. As the Princess Esmee Miss Dora Hammersley has the full sympathy of the audience; Miss Margaretta Tueski shows marked ability as Countess Lorenski, and Miss Emmeline B. Lewis plays well as Lady Pat.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. John Porter and W. J. Fergusson.—W. Fullbrook and company appear here in a sketch Astronomy, which has a good reception; the Brothers Webb, musical clowns, win well-deserved encores; George Penn, comedian, is very funny; Henri Bekker does some smart tricks; Vera Vere and Tommy Nelidon sing and dance nicely; Ajax and George are clever gymnasts, and Maud Vera sings tunefully. The Hippograph continues to prove an attraction.

LEAMINGTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. George Anthony.—A good all-round bill is this week headed by Sergeant Brennan, who is aptly described as the gyroscopic marvel. His clever performance of the Diabolo order is amazing. Collette and Derry, in their farcical duologue, provide much amusement; the Dunvilles' comedy musical act is an entertaining item; and other turns include Charles Collette, an old Leamington favourite, in songs and sketches; Luna Lyndon, comedienne and dancer; Jessie Buckle, comedienne; Percy Johnson, comedian; and the Paolias, in a graceful athletic act. The Premier Imperial pictures add interest to the programme.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Mr. H. B. Irving and Miss Dorothea Baird are paying a most welcome visit to this theatre this week, opening on Monday to a full and enthusiastic audience with The Lyons Mail. Mr. Irving scored a great success in the exacting dual rôle of Dubosc and Lesurges, and received a rare ovation at the close; Miss Baird played the somewhat meagre part of Janette in perfect style, and also delighted her audience with an accomplished portrayal of the principal part in The Sergeant of Hussars, the curtain-raiser. Hamlet, Louis XI., and The Bells form the répertoire for the remainder of the week.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—Another of Mr. Walter Melville's popular melodramas, The Female Swindler, is proving acceptable fare at this theatre. The central character of Lu Valroy is most effectively portrayed by Miss Violet Ellicott; the detective, John Coulson, gets a capable and successful impersonation at the hands of Mr. Jerrold Heather; Mikestein is a telling character-study by Mr. Fred Rignold; the humorous element is made the most of by Mr. John Hitchen and Miss Bella Moody, and is a most enjoyable feature.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—A laughable comedy sketch is here presented by Daley Cooper, Mabel Lait, and company, and is well received; an accomplished and interesting turn is that of L'Incognita, a masked vocalist; James Stewart is as entertaining as ever at the piano; Syd May mimics well-known comedians cleverly; the Proveanies are seen in an expert cycling speciality; and Frank Seeley, Will Poluski, jun., the Three Welsh Girls, and Georgina Leno are particularly interesting turns.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—Popular Marie Loftus is at the head of a strong bill, and with clever new items rendered in her best style wins the demonstrative appreciation of her audience. Leo Fields is vastly amusing in a novel speciality; and Harry Anderson adds to a big reputation as vocal comedian.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford.—R. G. Knowles is leading here. Michael Nolan is again a success as raconteur and comedian; juggling extraordinary by B. Troba is a much-applauded feature; Willie Gardner does a novel and effective turn on roller skates; the Van Host Trio are capital entertainers; and there are also good turns by Wright and Lawson, the Three Orros, the Panamas, Rosie Reval, and Norah Stockelle.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Always a warm favourite, Ella Shields is again delighting her numerous admirers with clever new items; Ferris and May are popular with comedy entertainment; Lily Lonsdale, a pleasing vocalist, is scoring well; Ernie Myers and Fame and Fortune are acceptable humorists; whilst the Saletos, in a neat speciality, and Alice Maude, a child vocalist, also win much applause.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. Charles Hermann.—A distinct change from the usual form of theatre entertainment is being made here this week by the first appearance locally of H. G. Pélissier and "The Follies." Their versatility is immense, and their "potted plays" too funny for words. The artists, all of whom are to be heartily congratulated on their cleverness, include Norman A. Blume, Gwennie Mars, Lewis Sydney, Ethel Allandale, Muriel George, Dan Everard, Dollis Brooke, and H. G. Pélissier.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—A strong attraction is being presented here this week by the return visit of the romantic play The Assassin, which is exceedingly well portrayed by Mr. Augustine Knight's company. In the name-part Miss Ella Vane is conspicuous with a powerful performance; and Mr. Augustine Knight as Prince Demetri is also a thorough success, the duel between the two in the third act creating great excitement. Mr. H. Bonhote Wilson is excellent as Ivan Ipanoff, the same remark applying to Miss Eva Trevenna as Nita; Miss Hettie Senior is good as Connie Jonathan; Mr. Edwin Jenner (the general-manager of the company) plays well as Captain O'Neil; Mr. Edward Fryer is capital as General Nicol; and Mr. Edward Swinton as Baron Alphonse, Mr. Tom J. Taylor as Peter, and Miss Marie E. Robertson as Katrina, are also prominent with humorous and clever performances. The play is well staged and dressed.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—A good all-round programme here is headed by George Gray and company in The Fighting Parson, which well maintains its immense popularity among all sections of the audience, the various characters being capably billed and the staging a special feature. Barton and Ashley, in a new farcical creation, Adam the Second, are scoring a well-deserved success with a mirth-provoking turn; Harry Tate's No. 1 company present the uproarious skit Motoring to the delight of all; the Leonards (Bob and Jennie) make a hit with their funny and smartly-enacted comedy act, Point Duty; the Carina Sisters are seen and heard to great advantage in a refined musical melange; Jack Hayworth creates much laughter as the queer young Lancashire lad; Carl Howard, in a humorous skit on conjuring and second sight, is very amusing; Gaumont's Chronomegaphone depicts in a lifelike manner selections by Will Evans and Victoria Monks; and the Bioscope is a feature with The Story of a Broken Heart. Barton and Ashley did not appear on Tuesday owing to illness.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Lawrence.—The star attraction for the Fair Week here is the British boxing champion, Gunner Moir, who is taking on all comers. Interesting pictures of his fight with Burns are shown on the Bioscope, and lectured on by Major Best. Mr. N. W. Phillips and company are retained over a second week, and are presenting the tabloid drama, A Just Reward, and the comedy-sketch, Muggins' Matrimonial Muddle; Cliff and Kean are popular comedy artists and smart dancers; the Gelders give a cleverly-worked magical act; Alf. Ripon, the Scotch ventriloqnist, is well received for a good and entertaining show; Ivy Dene is a capital serio and dancer; and Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope retains its great popularity with Hurrah for Freedom! and Children of the East.

The Empire.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. A. Hurley.—The chief films this week include Hamlet, The Little Savoyard, Saved by a Horse, Walter the Rural Postman, A Little Music, Engaged all the Same, and Two Little Motorists. Professor Holt, F.O.S., the well-known ventriloquist, is on a successful return visit; Horace Monto scores with his novel musical sketch Tommy Atkins at Play, introducing song, story, instrumentation, and club manipulation. A singing competition, confined to the twelve previous winners, is taking place, and Tom Myers, the last prize-taker, is rewarded with a week's salaried engagement.

Association Hall. — The annual visit of Fred Clements, the popular comedian, and his company of favourite artists, is being made here this week. The entertainment, which is of a thoroughly diversified character, including pictures on the Bioscope, receives unstinted approbation.

LEIGH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wallace Childs.—Mr. Sam Duckworth's company is paying a return visit here this week with the drama, entitled Her Nameless Child. Mr. J. W. Evelyn repeats his clever assumption of Anthony Ford; Mr. Sidney C. Cranston acts with capital expression as Arthur, his son; Mr. Arthur B. Pringle gives a capable delineation of the rascally Lord Henry Woodville; Mr. Frank Thompson does clever work as Mongrole; Miss Pattie Hasting was highly successful as Phillis Ford; Miss Mona Gray acquits herself with marked ability as Lady Sybil Woodville; Mr. Larry Clements puts the audience in the best of humours as Tom Rivers; and able assistance is forthcoming from Miss Renie Douglas as Bessie Brooks and Miss Geraldine Verner deserves praise as Crayont.

LEITH.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Licensee and Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—It is some years since Dr. Walford Bodie was last seen in Leith, so that to many his singular entertainment has this week had the attraction of novelty. In addition to his own illustrations of electro-hypnotism and other interesting phenomena, a series of variety turns is included in the programme, of which the conjuring of Li Chang Hi and the juggling of the Great Francisco are outstanding items; while Bella Skene, Mabel Martin, the Brothers Baxter, little Dolly Robson, and a trio of dancers, also contribute to a popular bill of fare. The cures of several apparently hopeless cases of paralysed children have caused considerable wonderment.

LIVERPOOL.—Royal Court Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—The enterprising management of the leading theatre gave their patrons this week another London success in the form of The Whirlpool, an excellent play sustained by the Kendals and company. There was no mistaking the earnestness with which the work was appreciated, not only on account of its own particular value, but owing to the finished manner in which it was presented. As the honest, bluff Elijah D. Tillotson Mr. Kendal was seen in a rôle which fitted him with an ease that was delightful to witness; in fact, it was generally agreed that the accomplished actor had never done anything finer. Mrs. Kendal, looking as charming as ever, was the Miss Livingstone, a part in which she had many opportunities for showing her well-known qualities as a coquettish and emotional artist; that sound actor Mr. Bassett Roe did the most with the somewhat unthankful character of Bertram Livingstone; Mr. Wellesley Draper, who has already won his spurs under another management as a reliable man, did excellently in the rôle of Cutter, the frightened broker; Mr. Edmund Gurney gave an able character study of Ephraim Johnstone; Mr. Metcalfe Wood's picture of the old clerk Chappin was a piece of work that found general appreciation; Mrs. A. B. Tapping worthily impersonated Aunt Gretchen; and valuable support also came from Mr. T. Holding (Killiegrew), Mr. W. M. Rutherford (Parker), and Miss Sara de Groot (Elise).

Shakespeare Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—Mr. Brandon Thomas has been here this week with Charley's Aunt, and good business has resulted. The author was seen in his old part of Colonel Chesney; Mr. Roy Byford held the rôle of Spettigue; Mr. G. A. Seager caused endless laughter as Babberley; Miss Vera Gerald did well as Donna Lucia; and others in the cast were Messrs. Hastings Lynn and Basil Lynton (Chesney and Wykeham), Miss Grace Russell (Amy Spettigue), and Miss Evelyn Grey (Ela Delahay). The curtain-raiser was A Highland Legacy, by Mr. Thomas, in which he played Sammy Macdonnell.

Rotunda Theatre.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—The attraction here this week has been Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company with Under Two Flags. As Cigarette Miss Agnes Verity displayed much spirit and vivacity; Mr. Austen Milroy made an admirable Louis Victor, playing with a deal of dramatic power; Mr. Harry Benson proved a humorous Rake, his comic singing and dancing being received with every favour; Mr. Dermot FitzGibbon did justice to Barklie Royellieu; Mr. Arthur Elwyn was satisfactory as Colonel Chanteroy; and valuable support came from Miss Dorothy Lart (Princess Corona), Mr. Victor Gardon (Lord Rockingham), and Mr. Charles Brooke (Lord Royellieu).

Star Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Alone in London, here this week, met with much acceptance. Mr. Percy Rhodes was well suited to the powerful part of Richard Radcliffe; a pathetic rendering of the flower girl Nan came from Miss Theresa Osborne; Miss Elsie Clarke made a delightful Little Paul; great comedy was provided by Mr. Lonnen Meadows as Charley Johnson and Miss Nellie Lauraine as Mrs. Maloney; Mr. Harry McClelland handled the rôle of Mr. Burnaby with ability and success; and Mr. Frank Sutherland gave much support as Spriggins.

Empire.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole.—The always-welcome Cecilia Loftus has proved a big draw here this week, her imitations of leading artists being richly enjoyed. G. H. Elliott had a rousing reception for his delightful and artistically rendered coon songs; Lady Mansel's Juveniles went through a neat speciality, The Concert Rehearsal; the Musical Schafers pleased everybody with their fine novelty act, The Garden of Melody; Mason and Bart, novelty comedy gymnasts, had an amusing trifle, Captain Kettle and His Mate; Edward Lauri, May Beatty, and company afforded the utmost satisfaction with their musical comedy mélange, In Her Boudoir; Little Zola was a very diverting comedian; Ralph and Nellie Howard produced a smart comedy musical act, The Military Maid; and Harry Herbert, eccentric comedian, also appeared.

Queen's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Granville.—This week Mr. Harry Foxwell's company has presented A Broken Heart.

Lyric.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—Heading the bill we have had Harry Tate's No. 1 company with Fishing, which provoked great laughter; Les Rubens, the "fortune tellers," were very diverting; Julian Mack's patter proved exceedingly enjoyable; Winifred Ward, "the ideal boy," pleased with her impersonations and songs; shouts of laughter followed the work of the Elvio Trio with Those Troublesome Slaveys; Ethel Walker at the piano proved very entertaining; a refined musical scena, Pansy's Birthday, was given by the Bijou Juveniles; and the Laurie Bros. presented a skilful and graceful athletic act.

Royal Hippodrome. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Charles Austin and company topped the bill here this week with their screamer, Parker, P.C., which proved immensely enjoyable; Carlton gave a capital turn as a comedian, card manipulator, &c.; very amusing were Kelly and Agnes; Charles Parker's Six Æolians submitted a refined vocal and dancing act; as a comedian and talker Charles Reekie was a treat; Minnie Love sang pleasingly; along with acrobatic dogs, Maud and Gill gave a neat eccentric mélange act; the Society Quartette went through a smart turn as character vocalists and speciality dancers; Lee and Kingston were a couple of capable comedians; and also in the list was Herbert Le Martine, eccentric dancer, &c.

Royal Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—Here this week the stock dramatic company have given The Power of a Wicked Woman, the principal parts in which were undertaken by Messrs. Sydney Grant (Philip Carey), David G. Noble (Horace Winter), Robb Wilton (Bransby), Miss Florence Palmer (Denise), and Miss Lilian Radbourne (Helen Terraire). Mr. Anthony Brown's Bioscope showed some excellent films.

Westminster.—Lessee, Mr. Fred E. Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—In addition to the Bioscope pictures shown here during the week, the following artists appeared: Maston, comedian; and Bert Tyrell, Tyrolean vocalist.

Olympia.—District-Manager, Mr. Albert Bulmer; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—Foremost here during the week has been Karno's sketch The Dandy Thieves, with Fred Kitchen as Sergeant Lightning. The merry sketch was received with as much approval as ever. The Ten-Ji Troupe of jugglers submitted a remarkable act, and were loudly applauded; Ted E. Box kept his audience in capital humour with his funny talk; Black Justice was a most laughable skit provided by Brown and Le Clerq; Nellie Ganthony gave an exceptionally neat turn as a society entertainer; Collins's Eight Stella Girls danced and sang pleasingly; Harry May Hemsley as a caricaturist and impersonator of children was not the least acceptable artist on the list; and Nettie Starr, comedienne and dancer, was received with approval.

Pavilion.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. Henry Hearn.—Heading the programme here this week has been Zona Vevey, assisted by the pianist Herr Max Erard. Miss Vevey's dainty songs with catchy choruses were much enjoyed. The Usurer was a smart dramatic sketch, presented by Sydney Mason, Theresa Moore, and company; Ada Fawn was loudly applauded for her popular songs; Billy Farrell proved very amusing with his coon songs; The Tale of the Stockings was a neat sketch given by the Four Netherlands; as shadowists and entertainers Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilde were entirely acceptable; a novel acrobatic act in the electric aquarium came from Kirk and Saraski; Bert Bowden, comedian, gave a pleasing turn; and Allsopp and Beckwith (Fred and Florrie) were also in the list. The Bioscope pictures given at this theatre are always a special feature.

LLANDUDNO.—Prince's Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Ritson.—Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Day's company appeared here the first three nights of the week in the domestic drama, For Love of a Woman. Mr. Jerold Ord, in the emotional part of Ned Merrick, is good; Mr. Frederick Garratt as the villainous Guy Manor acts well; Mr. Eustace Day, the blind Allen Paget, does all that is required of him; Mr. Charles Ninian as the irascible Major Hulmes is amusing; Mr. Fred Fulton as Albert St. Everamond is a diverting dude; Miss Mildred Clay as Nell Paget is well placed; Miss Eva St. Vincent is a typical Jane Manor; and Miss May Day as Nance Manor is all that could be desired.

Pier Varieties.—Manager, Mr. Sam Hughes, jun.—The winter season has commenced here with the ever-welcome American Bioscope. An entire change of programme is submitted each week, and enhusiastic audiences attend nightly.

LONG EATON.—St. James's Theatre.—Mr. C. Watson Mill, supported by a really good company, is here this week in For Love and King. Mr. Mill has the support of Miss Rosalind Tate as the Princess Athene and of Miss Joan Ellis as Natila. The Miser is portrayed by Mr. John Burton. Mr. Henry Earlesmere, Mr. Alfred Hilliard, and Mr. Frank Lyndon play effectively. The play is well staged in every detail. Mr. Mill's martial bearing and fine diction completely captivated the house. The patronage for the week is excellent.

The Palace.—Mr. Alf Smith, the enterprising manager of this place of amusement, has scored by reseating the place, adopting the two-show plan, and providing a really interesting programme. His films are quite up to date and his variety business of good class. The artists include Henshall and Foster, in a sketch, Miss May St. Clair, and George Tarry. The house has been well filled each night.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and George Robertson; Resident Business-Manager, Mr. W. Payne Seddon; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. B. Reed.—Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company is here in Walter Melville's drama The Worst Woman in London. Miss Grace Murielle sustains the rôle of Francis Vere in her usual powerful manner; Mr. F. Vernon Travers as James Milford plays with conspicuous ability; Miss Dorothy Haigh as Ruth Milford proves herself a capable actress; Mr. Willie Scott as Bob Goldfinch amuses the house immensely, and is ably seconded by the clever performance of Miss Polly Marsh as Matilda Parker; Mr. George Gaisford as Jack Felton puts plenty of energy into his acting. The drama is elaborately mounted.

LOWESTOFT.—Marina.—Manager, Mr. E. A. Smith.—The variety bill is headed by Sandy McNab, who is genuinely funny in a mirth-provoking sketch The Egyptian Mummy, in which he is ably assisted by Miss Langley. The bill also includes Madge Beresford, vocalist; Edwin Rutland, comedian, and Rose Cambry, burlesque actress.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. Frank Freeland.—The business at this popular resort is beating all previous records. On Monday the huge building was packed with an audience numbering over 3000 at early doors. Great interest is evinced in the initial appearance locally of the Colibri Midgets (eight in number), whose wonderful performances in a specially constructed miniature circus ring created something approaching a sensation. As musicians, clowns, jugglers, acrobats, and equestrians they presented a really surprising act. Other capital turns are provided by Cull Pitt, in comedy conjuring business, and Recco, burlesque acrobat. Some beautiful subjects are shown by the British Biograph Co., of which special mention should be made of Nero, or the Burning of Rome. Next week the star turn is Fred Earle.

LUTON.—Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Manager, Mr. Louis J. Beard.—Mr. Robert Macdonald's musical play The Dairymaids is being greatly appreciated by good houses. Miss Carry Lacey as the Lady Brudenell is both smart and attractive; Sam, her nephew, is in the capable hands of Mr. R. Telford, who dances wonderfully well; Mr. Scott Melville as the naval rover, Lieut. Frank Meredith, is also very good; Mr. Dan Agar is a very clever actor, and portrays the sailor part, Joe Mivins, perfectly; his quaint dancing is also an important item in the play. The Eliza of Miss Nellie Bowman is a quaintly funny representation of the maid of all work; Miss Lucy Edwin as the proprietress of the Academy, portrays the character to perfection; Miss Empsie Bowman as Peggy at once takes the hearts of the audience, and her songs, "Hullo, little stranger" and the "Sandow girl," are encored time after time. The Dairymaids look very sweet in their new and bright dresses, and a fine selection has been made of the Four Sandow Girls.

MACCLESFIELD. — Theatre Royal. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley. — Mr. Stephen Pritt's company has met with a hearty reception here with the domestic drama His Wife No Longer. Mr. Clavering Craig impressively portrays the character of Anthony Merivale; the emotional and trying part of Mrs. Merivale is exceptionally well undertaken by Miss Rosa Mervyn; Miss Enid Edoni is responsible for some excellent acting as Marion Jeffries; and Miss Nellie Lawson makes a vivacious Lucy Hooper. Mr. C. Wordley Hulse gives an exceptionally fine performance as the Rev. Frank Willacy; Mr. E. Paul Neville's delineation of Harold Medworth is also a fine piece of work; Mr. David Donaldson gives a clever character study as Daniel Trench; Mr. Vivian Charles as the elegant Tommy Oglethorpe and Mr. David McFarline as P.C. Michael Flanagan are responsible for the excellent humour of the play.

MAESTEG. — Town Hall Theatre.—Lessees, Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. C. F. Knowles.—The attraction at this popular playhouse for the first three nights of the week was Miss Maud Western's company in A Mother's Salvation. Mr. J. O. Stephenson as Reuben Smith played with ability; Mr. Geoffrey Broughton was responsible for a powerful rendering of Leslie Mervyne, the villain; Mr. John Levey was good as Lynton Desmond; Miss Ada Hender won applause for her portrayal of Naomi Lester and Miriam Mervyne; Miss Sophie Reiss is to be commended for her delineation of Little Paul; Miss Ella Powell deserved praise as Mother Turntail; Miss Maud Western, as Beckey, and Mr. Carl Vallender, as Billie Bumpkin, provided the comedy element.

MAIDENHEAD.—The Pavilion.—Proprietor, Mr. George Gude.—Mr. Richard Arthur has a company here for another week. Tom Tiddler and Billy Buttons are re-engaged, and continue to highly amuse the audience; Jack Jones is redemanded again and again for his topical songs, in which he introduces many local hits; Little Taddles, the vocal tit-bit, proves herself to be a clever little artist; Lily Arthur is a smart comedienne and dancer, and pleases greatly with her character songs and impersonations; Jessie Harper has a fine presence and style, and is at once "at home" with her audience; the Wesmars contribute a mystifying turn in thought-transference, and emerge triumphantly from the most difficult and searching tests; and Mr. Russell Moyles' sketch company make much fun with Sammy.

Town Hall.—Secretary, the Town Clerk.—On Tuesday, Oct. 6, by arrangement with Mr. Robert Courteidge, Mr. Robert Macdonald's company played The Dairymaids, and were rewarded with a crowded house. The cast is an excellent one, and both scenery and dresses are exceptionally good. Miss Isa Bowman is a charming Peggy; Miss Mora Hersee is pleasing as Helen; Miss Kitty Kirwan is well suited as Miss Pyechase; and Miss Maud Lucy does well as Eliza. Miss Dorothy Belmore wears an air of distinction as Lady Brudenell; Miss Gertie Davies is good as Lady Hyde; Miss Connie Beaugarde is dainty as Helen; Messrs. Sam Lysons, Frank Manger, and Paul Smythe are effective as Sam Brudenell, Frank Meredith, and Lieutenant Brereton; Mr. Frank Barclay acts with much quiet humour as Dr. O'Byrne; and the irrepressible Joe Mivens is thoroughly well played by Mr. Edwin Dodds. The "Sandow Girls" scene is well sustained, the selected ladies being well fitted for the display.

MAIDSTONE.—Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Baskerville.—Mr. James Willard and company appear in the dramatic sketch The Ace of Hearts, which is well played and receives an ovation. Wild, Willie, and West, trampoline artists and acrobatic comedians, cause roars of laughter; Miss Daisy Hicks is a favourite comedienne; Sam Redfern, negro comedian, has some funny songs and stories, and others appearing are the Sisters Bartholomew, duettists, Arthur Stevens, vocalist, Thil Parsons, comedian, and the Bioscope.

Corn Exchange.—Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Beslee.—The Imperial Electric Picture Co., under the direction of Mr. Albany Ward, is drawing good houses here this week. The subjects of the films are well varied and quite up to date. Mme. Edith Vivian, soprano vocalist, and Mr. George Deighton, entertainer, appear during the evening.

MANCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—For the first time in Manchester, John Glayde's Honour was presented here on Monday by Mr. Arthur Bourchier and the Garrick Theatre company, including Miss Violet Vanbrugh. In it Mr. Bourchier has found a part which fits him to perfection, though it is distinctly reminiscent of others in which he has distinguished himself before Manchester audiences; Miss Violet Vanbrugh as John's wife has also opportunities for her emotional gifts, which are indisputably great. Considerable ability of an equally admirable kind is displayed by Mr. Charles Bryant as Trevor Lerode, and strong parts are excellently handled by Mr. Arthur Whitby, Mr. Leon Quartermaine, Miss Henrietta Watson, Miss Mary Weigall, and Miss Winifred Bateman. The play, which went tremendously well, was preceded by Admiral Peters, by W. W. Jacobs and Horace Mills.

Prince's Theatre. — Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—Huge audiences are filling this theatre to see Mr. George Edwardes's company in a return visit of The Merry Widow. Miss Lily Elsie as Sonia (her original London part) is received with especial favour, and carries the part through in most charming style; Mr. Leonard Mackay's qualities as a vocalist and actor are well known, and he instances them to the full in his depiction of Prince Danilo; Mr. Eric Thorne is, as usual, lavishly funny; and much humour is added by Mr. W. H. Rawlins as Nisch. Mr. W. Talleur-Andrews retains his part of Jolidon, which he renders in cultured style; and Miss Ethel Cadman as Natalie, "the dutiful wife," acts capitally with him. Many other rôles are pleasingly filled, and elaborate staging adds to the brilliance of the piece.

Grand Junction Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Hewitt.—Messrs. Sutton and Raynor are here this week in a very good rendering of The Second Mrs. Tanqueray. Miss Henrietta Schrier plays the title-rôle in good style, and Mr. Cecil Wynne acts with marked power in the rôle of Aubrey Tanqueray. Mr. Raynor's Cayley Drummle is very successful, and clever impersonations are given by Mr. Leonard Lawrence as Captain Ardale, Miss Frances Waring as Mrs. Cortelyou, and Miss Dorothy West-Symes as Ellean, the minor parts being in capable hands.

Gaiety Theatre. — Proprietor, Miss A. E. F. Horniman; Manager, Mr. B. Iden Payne.—A remarkable programme is here this week. It consists of an evening bill of five short plays (two of which are new, and noticed in another column), and two matinées of the Hippolytus of Euripides, a translation of Greek tragedy by Gilbert Murray. A repetition of Mr. J. Sackville Martin's sarcastic playlet A Question of Property opened the programme on Monday; and, leaving out the new pieces already mentioned, it was followed by a translation of a one-act comedy by Dr. Arthur Schnitzler, The Farewell Supper, played by Mlle. Camilla Dalberg and company, a well-rendered but unedifying episode; and Mr. Charles McEvoy's Gentlemen of the Road, a tramp sketch, which is fairly typical of the author's sense of humour, and which proved the most amusing item of the night. In the course of these plays exceptionally good work was done by Mr. Henry Austin, Miss Louise Holbrook, Mlle. Dalberg, Mr. Charles Bibby, Miss Sybil Thorndike, and Mr. Edward Landor; while in the Hippolytus, which was not so well attended as it deserved to be, but which, after all, held out few features of attraction beyond its aspects of interest to students of modern drama remarkably good acting, strenuous, thoughtful, and never once beyond the line which seemed to confine the whole drama within purely scholarly and poetical limits, was supplied by Miss Penelope Wheeler as Phædra, Mr. Leonard Mudie as Hippolytus, Mr. Lewis Casson as a Henchman, Mr. Jules Shaw as Theseus, and Miss Dorothea Spinney as the Nurse. Others commendable were Miss Ernita Lascelles, Miss Sybil Thorndike, Miss Evelyn Hall, and the half-dozen members of the Trozênian chorus, the latter being a remarkably effective feature of the production. A highly-valuable accompaniment to the tragedy was the music of Mr. Granville Bantock, played by a special orchestra.

Royal Osborne Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson presents here, for the first time in Manchester, a strong romantic drama, entitled Who is She? which deals with the events of a small kingdom, and the hatching and frustration of dire plots against the reigning family. Mr. Graham Woods gives a strong and excellent depiction of King Vladimir; Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson makes a powerful Prince Bora; Mr. Arthur McCulloch is exceptionally good as the honest and faithful Sergeant Metroff; the same may be said of Mr. J. Russell Bogues as the good-hearted Chinaman Chang-Tee; and the great demands of the title-part—Who is She?—are quite adequately supplied by the cleverness and sympathy of Miss Violet Carlyle. Others who do well are Miss Muriel Inglis, Miss Alice Barber, Mr. Sinclair Holden, Mr. Val Gully, Miss Mary Collier, and little Miss Mabel Ronald.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. Andrew.—A capital programme here is headed by Jake Friedman and company in Happy Holland, a smart Dutch operetta; Harry Russon is an accomplished actor-comedian; the Sages, burlesque artists and dancers, are well received; and George Prince, the crazy comedian, is very amusing. Other good turns include Petro and Leon, expert trapeze artists; Emil and Ediss, banjoists; Wal Robbins, black and white musical comedian; Eva Chadwick, soprano vocalist; and the Bros. Lydamore, comedians and patterers.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—The top of the bill here this week is Dick Turpin's Ride to York, picturesquely given by Fred Ginnett's company. Prominent also are Jenny Johns, the popular soubrette; and Maud Rochez's animal novelty, the monkeys' music hall. Good turns are added by J. W. Rowley, the veteran comedian; Narow Bros., the eccentric comedy cyclists; the Harmony Boys, refined vocalists; Frank Leon, expert dancer; Arabella Allen, "the Dickens Girl"; and Edie King, comedienne and dancer.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—George Lashwood, the vaudeville Beau Brummel, tops the bill here this week, and meets with a big reception; La Scala Opera Company, including Mrs. Arthur Rousby, are excellent in a selection from Cavalleria Rusticana; Vasco, the "mad" musician, plays on twenty-eight instruments in record time; and Drew and Alders are vastly amusing as The Coastguards. Mlle. Alexandra and M. Bertie are exceedingly good in aerial act, After the Ball; Edith Fink, comedienne, sings with her usual charm; Johnson and Bert in a novel act, A Queer Customer, are well received; William Lee and Helen Bentley are amusing in sketch, A Sure Thing; and Violet Halls, American vocal comedienne, is pleasing. The Barrow Race is a screamingly funny film shown on the Bioscope.

King's, Longsight.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. James R. Trippett.—Mr. Alfred Paumier and Mr. Walter Howard's company are the attraction here this week in the recent success, The Prince and the Beggar Maid, which is playing to full houses. The company is excellent all round, and includes Mr. Melville Rickford as the Hunchback, Mr. Ernest Cox as the Prince, and Miss Ethel Bracewell as the Beggar Maid. The piece is exceedingly well staged.

Palace. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Manager, Fred Leighton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—Ethel Arden and George Abel, excellently supported, are to the front here this week in that highly-laughable sketch Three of a Kind; Harry Champion scores as a quick and quaint comedian; Cullen and Carthy, with their funny assistant, Little Cluley, fairly brought down the house; Gus Harris, the well-known Jewish delineator, is very successful in The Synagogue; and the Dayton Family are seen to great advantage in their incomparable risley act. Other good turns are those of Lola Patey, a sweet singer; Queenie Essex, comedienne; Edie Veno, who dances cleverly; George Collins, quaint comedian; and Major Moss and Son, vocal duettists. Bioscope pictures complete.

Tivoli. — Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Sadie Jerome, the well-known burlesque artist, tops the bill here this week, and meets with a deserved good reception; Stuart Alexander presents those delightful entertainers the So-and-So's with success; Charles Gardener, a comedian of the eccentric order, is capital; Maud Laverne is a pleasing burlesque artist; Sewell as the living marionette is excellent; Ching Koo gives a clever deceptive performance; Lucy Coventry, comedienne and eccentric dancer, takes well; the Zampas are seen to advantage as duettists, dancers, and bâton manipulators; and My Lady Dainty is a neat comedienne and dancer. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope is good, as usual.

Queen's Park Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—Fred S. Peake and company in the dramatic episode The Hypocrite are highly successful here this week, the sketch being exceedingly well done; Lily Hayes is a charming juvenile comedienne and dancer; Leo Trainer, comedian, is warmly applauded; Beau and Belle in a neat song-scena are a great success; A Ba-Be's picture post-card album shows some pretty poses; the Colonials, including James Grant, the Scotch comedian, are pleasing in a musical comedy scena, Unexpected Guests; the Three Behans are seen in a smart quick-change act; Maxford and O'Neill have some very amusing patter; Herr Karoly Czynsky plays cleverly on several musical instruments; and Barfoot and Carson, comedians, are good. Bioscope pictures complete.

Hulme Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Day.—Arthur Rigby, strongly supported, is to the front here this week in that delightful Eastern pocket comic opera The Isle of Ooma, which is excellently presented on a lavish scale; the Onlaw Trio are exceptionally clever in their Parisian wire act; Zeta Grey and Wal Grace in musical comedy act, The Lancashire Lass, make a hit; and Edwin Adeler, a capital comedian, is deservedly well received. The Sisters Valli are seen to advantage in pleasing musical dancing act; Mi Narom is good in comedy; Radie Furman is good as a jolly little Dutch girl; and the Miners' Quartette, including Billy Dewey, are capital vocalists. And Then There was a Row is the Bioscope subject, which is very funny.

Rusholme Pavilion.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie.—A capital programme here this week includes Fred Carlton in banjo tit-bits; Bruce Green, comedian; Bill Bailey at the piano; Cecilia Gold, comedienne; Andy Drew, comedienne; Iris Banfield, comedienne; Leonard Slater, tenor vocalist; Walter Barrett, baritone vocalist; and Jack Waller in chaarcter sketches, all of whom do well.

MANSFIELD.—Grand Theatre.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton, and District Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Captain Clayton. — The Still Alarm is presented here this week. Mr. Gerald Kennedy's impersonation of John Bird is excellent; and Mr. Matthew H. Glenville acts in fine style as Jack Manley. The important part of Doc Wilber is effectively performed by Mr. Fred Osmond; and Mr. Lewis Gordon as Franklin Fordham and Mr. J. Sutton Pateman as Joe Jones are capital. Miss Mabel Veriton as Mrs. Manley makes an excellent mother; Elinor Fordham is charmingly portrayed by Miss Beatrice Shirley; and Miss Hettie Zilwood makes herself a warm favourite in the part of Carrie Wilber.

MARGATE.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. E. Michael; General-Manager, Mr. W. W. Kenne.—The T. Edward Ward company has been playing The Love of a Princess this week, in which Miss Ward perfectly impersonates the Princess Idalia; Josef, King of Ilarnia, is admirably portrayed by Mr. Ernest Ross; Lieut. Orlans is played with forcefulness and resource by Mr. Beckett Bould; Mr. Wilson Coleman makes an ideal hero; and Mr. Ernest Imeson plays the villain, Count Danillo, capably; Mr. George Antley as his accomplice being equally good. Mr. Antley and Miss Nellie Garside as Lady Irene Ramona are responsible for some comedy relief and amusing interludes.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—St. George and the Dragon, Messrs. Ginnett and Pink's spectacular sketch, which heads the bill this week, is admirably played. Bessie Slaughter, contralto, has had enthusiastic receptions; and Ross and Grayson, comedy artists, are excellent, their trick piano playing being clever as well as amusing. Alice Maydue, character comedienne, Rosalie Jacobi, comedienne, and Jack Binns, comedian, all contribute acceptable turns. The Bioscope pictures are funny.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessees, the South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Albert Jackson.—Diana of Dobson's, presented by Miss Lena Ashwell's company, is here this week. Miss Dorothy Green gives an excellent impersonation of Diana; Captain Bretherton is characteristically played by Mr. H. Grendon Bentley; Mr. Alfred Harris is an able Sir Jabez Grinlay; and Miss Georgette de Serville as Mrs. White-Fraser and Miss Mary Stuart as Mrs. Cantelupe both deserve praise.

Temperance Hall.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—The following make up a good programme here this week:—Colin Bryce and company in Are You a Socialist? Bennett and Martell as the shipwrecked mariners; Harry Leaton, vocalist; Emson Girls, duettists and dancers; Phern and Phern, musical experts; Mlle. Pollo, aerial artist; Flo Melville, comedienne; and Drum and Major, comedians.

METHIL.—Gaiety Theatre.—Proprietors, the Methil Theatre Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Sydney Arnold.—On Monday a good house was favourably impressed by Mr. C. Watson Mill's drama A Wrecker of Men, presented by a company under the direction of Mr. Thompson Carruthers. Miss Florence Melrose Millet displayed considerable dramatic power in her delineation of Risca Mallinson; Doris Melville was feelingly played by Miss Gwendoline Talbot; the part of Pharosaphus, the Egyptian, was excellently rendered by Mr. Milner Noble; Mr. Arthur Robinson played earnestly as Guise Strange; Mr. Millar Willson as the Hon. Reggie Verincourt thoroughly deserved his success; Railton was capably portrayed by Mr. J. Ansdell Wilson; Messrs. Chas. E. Lovell and Thompson Carruthers were capital as Ezekiel Isaacs and Eric Melville respectively; Mr. Eric Campbell as Jim Murley showed strength and sincerity; and Miss Beatrice Reynolds was amusing as Vavasole Slopper.

MEXBOROUGH.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company is this week presenting At Cripple Creek. Mr. Henry Hare plays with histrionic skill in the rôle of Joe Mayfield; Miss Constance Elgin is an admirable and winning figure as Dynamite Ann; Mr. Charles E. Johnson gives a vigorous interpretation of the character of Martin Mason; the bully Manuel Alvarez has an able exponent in Mr. Roy Jackson; Mr. Reginald Harley-West gives a capital portraiture of the faithful Indian Wabketah; little Rosy Hopkins is a charming Little Yallo; Maggie Mason is capitally interpreted by Miss Daisy Carlton; and Miss Lily Beagle is a pleasing Belle Gordon.

New Picture Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. Will Hunter; Manager, Mr. E. H. Jones.—Among a capital series of animated pictures shown here this week are two beautiful coloured pictures Dancers of All Nations and Japanese Butterflies. Other capital films are: Thief at the Casino, Clog-making in Britanny, An Error of Justice, The Chauffeur's Dream, and A Poor Officer.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Edward Jowsey; Manager and Licensee, Mr. W. Ker Chatto.—Mr. J. Rice Cassidy and his company occupy the boards here this week in the domestic drama The World and the Woman. The piece is admirably staged and the dresses are all that can be desired. Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy charmed all by her effective impersonation of Nelly, and her acting was most convincing; in the hands of Mr. J. Rice Cassidy the part of Terry O'Harris, an honest thief, is well placed, and he acquits himself with credit; Mr. George H. Doyle is very effective as Arthur Burleigh, and Mr. George Frere plays the part of Ludlow Burleigh to perfection; Mr. Harry Holroyd as Tut Harding, Miss Amy McNeil as Lady Chambers, and Miss Vera Hern as Gwendoline are all that can be desired.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson.—Mr. Frank Carson's company is this week presenting My Mimosa Maid for the first time in Middlesbrough. On Monday night a large audience gave Miss Marie Studholme, who appears in the title-rôle, a great reception. Miss Marie Studholme gives a delightful impersonation, and although it does not give her a great deal of scope, she has some charming songs. A great amount of the success of the piece is due to Mr. Charles McNaughton as the sweep. He is irresistibly funny, and he is the life and soul of the play. Mr. McNaughton is ably seconded by Master Archie McCrag, who simply delights the audience with his impersonation of Bock, the sweep's assistant; Mr. Chas. E. Paton is also very amusing; Mr. Percy Carr has a splendid voice, which he uses to great advantage as the café proprietor; Mr. Elliot Skinner does well as Boss; and Miss Mabel Hirst as Popitte and Miss May Garstaing as Mme. Pilaine are very pleasing. The piece is nicely staged.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Chas. Rembges.—Fred Kitchen and Frank Lister's company provide an enjoyable sentimental sketch here this week entitled The Sundowner. Barton and Franklin give a very clever musical turn; Tom Leamore and Walter King, comedians, keep the house in much merriment; Flo Deighton is an excellent vocalist; and other items are given by Howe and Ardie, acrobats and gymnasts; Victor Courtney, comedian; Rell and Butt, comedians; and Lumley and Freda Ettrick in a comedy skit Jimmy All-of-a-Twist.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Manager Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—R. W. Moran and company in their electric transformation scene are the chief attraction here this week. Enzer, the soldier juggler, gives a capital display; Mr. Walter Curtis gives an amusing entertainment; a sensational feat on a tight wire is performed by Albas; and other turns are given by Clarke's Nippers, the Sisters Casseli, Harry Monte, and Marie Glenn.

OXFORD.—Proprietor, Mr. Alf. Graham; Manager, Mr. R. L. Griffiths.—F. V. St. Clair, an excellent vocalist, pays a return visit here this week; Deane Tribune, a comedian of exceptional ability, is appearing in a screaming farce entitled Applicants; Tiny Arnold is very clever; and Marshall and Wright are a pair of smart dancers. The Counters, duettists; Fox and Melville, vocalists, and May de Rowse, vocalist, complete the programme.

MORECAMBE.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee, Lieut. Julian Malvern; General-Manager, Mr. Chas. M. Julian.—Mr. Ed. Marris's company has been appearing this week with success in the popular musical play The Dandy Doctor, the company including Miss Florence Smithers as Jane, "the general." Miss Smithers gives a most amusing delineation of the typical stage domestic, and she is heartily applauded for all she does. Her Gibson girl burlesque is exceptionally funny. Mr. George Brentwood is capital as the American millionaire; and Mr. Herbert Pearce succeeds as the retired Army man with a penchant for tasty femininity. Ivy Pendred, his daughter, is sustained by Miss Mollie Wynne, whose dancing is very graceful. Mr. B. Williams as the Dandy Doctor and Mr. A. L. Martins as Bertie, the dude, have parts of which they make the most. The chorus is good, and Lottie Stone's dancers contribute considerably to the success of the production.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hales.—Mr. Walter Melville's company is filling a week here in The Girl Who Wrecked His Home. Mr. Fred W. Goddard is a manly and convincing Jack Marshall; and Mr. Paul Barry Lewers does excellently in the somewhat unsavoury rôle of Lenord Kenyon. Miss Louise Hampton gives a strong emotional rendering of the title-rôle; and Miss Lulu Bowes is bright and ingenuous as Winnie Marshall. Val Raymond has an excellent exponent in Miss Georgie de Lara; and Mr. Herbert Goddard is good as the old brewer. There is an abundance of comedy element, in which various members of the company, notably Mr. Francis Hope and Miss Alys Eden, shine. The scenery and effects are on a par with the usual Melville productions.

MUSSELBURGH.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. A. W. B. Kingston; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. M. Richardson.—This week Mr. Kingston presents Mr. Coleman Davies and company in a series of plays. On Monday Beneath the Stars, a drama by Brandon Ellis, was played before a good house. Mr. Hugh Macdonald in the part of the hero, Stephen Harcourt, gave a strong and forcible impersonation; as the villainous Major Blonson Mr. Terry Davies played with power and finish, being ably assisted by Mr. Arthur Prescott as Silas; Mr. Harry Reynolds, first as Farmer Marsden and afterwards as Lord Sylvester, submitted a powerful delineation of both characters; Mr. Coleman Davies himself in the rôle of Jemmy Hopblossom, the Lancashire lad, caused much amusement; Miss Gladys Vane as Angel Marsden played with much feeling.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. H. E. Jones and A. Douglass.—A company of undoubted merit and versatility constitutes the programme this week, and the large audiences are delighted with the whole performance. Mlle. Mattie Lund is a beautifully clear and cultured vocalist; the Four Cecilians sing, dance, and play instruments cleverly; whilst Mr. H. Vernon Harcourt, an excellent actor and impersonator, the Monckton, smart sketch actors, Tennis and Laune, dainty lady singers and dancers, Mr. Arthur Harris, vocalist, and the animated pictures are all first class and receive loud applause.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. W. G. Sutton.—The last week of the season is announced, and that very clever entertainer, Mr. Leslie Harris, is engaged, and this gentleman is giving keen delight to the pier patrons. Miss Emilie Tait, vocalist, Mr. Jack Hylton, comedian, and Mr. J. A. Tunbridge, accompanist, assist in the evening's entertainment. During October and November Saturday evening performances only will be given in the Pier Pavilion.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—The captivating Western drama A White Man made its first appearance on Tyneside on Monday, and was accorded a great reception. Mr. Herbert Sleath as Jim Carston has a part in which he has ample scope to display his undoubted ability, and his very powerful acting received just appreciation; the Earl of Kerhill is capably enacted by Mr. Harold Weston; there is an agreeable breeziness in Mr. George Fawcett's Big Bill, the American ranch foreman; and Mr. Menifee Johnstone plays to the life the blustering Cash Hawkins. Miss Enid Sass renders the part of the Countess of Kerhill in an effective manner; Miss Rhoda Ray gives a clever study of that pathetic figure, the Indian girl; and the Dowager Lady Kerhill is well depicted by Miss Emma Gwynne.

TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—The Moody-Manners Company opened a week's engagement on Monday with Faust to a large and fashionable audience. Gounod's fine music has seldom been heard to greater advantage, and great credit is due to Signor Romualdo Sapio, the conductor. Mr. Seth Hughes is entrusted with the title-rôle, and he effectively fulfilled the requirements of the part; Mme. de Vere Sapio made a charming Marguerita, and her rendering of the Jewel Song received an enthusiastic encore; Mr. Charles Manners as Mephistopheles was as convincing as ever, his singing being warmly applauded; Mr. Lewys James gave an excellent account of the part of Valentine; Miss Toni Seiter made a graceful and clever Siebel; and Mr. D. Gulland and Miss A. Worth proved capable as Wagner and Martha respectively. Other operas billed are Tännhauser, Carmen, The Bohemian Girl, Madame Butterfly, and Il Trovatore.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. T. W. Rowe.—Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's company in the sensational play The Lancashire Lad is drawing good houses. Mr. Alec Alexander gives a powerful portrayal of David Elmore, and as the unscrupulous Max Carton Mr. T. G. Vane scores. Mr. Percy Maitland acts finely in the part of Jim Wincote; Mr. Bob Anderson imparts much humour into the character of John Willie Wardle; Miss Stanley Burt gives an admirable impersonation of Jessie Wincote; Miss Nell Oilver does well as Lorna Wincote; Miss Maudie Grayson merits praise as Kitty de Vere; and Mr. George Watson, Mr. G. Dudeney, Mr. Will Brereton, and Miss Jennie Hallworth all give prominent support. The play is excellently staged.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. F. W. Bolam.—A Desperate Marriage is presented here this week by Mr. F. Mouillot's company, and is proving a great attraction. All the characters are capably played, special mention being due to Mr. J. Knox Ord and Miss Winifred White.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—An interesting programme is presented here this week, the chief attraction being Horace Goldin, the clever illusionist, assisted by Jeanne Fransioli, who exhibits several very smart cabinet and box tricks and other illusions. Olga and Elgar, refined lady musicians, contribute a pleasing turn of singing and music; breezy comedy is supplied by Phil and Nettie Peters; and Daly and O'Brien are very funny in an eccentric dancing act. Rosa Loader, "the happy slavey at the piano," accompanies herself in some amusing medleys; and Mena Brae proves acceptable in a Dutch song. Happy Tom Parker, a lively comedian, keeps the house in good humour; Ouida MacDermott, in a dramatic composition, entitled Red Wing, makes a favourable impression; and the Bioscope completes.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—Lafayette is here for the first time, and is proving a great attraction. Other artists figuring in an interesting bill are the Three Braggs, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, Hall and Hall, Fioretti and Elly, H. C. Lovell and company, and Billy Downes, the Barrascope completing.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Mr. Fredk. Mouillot's company plays The Beloved Vagabond here this week to good houses. Mr. Arthur Royston's Gaston de Nerac is a fine piece of romantic acting; Miss Kathleen Harrington as Joanna acts with sympathy and charm; and Miss Nita Faydon's Blanquette has the required intensity and force. Mr. Warburton Gamble did well as the cynical Comte; Mr. Ramsay Macbeth was successful in the part of Asticot; and special praise is due to Miss Hetty Kenyon for her charming presentation of the small part of the child, Louisette.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll.—A demonstration of up-to-date electrical appliances in the mystifying spectacle Greater London is much appreciated here; Percy Honri, concertina soloist, is heard to advantage in the overture to Maritana; Maggie Walsh, the Lancashire singing mill girl, wins applause; Millie Payne is distinctly original in a couple of humorous songs; the Hartley Wonders are both daring and clever; and Miss Dolly Elsworthy's dramatic fragment Sweet Mistress Dorothy, Billy Williams, and the Bioscope are other attractions.

NORTHAMPTON.—NEW PALACE THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Manager, Mr. Thos. A. Evans.—The Six Brothers Luck presented two of their well-known pantomimic sketches on Monday, when both houses were crammed. The Hotel Grande and The Demon of the Cellar were both received with special favour. Wyndham and Kitty provided a sensational wire act, which was loudly applauded; Gala and Norris, in their musical duologue Down South, pleased greatly with their coon duet and dance; Hayes and Merritt earned applause for their smart work on the trampoline; May Fairclough gave the potion speech of Juliet with effect; Frances Lyric, comedienne, and J. P. Ford also appeared. The Palace pictures completed the lengthy programme.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Sexton Blake pays its first visit here this week and has been heartily greeted by large audiences. In the title-rôle Mr. Horace Hunter is highly popular, his excellent acting being greatly appreciated; much success also attends the efforts of Mr. William Felton as Roger Blackburn. Mr. Charles East gives a capital rendering of Randolph Lovell; Mr. Billie Ross scores throughout as Tinker; Mr. Algernon Syms gives a convincing study of the Rev. Edward Grey; and Mr. John M. East is well placed as Simon Faggs. As Marjorie Lovell Miss Lily Hammersley is to be congratulated upon her delineation of the character; and Miss East Robertson creates a good impression as Philadelphia Kate.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—Miss Daisie Morrell, the popular comedienne, holds premier position here, and her various songs are rendered in capital style; Mr. Alf Wellesley, assisted by Miss Beatrice Webb and Mr. Frank Harris, in Uncle's Courtship, are heartily received; and Zeno Zedora, equilibrist and hand jumper, is very smart. Mr. Willie Wylie, tramp musician, causes much hearty laughter; Misses Bertha St. Ruth and Cissie Conyers, operatic and descriptive vocalists, are well received; the Hamiltons, comedians and dancers, have made a hit; and the Mouldoscope interests with The Cowboy Baronet and The Man and the Latchkey.

NORTHWICH.—CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. Golden; Secretary, Miss E. Golden.—An excellent house witnessed the performance of Napoleon's Divorce, a romantic drama well presented by Messrs. Neville and Carnaby's company. As Napoleon Mr. F. H. Neville looked the part to the life and acted capably; Miss Kate Randolph in the trying rôle of Josephine gave a talented reading throughout; Mr. John Seddon as Colonel d'Arville played with dramatic force; Joseph Bonaparte received full justice from Mr. Alf Russell; Miss Veronica Clinton was a capable exponent of Marie Louise; and the remainder of the parts were ably played. The piece is well staged.

PAVILION.—Proprietress, Mrs. P. E. Fletcher; Manager, Mr. Towyn Thomas.—Mr. Will Owen convulses the house with his quaint patter, and is repeatedly recalled for his songs; Baby Renshaw, a tiny maid of eleven, acquits herself well, and her dancing and singing bring down the house; Mr. Blanco White, an old favourite, has lost none of his skill in dancing; Mr. Geo. Griffan adds to the humour of the evening with his songs and jokes; Miss Nellie Ford dances and sings daintily; Bland and Emilie are clever dancers and vocalists; the Bodens receive well-earned applause; and Ruffell's Bioscope continues to occupy a prominent place on the programme.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Morgan.—A capital company in Sherlock Holmes occupies this place this week. Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart plays the title-rôle with a keen perception of character; Miss Betty Fairfax is an admirable Alice Faulkner; Miss Edith Vogue a capable Madge Larrabee; Mr. Robert Gilbert an excellent Professor Moriarty; and Mr. Walter A. Cheetham as Fooman, Mr. Mark D. Draper as James Larrabee, Mr. Douglas Murray as Sydney Price, Mr. F. C. Berridge as Jim, and Master Thomas Russell as Billy adequately act their several parts.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—Lockhart's Elephants, introduced by Capt. Joe Taylor, are here this week; Alexandra Dagmar, in her songs, patter, and appearance is a great success; Marguerite Ismay and her white coons are an interesting turn; Charles Dixton's company is humorous in the funny sketch Uncle Obadiah; the Lavelle Brothers are capital acrobats; Ruhart, assisted by La Belle Rosalind, is amusing in novel tricks; Joe Archer is a favourite comedian; and Louis Verno, coon impersonator, is a good dancer. The Hippo Bio is attractive.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The Sins of Society is being presented by Mr. F. W. Bolmann's company. Miss Grace E. Leslie finely portrays the trials and troubles of Lady Marion, awakening instant sympathy for this erring character; Mr. C. F. Collings as Noel Ferrers makes a thoroughly conventional scoundrel, playing with an easy nonchalance that commands praise; a delightful Lady Goldbury is seen in Miss Pattie Brown, whose impersonation of the warm-hearted friend of Marion evokes constant expressions of approval; Miss Dorothy Giles is a fresh and engaging Gwendolen; and Mr. E. Vassal Vaughan supplies a clever study of Dorien March. Mr. Blake Adams revels in the part of James Hogg, which he plays with the requisite amount of humour; Mr. Frederick Annerley as Morris, Miss Janet Hodson as the Duchess, and Miss Mabel Murray as Mrs. Murgatroyd add their quota to a thoroughly efficient performance.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry Upton.—Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company is here in With Edged Tools. Mr. William F. Grant adds another artistic success to his many former ones in the part of Jack Meredith, and proves once more his versatile adaptability; Mr. J. A. Rosier is well suited to the part of Sir John Meredith; and a very manly Guy Oscard is found in the person of Mr. C. Hartopp. Miss Marie Leonhard is good as Millicent; a very sweet representation of Jocelyn is given by Miss Phyllis Relph; whilst the restrained manner of Miss Isabel Grey as Lady Cantourne is commendable. In the exacting rôle of Victor Durnovo Mr. Campbell Goldsmid is seen to great advantage; Miss Frances Wolviston must be congratulated on her acting as Marie; and to complete the cast there are some very capable artists.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—The visit of Miss Evie Greene this week has given a real musical treat to patrons here, her cultured vocalism and charming personality winning a warm and enthusiastic reception; Bellonini accomplishes his jugglery feats with a neatness and finish that bring forth frequent applause; and the performance of McCann's Irish Terriers is a striking example of patience and careful training. Gertie Gitana sings and dances with characteristic vivacity; and the comicalities of Harry Grey keep the audience in the best of humours. The Cavalloti Brothers supply an interesting instrumental item; and a resourceful comedian is found in Fred Keeton. Olive Armidale sings in pleasing manner; C. J. Johnson shows the latest thing in cake walks; and the Bioscope films complete an interesting programme.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. V. Carnell. — The great attraction here is Georges Hackenschmidt, and delighted audiences have watched the noted wrestler as his different opponents succumb to his greater experience and strength; the difficult tumbling feats of the Pasquali Brothers evoke applause; the musical contribution of Mlle. Renée calls for hearty praise; and Haley's Juveniles prove themselves clever and entertaining children. An item of exceptional interest is given by Jan Rudenyi, whose brilliant powers as a violinist evoke a storm of enthusiastic plaudits. Thomas and Taylor contribute an amusing sketch entitled Fun on the Midland; and Nathalia and Diana supply some excellent gymnastic feats in the air. Fred Land and Ryder Slone add to the fun; and capital pictures are shown on the Barrascope.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Theatre and Entertainments Co., Ltd.—Managing Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Coyle.—Mr. Bulmer's company is presenting to good houses The Girl Who Went Astray. The leading characters are capably portrayed by Mr. John B. Shinton, Miss Gwynne Warren, and Miss Ada M. Ryder.

OLDHAM.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—The Girl Behind the Counter is being played by Mr. F. Mouillot's company. Mr. Kennedy Allen as General Willoughby makes the most of his opportunities, and causes much amusement, in which he is ably assisted by Mons. Claude Dampier as Mons. Duval. Miss Ida Stratham plays the part of Winnie Willoughby in fine style, her singing being excellent, and she also joins in some well-sung duets with Mr. Sam Lockridge in the well-acted rôle of Charles Chetwyn. Miss Winifred Knightly is a dignified Lady Willoughby; Miss Irene Vere is very smart at Millie Mostyn; Miss Irene Lavington is capital as Susie; and Miss Eileen Clanford does well as Ninette. Mr. Ferris Pounds is excellent as Viscount Cushington; Mr. Geoffrey Allsopp is a smart Rudolph; Mr. F. Park also makes a good Adolphus; and Messrs. A. M. Moore and W. Amery are very amusing as waiters. A full chorus contributes ably to the success of the comedy under the able bâton of Mr. W. D. J. Damant.

COLOSSEUM THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—Mr. Walter Melville's company opened here on Monday with The Girl Who Took the Wrong Turning. Mr. F. Ronald Adair acts the part of Willie Mason in a manly fashion; Miss Jessie Belmore is seen as Sophie Coventry, and creates a good impression; Miss Zoe Davis as Lucy is equally successful; Miss Nannie Meade as Vesta Le Clere ably sustains that character, and along with Mr. Raymond Wood as James Harcourt is responsible for much crime; Mr. Sydney Sarl is very good as Bill Slater; and Mr. F. R. Robertson is also commendable as Jack Fenton. Miss Marie Kildare as Poppy Slater and Mr. F. Ingram as Johnny Walker cause roars of laughter by their capital comedy. The remaining characters are in capable hands, and the drama is well mounted and dressed.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Kilrow.—Arthur Roberts and company head the bill in Till Sunday, and the sketch is much enjoyed. Miss May Mars in her song-scena proves most popular; the Royal Delomes have a smart and novel dancing act, which takes well; Lallie Brooke sings her numbers in a delightful manner; Derenda and Green are a smart couple of juggling comedians; Jessie Brooke sings and dances in a very clever manner; E. Ford as a facial mimic contrives to get a large amount of applause; and the Attilas are marvellous equilibrists on the swinging trapeze.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Nuttall.—Dusty Rhodes proves a capital vocalist and comedian; Spangles and Sawdust are clever in a comedy stage and aerial act; Rousby and Réne are very good in a study of Lancashire life; Ida Ross is a dainty comedienne; Irene and Morton are smart in a comedy and dancing act; the Sisters Lavender are clever comediennes and smart dancers; Starr and Jerome introduce some capital singing and dancing; and the Dottoscope exhibits an interesting picture.

OXFORD.—EAST OXFORD THEATRE.—Lessees, Miss Winifred Stuart and Mr. C. Watson Mill; Manager, Mr. Frank Stuart.—An attractive vaudeville programme is provided here this week by the management, including some good animated pictures on popular subjects, which are cleverly manipulated by Mr. Frank Stuart. Other items include Laffan B. Jolly, laughing comedian; Belsey and Hughes, in the sketch Bottled; and Eddie Clay, comedy musician, who has a very enthusiastic reception. Percy Victor's dog minstrels give an intelligent and clever performance; and Empress, the lady Houdini, gives an effective exhibition of her powers.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—A Royal Divorce is here this week, Mr. W. W. Kelly's company being piloted by Mr. J. L. Barry. A highly emotional rendering of the unfortunate Josephine is given by Miss Margaret Watson, and both she and Mr. Keith Fraser as Napoleon score a big success in the leading rôles; Mr. Percy H. Vernon gives an admirable reading as Talleyrand; and as the Marquis de Beaumont Mr. Stanley Harrison is reliable and convincing; Mr. Walter T. Clifford as General Augereau gives a finished piece of acting; Mr. Harold S. Standing is responsible for a first-class Marshal Murat; and Mr. George Hudson acts with ability the part of Grimaud. Miss Maud Lacy gives an exquisite rendering of the part of Stephanie; Marie Louise is capitally represented by Miss Winnie Tempest; and Miss Ethel Love plays intelligently as the Little King of Rome. Clever assumptions are also rendered by Messrs. C. Jackson and Rex Lowrey, and Misses Nellie Lucas, Violet Hudson, Loyale Frere, Marie Johns, and Helen Meadows.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Stead. — The musical comedy sketch, The Cruise of H.M.S. Victory, is proving a capital top-liner here this week, Arthur Watson, Flo Stanley, and company winning hearty and unstinted applause; Arnold Richardson, A. Gordon Laws, and Ethel Lonsdale, in their clever and amusing comedy sketch, Ferdie's Ma-in-Law, provoke roars of laughter; Blarney and Kennard are versatile comedians, and they introduce their waltzing dogs to advantage; a smart comedienne and expert dancer is Kitty Colyer; J. B. Preston, Scotch comedian, is as funny and entertaining as ever; Fraser and French provide much entertainment as American rag-time vocalists and dancers; the Arleys submit a refined pot-pourri act, in which they are assisted by their acrobatic trick-cycling dogs; Clarice Sefton, comedienne and dancer, wins approval; and the Bioscope continues to interest and entertain.

TOWN HALL. — Proprietors, the Magistrates and Council. — Mr. J. M. Hamilton, the well-known Scottish tenor vocalist, visited here with his company on Saturday evening. He was in excellent voice, and had a flattering reception. The others of the company included Miss Maggie Robertson, contralto vocalist; J. A. Cassells, Scotch comedian; William Menzies, conjurer and mystifier; Alf. Walker, coon comedian and dancer; Flora McDonald, vocalist and dancer; and Chorley and Connor, comedians, patterers, and dancers.

PENTRE.—TIVOLI PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—At the head of the monster programme here are Clive and Clark, lightning dancers; the Three Rubys, lady contortionists and acrobats, are cordially received; physical culture and muscular development are personified in Oscardo and Albert; the Bros. Attila, in graceful feats of skill and strength, fully maintain their reputation; Newco and Sullo are exceedingly smart in their dances; the Two Madges earn well-deserved praise for their mimicry; a clever musical turn is contributed by Hewson's Æolians; Johnson and De Vere are responsible for a sensational wire trick cycling act; and Matthews and Brown, coloured eccentrics; Harry Tomlin, versatile vocalist, and the Tivoliscope conclude.

PENZANCE.—ST. JOHN'S HALL.—Mr. F. R. Benson's South company is here this week. The Merry Wives of Windsor, She Stoops to Conquer, Julius Cæsar, and The Merchant of Venice constituted the bill-of-fare. Miss Mary Webb and Mr. Ross Shore divided honours in the leading parts of each production, and were ably seconded by Miss Rosa Burgess, Miss Regina Lawrence, and Miss Agnes Ray. Mr. Charles Warburton is an exceptionally clever juvenile lead; and Mr. Burgess Barratt, who combines the arduous duties of stage-management with character parts, plays with artistic ability. The various name-rôles found thoroughly experienced exponents in Messrs. John Cairns, Victor Hardy, Herbert Lester, and Frank Weir. The company is being toured under the business-management of Mr. Vivian Aldridge.

PETERBOROUGH.—NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Fred Karno and A. H. Edwards; Manager, Mr. Frank Gallagher.—A capital programme is presented here. It includes Atlas and Vulcana, society athletes; Dorothy Sephton, comedienne and vocalist; Lloyd Morgan, the popular light comedian; the Tossing Austins, in comedy juggling and dancing extraordinary; Lauri Wylie's Mimicking Mannikins; George Campbell, comedian; and Eardley Turner and company, in the farce Doctored!

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—When Knights Were Bold returns to the Royal after a comparative short absence. Mr. Henry J. Ford as the gallant Sir Guy de Vere treats his audience to some capital fooling, particularly in the second act; Mr. W. Lockhart furnishes a clever character-study of the Rev. Peter Pottleberry; Mr. Geo. Rowlands admirably fits the part of Sir Brian; the absurdities of the Hon. Chas. Widdecombe, played by Mr. Cecil Clayton, who also supplies the only vocal number, are much enjoyed; the parts of Wittle and Barker are excellently portrayed by Messrs. J. Homewood and R. Hunter respectively; as Lady Rowena, Miss Bruce-Joy is graceful and dignified; and Miss Violet Graham is delightfully girlish as Lady Millicent.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—The Singing Servants, an operatic burlesque, presented by Mr. Joe Peterman's company, is the principal attraction here. Miss Nellie Hewett extracts some delightful melody from hand and sleigh bells; Miss Elsie May furnishes a smart exhibition of club manipulation; Farr and Farland, banjoists, have some amusing patter; Hal Forde is loudly encored; Webb and Edna Branson maintain their popularity as ballad singers; and Clack and Clack have an amusing acrobatic pot-pourri. Cromo and Hamilton furnish the remaining number of an interesting bill.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Mr. Wentworth Croke is presenting here the new version of The Christian. A successful portrayal of the Hon. John Strong is given by Mr. Roy Redgrave; Mr. Wilfred Noy as Horatio Drake is convincing; Lord Robert Ure is well sustained by Mr. Herbert Hewetson; Father Lamplugh is powerfully taken by Mr. Fewlass Llewellyn; Mr. John J. Hooker is amusing as Archdeacon Wealthy; Miss Molly Hayden plays naturally and with consistency as Mrs. Callender; Miss Cora Deane as Polly Love is sympathetic; Miss Florence Hunt cleverly impersonates Black Meg; and Miss Daisy Scudamore depicts the ever-varying emotional part of Glory Quayle with great success.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—Two Little Sailor Boys is being played here by Mr. W. H. Hallatt's company. Miss Blanche Steele's impersonation of Lola Grey is most thrilling; Noel Tregarthen is well taken by Mr. H. E. Herbert; Lieut. Richard Redstone is a natural and most effective villain in the hands of Mr. Horace Booth; Admiral Grey is capably played by Mr. C. W. Spencer; Mr. Sidney Fiennes makes an excellent burglar; Miss Muriel Dean is praiseworthy as Mildred Grey; and the Two Little Sailor Boys find efficient representatives in Miss Effie Crawford as Cyril Grey and Miss Ivy Millais as Tom Yorke.

KING'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—A programme of great variety is presented here this week. The Brooklands, comedians and dancers, are taking in their style; Leonard Barry, the popular vocal comedian, in his new song scena, "Weary Willies," is excellent; Mlle. Leonie de Lausanne and company submit a clever act of rapid rifle marksmanship; Picitt and Lizette, in the magical extravaganza The Crazy Cook are brisk and highly amusing; Harry Friskney is a comic sleight-of-hand expert; Fred Edwards and company, in Kleptomaniacs, give a capital sketch; Joe Conway, comedian, and Miss Maud Dennis also entertain; the Animated Pictures conclude.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Captain Warren Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—Miss Agnes Molteno and company are here in a well-presented scena, with living tableaux, entitled A Dolly and a Coach, which meets with cordial approval; Ruby Bijou is a barefoot dancer of much versatility; Dorothy L. Clark has a sympathetic voice; Bonnetti and Corrie are diverting jugglers; the Two Anartos are clever and amusing cross-talkers; Bert Lytton, the swell comique, has excellent songs; the Three Sisters Sprightly are a versatile trio; Frank Long and Omoya San, in an interesting act, give a capital exposition of the art of ju-jitsu wrestling; and Payne's Bioscope, with new pictures, is another attraction.

THE

HENRY IRVING SHAKESPEARE.

A NEW AND CHEAP EDITION OFFERED TO "THE ERA" READERS ON SPECIALLY ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

THERE can be little doubt that the whole profession should have this Edition of the great dramatist's works, arranged as it has been by the greatest Shakespearean actor of modern times, in conjunction with Mr. Frank A. Marshall; with extensive Notes and Introductions by Joseph Knight, O. F. Adams, H. A. Evans, P. L. Round, Dr. Richard Garnett, A. Symons, W. J. Rolfe, A. Wilson Verity, Canon Beeching, P. A. Daniel, and Prof. Edward Dowden.

The Edition has many features to recommend it, which here can merely be touched upon: "Shakespeare as a Playwright" by Sir H. Irving, "An Appreciation of Sir Henry Irving" from the pen of Bram Stoker, "Shakespeare's Country" contributed by Jerome Harrison, being, perhaps, the most important. Whilst the text is given unmutilated, un-Bowdlerized, Sir Henry has specially marked those portions which can, in his judgment, best be omitted in dramatic presentation.

The books have been specially illustrated by celebrated artists and each has a coloured frontispiece.

TO EACH SUBSCRIBER A MAGNIFICENT PHOTOGRAVURE PORTRAIT OF SIR HENRY IRVING AS HAMLET IS PRESENTED.

Send 6/- to-day, and complete edition in 14 volumes will be despatched, carriage paid; nine monthly payments of a similar sum and one payment of 3/- will complete the purchase.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris; Acting-Manager, Colonel Roberts, V.D.—Mr. Fred Karno's company is here this week in Saturday to Monday. Mr. C. Emlyn Jones, actor-vocalist, and the Daughters of Britain sing prettily, and please much; Mr. Chas. Deane, singer of rollicking songs, is well received; Miss Leah Arden, vocal comedienne, has popular songs; Mr. Frank Fenton, in his impersonations of David Garrick, supported by his company, gains abundant applause; Mr. Mack Ollive has a whistling scena that is well presented; Mr. Tom Stuart is a capable character actor; Hayman and Franklin contribute a bright and smart item, A Matrimonial Agency. Entertaining Hippo. Pictures conclude.

PRESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Executors of the late W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—Amasis, presented by Messrs. Jose and Young's excellent company, opened on Monday to a very full house. Mr. W. H. Denny as Pharaoh overflowed with humour; Mr. Edward McKeon, who has a fine stage presence and an excellent voice, was seen and heard to much advantage as Prince Anotep; Mr. Arthur Stroud as Cheiro was also loudly applauded, and had to respond to a vociferous encore for his well-rendered tenor solos; Nebeuchairi was in the hands of Mr. Fred Hudson, whose vocalisation was good; Mr. Fred Atree as Ptolemy convulsed the audience with his dry drollery; and Mr. Walter D. Brodie's subtle humour as Sebak was quite contagious. Mr. Frank Wood was a remarkably fine-looking Psamtik, and rendered the solos allotted to him excellently; Miss Mabel Burnege was a prepossessing Natis, with a full, clear voice, which she used to advantage. Much praise is due to Miss Lillian Lane, who, owing to the sudden indisposition of Miss Winifred O'Connor, took the part of Amasis at practically a moment's notice, and achieved an immediate success both in acting and singing. On Tuesday and during the week the rôle of Amasis has been essayed by Miss Doris Cameron (a daughter of the famous Violet Cameron). She possesses a beautiful voice and a charming personality, and won round upon round of applause. Misses Nellie Wallace and Lily Leverne were noticeable as the fan-bearers Anna and Queresa; while Misses Lovett, Carlisle, Voile, and Cameron, as Atossa, Ladice, Kleiss, and Ranofre were winsome in their respective parts. The chorus is powerful, and the dresses and mounting admirable. Miss Mabel Lovett is the principal dancer, and the play is produced by Mr. Cairns James, who is to be congratulated on such an ensemble.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—Mr. Percy Norman's company in the drama A Woman Worth Winning is doing good business here this week. Mr. Sidney Barton is an imposing Czar Nicholas; Mr. Gilbert Standing gives a powerful presentation of Amos Pauloff; Mr. A. B. Mackay as the unprincipled General Borinski is successful; Mr. Louis Newman as Bertie Scribbles causes much laughter, and is responsible for the comedy element in conjunction with Mr. Ernest Kendrick as Peter Popples and Miss Ida Mackey as Katerina Kloss. Miss Chrissie Dunbar in the trying part of Roma Pauloff has the full sympathy of the audience, and wins much applause; Miss Trixie Leighton is also deserving of much praise for her rendering of the character of Lola Kalnovsky; the rest of the cast is in very capable hands and the mounting of the play is good.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—Miss Florrie Gallimore has a hearty reception, and the way the choruses are taken up by the audience is sufficient evidence of their popularity; the Waldrons are also favourites, and succeed in raising hearty laughter with their comical absurdity The Silly Burglar; Gillin is a ventriloquial humorist with an original style; the Milstead-Bell Trio, including Emmie and Mabel Milstead and Joe Bell, prove themselves clever comedy artists and dancers in their comedietta Three Sharps in a Flat, which is well received; Ada Parker is a sprightly comedienne and dancer who gives a very pleasing turn; Hearne and Palmer, in their acrobatic act, present some very clever feats of tumbling and balancing; Carney Bros., in their vocal scena Brothers, bring out their musical and dramatic powers with gratifying results; A. E. Clifford gives some catchy songs, which are well rendered; Edwin Garth as the Quaint Dame causes roars of laughter; and The Baron's Crime on the Bioscope concludes a capital show.

PUBLIC HALL.—Hamilton's Excursions are still drawing good houses. The variety turns remain the same as last week, while several changes are given in the scenery and the Eragraph pictures. Mr. Claude Howell makes an ideal conductor, his lecture being most instructive.

RADCLIFFE. — GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Boothman.—For Her Husband's Sake is ably produced by Miss Mabel Mannering's company. Miss Mannering has an attractive and interesting part in Estelle Beaudet, a French lady, and makes her an interesting personage. Mr. Robt. Faulkner acts well as the hero, Lieut. Seymour; Mr. Herbert Grey is an effective villain; and Miss Lloyd as Eileen Silas acts effectively.

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jules Richeux.—Fine fare has been put on at the Royal Victoria Theatre this week, Mr. Leigh Lovel, Miss Octavia Kenmore, and a talented company having appeared in a répertoire of Ibsen's plays. On Monday night Hedda Gabler filled the bill, Miss Kenmore proving herself an actress of exceptional ability as Hedda, and Mr. Lovel playing with excellent effect as Ejlert Lovborg. On Tuesday A Doll's House was staged,with Mr. Lovel as Torvald Helmer and Miss Kenmore as Nora Helmer. On Wednesday Hedda Gabler was again staged, and for the remainder of the week the programme was: Thursday, The Master Builder; Friday, Romersholm; Saturday, A Doll's House.

MARINA THEATRE.—Here the animated pictures are proving as popular as ever, and the artists engaged this week have had cordial receptions at the twice-nightly houses. The Marina management have evidently struck the public fancy.

ROYAL PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; Resident-Manager, Mr. Dan Forrest.—Mr. Horace Stanley's company occupied the boards of the Palace Theatre on the first three evenings of the week in the sensational drama Guilty Gold. Mr. T. Arthur Plummer made a successful appearance as Harold Elmore; Mr. Alaric Burton did well as the hypocrite Uriah Fudge; Mr. Fred Wilberforce supplied the villainous element capably as Ralph Bartlett; Mr. C. Morris rendered good work as John Middleton; Mr. Horace Stanley played Septimus Sweet in creditable fashion, and the various other male parts were in good hands. The ladies—chief among whom are Miss Cora Linda (the heroine) and Miss Josephine Lee (Rhoda Hampton)—add much to the effectiveness of the show. On Thursday the company commenced a three-night series of performances of The 10.30 Down Express.

RAWTENSTALL.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; General Business-Manager, Mr. A. B. Feather.—A great attraction is supplied this week in Mr. Andrew Melville's company, who appeared on Monday evening with Driven from Home. As Anthony Raybrook Mr. Felix Pitt gave a capital impersonation; and Mr. Charles Burdon was seen to advantage as Geoffrey Waring. Mr. George Beresford was a manly and thoroughly capable Walter Hatherleigh; and Mr. Percy Dawson as Willie was decidedly clever. Mr. Fred C. Imbert as John Anderson was intensely funny, and, together with Miss Edith Leslie as Margaret, kept the house convulsed in their chief scene. Miss Amy Williams made a success as Mrs. MacCarthy; and Miss Lizzie Ingle as Barbara gave an excellent portraiture. Mr. Edward Finley did well as Dick Saunders; and Mr. Harry Cornwall was an effective Jabez Thomas. As Laura Raybrook and Walter Hatherleigh the younger, Miss Nancy Roberts was highly successful. The rest of the numerous characters were adequately sustained.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Benton.—Mr. Seymour Hicks' company is here this week in The Gay Gordons, which is being enthusiastically received by crowded houses. Mr. Frank Lincoln is a very able representative of Angus Graeme; and Miss Maie Ash acts with great charm and vivacity as Peggy Quainton. The company also includes Mr. Tom Graves as Nervy Nat, Mr. Edward Nainby as the old Showman, Mr. Edward Beecher as Andrew Quainton, Mr. Norman Forrest as Corporal John Smith, Mr. J. Cranstom Nevill as the Marquis of Dalesbury, Mr. W. Terris as Viscount Belstairs, Mr. Arthur Bravo as Lord Elmington, Mr. A. Pierce as Lord Merstham, Mr. Herbert Cannon as Archibald Speedy, and Mr. R. H. Vallis as Jack McPrisky, all of whom sustain their parts in excellent style. Miss Ida Mann as Janet McLeod, Miss Nellie Lonnen as Victoria Siddons, Miss Ida Laurie as Charlotte Siddons, Miss Gladys Deane as Mary McLeod, Miss Katie Buller as Lady Millicent, and Miss Norah D'Esterre as Lady Graeme are good exponents of their respective characters, and a full chorus and augmented orchestra do full justice to the tuneful music of the play. The piece is handsomely mounted both as to scenery and dresses. A special matinée was given on Wednesday which was well attended.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. E. Draco.—Clown Barker, assisted by Miss Rozsika, provides a capital turn with his performing dogs and other animals, which are highly trained and go through a very clever comedy act; Ulrick does some wonderful balancing feats; the Mezzettis go through a novel horizontal bar performance in their New Recruit tit-bit; Roxborough and Wright create much amusement in their farcical tabloid, My Little One; the Sisters Allen sing and dance very cleverly; Arthur Reece scores well as a comedian; the Eleven Romps, a musical and attractive group of lady artists, give a very pleasing turn, in which they sing in good tune and dance gracefully; Amy Sullivan, comedienne, is well received; and a splendid series of scenes of the "Four-inch" motor race in the Isle of Man are shown on the Bioscope.

LARGE TOWN HALL.—Mr. Wallis Jeffs' New Century Pictures are now being exhibited here. The pictures include a wide range of up-to-date subjects, including the Marathon Race, Olympic Regatta, A Trip Through the Tyrolean Alps, Goodwood Races, &c., also some amusing comic scenes. During the interval the Four Scoreys appear in their clever comedy musical speciality.

ROCHDALE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague.—Mrs. Ponderbury's Past is being presented by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. The comedy is splendidly mounted, and creates roars of laughter throughout. Mr. George Mudie handle the part of Mr. Ponderbury with masterly skill; Mr. Drew Mackintosh is most effective in his impersonation of Mr. Mervyn Thorpe; and Mr. Alfred Ibberson makes a capital Peter. Miss Florence Wellesley charmingly enacts the part of Ethel Penniston; Miss Florence Wix admirably sustains the rôle of Mme. Polaca Modjeski; and Miss Annie Stalman carries off high honours by a really fine embodiment of Mrs. Ponderbury. The play is preceded by a capital one-act comedy, His Landlady.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—Vonetta heads the programme here with a bewildering series of cleverly-executed illusions and tricks; Doody and Wright are a smart entertaining couple of "Australian comiques"; Joe Stirling, comedian; Eric, ventriloquist; Claude Feldman's troupe of juveniles; Martine and Son, illustrated vocalists; Renie Grahame, character vocalist; and the Empire Bioscope pictures complete the bill of fare.

ROTHERHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—The musical comedy Lucky Liza fills the bill. Mr. Dickie Clare essays the triple rôle of Silas Slim, the Judge, and the French Waiter, and is equally successful in each part; Mr. T. W. Benson scores as Peter Pettitoe; and Mr. Norman H. Lee is very amusing as Paul Pettitoe. Mr. J. W. Forrest is deserving of praise as William Biffins; Mr. Harry George is seen to advantage as Barnaby Blatherwick; and Mr. Jack Harrington is smart as Thomkins. Miss Evelyn Wood is very pleasing as Sadie Potts, her songs being well received; and Miss Vesta Brownie shows herself to be a clever dancer in the rôle of Virginia Blatherwick. Miss Madge Brownie in the title-rôle, Eliza Bird, is the life of the piece, her songs and dances being received with well-merited applause. The music is very tuneful and catchy, and the mounting and special dances by Misses Edna Evelyn, Lily Bell, and Beckie Sterling add greatly to the general enjoyment.

HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. Edgar Fox; Resident-Manager, Mr. Claude Shayler.—Mr. Tony Black is a typical Scotch comedian; the Brothers Obo are very amusing; Les Wambas give a clever and finished gymnastic display; Mlle. De Rose, assisted by Miss Hilda Claremont, are deservedly recalled. A very amusing comedy sketch, The Collar Stud, is presented by Miss Edith Muir, and Messrs. Hubert Bartlett, Bruce Gordon, and Edward Vivian, and creates much amusement; Little Rose Pink is a clever song and dance artist; and Mr. F. A. Martell is smart as an equilibrist. Mr. J. H. Hawtrey gives a capital turn, and Mr. Kit Keen sings and dances very effectively.

RUNCORN.—PUBLIC HALL THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Public Hall Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. E. S. Lea.—We have a welcome visit here of J. H. Tomkinson's Gypsy Choir and a company of variety artists. The list of entertainers includes Elsie Rubina, a talented exponent of the art of equipoise; La Vie, in electrical art panel poses; Wee Winnie, a versatile young artist; the Four Louberts, in a knockabout act; Misses Elsie Howard, Grace Lindsay, Kate Teasdale, Brenda Leslie, Evie Lynn, Sisters Leshmere, Messrs. James Carr and Sam Paul, all excellent vocalists, and the Bioscope.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—The Great Awakening appeared to be thoroughly enjoyed by a full house on Monday. Miss Maud Hildyard admirably plays the principal part of Lola Selby; Mr. Herbert Robinson as Guy Rogan supports the scheming Lola with credit; Mr. Cecil Gray does well in the dual characters of Sir Henry Merton and Jack Merton, his son; Mr. Tracy Barrow as Billy Brass and Miss Cissie Podmore as Selina Worts cause much laughter; Mr. Conrad Franklyn as Captain Harry Lambert and Mr. David Curtis as Richard Wilson, do good work; a charming Molly Merton is presented by Miss F. Garnet-Vayne.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—The Bloomsbury Burglars, by Lew Lake and his company, heads this week's programme. The Weimars, in their military spectacle, give an interesting turn; W. J. Churchill gets much laughter; and Arthur Woodville, light comedian, is an expert dancer. The Danbys, comedians and neat dancers; Adah Payne, vocalist; the Donatos, one-legged clowns and smart acrobats; Fred Mason, whistling comedian; Onda and Artell, clever gymnasts; the Two Rubies, dainty duettists and dancers; and Marie St. John, descriptive vocalist, also appear.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—David Poole gives a most acceptable ventriloquial act; the novelty scena, A Children's Christmas Eve, is well played by Howard's juveniles; Fred Athalan, champion head-balancer, is good; and the other interesting turns include Kingstone Trollope, in "Only a dream"; Ada Jenner, in "The lady barber"; George Westland, Scotch comedian; Percy Curry, in "The original candy man"; the Sisters Lotus, juvenile operatic duettists; George Hyam, comedian; and Herbert and Linden, comedians and clever dancers.

OPERA HOUSE AND ASSEMBLY ROOMS, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Lester King.—The Guardian of the Bank is a sensational dramatic picture, and the others include Immaterial Man between 1 a.m. and 2 a.m., Red Spectre, Versailles Fountain, Stepfather's Jealousy, Suffer Suffragettes, Curate's Honeymoon, What William Did, and Shipowner's Daughter.

SALISBURY.—COUNTY HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Whitehead; Business-Manager, Mr. T. Brinsmead. — Mr. Joseph Poole's Myriorama's annual visit is being enjoyed by large audiences. The living pictures introduced are highly interesting, and the variety entertainers include Loudoun Cameron and Maud Dunham, mystifiers; the Seddons, comical jugglers; Miss Frederica's performing terriers; Eileen and Maynie, Dutch dancers; and Johnny O'Rourke, comedian. Mr. Bert Berry acts as guide, and the orchestra is under the conductorship of Mr. W. A. Abbey.

SCARBOROUGH.—LONDESBOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Waddington and Son; Manager, Mr. J. T. Carpenter.—The Private Secretary is here, and is as popular as ever.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Garside; Manager, Mr. Fred P. Morgan.—When London sleeps is here, with Edward E. Ashby as David Egglehurst and Miss Mabel Scudamore as the heroine, and Mr. Harry Wren as Captain Rodney Haynes. The other parts are all capably undertaken.

THE AQUARIUM.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Walter Kitchingman; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. H. Holland.—Tony Iveson at the piano is most entertaining, and goes well; Patrick Playfair receives due recognition for his wonderful designs with paper; the Three Tivoli Girls are smart dancers; Master Tom Cullen, vocalist, has a nice voice; ventriloquism receives good treatment at the hands of Norman Osborne; and also included in the bill are the Hentys, Forest and King, Adams and Dale, and Miss Clare Washington. Vernon's Bioscope concludes.

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fielding Smith.—Heeley and Meeley, in a scena, are exceedingly clever; Miss Enid Errol in "The Magic Vase" shows ability; Fairley, Rennie, and Fairley are well received, as are August and September, comedians. Zellini as a juggler is very smart. The programme also includes Oakdene, Sira, and the Two Jays.

SEACOMBE.—IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan.—Mr. Frederick Mouillot's company is doing excellent business here this week with A Message from Mars. The sangfroid displayed by Mr. Wallace Widdicombe as Horace Parker fits him eminently for the part; the fine voice and skilful elocution of Mr. William H. Brougham makes him an ideal Messenger from Mars; Mr. Norman Clark gets in some effective passages as the tramp; Mr. Robert Grey does all that is required of Arthur Dicey; Miss Flora Hastings is dignified and convincing as Miss Parker; and an unaffected and charming study of Minnie Templar is presented by Miss Rose Helène. The special illusions and electrical effects are all excellently managed, and the piece proves thoroughly popular from start to finish.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. A. C. Harrison; Manager, Mr. H. D. Lyle.—Mr. F. Marriott Watson and Mr. Sanderson Moffat's company are presenting here this week What a Woman Did. Mr. F. Marriott Watson gives a stirring delineation of Raffaelle Duroc; as Conrad Mr. Sanderson Moffat ably sustains the part; Fritz is pleasingly sketched by Mr. C. Elton Morgan; and as Peter Pippin Mr. Owen Edwin is responsible for much merriment. Black Piton is well played by Mr. Reg Kloof; Miss Florence E. Florence is an admirable Elise; La Papillon is skilfully played by Miss Phillis Hamilton; Miss Norah Waylett is a pleasing Nanette; and as Bella Miss Violet Sheridan wins favour. The Clancy Girls and others give capital specialities.

SHEERNESS. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Sheerness Hippodrome Co.—Russell Wallett, "the lady in black," tops the bill here this week, and his reception is of the most cordial description. The Four Eugenes, flying gymnasts, score a decided success. Other contributors to the programme are Jock Campbell, the comedy merchant; Fyne and Hurley in The Coster and the Dude; Florence Burns and James Danvers in a burlesque operatina; and Jack Crawley, descriptive vocalist. The Bioscope concludes with pictures of more than ordinary interest.

CO-OPERATIVE HALL.—Lessees, the New Bioscope Trading Co.; Manager, Mr. F. R. Griffiths.—The pictures are varied and interesting, the principal items being The Fight for a Throne, The Law of Honour, Why He Signed the Pledge, The Cracksman, Miss Pimpernal's Gown, Poverty and Honesty, and The Lighterman's Son.

SHEFFIELD. — LYCEUM THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—Though the Triennial Musical Festival is the great event of the week with Sheffield society, a large section of the local public evidently preferred the lighter musical charms of The Gay Gordons to the severely classical on Monday, when Miss Ellaline Terriss, Mr. Seymour Hicks, and the Aldwych Theatre company opened to a house crowded from floor to ceiling. Miss Ellaline Terriss, who was warmly greeted, played with her accustomed grace and bewitching vivacity as Peggy, and she was frequently applauded. Mr. Seymour Hicks, alert and irrepressible, was thoroughly in his element as Angus, and his mingled humour and sentimentality were much enjoyed; Mr. Johnny Danvers, one of Sheffield's sons, made the most of his chances and created hearty mirth as the showman, Nervy Nat; and other characters were represented in a finished manner by Miss Sydney Fairbrother, Miss Rose Chesney, Mr. Lawrence Caird, Mr. H. Ulph, Mr. Will Bishop (an old Sheffield pantomime favourite), Mr. E. Lugg, Mr. George Carroll, and Mr. J. C. Buckstone.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—Lucky Durham began a return visit on Monday under the direction of Messrs. Armitage and Leigh. Mr. Herbert Humber repeated his powerful reading of the well-drawn character of John Durham, and Miss Alice Esther Belmore, Miss Isabel Dodd, Miss Elsie Mayne, Miss Florence Dalhuntry, and Mr. Arthur Leigh (who gave an enjoyable performance as Reggie) were all very successful in their respective parts.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. William D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—Mr. Frederick Melville's new drama Her Road to Ruin was played for the first time in Sheffield on Monday, and met with an enthusiastic reception from a crowded house. The scenery was elaborate, the effects realistic, and the ladies' costumes were up-to-date. Mr. Henry Wolston acted with convincing earnestness as Frank Temple, and Mr. Dane Clarke submitted an interesting sketch of a worldly-minded clerical dignitary; Miss Nellie Bonser cleverly realised Mr. Melville's latest conception of feminine perversity as Mary Dawson, alias Marie de Vaune, alias 'Orrible Mary, and she triumphed in a difficult and complex study of temperament. The sisters May and Jess Willoughby were well represented by Miss Alice Bowes and Miss Beatrice Edwards; Mr. Otto Minster was good as the poor journalist Tom Wells; Mr. Alex. Bradley succeeded admirably as Philip Hardy, and amusing types of London life were Mr. C. H. Brookes's Dick Gerald, Mr. W. Lynton's John Derwent, Mr. William Arnold's Inspector Homewood, Mr. Harry Talbot's Billy Boots, Mr. T. Henry's Bill Grimes, and Mr. Victor Moor's Charles Cholmondesley; Mr. Harry Winter and Mr. Harry Clay caused amusement as the two waiters, Fritz and Carl.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—The Moss Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—Mr. Eugene Stratton is again pleasing his Sheffield admirers; Miss Hetty King has made a tremendous hit and has to respond to many recalls; the Sisters Grovini do a graceful acrobatic drawing-room act; Miss Nora Emerald is a pretty and tuneful serio-comedienne; Mr. Bob Hamilton's Scotch songs are heartily applauded; Stewart and Morgan are amusing comedy entertainers; the Bros. Griffiths are well received; Miss Sybil St. Elmo is a refined balladist; and the wild fun and extraordinary antics of Donaldson Brothers and their pantomime company in the original ornithological absurdity Fun in a Jungle keep the house in roars of laughter. The Bioscope concludes the excellent programme.

THE HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne.—The scheme of amusement this week includes turns of the following talented and well-known performers:—Miss Kate Carney and her company in the lively and diverting serio-comic interlude The Yiddisher Boy; Miss May Clinton and her bevy of pretty girls in a musical scena, Ten Minutes in Japan; Mr. Sam Thompson, the comic Caledonian; Messrs. Sibb and Sibb, trapeze artists; Mr. George Cairncross, in clever impersonations of Mathias, Svengali, Louis XI., &c.; Pyck, Tholl, and Taylor, amusing comedians; Prof. Norton, a smart conjurer; the Violas, in a second-sight séance; Miss Addie Dorena, in her popular protean-farcical sketch; the Barrascope, with artistic coloured moving pictures; and Mr. Charles Prelle's Bijou Circus, with well-trained dogs and extraordinary ponies.

GRAND THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Turpin.—A novel attraction this week is the grand annual "Beauty Competition." The regular programme is contributed to by Miss Daisy Silcott, comedienne; the Milton Comedy Trio, in mélange of mirthful oddities; Jack and May McKenzie, comic duettists; Mat Merrymount, comedian, &c.; Miss Ethel Schaffer in illustrated songs, &c.; Raymond Bio-Tableaux Co., with romantic and humorous films; and Mr. J. Halland's company in a comic absurdity.

CENTRAL THEATRE.—Lessees, the Jasper Redfern Co., Ltd.—The new arrivals on Monday were Messrs. Lang and Beal, variety entertainers; Memoria, in feats of memory; and the vivacious and popular local favourite Miss Flo Hilton, male impersonator, pleases with her catchy new ditties. Animated pictures are also a much-appreciated feature.

MONTGOMERY HALL.—Manager, Mr. Mottershaw.—The Imperial animated pictures, under the direction of the Sheffield Photo Co., include the latest samples of films of the most noted firms. The picturesque, fanciful, funny, and topical photos continue to draw good houses. Mr. T. Moorhouse and other artists sing excellent songs.

THE PAVILION.—In its improved conditions the old Wonderland has entered on a successful new career as a well-conducted picture theatre.

SHREWSBURY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton. — Messrs. Cowper, Smith, and Douglas Payne's capable company was here on the first three nights of the week, playing the lively and diverting musical comedy The New Girl, which has been revised and improved. Mr. Edward W. Coleman as Colonel Bullet, V.C., acted with ability and danced with agility and skill; Mr. Ralph Lynn played carefully and well as Bertie Holbrook, and he was most amusing as the applicant for the place of assistant schoolmistress; Mr. Edgar McIntyre merited praise as Harry Harrow; Mr. Kenneth Black, jun., was exceedingly droll and energetic as Brown; Mr. C. Daniels and Mr. Tom Harding were capital as policemen; Miss Ivy Leighton sang sweetly and danced gracefully as Cerise; Miss Beatrice Sutherland was deserving of encomiums as Little Flossie; Miss Victoria Douglas as Martha Grimm played a rather thankless part most creditably; Miss Rosa Rawlings was pleasing as Ida Downe; Miss Beatrice Sutherland worked hard to please, and evoked much laughter as Jane; Miss Rose Bennett danced and sang charmingly, and acted with great success as Hilda Coleman; and other ladies' parts were creditably filled by Miss Ada May as Violet Powder, and the Misses Minnie Hazleton, Lil Delhaute, Bertha Buckley, and Ruby Vivian as Smart Set Girls.

SMETHWICK. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Messrs. Hallatt and Howard's company is presenting here Her Love Against the World, Mr. Fred Emery sustaining the rôle of Eric with power and conviction; Miss Rossie St. John does well as Lionel Nello, his brother; Mr. Lewis Gilbert is convincing as Ulrick; Mr. W. H. Hallatt as Prince Othmar is most successful; Mr. Victor Rowland acts with ability as Prince Maurice; Mr. Charles R. Hann is prominent as General Gressler; Sergt. Kaspar is well taken by Mr. Arthur J. Moss; and the humour is supplied by Mr. Henry B. Lewis and Mr. John Mill, and they are ably assisted by Miss Gertie Reid and Miss Hettie Ferguson. Miss Julie De Esco is seen to advantage as Corona; Miss Grace Heywood enacts Princess Iris with dignity and power; and Miss Nellie Fletcher in the part of Shulah deserves praise.

SOUTHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Weston.—Mr. Charles Frohman presents The Hypocrites, under the direction of Mr. Silvanus Dauncey, with the greatest success. Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton in the character of the Rev. Edgar Linnell plays in convincing style, his scenes with Mrs. Wilmore—admirably played by Miss Laura Graves—being quite the success of the evening. Miss Muriel Pope is equally successful as Rachel; and Miss Muriel Mason scores as Helen. Mr. Ernest Rushton plays admirably as the blustering squire, and every praise is due to Mr. Frederick Morland (Mr. Viveash), Mr. F. G. Thurstans (Rev. Everard Daubenay), Mr. Chas. Tyrel (Sir John Plugenet), Mr. Fred Lake (Dr. Blaney), Miss Sybil Brooke (Mrs. Blaney), and others.

PALACE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wm. Trussell.—Victoria Monks, the bright particular star here, is as great a favourite as ever. Miss Marie Jones in her smart protean sketch The Way to Win a Bet receives excellent assistance from Mr. Ernest Munroe; the Florias Troupe of acrobats are clever; a like remark applying to the Paulastor Troupe; the Three Sisters Silcott sing and dance naïvely, and others who entertain are Edwards and Dacre, in a comedy duologue, What a Life; Chas. Woodward, light comedian; and Horace Jones, the comedy tit-bit.

HIPPODROME.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Frederick Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Yardley.—Mr. Yardley, a gentleman well known in the theatrical world, has now taken over the managerial reins here, and we wish him every success in his new sphere. The current bill is headed by M. Van Biene, the famous actor-musician, in a one-act playlet, The Master Musician, which gives the celebrated 'cellist an opportunity of displaying his skill on this favourite instrument; Tom Costello has an excellent song-scena; and a capital turn is given by Horace and Olga's well-trained dogs. Vandinoff, lightning painter; Hanvarr and Lee, jugglers; Frazer and Haley, duettists; and Baby Vi Davis also contribute to the evening's enjoyment.

PIER PAVILION.—Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Sait.—The season was brought to a successful conclusion on Wednesday, when two grand military concerts were given by the band of the 1st Life Guards, under the able direction of Mr. George Miller, L.R.A.M.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA. — PIER PAVILION. — Lessee, Mr. H. E. Angless; Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—The Anglo-American Bioscope Company present an entirely new change of pictures for this week's attraction, which proves even more popular and enjoyable.

EMPIRE THEATRE, LTD. — Managing-Directors, Messrs. Geo. Conquest and Richard H. Nerney; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—Miss Ellen Snow is providing this week's attraction in the romantic play, Why Men Love Women. Miss Snow for a studious and talented characterisation of Violet Livingstone wins hearty applause; Mr. Oliver Rogers makes a capital exponent of Gerald Fielding, and shares honours with Mr. Lionel Gadsden in the villainous rôle of Captain Staniloff; Mr. Ernest Griffin as H.H. the Maharajah of Balore, and Mr. N. Carter Slaughter as Lieut. Tommy Fitzherbert, win credit for suitable impersonations; Mr. W. Norman makes a sympathetic character of the Rev. Arthur Gray; Mr. Arthur Radford works well as Chundra Singh; and Miss Maud Court gives satisfaction as Muriel Zoluski. The comedy is made very enjoyable by Mr. Harwood Roberts as Orlando Figgins, who has capital support from Miss Hogarth Beresford-Glynn as Mrs. Figgins, and Misses Nita Owen and Freda Vaughan as members of the Figgins Opera Company.

THE KURSAAL. — Secretary and Manager, Mr. P. T. J. Bacon.—Only one programme nightly is gone through this week, which is under the direction of Forsyth's Enterprises, and the patronage is most encouraging. Taka, the Japanese ju-jitsu wrestler, who issues challenges to all comers, gives exhibitions of muscular poses, &c., that arouse keen enthusiasm; comic and trick skating by Wyman is a smart and pleasing turn, as also is the comic wire-walking by the clever Deroneys. Zasma, both as a gymnast and dental athlete, merits hearty recalls for a skilful performance; Belasco wins popularity as a musician of talent; and Whit Acre pleases as a comedian. Miss Ira Davis mimics and sings in delightful style; while the Turkish Tom Thumb, who sings in French, causes much merriment. P. J. Durney is most interesting as a globe-walker; and two series of pictures are depicted by the New American Bioscope.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE, WINTER GARDENS.—Proprietors, The Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens Co., Ltd.; Secretary and General-Manager, Mr. R. Singleton.—Patrons of this theatre are favoured by a visit of the popular and talented actress Mrs. Patrick Campbell, and her excellent company, who opened on Monday evening in The Thunderbolt. In the rôle of Phyllis Mortimore Mrs. Campbell repeated her former successes, and depicted the erring wife artistically; as Thaddeus Mortimer Mr. Julian Royce enacted the part of the devoted husband with natural and convincing effect; Miss Stella Patrick Campbell made a charming exponent of Helen Thornhill; Mr. Murray Carson did full justice to the part of James Mortimore, which he played with vigour and point; Stephen Mortimore was capitally portrayed by Mr. Edgar Kent; the two lawyers, Mr. Vallance and Mr. Elkin, were praiseworthily represented by Mr. E. H. Brooke and Mr. J. D. Beveridge respectively; the two child parts, Cyril and Joyce, had clever and graceful representatives in Miss Mignon Clifford and Master Cyril Bruce; Mr. Nigel Playfair was thoroughly suited in the character of Colonel Ponting; Rose Ponting was well played by Miss Florence Wells; and good character studies were supplied by Mr. Charles A. Doran as the Rev. George Trist, and Miss Florence Farr and Miss Florence Kahn as Ann and Louisa Mortimore. Electra and The Second Mrs. Tanqueray are also billed.

SOUTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees and Managers, Messrs. John and Fred Coulson.—Mr. Chas. M. Bestic's company appears in the musical comedy The Flower Girl. Miss Dorothy Firmin, in the title-rôle, plays in a charming and vivacious manner, and renders her songs in good style; the chief comedy part, Joe Wheeler, furnishes proof of the capacity and talent of Mr. Martin Adeson, who keeps the audience in a merry mood. Other parts cleverly portrayed are those of Reggie, by Mr. Norman Bowyer; Johnny, by Mr. Alfred Donohoe; the Hon. Billy, by Mr. Robert H. Howard; Alphonse, by Mr. Henry Adnes; Lizette, by Miss Florence Wilton; the Suffragette, by Miss Jeannie Holmes; and Miss Masie, by Miss Lucy Clark. The chorus is powerful, well balanced, and assisted by an augmented orchestra, under the able baton of Mr. William Neale.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, the South Shields Empire Palace, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—Ella Retford, who divides the chief honours with W. J. Ashcroft, sings and dances well, and has a good reception; the original "solid man," W. J. Ashcroft, is an old favourite here, and had an ovation; Kent and Keith introduce a good comedy item; Verno and Voyce contribute a clever vocal character sketch, Old Pals. The remaining good items are Fred Lincoln, comedian; Walter Wade, raconteur and mimic; Lye Jeffries, comedienne; Hugo and Smith, comedy acrobats; and the Bioscope.

TIVOLI, LAYGATE-LANE.—Proprietor, Councillor J. K. Hall.—Maggie Rimmer, a dainty artist

STALYBRIDGE. — HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jas. Fioni; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. A. Jackson.—The Kurios head the bill here with a remarkable turn full of vivacity and laughter-provoking qualities; Miss Marjorie Cecil is a dainty comedienne, and the Corcoran Bros. perform on a number of instruments with every satisfaction. The remaining items of the programme are Fred Lyndo, comedian; Folay and Francis, comedians and dancers; Lichfield, in a speciality act; the Dixons, and others.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, St. Helens Theatre, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. A. McLeod Loader.—Mr. Charles Macdona and company are here this week in Mr. Popple (of Ippleton). Mr. Macdona portrays the ingenuous Mr. Popple in a manner which is "childlike and bland," creating roars of laughter by its very innocence, and his success is assured by his naturalism; Norman Popple is excellently taken by Mr. M. Du Cane; and Mr. Eric Barrington is also good as Jacques Kenyon. One cannot conceive a better Platt than Mr. Tom May, and his scenes with Miss May Hart (Louise), who is full of vivacity and sings really well, are delightful. Miss Amy Singleton as Mrs. Doring and Miss Lilian Lait as Mrs. Hennay are both very amusing, as are also their respective husbands, for whom Mr. Nap Barry and Mr. James Stevenson are responsible. Miss Marie Moss looks sweet and sings prettily in the character of Violet Brintor. Much depends upon the La Bolero, and Miss Nellie Hodson who assumes the part fulfils all desires. Both in singing and action she is admirable. The dresses are very beautiful, and the scenery a credit to the production.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—A big bill is headed by Francini Ollams and Page, who both show great ability as acrobats; the former also performs in a wonderfully clever manner on the xylophone; the Brothers Bradshaw also are extremely supple, as well as amusing in their feats; a display of telepathy is given with success by the Days; and the Sisters Julian sing and dance acceptably. Good turns are also given by Walter Emmerson, Janet Hall, the Three Royal Temples, Selby and Myers, and Jack Easy, who, needless to say, are all greatly appreciated.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—What the Butler Saw is here this week. Mr. Charles Fawcett is exceedingly good as Jack Barrington; Sir Charles Foden is pleasingly impersonated by Mr. Raymond Dudley; Mr. Harry H. Rignold amusingly portrays the character of Abram Wiensten; and Mr. Lionel Rignald provokes genuine and hearty laughter as Pink. Miss Ada Blanche acts delightfully as Mrs. Barrington; Miss Christine Jensen charmingly portrays the character of Miss Foden; and Nora is charmingly impersonated by Miss Gladys Lloyd.

EMPIRE. — Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black. —Mephisto in mystifying illusions is the chief attraction here. Others appearing are Mr. Ernest Lord's light opera singers, the Excelsiors, who are highly successful; Victoria Dagmar in a clever gymnastic display on the horizontal bar; Russell Brandow, a smart coloured dancing comedian; Thora, an entertaining ventriloquist; Evelyn Geldard, who sings sweetly; Elton and Elma in their amusing and clever performance on the triple bars; and the Stavordale Quartet, who give a pleasing entertainment on the harp and banjo.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—CASTLE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cecil Imeson.—Mr. Chas. Frohman's company, under the direction of Mr. Silvanus Dauncey, presents here this week The Hypocrites. Mr. A. B. Imeson gives an admirable portrayal of the Rev. Edgar Linnell; Miss Gladys Harvey, as Rachel Neve, acts the difficult rôle with much feeling; Mr. King Fordham, as Lennard Wilmore, is capital; Miss Gladys Purnell is very pleasing as Helen Plugenet; Miss Amy Ravenscroft is well suited as the devoted mother, Mrs. Wilmore; Mr. Charles Harley, as the lawyer, Mr. Viveash, is successful; Mr. Alfred S. Barber, as Mr. Wilmore, acts well, as does also Mr. Sydney Hamilton as Sir John Plugenet; Miss Florence Steventon gives a good representation of the interfering Mrs. Blaney; Mr. Cecil Brooking, as the Rev. Everhard Daubeney, is well suited; Miss Madge Severne, as Mrs. Linnell, is very pleasing; and Mr. Hanworth Browning, as Dr. Blaney, is adapted to the part.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—Thompson Carruthers' company heads the bill here in a sensational card manipulating novelty, The Master Card, which meets with a huge success from crowded houses. Captain Max Gruber, assisted by Miss Adelina, with their unique performing horse, elephant, and pony, are very entertaining, the animals appearing quite human; Aiston's White Stars, as musical entertainers, show great skill; Harry Bancroft, actor-vocalist, takes well; Emmie Ames, in a scena, "The Stars in the Sky," makes a big hit; Ted Moxon Trio, acrobats, do some very daring feats; J. C. Scatter, comedian and dancer, is very funny and dances well; and the Bioscope concludes an excellent programme.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—Mr. M. Montgomery's stock company is presenting here this week the drama Love Rules the World. There was a crowded house on Monday. Payne's Biophotoscope shows up-to-date pictures.

STOKE-ON-TRENT.—THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; General-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—The Andos Troupe pay a return visit in their acrobatic, juggling, and rope-walking act; Ted Curtis and Piccaninnies appear successfully in a speciality act; Minnie Mace, a dainty comedienne, has a pleasing reception; Walter Stanley, the Zelovas, Dan Robans, Chas. Valvo, Vaughan and Hyde, and the Bioscope are also billed.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. S. F. Davidson; General-Manager, Mr. A. Telford; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Reach.—Mr. George Edwardes's excellent company presented The Merry Widow here on Monday evening to a crowded house. Mr. Basil S. Foster as Prince Danilo acted with great judgment; Mr. Haigh Jackson made a splendid Vicomte Camille de Jollidan, and as a vocalist his efforts were warmly appreciated; Mr. Lionel Victor as Baron Popoff; Mr. Tom Redmund as Nisch; and Mr. Albert Cavanagh as Marquis de Cascada greatly helped with their sparkling and original humour towards the success achieved. Miss Clara Evelyn as Sonio, the merry widow, played and sang with great ability, and was encored several times in the renowned waltz scene with Mr. Foster; Miss Mary Gray as Baroness Popoff showed both vocal and histrionic ability; and Miss Dora Langham as Frou-Frou, proved herself a dainty and accomplished dancer. Other artists in the cast include Messrs. Lennox Coombs, Grafton Williams, J. S. Durant, Ernest Spalding, and Misses Nora Barry, Suzanne Selbourne, H. Featherstone, F. Reeve, K. Cherry, Becky Sharpe, Phyllis Allen, and Mary Morrison. The Merry Widow is elaborately mounted and dressed.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Grierson.—The attraction here this week is Messrs. G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company in The Silver King, which is drawing crowded houses. Mr. Fred D. Daviss in the title-rôle arouses warm praise; Nellie has a capital delineator in Miss Edyth Goodall; Mr. Edward J. George gives an excellent rendering of the faithful old servant, Daniel Jaikes; the villain, Captain Herbert Skinner, is in the able hands of Mr. E. Stanton-Sharpe, who gives a good account of the part; his assistant, Elijah Coombe, is made the most of by Mr. Arthur Wright; Miss Flossie Hall Davis is a clever juvenile and plays Cissy Denver to perfection; Messrs. E. Stidwell and Geo. Belmore are both seen to advantage as Samuel Baxter, a detective, and Henry Corkett. All the other rôles are in able hands.

SWANSEA.—THE GRAND.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Oswald Brooks; Acting-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. Walter Dean.—That delightful musical comedy Miss Hook of Holland is done full justice to at the Grand this week by Mr. George Dance's company. Mr. Hook is played with a quiet humour and finish by Mr. T. A. Shale that is irresistible; the part of Sally is enacted by Miss Alice Coverick with vivacity and charm; that lady is well played to by Mr. Frank Crimp, who as the Bandmaster Van Vuyt is all through excellent; Mina has a real clever impersonator in Miss Cissie Sephton; Mr. Tom Seymour was in happy mood as Simon Slinks; and Mr. George Ide as Captain Adrian Pasp and Mr. James Davies as Lieut. De Coop could not have been better.

THE STAR.—Manager, Mr. William Coutts; Assistant-Manager, Mr. S. J. Powell.—Messrs. O. Silverstone and H. Wright's company are seen to considerable advantage in The Nihilist this week. Mr. Joseph Millane as the village blacksmith makes the utmost of a good part; Mr. Cowell Clarke as Karl Orloff is a thorough soldier; Mr. Leo Neilson as Prince Alexander is also good; Miss Jesica Ford achieves success for her playing as Katrina Zendoff; and Mr. Henry Wright as Robbie Smart is excellent.

EMPIRES, LTD.—Manager, Mr. P C. Rowe; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Lennon.—The bill here is headed by Courtice and Louie Pounds, who in a charming musical episode. Charles, His Friend, are given every opportunity of displaying their undoubted talent. George Formby again visits us, and, with the funniest songs imaginable, is as big a "hit" as ever; Mr. Theo. Bouwmeester shows great ability as a protean actor in a thrilling sketch Who is Guilty; Will English contributes a characteristic turn in his usual clever manner; Naughton and Gold's step-dancing is an enjoyable item; Austin Boyd and Trixie Gilfain's melody is much appreciated; La Danseuse is a child dancer of whom more will be heard; and Frank Couch as a patter comedian is all there. The Bioscope, as usual, is up to date.

SWINDON.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners. — The Zerbinis Troupe, in a brilliant musical act entitled The Enchanted Glen, are heading the bill this week; Mark Henton, comedian, goes well; and Dora Duncan is a dainty comedienne. Miss Teddy Edmonds' company presents a very laughable sporting farce, The Lady Jockey; a mysterious turn is that of "Buddah's Blackboard"; Hunter and Hicks, vocalists and ice-skate dancers, are appreciated; the Walleys are smart comedy jugglers; John Grun Marx, "the modern Hercules," performs some marvellous feats of strength; and the Empire Pictures complete.

TORQUAY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—After a long absence that amusing musical comedy Sergeant Brue is here once more. The principal rôle of Crookie Scrubbs is admirably taken by Mr. Harry Benet, whose performance is really funny; Mr. Denis Lyndon also provokes continuous merriment as the Sergeant, and is frequently applauded for a really clever representation. Miss Ray Anderson as Lady Bickenhall is charming, and her piquant style wins her considerable admiration; while Miss Mabel Davis is also deservedly applauded for her rendering of the part of Mabel. The character of Mr. Crank is in the very capable hands of Mr. T. G. Warren, whose impersonation is worthy of the highest praise, whilst the vocal efforts of Mr. Lister Morrah as Michael are very much appreciated. A fascinating interpretation of Aurora Brue is given by Miss Daisie Dale, whilst her singing is often encored. In fact, all the characters are admirably sustained.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Welton Dale; Manager, Mr. A. H. Burdett.—The Hippodrome season in connection with the Mouillot and De Frece circuit was resumed on Monday last, when the star turn of the programme was the sensational feats of the Tokio Troupe of Japanese equilibrists. Maxey and Pete, the trick cyclists, also performed some clever tricks; and Harvie proved a skilled performer on the wire. Other notable turns included Vestor, instrumentalist, cartoonist, and dancer; Rosie Bartlett, vocal comedienne; and the Sisters Herbert, juvenile duettists and dancers. The Hippodrome pictures proved as popular as ever.

TYLDESLEY. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. W. Brierley, A. Brierley, and W. German; Manager, Mr. W. W. Brierley.—A Traitor Prince is being played here this week by Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company. Mr. G. M. Montanini is artistic and powerful as Prince Rao; Mr. Dudley Wynton shows a fine conception of the part of Lieut. Frank Derrick; Colonel Vane is ably treated by Mr. Robert Pittard; and Mr. Robert Foster does creditable work as a half-caste Hindoo. Miss Florence Delmar gives a skilful performance as Vashti; and Miss Pamelia Hodson is a sympathetic Lola Vane. Miss Netta Mitchell makes a sprightly Pansy Blossom; Mr. Jack Cuthbertson as Billy and Mr. Guy Routh as Hon. Bobby are very droll. A welcome feature is the clever dancing of the Three Berlin Belles.

WAKEFIELD. — OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmond's company, in the drama Woman and Wine, opened to a large audience here on Monday. Miss Cissie St. Elmo acts with ability and effect as Marcel Rigadout; Mr. Edmunds gives a meritorious performance as the student Dick Seymour; Miss Violet Sims makes a charming and pathetic Mary Andrews; as Professor Sauter Mr. W. Manning scores; Mr. J. Milne Taylor gives a fine rendering of Hugh Seymour; Miss Ethel Vinroy submits a pleasing portrayal of Mrs. Marlow; Mr. Harry Harrop is effective as Charlie Sauter; and the character of the demi-mondaine, La Colombe, finds an able exponent in Miss Octavia de Noel. Mr. Edwin T. Kisby merits praise as Caliban; and Mr. R. Foulis is successful as Alphonse Beaudet. Miss Lottie Stone's troupe of dancers give a smart exhibition of dancing in the ball scene. The play is well staged.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The Three Coopers head the bill this week, and delight the audience with their songs. Mr. Harry Leybourne, eccentric comedian, is very funny; the Two Eltons are clever on the triple bars; the Gregsons appear in an amusing sketch entitled The Dummy; Warren Doyle and Leonard Fenwick, vocalists and dancers, earn approbation; Miss Iva Mona, comedienne, and the Marblesque Trio, in living statuary, provide acceptable turns.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—Mr. Frank Bertram and company are reappearing here in The Convict's Daughter. Mr. Bertram's versatility has ample scope for development in the characters of Weary Willie, Michael Grahame, Convict 89, and a mystery. Mr. Wm. Burgess is a delightful Frederick Neville; and Mr. Walter Graham makes a manly hero as Harold Trevalyan; Mr. Escott Robson scores as Jasper Thorne; Miss Lillian Dean acts gracefully as Edith; and Miss Nellie Waddington makes the most of Marion Thorne. The lighter element is ably sustained by Mr. Willie Black as Patrick, and Miss Amy Randolph as Betty.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Waters.—The Brothers Weddburn are delighting good houses here; Rappo and Ella are smart gymnasts. The pictures are again excellent.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. G. D. Bradbury.—Rarely has such enthusiasm been seen in this place of amusement as that which greeted Miss Ada Colley on Monday night, when she made her début before a Warrington audience. For several minutes the charmed hearers rose en masse, and her beautiful rendering of "The Nightingale," "Dear heart," and "Killarney" was a rich musical treat. She possesses a voice of remarkable range and purity, and her articulation is such as to stamp her an artist in every sense of the word; the Elimans are refined musical entertainers, and their items are all well received; Leo and Roland are expert equilibrists and hand-balancers, and some rare feats of strength are accomplished; the Three Prestons score well in the sketch, The Liftman's Rise; D. W. Watson, an old favourite with Warrington audiences, wins many encores for his cornet and coach-horn selections; and Moon and Morris are clever simultaneous dancers and patterers. George Acre is a smart comedian. The pictures are full of hilarity, depicting the fun to be had of appropriating a policeman's whistle. The orchestra play two fine selections.

WEDNESBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Battersby; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Kuner. —Mr. Harry Foxwell's powerful company, under the direction of Mr. Teddy Myles, in the dramatic success, An Abandoned Woman, is drawing excellent houses here this week. Mr. Teddy Myles's interesting interpretation of Paddy Boyle evokes loud applause; an artistic study of Captain Herbert Seaton is ably presented by Mr. Herbert M. King; Mr. Frederick Healey is responsible for some clever work in the portrayal of Sir Marmaduke Seaton; the part of Robert Saunders, the artist, is left to the safe keeping of Mr. Arthur Curzon; Miss Nellie Thorne-Hallam submits a clever rendering of Ninon Malvoisin; whilst the rôle of Eleanor Deane is cleverly enacted by Miss Alma Curzon. Valuable assistance is forthcoming from Miss Lily Addison as La Celeste; and as Mona Deane little Frances Maddocks proves quite a favourite.

WELLINGBOROUGH.—EXCHANGE.—Mr. John Leopold's company opened on Monday for three nights in The New Frivolity. This was their first appearance here, and many were grateful to Messrs. A. Bailey and Co., of Kettering, who made arrangements for the visit. The performance was of a decidedly clever character, the Leopolds and their supporters continually evoking roars of laughter and bursts of applause.

WEST BROMWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. R. Nightingale.—Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company, which are producing Is Life Worth Living? at this place of amusement, have been accorded a great reception for the admirable manner in which they render this powerful and realistic drama. Miss Lilian Earle as Madge Roxton plays with much verve and ability; Miss Jeannie Burgoyne is an admirable Isabel Corsbie; Mr. Ernest Owttim has a part excellently suited to him in Lowel Roy; Mr. Herbert Hollister is a great success as Randolph Kerr; and other members of the company perform their allotted tasks with skill.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Archie Ainsleigh.—Rosie Ring, with her six ladies, in the scena In a Rose Garden, has a hearty reception, which is well deserved; Elsie Day is a clever comedienne; and the Wakeman Quintette, in their musical sketch, are very fine. Then, too, there are some wonderfully clever gymnasts, including the Kramers, in a marvellous aerial act; Dick Ona and Chas. Walonell, in a smart triple-bar turn; Ariel and Astarte, gymnasts; Indiana, the flexible Venus; and Staffo, the clever talking butcher boy; while the Hippodrome pictures conclude an altogether satisfactory programme.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. Herbert E. Feather. —Dear Old Charlie kept the audience in the best of humour on Monday. Mr. George Conquest is responsible for the delineation of the titular part, and acquits himself admirably; Mr. S. Trelawney was excellent as Thomas Dumphie, acting with much quaint humour; Gabriel Piploe is capitally played by Mr. C. Douglas Cox; Mr. Duncan Young does well as the irascible Colonel Fishbourne; Miss Enid G. Forde is a charming Agnes; and Miss Leonora Braham plays the rôle of Mrs. Fishbourne in a manner deserving of every praise. A matinée is to be given this (Saturday) afternoon in aid of the Mayor's Fund for the relief of local distress, the whole of the receipts being devoted to the charity.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. A. E. Dobney.—Packed houses are thoroughly enjoying the performance by Karno's troupe of comedians in Mumming Birds and London Suburbia; Lawrence Barclay, character comedian, gives an acceptable turn; musical comedy is agreeably served by Stidder and Dunbar; an entertaining turn is given by the Askarnos; a capital exhibition of skipping-rope dancing by the Sisters Brenton is well received; and much fun is caused by Kelly and Ashby in their sketch Fun in a Billiard Room. Capital films by the Raymond Bioscope conclude the bill.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE. — KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—The F. R. Benson Shakespearean company is paying a welcome return visit in a répertoire of standard plays. The Taming of the Shrew was presented on Monday. As Petruchio Mr. Henry Herbert's elocution was good; Mr. Bernard Limpus made a handsome Lucentio; Mr. James Berry, a sound actor, gave an artistic interpretation of Baptista; Mr. Victor Wiltshire did the utmost with Gremio; Mr. Harvey Bratan was a praiseworthy Hortensio; Mr. Everard Vanderlip showed ability as Tranio; and unstinted praise must be given Mr. Vincent Holman as Biondello. Mr. Arthur Fayne's talents as a comedian find plenty of scope in the character of Grumio; Mr. Fernley Bisshopp as Vincentio and Mr. Patrick Lewis as the Tailor were both meritorious; Miss Gladys Vanderzee made a strikingly beautiful Katherina, her portrayal of the rôle being replete with artistic touches; Miss Violet Farebrother's Bianca must be awarded the highest eulogy. Julius Cæsar, Twelfth Night, Richelieu, Faust, The Merchant of Venice, and The Merry Wives of Windsor are also in the repertory.

WEST STANLEY. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Kelly.—Messrs. Garside and Knowles' company is here with Her Marriage Vow. Mr. Chas. Reddalls is a good Gilbert Carlton; Mr. Edwin J. Collins an excellent Daffy Dan; Mr. Dan Ryan a funny Larry Leary; Mr. John W. Ryder as William Walters and Mr. Wilfred Bailey as Eber Chubb are both well received. Miss Helena Walbran is clever as Kate Walters; Miss Nelly Shurley being all that can be desired as Hester Norton.

VICTORIA THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes; Stage-Manager, Mr. George W. Montrose. —The principal turns here include Phil Herman, actor-vocalist; Helms and Cozen, the comedy couple; Wragg and Wragg, military athletes; Chummie Le Mara, the quaint one; and the Vicoscope.

WHITEHAVEN.—MARKET HALL.—Lessees, The Edison Animated Picture Co.; Manager, Mr. Victor Brandford.—The pictures shown here this week include Samson, a Biblical story, An Expensive Mail, Washing Day, Too Old to Work, Married Under Difficulties, The Guardian of the Bank, and How the Poor Clown's Prayer was Answered. Mr. Jack North, comedian, also appears, and is well received.

WIDNES.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiddie.—This week Mr. Lingford Carson and company are here with The Great White Chief. Mr. Mansell Fane, an impressive Leo Stanley, sings well; Mr. Lingford Carson, in the part of Reindeer, a dumb Indian, does excellent work; Mr. Geo. Butler is a villainous Hartley Deane; Mr. Dobson Clyde a capital Sparrow Hawk; and Mr. Hugh Brady is an original John Wharton; Mr. Ritchie Bell is an amusing Ernest John Wallet; Mr. Leonard Maitland an effective George Rupert Walker; and Miss Amy Ross Clyde a humorous Martha Jane Curtley. Miss Dulcie Lawrence plays with comprehension of the character of Hester Stafford, and Miss Pollie Denville is a winning Latika.

WIGAN. — ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company.—Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr. Fred C. Somerfeld's powerful company is here in The Tyrant. Miss Dagmar ably impersonates the important rôle of Tisbe; Homedei finds an admirable exponent in Mr. Fred Somerfield; Miss Margaret Frame gives a charming portrayal of Lady Katherine; Mr. Roy Fortescue as the tyrannous and despotic Angelo gives a very powerful impersonation; while Mr. E. Louis sustains the part of Prince de Roma with eminent success.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Company.—Bert Wickham is the "star" here this week, and he introduces some exceptionally clever feats of strength; Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic, has a big reception, and his patter and imitations are very entertaining; Fred Curran, the parody singer, is accorded an ovation for his humorous songs; the Dandies entertain with great success; some daring tricks are done by the Lizzette troupe of lady acrobats; Molly Augarde wins much applause for her songs; as an equilibrist Bugler Carr is considerably above the average; the Westbrooks appear successfully in a sketch entitled Two Little Maids from School; and an acceptable turn is contributed by W. G. Wesley, comedian.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company.—District-Manager, Mr. Gerald Hunt; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Woon.—The chief attraction this week is provided by De Vere's life-like marionettes, which are a great source of amusement, and are highly appreciated by large audiences. The excellent pictures include The Pirate's Honour, The Maniac's Revenge, A Romance of the Slums, and many other interesting films.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles Barnard; Resident-Manager, Mr. Gerald Spencer.—Mr. Bert Coote's company, under the direction of Mr. Percy Williams, is drawing good houses here this week in The Fatal Wedding. Mr. Cecil A. Melton plays with quiet effectiveness and attention to detail as Howard Wilson; and Miss Ethel Kay gives an exceedingly able interpretation of the much wronged wife Mabel Wilson. Miss Elaine Vanbrugh creates a favourable impression in the trying part of Cora Williams; and as Robert Curtis, her confederate in villainy, Mr. Frank Harrison does well. Mr. Cyril Melton as Peter Schwartz makes a capital old German; Mr. Charles Locke is funny as Toto; Miss Ethel Sarjient causes much amusement as Bridget; and Miss Lulu Wohlmann as Jessie has quite a strong part for a child actress. The minor parts are all in good hands, and special mention should be made of the very excellent dancing and singing in the third act by the juvenile members of the company.

EMPIRE PALACE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—A galaxy of comedians here this week is headed by Peggy Pryde, who had a hearty reception on Monday; Nat Clifford's extraordinary dancing gains much applause; Harry Taft is a comical whistling and singing comedian, his introduction of a toy horse being highly ludicrous; the Fitzroys, trapeze and rope specialists, do a neat and smart act; Athas and Collins, comedy duo, cause plenty of laughter; Mayfayre sings nicely; and Souplessi is correctly named "the anatomical wonder."

WORTHING.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold; Stage-Manager, Mr. Malcolm Spurgin.—Mr. Herbert Ralland's company presented for the first three nights of the week the enjoyable comedy His House in Order. Mr. T. Herbert Beaumont as Hilary Jesson enacted the part capably; Mr. W. Henry Hargreaves as Filmer Jesson, M.P., did well; the Major Maurewarde of Mr. Randolfe Reade was cleverly portrayed; Miss Peggy Rae as Derek Jesson gave an excellent impersonation; and Miss Kitty Cavendish as Nina put in some excellent work.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Jno. J. Scott.—This week the La Dor Troupe give a capital acrobatic show; the Matadores, in their sketch, The Spanish Bull Fight, are amusing; the Two Volbecques, cross-talk comediennes, are popular; and the Two Clarkes, the lady and clown, give a novel performance.

YORK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—The Mollusc is, without doubt, one of the cleverest comedies at present before the public. Miss Annie Hughes's rare gifts as a comedienne of the first rank are brought into play in the part of Mrs. Baxter; in the character of Miss Roberts, Miss Lilias Waldegrave gives a sympathetic study; Mr. Alick Chumley as Mr. Baxter is excellent; and Mr. Athol Stewart is well placed as Tom Kemp. In that quaint curtain-raiser, A Bit of Old Chelsea, Miss Hughes give her well-known rendition of Saucers with telling effect. Miss Ellen Terry and Mr. James Carew were announced for Thursday.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke. — An exceptionally strong programme of all-round excellence is presented this week. Rosie Lloyd is vociferously encored for her clever and up to-date songs; Witty Watty Walton keeps the house in roars of laughter; the Tally-Ho Trio are truly described as "monarchs of mirth and harmony"; Rex Fox introduces a novel ventriloquial and musical act on the wire; Azella Wilson is a graceful and daring trapeze performer; Martinett and Wallace are clever musical entertainers; Bayne and Hope present a laughable sketch, entitled The Love Cure; Blanche Marion is a dancer of considerable merit, Enrico Martialo a clever juggler, and the Empire Bioscope has new and up-to-date pictures.

EARLY DELIVERY.

Special newspaper express services now running on the London and North-Western, Great Northern, Midland, and Great Central Railways carry The Era to the following important cities and towns at the times named. Newsvendors and subscribers obtain their papers at a much earlier hour than was previously possible:—Rugby, 4.30 a.m.; Coventry, 4.54 a.m.; Birmingham, 5.20 a.m.; Crewe, 6.5 a.m.; Manchester, 6.50 a.m.; Liverpool, 7 a.m.; Chester, 9.3 a.m.; Doncaster, 6.10 a.m.; York, 7 a.m.; Hull, 8.20 a.m.; Darlington, 8.58 a.m.; Scarborough, 10.5 a.m.; Newcastle, 10.10 a.m.; Leeds (Central), 6.58 a.m.; Huddersfield, 7.37 a.m.; Bradford (Exchange), 7.47 a.m.; Harrogate, 7.50 a.m.; Halifax, 8.17 a.m.; Burnley, 9.28 a.m.; Leicester, 4.36 a.m.; Nottingham, 5.10 a.m.; Derby, 5.35 a.m.

AN important influence on the prosperity of the Crystal Palace will be made by the proposed tube from Victoria and Charing Cross, for which Parliamentary powers are being sought by a syndicate recently formed. The suggested route is by way of Peckham, Forest Hill, and Upper Sydenham to the north-west end of the Crystal Palace, and the fare from Victoria will be 3d.

CHILDREN ON THE STAGE. The Act aff

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Farcical Comedy, entitled
"OUR FLAT."

Many and many a hearty laugh has Mrs. Musgrave's ingenious comedy caused, and the late Mr. Willie Edouin's famous impersonation of the theatrical manager, Nathaniel Glover, will always live and be fresh in the memory of his admirers. It is therefore very fitting that the clever little company appearing this week at the King's should be organised by Miss Daisy Edouin. A large audience on Monday evening took very kindly to the piece, laughing uproariously at its absurd situations, and it appeared probable that a successful run would result. Mr. Charles Steuart, as the unsuccessful dramatic author, possesses an easy and natural style of acting exactly suited to the part; Mr. Clarence Vane was capably played by Mr. G. P. Trevor; an amusing Mr. McCallum was Mr. Fred Knight; while Mr. Kaye Brudell was good as Pinchard, the milkman. Mr. S. B. Mayne was an excellent foreman from the furniture stores, acting as if to the manner born; Stout, the hall porter, was capitally rendered by Mr. John Morrin; an immense success was gained by Mr. Wilfred E. Shine in the character of Nathaniel Glover, his make-up and exaggerated manner as the eccentric theatrical manager giving rise to the most genuine laughter; Miss Mary Allestree made a pleasing Margery Sylvester, displaying much talent therein; Lucy McCallum was brightly represented by Miss Katie Yates; and Miss Florence Tyrell made the most of the fashionable dressmaker, Mme. Volant. Miss Irene Ross as the irrepressible youngster Clara Pryout acted well; quite a hit was made by Miss Louie Tinsley as the servant Bella, her sallies keeping the audience continually amused. Mr. Jerome K. Jerome's one-act play Barbara was also given, and in it Miss Florence Tyrell rendered the title-rôle very earnestly, while Miss Katie Yates, Mr. G. P. Trevor, and Mr. Kaye Brudell gave useful support.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Musical Play,
"MISS HOOK OF HOLLAND."

Local playgoers are congratulating themselves on being able to witness the popular Miss Hook of Holland so near home. A good house mustered to welcome Mr. George Dance's principal company on Monday. To say that the performance was greatly enjoyed is to put it very mildly, for apart from the fact that the play is a little out of the ordinary run of musical pieces, the acting in it is of a quality that would satisfy the most exacting. Nothing has been spared in the way of mounting and dressing, and the attention to detail and the excellent stage-management of Mr. Fred Lyne, which were evident throughout, helped materially to the success of the production. The Mr. Hook of Mr. Arthur Reynolds keeps the audience in the best of humour during his occupancy of the stage, his performance being very good. A delightfully vivacious Sally (Miss Hook of Holland) is seen in the person of Miss Marie Wilson, whose sprightly acting, pleasing singing, and graceful dancing combine to make hers a peculiarly attractive performance; the part of Captain Paap is well undertaken by Mr. Fred Hobbs, whose rendering of "The Soldiers of Nederland" is greatly appreciated; the not very exacting part of Lieut. pe Coop is undertaken by Mr. Lionel Scott, who makes the most of his opportunities; Bandmaster Van Vuyt finds a capable exponent in Mr. Powis Pinder, whose vocal efforts are treated in a thoroughly meritorious manner; the voices of Miss Marie Wilson and Mr. Powis Pinder are several times melodiously blended, their combined efforts being most appreciated perhaps in the duet "By the side of the sleepy canal." Mr. Percy Davidson gives a satisfactory impersonation of Ludwig Schnapps; and Mr. H. Holland makes a capital old Dutch policeman. Mr. Fred Lyne, whose splendid work as stage-manager we have referred to above, figures well as Simon Slinks, keeping the house in continual laughter by his quaint humour and by-play. As leader of the deputation of the unemployed—who don't want work—he is funny in the extreme. One of the most vivacious of actresses and sprightliest of dancers, Miss Mabel Sealby, undertakes the part of Mina. One of her great hits is the comical "Flying Dutchman" song, in which she is well supported by the efficient chorus, and another feature of her performance is her rendering of the famous "Petticoats" song, repeated encores being demanded in each case. Mr. A. Murray must be awarded praise for his impersonation of Van Eck, although it is a somewhat "sleepy" part; and Messrs. Charles Russ (Hans Maas) and H. Smith (Hendrick Draek) are to be congratulated upon their efforts. In characters of minor importance, praise is also due to Misses Amy Preston, Maudy Jennings, Queenie Preston, N. Burn, and F. Craigie, all of whom work well and for the success of the play. The members of the chorus are quite up to their work, and sing well. The gentlemen among them have a number all to themselves—"Bottles"—which is very humorously rendered, and for which an encore is demanded. The musical arrangements are under the direction of Mr. Sydney Shaw, and the crowded houses have been well looked after by Mr. Herbert Austin, for Mr. Geo. Dance, and the resident-manager, Mr. J. Murray Herriot, who have left nothing undone in catering for their audiences.

CORONET THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Play, entitled
"RAFFLES."

Mr. Leonard Boyne and company are paying their return visit to the Coronet Theatre this week, and the amateur cracksman is meeting with a most hearty welcome. As A. J. Raffles, the champion crib-cracker of the brainy, cultivated class, Mr. Leonard Boyne is magnificent. His easy, natural manner, his polished conversation, with the sudden awesome flashes of doubt and dread, and, above all, his marvellous alacrity and appearance of tense application to the business in hand, are all admirably suited to the part. His brief passages of love and tenderness, too, are delightfully depicted. Mr. E. W. Thomas gives a good sound performance of the part of the amateur detective, Curtis Bedford. Mr. Harold West contributes a touching embodiment as the faithful friend, Harry Manders, alias "Bunny," a very natural and lifelike representation. Miss Hilda Moore is gentle and graceful as the lovelorn Gwendoline Couran; and Miss Lillian Hallows is a fine, handsome exponent of the part of the adventuress, Mrs. Vidal. Miss Blanka Stewart is excellent as Lady Melrose; and Mr. Arthur Willoughby is dignified and polished as the trusting old nobleman, the Earl of Amersteth. Viscount Crowley is safe in the hands of Mr. Cecil Brymer, who is first rate in the rôle. Mr. Buckstone Clair acts with rugged force as the truculent scoundrel Crawshay; Miss Dorothy Gordon is good as the French maid Marie; and Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald makes a very pretty and engaging Lady Ethel. Mr. Robert Barbour is quietly effective as the porter Barraclough; Mr. Thomas Brooklyn, who enacts the small part of Merton, is stage-manager; and Mr Francis Simpson is business-manager.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Play, in Four Acts, by Walter Howard, entitled
"THE PRINCE AND THE BEGGAR MAID."

The visit here this week of Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company in The Prince and the Beggar Maid, which achieved such a success at the Lyceum, is proving a great attraction. The bare statement of the fact that the play was rehearsed under the direction of Mr. Walter Howard, and that the company carried the original scenery, furniture, and accessories, was in itself an incentive to suburban playgoers, and therefore at the opening performance on Monday it was not surprising to find the house packed from floor to ceiling. That their expectations were fully realised was evidenced by the enthusiastic applause they accorded the principals at the close of the performance. Much of the success of the play was due to Miss Annie Saker, whose impersonation of the sorely-tried Princess Monica was marked with that thoroughness of detail only found in the highly-gifted artist. The varying emotions of the part were faithfully partrayed, and Miss Saker evoked the fullest sympathy of the audience, who accorded her a great ovation. Miss Isla Vayne won hosts of admirers by her refreshing delineation of Viola; another good performance was that of Miss Dido Drake, in the rôle of Camiola, a beggar maid. Mr. Ivan Cleveland fully realised the despotic nature of Prince Hildred, and acted throughout with dignity; Mr. Graeme Campbell contributed a clever character-study of the deformed Prince Michael; Mr. Herbert Ford gave a vigororus and polished interpretation of Prince Olaf; Mr. Francis Hawley gave distinction to the rôle of the Bishop of Illyria; and Mr. Edmund Lea was effective as Colonel Wellenberg. Mr. D. Lewin Mannering played the part of Captain Hector in a manner thoroughly in keeping with the character; and Mr. Kendal Chalmers must be commended for a highly entertaining presentation of Lieut. Karl Stromberg; Mr. J. E. Gardner rendered good support as the dumb servant, Nathan; and the remaining parts were all in safe hands. Mr. Francis Hawley is general-manager for Messrs. Paumier and Howard.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Drama, entitled
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

Mr. Charles Harrington's company enacted the many stirring incidents in the above favourite play with much success here, and received quite an ovation at the hands of the young people, to whom the story of the slavery days will always appeal. In the grand plantation festival the vocal efforts of the ladies and gentlemen of colour were a great help to the success of the piece. Miss Hero Hathaway gave a sympathetic rendering of the suffering Eliza Harris; and Miss Jennie Malcolm fully entered into the quaint side of the character of Miss Ophelia, whose primness gave additional point to the outrageous tricks of the irrepressible Topsy, realistically represented by Miss Annie Watson. Miss Hetty Johnson's Cassy was a forcible impersonation; and Little Eva moved her audience not a little in the pathetic scenes, which Miss Kitty Bell so ably presented. Mr. J. Carr, a genuine negro, gave dignity and genuineness to the central figure of the play, Uncle Tom; and the brutal Legree was unsparingly drawn by Mr. T. Bowron. Plenty of mirth was aroused whenever Mr. Walter Langford came on as Marks, the lawyer, the same versatile gentleman giving a clever banjo solo in the plantation scene. Sambo and Quimbo, both genuine blacks, were played by Messrs. Jack Black and Tom Miles; and Mr. F. Forbes-Robertson made an interesting St. Clair. A host of talent appeared in a negro festival in Legree's cotton fields, giving concerted pieces, instrumental solos, ballads, and characteristic dances.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Comedy, entitled
"THE EDUCATION OF ELIZABETH."

This famous West-end success is this week being presented to delighted theatre-goers at the playhouse on Brixton Oval, and the comedy seems as assured of proving profitable in the provinces as at the Apollo and Haymarket. The company is under the direction of Mr. C. H. Bowmaker, so long associated with the palmy days of the Surrey. A good cast is provided for the presentation, and Elizabeth Banks and her merry companions, it is safe to say, have made a troop of friends this week in South London. Mr. Ernest E. Norris makes a capital Reggie Hankey. His acting, indeed, as the good-natured dandy, is most amusing, and in his praiseworthy work he has an accomplished companion in Miss Blanche Lynd. This talented lady's portrayal of the good-hearted, but vulgar, Blanche Macintyre proved highly successful. As Elizabeth Banks Miss Florence Harcourt did well; her change from the frivolous and merry chorus girl of the start to the studious damsel was depicted excellently. Miss Helene Forrest was a sympathetic and handsome Lucy Middleton; Miss May Norris a pretty and engaging Lily Kerr; Mr. Fred Castleman was exceptionally good as the cynical roué, Mr. Whitby; as Harry Fairfax Mr. Bert Morley was a most agreeable lover, and deserved the applause received. The Education of Elizabeth was nicely staged and mounted, and produced under the superintendence of Mr. Ernest E. Norris.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Musical Comedy entitled
"THE GIRLS OF GOTTENBERG."

Aided by an exceptionally large company, a full chorus, and an augmented orchestra, The Girls of Gottenberg nightly receives the plaudits of a highly-appreciative audience. Mr. Bertie Wright as Max Moddelkopf is brilliant throughout, and he is undoubtedly the most humorous feature of the piece. His scenes with Miss May Marshall as the Burgomaster's daughter are laughable in the extreme, both artists combining most happily for the amusement of the audience. Mr. Tom Shelford as Otto, Prince of Saxe-Hildersheim, is superb, his rendering of the song "Jericho" being remarkably fine. Miss Amie Grey plays the part of Elsa with style and finesse. Mitzi, the innkeeper's daughter, is admirably impersonated by Miss Ellaline Thorne, whose dramatic powers are singularly well developed, whilst her singing is irreproachable. Miss Susie Raymond as Lucille, maid to Elsa, is the première danseuse of the cast, and furnishes a combination of beauty, grace, and agility. The undergraduates of the Gottenberg Ladies' College are resplendent in uniforms of green and gold. In these rôles the Misses Romaine, Allen, Taylor, and Gordon are certainly seen at their best. As Katrina Miss Susie Beardon displays a considerable amount of talent. The Burgomaster, as portrayed by Mr. Morgan Rickards, is distinctly funny, as is also Mr. Tom Squire as Adolph, the Gottenberg town clerk. The part of Kannenbier, the innkeeper, is left in the able keeping of Mr. Edward Stanley. Of the other characters Mr. Hugh Henson and Mr. Howard Gridland are admirable in their way; while Messrs. Allen, Miller, Comber, and Sealey contribute largely to the success of the piece. The play is magnificently staged and dressed. The lyrics are exceedingly pretty, and the chorus effects are unusually fine.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Drama, in Four Acts, by S. Buchanan Rogerson, entitled
"WHEN IT WAS DARK."

The management of this well-conducted theatre have been fortunate enough to secure for the current week Mr. T. Morton Powell's company in an adaptation of Guy Thorne's "When it was Dark." A large audience on Monday followed the story with unbounded interest, and appreciated with no uncertain voice the many fine situations to be found in the play, while the beautiful scenery and stage-pictures gained unqualified admiration. As Constantine Schwabe the millionaire Mr. Haldane Dalton brought out with fine effect the dominant personality of the man; and the sensual Sir Robert Llewellyn was made the most of by Mr. Charles Brandon. Mr. William H. Burton was a capital Rev. Mr. Byars; Mr. Wilfred Lyndon was seen to advantage as the Rev. Basil Gortre; and Mr. Jack Armitage portrayed with ease the man about town, Nunc Wallace; the Greek Ionides being played with finish by Mr. Charles Grandley. Mr. George Tawde caused amusement as the Hon. Charles Gayfly; Mr. Aldred Collingham was a competent Harold Spence; and the wronged and repentant Gertrude Hunt was finely played by Miss Ethel Griffies, Helena Byars being rendered by Miss Marie Barrett in good style. The remaining characters were in the capable hands of Mr. Arthur Clifton, Mr. Francis Cavins, Mr. F. Dixon, Miss Tessa Myers, Miss Emilie Schular, and Miss Florrie Lyndon.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Play, by Hall Caine, entitled
"THE BONDMAN."

Mr. Wentworth Croke is presenting this week at the Dalston Theatre Hall Caine's play The Bondman, and it is going strong. Mr. R. Scrope Quentin is prominent in the cast in the trying part of Jason, which he plays with considerable force, quite impressing the audience with the intense and earnest nature of the man represented. As Michael Sunlocks Mr. Lionel Atwill imparts an air of romance to the character which is in every way acceptable; as Adam Fairbrother, the good-hearted farmer, Mr. Oswald Lingard is admirable; and as the exacting and somewhat mercenary Mrs. Fairbrother Miss Madge Lanerton does excellent work. The exacting rôle of Greeba falls to the lot of Miss Georgina Wynter, who sustains the burden of sorrow, hope, and fear with tear-compelling sympathy. Other female characters are satisfactorily portrayed by Miss Lilian Mayne (Martha), Miss Emilie Mayhew (Christian Ann), Miss Gertrude Helene, Miss Bessie West, Miss Hilda Grey, Miss Ethel Lockhart, and Miss Marie Florence. Mr. W. H. Rotheram is cast for two characters, Grandfather and Father Ferrati. The latter part affords plenty of scope for the actor's art, and Mr. Rotheram takes advantage of the chances. Mr. Alfred Fisher's Governor Testa and Mr. F. J. Waller's Doctor Boni must be mentioned among the careful enactments in the play; while Mr. Frederick Chapel as John Robert and Mr. John Grant as John James are favourites with the audience.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, Oct. 5, Mr. F. R. Benson and Co. in SHAKESPEAREAN REPERTOIRE.

It is always worth while to see Shakespeare worthily presented and acted, and if one goes to see Mr. Benson and his company one may be pretty sure that the play will be well done. This week Mr. Benson is giving performances of The Merchant of Venice, Julius Cæsar, Henry V., The Merry Wives of Windsor, Macbeth, and Hamlet, with a slight excursion into The School for Scandal. Mr. Benson's Shakespearean productions are always distinguished by a fine air of scholarship and thoughtfulness, and proper respect for the greatness of the author. As for the acting, it needs no praise, for there is not a man living who has done more to train good actors and actresses than Mr. Benson. The play of Julius Cæsar—to mention one of the week's performances—is one that tests the powers of elocution of the actors as much as their dramatic powers. In this Mr. Benson takes the part of Antony: it is not the leading rôle by any means, but has its attractive points. Mr. Benson was excellent in the splendid funeral oration. Mrs. Benson was seen to advantage in the beautiful character of Portia. Mr. Murray Carrington made an impressive Cæsar—a Cæsar past his prime, and not quite the man he was, even as we are told Shakespeare meant him to be. Mr. E. A. Warburton deserves much praise for his work as Brutus, which was full of fine and dignified acting; nor was Mr. Baliol Holloway less effective as the fiery Cassius, and the famous quarrel scene went with splendid vigour and truthfulness. Mr. F. G. Worlock was a good Octavius; and Mr. H. O. Nicholson gave much point to Casca. Miss Helen Haye did well the little that falls to the part of Calphurnia. The work of the minor characters all showed the careful training of a master hand, and the crowds were splendidly alive.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Drama,
"THE SAILOR'S WEDDING."

The above is a strong play with a good cast. It is excellently staged, and is ably acted, and "Elephant" patrons have not been slow in showing their approval. Mr. C. W. Standing gives a vigorous representation of the gallant Lieutenant Gordon Drake; Mr. Cecil Klein is responsible for a very natural performance as his easy-going yet staunch friend, Sir Victor Lascelles; Mr. Frank Stone gives an excellent reading of the character of Count Bellini; and Mr. Hodgson Taylor is a forcible and impressive villain, Giovanni Ferici. The Countess Bellini is played with much feeling by Miss Maud Linden; and Miss Dulcie Greatwich acts in a sweet and natural manner as her daughter Mary. Miss Winifred Pearson is to be congratulated upon her excellent portrayal of the adventuress Lenore de Gresac, her acting in the scene in the boudoir at the Villa Marina giving evidence of her high emotional abilities. All the minor characters were in safe hands, and an adequate amount of fun was provided by Mr. Walter Pemberton and Miss Belle Travers in their respective characters of Jack Hawkins and Polly Clarke. The scenery is worthy of special mention, a most beautiful back-cloth being hung in the set depicting the Villa Bellina.

ROYAL ARTILLERY, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Farce entitled
"ARE YOU A MASON?"

The above-mentioned amusing farcical comedy is drawing good houses this week, and, judging by the mirth exhibited, is proving highly delectable fare to the patrons of this theatre. Mr. Charles Macdona has got together a capable company who work well and are not slow in taking every advantage of their opportunities and emphasising the laughter-provoking incidents with which the piece abounds. Frank Perry has a good representative in Mr. Francis J. Bithel, who extricates himself from the scrape he has got into in a light-hearted manner and a commendable spirit. Mr. E. H. Paterson gives an amusing rendering of the henpecked Amos Bloodgood; Mr. H. Langdon Bruce is entirely successful in the part of George Fisher; ample justice is done to the character of John Halton by Mr. G. P. Polson; Hamilton Travers is in the capable hands of Mr. Erskholme E. Clive; Mr. Wilton Ross makes a favourable impression as Ernest Morrison; Eva is a charming young lady as submitted by Miss Rita Narcelli, who puts heart into her work; Miss Mary Kilpack essays the rôle of Lottie in humorous fashion, and is the source of much merriment; Miss Adelaide Grace is well suited in the part of Mrs. Caroline Bloodgood; while Mr. R. Wiseman, Miss Viola Garland, Miss Pleonsgains, Miss Rita Johnson, and Miss Dulcie Verney also add their quota to the evening's amusement. The farce is preceded by a dramatic episode by W. Lestocq entitled A Bad Penny, and is successfully interpreted by Mr. Erksholme E. Clive, Mr. G. P. Polson, Mr. Wilton Ross, and Miss Dulcie Verney.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Play, in Four Acts, by Hall Caine, entitled
"THE PRODIGAL SON."

Presented by Mr. Wentworth Croke, The Prodigal Son is without doubt possessed of considerable magnetic power, and is consequently attracting large and interested audiences to this commodious house. The play, which comprises four acts, is excellently mounted and dressed, and the numerous members of a long cast are judiciously placed. Mr. Gordon Mackintosh essays the difficult character of Oscar Stephensson with much dramatic power, and brings into play the necessary ability and experience, and in Act 3 shows to conspicuous advantage. Mr. Hugh Montgomery supplies a clever study of the brother, Magnus Stephensson, and acts with sincerity and conviction; Mr. Charles Cooper merits commendation for his handling of the part of Stephen Magnusson, Anna, his wife, is pathetically rendered by Miss Barbara Gott; Miss Mildred Cottell as Helga Nielson infuses a good deal of emotion into the character, and is effective; Oscar Nielson is ably undertaken by Mr. Philip Renouf; Mr. Ernest Rivary offers a good characterisation of Dr. Olsen; Miss Valerie Crespin portrays the part of Elin with easy grace and in a charming manner, her singing being a grateful feature; Miss Marie Harcourt as Margaret Neilson and Mr. G. Dickson Kenwin and Mr. Charles A. Maynard as Director of Casino and Neils Filsen respectively are valuable members of the cast, the remainder of which lend excellent assistance to a praiseworthy production.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Drama, by Edwin Milton Royle, entitled
"A WHITE MAN."

The attraction here this week is the famous Lyric Theatre success, A White Man, presented by Mr. Herbert Sleath's company, which is drawing vast audiences to the popular South London house. The author of the piece has contrived to bring the atmosphere of cowboy life in the Wild West over the footlights, and there is a picturesqueness and novelty about the play which enthral the audience. Mr. Frank E. Petley as the brave, self-sacrificing Jim Carston scores a great success. He looks the part well, and the emotional passages are excellently rendered. Mr. Lewis Broughton plays very earnestly and successfully in the unthankful rôle of the Earl of Kerhill; Miss Eleanor May makes a sympathetic and stately Countess of Kerhill; while Miss Rhoda Ray is a very pathetic little Indian squaw as Natu-Ritch. Mr. R. A. Brandon scores heavily as the good-hearted foreman of the Ranch, "Big Bill"; while the three cow-punchers, Shorty, Andy, and Grouchy, are graphically delineated by Messrs. Thomas Severn, Martin Henry, and T. W. H. Sarll. Mr. Eric Hudson is remarkably good as the tall, silent Red Indian chief; and Mr. Walter Gibbons presents a first-class character-sketch as the cruel Cash Hawkins. The scenery and effects are most admirable, and the piece is most enthusiastically received.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Oct. 5, for the first time in London, the Drama, in Four Acts, by J. A. Campbell, entitled
"THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME."

Lord Howard Kenilworth	Mr. Frank Liston
Andrew Ross	Mr. Aidan Lovett
Christopher Robin	Mr. Henry Nelson
Hugh Lovell	Mr. Vernon Proctor
Ben Jolly	Mr. Frank Caffrey
Joe Chaff	Mr. Leslie Crowther
Jock	Mr. Arthur Dudley
Musillo	Mr. William Speke
William	Mr. William Myers
Robert	Mr. Harold Shuter
A Policeman	Mr. Henry Strong
Sam	Mr. Richard Loft
Johnson	Mr. H. Danby
Martha	Miss Clara Santley
Susan Giles	Miss Nellie Hook
Patricia Bathurst	Miss Kate Froude
Bonita Durham	Miss Amy Rudd
Dinah	Miss Lillian Francies
A Nurse	Miss Helene Cronie
Dorothy Robin	Miss Mary Fulton

Sentiment such as a popular audience love and fun that they revel in are abundant in the play above named, which was originally produced at the Junction Theatre, Manchester, on Sept. 30, 1907. The author has dealt deftly with incidents collated from many sources, and has presented a series of striking dramatic scenes and touching episodes, illustrated by dialogue of a telling character. Though the action of the play is transported at one time to the banks of the "Swanee Ribber," it is in an English village that the "old folks" reside. They are Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Robin, and they have a daughter, Dorothy, whom they had hoped to wed to their adopted son, the upright Andrew Ross. Dorothy, however, has been fascinated by the attentions of a libertine named Lord Howard Kenilworth, the landlord of the homestead, who only wants to make her his bride because he is obliged to marry in order to inherit a fortune, and because he thinks the simple country maid will offer no opposition to his vicious habits. The old people give a reluctant consent to the marriage, and Andrew Ross, who is passionately devoted to Dorothy, takes a solemn oath that should his lordship treat his wife with anything but kindness he will exact a terrible revenge.

The worst forebodings of Andrew are realised in the second act, when Lord and Lady Kenilworth return a year later from the Continent. Dorothy has suffered a long course of ill-treatment at the hands of her husband, who not only refuses to receive her father and mother, but intercepts her letters to them. Moreover, he introduces into his house a woman named Patricia Bathurst, whom he had met in Paris, but attempts in vain to force Dorothy to acknowledge her. Eventually a young artist named Hugh Lovell, who had been the means of introducing Lord Kenilworth and Dorothy, comes to see the young wife, and reveals to her the fact that it was from mercenary motives that his lordship married her. He takes a serious view of his responsibility, and cherishes a deep remorse for having been the means of Dorothy's unhappiness. He reminds Lord Kenilworth of Andrew Ross's threat of vengeance, and his lordship, stricken with fear, consents to a proposal, made by his lady accomplice, that Andrew shall be assassinated. Through the good offices of a servant-maid Mr. and Mrs. Robin gain admittance to the house, and take their daughter to the old home.

In the meantime Andrew Ross has gone abroad, and has obtained a situation as overseer at a cotton plantation in Virginia. The hired assassin duly makes his appearance, in the person of a pretended Mexican mail carrier, who is about to kill Andrew with a dagger, but is prevented by a timely shot from Lovell, who yearns for Andrew's forgiveness, and travels to the States for that purpose. He informs Andrew of Dorothy's dire position, and the young man immediately starts for England. He is saved the trouble of attacking Lord Kenilworth, for summary vengeance is meted out to him by a dumb hunchback, who is devoted to Dorothy, and kills the villain before ending his own life. The way to a union between Dorothy and Andrew is thus opened, and the peace of "the old folks at home" made secure.

Effective "curtains" are supplied to the play, and are well worked up by the principals. The highly-strung part of Dorothy is earnestly enacted by Miss Mary Fulton, who invests her scenes with deep poignancy and feeling, Dorothy's display of emotion at the sight of her dead child being very affecting. Mr. Aidan Lovett is a stalwart and well-spoken Andrew Ross, and gives full effect to his many stirring speeches. The unscrupulous nature of Lord Howard Kenilworth is neatly accentuated by Mr. Frank Liston, who makes a morbid villain, vindictive and aggressive towards the defenceless, but quick to show the coward nature. An artistically coloured performance of the adventuress, Patricia Bathurst, is given by Miss Kate Froude, who varies her utterances and actions skilfully. The old couple, Christopher Robin and his wife, supply two interesting personages, and Mr. Henry Nelson, an actor of manifest experience and excellent elocution, and Miss Clara Santley are much to be commended. As Hugh Lovell Mr. Vernon Proctor has to combat with a character drawn on very indefinite lines, but submits a sound and spirited rendition. A refined representation of Bonita, the young proprietress of the cotton fields, who falls in love with Andrew, is given by Miss Amy Rudd. A well-studied rendering of the bully, Musillo, comes from Mr. William Speke; and as the cripple lad Mr. Arthur Dudley supplies an eloquent piece of pantomime. The lighter element of the play is entrusted to Ben Jolly, a sailor, and William and Robert, a couple of flunkeys, who form a trio of rivals for the hand of the maid, Susan. Much diversion is caused by the efforts of the individuals named, Mr. Frank Caffrey greatly enhancing his reputation as a comedian by his jovial and cheery sailor-man; Miss Nellie Hook lending invaluable aid by her vivacity as the servant; and Messrs. William Myers and Harold Shuter going through a series of eccentricities that excite unbounded amusement. The play is embellished by some glees, including "A Farmer's Life," sung by the darkies in the Virginia plantation. They are particularly well rendered, the sweet and flexible voice of Miss Lillian Francies, who plays Dinah, being greatly admired. The scenery for the production is very elaborate, some picturesque effects of colour being gained in the plantation scene. A good audience on the night of our visit gave frequent expression of their approval.

THE BROADWAY, NEW CROSS.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Musical Comedy entitled
"THE CATCH OF THE SEASON."

This bright and clever production is proving an excellent draw this week, and it is remarkably well acted all round. Mr. Hill-Mitchelson is seen to great advantage in the rôle of the Duke of St. Jermyns, and to him falls a large share of the work; Mr. Robert Cranny as Higham Montague is distinctly good, and the same remark applies to Mr. J. W. Bruce as Lord Yatton; Mr. Franklin Miles is an excellent Sir John Crystal; Mr. Geoffrey Berwick is a capital Mr. Gibson; Mr. William Greene is good as Captain Rushpool; Mr. George Slade gives a good performance as Almeric Montpelier; Mr. H. C. Barry is very good indeed as Isaac Isaacstein; Master Peter Grata is a clever and amusing Bucket; and the footmen are well impersonated by Messrs. Edward Pollard and Stanley Liston. Miss Gladys Guy is a charming Angela; Miss Clare de Vere is an imposing Duchess of St. Jermyns; Miss Alice Hamilton is a pleasing and convincing Lady Crystal, whose two daughters have attractive representatives in Miss Barry Eldon (Honoria) and Miss Kate Robertson (Sophia); Miss Annie Braddon dances with grace and skill; Miss Ethel Edwards is an admirable Princess; and Miss Grace Hampton as Lady Caterham acts delightfully. The Gibson Girls and Lucille Girls have prepossessing representatives, and the orchestra is under the direction of Mr. E. Peterson.

GREENWICH THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Drama entitled
"THE HEART OF A HERO."

Business under Mr. Arthur Carlton's spirited management continues excellent. This week we have Mr. Lingford Carson's clever play, The Heart of a Hero, which is admirably interpreted by the capital company headed by Mr. Ernest J. Fare, whose performance of Jem Resdale is warmly appreciated. Mr. James Miley plays Wilfred Marl exceedingly well; Mr. J. P. Lallen is very good as Mark Marl; Mr. Will White is amusing as Timothy Heighno; Mr. Frank Kelland gives a capital performance of Jack Collinson; Mr. Cuthbert Taylor is a capital Detective David Pritchard; Mr. J. Harold plays effectively as Henry Barker; as does Mr. David Donaldson as George Winson; Mr. Sydney Russell is an impressive Inspector of Police and Mr. Hubert Monti a capable Chief Constable. Messrs. Compton Howard and Felix Lawson are competent Warders; and Mr. Horace Leech is well placed as Giles Brown. Miss Emma Rainbow brings her ripe experience to bear with excellent effect in the dual part assigned to her, viz., Mrs. Barker and Mrs. Ryder; Miss Mabel Fare is a charming May Ryder; Miss Frances Fernia a bright and clever Susie Slack; and Miss M. Steeple plays very well indeed as Nell Resdale. The Shaughraun was announced for Thursday and Saturday, with Mr. Ernest J. Fare in the part of Conn.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Drama, by Percy Ballard,
"ONLY A WOMAN."

Only a Woman is an apt title for the piece under notice. Marie Lestoc is the woman, and she dominates the destinies of the rest, and before the curtain falls the audience know that such a passing description can carry full significance. She is the first wife of Rodney Summerfield, who believes the marriage has been a mock ceremony; but his precious confederate, Courtney Wallace, is still a clergyman at the time and "lets him in." The woman finds this out, and henceforward holds sway over the two men, the second wife, and the children of the "marriages." Love, however, triumphs in the end, and sees the death of both Marie Lestoc and Rodney Summerfield, and the betrothal of the wronged Violet Redgrave to Rodney's cousin Richard. Miss Violet Cranford has plenty to do as Marie Lestoc, and brings much histrionic ability to bear upon the somewhat complex character; Mr. F. Green is a manly and outspoken Lieut. Richard Summerfield; Lieut. Rodney Summerfield is powerfully presented by Mr. Charles Wilton; Mr. Leslie K. Manton submits a well-defined sketch of the broken-down factitious scoundrel, Courtney Wallace; and Mr. George Willis as Billy Bumpkins (buttons), and Mr. A. Silvernie as the flunkey, James Dobson, lend able support in the comedy scenes. Miss Lily Ferris acts with charm as Violet Redgrave; and Miss Flo Bevan is a merry and entertaining Eliza Jane. Other parts receive adequate treatment, and Mr. F. E. Chabôt is to be complimented upon the mounting of the piece.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Oct. 5, the Play, in Three Acts,
"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH."

Mr. Gaston Mayer's company, in Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, is the attraction here this week. The decidedly novel and piquant story, which has the rare advantage of gaining in interest as it proceeds, is being received with much cordiality, and is quite repeating on tour the success it met with in London. Mrs. Madge Carr Cook, in the name-part, is the central figure of the piece, and in the hands of this talented actress the cheerful, large-hearted, philosophic Mrs. Wiggs is a delightful personage, and is quickly endeared to everyone. Exceedingly clever is Miss Rita Carlyle's impersonation of Miss Hazy; while much praise must be bestowed upon Miss Mabel Durrant and Miss Mabel Vivian as the angular Mrs. Eichorn and the rotund Mrs. Schultz respectively. Miss Christine Raynor plays with becoming naivete as Lovey Mary; Miss Mary Deverell is a very charming Miss Lucy; and Miss Ruhamah Catton brightly impersonates Asia. Mr. Frederick Forrest is entirely successful as Mr. Stubbins, and is responsible for a very droll and interesting performance; Mr. Walter M. Cameron handles with tact and expression the rôle of Mr. Wiggs; Mr. Bob has a buoyant representative in Mr. Gerald Henson; Mr. Arthur Vezin plays in manly style as Billy Wiggs; and Mr. Sidney Carlyle makes the most of his opportunities as Chris. Hazy. Remaining parts are all played very capably, and the scenery and mounting are most appropriate.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia witnessed the performance of The King of Cadonia at the Prince of Wales's Theatre on Monday.

"BRINGING IT HOME."

A Play in One Act, by H. M. Richardson, produced at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, on Monday, Oct. 5.

Mrs. Unwin .....Miss Darragh
Mrs. Bent-Bullough ....Miss Louise Holbrook
Simpson .....Mr. Henry Austin
Jeanette .....Miss Lilian Christine
Cyril Unwin .....Mr. Basil Dean
Maid .....Miss Enid Meek

(From our own correspondent.)

Mr. H. M. Richardson has based his idea in Bringing it Home on the attitude of motorists towards the non-motoring public—a popular theme just now—and the title itself is the first step he takes towards giving away that idea before its time to an audience concerned chiefly at the start with the clever sarcasms of the dialogue. It is a play of incident rather than character, and such plays, to be effective, demand a climax that is unforeseen. Mrs. Bent-Bullough and Mrs. Unwin discuss motor-cars and the impertinence of the public that objects to be run down and killed by them. Children are killed, it seems, because their parents deliberately place them in the way to annoy the Bent-Bullroughs and the Unwins, to whom the roads belong. Mrs. Bent-Bullough departs (by car, of course), and Mrs. Unwin, whose husband is a motoring magistrate—but "a motorist first and a magistrate second"—is left to her thoughts. Suddenly Jeanette breaks on her in a state of excitement. Unwin junior, known as "the treasure," has strayed away somewhere and cannot be found. Some instinct of calamity is in the governess; but Mrs. Unwin allays her fears, not thinking of the danger of motor-cars in relation to her own child. It is, in fact, only after her husband has arrived home at a breakneck pace some time afterward, weary of trying cases which bear on the curiously human nature of the lower classes that, answering his inquiry about the whereabouts of "the treasure," she begins to wonder uneasily whether the little truant has been found. Mr. Richardson, having thoroughly prepared his audience for the tragedy, piles on the agony by making the parents dwell fondly on the value and meaning of their child to them. When the issue begins to make itself actually felt, and there can be no doubt whatever in anyone's mind that the thing—"the dog or the sheep"—which Mr. Unwin happens to have run over (without stopping) on approaching his home is his own child, a tense situation is created. It is, however, dramatically futile, and one is left to wonder that a play capable of effective treatment should be spoiled by the author's lack of tact. Otherwise a certain cleverness in the action and dialogue, a reflex, as it were, of current dramatic modes, indicates some knowledge of the stage and an ability worth cultivating. The acting was, on the whole, very good. As. Mrs. Unwin, especially at the close, Miss Darragh played with extraordinary incisive emotional power; Miss Louise Holbrook filled the part of Mrs. Bent-Bullough with just the requisite superficial smartness; the Simpson of Mr. Henry Austin was natural and, in its way, impressive; Miss Lilian Christine as Jeanette and Miss Enid Meek as the maid fulfilled their purposes creditably; and Mr. Basil Dean, though obviously too young for a magistrate, and therefore ill-cast, played the husband and father with the fullest regard for the intimate sentimentalities of his part. The part was well received.

"MAKESHIFTS."

A Middle-class Comedy, in One Act, by Gertrude L. Robins, produced at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, on Monday, Oct. 5.

Caroline Parker .....Miss Ada King
Dolly Parker .....Miss Louise Holbrook
Mr. Thompson .....Mr. Leonard Mudie
Albert Smythe .....Mr. Charles Bibby

In addition to her experience as an actress, Miss Gertrude L. Robins has brought to bear upon her little play, Makeshifts, a literary gift which is not only free from pretentiousness, but characterised by those qualities of perfect simplicity and ease which denote the artist. Moreover, her subject, quiet and simple as it seems, is distinctly outside the range of ordinary talent. It is a character play, and has for its central figures two sisters, Caroline and Dolly Parker—the one quietly domesticated to a life of commonplace anxieties, the other an assistant teacher in a school. In the house are also a sick mother and a very modest and unassuming lodger, Mr. Thompson, who looks upon the sisters with a kind of respectful yet sympathetic awe, but who in their eyes is apparently not a marriageable object. The life seems deadly dull; they see no men outside their narrow opportunities; it is probable they will develop into old maids. But the dulness is made bright for the audience by keen and humorous dialogue, quite natural to the characters and relevant to the situation, even while the bitter hopelessness of it all is throbbing underneath. It becomes apparent too, that a certain interest stirs in each when Mr. Albert Smythe is mentioned. That personage is expected, and presently arrives: a brisk and empty egotist in a gorgeous vest, talking much about himself and patronising the girls as if his very presence confers distinction upon them. Opportunity provides him with a chance to talk confidentially to each in turn; and in both cases he is interrupted apparently on the brink of a proposal of marriage. Pathos steals into the situation, for each loves him; pity also, for he is worthy of neither. But the truth is that what he has been on the point of confessing, and now blurts out to both, is that he is about to be married to the daughter of an elderly mutual acquaintance. With that, having got is off his mind, he cheerfully leaves them, an absconding makeshift, unaware of the painful little situation he has left behind. Admirable as the play is, it was no less admirably acted. Miss Ada King played Caroline, the elder sister, with remarkable tact and feeling; Miss Louise Holbrook was the discontented school teacher, Dolly, to the life; while as Mr. Thompson, the lodger, Mr. Leonard Mudie was quietly natural, and Mr. Charles Bibby as the cheerful Mr. Smythe gave an excellent comedy sketch. The piece and its authoress were warmly applauded at the close.

At the Savoy Theatre on the afternoon of the 29th ult., at 4.30 p.m., was given a copyright performance (by kind permission of Mrs. D'Oyly Carte) of The Plumber Prince; or, The King of Ersia, by A. E. Stilwell.

"The King of Crime" is proving a strong attraction at the Queen's Theatre, Fleetwood, this week. Mr. F. B. Woulfe, in the title-rôle, gives a powerful rendering of Ronjarre, and Miss Mildred Eversleigh as Henrietta, the blind wife, ably seconds his efforts; Mr. William Miller as Gandek, Mr. William Melvyn as Louis Mascorot, and Miss Grace Evelyn as Mimie Patenlair, all do well in their respective parts. Mr. Sam Wilford, in the part of Mick Maloney, ably supports the lighter moments of the play.

Mr. Frank Stanmore's company in The Gay Deceivers has been playing to record business everywhere, and at the Hippodrome, Sheerness, last week, hundreds were turned away nightly. Such success is all the more gratifying in view of the fact that the piece has no London reputation, and relies solely on its intrinsic merits.

REOPENING OF GRAND, GLASGOW.

On Monday this theatre reopened under the management of Moss Empires, Ltd., and a very large and distinguished audience assembled to do honour to the occasion. The production for the opening was the popular comedy opera Dorothy, the revival of which was so successful at the Broadway, New Cross, last week. The early history of the Grand Theatre is crammed full of incident. It was originally opened on Aug. 3, 1867, by Alfred Davis, under the name of the Prince of Wales's Theatre. Among the notable bookings during his reign was an Italian opera company, which included Titiens, Sinico, Demeric-Lablache, Foli, and Santley. On the opening night of this engagement (Feb. 27, 1868) occurred a famous local "O.P. riot," owing to the limited accommodation allowed to the gods for their shilling and their indignation thereat. Davis produced two pantomimes during his lesseeship, The Fair One with the Golden Locks and Valentine and Orson, and it was during the run of the latter that the fire took place which ended the first chapter of the theatre's history. After being rebuilt, the Prince of Wales's was opened by Fred Belton, and subsequently, was under the control of John Coleman, William Sydney, W. H. Sleigh, Fred Cooke, and William Glover, all well-known names in the theatrical arena. In the autumn of 1881 a Nottingham syndicate installed Mr. Thos. W. Charles here, altered the name of the theatre to the Grand, and the opening under this management marked the beginning of a new era for the theatre. All the successes of 'Gus Harris at Drury Lane, and Wilson Barrett at the Princess's, and the Adelphi dramas, were given here with ample and adequate effect, the stage being the largest in Glasgow, and the visits of the Carl Rosa Opera Company twice yearly were always notably successful. But it was in pantomime that T. W. Charles excelled, and his first effort here, Dick Whittington in 1881-2, holds the record for Glasgow with a run of ninety-one nights. For five years the theatre had a run of prosperity, and then Charles left and Augustus Harris took the reins. Owing to several differences of opinion with the local magistrates, Harris left after one year, and the theatre was for a time run by H. Cecil Beryl and then by Andrew Melville. In September, 1893, Mr. Ernest Stevens took over the control of the Grand, and for ten years was most successful here, especially at pantomime time, thanks to that excellent comedian the late Percy Milton. During his occupancy Mr. Stevens did much to improve the theatre, particularly about the year 1899, when he became sole proprietor of the building and adjuncts. At this time a block of buildings in the rear of the stage was bought, and extensive and improved dressing-room accommodation added. In 1903 a syndicate, at the head of which was Mr. R. C. Buchanan, took over the theatre, and for a time was very successful, until the growing popularity of the variety houses began to tell against the theatres devoted to drama. Under this management considerable alterations and additions were made to the Grand, principally a new wing at a cost of £6,000, in which are extensive bars, cloak-rooms, and smoking-lounges for every tier. Notable productions during this régime were Romeo and Juliet, which ran for forty-seven performances, a record for a Shakespearean revival in Glasgow annals; Cymbeline, which was not so successful; Robert Courtneidge's Cinderella pantomime; and a beautifully-staged revival of Rob Roy.

In the spring of this year Moss Empires took over the Grand, and since then the tradesmen have been busy transforming the interior. Messrs. Frank Matcham and Co. were entrusted with the work, and they have made new façades, improved exits and entrances, and have rebuilt the circles. The whole of the ceiling has been remodelled and ornamented with Italian art paintings. The auditorium has been entirely refurnished, and contains luxurious tip-up seats on velvet-pile carpet. The entrances have been artistically decorated, and the stage and dressing-rooms overhauled and altered. The sum of £5,000 has been spent, and the unanimous opinion of the large and enthusiastic audience at the opening on Monday when they beheld the beautiful interior of this fine theatre was that the money had been well spent. The illustration we give, though small, indicates the artistic and luxurious style of the decorations generally.

The revival of Dorothy, which serves to introduce the new régime, is that of Messrs. Hayden Coffin and John Coates, and both these popular artists were given a right hearty welcome on Monday. As Harry Sherwood and Geoffrey Wilder both were in excellent voice, and the encores were numerous and well deserved throughout the evening. Miss Ruth Davenport makes a charming Dorothy, and with the aid of her cousin Lydia, cleverly played by Miss Hebe Bliss, the humour, sentiment, and tuneful music of the opera were all equally well looked after. The opera has not been played professionally in Glasgow for twelve years, and so had the charm of novelty to many theatre-goers. In the part of Lurcher, Glasgow admirers welcome back Mr. Arthur Williams, who has not been here for a long time. His performance was most enjoyable, and all the time-honoured "gags" of the part, and several distinctly new ones, were received with roars of laughter. Mr. Colin Coop is an excellent Squire Bantam; and as Mrs. Privett Miss Emily Spiller again treads the boards where she reigned as a principal boy in pantomime. Mr. Tim Ryley as Tom Strutt, Miss Aimee Roberts as Phillis (a sweet singer), and Mr. Fred J. Vigay as the innkeeper, complete an excellent cast.

The audience on the opening night included several of the Glasgow magistrates and town councillors, and Sir Edward Moss, Mr. Oswald Stoll, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan, and the new manager at the Grand, Mr. Christie Grant, were all much in evidence. It is pleasant to record the fact that both before and behind the curtain most of the former employees are at their accustomed posts. Dorothy is to run two weeks, and be followed by Mr. Wm. Maclaren in Claudian.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. C. A. WHITE.

It is a pleasure to record that Mr. C. A. White has quite recovered from the effects of his serious accident, sustained on the night of Jan. 12, when, hurrying to catch his train, he slipped on a banana-skin and came down with such force as to break his right thigh, thus placing him hors de combat for many weary months. He is now happily convalescent, and most anxious to be at work again. With an experience extending over ten years, Mr. White's engagements have naturally been very varied. After his third long tour in 1896-7 as Jaikes in The Silver King, he was engaged by Mr. Edward Terry to take up the character parts in his répertoire at a few days' notice, owing to the illness of the late Mr. George Belmore, and appeared as Rushey Platt in Love in Idleness, Mr. Bearder in The Churchwarden, Dr. Fleming in Weak Woman, Dennis in Innocence Abroad, Colonel Hardy in Paul Pry, &c.

At the termination of the tour he went to Brighton for pantomime. During the spring of 1898 he was engaged by Miss Jennie Lee to play Tulkinghorn in a tour of the principal towns with

MR. CHAS. A. WHITE.

Jo. Then followed a tour with Mr. Norman V. Norman, when his répertoire consisted of Garrick, Sweet Lavender, Caste, and The Lady of Lyons, playing Simpkins, Dick Phenyl, Eccles, Colonel Damas, &c. During the last fortnight of that engagement Mr. White was engaged by Mr. Charles Wyndham (now Sir Charles) for a part in the production of the Jest at the Criterion; then followed a short tour with a farcical comedy, Naughty Rosina, as the Professor, under Mr. Murray King's management.

In 1900 he was engaged by Miss Ada Blanche to play the dialect part of Pilchard in her tour of The Telephone Girl, at the end of which he was appointed to understudy Mr. Charles Groves and the other comedians in the production of The Thirty Thieves at Terry's Theatre, and played the part of Appy, the Woodcutter, during the original tour. Then came pantomime at Brighton Hippodrome as Ibrahim and stage-manager for Blue Beard, followed by various short tours and special engagements in Sweet Lavender, My Friend the Prince as Jannaway, Ticket-of-Leave Man, Streets of London, Variety Girl (musical comedy), two tours of A Hidden Crime as the Chinaman Hop Wah, and supplemented by parts in numerous comedy and dramatic sketches.

Mr. White recalls a memorable performance of The Ticket-of-Leave Man at the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, when he played Melter Moss made up as Kruger. The news came that Mafeking had been relieved, and the acting-manager asked Mr. White to announce it from the stage. He did so in a little speech to Jem Dalton in the public-house scene. Nothing further of the play was heard. It was all "God Save the King," "Rule, Britannia," &c.

In 1905 Mr. White was engaged by the late Mr. Addison Bright to play the part of Eames, the butler, in the original production and tour of The Little Stranger. At the termination of the tour he was engaged for the character-comedy parts in 'Twixt Axe and Crown and Clancarty on Mrs. Russ Whytal's tour. Then followed three tours with Mr. Hardy with The Beauty and the Barge as Dibbs the Gardener. He had on several occasions to play Captain Barley, and on the last week of the tour, on an emergency, he doubled the parts of Dibbs and Tom Codd. On his return to town on Jan. 1 he was engaged by Mr. J. E. Vedrenne for the production at the Queen's Theatre, which his unfortunate accident prevented him fulfilling.

THE MATINEE HAT.

To the Editor of The Era.

Sir,—I should not think of troubling you with a letter on the matinée hat question were it not that, since the episode which occurred at the Garrick Theatre the other afternoon during the performance of Idols, I have received so many communications urging me to take a "strong stand" in the matter, and, at the same time, blaming my acting-manager for the course he adopted in inviting the ladies in question to occupy seats in a vacant box, that I think a word from me is necessary to close the matter—at least, as far as my management is concerned. I feel that it would be quite uncalled for, not to say presumptious, on the part of one who has so recently started in management to attempt to institute any rule prohibiting the wearing of hats at matinées, even supposing that it were possible to enforce that rule, which I think would be a very difficult and ungrateful task.

Having read most of the letters which have been written on this subject, I feel that my sympathies are somewhat divided. As a manageress, I sympathise with the ticket-holder who maintains that, having paid for his seat, he is entitled to an unobstructed view of the stage, whilst as a woman I feel there is something to be said for the point of view of the lady correspondent who writes complaining of the discomfort endured whilst trying to fix on a hat at the correct angle in front of a small glass in a crowded cloak-room.

Surely it is for the milliners to solve the problem? Just as they have got over the difficulty of the creation both of a practical and becoming headgear for motoring, so surely will they, if they set their minds to it, devise a practical, and, at the same time, absolutely becoming theatre "cap"—a form of headgear barely larger than the head it is designed to cover, and yet so dainty and charming that every woman would feel happy in wearing it, not only at matinées, but at any other function, which she might be attending afterwards. Would not this get over the difficulty of the cloak-room, and at the same time permit every ticket-holder to have an uninterrupted view of the stage?

Managers are in rather a difficult position—the position of those who are anxious to please everyone.—Yours faithfully, EVELYN MILLARD.

DEATH OF DUDLEY CLINTON.

Mr. J. A. E. Malone has received a cable from Mr. Williamson announcing the death, at Perth, Western Australia, from pneumonia, at the early age of thirty-six, of Mr. Dudley Clinton, the well-known character actor. Mr. Clinton was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gillame, of Clifton Hill, Brighton. He was originally intended for the musical profession, but at an early age chose the stage, and made his first appearance at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, playing a small part in pantomime under the late Mrs. Nye-Chart's management in 1889. He immediately afterwards toured with English opera, playing such parts as Florestein, Bohemian Girl, and Lord Allcash, Fra Diavolo, &c. This was followed by a long engagement with Miss Inez Howard, playing the eccentric comedy part, Crispin St. Jones, in Master and Man. He then joined Mr. Arthur Bearne's company to play Charles Prescott, My Jack, and remained with this management for over three years, gaining much experience in a variety of character and comedy parts in répertoire. Then followed engagements with Mr. William Bourne as Plumtree, Man to Man; Ferdy St. Evremont, A Big Fortune; and a long tour with Mr. Arthur Carpenter's Middleman company. He then returned to Mr. Bearne's management to play Professor Marrables, The Charlatan, for an autumn tour, and in the spring following played Old David Garrick, Dick Sheridan. After a short summer engagement with Messrs. Charles Groves and Sydney Brough, playing Joyce in A Pair of Spectacles, Mr. Clinton was engaged by Mr. Charles Harrington to create the character part of Seth Mayson in Her Wedding Day, which he played upwards of 200 times. Then followed another tour with A Pair of Spectacles, playing Mr. Lorrimer, under Messrs. Charles Groves and George Raiemond's management. He was the original Mammon in the ill-fated Pilgrim's Progress at the Olympic Theatre, which was produced in December, 1896. In the spring of '97 he joined Mr. W. S. Penley's touring company to play Mr. Simpson, the Bombay agent, in Jedbury, jun. Then followed a tour with Mr. C. J. Abud's Prisoner of Zenda, playing Earl Rassendyll; and in the spring of '99 he was engaged by Mr. Frank Curzon to play Arthur Williams' part, Brabazon Tudway, in Lord and Lady Algy. At the conclusion of this tour Mr. Clinton had the rather unique experience of appearing nightly at two West End theatres, viz., the Vaudeville at 9.20, and the Adelphi at 10.50, under two separate managements—Messrs. A. and S. Gatti and Mr. Herbert Sleath respectively—creating the part of Hyams, the Jew picture dealer, in the farcical comedy The Elixir of Youth at the Vaudeville, and the Jew convict, a small part, in the last act of With Flying Colours at the Adelphi. This very pleasant combination lasted five months, and it was owing to his performance of Hyams that Messrs. Morell and Mouillot offered him the part of Mosenthal in the forthcoming tour of The Degenerates. He was unable to accept, however, having arranged with Mr. Ben Greet to play Mr. Dagnall's part of Leopold Kolditz on his original tour of Hearts are Trumps, and shortly before the conclusion of the second tour Mr. Greet released him to accept another offer from Morell and Mouillot to play Arthur Williams' part of the Tramp in their principal company of A Message from Mars. This engagement extended for over two years, Mr. Clinton having played the Tramp for upwards of 600 times, and the part has naturally been associated with his name throughout the provinces. At the termination of the fifth tour in December, 1902, he went to Belfast and Dublin, under Messrs. Mouillot and Warden's management, to play King Rattatat in Jack and the Beanstalk pantomime. After a short engagement with Miss Florence St. John, playing Mr. Willoughby, Mrs. Willoughby's Kiss, he toured his own company with the Criterion success Betsy, playing Mr. Birkett, in partnership with Messrs. Atwood and Barry, and in the previous summer of 1902 he toured, in partnership with Mr. Frank Lascelles, Mr. Pinero's Dandy Dick, playing the old butler, Blore. Subsequently he resumed one of his favourite parts, Leopold Kolditz in Hearts are Trumps, under Mr. Henry Dundas's management. Although Mr. Clinton chose the stage in preference to music, he by no means abandoned that profession, as he published with many of the leading London firms, including Ascherberg, Jeffreys, Ashdown, Howard, &c., his ever-popular waltz "Alciméne," "Eastern Dances," and "Colorado" barn dance being amongst his best-known compositions, and he was one of the last composers to receive a kindly letter from our late beloved Queen in gracious acceptance of his march "In Victoria's Name."

At the time of his death Mr. Clinton was under engagement to Mr. Williamson, the famous Australian manager.

At the Royal Academy of Music Ada Lewis Scholarships have been awarded as follows:—Pianoforte, Arthur Brian Nash (of Darjeeling, India); violoncello, Ethel Huskisson Martin (of London); violin, John Spink (of Brentford). Highly commended, Elsie Haworth; and commended, Gladys Daniel and Frieda M. Fairclough. The examiners were Messrs. T. B. Knott, Carlo Albanesi, and Benno Schonberger (pianoforte), Messrs Josef Blaha, L. Zimmermann, and Hans Wessely (violin), Messrs. A. Pezze, H. Walenn, and W. E. Whitehouse (violoncello). The Orchestral Instruments Scholarship has been awarded to Edward James Augarde (of London), clarionet, William Gardner being highly commended. The examiners were Messrs. Daniel S. Wood, W. M. Mulsch, and Stewart Macpherson (chairman). The Baume (Manx) Scholarship for any branch of music has been awarded to Mary Purcell (vocalist), of Ramsay, Isle of Man. The examiners were Messrs. T. B. Knott, Arthur Thompson, and F. Corder (chairman).

"THE FIGHTING HOPE."

Drama, in Three Acts, by William J. Hurlburt, Produced at the Stuyvesant Theatre, New York, on Sept. 22.

(From our New York correspondent.)

The appearance of Miss Blanche Bates in a modern play, written by a Western dramatist hitherto unknown to fame and "discovered" by Mr. David Belasco, lent an interest that was much more than ordinary to the reopening of the beautiful playhouse in West Forty-fourth-street built by Mr. Belasco and devoted to the practical realisation of his ideals. From recent statements in the newspapers we have gathered that Mr. Belasco intended to give the struggling American dramatist "a chance." Unknown writers are always supposed to be struggling, but in view of the fact that the author of the play under notice has hit the mark the very first time, it would seem that he has not had to struggle very long or very hard. To have to use such a word as failure, however, in connection with any play produced under the direction of Mr. Belasco is a very remote possibility. Mr. Hurlburt has written a play of considerable power, direct, coherent, and intensely interesting. It deals with the conflicting personal interests of a woman who fights for the honour of her husband and the good name of her two children, and who suddenly discovers that her husband is unworthy, the situation being complicated by the discovery in the same moment that her heart has gone out to the man who has been instrumental in sending her husband to prison. The play was received with demonstrative approval by a crowded house, and Miss Blanche Bates scored a brilliant success as the heroine, the other characters being ably represented by Mr. Charles Richman, Mr. John W. Cope, Mr. Howell Hansell, and Miss Loretta Wells. The one scene of the play is laid in the library of Burton Temple's home near Ossining, on the Hudson, not far from Sing Sing Prison. Temple is the president of the Gotham Trust Company, a wealthy concern which has gone to the wall. Following the crash and the investigations of the State authorities, Robert Granger, the cashier, has been arrested, tried, and sentenced to ten years in Sing Sing; but while the jury placed the blame on the cashier's shoulders, the Press and the public are not so sure that justice has been done. There is a strong feeling that Granger acted under Temple's instructions when he certified the cheque that caused all the trouble. It is believed that Temple has succeeded in making a scapegoat of Granger, and the feeling grows so strong that the newspapers start an investigation of their own, with the result that the case is reopened and Temple is indicted. In the meantime Temple has engaged a young woman named Anna Dale as his private secretary and typist. She is really the wife of Robert Granger, who is now serving his sentence. Her purpose in coming to Temple's house is to get at his private papers and obtain such evidence as will cause his downfall and liberate her husband. At the first interview with Temple she recognises him as a man whom she had observed and idealised during her business career in days gone by. But she brushes all personal feelings aside, and begins her self-imposed task. The impression conveyed during the first act is that Temple is guilty and Granger innocent. It soon becomes evident, however, that justice has not miscarried. In fact, it is palpable that the jury was right, and that those who condemn Temple are utterly wrong, for the latter employs detectives, who discover a letter signed by Granger which is in effect a most conclusive admission of guilt. The letter is placed in the safe, and Anna abstracts it, reads it, and puts it in the fire, thus destroying the only bit of evidence against her husband and the only thing that will keep Burton Temple out of Sing Sing. She does this far less for her husband than for the father of her children, for she realises that she has married the wrong man, and cannot conceal from herself the fact that she has grown to love Temple, who has shown his affection for her, believing her to be a single woman. This is the situation when Robert Granger, supposed to be in prison, suddenly appears on the scene and tells his wife that he has been pardoned. "Miss Dale" confesses her identity and tells Temple that she has destroyed the evidence against her husband, and Temple's love for her is so great that he immediately forgives her. Knowing her husband to be a criminal and loving another, the wife means to be loyal to the father of her children nevertheless. But her trust in the man she has married is utterly destroyed when Temple's partner, knowing nothing of her relationship to Granger (who has been thrust into an adjoining room), discloses the fact that the latter spent the money he obtained on another woman. When he finds that his wife knows everything, Granger proves himself a cur by insinuating that she and Temple are more friendly than they ought to be, and by trying to make terms with her by conniving at her disloyalty. This infuriates her to such a degree that she strikes him with her clenched fists until he grovels at her feet. Then the silence outside is broken by the sound of a whistle. Granger knows the signal. He confesses that he has escaped from Sing Sing, and that the keepers are after him. The ulster he wears conceals the garb of a convict. The first impulse of his wife and those about her is to deliver him to his pursuers; but he shakes and cowers and begs for mercy, until she opens a back door and lets him go. A moment later a shot is heard, and word is brought that Granger is dead, the ultimate marriage of Temple and the woman who has fought so bravely being implied, of course, as the play ends.

"COLD MUTTON."

A Farce, written by H. W. Mince, produced for the first time at the Brixton Theatre on Monday, Sept. 28.

Dick Middleton .....Mr. Ralph Hutton
Mabel .....Miss Evelyn Cecil
Mr. Morley .....Mr. Claude Haviland

An interesting lever de rideau which should prove extremely popular is provided in Cold Mutton. The dialogue is sparkling and the plot is most amusing. The story, briefly told, relates how a fortune is left to a newly-wedded couple by an eccentric relative, who has very peculiar notions regarding the fair sex, and also a decided objection to cold mutton, classing both under the head of "painful necessities." He leaves a sum of £500 to Dick Middleton on the distinct undertaking that his wife (Mabel) does not ask him to have a meal of the objectionable dish for a year and a day after their entering matrimony. On the occasion that Mr. Morley, the solicitor, calls on Middleton to complete the business of the eccentric clause in the will, the dog belonging to the young couple dies. Mabel is so distracted by her loss that she has given her cook orders to serve cold mutton. The young couple's troubles are at their height, when the situation is saved by the kindly lawyer, who finds that the old uncle has had a clause inserted in the will to the effect that if Dick's wife should be so ungrateful as to serve cold mutton Dick is to have a solatium in an allowance double that already left him. The play is appropriately brought to an end by "all three" promising to dine off "cold mutton" on the anniversary of the uncle's death. Mr. Ralph Hutton admirably sustained the part of Dick; and Miss Evelyn Cecil was a sympathetic and charming young wife. Mr. Claude Haviland was capital as the cheery lawyer, Mr. Morley. A cordial reception was accorded the little piece.

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Sir Charles Wyndham's dress-suit in Bellamy the Magnificent is light blue. The coat skirt is old-fashioned in cut, there is an outside breast-pocket on the left-hand side, and from this pocket is shown the corner of a pink handkerchief. The crease-edge stands off from the collar, so that the lapels of the coat look rather like rolls of cloth. The waistcoat is white and cut V-shaped; and in place of an ordinary dress tie Sir Charles wears a white stock. His Bellamy is just now the "talk of the town."

Mr. George Alexander concluded his engagement at the King's Theatre, Glasgow, on Saturday night. After thanking the public for their appreciation of the efforts of his company and himself, Mr. Alexander paid a warm tribute to the tact, courtesy, and ability of Mr. Hugh Macfarlane, the popular business-manager here, in his management of "this beautiful theatre," adding that he wished all provincial theatres were controlled in the same way The large audience indicated complete agreement with Mr. Alexander's remarks.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell went through a trying experience on Wednesday at the Southport Opera House, where she was playing in Electra. Mrs. Campbell was taking a torch from a doorway, when the flame set fire to her hair. She smothered the flames with her hands, but they spread to her robes, when, with admirable presence of mind, she clutched at the garment and managed to put the flames out. "'Don't be alarmed," cried the actress to the startled audience. "It is nothing. I am not a bit hurt." The house accorded her a tremendous ovation, which was repeated at the close of the performance.

The matinée hat is to be banned during Mr. Tom B. Davis's administration at the Queen's Theatre. Mr. Davis has announced that, having regard to the publicity given to the matinée hat incident at the Garrick Theatre recently, and to the fact that the letters written to the Press seem to show that the public expect some definite action should be taken in this matter, for the purposes of studying the comfort and convenience of the majority of the audience he has decided to print on all tickets issued during his management of the Queen's Theatre a notice that ladies are required to remove their hats during the morning performances.

Mr. Tom B. Davis, who will produce The Belle of Brittany at the Queen's Theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue, on the 17th inst., is the only manager associated with theatres and productions in the West-End of London and at the same time controlling a very important theatre in the provinces, viz., the Theatre Royal, Birmingham. In addition to Mr. Davis's interest in a dramatic star of the first magnitude like Mr. Lewis Waller, with whom he has a permanent arrangement running into years for the Lyric Theatre, it is due to him that "the Follies" will reopen on Dec. 1 at the Apollo Theatre for a season extending over twelve months. In addition to the Lyric and Apollo Theatres and The Belle of Brittany at the Queen's, Mr. Davis will produce the pantomime at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, on the subject of Dick Whittington, with Miss Sybil Arundale as Dick, and Jack and the Beanstalk at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, with Miss Ada Reeve as Jack. In spare moments Mr. Davis advises Miss Evelyn Millard on her managerial policy and business interests, and the success of Idols at the Garrick is tremendous.

The book of The Belle of Brittany is by Leedham Bantock and P. J. Barrow, the lyrics by Percy Greenbank, and the music by Howard Talbot and Mme. Marie Horne. The action of the play is laid in Brittany about a hundred years ago, the first scene being a charming exterior in the Bois d'Amour, Pont Aven, and the last the interior of a château, during the celebration of the old-time custom of the Daffodil Harvest Festival, which affords an opportunity for a charming old Breton country dance. The production is under the direction of Mr. Sydney Ellison, and Mr. Howard Talbot will conduct.

Principal among the cast are Miss Ruth Vincent, Miss Maudi Darrell, Mr. George Graves, and Mr. Walter Passmore, who will have strong support in Messrs. Lawrence Rea, Davy Burnaby, George Miller, Fred Trott, J. Oliver Round, Vere Mathews, John Montague, Harry Leslie, and Hamlyn Hamling, and Misses Lily Iris, Maud Boyd, Blanche Stocker, Cora Carey, Alice Hatton, Blanche Carlow, Minnie Baker, and Gladys Saqui.

An attempt to prevent Mr. Henry R. Smith from taking up his lease of the Waldorf Theatre failed in the Vacation Court on Wednesday, when the syndicate owners moved to restrain the Law Guarantee, Trust, and Accident Society, Ltd., who are in possession of the house as trustees for the first debenture holders, from carrying out an agreement of Sept. 22 last to let the theatre to a company to be formed by Mr. Henry Richard Smith at a rental alleged to be wholly inadequate. It was urged that the theatre was let to Mr. Shubert at £8,900 a year, but that it was now proposed to let it to Mr. Smith on a twenty-one years' lease at a rental of £3,000 for the first six months, £6,000 for the next two years and a half, £6,500 for the following two years, £7,000 for the next nine years, and £7,500 for the last seven years. Counsel suggested that £8,500 a year would be reasonable. Mr. Justice Coleridge declined to grant the injunction asked for.

The sympathies of all will be with Mr. William Bailey, so long the proprietor of the West London Theatre, against whom a receiving order was made in the Court of Bankruptcy on Tuesday. The unsecured liabilities were returned at £855, and the available assets at £2,105. The debtor began business as a theatre proprietor in or about 1892 at the Royal West London Theatre, in partnership with others, but since 1901 he has carried on business alone. He attributed his failure to competition, to general trade depression, and to the removal from the district of several thousands of families owing to the opening of the Great Central Railway. A trustee was appointed.

Mr. H. B. Irving has effected a compromise with regard to the booking of the cheaper-priced seats, a system which his lamented father made such a gallant effort to institute at the old Lyceum. During Mr. Irving's season at the Shaftesbury Theatre, beginning on Oct. 15, it will be possible for seats to be reserved for eighteenpence in the amphitheatre.

Mr. F. R. Benson is discharging a formidable task at the Fulham Theatre this week. He is playing no fewer than seven of the longest and most arduous parts in the whole range of the drama. The list consists of Shylock in The Merchant of Venice, Marcus Antonius in Julius Cæsar, Henry V. in Henry V., Dr. Caius in The Merry Wives of Windsor, Macbeth, Charles Surface in The School for Scandal, and Hamlet. The mere physical exertion required by such a feat is remarkable. Mrs. F. R. Benson, who acts the heroines in these plays, is scarcely less weighted with dramatic responsibilities.

Mr. Lewis Waller has forwarded £4 6s. 6d. to the secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund, being a further sum collected by means of his autograph and kindly devoted to the Fund.

A joyous event occurred at the Parish Church, Grimsby, on the 25th ult., when Mr. Leslie Owen, the principal of The Prince of Pilsen company, was married to Miss Ida Stratham, leading lady with Mr. F. Mouillot's No. 1 Girl Behind the Counter. The bridegroom is the eldest son of Mrs. Owen, of Bedford-park, Chiswick, and the bride the youngest daughter of Mr. F. E. Farmer, of St. John's-road, Tunbridge Wells. Miss Farmer has recently returned from a successful tour in Spain, and when at Madrid she frequently appeared before their Majesties the King and Queen of Spain.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard Meddings, Vicar of Grimsby, and chaplain of the Actors' Union, in the presence of a crowded congregation. The bride, who was charmingly gowned, was given away by her father. A brief homily was delivered by the Vicar, and a merry party subsequently had lunch together. A large number of telegrams were received wishing the newly-wedded pair long life, happiness, and prosperity.

The members of Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company had an unpleasant experience on their journey from Cork to Blackpool. They left Cork after the matinée last Saturday, and were due to reach Liverpool at 1.30 a.m. on Sunday morning; but, owing to the dense fog, they arrived nearly twenty-four hours late. Once during the journey the boats were ordered to be lowered, as the vessel was found to be drifting on to the rocks, but fortunately a disaster was averted. Although the company and scenery did not arrive at Blackpool until late on Monday afternoon, the company opened to a crowded house at the Winter Gardens on Monday evening.

Mr. Douglas Hamilton, a member of the Thornton company in New Zealand, has been recommended for the Royal Humane Society's medal for a plucky act, the circumstances of which, reported in the Poverty Bay Herald, have been sent to us. Amongst the first of the Southern passengers to descend the gangway of the ss. Monowai to the tender at Poverty Bay on Aug. 6 was a well-dressed lady, a passenger from Wellington, N.Z. She was assisted on to the deck by Mr. Frank Thornton, of the Thornton Dramatic Company, who happened to be standing near the gangway. Mr. Thornton directed her towards the shelter of the awning, whilst another gentleman kindly held her little child. A moment later Mr. Thornton was astounded to see the lady step over the bulwark of the steamer. Before he and others standing near had realised what had happened there was a splash in the water, and the woman was being rapidly carried away by the nasty sea that was running.

The first to grasp the situation was Mr. Douglas Hamilton, a member of the Thornton company, who, quickly stripping off his heavy overcoat, sprang overboard, and swam to the rescue of the woman. The water was bitterly cold, and there was a heavy sea running, which had carried the woman some distance, but her clothes spreading out helped to keep her afloat until her rescuer arrived. Mr. Hamilton, though hampered by his clothing, caught the woman, and swam back to the tender with his charge, whom he held firmly, though obviously exhausted by his gallant effort.

Mr. Charles Wynyard, another member of the company, had jumped down on to the tender, and caught hold of the rescued one, and with the help of the captain and members of the crew pulled her on board, whilst Mr. Hamilton was also assisted up the side of the vessel. Accompanied by two of her children, the lady, who was suffering from melancholia as the result of a recent sad bereavement, was going to Gisborne for a change. She was met on the wharf by her friends, who took her to a hotel, where she was none the worse for her immersion. It is stated the lady had not been on a boat since the time she went out from England about twenty-four years ago.

The wedding of Mr. Charles Boult and Miss Dora L. Hampson, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, took place at St. John's Church, Briggate, Leeds, on Tuesday, in the presence of a large congregation. A reception was afterwards held at the bride's sister's house in St. George's-terrace, where the presents, to the number of over one hundred, were on view. From his manager and life-long friend, Mr. R. A. Roberts, the bridegroom received a massive silver cigarette case. The members of the Straight from the Shoulder company, among whom Mr. Boult is very popular in his capacity of business-manager, gave him an admirably-appointed luncheon basket, and amongst the splendid presents to the bride were three complete suites of furniture. We join with the numerous friends of Mr. and Mrs. Boult in wishing them every happiness, long life, and good health.

Actors' Day, as already announced, is due on Thursday. In a letter which we published last week Mr. Sydney Valentine puts the claims of the Fund very clearly. As chairman of the Advisory Board, the members of which are not only influential, but thoroughly representative of the provinces and of the London stage, Mr. Valentine writes with a very full knowledge of the actor's interests and the best way in which they may be served. He tells us that the Board have ample and grateful testimony of the great practical utility of Actors' Day, that the benefits are even now substantial, and that with general support he considers they would be out of all proportion to the sacrifice involved.

The scheme, as decided at the last annual general meeting, is simplicity itself. The Fund is open to actors, actresses, authors, and managers. To be on the register, at least one night's earnings must be contributed, and as no applications from those not on the register are entertained in any form, contributors know that no part of their contribution can, under any circumstances, go to any who have not shown their willingness to help themselves. The organising committee ask for the help of all who will assist in making their objects widely known. Forms and all particulars can be obtained at the office of the Fund, Dudley House, 37, Southampton-street, Strand, W.C.

The first suburban performance of Mr. Alfred Northway and Mr. W. V. Garrod's successful drama, A Country Girl in London, will take place at the Grand Theatre, Fulham, on March 1, with Broadway, New Cross, Stratford, &c., to follow. The piece is a great success in the provinces.

Patrons of the Crystal Palace Theatre will be afforded the opportunity next week of witnessing a new romantic costume play, which rejoices in the fetching title of Beau Brocade, the Highwayman. The text is by Baroness Orczy and Montague Barstow, the authors of The Scarlet Pimpernel, which has had such a phenomenal success in London and in the provinces. The story told is of the adventures of Jack Bathurst, a captain in His Majesty's forces, who, wrongfully accused of high treason, becomes a highwayman to escape from his political foes. The action of the play takes place at Brassington, in Derbyshire, in 1746. No expense has been spared in the mounting, for which Mr. Louis Calvert is responsible. Mr. Reginald Dance, who tours the production, sustains the title-rôle, and the cast includes Mr. Edward Irwin, Mr. Stanley Lathbury, Mr. Dalziel Heron, Mr. Frank Powell, and Miss May Brooke. Beau Brocade will be preceded by a one-act play, entitled The Proof, by Alice Claton Green.

Mr. Nat Goodwin, the well-known American comedian, has been granted a divorce by the Nevada Court from his wife, Miss Maxine Elliott, the equally famous actress. Both parties in the action are well-known in London, where they first played, in 1898, at the Duke of York's Theatre, in a number of American plays.

Miss Maxine Elliott, who had previously divorced Mr. G. A. McDermott, a New York lawyer, married Mr. Nat Goodwin twelve years ago, and accompanied him on a tour to Australia. One of her best-known characters in London is that of Phyllis Ericsen in When We Were Twenty-One, in which she appeared at the Comedy Theatre in the autumn of 1901. Her most recent visit to London was in September of last year, when she appeared as Mary Hamilton in Under the Greenwood Tree.

Miss Elliott was playing at the Adelphi Theatre, Philadelphia, on Sept. 22, when the despatch from Reno announcing that her husband, who had resided there for some time, carrying on a brokerage business, had filed a suit for divorce was shown to her. "This news of the beginning of a divorce suit comes as a complete surprise to me," she said to an interviewer. "I do not know what is the matter with Mr. Goodwin. He must be crazy to take such a step. We never separated; it was merely unfortunate that our theatrical engagements necessitated that we be apart a great deal of the time." Miss Elliott has spent most of her leisure time abroad in recent years. The Elliott Theatre, which is now under construction in New York, is being built for Miss Elliott by the Shuberts.

Mr. H. B. Irving is anxious to have it known that he is in no way interested in the proposed conversion of the Shaftesbury Theatre into a music hall. If the application to be made in due course to the licensing authorities is successful it will not take effect until after the expiration of Mr. Irving's tenancy, which commences with the production of The Lyons Mail on Oct. 15.

The Shaftesbury, for which a music hall licence is to be sought by Mr. Walter Gibbons, has had a noteworthy career. It was built by the late Mr. John Lancaster in 1888 for his talented wife, then known as Miss Ellen Wallis, whom he had married in August, 1876, and who four years previously had made her stage début at the old Queen's Theatre in Sir Charles Young's Montcalm. Mrs. Lancaster-Wallis, by the way, is now appearing in The Marriages of Mayfair at Drury Lane.

The autumn of 1889 witnessed the production at the Shaftesbury of Mr. Henry Arthur Jones's drama The Middleman, in which Mr. Willard scored a great triumph. Signor Lago had an opera season on Oct. 19, 1891, and he gave the first performance in this country of Mascagni's Cavalleria Rusticana. In 1896 Sir Augustus Harris produced the comic opera The Little Genius, and in April, 1898, The Belle of New York was started on its prosperous career. More recently the theatre gave hospitality to the Sicilian actors, who achieved what was picturesquely described as an "electric success."

Mr. Joseph O'Mara, who is about to journey to America to fulfil an extended concert tour, was presented with the freedom of the city of Limerick on the 2nd inst. "in recognition of his distinguished services as a great Irish tenor and actor to musical and dramatic art, and as one who during a brilliant career on the operatic and concert stage has earned undying fame and reflected honour upon Limerick as the city of his birth." The occasion was invested with much civic importance, and the presentation was made at the Town Hall by the Mayor in the presence of a crowded assembly.

Many eulogistic speeches were made, and in acknowledgment Mr. O'Mara said that while he knew that they valued his services to Irish musical art, and were proud of his achievements as a singer, still he felt it was strongly supplemented by the love and affection they had always borne his family. Now the call of art was taking him across the sea, and he should always endeavour to demonstrate to the world that Irish song had no equal for beauty and sentiment among the nations. He firmly believed that the day was not far distant when they would see a school of Irish musical composition arise that would be a revelation of artistic beauty fit to take its place among the best in the world.

Mr. Herbert Leonard's latest drama, The Kiss of Judas, will be started on tour under the management of Hardie and Von Leer on Monday, Oct. 19, at the Theatre Royal, Aston. The cast will include Misses Jess Dorynne, Katharine Clarke, and Laura Dyson and Messrs. C. Howard Templeton, J. H. Darnley, Chas. V. Sandford, Herbert de Ville, Henry C. Moreton, and Herbert Leonard. The two first acts are laid in England and the last two in the Wild West of America.

The formal opening of the Todmorden Hippodrome took place on Monday evening, when Mr. Richard Dewhirst, the manager, was gladdened by the presence of an enthusiastic multitude. Telegraphic messages wishing success to the undertaking were received from managers elsewhere. After the singing of the National Anthem, the general-manager, Mr. E. P. Clipt, said he thought that Mr. Dewhirst was very much to be congratulated upon the possession of that cosy house of entertainment, and he sincerely hoped that the citizens of Todmorden would loyally support the manager in the enterprise he had undertaken. He was sure Mr. Dewhirst would do everything he could to cater worthily for their entertainment. Mr. Clipt concluded, amid loud applause, by declaring the Hippodrome open.

The play for the week was Two Lancashire Lasses in London, presented by the Hardie and Von Leer company, which was greatly appreciated. At the close of the performance the members of the company and staff celebrated the opening by a private entertainment on the stage, the proceedings including toasts and music.

Congratulations to Mr. G. Carlton Wallace, the much-esteemed touring manager, whose wife presented him on Tuesday last with a fine daughter.

The directors of the Brighton West Pier Company have appointed Mr. Scholey as manager and secretary of the pier in the place of the late Mr. A. D. Norman.

Mr. Cyril Maude has lent the Playhouse for Nov. 25 for a matinée in aid of the Infants' Hospital, Vincent-square, Westminster.

The engineers' strike which has so greatly affected theatrical business in the North is now happily at an end. The men have resumed work, and there is a strong reaction in favour of amusement. One of the towns suffering most from the effects of the recent struggle was Middlesbrough. The management of the Grand Opera House during the most severe period of suffering and starvation provided no less than 17,000 free dinners, which were cooked on the premises and dispensed on the stage of the Opera House. This charitable action has gained enormous popularity for the Opera House, and now that better times have arrived the inhabitants will not fail to show their appreciation of the generosity of the management.

Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company will introduce Lady Frederick to the London suburbs on Monday, with Miss Mabel Love as the heroine of Mr. Somerset Maugham's remarkable comedy, which will be seen at the Kennington Theatre throughout next week. Among Miss Love's recent West-End successes it is interesting to recall those of the Comtesse de Candale to the Comte de Candale of Mr. Lewis Waller, with Mr. Arthur Bourchier in A Marriage of Convenience; as Constance in The Musketeers, with Mr. Tree, at His Majesty's Theatre; as Joan in Sweet and Twenty; and as Suzanne in The Freedom of Suzanne.

The Hutchison management, who now have companies visiting all the big provincial cities with Brewster's Millions, Mrs. Dot, Mrs. Ponderbury's Past, and Peter's Mother, among others, have spared no expense to ensure an absolutely perfect production of Lady Frederick. The dresses, staging, and scenic effects have called forth the highest praise from packed audiences in every town visited.

A meeting of the committee of the Touring Managers' Association was held at the Managers' Club, Savoy-mansions, Strand, W.C., on the 2nd inst. Present:—Mr. E. Lockwood (in the chair), Mr. Wentworth Croke, Mr. Frank Weathersby, Mr. Brydon Phillips, Mr. M. V. Leveaux, Mr. J. Bannister Howard, Mr. Leslie Moreton, and Mr. Martin (secretary). Mr. Percy Hutchison was co-opted a member of the committee. A letter of complaint re the Great Eastern Railway from Mr. Percy Hutchison was read, and the secretary was instructed to write to the company for an explanation of the incident. Mr. Edouard Jose was elected a member of the Association.

On the same day a meeting of the committee of the Managers' Club was held. Present:—Mr. Leveaux (in the chair), Mr. Wentworth Croke, Mr. E. Lockwood, Mr. J. B. Howard, Mr. F. Weathersby, and Mr. Martin (secretary). The following gentlemen were elected members:—Mr. Richard Winslow, Mr. Allyn Whyte, Mr. Ernest F. Wallace, Mr. William Ernest Bentley, and Mr. H. B. Hampton.

Messrs. Dottridge and Longden have furnished themselves with an attractive trio of principal boys for their forthcoming pantomimes. Miss May Mars has been secured for Crusoe, Miss Florrie Gallimore for Dick Whittington, and Miss Ray Wallace for Aladdin.

Mr. Martin Harvey announces that the curtain now rises on The Last Heir, at the Adelphi, at 8.15 p.m., instead of 8.

The Kangaroos, fresh from triumphs in South Wales, were on Monday invited by Mr. George D. Day to witness the performance of The Prodigal Son at the Queen's Theatre, Manchester. The team filled the first two rows of the stalls, and received quite an ovation from the large audience assembled.

Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's No. 1 London company, in Lady Frederick, including Miss Mabel Love, in the title-rôle, reached Halifax from Southport on Sunday, and found hundreds of people on the platform waiting to catch a glimpse of the young actress. On Monday the pretty New Theatre Royal was full to overflowing, and there was an enthusiastic ovation at the fall of the curtain. The beautiful dresses worn by Miss Love and Miss Eleanor Delaporte and the staging and effects of the production have won high eulogy.

Miss Annie Hughes, who is receiving the congratulations of her numerous admirers on her birthday to-day, will be seen in the suburbs the week after next, and will begin an engagement at the Crystal Palace on Oct. 19, with Mr. Hubert Henry Davies' brilliant comedy, The Mollusc, in which Miss Hughes has been so successful. A double attraction is being provided by Miss Hughes that week, as she is entering her prize dog, Master Murphy, at the Kennel Show on the 20th. Master Murphy is a Griffon, and won the first prize in a Novice Class at the last Kennel Club Show.

Miss Laura Hansen has been engaged by the Hardie and Von Leer management to play the part of the Countess in The Sailor's Wedding. Miss Hansen thus fulfils her sixth engagement with that firm, having played Marion Thornton (Two Little Vagabonds) in all the principal towns and at the revival of that play at the Adelphi.

The defendant in the case Brandon Thomas v. Bell, re piratical performances of Charley's Aunt, came up before Justice Coleridge on Wednesday. The defendant, whose committal to prison for "contempt" had been ordered, tendered the humblest apologies to the Court for disobedience to the order made, and in consideration of this he was let off with the payment of £20 costs.

"Butterflies" will have to defer to dates previously arranged, and its present career at the Apollo Theatre must be cut short in the height of its success in two months' time after its 250th representation. The production in its entirety will then go into the provinces for an extended tour commencing at Christmas. In April the play will return to London for a short season, after which the tour—already booked into the year 1910—will be resumed.

Mrs. Fowler Thatcher, lately returned from abroad, was present at Earl Clancarty's wedding at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on Wednesday last. She was handsomely dressed in pale grey voile over pink silk, and wore a large Merry Widow hat.

Messrs. Langhorne Burton and R. Henderson Bland will produce at the County Theatre, Kingston, on Oct. 19, a play by Mrs. T. P. O'Connor and Mr. R. Henderson Bland entitled The Blackmailers. The piece will be produced under the direction of Mr. Percy Nash. It may be added that the same title was used for a four-act play produced at the Prince of Wales's on June 7, 1894. The Blackmailer, moreover, was the name given to an Irish-American drama staged at the Queen's Theatre, Dublin, in the January of 1904.

Mr. James Bell, lessee and manager of the Theatre Royal, Darlington, is to be congratulated upon the success of an experiment introduced on Friday of last week. The play running was Mr. George Alexander's latest London success, The Thief, which had been enjoyed by large audiences during the week. In a circular letter to various of the leading residents of Darlington, Mr. Bell placed his house at the complete disposal of subscribers (should there be sufficient) for one night, thus insuring them an evening in the greatest comfort and in the most congenial surroundings. Friday evening saw a well-dressed assemblage in the house, and the first-class company, including Mr. Stephen T. Ewart and Miss May Congdon, in the chief rôles, that presented The Thief must have been gratified at the intense interest displayed. Mr. Bell proposes to have another special night a month hence, when Irene Wycherley visits his theatre.

Presentation.—Mr. E. W. Cowley, superintendent of the Brighton Aquarium, has been presented with a silver cigarette case upon the anniversary of his birthday by the members of the Brighton Municipal Orchestra and the Aquarium staff.

Miss Mary Moore makes her reappearance on Monday at the Criterion, which reopens under the direction of Sir Charles Wyndham, with a new comedy, entitled Lady Epping's Lawsuit, by Hubert Henry Davies. Supporting Miss Moore will be Miss Grace Lane, Miss Elfrida Clement, Mrs. Sam Sothern, Miss Norma Whalley, Miss Cleaver, Miss Frances Vine, and Messrs. Eric Lewis, Sam Sothern, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Berte Thomas, John Toke, Walter Pearce, Cooper, Reginald Besant, Lawrence White, Thomas Braidon, Toose, and Arthur Hare. The three acts are laid respectively at Epping House, at Berkeley-square, and in the Court of King's Bench.

Messrs. Lyn Harding and Sidney Cooper are heartily to be congratulated on the great success of their venture with The Flag Lieutenant. The final dress rehearsal took place at the Playhouse on the afternoon of Oct. 2, when many of the leading actors, actresses, and managers were present to wish good luck to the new management. The tour opened on Monday night at Kingston-on-Thames, when the play was received with rapturous applause. The curtain was raised no fewer than five times at the end of the play, and the authors expressed their satisfaction with the company and everything which had been done to bring about the success of the piece in the provinces. The Flag Lieutenant, it should be added, is attracting crowded audiences to the Playhouse, and the booking ahead is phenomenal.

At the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh, on Saturday, was performed, for copyright purposes, a new monologue, by Mr. F. Kinsey Peile, entitled Jacob Tyginski.

Mr. Allan Wilkie's production of Macbeth, which secured an immediate success at the Theatre Royal, York, recently, had the advantage of some fine scenery and some beautiful costumes. The number of plays in Mr. Wilkie's répertoire is now thirty-one.

"The Beggar Girl's Wedding" is the title Mr. Walter Melville has given his new play, to be produced at the Elephant and Castle Theatre on Monday, the 19th inst. The music has been arranged by Edward Reeves. The scenery is from the Melville Brothers' studio, and is painted by Mr. H. K. Brown, a fine representation being given of the Thames Embankment by night. The cast includes Messrs. Hubert Morgan, Ellis J. Preston, and Otto Minster, and Misses Vashti Wynne, Olive Warne, and Eva Dare. The play will be produced under the personal direction of Mr. Walter Melville.

The annual meeting of the Croydon County Council to consider applications relating to music, dramatic, and dancing licences was held at the Town Hall on Tuesday. The licences of the Grand Theatre and Opera House, New Theatre Royal, and Empire Palace were renewed. Councillor Stapleton moved that the theatres and music-halls be closed at eleven, but after some discussion it was agreed to make the closing hour half-past eleven. A licence for music, dancing, and stage plays was granted to Mr. Charles Spencer, in respect to the King Edward Hall, London-road, Norbury.

Mr. Jack Rowland has been engaged by Mr. Maundy-Gregory to become his assistant-manager.

Mr. Bernard Shaw's play Arms and the Man is furnishing material for the libretto of a comic opera by Herr Oscar Straus, composer of A Waltz Dream. Mr. Shaw has refused to allow his play to be used as the book of the comic opera. The play will therefore be a burlesque of the original, every borrowed line being struck out, and not a name retained. The operetta, which is to be called Der Tapfere Soldat, will be given its first performance at the Theater des Westens, Berlin, early in December.

The annual general meeting of the Playgoers' Club was held on Tuesday, at the Hotel Cecil, when the report and balance-sheet were adopted. Mr. Osman Edwards was unanimously elected president for the coming season, Mr. Willy Clarkson vice-president, Mr. Louis Harfeld trustee, Mr. F. S. Hess hon. treasurer, and Mr. James Sharpe hon. secretary. All the old members offering themselves for re-election were elected, in addition to Mr. Philip Carr. Close on twenty different functions have already been arranged.

The costumes in Bellamy the Magnificent at the New are so remarkable that even the "wear" of the principal gentleman comes in for comment. Sir Charles Wyndham's suits as Lord Bellamy are superb. His mulberry-coloured velvet one of the third act thoroughly indicates his foppish proclivities, which are insisted upon all through. His evening suit of the last two acts shows up amongst the black ones of the men, inasmuch as it is made of blue cloth, precisely matched by the sapphire ring that graces one of his hands, rimmed with diamonds in accordance with the white waistcoat that completes the picture.

The dresses of the ladies are exquisite. As Lady Bellamy Miss Fortescue presents a distinguished appearance in the first act in a gown of Alençon net and lace of that newest of new shades called rose champagne, with a hint of rose to colour it. The materials used are satin charmeuse veiled with net and lace, and the gown is trimmed with a fringe of the same shade and is finished with a blue ceinture. In another act a blue outdoor costume much trimmed with buttons, and relieved with gold lace as an edging to the square guimpe, is worn with a mist-grey toque of draped chiffon, completed by means of a grey and white bird at one side. An oyster-white evening robe profusely embroidered with crystals and belted with green is worn by Miss Fortescue in the last acts.

Miss Sarah Brooke's most remarkable dress is a very beautiful evening toilette made of a bright shade known as rose-geranium crêpe, with embroideries of gold upon it. The tunic is brought to the back in a square fold-over form, and is edged with gold embroidery in heavy plaques and more delicate stitchery, as is the skirt. Features of the gold embellishment are the rays of embroidery that give the corsage a striped appearance and add to the beauty of the whole. The sleeves are made of embroidered crêpe draped in loops over the arms. The white lingerie frock in which Miss Brooke looks so smart in the third act is covered with punched embroidery, and has a peplum edged with a wheel pattern traced in embroidery, a repetition of which defines the outside of the arms upon the closely-fitting sleeves. The soft pink satin ceinture that encircles the figure high above the waist forms a most successful finishing touch to a delightful dress.

Miss Kate Cutler as Mme. Henriette has a black dress which is a triumph in simplicity of design and superb modelling. It is of heavy crêpe de chine, with the relief of a band of Venetian lace beneath the tucked black net guimpe, and below that again of a broad band of Gobelin blue satin, and a white ruffle round the throat. The draperies of crêpe are carried over the shoulders, crossed at the back, and brought forward again to fall loosely over the hips and be knotted in front low down at one side. With her blonde cendre hair, and wearing a huge blue ring that repeats the colour of the satin on the corsage, Mme. Henriette looks most charming.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Mrs. Kendal and the Critic.

THE following letter from Mrs. Kendal appeared in the Liverpool Daily Post and Mercury on Wednesday :—

"THE WHIRLPOOL."

To the Editor of the Post and Mercury.

SIR,—May I tell your dramatic critic there is no "twilight" in America, and a well regulated servant pulls down the blinds and lights up to prevent his mistress being left in the dark? It is always nice for a dramatic critic to correct an actor; but it is, oh! so much nicer for an actor to correct a dramatic critic.—Yours, &c.,

MADGE KENDAL,

Court Theatre, Oct. 6, 1908.

The passage in the criticism to which Mrs. Kendal refers was as follows :—"A little matter of stage management requires attention, near the end of the first act. A manservant turns on the electric light and pulls down the blinds while it is apparently yet brilliant daylight!"

"East Lynne" Absurdities.

"DURING a visit to the Midlands," writes Mr. Butler Stanhope, "we produced the popular play of East Lynne. We had arrived at the third act—the bedroom scene where Little Willie dies. This scene was preceded by a front scene, in which the noble and gallant policeman arrests Sir Francis Levison for the murder of Hallijohn. Sir Francis was duly handcuffed and taken off, and his exit was the cue for the front cloth to ascend. Madame Vine had placed herself by the side of the bed preparatory to shedding a flood of tears. As the front cloth went up it unfortunately caught in the bed-clothes, which were taken up in its folds, emptying poor Little Willie with scant ceremony out on to the stage to the horror of the audience. The stage-manager ordered the scene to be let down again, which it promptly was; but the bed had to be re-made, and the poor child, who was crying bitterly, had to be pacified. The low comedian, who had just come off in the front scene, was asked to go on and make up a speech or two till everything was ready. He was rather annoyed at having to do so; and as he went on he sang, 'Put me in my little bed,' and then went on talking about it being a cold night and mother having to tuck him well up in bed to prevent his falling out. This set the house in a roar, and the more they laughed the more he continued to tell funny stories, but Madame Vine was fuming and raging at the back and declaring she would not finish the play or go on with her part, as such tomfoolery was turning the play into ridicule. The manager called to the comedian to come off, so he made his exit, the audience still screaming with laughter.

"THEN the scene went up once more; but, alas! misfortunes never come singly. The child was discovered in bed, a fat, rosy-faced little girl, who had never been on the stage before. She was a local child, secured for the occasion, and therefore could not speak a line, but someone had told her to shout out 'Mother! mother!' The chambermaid lay behind the bed to speak poor Little Willie's lines in a rather squeaky voice. The child died in the orthodox manner. Madam Vine then, in her frenzy of grief, threw off her disguise, and in a tearful voice exclaimed, 'He is dead! He is dead, and he never called me mother!' On which the poor dead child sat bolt upright and called out 'Mother! Mother!' This spoiled the grand effect altogether, and Madame Vine vowed the whole thing was a base conspiracy to ruin her prospects and make her ridiculous."

Actors' Generous Gifts.

GREAT was the joy of the children of the Actors' Orphanage Fund the other day, when Mr. Cyril Maude, Mr. C. Aubrey Smith, and Mr. A. J. Austin arrived at Croydon with the following gifts :—Mr. Arthur Chudleigh, four pairs boxing gloves, six sets Diabolo, six sets of draughts; Mr. George Alexander, two sets carpentering tools; Mr. Martin Harvey, two Association footballs; Miss Evelyn Millard, parcels of books; Mr. Arthur Collins, punch-ball; Miss Lena Ashwell, games; Mr. Eric Lewis, books; Mr. Henry Ainley, two sets gardening tools; Mr. L. H. Nathan, two parcels of toys; Miss Ellen Terry, swing; Mr. Arthur Bourchier, see-saw; Mr. Fred Terry, hockey sticks and balls, games, &c.; Mr. George Edwardes, books; Miss Winifred Emery, knitting materials; Mr. Cyril Maude, goal posts and nets; Master John Maude, rocking horse; Mr. A. J. Austin, footballs; Mr. A. Turner, chess boards; Mr. Aubrey Smith, cricket set; Mr. Norman Forbes, toys; Mr. J. Harwood, skipping ropes; Mr. Charles Hawtrey, shuttlecocks and battledores; Mr. Lyn Harding, horizontal bars; Miss Constance Hyem, tennis set; Mr. H. Beerbohm Tree, magic lantern; Mr. Allan Aynesworth, parallel bars; Messrs. Smith and Carpenter, books. Mr. A. J. Austin (20, Gower-street, W.C.), will be glad to hear from members of the profession who are desirous of taking an active interest in the fund.

MISS ROSINA FILLIPPI has been telling Pearson's Weekly what is her favourite economy. It is exercised in the matter of food. "I absolutely refuse," writes Miss Fillippi, "to feed at expensive restaurants, and so help the proprietors to pay enormous rents through the profits on my food. I like the simplest fare, and strongly object to paying exorbitant prices for it."

The Dramatist's Difficulties.

MR. JEROME K. JEROME, speaking to a meeting of men in Bloomsbury Chapel on Sunday, said the Church and Stage Guild was "merely a move to get one or two actors into heaven." The difficulty of the playwright was that he had to appeal to "a very mixed and varied lot—the roué and the hooligan, the cynic and the prig, the shallow and vicious," thoughtful, sincere, and religious people being far in the minority. No art exerted wider influence than the dramatist's. In America there were 3,000 theatres opened every night to audiences numbering three or four millions, and England's theatres could count anything under a million nightly. He would therefore like religious people to take the drama up and do something for it.

In the times of the old morality plays religious people were found hand in hand with the players, but in the present day a gulf that had opened between the Church and the Stage was widening so dangerously that if not bridged soon it would never be. Folk seemed to put God as far away from them to-day as possible; they took their drama without Him; He must have nothing to do with art and literature, and as to business they were perfectly confident He understood nothing of that. Mr. Jerome pleaded for wide-minded, broad-minded people—the thinkers and the workers—to take up the drama just as they took up other arts. He wanted audiences who called for something wider and deeper than the everlasting heroine of Park Lane, and fun based on something else than vice and lying.

A Hundred Ladies' Letters.

"I HAVE had occasion to request hundreds of ladies to remove their hats," says Mr. Henderson, of the Criterion Theatre, in the Mirror, "and have not been refused in one case. We must always have matinées, and if the ladies objected to take off their large hats, and the fashion continued, we should have to reconstruct the theatre. It depends on how a lady is asked, very often, if she will comply or not." Mr. Lestocq, Mr. Charles Frohman's manager, finds that women were now removing their hats at all the theatres under his management.

"THE LAST HEIR."

Drama, in Four Acts, by Stephen Phillips, adapted from Sir Walter Scott's Novel, "The Bride of Lammermoor," produced at the Adelphi Theatre, on Monday, Oct. 5.

Edgar Ravenswood	MR. MARTIN HARVEY
Sir William Ashton	MR. ALBERT E. RAYNOR
Colonel Ashton	MR. LESLIE PALMER
Henry Ashton	MASTER BOBBIE ANDREWS
Hayston of Bucklaw	MR. PHILIP HEWLAND
Captain Craigengelt	MR. CHARLES GLENNEY
Angus of Clydesdale	MR. CHARLES J. CAMERON
Sir John de Bothwell	MR. GEORGE COOKE
Sir Andrew Murray	MR. DENHOLME MUIR
Colonel Murray	MR. ALFRED MANSFIELD
James Murray	MR. HENRY WATSON
Malcolm Rutherford	MR. LEONARD CRASKE
Caleb Balderstone	MR. F. CREMLIN
Landlord	MR. H. BARRY
A Notary	MR. A. RUBEN
Rev. Mr. Bide-the-Bent	MR. PERCY FOSTER
Ailsie Gourlay	MISS MARY RORKE
Annie Winnie	MRS. F. WRIGHT
Maggie	MISS BESSIE ELDER
Mysie	MISS ETHEL PATRICK
Lady Ashton	MISS MAUD HOFFMAN
Lucy Ashton	MISS N. DE SILVA

It was inevitable that Mr. Martin Harvey's presentation of Mr. Stephen Phillips' adaptation of "The Bride of Lammermoor" should revive recollections of the production by Henry Irving at the Lyceum, in the September of 1890, of Herman Merivale's version of the same story. Amongst the principal effects in Irving's fine production were the funeral procession in the first act, and the scene of the sands in the last, with Caleb Balderstone standing awestruck by the spot where his master had gone down. In this version Henry Irving was, of course, the Master of Ravenswood, Miss Ellen Terry enacting Lucy Ashton, Mr. William Terriss Hayston of Bucklaw, Mr. Alfred Bishop Sir William Ashton, Mr. F. H. Macklin the Marquis of Athole, Mr. H. Howe Bide-the-Bent, Mr. Gordon Craig Henry Ashton, Miss Le Thiere Lady Ashton, and Mr. Wenman Craigengelt, Mr. Mackintosh being the Caleb Balderstone. Mr. Harvey made an excellent choice in entrusting to Mr. Stephen Phillips the task of preparing a fresh version of the novel. The main lines of Scott's story are so strongly laid down that it is impossible for the most imaginative adaptor to deviate from them very greatly. The tendency in dramatising "The Bride of Lammermoor" is to intensify the tragedy by exaggerating the supernatural element and suppressing the comic relief supplied in the book by the character of Caleb Balderstone; and the gloom of The Last Heir is certainly somewhat excessive. The tragedy is so mournful and terrible that anything that can mitigate it may be taken full advantage of. Still, whatever an adapter may do, the piece will remain a tragedy; and Mr. Phillips was quite right to rely for effect on the awesome terror and horror of the story and the situations. He has divided his version into four acts. In the first, in the interior of Wolf's Crag, the neighbouring gentry swear vengeance on Sir William Ashton for having ruined the Ravenswood family; and Sir William and Lucy, taking refuge from the storm which rages, are housed for the night by the Master, who falls in love with Lucy at first sight. In this act Caleb Balderstone suggests to Ravenswood that he shall assassinate Sir William while he has a chance; but Edgar, after a momentary impulse to follow this advice, refuses, and goes to sleep in a big armchair before the fire as the act-drop falls. In the next act, Lady Ashton, on her return, surprises the lovers, and abuses Ravenswood, who is forced to fight a duel with Bucklaw, whom he disarms, afterwards going off to seek his fortune in the south. In the third act, Lucy, worn out by waiting for an answer to her letters to Edgar, consents to marry Bucklaw in two days, inducing the benevolent minister, Bide-the-Bent, to forward a letter to Ravenswood by a trusty messenger. The signing of the contract takes place in the fourth act, and Edgar arrives too late, to find Lucy silent and distraught, and to leave her with bitter reproaches. While the guests are revelling in the hall a terrible scream is heard; and Lucy, appearing with a bloody dagger in her hand, sinks half-dead on the staircase at the back. In the last act Ravenswood, whose reason is affected by his terrible experience, rides out from Wolf's Crag to find his fate in the quicksand, the concluding scene showing the "Kelpie's Flow," with the witches pointing to the place where the Master and his steed have been engulfed.

Mr. Martin Harvey's style and personality fitted him exactly for a rôle of the picturesquely mysterious nature of that of Edgar Ravenswood, and he brought out all the melancholy poetry of the part very beautifully. His wooing of Lucy Ashton was the acme of romantic delicacy; and the sense of the fate that hung over the last of the race was suggested by Mr. Harvey with great skill and subtlety. He was powerfully dramatic in the scene in which Edgar returns and demands an explanation from Lucy, and his concluding scene with Balderstone was very weird and winning. Miss N. de Silva must have astonished her warmest admirers by the strength which she displayed by her performance as Lucy Ashton. The character is one which taxes severely the resources of the most intense and earnest actress; and the fact that Miss de Silva sustained it so successfully shows how greatly she has gained in power and resource. She delivered Lucy's speech of agonised reproach in the second act admirably, and the strong restraint of her simulation of madness in the last act was equally effective. In its combination of feminine weakness with passionate, though fitful, energy, Miss de Silva's performance was worthy of most warm and enthusiastic praise. Mr. Charles Glenney made an important and very acceptable contribution to the performance by his richly humorous exposition of the part of Craigengelt, the swagger and servility of the swashbuckler parasite creating hearty laughter, especially in the minuet in the third act, in which Mr. Glenney amusingly imitated the efforts of an inexperienced dancer to copy the movements of his companions. Mr. Philip Hewland hit off the characteristics of Hayston of Bucklaw easily and ably; and Mr. Albert E. Raynor was excellent as Sir William Ashton. A striking and resplendent embodiment of Lady Ashton was supplied by Miss Maud Hoffman, who looked like a Lely portrait in her superb attire, and bore herself with all the hard, remorseless pride associated with the character. Mr. F. Cremlin as the ever-foreboding Caleb Balderstone acted with solemn expression and an admirable simulation of sad senility; and a very creditable representative of the Rev. Mr. Bide-the-Bent was contributed by Mr. Percy Foster, who spoke his lines with commendable clearness and judgment. Miss Mary Rorke made an impressive Ailsie Gourlay; and Mrs. F. Wright and Miss Bessie Elder were satisfactory as Annie Winnie and Maggie, Mr. H. Barry being efficient as the Landlord. Mr. Leslie Palmer was a distinguished and dignified Colonel Ashton; and Master Bobbie Andrews played Henry Ashton pertly and prettily. The local gentry had conscientious and careful representatives in Mr. Charles J. Cameron, Mr. George Cooke, Mr. Denholm Muir, Mr. Alfred Mansfield, Mr. Henry Watson, and Mr. Leonard Craske.

Mr. W. Telbin had contributed a fine interior for the Wolf's Crag scene of the first and fourth acts; and Mr. George J. Dodson's beautiful set, The Woods, for the second act, evoked a spontaneous outburst of delighted applause, his Hall set in the fourth act being a fine bit of mediæval architecture. Mr. Telbin's well-skilled brush had also been employed with advantage in fine pictures of the Terrace of Ravenswood Hall and the "Kelpie's Flow," with moonlight reflections from water. Mr. Norman O'Neill's talent as a composer was displayed in the beautiful entr'actes and incidental music which he provided. The dances arranged by Professor Leslie McCormick went with great spirit; and Mr. Alfred Rivers deserves credit for his attentive stage-management. The Last Heir had an enthusiastic reception from a house which evidently fully appreciated Mr. Harvey's high artistic ambitions, and the liberal and courageous efforts which he makes to realise them.

"THE SWAY BOAT."

Mrs. George Lomax	MISS KATE RORKE
Dench	MR. ERNEST COSHAM
Jim Maitland	MR. C. M. HALLARD
Freddy Cartwright	MASTER PHILIP TONGE
Lady Kilross	MISS LENA ASHWELL
The Countess of Churnside	MISS FRANCES IVOR
Lord Kilross	MR. DENNIS EADIE
Cresswell Barker	MR. E. W. GARDEN
George Lomax	MR. NORMAN MCKINNEL

The exigencies of early publication prevent us from stating with absolute certainty that The Sway Boat was actually produced at the Aldwych Theatre on Friday evening; but as so strong and original a work is certain to be seen on the stage, and Miss Lena Ashwell's arrangements seldom "gang agley," we make no apology for a description founded on the very complete dress rehearsal on Thursday. Mr. Wilfred T. Coleby's play in three acts has the tinge of morbidity which is characteristic of so much advanced art; but there is so much sympathy for poor humanity in it, and the theme is so tenderly handled, that it arrests and interests us. Barrenness and the drug-habit, two of the commonest tribulations of our artificial social system, are the materials of which the author has composed his plot. Lady Kilross, the wife of an earnest politician, is childless. Her mother-in-law, the Countess of Churnside, a hard and bitter religionist, attributes Lady Kilross's barrenness to want of faith. Her ladyship's history is a sad one. Having married, in the first place, a husband who drank himself to death, she has conceived a repulsion for the physical side of marriage, and thus is easily able to repel the advances of Jim Maitland, a young tutor, who is at Ninewell Towers "coaching" Freddy Cartwright, a lad who is in the care of a shrewd lawyer, Mr. George Lomax, K.C. While suffering from her first husband's ill-treatment, and from sorrow at the death of her child, Lady Kilross has contracted the "drug habit," and has confessed the fact to her husband, who has betrayed the secret to the Countess, of whom he is much in awe, and who is a deadly enemy of her daughter-in-law. Lord Kilross, who is a hard, dry, narrow-minded man, taunts his wife with failing to supply him with an heir; and she resolves to do so at all costs and to prove that the fault is not on her side. The first act ends with her practically throwing herself at the tutor's head, the act-drop falling on their passionate embrace.

In the interval of three months between the first and second acts, Lady Kilross and Maitland have been carrying on an intrigue; and the lady, having, presumably, attained her object, now desires that he shall leave England for Egypt, where she has procured for him an appointment. There is an angry scene between her and the tutor when she proposes that they shall part. The physical repulsion already alluded to has developed into a positive horror ; and she tries in vain to explain to him her strange and delicate feelings. Maitland refuses to leave her; but evidence as to their meeting at a house of ill-fame in London has been laid before Lomax, who is obliged to go into the matter, as, in the event of Lady Kilross having a child, Freddy Cartwright, who is the heir to the Kilross property, will be unjustly deprived of it. Lady Kilross lies very cleverly in self-defence, and almost persuades the lawyer of her innocence by an ingenious perversion of the facts. Now Lomax is already aware that Maitland, some time back, went to the same house with a casual acquaintance of the opposite sex; and when the lawyer mentions this to Lady Kilross she flies into a fit of jealous rage. Maitland is summoned; and, when asked by Lomax who was his companion, says that she was the "light o' love" already alluded to, on which Lomax dismisses him from his tutorship, and Lady Kilross faints as he leaves the room.

The last act is not quite equal in sustained interest to its predecessors. The net of evidence seems to be closing round Lady Kilross, but she is not brought to book, Lomax being overborne by his wife's implicit belief in her friend's virtue. The agony is somewhat protracted here, the act chiefly consisting of an elaborate depiction of neurotic excitement. A shot is heard—some poachers are in the park—and Lady Kilross imagines that Maitland has committed suicide. By this time, however, drug drinking and conscience combined have done their work, and she is half crazy. She takes what we must suppose to be an overdose of the drug and goes out into the park to die.

Miss Lena Ashwell gave a marvellously faithful picture of a neurotic woman with all the symptoms of drug-drinking, and made Lady Kilross as little repulsive and as sympathetic as was possible. The part, however, is not a pleasant one; and not even Miss Ashwell's genius and charm could altogether reconcile us to its peculiarities. As a piece of morbid pathology her creation was a remarkable example of finished study and subtle art; and her acting in the last division of the piece was a marvellous study of nervous irritability. One of the best performances in the cast was Mr. Norman McKinnel's strong, self-controlled, able barrister; and Miss Kate Rorke was capital as the faithful and affectionate Mrs. Lomax. Mr. Ernest Cosham contributed a quietly natural impersonation of the old butler Dench; and Mr. C. M. Hallard was powerfully passionate as the amorous and impulsive Jim Maitland. Master Philip Tonge was quite intelligent and well trained as the boy Freddy Cartwright; and Miss Frances Ivor was the acme of stony self-conceit as the Countess of Churnside, Mr. Dennis Eadie supplying a very clever character study as the fussy and foolish Lord Kilross. Mr. E. W. Garden acted with his accustomed ease and humour as a pompous physician. The play was perfectly produced by Mr. Norman McKinnel, the two interiors by Messrs. W. Johnstone and J. J. M. Davis being in every way excellent.

"BELLAMY THE MAGNIFICENT."

Comedy, in Five Acts, by Roy Horniman, produced at the New Theatre on Tuesday, Oct. 6.

Lord Bellamy	SIR CHARLES WYNDHAM
Stephens	MR. ROBERT LORAINE
Mr. Spottit	MR. PAUL ARTHUR
Hon. Reginald Vandeleur	MR. A. VANE-TEMPEST
Mr. Dawlish	MR. YORKE STEPHENS
Lord Porchester	MR. RICHARD LAMBART
Lord Petersfield	MR. R. LEGGIERO
Curtis	MR. EDMUND WALLER
Lady Bellamy	MISS FORTESCUE
Hon. Mrs. Challoner	MISS SARAH BROOKE
Lady Charlotte Blount	MISS ALICE BEET
Duchess of Havant	MISS MARGUERITE LESLIE
Miss Pamela Gray	MISS GLADYS MASON
Miss Williams	MISS CATHERINE DUPONT
Mme. Henriette	MISS KATE CUTLER

Whatever may be said against the actor's calling, one advantage may confidently be claimed for it—it may be followed with complete success for longer than most vocations. It is simply marvellous that, at an age when some evidence of decrepitude is usually observable in the artist, Sir Charles Wyndham should have sustained the leading character in Mr. Roy Horniman's comedy at the New Theatre on Tuesday with the same effectiveness, the same sharpness, and the same spirit as he has displayed at any time during the last twenty years. Even had there been in the embodiment any of the "shakiness" which is usually associated with senility, it would not have been entirely out of place in the character which Mr. Horniman, the author of the very successful Education of Elizabeth, has written for Sir Charles. Bellamy, the elderly married rake and incorrigible runner after the women, is a dilapidated, if dignified, Adonis. "You should see him in his bath!" says his valet, Stephens, in the deepest note of scorn. Bellamy the Magnificent is, in short, a satire. There is no room in Mr. Horniman's scheme for sentiment; he is too much engrossed in scarifying society to depict humanity. Despite its pretence at gay frivolity, the satire of the play is positively vitriolic; and certainly no stronger indictment of the upper class has ever been presented on the stage.

Lord Bellamy's adulteries are so numerous and so notorious that his silly wife has given up resisting him, and confines herself to mild and maudlin remonstrances. She is foolish enough to suppose that she can do good by interfering between him and his latest "victim," a pretty little milliner who calls herself Mme. Henriette, but is really the wife of Lord Bellamy's indispensable and incomparable valet. Lady Bellamy has engaged a private detective named Spottit, with good connections and irreproachable manners and appearance, who has informed her that Lord Bellamy has been making love to Mme. Henriette. It appears that his lordship has also been carrying on an intrigue with the Hon. Mrs. Challoner, a bosom friend of Lady Bellamy's, but he is beginning to get tired of her. In the second act, which takes place at Mme. Henriette's establishment, Stephens tells his wife that he has discovered her flirtation with his master, and is determined to ascertain how far she has gone with him. So he conceals himself behind some millinery, with a loaded pistol in his hand, threatening to shoot his spouse if, when Bellamy pays the visit which he has promised, she shall give him any hint of the ambuscade. His lordship arrives, and proceeds to make love to the lady, who is in an agony of apprehension; and at last Stephens discloses himself, gives his master a month's notice, and threatens a divorce action with a demand for damages.

To lose the valet who so well understands his wants and weaknesses would be a great misfortune for the master, so he conspires with the private detective above-mentioned, who is also a skilled blackmailer, to coerce Stephens into withdrawing his resignation. The detective secures the valet's portmanteau, and, when it is opened, some diamonds of Lord Bellamy's are found inside it. Threatened with police proceedings for the alleged theft, Stephens agrees to remain in Lord Bellamy's service, but swears that he will have his revenge. He has it in the last act. His lordship has lately been winning largely at cards from a certain Mr. Dawlish, and the valet sends to this gentleman an anonymous letter telling him that Bellamy cheats at cards. Stephens then places a card in his master's sleeve, and when Dawlish, after a heavy loss, insists on his lordship being searched, the card is found. Bellamy, realising that he is socially ruined, shoots himself, and so the play ends.

We have already alluded to the remarkable performance of Sir Charles Wyndham as Lord Bellamy. The fashionableness of the elderly rake was indicated by some curious details in his costumes, which were of very advanced and anticipatory "up-to-dateness." The blue dress suit which Lord Bellamy wears in the last act, and the bold colour schemes of his other dresses will certainly create discussion in "smart" circles. The part itself is not a pleasant one, the sympathetic note being struck only in the last act, when Bellamy, before committing suicide, addresses a little sermon of counsel to his son, a little boy in pyjamas. Otherwise the key of the character is an imperturbable heartlessness and indifference. Sir Charles Wyndham is capable of performing upon a greater gamut of emotion than is allowed him in Bellamy the Magnificent; but within the limits allotted by the author his performance was perfectly alert and acute, his bearing and style being entirely irreproachable, and his ease and aplomb exquisite. A fine performance of the part of Stephens was supplied by that admirable actor Mr. Robert Loraine, whose valet had all the necessary brutal energy, controlled by the sleekest and most complete duplicity. The contrast between Stephens when stirred by passion and the same man when wearing his servile mask was very effective; and there was a masterliness and even manliness about the gentleman's gentleman that won for him a good deal of sympathy. Mr. Paul Arthur played the part of Mr. Spottit very crisply and well, though Mr. Arthur's pervading bonhomie and essential good-nature made Spottit, if anything, a little too amiable. Mr. A. Vane-Tempest did all that was required as the effeminate idler, Vandeleur; and Mr. Yorke Stephens played Mr. Dawish in his usual firm, clever, and competent style. A delightful embodiment of Lady Bellamy was supplied by Miss Fortescue, who combined with finished style, exquisite diction, and the greatest correctness in every detail, the complete characterisation of the personage. The rôle was such a shallow and artificial one that it needed the most delicate handling, and that Miss Fortescue was quite able to supply. Her appearance was of no small advantage to her in her task. Miss Sarah Brooke was the essence of "flighty," irresponsible frivolity as the Hon. Mrs. Challoner; and Miss Alice Beet, though she has yet to show us on the stage the repose and ease of bearing of the society lady of the last generation, was strong and emphatic as Lady Charlotte Blount. Miss Marguerite Leslie was agreeable and intelligent as the Duchess of Havant; and Miss Gladys Mason, beautiful in figure and feature, spoke her lines with excellent enunciation and pleasing inflexion as Miss Pamela Gray. Miss Catherine Dupont was satisfactory as Miss Williams. A piece of acting which was both artistic and acute was Miss Kate Cutler's Mme. Henriette. She suggested very distinctly the weak and worthless character of the milliner, and her slim prettiness and the expressiveness of her depiction of anxiety and distress won much sympathy for the feather-headed little woman. Taken as a whole, the performance of Bellamy the Magnificent was a wonderful instance of judicious selection on the part of the management. Even the smaller parts were dressed and acted with extreme care, Mr. Richard Lambart as Lord Porchester and Mr. R. Leggiero as Lord Petersfield being faithful representatives of society people of the day. Of course, in a work of this kind, much of the effect is gained in semi-tones; and the dialogue sparkled intermittently with gems of wit. At times these were less brilliant than could have been desired, notably in the rather laboured conference of women at the beginning of the fourth act. The quality of the wit is somewhat hard and cruel, but often Mr. Horniman has dropped into humour and deviated from his general aim at a somewhat arid acuteness. Both the situations of the play and its sentiments will appear rather to the cynical clubman and the society hack of the opposite sex than to the more artless and unsophisticated average stallite; but Sir Charles Wyndham's "following" is a fashionable one, and the reception which the audience gave to Bellamy the Magnificent at the New Theatre on Tuesday was warmly enthusiastic.

"THE HOUSE OF CLAY."

A Play, in Three Acts, by Herbert Swears, adapted from La Maison d'Argile of E. Emile Fabre, and produced for the first time in London at the Coronet Theatre, Notting Hill, on Friday, Oct. 2.

Henri Armières	MR. KENDAL
Pierre Rouchon	MR. BASSETT ROE
Fernand	MR. EDMUND GURNEY
Frédéric	MR. R. BURNETT
Valentine	MISS JESSICA THORNE
Marguerite	MISS ETHEL DANE
Mme. de Réhy	MISS SARA DE GROOT
Mme. Armières, sen.	MRS. A. B. TAPPING
Mme. Armières	MRS. KENDAL

The House of Clay, forcible and pathetic as its chief situations are, is not exactly suited to the atmosphere of an English theatre, and any success that it scored at the Coronet Theatre on Friday, the 2nd inst., was a success due entirely to the personality of Mrs. Kendal, whose portrait of a mother of tender susceptibilities showed all the finish and charm which belong by prescriptive right to that delightful actress. M. Emile Fabre, the author of La Maison d'Argile (produced at the Comédie-Française on Feb. 25, 1907), is a great antagonist of divorce. He sets out—and Mr. Herbert Swears, the author of the above adaptation, faithfully follows him—that marriage involves duties, and does not merely confer rights, and he is not ready to admit the selfishness of those "who want to live their own life." Mme. Armières has obtained a divorce from her first husband, a M. Rouchon, a brutal and vulgar individual, and in her second marriage has found great happiness. She has inherited from her parents a factory, but M. Armières mismanages her affairs, and when the curtain rises on the first act he is in a state bordering on bankruptcy through injudicious speculation. In sore straits for money, he appeals to his wife for the necessary funds to tide him over. She consents to the loan, and for this purpose proposes to sell the factory. Her beloved daughter Marguerite's dowry will come out of her own private means. In making this arrangement she takes no count of Valentine Rouchon, her daughter by her first husband, or of Pierre Rouchon, her only son, who, strange to say, turns up in the drawing-room of the Armières as a prospective purchaser of the factory. Pierre, who has not seen his mother for many years, is now a workman in desperate straits, and does not respond to the maternal solicitude. A residence abroad with his father had not nurtured the sense of filial duty; and during the painful interview between him and his mother he shows himself to be hard, cruel, and selfish, but intensely business-like. He can find 600,000 francs towards the purchase, which has been fixed at 800,000 francs, and he asks his mother to advance him the remainder on the money due to him at her death. She refuses, and he immediately threatens to expose to a syndicate treating for the factory the financial difficulties of M. Armières, who sternly rebukes him for his unfilial conduct, and orders him from the house. Pierre has an unexpected ally in his sister Valentine, who is, not unnaturally, jealous of her half-sister Marguerite, because the latter's dowry is secured while she is entirely overlooked. Marguerite, a sweet and lovable girl, then comes to the rescue. She refuses to accept a dowry, under these conditions, and decides to follow her father to Tiflis, where he has accepted a post as engineer. We may conclude that the trio recommence life under happier conditions in that far-off region.

Mme. Ségond-Wéber's part in the Comédie-Française production gave Mrs. Kendal great opportunities, and in the second act she held the house by the pride and sensibility of the fond mother cut to the quick by the conduct of the boy whom she had idolised. Her grief burst forth without restraint later, and many eyes were dimmed with tears both in the second and third acts. Mr. Kendal had but one chance, in the second act, when the indignant M. Armières turned upon the mean-spirited Pierre and showed him the door. Mr. Kendal sounded the possibilities of the situation exactly. Mr. Bassett Roe handled the disagreeable and unsympathetic character of Pierre like an artist; Mr. Edmund Gurney was much too British to realise the rôle of Fernand, the raisonneur of the piece; Miss Ethel Dane made a vivacious and sympathetic Marguerite; Miss Jessica Thorne played the difficult part of Valentine with much tact; and Miss Sara de Groot, in her one scene as the frivolous and scandal-loving Mme. de Réhy (the Mrs. Candour of the piece), did well. Mrs. A. B. Tapping did useful service as Mme. Armières, sen.; and Mr. R. Burnett completed the cast as Frédéric.

THE Princess of Wales visited the Garrick Theatre on Tuesday night, and witnessed Miss Evelyn Millard's production of Idols.

MME. MELBA will have her farewell concert at the Albert Hall on Nov. 7. Mr. Landon Ronald will then conduct the first performance in London of Mr. Henry J. Coates's "Pageant March."

THE 500th performance of Mozart's Figaro took place at Berlin about a week ago, the first having been given on Sept. 14, 1790. Fräulein Destinn was to have appeared as the Countess, but in her absence through illness the part was taken by Mme. Gadski, and owing to a like cause Mr. Griswold appeared as Figaro in the absence of Herr Knüpfer.

FECHTER STORIES.

During a visit to Paris, wrote John Coleman in "Players and Playwrights," Fechter saw Sardou's clever adaptation of Paul Feval's wild and improbable story, Le Bossu, was struck with it, and produced it for his opening piece at the Lyceum on Jan. 10, 1863.

The Duke's Motto (so the English version by John Brougham was called) "struck ile" immediately, and was played to crowded houses for the entire season.

For a considerable period Phelps' name was conspicuously underlined in the Lyceum playbills.

Of course, no manager could be expected to withdraw a piece which was filling his coffers nightly; the position was, nevertheless, so mortifying to the English tragedian's amour propre, and so injurious to his reputation, that he desired to be released from his engagement. Fechter was, however, master of the situation, and, as he paid Phelps' salary regularly, he held him to his bond.

Montgomery was similarly situated, and chafed at the chain which bound him.

Fechter had an unfortunate knack of scratching everybody the wrong way. No man made friends with greater ease, or lost them with greater facility. One of the first fruits of his uncertain temper was a row with George Vining, his stage-manager, who left him and went into management on his own account at the Princess's, where he became a most dangerous rival. Montgomery, impatient at being debarred an appearance, also threw up his engagement, and joined Vining, whereupon Fechter sought to obtain an injunction to restrain the former from appearing elsewhere than at the Lyceum, when, lo and behold, it oozed out that the salary of Walter Montgomery, the most accomplished jeunne premier of his time, amounted to the munificent sum of £6 per week!

The relations between Fechter and Phelps now became somewhat strained, and things approached a climax during an interview in which the former, after intimating that the next production would be Hamlet, blandly inquired what part Phelps would play in the piece.

"Why, Hamlet, of course," he replied.

"Oh! but I play Hamlet myself," responded the Frenchman.

"The d——l you do!" growled Phelps.

"Yes! So I thought, perhaps, you would play the Ghost!"

"You thought that I would play the Ghost to your Hamlet—yours! Well, d——n your impudence!"

With this the interview terminated, and Phelps' engagement terminated soon after, amidst a blaze of legal fireworks.

Prosperity, which had turned Fechter's brain, parted company with him after his first season, and the remainder of his term was marked either by quasi-successes, or a dreary monotony of failure.

Fechter decided to terminate his management with a revival of Hamlet. Alas! the fickle fashionable public had deserted their whilom idol, the glory had departed, and on the first night there was a wretched house, and an unsympathetic audience.

Fechter had feminine proclivities, and was as hysterical as a woman; hence, he was taken suddenly ill with another attack of the mysterious malady, which caused the epigastrium to swell out into abnormal dimensions; he collapsed at the end of the second act, and Ryder, who had played the Ghost in the first act, had to come to life again to play the three last acts of Hamlet. He played the part for three nights more, during which he roared himself so hoarse that after the third performance he was scarcely audible; hence he, too, found it expedient to throw up the sponge.

It was the last week of the season. John Ryder had taken the theatre for a short time to introduce a German-American actress, one Mme. or Mlle. Vestvali. Being this lady's manager, all the responsibilities of the enterprise rested on his shoulders, and he therefore found it necessary to preserve his strength in order to devote his energies to his fair client. In grateful acknowledgment of his services on this occasion, Fechter presented him (Ryder) with his Hamlet dress.

Some time afterwards, when they were at loggerheads, and Fechter was stigmatizing Ryder as a robber and a ruffian, and I don't know what else, I reminded him (Fechter) of the above incident.

"Yes, my boy," rejoined he, triumphantly, "I certainly did give the hook-nosed, herring-gutted villain my old Hamlet dress; but I gave it him because it would no longer fit me!"

It was in vain that Barnett—Fechter's acting-manager—urged Ryder to act for only another night.

"No," rejoined "honest Jack," in the vigorous vernacular of which he had always a copious supply on hand; "I've shouted myself hoarse. Let the Frenchman try a little shouting on his own hook."

Finding Ryder still obstinate, Fechter said to Barnett:

"Well, as this voleur will not act, and I cannot, you must go and get a Hamlet."

Away went Barnett to the agents to see if there were any Hamlets "knocking about."

On his return, after an hour or two's absence, Fechter eagerly inquired:

"Well, well, have you got one?"

"No," replied Barnett; "I've been to all the shops where the article is sold, but they haven't got one in stock."

Finding it impossible to provide a substitute, the theatre was closed on the Friday, and Fechter had to wind up the season himself, on the following night, which he did with a very bad grace.

On this occasion I presented myself at the box-office for admittance; but Barnett persistently, though politely, alleged that I had seen Hamlet often enough to serve for the rest of my life, and insisted on escorting me to the club opposite.

This opposition excited my curiosity; so, taking the earliest opportunity for bidding him good-night, I went round to the gallery, deposited my modest shilling, and found myself one amongst a gallery audience of (ill-omened number) thirteen! The other parts of the house were proportionately empty. Fechter walked through the part in a sullen, listless manner; the whole performance was melancholy and depressing in the extreme; and when at length the curtain descended in solemn silence, an Irishman of the proletariate, who sat just before me, roared out:

"Phelps for ever! Fechter be blanked! Hurroo!"

And thus ended Fechter's unfortunate management at the Lyceum.

Mr. Acton Bond may be warmly congratulated upon the success of the British Empire Shakespeare Society's second annual season at Stratford-on-Avon. The British Empire Shakespeare Society presented one play by two different companies within a period of three days. In the second cast of Twelfth Night on the 2nd inst. Mr. G. H. Holloway sustained the rôle of the Clown with remarkable success; the Viola of Miss Ruth Anderson deserved hearty praise; and Olivia had an excellent exponent in Miss Enid Rose. Orsino was well played by Mr. C. H. Humphreys; Mr. P. L. Eyre was effective as Malvolio; and Mr. W. H. Slyde and Mr. G. H. Luke won credit as Sir Toby Belch and Sir Andrew Aguecheek. Maria had a lively representative in Miss Rochelle Thomas; Mr. Hugh J. Percy was good as Viola's brother; and Mr. A. D. Flower was commendable as Antonio.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

"LE BON ROI DAGOBERT."

Comedy, in Four Acts, in Verse, by M. A. Rivoire, produced at the Comédie-Française on Oct. 7.

Eloi ..... M. Leloir
Dagobert ..... M. Georges Berr
Ega ..... M. Croue
Odoric ..... M. Siblot
Nantilde ..... Mlle. Leconte
La Reine ..... Mlle. Pierat
Bertrude ..... Mlle. Madeleine Roch
Une dame d'honneur ..... Mlle. Faylis

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, Thursday, Oct. 8.—We have had a busy week, but the novelties produced were interesting, and some of them far above the average. M. Rivoire's comedy Le Bon Roi Dagobert is somewhat risqué, a fault for which he atoned by the delightful manner in which he dealt with his subject. The Dagobert whom the gifted author introduces is not the historical monarch, the King of the Franks, named the Great on account of the victories he won on the battlefield. M. Rivoire's hero hails from the domain of Fancy. He is young, a great sportsman, but fickle, and so hare-brained that on his wedding-day, whilst deer-stalking, he forgets all about his fiancée, a Spanish princess, and arrives at the palace only just in time to throw an embroidered cloak over his hunting garments to appear decently in church. Yet, the Princess does not at all mind his being late. In fact, she would have been delighted had he stayed away altogether, for she is—or fancies herself—in love with one of her cousins, and has sworn to remain faithful to him. Whilst waiting for the King, she informs Eloi, the Prime Minister, that she intends to keep her promise, and therefore wants to return home. Eloi, dreading political complications, then hits upon a strange stratagem. He prevails upon Nantilde, a young girl employed in the palace, and who has lost her heart to Dagobert, to impersonate the Queen during the night; and he bamboozles his royal master in the belief that an oracle ordains that he (the monarch) must, after he has retired to his apartment, keep the place in darkness whilst he is with the Queen and withdraw from the room before daybreak. This queer arrangement works well during two days, and then the unexpected happens. The young Queen, forgetting her cousin and her promise, suddenly becomes jealous of Nantilde, and insists on taking her place that same night. It so happens that the two ladies meet the King in the darkened room. The bewildered sovereign then has his suspicions, and, calling on his people to bring torches, discovers that he has been fooled. In his wrath he sends his wife back to her father, and orders little Nantilde to be hanged on the nearest tree. But the good-natured Eloi does not carry out that cruel sentence, and smuggles the girl into a convent. A few days later the King accidentally finds out Nantilde's retreat; and as he also discovers that it is she whom he loves, he makes her Queen of the Franks. The work was splendidly acted. M. Berr's Dagobert will rank among that actor's best creations; and the same can be said of M. Leloir's masterly impersonation of Eloi. Unstinted praise must also be bestowed on Mlle. Piérat and Mlle. Leconte.

The Cluny Theatre brought out its annual Revue de Cluny, with the same topical jokes that never fail to amuse the audience. The popular theatre has mounted MM. Paul Ardot and Albert Laroche's production in really good style.

We have had at the Vaudeville an English version of Mr. Pinero's play His House in Order, called in the adaptation Sa Maison en ordre. It met with an excellent reception, and appealed specially to the French audience in the first and last acts. The characters of Richard and Price—the brother of the husband and the brother of the lamented Anna Bell—were sympathetic to the Parisians and excellently played by the popular actors Lérand and Levesque. M. Lérand, as Richard, has the rôle of the moraliser that the French are accustomed to in Dumas' plays; and although they may consider there are newer methods they nevertheless appreciate the attention. The family Ridgeley was capitally played by Mlle. Carron as Lady Ridgeley, M. Joffre, as Sir Daniel, and Mlle. Andrée, as the aggressive Geraldine. M. Arquillières was a perfect Jesson, reserved and austere; and the rôle of Nina could not have been in better hands than Mlle. Regnier's. But, undoubtedly, the cast made the success of the play.

Under the pseudonym of Louise Dartigue, the wife of M. Cruppi, the well-known French Cabinet Minister, gave us at the Théâtre Antoine a comedy called Répudiée, her maiden effort. It is a simple story, a "drama intime." Daniel Roberty, a professor at the Paris University, is what the ladies call "an irresistible man." Women attend his lectures, not from scientific motives, but in order to gaze at the professor's handsome features. Ambitious, heartless, and vain, Daniel revels in this incense and neglects Maria, his wife, to whom he owes the best part of his social and professional success. Among Daniel's great admirers is Antoinette de Blay, the daughter of a ruined titled lady. Fearing a scandal, Daniel at first resists Antoinette's bold overtures, but in the end she becomes his mistress, and he promises to marry her the moment he will have divorced his wife. The man, however, need not wait so long. The luckless Maria, hearing what is in store for her, commits suicide. The play is well constructed, but the dialogue is painfully amateurish. Moreover, the actor who impersonated the lady-killing professor did not understand his rôle, and rendered it in a ludicrous fashion. But the attitude of the audience was deplorable. The ladies and gentlemen in the boxes and stalls should have remembered that dress rehearsals are functions to which invitations are issued, and that as guests they had no justification for interrupting the play by loud and sarcastic remarks.

"L'Auberge Rouge," produced the same night at Antoine's is a dramatised version by Mr. Serge Basset of one of Balzac's blood-curdling stories, in which a young French officer is summarily shot, although innocent of the murder of a bank cashier, who has been robbed of 100,000 francs while a fellow-guest of his alleged murderer at the "red inn." The piece, which is in two acts, met with a good reception, and the mounting was worthy of the traditions of the house.

Miss Pauline Chase has scored another success in Mr. Barrie's Pantaloon: a Plea for an Ancient Family, at the Théâtre des Arts. At the present moment everything here is "tout à l'Anglais." Heaven grant it may last? The thing, however, must not be overdone, and I do not share the views of those who think that an Anglo-American theatre will do well in Paris. From my personal knowledge of the resident English and Americans in Paris the scheme would be a risky one; and as regards the French, their support cannot always be relied upon.

Two triple bills will be presented at the performances in aid of the Veterans' Club Labour Bureau at the Court Theatre on Nov. 2 and 3. The programme on the Monday evening will be, Pride of Regiment, the successful military play by Mr. F. D. Bone; The King's Hard Bargain, a naval piece; and Private Nobody, which is of a military character. On Tuesday afternoon The King's Hard Bargain and Pride of Regiment will be repeated, with The Top-side Dog in place of Private Nobody. Miss Mouillot, who becomes lessee and manager of the Court Theatre on the day of the first veterans' performance, intends to celebrate her opening night by holding a reception on the stage after the performance, and also after the matinée, to which members of the audience will be invited.

THE NEW THEATRE, OXFORD.

The directors of the New Theatre, Oxford, have taken vigorous measures to make the house worthy of the town. They secured the skilled co-operation of Mr. W. G. R. Sprague, who has designed and controlled the construction of more than forty theatres, among them the Hicks' and the Queen's, part of the imposing new block of buildings in Shaftesbury-avenue, London. His plan swept away the old arrangements. The former lobby and corridors have disappeared, and the auditorium is carried back to the exterior wall, thus gaining considerable space. At the same time the dress circle and balcony have been brought forward so that they now form but a small segment of a large circle. As a result nearly every seat directly faces the stage, and they spread out fan-wise as they reach back. The pitch is steep, so that the occupants of one row have a free view of the stage over the heads of those in front, and the matinée hat will lose its terrors. The extension of the gallery necessitated raising the roof, and now there is room and comfort for the "gods," with a promenade behind all. The stalls and pit both provide increased accommodation. The pit absorbs part of the old corridor and lobby; and—greatest boon of all—the adoption of the cantilever system in the construction of the dress circle and gallery has banished all supporting columns, and opened up an unimpeded view of the stage for everyone. Large gangways render access easy to all seats, and two exits for every part of the house will enable the theatre to be speedily emptied. The stage that formerly extended beyond the proscenium, has been cut back, and the orchestra will occupy the space, but, following the modern plan, will be sunk out of sight. Nor has the experienced architect overlooked the need of proper ventilation, and airshafts provide for the renewal of fresh air.

Those seeking refreshment will find the saloons refitted and greatly improved, whilst the lounge has been extended. The lavatory accommodation, too, has been largely increased for all parts of the house.

Outside, the main entrance and booking-office have been placed in the centre of the George-street façade, where the introduction of columns and portico gives considerable dignity and symmetry to the building. All this work of reconstruction has been confided to Messrs. Kingerlee and Son, who recently built the Reading Theatre, and are now altering Wyndham's. The steel and ironwork has been carried out by Messrs. Smith, Walker, and Son. Mr. Wilkins, the local architect, has daily supervised the proper execution of Mr. Sprague's plans.

For the decoration of the auditorium, Mr. Sprague has chosen the Renaissance style. Double columns fill the space on either side of the proscenium, giving richness where it was needed, and a series of arcades and intervening columns carry on the architectural design to the back of the circle. The ceiling has moulded enrichments. White and gold are the colours; the ground white and the enrichments gold. The effect is very refined and distinguished, and the note of crimson in the seats and cushions provides the accent to complete the colour scheme. The furnishing and upholstering are in the capable hands of Messrs. Walford and Spokes, whilst the plaster work and decoration are being carried out by Messrs. De Jong, who have made this province their own.

The iron curtain, with its asbestos coverings, is so carefully hung and balanced, that by merely touching a lever it quietly descends and completely cuts off the auditorium from the stage.

On the stage itself more room has been gained by removing two staircases, their place being taken by the non-inflammable cat-ladder. On the prompt side—erected on an iron balcony—is the elaborate switchboard for that magician of the modern theatre—the electrician. Mr. Sheard, R.B.A., is painting a new act drop—a vision of mediæval Italy. One gazes from the hall of some Renaissance palazzo through the loggia, where are musicians and maidens dancing, to a spreading sunlit landscape. In the courtyard below knights are riding by; beyond rise city and castle-crowned hills, and beyond these again the sea and distant mountains. On the right may be recognised the cliffs of Capri and towering Monte Solaro.

THE "ACME" HEATING SYSTEM.

The "Acme" new system of heating by means of the "Mars" gas-heated steam radiators is the most efficient and economical means of heating theatres and music halls, &c. Each radiator is entirely self-contained, being ready for work when fixed to the existing gas supply, no flue or hot-water connections necessary, so that the cost of installation is only nominal. When more than one radiator is required, any one of these can be instantly brought into action or dispensed with, thus giving control over the warmth required, according to the varying conditions of temperature. The gas consumption is automatically controlled, which effects great economy. Under the "Acme" system, no more gas is required for heating than for lighting a building. Further information will be furnished by writing to Messrs. Arden, Hill and Co., "Acme" Works, Birmingham

A grand Balaclava concert will be given at the Crystal Palace on Saturday evening, Oct. 24, in aid of Mr. T. H. Roberts' Light Brigade Charge Survivors' Relief Fund. The vocalists will be Miss Gertrude Maxted and Mr. Frederick Earl. "The Charge of the Light Brigade" will be recited by Mrs. Clement Scott. She will be supported by a contingent of the Balaclava Light Brigade charge survivors and the buglers and drummers of the London Rifle Brigade (by permission of Col. Lord Bingham), under the direction of Bugler H. Dunbar. The Crystal Palace Orchestral Society and Choir will take part, as well as the Crystal Palace Band, conducted by Mr. Herbert Godfrey. There will be altogether 350 performers. Mr. Fred W. Holloway will be the accompanist, and Mr. Walter W. Hedgcock will be the musical director.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

At the meeting of the council, held at 353, Strand, on the 2nd inst., with Mr. Fred Grove in the chair, there were present Messrs. Chris Walker, Franklyn Walford, and Robson Paige, Misses Rose Mathews and Marion Lind, and Mr. Hubert Blount (secretary). Mr. Robson Paige made a statement with regard to the move to new premises. The council offered their special thanks to the secretary and to Mr. Bowen for the extra work they had undertaken in consequence of the move. The council instructed the secretary to put up a notice expressing their regret to members that the rooms had been closed during the last week, and thanking them for their kind co-operation and accepting the situation.

At the meeting held on Tuesday, Mr. Fred Grove again in the chair, there were present:—Mr. H. W. Mote (hon. solicitor) and Messrs. Chris Walker, J. Sebastian Smith, and Robson Paige, Misses Rose Mathews and Marion Lind, and Mr. Hubert Blount (secretary).

The secretary read the minutes of the meeting held on Sept. 29 and Oct. 2, and the meeting confirmed and the chairman signed same.

The secretary read a letter from Miss Mary Ainslie, in which she suggested that a lower rate of subscription should be made for touring members, and was instructed to write to Miss Ainslie pointing out all the advantages the touring members receive for the small subscription of 15s.

The hon. solicitor reported that he had written two letters to a member as to her claim against a member, and had also written requesting him to return her sketch and pay the amount of royalties he owes; that he had written to another member requesting further information as to his claim, also to another member, and had had an interview with her, and had written a letter on her behalf to the Great Northern Railway re damage sustained for delay in delivering luggage; that he had written two letters to another member, and had had an interview with her, and had advised her; that he had had an interview with two other members, and had advised them.

The secretary asked whether he might close the rooms at seven o'clock, but the council decided that they should remain open until eight o'clock every evening, and Mr. Sebastian Smith kindly consented to undertake the charge of the rooms every Thursday evening for a month from seven to eight o'clock.

The council passed a unanimous vote of thanks to Mr. Smith.

"ART AND AGITATION."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—It will require the shortest flight of fancy to predict that the chroniclers of 1925 will describe the early years of the twentieth century as being principally famous for their genius in agitation and their lamentable dearth in the way of originality in either stage or vaudeville personalities. The architects, the monarchs of vast combinations, and the sub-lessees of theatres have grown to such enormous proportions as to quite overshadow the substance upon which their mammoths look for existence, viz., the personnel and the productions. It is not given to any living being to do that which the ancients and philosophers have proved an impossibility, i.e., to play the dual rôle of master and man. If a Charles Frohman or an Oswald Stoll have to supply fifty theatres with an annual amusement, it stands to any reasonable man's mind that these two "Universal Providers" have very little time to "reason why," but, out of self-preservation, to take for production that which is in the market at the moment, and make the best of them before the most pampered public the world has ever known, with the possible exception of Babylon in its zenith. An over-confidence amongst artists, has, it would seem, bred a dangerous indifference as to the exact fare he or she should place before their managers, and, to my mind, a good deal of this is traceable to the want of artists' admiration of artists. To-day there is an abundance of copying, but a lamentable want of emulation and ambition to excel. I have scores of people tell me they are glad when "this is over, or their part is finished"—quite young people, too, whose predecessors would have thrilled you with the fire of their enthusiasm. We seem to live in a veritable age of "Thank God, that's over" type. I shall have the man on the platform saying "Quite right, look at the way they are treated; good luck to them," or some such anachronism. Precisely, and it is to this gentleman I would answer—Was the great Dr. Johnson treated as well when he was forced to subsist on 4½d. a day? What of Kean, who had to tramp from York to Bristol with his broadswords and props swung over his shoulder? What of Irving, Jefferson, Booth, and the brilliant little Dan Leno, who used to dance his heart out at the Malakoff in Liverpool for 18s. a week—were these men ever treated as well as the modern aspirant? The subject scarcely admits of argument.

The feeling of resentment to discipline and hard work is gradually bringing about a profession of pessimists. We have to remember that we are a commodity that can be done without, and it is up to each and all of us to make ourselves as indispensable to the manager and public as is possible. I've had people remark to me, "I should think it is easy enough to knock an act together of ten minutes"; and my reply has invariably been, 'It's far more difficult than writing a play, for every line has to be a third act," which only goes to show that all the time an earnest man or woman has, either upon the stage or vaudeville theatres, should be spent thinking and improving their acts. This is the age of competition and the survival of the fittest.

You cannot be a politician and a worker. To agitate and say rude things of others should be left to those people who fight like the devil for harmony, and pray to Heaven they may never obtain it. So long as "the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world," so will the man with the attraction rule the managers!—Yours faithfully,

HERBERT SHELLEY.

Empire, Glasgow.

The Princess of Wales witnessed the performance of What Every Woman Knows at the Duke of York's Theatre on Thursday night.

The Earl of Rosslyn, who will be remembered as an actor under the name of James Erskine, was married for the third time on Thursday, when he espoused Miss Vera Mary Bayley, younger daughter of Mr. Eric Edward Bayley, formerly of the 17th Lancers, and of the late Mrs. Bayley, of Little Moyle, Co. Carlow, Ireland. The ceremony, of which only the immediate friends of the bride and bridegroom were acquainted, was performed at the registry office, Princess-row, Buckingham Palace-road.

As "Mr. James Erskine" he played at the Court Theatre in Trelawny of the Wells and toured with Mrs. Langtry, subsequently appearing at Wyndham's in The Undercurrent. The first marriage of the Earl of Rosslyn, who is thirty-nine years of age, was in 1890, when he wedded a daughter of Mr. Robert Charles de Grey Vyner, but two years later the marriage was dissolved. His second wife was Miss Anna Robinson, a well-known American actress, whom he married in 1905. The union, however, was not a happy one, and it was nullified last year. The Earl served in the South African War with Thorneycroft's Horse, was twice taken prisoner by the Boers, and wrote a book on his African experiences.

WORSWICK.—In loving memory of John Worswick (late of the Royal Court Theatre and Grand Hippodrome, Wigan), who died Oct. 13, 1906. Though death divides, fond memory clings. R.I.P. Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Worswick.

MR. KENNETH LYLE has just completed a striking polka song, founded on the old adage that "the boy's the father of the man." It is entitled "To see if it was fit for father." It is quite on the cards that it will be acquired by one of our greatest living stars.

MISS DORA LYRIC on Monday at the Shoreditch Empire essayed two new numbers which were instantly acclaimed as emphatic hits. One of the very foremost chorus singers, the popular lady has never been better fitted than in the present instances. The first is a motto song, by F. J. Barnes and Maurice Scott, entitled "Do just a little bit more," and the second is a number called "Winkles and Watercresses," which embodies a humorous story, and is by Alf Ellerton.

GEO. DOLAN, 20, labourer, of no fixed abode, was charged, at Tower Bridge, on Saturday, with assaulting Kitty Burns, a music-hall artist, by striking her in the face. Prosecutrix was standing outside a stationer's shop in York-road, Waterloo, when prisoner came up and informed her that he had been robbed. She expressed her sorrow, and walked away. Prisoner followed, and put his arm round her neck to kiss her, when she told him that she considered it an insult. He then said, "You want a punch in the face," closed his fist, struck her on the cheek, and ran away. Prisoner had no recollection of the occurrence. Mr. Rose said such conduct could not be excused, and prisoner was fined £1, or 14 days' hard labour.

Stage Fright Avoided.

Stage fright is but a poor definition of the exhausting nervous tension experienced by the truly artistic temperament on stage or platform.

The effort to excel, even when one is feeling in the best of health, imposes a drain on the entire nervous system which is likely at any time to end in sudden collapse.

Good food and much rest will do a lot, but when, despite these, you find your nervousness increasing, your voice inclined to rasp, or your energy fairly "oozing out of your feet," it is high time to adopt special measures of repair.

To do this you need not lay up, however. A few glasses daily of that marvellous restorative, Hall's Wine, will work wonders in you.

This grand old tonic was formulated by a West End physician nearly thirty years ago, and has never been improved upon. By means of Hall's Wine you get invigoration without headiness, sustenance without torpor, and can therefore take it at any time.

It is a fact, as testified by hundreds of actors and singers, that nothing allays nervousness or stage fright so readily as Hall's Wine.

The secret is, of course, that Hall's Wine quickly and fully enriches the blood, and thus passes rich, rejuvenating tissue-building nutriment to the parts most needing it.

Nerves are calmed and comforted, inflamed membranes soothed and invigorated, the voice becomes strong and clear. Indeed, there is no safer or surer way of raising your whole body to the summit of physical and mental activity and of keeping it there.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.
BY
ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Copyright confusion is, like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr. Albert A. Strong's new work, entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr. Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his textbook on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" Office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1908.

A THEATRICAL EXHIBITION.

Those patrons of charity who are often hard pressed for some new attraction which shall bring in money for their excellent objects might do worse than consider the promotion of a Theatrical Exhibition such as has been given in the Marsan wing at the Paris Louvre this month by the Union Centrale des Arts Décoratifs. The exhibition consists of a theatrical portrait gallery and a collection of various objects of art and use connected with the theatre. The exhibition in the Louvre has over 2,000 exhibits; but we feel certain that it could be improved upon in England.

It would, however, be by no means an easy task to properly organise such an exhibition. The advantage of shows of this sort is that they allow the public to admire things which have been buried in the private houses of collectors and others. The difficulty is rather an embarrassment of riches than any want of material. A collector who possesses a few "gems" and a great deal of trash may be offended at the rejection of articles which he considers of intense interest and genuine merit; and the result too often is that an exhibition is clogged and surcharged with "stodge." Yet, when one thinks of the possibilities of such an enterprise, and the prospect of its popularity, it seems that it might be worth the trouble of preparing it properly.

To start with, we have in the possession of the nation and in that of private owners a rich hoard of theatrical portraits and engravings. Our finest portrait-painters have employed their genius in depicting the actors and actresses of this generation and the last; and even in the debased periods of English art there is much in this direction to create interest, if not to excite admiration. How pleasant it would be to pass from the various portraits of GARRICK to SARGENT'S characteristic treatment of Miss ELLEN TERRY as Lady Macbeth, and to compare the exquisite ideals of GAINSBOROUGH and Sir JOSHUA with the more modern manifestations of LONG and MILLAIS; to study the features of CHARLES LAMB'S old actors, of MUNDEN, of PALMER, and of ELLISTON, and to contrast them with the "counterfeit presentments" of our present-day favourites. The theatrical portrait gallery alone would draw "the town."

The historical section of the stage would be of great interest to students; and, as a writer in the Times suggests, it might include the well-known drawing of the Swan Theatre, and the very interesting model of the Fortune Theatre which Mr. ARCHER and Mr. WALTER H. GODFREY have evolved between them from the extant builder's contract which is to be found in an upper storey of the Aile de Marsan at the Louvre. The relics connected with SHAKESPEARE and his predecessors may not be numerous, but they would be reverentially examined; and, of course, we should have a rich collection of things associated with great theatrical artists. The French exhibition includes the chair in which MOLIÈRE sat when he played in Le Malade Imaginaire on the night before he died; RACHEL'S shoes, the tops made of a piece of the Grand Cordon of the Emperor of Russia; the sword which ELLISTON gave to TALMA in 1825, TAGLIONI'S contracts, FANNY ELSSLER'S shoe, and Mlle. MARS'S fan.

The important thing in an exhibition of this kind is that a process of selection should be exercised, and that superfluous rubbish should be sturdily rejected. The sections should be so separated that anyone desiring to "skip" one of them could do so with ease, while the specialists could enjoy their contemplation unobserved. There are many things—designs for old-fashioned scenery, for instance—of which we are glad to glance at an example or two, but which become tiresome when offered to us in large numbers. Old playbills are exhibits of which it is easy to have too many, and a nice discrimination would be required to draw the line between intrinsic merit and mere association. Every article worn or used by a great man does not necessarily become sacred or thrill the imagination; and, on the other hand, if a portrait is good as a work of art, one may strain a point as to the importance of the original. It must be remembered also that an exhibition of this sort should attract the general public as well as the cognoscenti; and therefore many things tediously familiar to the latter, such, for instance, as the complicated mechanism of an up-to-date modern stage, with its electrical and other arrangements, would be novel and acceptable to the outsider. The very fine original designs of the modern scene-painter, which often are inevitably marred by the restrictions of actual reproduction, and by the necessary combination of painting and building-up, would be agreeable as well as instructive; and there must be many famous costumes which have not yet been unpicked. We wonder, for instance, what has become of the wonderful Lady Macbeth dress in which Miss TERRY appears in the SARGENT portrait already alluded to? Of course, the architects would have a section, with designs for theatres; and in our ideal theatrical exhibition there would be a special department devoted to methods of ventilating playhouses—an art which is still in its infancy. One of the attractions in the Louvre collection is the marionettes. The illusion created by these puppets is often very keen; and we can imagine a high-class marionette show making quite a sensation. But the material of the exhibition, whatever it was, would have to be systematically arranged; and there ought to be plenty of amusing and diverting exhibits besides those which chiefly appeal to the serious. The theatrical exhibition should, like the old panoramas, "combine amusement with instruction."

AN AUTHORESS'S AGREEMENT.

At Marylebone County Court on Monday, before his Honour Sir William Selfe, Mrs. Ada Marian Doughty, professionally known as Vera Leslie, sought to recover £10 10s. damages for breach of contract from Miss Constance Meredyth, playwright and actress. The claim arose through the defendant having agreed, on April 1 last, to sell tickets to the value of £10 10s. in connection with a play which was to have been produced at the Court Theatre on June 2. The defendant had written a piece which was called Notre Edouard, and the plaintiff wrote to her asking whether she would like it put on at the Court Theatre, which she had taken for a matinée. Mlle. Jane May consented to appear at the Court Theatre in Notre Edouard, and this fact having been conveyed to the defendant, the latter wrote saying that she would be very pleased to play in her piece with Mlle. May. The defendant also agreed to take £10 10s. worth of tickets, but at the last moment she wrote to say that there was no time to put the piece on, and that it would be courting disaster to produce it at a few days' notice.

On May 19 the defendant intimated that her piece could not be produced, and two days later, when witness told her she could not have it withdrawn at a moment's notice, the defendant said she would pay the money she had guaranteed. Mlle. Jane May had come expressly from Paris to give her services, and plaintiff paid her £10 for expenses incurred, and also paid for advertisements. Another item had to be substituted at the Court Theatre matinée, and through the non-production of Notre Edouard plaintiff estimated her loss at £30.

Miss Meredyth, who conducted her own defence, said she made a mistake as to the date of the Court matinée, and when she returned from abroad she found that there was not time to arrange for the adequate production of her piece. When she agreed to take ten guineas' worth of tickets she had not the money to pay for them at the moment, and as she did not receive them from the plaintiff she thought the latter did not wish her to have anything more to do with the matter.

His Honour said the defendant had entered into an agreement, and there must be judgment for the plaintiff for the ten guineas claimed, and costs.

"THE HON'BLE PHIL."

Londoners love their Huntley in the guise of a dull-witted, languid, but wholly good-hearted aristocrat, and as that clever comedian—who has delighted two hemispheres—plays the title-rôle in his own and Mr. Herbert Clayton's musical comedy, The Hon'ble Phil, crowds of laughter-loving playgoers should greet the new piece at the Hicks Theatre for some time to come. The story is not remarkable for originality, but it serves its purpose quite well in introducing plenty of humorous business, tuneful songs and love duets, and diverting situations. We are taken to the island of St. Angelo, somewhere on the Breton coast, and outside the hotel there we meet with M. Marinet, his sister—Mme. Lascelles, his daughter Marie, and his niece Susanne. Marinet is a rich bon-bon manufacturer, a vulgarian nouveau riche who brags of the price of his cigars, and gets into trouble with the customs house officer, who fines him a large sum for not "declaring" his large stock of "smokes," and also for bringing into the island a number of modern dresses, a proceeding entirely contrary to the law, which stipulates that each visitor shall adopt the native costume after a residence of twelve hours. Of course, there is a love interest, to which a tinge of welcome romance is given by Marie, Marinet's daughter, falling in love with Captain Jules de Valery, of the Cuirassiers, on a yachting tour with his friend Maurice Montpensier. The captain's masquerading as a boatman lends itself to picturesque developments, and before the inevitable straightening out of the slight love tangle in the second act—which is particularly bright and funny—Jules pays Marinet's fine. The Hon'ble Phil, who must be a descendant of Lord Dundreary, finds in Susanne, who calls him a "dear old thing," a congenial partner. Phil has a valet, Buckle by name, who, in the words of his master, is a perfect treasure—"there is no one to beat him at folding socks." Buckle and Cournot, the interpreter, are fierce rivals for the hand of the pretty bathing attendant, Didine. The Englishman, whose ducking in the first act is due to the machinations of his rival, gets his revenge in the second part of the piece, when he frightens Cournot by flourishing a dagger, which is an important detail of the costume he has to wear as an onion-seller.

The return to the musical comedy stage of so pretty and gifted a comedienne and singer as Miss Denise Orme is in itself quite a sufficient reason for a visit to the Hicks Theatre, and this charming examplar of the sweetness of British womanhood has in Marie a part which gives her the best possible opportunities of showing off her perfect technique, both as a singer and a violinist. In the first act, where Marie wears a chic bathing costume of pink, she has a pretty number, "Drifting," which we are given to understand is written by herself, and in the last she plays the violin as an obbligato to her lover's serenade—an innovation that delights the house. Mr. Herbert Clayton sings mostly in association with Miss Denise Orme, but also does a good deal on his own account to make Captain Jules de Valery quite a dashing cavalier, with an eye for a pretty wench and the boldness to woo her. Miss Julia Sanderson, who comes from America to play the part of Susanne, is a gifted soubrette, who sings pleasingly and acts with considerable gaiety and abandon. She looks particularly fetching in a bathing-costume of blue, and sings in the first act a taking number, "Little boys, get away," and "Be careful." Miss Elsie Spain, a recruit from Gilbert and Sullivan opera, makes a hit by her singing of "Pick out your beau" and "When young maidens" in the part of Brigette; and a very fascinating Didine is found in Miss Eva Kelly, who is heard to advantage in a "bathing-costume song," which is likely to become popular. Another number to which she gives much point is "Oh, dear, no; not the sort she wants to know." Mr. Horace Mills has a real chance of distinguishing himself as a comedian in the part of Buckle, and his business and by-play in the second act, when masquerading with strings of onions and a dagger, are very amusing. With such capital ditties as "I'm a raging, roaring, ramping Vesuvius, "A gentleman's gentleman," and extremely droll and eccentric dancing, Mr. Mills should establish himself as a big West-end favourite. Mr. Charles Seguin, a newcomer from the provinces, as the fire-eating interpreter, has a character that would have rejoiced the heart of the late M. Marius. He is diverting, and his song "The which, the why, the wherefore" is lively and catchy. Mr. O. B. Clarence gives humorous individuality to the rôle of Marinet; Mr. Charles Brown, who has little to do as Montpensier, is bright and breezy; Mr. Hubert Willis is a capable customs house officer; and Messrs. Frank Perfitt, Carlton Brough, and J. Herbert, who sing the "Ode to St. Angelo" in the second act, do so with all the necessary quaintness. Mr. G. P. Huntley, as we have already intimated, has a part full of the sayings necessary to its success, and there is no doubt he will work up the humour considerably before many nights have elapsed. He has a song in "Woman" that is quite in the Huntleyan vein. Miss Dorothy Dunbar contributes a couple of clever dances; Miss Barbara Huntley is seen to advantage as Mme. Lascelles; Messrs. H. Hulcup and Hickton, and Misses Nellie Francis and Alice Kay play small parts creditably.

The score of Mr. Harold Samuel shows an innate sense of the value of orchestral colour, and the concerted numbers are decidedly well written. Mr. Samuel, too, has the gift of melody, and his début in musical comedy is decidedly encouraging. The mise-en-scène is very attractive, and much intelligence, daintiness, and charm are displayed by the chorus, who put their hearts into their work.

MISS ST. DENIS'S DANCES.

An exquisitely beautiful exhibition of the "poetry of motion" was given at the Scala Theatre on Wednesday last, when Miss Ruth St. Denis appeared in a series of dances interpreting Oriental religions and customs, beginning with India. There were five of these dances, each with its appropriate scene; and these scenes were faithfully realistic representations of Indian surroundings, with real natives acting as supporters of the dancer. Miss St. Denis's style of beauty is that which we associate with the sculptures of the East; and she has marvellous suppleness, especially in the joints of the arms. Her first dance is called "The Spirit of Incense," and is performed before the Purda, or curtain which separates in India the women's apartments from the rest of the house. It is a graceful series of poses, the dancer frequently rearranging the incense on plates over small fires. A most remarkable example of mimic presentation is the "snake-charmer." With two emerald rings on each hand, to suggest snakes' eyes, Miss Denis imitates with her arms and by movements of her head the evolutions of a couple of cobras. So vivid is the suggestion that we shrink and shudder as if at a real serpentine show. The "Nautch Dance" which is the third item is performed in an Indian palace, in the presence of a pair of Eastern potentates seated on splendid thrones. With certain modifications to suit English taste, it is a real Nautch, fascinating by the beauty of the movements and poses and free from indecent exposure or voluptuous antics. The coquetry of the dance is very clever, and there is plenty of energy—more perhaps than is usual in the East—in parts of it. The next dance represents the transition of a Yogi, or Hindoo Saint, through the various phases of religious aspiration up to the culminating "experience" of complete sanctity. It is both poetic and expressive, and its effect is increased by the mysterious forest scenery in which it is performed. The last item is the "Dance of the Five Senses." At the back of the stage is a sanctuary in which is dimly seen an idol representing one of the incarnations of Vishnu. Worshippers present offerings, and finally the idol comes to life, descends from its throne, and does a series of dances, in which the senses are vividly symbolised. The intense expression which Miss St. Denis throws into her depiction of the raptures of the several senses is marvellous; and in each case the beauty of the dance is equal to its expressiveness. The audience at the Scala on Tuesday were kept in spell-bound silence and rapt attention by the artistic influence of the entertainment, and at the close of each dance an outburst of enthusiastic applause proved how deeply they had been touched by the exquisite charm and originality of the performance. The music was no unimportant factor of the success attained; and for this Jacques Desky and Herr Walter Meyrowitz, the director of the Scala orchestra, deserve full credit. Miss St. Denis's entertainment is unique.

BRANSBY WILLIAMS AND THE DICKENS FELLOWSHIP.

Friday in last week at the Empire, Sheffield, was a veritable Dickens gala day. The Dickens Fellowship was holding its annual conference and dinner in the city during the week-end, and, appropriately enough, Mr. Bransby Williams was also giving his inimitable character impersonations from the novelist's works at the music hall named. On the Friday night the whole of the stalls and many seats throughout the theatre were occupied by members of the Fellowship from different parts of the country, who gave Mr. Williams one of those sincerely hearty receptions which betoken not only admiration of the artist, but of the man himself. Inspired, perhaps, by the enthusiasm of his audience, Mr. Bransby Williams never acted better. Every little movement and every inflexion of his voice which at all characterised some individuality of the original of his impersonation were at once recognised and appreciated by the audience. The characters of Micawber, Uriah Heep, Sydney Carton, Grandfather Smallweed, and Newman Noggs were given, and so faithful was each presentation that enthusiastic applause greeted them from the whole house. At the close of his performance Mr. Williams was the recipient of a handsome laurel wreath from the management of the hall, and was called upon for a speech from his ardent followers in front, in which he expressed his indebtedness to the people of Sheffield for their appreciation during the week, and his pleasure at being able to welcome members of the Dickens Fellowship in Sheffield to the Empire. He was himself a Dickensian at heart, and he was gratified to think that Sheffield had the second largest branch of the Fellowship in the world. It was rather remarkable that the biggest branch of all should be located, not in England, but in Toronto, Canada. Mr. Williams recalled a speech of Dickens made in Sheffield in 1855, when the writer spoke of the warmth of Sheffield hearts.

Mr. Bransby Williams, who is, by the way, a vice-president of the Fellowship, was later entertained at supper by the members from London and a few of the Sheffielders. On the Saturday Mr. Bransby Williams was a guest at the public dinner at the Royal Victoria Station Hotel, and found time between his shows at the Empire to give some of his imitations of notable actors to the company assembled. It need hardly be said that his impersonation of Uriah Heep à la Beerbohm Tree simply convulsed the audience. At eleven o'clock he again appeared in time to propose the toast of the ladies in a manner quite worthy of the subject, and to tell some funny stories. It is interesting to note that it was the anniversary of the day Mr. Williams sailed for America, and many of those present had helped to form the party which gave him such a send-off from Euston.

Hare on Irving.

SIR JOHN HARE, speaking to a Cardiff interviewer recently said: "We owe to Irving not only a splendid example of courage and high endeavour, but that of a long life devoted to obtaining recognition and honour for the art which he loved and to which the energies of his life were devoted. By his genius as an actor, by his lofty policy as a manager, by his persistent advocacy that his profession should be esteemed as an equal of the sister arts and professions, he won for it recognition for the first time by the State, and by the great academic bodies of the United Kingdom. Some time since there was a good deal of nonsense written and spoken about the 'mantle' of Irving. The 'mantle' of Henry Irving was a garment woven by himself and fitted only for his own proportions. It was composed of a mixture of power, genius, subtlety, charity, gentleness, and simplicity, which we can hardly hope ever again to see united in one person. And we can emulate the lofty example which he has left behind."

THE friends of Mr. Campbell Rae-Brown, the author of "Kissing-Cup's Race," are raising a subscription to present him with a "loving cup," to commemorate the twenty-fifth year of the poem's popularity. Mr. Douglas Machell, Castle Hotel, Richmond, is the hon. secretary of the testimonial.

BRERETON'S LIFE OF IRVING.

"The work could not have been better done" is the verdict which must be passed upon Mr. Austin Brereton's "Life of Henry Irving," which has just been published by Longmans, Green, and Co. It is finely bound, beautifully illustrated, and is one of the most complete and carefully-compiled things of its kind possible. Especially interesting are the facts relating to Irving's first great success in The Bells. Of this Mr. Austin Brereton says:

"The personal triumph of an actor who had not yet risen to fame, in a sketchy part, was not expected to fill the theatre at a time when the drama was at a deplorably low ebb and theatre-going was out of fashion with the majority of the better-class patrons of the playhouse. Something of an extraordinary nature was necessary to drag the unfortunate Lyceum out of the desperate straits into which it had sunk. The resources of Mr. Bateman were almost at an end. He had tried and failed, and, after two months at the Lyceum, he thought, as we have already seen, of abandoning his scheme and returning to America. It was at this moment that Henry Irving stepped into the breach, and, with invincible belief in himself, urged upon Bateman the one thing needful to save the situation from disaster. This was the production of The Bells, a translation of 'Le Juif Polonais,' which had been offered to him by one Leopold Lewis. The same person had already offered the play to Bateman, who had peremptorily refused it. This made Irving's fight all the harder. Moreover, Bateman had in his mind the popular idea of a burgomaster, and, looking at the slender figure before him, laughed in the actor's face. 'You a burgomaster!' he exclaimed, in good-natured derision, and would hear no more of the subject. The resolution of the actor was not to be shaken. And fortune, for once, favoured him in his plans, but in a manner which would have caused the majority of men to hesitate and then to abandon the project. This was the announcement of another version of the same story. Irving felt that it was now or never. The most critical moment in his career had arrived and he did not falter. He took advantage of his opportunity and pressed his suit with renewed ardour. The manager, as a last resort, yielded to the earnest entreaty of the actor, and consented to give his views a trial. The piece was put into rehearsal, and Bateman went over to Paris, where the French play was being acted, to see if he could gain any valuable hints for the English production. The company thought that Irving was bereft of his senses, but he worked assiduously at rehearsals, and the scenery and properties were hastily prepared. In the meantime, the spirits of all concerned—save, only, those of the future Mathias—were lowered to their utmost limit by the complete failure of the rival version on its production, at the Alfred Theatre, on Monday, Nov. 13. This failure only added to the determination of the actor to succeed in his cherished idea. The Bells was produced on Saturday, Nov. 25, 1871. Irving's performance of Mathias electrified the audience. The spectators on this auspicious occasion were few and they had come in a spirit of boredom. Henry Irving beat down their coldness and reserve, the theatre re-echoed with such applause as had not been heard within its walls for many years, and, by the Monday morning, all play-going London was aware that a great personality and a great actor had come into his hard-won kingdom.

"He had fought for over fifteen years with London as the goal of his ambition, and the struggle, long, anxious, and absolutely unparalleled in the history of the stage, had been won. It had been won fairly and squarely, without any social or any other influence, without money, and, as we have seen, in the face of prejudice and managerial opposition. To do Colonel Bateman justice, it is only fair to say that, having once given way in regard to The Bells, he did all that lay within his power for the production. The company was a capable one, and the scenery was, for those days, so good that its excellence was commented on in the Press. He also brought over from Paris a conductor who was thoroughly acquainted with the music of the play—a great assistance. In order thoroughly to appreciate the surrounding circumstances, it should be noted that The Bells was only one item in what would be called nowadays 'a triple bill.' The 'star' of the company was a comedian, George Belmore, who began the proceedings with a farce, My Turn Next, and also appeared in the last piece, Pickwick, the actors in which were announced in this order: George Belmore, Henry Irving, and E. P. Addison. It will be observed that Irving, despite his success as Jingle, was still playing second fiddle to the elder actor. The Bells changed all that, though not at once. In order to fill his house, and save his pocket, the clever Colonel adopted a novel plan in regard to the opinions of the Press. It would have required several columns to have published anything like the complete, and favourable, comments. So he had a two-inch advertisement, headed with The Bells, and 'Mr. Henry Irving,' in capitals, followed by this announcement: 'The Press has, with startling unanimity, expressed so favourable an opinion of the new drama, The Bells, and also of the marvellous acting of Mr. Henry Irving in the character of Mathias, that the management would desire to publish in the form of an advertisement the whole of the notices. This, however, being impossible, Mr. Bateman cannot do less, in acknowledgment of these opinions, than to enumerate the papers which have contained such unprecedented commendatory criticisms.' The manager then gave a list, printed in capitals, in double-column, of the forty-one London newspapers which had extended such an enthusiastic welcome to the creator of Mathias—for Henry Irving was, in the French sense, at least, the creator of the character.

"It is not generally known, although the critics of 1871 were well aware of the state of the case, that there is a great difference between The Bells, as played by Henry Irving, and the original work by Emile Erckmann and Alexandre Chatrian. This was intended to be 'une simple étude dramatique écrite sans aucune préoccupation du théâtre.' The French theatrical managers saw the possibilities of Le Juif Polonaise on the stage, and it was produced at the Théâtre Cluny in 1869. The original Mathias of the French stage, Talien, and his French successors, the elder Coquelin and M. Got, made the part that of a prosperous, somewhat easy-going Alsatian, whose fears are not very intense, and whose death, in accordance with the views of the authors, is attributed to too much white wine. This is the more faithful rendering of the part, strictly speaking, but a typical, commonplace burgomaster would not have been acceptable to the English public, and it is not difficult to see why no one had any faith whatever in The Bells beyond Henry Irving. The manager, as we know, produced it against his will, having first refused to do so and having laughed in Irving's face at the absurdity of the thing. Even when the piece was being rehearsed, Irving's fellow-players looked at him askance.

"Matthias was the turning-point in Irving's career. He literally awoke to find himself famous.

"To Irving, however, and to no one else, belongs the initial credit for the representation of the drama. If it had not been for his indomitable will, his persuasive powers, and his profound faith in himself, The Bells would never have been seen at the Lyceum or anywhere else. And the opportunity once gone, it would have been many more weary years ere the actor could have got a similar opening. As it was, he had risen, at a single step, and ere he was thirty-four years of age, to a popularity which never abated during his future career."

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Miss Kate Carney, the coster queen, who was taken ill on Friday at Newcastle, where she was performing, was stated on Monday to be suffering from appendicitis. Her engagements have been cancelled. At the time of going to press we are pleased to state that Miss Carney is much better.

The Ilford Hippodrome, which is being built for Mr. George Dance by Messrs. T. H. Kingerlee and Sons, of Oxford and Shepherd's Bush, from the plans of Mr. Frank Matcham, the designer of the London Hippodrome, will not be opened until after Christmas.

To celebrate the 250th consecutive performance of Miss Maud Allan at the Palace Theatre every member of the audience present at the matinée next Wednesday will be presented with a souvenir edition of Miss Allan's forthcoming book, entitled "My Life and Dancing."

Miss Cecilia Loftus has just returned from a highly successful engagement in the United States. Before she sailed for America this talented actress was, as she is now, the idol of English variety theatre-goers, who never tired of her brilliant mimicry and dainty songs. Her imitations will be of a more than usually interesting nature, including impressions of Harry Lauder, Hayden Coffin, Lily Elsie, and an astounding life-like imitation of Signor Caruso.

Mrs. John Lawson has accepted a travesty, from the pen of J. J. Spencer Sutcliffe, on The Passing of the Third Floor Back, now being played by Mr. Forbes Robertson, Miss Gertrude Elliott, and company at St. James's Theatre. For the moment the title of Mr. Sutcliffe's work is The Back Parlour Lodger. The first scene is laid outside St. James's Theatre, and the second at a lodging-house in the Borough. It will provide a big comedy study for Mrs. Lawson.

Mr. Charles Denier Warren, the Paris representative of M. Witmark and Sons, sailed for New York per Hamburg-American Line s.s. Deutschland for a short business visit. Young Mr. Warren is well remembered for his great successes in the children's pantomime at the Grand, Clapham, and the old Royal, also for his engagement at the Garrick Theatre in Whitewashing Julia. For two years he has been representing the house of Witmark in Paris, where he has established a splendid business for his firm.

Dr. Bodie is arranging for the purchase of four well-known Scottish theatres, which he will run in conjunction with his Welsh halls and theatres. Mr. Tom N. Mills has been appointed his general-manager for Wales and Mr. Wm. Skene Henry his manager for his tours. Mr. G. W. Walker has been appointed his sole Scottish representative.

Mr. Ernest Shand, who is at the Oxford singing "What would the vicar say?" has been offered by Mr. Henry Smith the principal comedy part in The Antelope, the new production at the Waldorf Theatre; but owing to his previous engagements the popular comedian has had regretfully to decline.

Mr. Will Evans, in his new and comical scena entitled Mrs. Morgan's Cure, has scored another great success at the Oxford, where audiences are nightly convulsed with the comicality of his new creation. He never allows the public to tire of his productions, and by continually finding something new increases his popularity. Verb. sap.

Mr. Harry Relph has suffered a good deal from the unwarrantable use of his name, and gives notice in another column to the proprietors of all theatres, music and concert halls, and to all persons concerned in marionette, cinematograph, and other similar exhibitions, and also to all artists and other persons whom it may concern, that he will commence legal proceedings against any person or persons making any unauthorised use of the title of "Little Tich," which he has made famous by his remarkable talents.

Artemis Colonna, who opens at the London Hippodrome on Monday, was born at Corfu, her father being a large manufacturer. One day while her governess was playing Chopin's Fantaisie Impromptu Colonna began to dance. So delighted was the player at the interpretation of the music given by her pupil, then fifteen, that she suggested her appearance in public. Colonna begged her parents to let her study for this purpose, but her father would not hear of it. It was Prof. Mendelssohn, a friend of the family and a descendant of the great composer, who praised and helped the little dancer to continue, and at last her mother resolved to go with her to Athens, and so Colonna became a dancer.

In the classic city she made many friends interested in the old Greek art, and obtained special permission to study alone for one hour every day in the famous museums from the vases and bas-reliefs. She then gave, with extraordinary success, several performances in the open-air theatre of Bacchus, which is 4,000 years old. Her next public performances were given in Prague, where she was commanded to dance before the Crown Prince. She has also danced by command before the Princess Clementine of Belgium, in St. Petersburg before the Grand Duchess Elizabeth, and at two command performances before the King of Greece.

Mr. George Fuller Golden, who at one time partnered Mr. Cliff Ryland, has recovered his health sufficiently to fulfil an engagement in the States. Recently, at the Lincoln-square Theatre, he was asked to deputise for Howard and Barrison, and he held the stage for twenty-seven minutes, making a great hit. Mr. Golden is extremely popular on this side, and his success at the Palace Theatre is well remembered.

The announcement in the Referee and other journals that a general meeting of the Music Hall Home Fund will be held on Thursday next is inaccurate. The annual meeting took place as recently as Sept. 17 last, when, as recorded in our subsequent issue, the report and accounts were duly presented and adopted.

Miss Frances Letty, the "chorus queen," has made quite a hit at the Canterbury this week. She makes her appearance attired in a very pretty costume, and immediately gains the favour of her audience with her very expressive and appropriate rendering of the opening lines of the song, "Have your ears been burning, Mr. Jackson?" There is to this an extremely tuneful and catchy coon melody. Miss Letty concludes her turn by performing in a most graceful and neat manner a somewhat difficult dance.

Miss Winifred Hare has been secured for the part of Robinson Crusoe at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, next Christmas. Deservedly a great favourite in the Irish capital, Miss Hare is likewise very popular everywhere else. This week the gallery girls at Birkenhead presented her with two lovely bouquets, and her reception at each performance has quite taken the nature of an ovation. Miss Hare recently offered £100 for a good song suitable for her to sing in pantomime this year, and the very keenest competition is taking place amongst song-writers and composers in consequence. The decision will be made the first week in December, so there is yet plenty of time for the sons and daughters of Erin to likewise try their hand at a song success.

Messrs. Fred Karno and A. H. Edwards, the proprietors of the New Hippodrome, Peterborough, have secured a valuable site in the centre of the High Street, Exeter, for a new Hippodrome. Plans are now being prepared by the well-known architect, Bertie Crewe, and building operations will be commenced immediately.

It is proposed to erect in Southport a new variety theatre, with ballroom, shops, offices, and flats, on a site in Lord-street, near to London-square. The drawings have been prepared by Mr. George E. Tonge, architect, of Southport, and Mr. H. Arnold Turner, A.M.S.A., architect, of Manchester, a gentleman who has had a wide experience in theatre construction. When complete it is claimed that the building will rank as one of the most magnificent frontages in Lancashire.

Towards the close of the second performance at the Empire Theatre, Glasgow, on Friday last, John M'Cuddin, who occupied a seat in the stalls, was struck on the head with an empty beer bottle, which fell, or was thrown, from the gallery. M'Cuddin received a nasty wound behind the right ear, and lost a good deal of blood.

The officials at the hall telephoned at once to the office of the St. Andrew's Ambulance Association, from which was despatched a waggon, in which the young man was conveyed to the Royal Infirmary. After having his injury dressed he was taken home in a cab. The police are inquiring into the matter, but no arrest has yet been made.

Professional charity is again to the fore this week in Glasgow, and further efforts on behalf of the Unemployed Relief Fund have to be recorded. On Sunday last an excellent evening concert at the Empire realised a handsome sum, and on Thursday the entire proceeds of both houses at the Palace were devoted by Mr. Rich. Waldon to the same cause.

Mr. E. H. Bostock was so pleased at the record business done by Mr. John Tiller's company, High Jinks, at Paisley and Hamilton, that he presented them during their stay at the Palace, Manchester, last week, with boxes of cigars for the comedians and two handsome boxes of chocolates for the principal ladies. The company look forward with great pleasure to their future dates with Mr. Bostock.

Messrs. C. W. Poole, who control the Tivoli Palace and Hippodrome, Pentre, generously set apart the proceeds of the two houses on Friday for the funds of the Ton-Pentre A.F.C. Upon Mr. James Gunn, the popular acting-manager, devolved the duty of making the necessary arrangements.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Stanley Hope, acting-manager for Mr. Edward Marris at the Jersey Opera House, who was so seriously assaulted three weeks ago, is sufficiently recovered to resume his duties. His assailant, who was remanded on bail till Mr. Hope was well enough to appear against him, got away from the island, so his bail has been estreated and a warrant for his arrest has been lodged at Scotland Yard.

The many friends of Mr. Frank Percival, the general-manager of the Gaiety and Empire theatres, Dundee, will be sorry to hear of the death of his youngest son, Frank, who passed away on the 3rd inst., aged three years. The funeral on Wednesday last at Eastern Cemetery was largely attended, and we beg to extend our sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. Percival in their sore bereavement.

Jock Walker, Scotch comedian, who as Roderick McSwanky created such a favourable impression during the run of the Howard and Wyndham pantomime in Edinburgh last season, appears at the London Pavilion on Monday next. He will introduce for the first time a new and original Scotch scena, and his many admirers will watch with interest the impression he makes in the Metropolis.

Mr. H. Yardley, a gentleman well known in theatrical circles, has been appointed acting-manager of the Hippodrome, Southampton, in place of Mr. Harold P. Howell, son of Mr. James Howell, the much-respected acting-manager of the Tivoli.

Young Mr. Howell, during his three years' stay at the Hippodrome, Southampton, successfully engineered several charity matinées, and will carry away with him into the North many pleasant reminiscences. At a meeting held at the Star Hotel on Saturday a committee was formed to organise a presentation which is to take place on Friday next, the 16th inst. Subscribers should forward their donations to Mr. H. C. Sait, care of the Pier Pavilion, Southampton.

Mr. George Zalva, the energetic agent and impresario, has just returned from a flying visit to the Continent. Whilst there he was instrumental in engaging the whole of the principal attractions of the Cirque International, one of the largest travelling circuses in Germany; also Herr Schwarz and his twenty-two performing horses, who give a novel and sensational number of acts. They will appear at Hengler's, Glasgow, this season.

Mr. George Zalva has been appointed Mr. Geo. Gilbert's general-manager at the new Hippodrome and Palace, Exeter, which opens this month. This building, which has been known as the Victoria Hall, is now being transformed into a handsome and well-appointed variety house. The scenery is to be painted by Francis H. Bull, and the seating and tableaux curtains will be by Dean, of Birmingham. The floor has been raked, so that everyone in the pit may have an uninterrupted view of the stage. Electricity has been installed as the illuminant, and a spacious balcony has been built. When finished the house will be one of the cosiest as well as one of the largest palaces of amusement in the provinces, seating 2,400 persons.

With regard to the Stratford Empire licence, Mr. Knight (Knight and Ridley) applied on Tuesday to the local authority on behalf of Mr. Oswald Stoll for the removal of the restriction prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors on the premises. Since the restriction was made, he said, the circumstances of the neighbourhood had changed. The Theatre Royal, Stratford, which was at one time only licensed for stage plays, had had variety entertainments, but when the police interfered they were discontinued. Then the Theatre Royal applied for a music and dancing licence, which was granted, but they had not since taken advantage of it. That house was in competition with the Stratford Empire, and had the advantage over it in that, having its stage-play licence, it was privileged to sell drink.

The Stratford Empire had been well managed in the past, and it could not be apprehended that if this restriction was removed the management in the future would be removed. The licences were renewed with the restriction prohibiting drink on the premises.

Miss Madge Temple, on Monday next at the Coliseum, will wear a hat valued at £120. It has been specially made for Miss Temple by the well-known milliner "Rita," of 14, New Oxford-street, and is 14ft. in circumference. It is trimmed with about fifteen ostrich feathers of old rose colour, each measuring 2yds., of which the total cost was £100, the hat itself being made of the very best straw. It is the largest on record, being 4ft. larger than Miss Marie Lloyd's and 8ft. larger than that of Miss Marie George. It is to be hoped that the chapeau de Temple will not become popular at matinées.

A marriage has been arranged and will take place at the end of October between Will Poluski, jun., and Rosie Lloyd, a younger sister of Marie.

The committee of the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund announce that the next sports will be held at the Herne Hill Grounds on July 21, 1909.

The usual monthly meeting of the Committee of the Music Hall Sick Fund will be held on Wednesday next at 4 p.m. at the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross Road.

Mr. Reed Pinaud has, we hear, a big production in preparation, entitled The Twopenny Tube, written and invented by himself, in conjunction with Harry Leighton, and with music by Peter Conroy.

The general meeting of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association will take place at 6.30 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 25, at the Bedford Head Hotel, Covent Garden.

This meeting will be followed by a general meeting of the V.A.F. at eight o'clock, at which Mr. O'Gorman will take the chair. An important debate is expected on the qualification for membership rule.

Mr. Percy Ford, the popular manager of the Empire, Camberwell, will take his benefit on Nov. 17 at that house, by permission of the directorate. A committee has been formed to promote the success of the function. Mr. Charles Knight is the hon. secretary and Mr. E. C. Webb hon. treasurer.

Mr. G. P. R. Burgess, the excellent solicitor for the Music Hall Home, acting as almoner for Mrs. O'Brien, of Rule's, Maiden-lane, called at the Music Hall Home laden with twelve boxes of tobacco, kindly sent by Mrs. O'Brien to the inmates. The happy recipients gave three cheers for Mrs. O'Brien and Mr. Burgess.

At Wednesday's meeting of the M.H.A.R.A., Mr. Fred Albini in the chair, there were present Messrs. Harold Finden, T. C. Callaghan, Merriott Edgar, Arthur Gallimore, and J. McNally. Two new agencies were appointed: Tudno Hotel, Llandudno, and the Three Towns Club, Devonport. The weekly statement showed thirty-nine new members, the receipts being £62 8s.

Mr. Will McIvor, a new candidate for London honours, opened at the Empress, Brixton, on Monday, and although late in the programme scored sufficiently to be at once secured for the Holborn Empire next week. He has a good appearance and a capital selection of songs that will be heard everywhere a little later on. He is in the safe hands of Will Oliver.

Miss May Mars, who is concluding a successful twenty-eight weeks' tour with her scena "In the Shadows of the Pyramids," has been engaged by Mr. Ernest Dottridge to play Robinson Crusoe in the pantomime of that name at the Alexandra Theatre, Sheffield, at Christmas. She will feature during her engagements in town for the next few weeks a new song entitled "Susie Ann, send a telegram."

A new Anglo-Russian production, Life and Love, is billed for the Stoke Newington Palace for next week. In addition to a powerful love interest, the vital questions of the alien and inter-marriage are to be touched upon. The episode will be presented by a West-end company, including Marion Turner, F. Joynson Powell, and Ivan Berlyn, whose Dickensian sketch Fagin was played with much success in July at this beautiful house.

The next committee meeting of the Music Hall Home Fund will be held at the Palace, Camberwell, on Thursday next, at twelve noon, when all committeemen are kindly asked to attend. The secretary, Mr. Ben. Woodger, would be pleased to hear from managers who will take collecting-boxes for the Home, and will also be glad to receive parcels of men's old clothes and boots. Address, 31, Wilson-road, Camberwell, London, S.E.

Miss Kate Brand is by way of producing a new sketch, entitled The New Star, at the Empire, Shoreditch, to-day at the matinée, by arrangement with Mr. T. C. Richards. The sketch has been specially written for Miss Brand by Mr. Oswald Brand, the well-known author and manager. Mr. Brand, who has been for a long time an invalid, is now in a better state of health, his friends will be glad to hear, and goes next week to Worthing to carry on his literary work. He will benefit by the health-giving sea breezes of that pleasant watering-place during the winter.

Much regret is felt in variety circles at the news of the death of Arthur Forrest, who at the time of his decease was one of Mr. Fred Karno's managers. Death resulted from heart disease, which took a serious turn when the Karno company went to Greenock a month ago. He was taken to Greenock Infirmary, where he succumbed last Saturday at the age of 50.

On Monday the remains were conveyed to the Greenock Cemetery. Those who followed to pay the last tribute of respect were:—Mr. H. L. Skivington, lessee of Greenock Hippodrome; Mr. Gordon Skivington; Messrs. Rowland Martin, Bert Royston, and H. Lloyd-Davis (of Mr. Fred Karno's company); Mr. Sid Walker, Mr. Cliff Lake, Mr. Westwood, Mr. Palmer, and others of Mr. Geo. Dance's company, and the Rev. R. F. Strathern, who conducted a service at the Infirmary and the grave. Mrs. Forrest and a lady friend were the chief mourners. The coffin, which was in violet and gold, bore on an inscribed plate: "Arthur Forrest, died Oct. 3, 1908, aged 50." The deceased was one of the early members of the Water Rats, and that fraternity sent a wreath.

Miss Melinda May, secretary of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, 61, New Oxford-street, W.C., tenders her thanks to the following ladies for donations:—Miss Dot Stephens, a guinea; Miss Lillian Souter, 2s. 6d.; Miss Topsy Sinden, 2s. 6d.; Miss Violet Lorraine, 2s. 6d. (through Miss Maude Mortimer). Miss May would be grateful for gentlemen's as well as ladies' wearing apparel. Through helping so many lately the Guild is greatly in need of it. Mme. Haydée has sent a useful parcel, for which many thanks. Will Miss Georgie Corlass accept best thanks from M. M. for the handsome umbrella given on her birthday on Sunday last? Friends of the charity are heartily invited to the receptions held every Wednesday from three to five o'clock.

Mr. and Mr. Harry Lauder had a cordial send-off at Euston Station on Saturday, when they left by the mid-day special to catch their boat to America. Mr. Lauder was escorted to the station from his house at Tooting by the pipers of the London Scottish, and his motor-car was decorated with the Scottish flag. At Liverpool the comedian was played on board the Lusitania by four pipers, and cheered by a large crowd of enthusiastic Scots. Harry Lauder will open at Lincoln-square Theatre, New York, on Monday, and will stay in the United States for twenty weeks. A reserved compartment on the train by which Mr. Lauder travelled was surrounded by a large crowd, who cheered enthusiastically, and presented wreaths to the comedian. "God bless you all, and good luck to you all till I come back again. I am sorry to go, and I shall be glad to see London again," were Mr. Lauder's final words as the train steamed out of the station.

Mr. Gordon Cleather, who made such a success in The Dryad with Mlle. Adeline Genée, will open for a special month's engagement at the Empire on Monday next.

Mr. George Robey, who still goes North for pantomime, has been secured by Messrs. Howard and Wyndham to play the chief comedy rôle in the pantomime Cinderella at the Theatre Royal, Glasgow.

Miss Dorma Morgan has been receiving gratifying evidence on her tour of the popularity of her songs "Miss Carnation" and "In a little old shanty." This charming American comedienne is making her first appearance in London on Monday at the Bedford.

Dr. Walford Bodie still continues his record-breaking tour through Scotland. This week he is repeating his former triumphs at the New Gaiety Theatre, Leith, where, despite the bad state of trade and great depression, he is packing the theatre nightly to the doors. He has just had an offer for a nine-months tour of Australia at the record salary of £300 per week.

The sum of £10 2s. 1d. was raised at the Palace, North Shields, by the sale of Jimmy Shields's "Old Collier's Song" by means of a collection box. Jimmy also raised £3 at Dundee and Greenock, making a total of £13 2s. 1d. for the Wigan Relief Fund.

The Romps, who are to be exploited on Monday at the London Pavilion by Messrs. Bellew and Stock, include ten ladies, six of them from Covent Garden Opera and four from Mr. Beerbohm Tree's company. They can sing selections from grand opera, and are also graceful skirt dancers.

The committee of the Music Hall Home desire to thank Henry C. Arnold, per Rex Dooley, for donation of £1 5s. 8d.; Mr. Bert Chapman, of the Lava Skating Rink, Denmark-hill, for 7s. 6d.; Mrs. Ebdon, The Tankard, Kennington-road, for 8s.; Mr. Hargreaves, of the New Empire and Hippodrome, Rochdale, for 12s.; and the Empire, Camberwell, New Crown and Cushion, Westminster Bridge-road, and S. Salter, The Three Stags, Kennington-road, for donations to the Home Fund.

The Terriers gave the first social of the season on Sunday at their headquarters, the Dover Castle Hotel. A good assembly was present. The artists who gave their services included Vin Monksley, Martin Henderson, Robb Gilmore, Miss Elsa Joel, Ernest Powell, Ernest D'Almaine, Charlie Cornish, Alf. Mavin, Fred Hooper, and Arthur London. Mr. J. Chas. Moore presided at the piano, Mr. Alf. Henning was the chairman, and Mr. Ben Woodger occupied the vice-chair. The entire arrangements were carried out by the late lamented secretary, Mr. Harry Lester.

Following promptly upon the Declaration of Independence by Bulgaria, Mr. Charles Urban, with the acquiescence of Mr. Alfred Butt, added on Tuesday evening at the Palace Theatre to the admirable "Urbanora" section a number of animated pictures, which have been months in the making, of Bulgaria's army in the field, and these stirring scenes will be presented nightly until further notice. It will be seen that in point of physique, equipment, and drilling the new Tsar's soldiers are second to none, whilst the cavalry is especially fine, the Bulgars having been noted for their horsemanship since the seventh century. There is also a peculiarly appropriate spectacle of Bulgarian and Turkish sentries keeping the territorial boundary lines, and a complete panorama of the ancient capital of Tirnovo.

Strange things happen in the variety world. Great stars sink from their lofty place, sink and are heard of no more. Others disappear for a time, and return to brighten another sphere of life entirely. "I was speaking," writes Judd Green, "the other day to my life-long friend, Pat Carey, late the chairman of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund, a comedian of great worth and now a prosperous proprietor of a flourishing business up the river. 'It would make your heart bleed,' he said, 'if you only saw the cases that come before us now. My mouth is closed, I cannot tell you who they are; but men you have topped bills with, artists of ability who have made mirth for countless thousands, nearly starving. We must do something this winter, or I don't know what may happen.'

"'That reminds me,' I said, "of a case that perhaps you even have never heard of. I knew a man, and, for all I know, he is alive now, who once topped the bill at every hall he appeared at. The hoardings put forth his name in letters 6ft. high. When he arrived in any town, a brougham would await him at the station. The delighted populace would take the horses out and drag the carriage to the hotel where he stayed. The halls were packed, and he would occupy the best part of an hour on the stage, and then the audience would call for more. No musician of modern times has ever approached the extraordinary popularity of this truly great artist. I was walking along the streets of —— (I will not say the seaport town for fear of giving offence to some relatives who may perhaps be living), when my attention was arrested by an old, bent, white-haired figure, playing the violin, and singing snatches of old ballads. The perfect tone, which only an artist can produce, caused me to look well at the man. I gave him some money and walked on. Here was my hero of bygone days; here was the idol of the masses. I'll give you a good many guesses, Pat, but I don't think you will be able to pick out my man.

"'Well, that is not where the tale ends. The experience I had with this old artist did not leave off there. One night I was invited for the first time in my life to a Hebrew party. The majority of the guests were well known to me, and my excellent friends they have always been. When I entered the room, rather late, some game had been in progress, for my friends were all sitting round in a gigantic circle. At a rough computation there would be about seven miles of nose around that circle, and a jollier evening I have seldom spent. It was during a lull in the proceedings that someone heard the sound of a violin playing in the road outside. A friend asked me if I knew the player, and if it were possible to get him to come in and play, and I volunteered to go and see what I could do. I touched my old friend on the shoulder, and asked him if he would oblige a party of his own people by playing before them that night. He looked at me when I mentioned his name, and hesitated for a moment, then, turning to go, he said, "I'll be back shortly, "I'm going home to fetch my violin; this one I only use in the streets." He was as good as his word, and came back within the time stated. They were all pleased to see him, all made him welcome, and when one young lady played some piece familiar to him, he drew his beloved violin from its case, and standing erect once more, with the old fire lighting up his eyes, poured forth a stream of melody that held the company spellbound. I could see the artist as I knew him back in his old life, back to the footlights once more—the chord which he had rent asunder seemed to be rejoined for a brief space; but, oh! for so brief a space. The melody died away. There were tears in many eyes. The beloved instrument was placed again in the case, and bidding us all "Good-bye," he passed out into the night. I did not tell them who he was; I had no need to tell he was an artist.'"

Mr. Harry Evans, late manager of Gatti's, desires us to acknowledge the amount of one guinea which he has received from kind-hearted Alec Hurley.

Miss Gladys Huxley and Mr. Sydney Burns sail for Africa to-day to fulfil engagements made with Mr. G. H. Hyman by Mr. Tom Pacey.

Monday next is the anniversary of the opening of the New Palace Theatre, Northampton, by Fred H. Anderson, who has specially engaged Marie Kendall for this occasion, in addition to a strong array of talent in various lines.

Mr. Walter Stanton sails on Friday, Oct. 23, for Australia, to give his marvellous impersonation of the rooster in Mr. J. C. Williamson's pantomime Jack and Jill.

The variety shows in the Centre Transept of the Crystal Palace next week will include La Clair's performing dogs and canine picture gallery; Bill Davis in an eccentric comedy act; the La Dor troupe, double-ladder and pyramid-grouping act; and the Brothers Werds in a grotesque acrobatic act.

Papa Brown, the agent, is opening a branch office in Hamburg, and will be pleased to hear from English turns suitable for the Continent. All letters from Oct. 12 to Martinstr. 30, III. Hamburg, 20.—Manager, Frank Ackermann.

Mr. Herbert Mack, who for four and a half years has been the advertising manager at the Shepherd's Bush Empire, has now become assistant acting-manager at that popular house. Mr. Mack is a very worthy gentleman, and those who have come into contact with him will have no doubt of his success at his new post.

On the invitation of the manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor, the Australian football team attended the second performance at the Devonport Hippodrome on Saturday evening and grouped themselves upon the stage, being received most enthusiastically.

Mr. Taylor, in a brief speech, said he had much pleasure, on behalf of the directors and himself, in introducing to the audience the Australian football team. They had landed in Devonshire, they had played their first match in Devonshire, and they were making their first public appearance on a music-hall stage in Devonport. The audience then rose and sang with much gusto "For they are jolly good fellows," which chorus was followed by ringing cheers.

Captain McMahon, who is in charge of the Australians, thanked the company for their very kind reception. It was but a continuation of the kindness that had been shown them since they arrived in Devon, and he assured them that amongst their most pleasant memories would be the week they had spent in that leafy shire.

Messrs Derenda and Green, comedy duo, sail for America on Thursday next per ss. Baltic for a twenty-six weeks' tour on the Orpheum and Keith circuit in the States. They return in May next to open on the Moss and Stoll tour.

Mr. Van Biene, the actor-musician, will make his first appearance at the Oxford in his new one-act playlet, entitled The Master Musician, on Monday. He has to fulfil contracts with Mr. Stoll until 1910, when he will do a long tour in America. He will divide his time between the halls and the theatres with the ever-popular The Broken Melody, which is now fast approaching its 5,000th performance.

Among the new applications to the Theatres and Music Halls Committee of the London County Council for music and dancing licences in November will be one for the Shaftesbury, the applicants being the executors of the late Mr. John Lancaster, four gentlemen resident in Manchester, Messrs. A. H. Briggs, G. W. Kirkham, Peter Taylor, and A. J. Tobias. Should this licence be granted—and at present there is no opposition—the Shaftesbury will be converted into a music-hall, attached to the circuit of which Mr. Walter Gibbons is the managing-director.

For the purposes of a high-class variety entertainment the house needs reconstruction, and the work, so we are informed, will be started directly the architect's plans have been passed. Mr. H. B. Irving's season, which commences on Thursday next, will consequently be the last theatrical enterprise at this somewhat unfortunate playhouse, built by Mr. John Lancaster, and opened on Oct. 19, 1888, with a revival of As You Like It, Miss Wallis being the Rosalind. Mr. E. S. Willard scored some of his greatest triumphs at the house, at which the best of American musical comedies, The Belle of New York, had a long run.

The following is the cast of the principal characters of the Empire ballet, A Day in Paris: The "Glory of Paris," Mlle. Lydia Kyasht; Tanagra (an artist's model), Mlle. Zanfretta; Mr. Smith, Mrs. Smith, and Miss Smith (tourists), by Mr. Jameson, Miss Elise Clerc, and Miss Phyllis Bedells; a "vieux marcheur," Mr. T. Walls; and Jacques (a student), Mr. Fred Farren. Nearly a hundred and fifty people will crowd the stage in at least two scenes, and in the third Mr. Fred Farren and Miss B. Collier will introduce a dance of surprising novelty. The story has already been told. Mlle. Kyasht, the central figure of the production, will introduce some beautiful dances; and Mr. Fred Farren is provided with a part which will be found to give his nimble genius the utmost opportunity. Fun and frolic characterise the whole scheme of the divertissement, and M. Wilhelm will be again responsible for the beautiful colour scheme.

The members of the Vaudeville Club assembled in goodly numbers on Sunday evening at the premises in Charing Cross-road to celebrate their eighth grand Bohemian smoking concert, and the first of the present season. Mr. W. H. Clemart, King Rat, presided over what proved to be a very pleasant function. Most of the artists whose names appeared on the programme turned up. Mr. Harrison Brockbank was in good singing form, and gave a fine rendering of "Follow me home" (Rudyard Kipling) and "Request." Mr. Neil Kenyon was entertaining with Scottish anecdotes, and with his monologue "Ostler Joe"; and Mr. Charles Austin was responsible for a delightfully humorous selection.

Mr. Horace Goldin gave an attractive demonstration of sleight-of-hand, and Mr. V. L. Granville furnished a really capital impersonation of the late Sir Henry Irving as Mathias in The Bells. Mr. Marriott Edgar recited an amusing parody on "The Village Blacksmith," introducing the agent question; and Mr. Alfred Hickman's fine tenor voice was heard to advantage in "The Trumpeter" and "Songs of Araby." Mr. Jan Rudenyl played three violin solos in excellent style; Mr. George Ridgwell gave a cornet solo and sang "On the road to Mandalay"; Mr. Dave O'Toole created huge merriment with his burlesque Italian opera, and Mr. George D'Albert gave "Rastus Brown" in a capital manner. Mr. Walter James, whose first appearance it was in London, was highly diverting with his Irishisms, and made a great impression on his audience. Others who contributed were Messrs. Charles Draper, Bert Erroll, Eli Hudson, George Leyton, Harry Maynard, Walter Tilbury, and Jack Roland. Mr. Penyston Miles performed good service as accompanist.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

A very choice set of dances are issuing from Messrs. Francis and Day's establishment, entitled the "Harry Lauder Quadrilles." They are arranged by Karl Kaps, and are founded on the following Lauder successes—viz.:—"He was very kind to me!" "When I come back again tae Bonnie Scotland," "The Weddin' o' Sandy MacNab," "The Safest o' the family," "Stop yer tickling, Jock!" "She is ma daisy!" "We parted on the shore," "I wish I had someone to love me," "Sound advice," "Hey Donal'!" "Wee Nelly McKie frae Skye," "Fou the noo," "Rob Roy MacIntosh," "Charlie Macneil," "Killiecrankie," "Tobermory," and "I love a lassie; or, Ma Scotch Bluebell."

Mr. David Day's firm are also bringing out the following news songs:—"There'll be no war" (sung by Miss Lottie Lennox), by Stevens and Wells; "If you are born with good in your heart" (Miss Kitty Clinton), by Richard Elton and Denham Harrison; "The old church bells" (Miss Kitty Taylor), by F. H. Hopkins and J. Perry; "Take me back to Ballymaclinton," by Scott MacKenzie and H. E. Pether; "Lend me your wings, little bird" (Miss Lily Black), by Scott MacKenzie, Tom Radcliffe, and Arthur Auckland; and "In the land of the kangaroo," by Fred Godfrey, Percy Edgar, and T. W. Thurban.

That fine song of Miss Rhoda Paul's, "The Gay Gordons"—a number which was specially commissioned by Moss' Empires, Ltd., and executed in their always admirable manner by Charles Wilmott and Hermann E. Darewski, jun.—has been added to Messrs. Francis and Day's "Sixpenny "ops."

A good comic domestic duet for low comedian and dame is a scarce article nowadays, and the number of comedians of the absolute first rank who have been quick to perceive the possibilities in pantomime of a truly humorous item has been added to during the week by Mr. Dan Rolyat securing Wallis Arthur's comic duet entitled "Do you remember?'—'How can I forget!'" which Messrs. Francis and Day publish. Mr. Rolyat will at Christmastide add to the gaiety of London in a West End pantomime.

Messrs. Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford have this week placed with Messrs. Feldman and Co. what is probably one of the quaintest novelties ever penned for pantomime. The title of this combination of words and melody is "Call round on Sunday," but it must be heard to be appreciated, and artists should lose no time in paying a call at Messrs. Feldman's, or upon the authors at their new offices, at 132, Charing Cross-road, W.C.

The Von Tilzer Publishing Co., of Charing Cross-road, W.C., are now featuring a very possible winner for pantomime purposes in "A little wooden house in Norway," by Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford; they have also secured the publishing rights of G. H. Elliott's new song "My Dream Girl," by the same authors.

There are very few alfresco companies who have not worked "Mandy's Wedding" during the past season. This delightful "coon jingle" now promises to be a big pantomime favourite also, and artists should visit the publishers, Francis, Day, and Hunter, and hear it. The words and music are by those past-masters of this type of song, Messrs. Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford.

Pantomime artists should note that the Star Music Company's special book of pantomime songs will be ready in a few days, and will be supplied free (on receipt of six stamps for postage) to those actually engaged for pantomime. To prevent the abuse of this arrangement, the Star Music Company request that the theatre and part engaged for be mentioned by any artist requiring the book, which will be found to contain the best selection of numbers yet issued by this enterprising firm. The volume includes, among other popular items, the great principal boy song "I don't care if there's a girl there," also "Oh! George, tell them to stop the Flip-Flap," "Carolina Brown of Chinatown," "Have you got another girl like Mary?" "Ayesha, my sweet Egyptian," Whit Cunliffe's big hit "Nobody's Satisfied," and A. J. Mills' and Bennet Scott's latest and greatest chorus song, "Molly Maloney" (Jump on my jaunting car).

It sometimes happens that a song becomes a great success in the provinces long before it has been sung even once in London. Such a number is "Far away in Australia," which has been popularised in the Isle of Man and the North and Midlands by Miss Annie Braddan (the Manx Girl) during the past summer. At last we are to hear it in London, for Miss Braddan comes to London on the 19th of this month for the Gibbons tour, opening at the Ealing Hippodrome. "Far away in Australia" was written and composed by Chas. Wilmott and Hermann Darewski.

Messrs. John P. Harrington and Orlando Powell have been busy, during the current week, fixing Miss Marie Lloyd up with yet another comedy song, which she sings in the character of a garrulous, ringletted old maid. The expressive title is "I'll live in hopes, if I die in despair."

In addition to writing Miss Lily Harold a piquant "contrast" song, entitled "The chapters of life," Messrs. John P. Harrington and Orlando Powell have also this week been busily occupied in fitting the same artist with a new number, in two scenas, for immediate production at the London Pavilion, entitled "Queen of Zululand."

Messrs. John P. Harrington and Orlando Powell have written many popular songs in their time, but none that makes a more distinct bid for popularity than their latest number, "Little maid of Britanny." Pantomime producers declare this morceau to be one of the daintiest and most original. Miss José Collins will specially feature it at all her turns, including the London Pavilion on Monday next. The Monte Carlo Publishing Co. issue this number.

Performers engaged for the rôle of Fairy Queen or Demon King may be strongly advised to make early application to the Monte Carlo Publishing Co. for permission to embellish their parts with that charming vocal waltz song, "Ever thine," by John P. Harrington and Julian W. Kandt, undoubtedly predestined to become one of the present season's greatest vocal rages. It is founded on the popular waltz, "Toujours à Toi," published by the same firm.

The Monte Carlo Publishing Co. will, next week, issue, in a special edition de luxe, a new valse lente, composed by Madame Yvonne Grant Maxwell, entitled "Hyvidore," which is dedicated, by special permission, to H.R.H. Princess Christian. Band-parts are now in the press and in active preparation, and "Hyvidore" will later on be included in the Berners-street firm's popular "Sixpenny Successes" series.

No. 109 of the Monte Carlo Publishing Co.'s "Sixpenny Successes" series, "You mustn't make naughty eyes at me," by Messrs. John P. Harrington and Orlando Powell, now being sung in London by Miss Adele Rose, who holds the sole English rights, will be "featured" in America, at Christmas, on the William Morris circuit, by another of our most prominent comediennes.

V.A.F. AND THE AGENTS.

NO SETTLEMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Mr. Joe O'Gorman, chairman of the V.A.F., did me the doubtful honour of mentioning my name in one of his various, and not always correct, statements at a meeting of the Federation held at the Bedford Hotel on the 2nd inst. At that meeting he asked the question whether I would explain what became of the money that I and some of the managers, including my lamented friend, the late Mr. George Adney Payne, cajoled out of my clients in respect of the formation of the Rhea Fibre Co., Ltd. Mr. O'Gorman, if he had known anything at all about it, must know that I was simply a shareholder, and not a director, and that I was, furthermore, a large loser on this unfortunate affair, which I honestly thought would bring a profit to all concerned in it. If any of my clients took shares in the company, it was certainly not for my benefit, and Mr. G. Adney Payne also, I believe, lost a considerable amount of money in this company. No doubt if Mr. O'Gorman applies to the proper quarters he will get the information he requires.

In conclusion, I would suggest to Mr. O'Gorman to remember the old proverb, that "people who live in glass-houses," &c., and to carry his memory back a few years, when, under certain circumstances, I think I did him an act of great kindness. The circumstance I refer to is when he owed me a large sum of money, and I did him a service for which he expressed his great gratitude and appreciation, and ever since then he has always spoken most highly of me, and to me as to my honesty and method of doing business. Therefore, I am at a loss to understand this unnecessary and unwarrantable attack on myself and my dead friend, Mr. G. Adney Payne.

On the agents' side of the question, although having received all kinds of insults, we have kept a dignified silence until a proper time arrives, but, as an individual, in justice to myself, I trust you will give my explanation the same publicity you have done to the statement by Mr. Joe O'Gorman.—Yours faithfully,

R. WARNER.

Lyric Chambers, 27, Shaftesbury-avenue,
Oct. 7.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—As I am on the eve of leaving for the States with my client Mr. Harry Lauder, for whom, by the way, I claim to have made a contract for the largest sum ever paid to an artist on the variety stage—and incidentally keep my eyes open for fresh talent—you may permit me to explain, for the information of the public, the position of the agitation of the Variety Artists' Federation against the music-hall agents.

The contention originally advanced was that an agent should not be entitled to receive commission on an artist's return engagement, and the unfairness of this may be gauged by the following typical case: An agent "discovers" what he thinks will be a popular turn, but he may be put to considerable trouble and expense in persuading a proprietor to give him a show. Ultimately he gets a trial of a week or two. The agent claims that if the artist be re-engaged by the same proprietor he should receive the commission.

Some personal instances of now popular artists may be interesting.

A lady artist was, when I saw her, receiving 30s. per week. Her first engagement through me was for £12, and then ran up to £35. Upon the latter I secured her, after much trouble and negotiation with the proprietor, a return engagement for £40, and then she tried to reduce the commission.

Another turn I saw at St. Helens receiving £7 per week. The last contract I secured for him was at £50, and when I booked a return engagement with the same proprietor at £60 he coolly wanted to reduce my commission.

The new attempt to reduce the agents' commission is preposterous because, with all the attendant expenses, it would be impossible to conduct business, and the very first to suffer would be the artists, as all of them well know.

It is a curious thing that the men who are leading the present agitation have engagements booked up for years in advance, and consequently their own financial position cannot be adversely affected in any way by whatever happens. It is the small artist, the poor struggling artist, who will have to suffer, and they are being made the catspaws.

Whilst the well-paid artist, with his hand on his heart—on the platform—pathetically pleads for his "poorer brethren," an incident which occurred only the other week at a West-End hall, in which one of these persons was the central figure, deserves mention.

This big turn, getting an almost fabulous salary, refused to follow a poor artist who was getting a small salary, but who was being well received by the audience.

The former notified the management that unless the latter's position on the programme was altered he ("the star") would decline to appear. Such incidents are by no means uncommon or unusual.

I have been in the agency business over twenty years, and have clients on my books to-day who started with me, and it is incomprehensible that any member of the profession should be so easily hoodwinked by one or two leaders whose motives will not always bear critical examination.

As far as the agents are concerned, my final words of advice to them are—not to be influenced by threats or cajolery. Their case is of the strongest, and the agitation is a pure game of bluff, manœuvred by an arrogant army of sawdust Napoleons.

I am a man of peace, but there are times when it is necessary to take a firm stand, for people who are blind, deaf, and dumb when their rights are invaded cease to be men and become mice

Yours faithfully,

GEORGE FOSTER.

4, Garrick-street, W.C., Oct. 5.

To the above letter, which has also been inserted in the daily press, Mr. Joe O'Gorman replies in the Morning Advertiser as follows:—

Sir,—Mr. George Foster, in the Morning Advertiser of the 5th inst., writes a letter "for the information of the public" which contains as many misleading half-truths as sentences.

That the artists' case is one which they believe will stand the fullest investigation is proven by the fact that at a meeting of the Variety Artists' Federation Executive Committee this afternoon, it was decided to approach the London County Council with a request that all agents shall be licensed, and that this committee is prepared to put forward such testimony to the inner working of the agency business as will, it is hoped, convince the L.C.C. of the desirability that all variety agents ought to be registered by public authority.

Mr. Foster says that the agent discovers what he thinks will be a popular star, and then goes on to tell us about the great expense to which an agent is put in securing contracts for that turn. He does not explain, however, that the agent's commission is 10 per cent. on the gross turnover of the artist. The so-called salary of the artist on which the commission is based includes the cost of songs, costumes, stage paraphernalia, income-tax, cost of travelling, and other incidentals. The majority of music hall artists, when the agent's 10 per cent. and other expenses are paid, seldom have a clear profit of 10 per cent. remaining for their own labour. As a rule agents only discover new stars after the latter have waited for weeks, and even months, on the agent's doormat, with a view to securing an interview with the agent; indeed, generally the discovery is due chiefly to the artist's own energetic efforts for recognition and the appreciation of managers rather than the activity of the agent.

No agent, so far as any artist is aware, has ever explained in detail the matter of the mysterious outlay which is supposed to render the business of agencies so expensive. In simple fact, modern agencies consist chiefly in arranging interviews with the heads of tours and running over to the same the contents of the agent's book, with an occasional journey into the country, undertaken presumably to book artists with managers.

If 10 per cent. on the gross salaries of the artists is not ample remuneration for such services without the added burden for the artist, constituted by the re-engagement clause—binding him to an agent who may or may not secure him a re-engagement—what would the agents consider ample remuneration? In America the variety agent charges 5 per cent., and many of them have made fortunes upon this sum. Few English agents render service to the artists that would not be over-valued at 5 per cent.

The paragraph in which Mr. Foster declares that the present agitation against the agents is being run by a few artists who are booked up for years ahead is absolutely unfounded. The executive committee of the Variety Artists' Federation contains a majority of artists receiving very moderate salaries, and exceedingly few very highly paid artists. Their action at the present time is in obedience to a mandate from the general body of members of the profession, who have demanded the abolition of the perpetual re-engagement, or re-enslavement clause in the agents' office copy. Whether or not the artists' attitude is a game of bluff the future will show; what is perfectly clear is that the struggle now proceeding was forced upon the artists by the arrogance of the agents. To the refusal of the agents to negotiate the artists replied by the issuing of a fair form of office copy and the starting of an agency by artists for artists, which they are convinced can be run profitably on a 2½ per cent. basis with no re-engagement clause.

As to the injustice of the rate of commission which the agents have been charging, it is evident from the fact that Mr. George Foster himself only two years ago published an advertisement in the Era, in which he declared his willingness to accept clients at the rate of 5 per cent. commission.

As Mr. Foster well knows, the leading artists on his book, like Mr. Lauder, are not compelled to sign an office copy containing a re-engagement clause. Mr. Foster, however, refuses to allow the smaller artists to delete the clause from his office copy. The V.A.F. is fighting the battle of the smaller artist, and is determined that in this matter all artists, large and small, shall be treated with equal justice and consideration.—I am, sir, yours, &c.,

Joe O'Gorman,
Chairman, Variety Artists' Federation.

Oct. 6, 1908.

[The advertisement referred to by Mr. O'Gorman in the above letter was inserted in our issue of Sept. 30, 1905, and reads as follows:—"Mr. George Foster wishes to make a plain statement of facts to the members of the music hall and theatrical professions, and to offer a suggestion. Mr. Foster is a little tired of the word AGENT. It is unsatisfactorily uncomprehensive. It seems in the public mind to encompass the most disreputable as well as the most distinguished of what should be an honourable calling. Mr. Foster claims that he has earned the right to pose as an EXPERT in every detail of popular entertainment—during twenty-five years he has been an artist, an impresario, an agent, not to mention public positions which have given him a still deeper insight into the business of public amusement. Mr. Foster is now by way of completing the list of artists for whom he proposes to obtain engagements during the ensuing season—working industriously, loyally, and discreetly. With this object he is willing to undertake the business of a few star artists only for a NETT CASH COMMISSION OF TWO AND A HALF PER CENT. Mr. Foster is shortly opening offices at Liverpool and Manchester, in Paris and New York for the purpose of expanding the business, which he has always conducted on rigorously commercial lines, discarding all nefarious trickery and repudiating every adjunct that seems improper to 'honest brokerage' between manager and artist. Artists to whom this announcement appeals will please write to 4, Garrick-street, London, W.C., or call. The most reliable agency in the world. Telegrams, 'Confirmation,' London. Telephone, 6248 Gerrard."—Ed. The Era.]

The committee of the Federation intend to urge the London County Council to make inquiry into the status of the variety agents, and to recommend that the Council should issue licences to all music hall agents. A resolution to make this application was passed unanimously on Tuesday by the executive committee.

The Variety Artists' Federation has announced its intention of issuing writs against a number of managers who on Saturday deducted the agents' commission before paying the performers' salaries. It is understood that the agents demanded that this action should be taken, and that the managers acted as they did to make their legal position secure. They will retain the money until the dispute is settled by the courts. The Federation proposes to make a test case, and it is stated that the managers will abide by the decision in this case.

The Water Rats on Wednesday completed arrangements for the opening of the proposed central booking agency in connection with the order. Business will commence on Monday next, and the work of securing engagements will be transacted for a number of well-known artists, including those not connected with the Water Rats.

It is considered that a maximum charge of 2½ per cent. on engagements would make the agency self-supporting.

At the 110th regular committee meeting of the Variety Artists' Federation on Tuesday the following resolution was passed:—"That immediate application be made to the London County Council asking that the whole status of the agents be inquired into, and asking that the London County Council take measures for the registration of all variety agents."

Mr. B. J. Brown has been appointed resident-manager of Brighton Hippodrome Theatre of Varieties.

The ever-popular chorus and character singer Miss Lil Hawthorne added greatly to her already established popularity by her singing of the latest American song craze, "Just someone," and the quaint and thoroughly original number, "The boy who stuttered and the girl who lisped."

For principal girls in pantomime in want of a comedy song there is a mine of fun in the humorous number "Mother's Maxims," the verses of which are by Arthur Davenport and H. G. Pélissier, the latter gentleman, who heads the Follies, being the composer of the music. Permissions to sing it may be obtained of Messrs. Joseph Williams, music publishers, of 32, Great Portland-street, W., and we should hear a great deal about "Mother's Maxims" during the winter season.

THE AGENT QUESTION.

Mr. Joe O'Gorman presided over a packed mass meeting of members of the V.A.F. held yesterday afternoon at the Bedford Head Hotel. Amongst those present were Mr. W. H. Clemart, Mr. "Dutch" Daly, Mr. Neil Kenyon, Mr. Charles Coborn, Mr. Walter Stanton, Mr. Bert Williams, Mr. C. C. Bartram, and Mr. James Mooney.

The Chairman stated that they were practically in the same position as they were a week ago. The agents had made up their minds to put their backs against the wall as long as they could stand it. The agents had prepared Mr. Stoll and other managers with a letter on Saturday demanding that he or they should deduct the commission. On Saturday night they were all prepared for emergencies, and they received a stream of telegrams at the Vaudeville Club. He was not surprised to hear that Mr. Stoll and other managers had deducted the commission. He was pleased that Mr. Stoll had waited until last Saturday to do it. Had he done it a week previously, there would have been trouble. They did not want to strike. That was the last thing they would descend to. Mr. Stoll had written to say that he was deducting the commission, but that he was not paying it over to anyone. The Federation committee had warned all managers that they held them responsible for any moneys that were deducted, and that these must not under any circumstances be paid over. The managers were going to pay the commission money in Court. He (the Chairman) was advised that the money might be kept in the Court for three years. He did not, however, wish them to act dishonestly to the agents. When the struggle was over they would be paid. Practically all the managers had agreed to make contracts direct. The agents had been trying all they could to keep themselves on a good footing with the managers, but the latter were not going to have their business interfered with by this dispute. Untruthful statements had been made as to the number of artists who had resigned from the Federation. As a matter of fact, there had only been three resignations, while new members had been coming in at the rate of sixteen per week for the last six months. The other day he (the Chairman) had received a private telephone message from a gentleman who stated that while travelling in the train a man of the "bruiser" type had informed him that he had received the best sum of money that he had ever been offered in his life for a similar job to do grievous bodily injury to Mr. Clemart and Mr. O'Gorman. The Chairman stated that he desired to dissociate the general body of agents from such cowardly conduct. While he simply laughed at the matter, his committee put themselves into communication with Scotland Yard, and they gleaned that a certain agent had been negotiating with a certain pugilistic performer. The Chairman next referred to the emergency fund, which he said now amounted to between £460 and £470. The half-crown levy would make £500. He hoped that the artists who were in difficulties over this question would not hesitate to place their case before the committee, and not allow the agents to intimidate them any longer. It was possible that the fund would run up to from £1,500 to £2,000, and he thought that by the time that amount of money was expended they would have been able to give the agents the best fight they had ever had. He desired on behalf of himself and his committee to express to his brother and sister artists their deepest thanks for the very handsome manner in which a response had been made to the call for emergency funds.

Mr. W. H. Clemart said that any member of the Federation who would send a list of his vacant dates to Mr. Monte Bayly, the secretary, would have these blank weeks placed before every manager in the country. The Federation would be able to put the managers into immediate communication with the artists who wanted engagements. It was important that those artists who wished to be placed on the emergency list should not ask for a bigger salary than they were in the habit of earning; otherwise they would be the means of destroying the idea that the committee were trying to get some of the artists out of a hole. They had called a general meeting for Sunday, Oct. 25. The committee thought that it would be better to re-arrange the rule as to excluding from their ranks an artist who had acted as an agent. Now, however, in order to create opposition to the agents who had declined to accept the V.A.F. office copy, it was intended to propose a resolution at the general meeting that the rule referred to be deleted. In this way they would bring new agents into the music hall world. In addition to that, the Federation intended to ask the London County Council to register music hall agents. They had already written asking for an appointment for a meeting, so that the committee could explain to the Council the manner of men that variety agents were. Their emergency committee would meet at 12 noon on the following day (Saturday), and would continue so to do at that hour on that day of the week.

Mr. James Mooney proposed a resolution as follows:—

"That this meeting places its utmost confidence in the Executive Committee, and pledges itself to give the same support in the future as in the past, until the agency dispute has been brought to a satisfactory conclusion."

This was seconded by Mr. Walter Stanton, and carried unanimously.

In reply to a question the Chairman explained that Mr. Stoll's receipt intimated that the amount of the commission deducted would be detained until the end of the dispute.

Other speakers were Messrs. Charles Coborn, Dutch Daly, Andy Caine, Neil Kenyon, and Bert Williams.

Mr. Walter Hague, conductor of the Liverpool Empire Theatre orchestra, has severed his connection with that place of amusement.

Mr. Andie Caine opens at the Chelsea Palace on Monday next, and will present "Way down in Colon Town," with which he has made so great a success at Filey during the past summer. This bids fair to be the great pantomime song of the year, and Mr. Caine's rendition of it is well worth hearing.

The ladies' night of the Pimlico Lodge, of which Bro. Dave Cohen (Napoli and Co.) is Worshipful Master, took place on Thursday, Oct. 1, at the King's Hall, Holborn Restaurant, W.C., and proved the biggest success ever known in the annals of the lodge. At the concert, under the direction of Bro. Jack de Frece, which followed, the following artists kindly appeared:—Miss Marie Lloyd, Miss Bessie Slaughter, Miss Madge Grey, Miss Kitty Clinton, Miss Evelyn Taylor, Miss Doris Gilbert, Misses Hilda, Daisy, and Violet Higham, Miss Mamie Stuart, Miss Olive West, Miss Elsa Joel, Sisters Gordon, Miss Edie Reynolds, La Fostia, Mr. Sam Mayo, Mr. Fred Earle, Mr. Walter Hast, Mr. Joe Belmont, Mr. George Richens, Mr. Medley Barrett, Mr. Jack Ronald, Mr. Walter James, Mr. Ernest Powell, Rich and Rich, Ritter and Foster, Bradley and Barnes, and the Three Orleans.

The affair terminated gith a ball. During the banquet the London Orchestral Band played a selection of music, and this orchestra was also engaged for the dance. The function commenced at 6.30, and did not break up till four o'clock the following morning. It was attended by 115 guests, who expressed themselves as being delighted at the most enjoyable entertainment provided for them.

BREACHES OF CONTRACT.

At the Shoreditch County Court on Wednesday Judge Smyly, K.C., had before him an action which was brought by the London Music Hall Company, of High-street, Shoreditch, against Mr. Charles S. Kitts and Miss Rhoda Windrum, music hall artists, for £10 for breach of contract. Mr. Profumo appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr. Martin O'Connor for the defendants.

Mr. Profumo said the agreement relied upon was made in August, 1904, and one of the dates mentioned was in June of the present year. Before the 10th of that month the defendants sent on their billing matter and were duly billed in A Liqueur of Humorous Refinement; a Satire on Modern Society. They did not put in an appearance, and the management were put to considerable expense in obtaining other artists. It might be suggested, said counsel, that since 1904 the defendants had got better engagements and put aside one which was less profitable.

Thomas Greenhill Richards, managing director of the London, proved the contract, and said that on June 10 the defendants did not appear.

His Honour: Was any notice sent you?—No notice was sent, nor was there any communication as to illness or accident. Witness had been manager of the London for two years, but the Richards whose name appeared on the contract was his father. He had heard of the Stoll barring clause.

His Honour: Who is Mr. Stoll—another music hall proprietor?—Yes.

His Honour: What have we to do with his agreement?

Mr. O'Connor: Mr. Stoll is the proprietor of a music hall close by, and my client had an agreement with him in which he was precluded from appearing at any other hall within a certain radius.

His Honour: That is his look-out.

Mr. O'Connor: The London management were informed of this. Afterwards the dates were varied, it being understood that the barring clause would be waived if there was three months' interval.

Will Oliver, variety agent, spoke to the fact that after seeing the defendants perform Mr. Stoll made a three years' contract with them. Witness then went to Mr. Hector, of the London, who said, "If they are good enough for Stoll they are good enough for me." He was given to understand that the barring clause was waived in the case of the London.

Thomas Kitts, one of the defendants, said that a few days before June 10 he telephoned to the London and said he had received notice from Mr. Stoll barring him from playing there. He asked to speak to the manager; but was answered in such a vulgar way that he dropped the telephone. They told him while at Collins's that they were going to sue him. He was under the impression that the two managements were on amicable terms. What had happened since he didn't know.

His Honour: But you see you have entered into contracts both of which you could not carry out if the people hold you to the agreement. I am afraid you must abide by the result.

Judgment for the plaintiffs for £10 and costs.

A similar action was brought by the London Music Hall Company against Sinclair and Whiteford, who were engaged to appear at the London on Jan. 7, 1907, at a salary of £12 a week, but did not appear, other artists having to be engaged in their place.

Mr. Richards having given evidence as to the breach of the contract was asked why he had allowed so long a time to elapse before bringing an action.

Witness: It has taken us six months to serve them. They are all over the place. He denied receiving a telegram from Mr. Sinclair, and he had never offered other dates either to Sinclair or to Walter Bentley, his agent. No one but himself could have done so.

Fred Sinclair, one of the defendants, said that at the time he entered into the agreement with the London he was under contract with Mr. Stoll. This was, however, so endorsed that he could have appeared at the London, but this had escaped his memory. On June 7 he received a wire from Mr. Stoll forbidding him and Miss Whiteford from appearing at the London. He telegraphed to the London, and, receiving no answer, telephoned the manager on the Monday and explained most fully. As the result of the conversation he understood that the matter was settled, and that other dates would be accepted. When at Ipswich Hippodrome in August he received a summons, and again offered other dates at the same terms, although his position had improved since January, 1907.

Cross-examined by Mr. Profumo: He would not say that Mr. Stoll was worth more to him than the London. At the time he signed the contract Mr. Stoll was not using his barring clause. He sent the telegram to the London from Southampton.

Mr. Nicholson argued that the matter had been settled by "accord and satisfaction" in defendants agreeing to appear on certain other dates.

His Honour: There is no agreement on this, and you cannot make one out of mere negotiations.

Mr. Profumo: It takes two parties to make an agreement.

Mr. Nicholson: There was an agreement over the telephone.

His Honour: Oh no, you cannot say that.

In the end his Honour gave judgment for the amount claimed with costs.

SKETCH PIRATES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Might I ask you to kindly give publicity to the following facts, as a warning to other sketch managers, proprietors, and artists who have lately produced new acts?

Last night, on appearing on the stage at the Woolwich Hippodrome in my new sketch A Ride to Win, I was surprised to see three men in a private box hard at work making a shorthand copy of my playlet. They were, during the performance of the sketch, asked by the local manager to desist. One of the men went to the door to converse with him, but the other two went on with their shorthand writing, their only answer being that they were not annoying the audience, and that one of them was trying the speed of his shorthand.

After the sketch was over, I myself interviewed them. They refused to give their names or to give me the shorthand notes. I had them followed when they left the building. They proceeded to the Poplar Hippodrome, and, I understand succeeded in taking Mr. Beauchamp's new sketch and Mr. Fred Earle's two songs, after which they dodged round a corner, jumped into a motor-car that was waiting for them, and drove rapidly away. They were of medium height, looked something like Pressmen; two were clean-shaven, one (who seemed to direct operations) very dark, with a slight dark moustache and a very high forehead. Hoping that the publication of this letter may put other people on their guard against these piratical sharks and stealers of copyright acts, or that someone may be able to identify them and help us to put an end to their malpractices.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN F. PRESTON.

MR. MARRIOTT EDGAR.

For a young man of eight-and-twenty Mr. Marriott Edgar has done notable service in many directions of stage-work, and he appears to possess abilities of a rather universal kind. He was born at Kirkcudbright, and started his working career in 1896 by being apprenticed to the scene-painter, Mr. H. P. Hall, of the St. James's Theatre. He stayed there for two years, afterwards painting under Mr. Walter Hann and the late Mr. Pritchard Barrett. Mr. Edgar then went on tour with Mr. Percy Hutchison, got tired of scene-painting, and began to play small parts. Later he went on tour with Mr. Charles Frohman's Adventure of Lady Ursula company, and later still with Mr. W. W. Kelly's New East Lynne, doubling the parts of Richard Hare and Lord Mountsevern. Then he had a stock season at the Sebright, playing juvenile lead in sketches, this being followed by a tour with Wilfred Cotton's My Friend the Prince company. Mr. Edgar says that his first decent success was as Pink Jannaway, on tour. He was for four years at the Prince's, Bristol, as assistant stage-manager and general understudy, in which capacity he played for Tom Craven (Dame), Horace Mills, and Wilkie Bard, enacting the latter's rôle of the Baroness in Babes in the Wood for a fortnight. Leaving Bristol, Mr. Edgar went to the Prince's, Manchester, with Mr. Courtneidge to appear in pantomime with George Graves, "Jimmy" Sullivan, Johnny Coyle, Neil Kenyon, Queenie Leighton, and the late Charles Laurie. During the run of the production Mr. Laurie died, and Mr. Edgar had to play his part of Man Friday during the last two weeks of the run. Mr. Edgar was made up to go on in Mr. Laurie's part when news came of the latter's death. After another year at Bristol in 1901 Mr. Edgar toured through South Africa during the Boer War with Mr. George Edwardes' company, playing Cunningham in The Geisha and similar parts in San Toy, Florodora, The Runaway Girl, and The Messenger Boy. Returning to England, he toured as stage-manager for The Toreador and Messenger Boy companies.

In 1903 he conceived the idea of going on the halls. He wrote for himself a couple of songs, and started at the Palace, Camberwell. Subsequently he went out on tour with Mr. Eugene Stafford in the musical comedy His Fatal Beauty. While on this tour Mr. George Scott saw Mr. Edgar, advised him to return to variety, and gave him a letter of introduction to Mr. Richard Warner, who immediately started him. Mr. Hugh J. Didcott next worked for him as agent for three years. Mr. Edgar was in the pantomime of Puss in Boots with Messrs. Mouillot and Warden, at Belfast and Dublin, Mr. Paul Cinquevalli and Mr. Martin Adeson playing in the same production. He was on the point of going out to America last year when an amalgamation between Keith and Proctor stopped him, and at the last minute he dropped into pantomime at the Palace Theatre, Manchester, playing Dame in Jack and Jill. There Mr. John Hart saw him, and engaged him to play Dame for the next three years, starting next year in Sheffield.

During the time Mr. Edgar has been on the halls he has played at the Tivoli, Oxford, Empire, Palace, and London Pavilion. Two of his biggest successes were "On the sand" and "Let's swop." Mr. Edgar has written all his own songs, about twenty-five altogether. His present number, "The reason why I dress in red," has proved very popular.

Mr. Edgar is booked for the Stoll and De Frece tours and the Gibbons halls, as well as for a return visit to South Africa in 1910. This will be his fourth South African engagement. His last two visits there was under the management of Mr. Sidney Hyman, when he made a great hit with his comedy ideas as "The Man in Red."

A BENEVOLENT FUND LOAN.

Before Mr. Curtis Bennett at Bow Street on Saturday, Walter Lovick Butler, sixty-one, of Broad-street, Lambeth, was charged with obtaining the sum of £2 from the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund by false pretences. Mr. C. Douglas Stuart, secretary to the fund, was the first witness called. He stated, in reply to questions from the magistrate, that on Aug. 17 he received, through one of the committee, a letter from the prisoner asking for assistance, and stating that he was an old performer who was destitute. An application form was sent, which was returned duly filled up, together with a letter purporting to be signed by "Frank Yapp," of the Bros. Ashley. The case was considered by the committee, and on the strength of the reference from Mr. Yapp postal orders for £2 were sent the prisoner as a loan, for which he signed the accompanying receipt.

Further inquiries having been instituted, it was decided to apply for a warrant, which was granted by Sir Albert de Rutzen, and the prisoner was arrested on Friday.

Detective-Sergeant Collins stated that he arrested the accused, who said, "I don't understand it. Mr. Yapp told me I could use his name and write what I liked. I wrote the sketch he is now playing, and I may as well say at once I wrote the reference myself." Prisoner asked the magistrate for production of another reference that had been sent from Mr. Powell, and Mr. Stuart stated that he had not got it with him, but would find it and produce it later. The prisoner then told Mr. Curtis Bennett that it was the custom for variety artists to use each other's names in cases of this kind, and that he had been a variety artist for many years.

The magistrate recalled the secretary of the fund, and asked him if he knew of any such custom, and Mr. Stuart replied that during the fifteen years he had been connected with the profession he had never heard of anything of the kind. The prisoner was then remanded until next Saturday morning on £5 bail.

DEATH OF HARRY LESTER.

The sad ending of Mr. Harry Lester, secretary of the Terriers' Association, on Tuesday came as a great shock to the friends of the deceased, from whom we received as late as Tuesday morning, in his own handwriting, a short report of the Terriers' social, held on the previous Sunday evening at the Dover Castle, at which he was present. In the days of his youth, and, indeed, up to the time of his appointment as secretary of the Terriers' Association, Mr. Lester was a comic singer, and incidentally a motto and descriptive vocalist. A native of Manchester, he was, as he used to put it, born in the profession. At any rate, he took to it at a very early age, and was only eleven years old when he composed melodies to songs he found in old song-books. In his early days as an entertainer he was popular at temperance and smoking concerts. Developing his talents, he was engaged to perform at the Star Music Hall, Ancoats, Manchester, where he made his first appearance on the boards over twenty-eight years ago. He soon became popular at all the provincial halls of note. One of his earliest successes was "They went coo-coo," and one of his latest was "I'm a man of the world," written by Fred Lee and Joe Tabrar.

[Photo by Simmons

About ten years ago Mr. Lester settled down in business in Kennington, and two years later he took possession of another commercial enterprise at 16, Kennington-road, where he died. He fulfilled his last engagement in the halls in August, 1903, at Margate, where his powers as a refined comic and descriptive vocalist were highly appreciated. For no less than thirty years he had been a member of the Oddfellows' Society, so, as he once remarked, he was not what might have been termed a "fly-away sort of fellow." Mr. Lester, naturally enough, was very proud of the Terriers' Association, and whatever could be done to improve its condition, socially or financially, he was always ready to do. He also took a great interest in the M.H.A.R.A., and was a member of the first committee of that Association. The deceased gentleman, whose real name was Isaac Snape, married Miss Annie Howe, a burlesque artist popular in the eighties, who, with one daughter, survives him.

Our Birmingham correspondent writes:—"Allow me to say how very sorry I am to learn of poor Harry Lester's sad end. He was a good fellow, in whose mouth was found no guile, and a great favourite with the Gaiety boys here, with his pleasing appearance, ringing voice, and always popular songs. One of his earliest successes was 'And the girl went coo,' by Felix McGlennon, and of course there were others. Although, obviously, he had dropped out, I thought he was comfortably placed."

The funeral of the late Mr. Harry Lester has been fixed for Tuesday next, that being the date of his forty-ninth birthday. The remains are to be interred in the Lambeth Cemetery, Tooting. The cortège will leave the deceased's residence in Kennington-road at 12.45, arriving at the cemetery at 2.15. Mr. Theophilus Dunkley, of Westminster Bridge-road, who has charge of the funeral arrangements, will be pleased to give any desired information to friends of the deceased who may desire to be present. They should be at the house, 16, Kennington-road, at 12 o'clock.

THE INQUEST.

At the inquest, which was held yesterday by Mr. R. H. Wellington, at the Lambeth Coroner's Court, the principal witnesses were Mrs. Lester (the widow), her daughter, Lily Lester, and Mr. J. Derungs, professional cook. The latter was the first to find Mr. Lester, whom he saw standing on some steps. Some time later, when he returned, he found the deceased was not on the steps, but was hanging from a rope. He immediately caused the police to be notified. They arrived about 11.30, and immediately cut Mr. Lester down. Dr. McCarthy, of 138, Westminster Bridge-road, announced that when found Mr. H. Lester must have been dead abou two hours. The jury returned a verdict of "Suicide during a fit of temporary insanity."

Barnard's Agency, of Shaw-street, Liverpool, are acting as sole agents for Mr. Fred Granville's pantomimes, that gentleman having specially engaged Kennedy's Kiddies, Daleno and Stream, and other first-class turns.

Mr. Arthur Hickman, the new tenor, has established himself as a prime favourite with London audiences in record time. He has only to be heard to be fully booked. Among his great song successes are "Far away someone thinks of you to-night" and "Some day you'll come back to me," the latter number by Ernest R. Ball, the composer of the omnipresent "Love me and the world is mine."

John Henry Humphries, 25, labourer, was charged at Worship-street with being in possession of a number of pirated copies of certain copyrighted songs. An agent of the Music Publishers' Association proved that the prisoner was exhibiting music in Middlesex-street (Petticoat-lane) on Sunday morning, and when the music was seized eighteen copies were found to be piracies. The prisoner was fined 40s. or fourteen days.

The acting-manager of the Willesden Hippodrome applied for a licence for a child under fourteen years of age to appear on the stage at Willesden on Monday. A magistrate said that the Bench did not feel disposed to grant licences where a child was supporting her parents. The sister of the child told the magistrate that her father worked, and that her sister kept the whole of her earnings. In proof of her statement she handed a bank-book to the magistrate, who expressed satisfaction, and granted the licence.

CHAT WITH CHARLES WILMOTT.

Mr. Charles Wilmott, of the firm of Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter, is a gentleman whose accomplishments are of the versatile order. He has written and produced plays and sketches and pantomimes, has acted himself, and is the author of hundreds of songs. He started life as an author and journalist, contributing articles, poems, and stories to various magazines. His first introduction to the music-hall world was due to the late G. H. Macdermott, who was a very old friend of Mr. Wilmott's father. The latter was the Wilmott of the famous music-hall duo, Connolley and Wilmott, who were the originators of the duets, "Belgravia and Whitechapel" and "St. James's and St. Giles's." They were, too, the first to introduce short dramatic versions of Dickens, such as the story of Oliver Twist, in which each artist would play two or three parts. Mr. Wilmott's father became manager of the Variety Theatre, Hoxton—the first two-houses-a-night establishment in London. "During one of Macdermott's engagements there," says the subject of this sketch, "my father introduced me to him, and the great Mac then suggested my going in for music-hall work. I always had something of an original bent, and my first contribution to the music halls of real importance was the sketch, The Bewitched Curate, which I wrote. It was the first playlet to bring into actual combination the Church and the Stage, and it excited a great deal of comment at the time, and gave me a position as an author. This was almost contemporaneous with a burlesque of Faust, which I wrote for Mr. Fred Williams, who was then a popular sketch star on the music-hall stage."

Subsequently, Mr. Wilmott turned his attention to dramatic work, and one of his earliest dramas, entitled Old Times, was produced on the opening night of the Theatre Royal, Woolwich. It was followed by a long series of dramas, with which their author toured with his own company for some time. Then he started supplying the Albert and Edmunds troupe with farcical sketches, the first of which was The Locket, the success of which led to his being called upon to supply them with playlets ever since, right up and including the present production of Neighbours. Mr. Wilmott was subsequently approached by Mr. Willie Phillips, who was a member of the Court Theatre company, and played in most of Mr. Pinero's successes, such as The Schoolmistress and The Magistrate. Mr. Phillips had decided to take to the music halls, and commissioned Mr. Wilmott to write some sketches for himself and his wife, Miss Ada Terry, and these sketches these two talented artists have been playing ever since. Mr. Wilmott's scena on the subject of Nelson and Trafalgar-square, which were produced by Mr. Godfrey at the Oxford, excited a considerable amount of attention, and the strongly patriotic vein in which the sketch was conceived was most favourably commented on even by the Radical newspapers. The success of this induced the Tivoli management to commission Mr. Godfrey and Mr. Wilmott to supply them with a scena dealing with

MR. CHARLES WILMOTT.

Major Wilson's famous stand against the Matabele hordes.

All this while Mr. Wilmott had been writing songs for nearly all the star artists. Thus, he wrote Miss Fanny Leslie's "Boys of London Town"; Miss Vesta Tilley's "In the days of the cavalier"; Mr. R. G. Knowles's "Once upon a time"; Mr. G. W. Hunter's "Courtship" and "Logical Conclusions"; Miss Marie Lloyd's "Geisha" song; and Miss Bessie Wentworth's "My boy." He rendered similar service to Mr. Eugene Stratton, Mr. George Beauchamp, Mr. Walter Munroe, Mr. Charles Bignell, the late Fred Harvey, the late Lizzie Howard, and many others. Another branch of theatrical work which Mr. Wilmott has engaged in successfully is the writing of pantomimes. For six years he was responsible for the "book" at the Britannia Theatre.

In describing some of Mr. Wilmott's pantomime plots, the Daily Telegraph stated that the mantle of the Brothers Grimm had fallen upon that gentleman. Mr. Wilmott made a strong point of writing the comedians' scenes in the shape of gags, so that continuity in the telling of the story may not be interrupted. Mr. Wilmott has also supplied pantomimes for several of the provincial theatres.

Amongst his most recent song-successes are George Lashwood's "In the twilight," Miss Annie Purcell's "In the valleys of Switzerland," the recent Franco-British Exhibition skits, "Take me on the flip-flap," and Miss Millie Hylton's "Meet me under the golden dome." The music for the greater number of Mr. Wilmott's songs has been composed by Mr. Hermann Darewski, who has given to the public several very catchy melodies. Those two gentlemen were responsible for "Humpty-Dumpty," which has been Miss Terriss's most popular number in The Gay Gordons; and their most recent hit is Mr. R. G. Knowles's song, "£ s. d." Mr. Wilmott is now busy with a new production for the Albert and Edmunds troupe, which will be on an even more elaborate scale than anything the troupe has hitherto accomplished.

"Speaking of music-hall songs past and present," says Mr. Wilmott, "I am distinctly of opinion that the present 'numbers' are far in advance of anything we had in the old days. One has only to compare such songs as "Champagne Charley," "Slap, bang, here we are again," and "Cliquot," with some of the recent successful songs, to understand the tremendous improvement that has taken place. How much more is demanded of the author of to-day in the way of intelligence, to say nothing of wit, sense of rhythm, and grammar. Twenty and thirty years ago the glorification of drink was the prevailing characteristic of the comedy in the songs. That, fortunately, has almost entirely disappeared, and a much higher tone has been adopted.

"PIGS IN CLOVER."

A "Racial Retrospect," in One Scene, by J. J. Spencer Sutcliffe, produced at the Balham Hippodrome on Monday, Oct. 5.

Leon Rochester ..... Mr. John Lawson
Calvert Rochester ..... Mr. J. K. Reynolds
Rosie Nathan ..... Miss L. Sidney
Marcelle Bazan ..... Mr. H. Schlesinger
Leslie ..... Mr. Pascoe Bioletti
Pat Rochester ..... Miss Buena Bent

"Mixed marriages" serve as the theme of Mr. John Lawson's latest thriller, which was introduced to London on Monday, after a preliminary production in the country. In an address issued by Mr. Lawson it is stated that "so serious an evil has intermixing in marriage between different nations become that a well-known Russian Jew, who died a few months ago, left instructions in his will asking his son to marry only of his own religion." Much more disastrous consequences attend the union of a young Jew, named Leon Rochester, who has invented an aeroplane, which he has offered to the British Government. The War Office moves slowly, and three years have elapsed without any definite communication from that authority. Meanwhile, Leon has married a young English girl, named Patricia, whom he affectionately calls "Pat," in spite of the fact that an engagement exists between himself and Rosie Nathan, a young Jewess, and an heiress in her own right. Leon has brought his wife to the Riviera, where the scene of the playlet is laid at Carnival time, and she longs to join in the gaieties around her. She has, indeed, gone so far as to encourage the attentions of a libertine—a "pig in clover"—who sends her a diamond ring. The envelope containing the ring is opened by the unsuspecting husband, but accompanying it is a note, with the words "My present.—M." An adept in the art of prevarication, "Pat" assures her husband that she herself sent the ring to him for his birthday, and the husband smilingly puts it on, only to discover that it is too small. "Pat" is equal to the occasion, and declares that she had bought a small ring for purposes of economy, so that both could wear it in turn. While "Pat" has gone out ostensibly for "shopping," but really to meet her lover, Leon's father and Rosie Nathan arrive unexpectedly. Mr. Rochester, unaware of his son's marriage, hints at a speedy union between Rosie and Leon, and delivers an impassioned harangue against mixed marriages. Rosie is devoted to Leon, and left alone busies herself in tidying the room. She is thus engaged when "Pat" returns with her lover from the Carnival. She learns the reason of Rosie's visit, and reveals the fact that she is Leon's wife. "Pat's" attitude towards Marcelle has not escaped the attention of Rosie, and she retorts that though "Pat" is the wife it is she herself that truly loves Leon. "Pat" is so incensed that, after tearing the plans of Leon's invention to shreds and dashing the model of his aeroplane to pieces, she seizes Rosie by the throat and beats her to death with a heavy ruler. Leon returns, and learning of the tragedy, prepares to give the girl up to the authorities in fulfilment of his nation's axiom of "A life for a life." His wife pleads for mercy; but Leon is obdurate, and "Pat," seizing a dagger, stabs herself and falls dead. There is a terrific noise of explosives outside, and Leon sinks to his knees in lamentation of his loneliness.

The sketch is written with dramatic force, and supplies Mr. Lawson with one of the most acceptable of the "Grand Guignol"-like shockers with which his répertoire is stocked. He has a part after his own heart in the character of Leon Rochester, whom he portrays with that quiet dignity which becomes so impressive. Later, the passion of the part shows forth, and Mr. Lawson's gift for portraying by facial expression the workings of a distraught mind proves again invaluable. Miss Buena Bent, whom Mr. Lawson may be said to have "discovered" some years ago when he engaged her for leading lady in his sketches, thoroughly proves the wisdom of his choice. She plays the part of the impulsive young wife with artless impudence and an air of frivolity that sit well upon her, while the ferocity of the last fateful scenes is sustained with real tragic power. Miss L. Sidney is a gentle and prepossessing Rosie Nathan, and gives a clever depiction of the young girl who realises that the love so long cherished is unrequited. A characteristic study of the elderly Mr. Rochester is given by Mr. J. K. Reynolds, who declaims the invective against intermarriage with much vehemence. Mr. H. Schlesinger cuts a comical figure as the "pig in clover," the dandy who carries on an illicit flirtation with "Pat"; and Mr. Pascoe Bioletti gives so droll a sketch of a waiter that the part might well be enlarged. A crowded house became thoroughly absorbed in the sensational episode, and Mr. Lawson and Miss Bent were thrice recalled at the close. Mr. E. W. Hancorne James officiates with his customary courtesy as manager of the prosperous Balham hall.

SHEPHERD'S BUSH EMPIRE.

At the head of an attractive programme this week is Machnow, the famous Russian giant. Machnow is described as the tallest man in the world, and his appearance on the stage is certainly quite startling. After being introduced the giant strolls amongst the audience, first in the stalls, then in the circle, and ultimately in the gallery, shaking hands with any who may desire to do so.

An extraordinary illusionist appears in the person of Cussac Talma, who, assisted by Mlle. Yvonne de Forge, performs some really wonderful tricks, including a £500 challenge box trick, with which Cussac-Talma challenges the world, "barring neither sex, profession, nor nationality." Leonie Dixon proves herself a very smart and pleasing soubrette; and Charles Vincent achieves great success with a couple of good songs, one being a medley of snatches from various popular music-hall ditties, which goes extremely well. That dainty little mimic Miss Ray Wallace contributes her always excellent turn, her imitations of well-known variety artists, to her own accompaniments, being very clever and entertaining. A turn which is a real delight is that presented by Callahan and St. George, a couple of American artists, lady and gentleman, who appear in a scena entitled The Old Neighbourhood. The gentleman gives a richly humorous study of an old Irish-American, who plays a little on the flute, and the lady contributes some excellent singing and harp-playing. It is well worth while visiting the Shepherd's Bush Empire this week if only to see this most artistic turn. Terry and Lambert, two more American artists, present a humorous character sketch, English Types Through American Eyes, which rightly meets with great approval. Both members of this combination are extremely clever, and the various caricatures they introduce us to are undeniably based on truth.

Victor Travers, an eccentric comedian and dancer, is responsible for a great deal of laughter, one of his songs having the title "I couldn't do that, could you?" Harry Thorpe and Zoe Coe appear in their comedy playlet My Burglar, written by Miss Zoe Coe. This very smart and unexaggerated sketch is really excellent, the acting both of Miss Coe and Mr. Thorpe being unusually good. The programme is completed by the American Bioscope, which this week presents an instructive and fascinating series of pictures showing life on the island of St. Kilda.

Mr. E. P. Morgan is the courteous acting-manager, and Mr. Herbert Mack, who for four and a half years has been the advertising manager at this house, has succeeded Mr. Jess Smith as assistant acting-manager.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

LONDON PAVILION.

Mr. Frank Glenister inaugurated a new departure at this house on Monday, when was given the first of what is conveniently designated as cinématinées; and, in consequence, the ordinary Wednesday morning performances of the variety company have been discontinued for the present. The evening bill happens to be one of the strongest that has been arranged for some time. Early in the evening we have the farcical sketch entitled Beauty and the Burglar, by that expert dramatist Mr. George R. Sims, which is presented by Millie Engler and company. That lady appears to advantage in the part of Kitty Rippleby, an actress; Mr. Fred Knight is the John Rippleby; and Miss Louie Tinsley, a delightful low comedy lady, plays Polly. Gicardo, a young juggler, accomplishes a very neat hat and umbrella trick, and his juggling with billiard balls thrown up behind him shows very deft manipulation. Hill and Hull are responsible for the eccentric dwarfing business brought over to this country a quarter of a century since by two Viennese artists, and, therefore, quite novel to a later generation. The business is chiefly remarkable for the wonderful realisation of inertness by one of the twain. Mr. Chris. Richards brings nothing fresh in the way of song, novelties not being wanted by such an eccentric dancer; Mr. Fred Hastings' betting song is not particularly striking; and Miss Hanid Alexander, who is quite grown-up, plays Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody with no little brilliancy, though her touch leaves something to be desired. She is at her best in her description of a waif's country outing.

The art of funambulism is brought to a high pitch by Celest, a performer with all the necessary skill and nerve to give full effect to an original show. Appearing at first in ordinary dress, he makes a rapid change behind a pretty bit of scenery, which opens out and discloses him habited in a smart blue uniform, braided with gold. As a baton-twirler, Celest is bewilderingly swift; but it is when he takes to the wire that he astonishes us by his perfect command of poise and his exact knowledge of the laws of balance. Commencing his perambulations of the thin filament of steel several feet above the stage, he allows it to be slackened, still retaining his footing, and swaying the wire to the tune of a pretty waltz. The excitement becomes more intense when he places a ladder on the wire, which is gradually raised again while he is mounting several rungs. As he does so flags blossom from the ladder, and the act finishes amid great applause.

Bert Errol, a female impersonator new to London, made a successful début here on Monday, and scored an immediate success in his business. He burlesques the operatic solo, "Nobil Signor," just sufficiently, and, though wearing the skirts, he knows how to be refined and artistic. Mr. Neil Kenyon has the house in the throes of laughter while he patters as the "postie of Auld Dunrobin Town." He is very rich and unctuous, and his humour has a fine flavour. Other turns in a remarkably strong bill are given by Malcolm Scott, the lady "sciolist"; Miss Marie Dainton, in her impersonations; Mr. Arthur Aldridge, the Pavilion tenor; King and Cooke, in a really droll trampolin act; the Marriotts, in silent telepathy; Miss José Collins, a pretty and clever comedienne; Mr. Josh Dixon, comedian and dancer; Mr. George Mozart, a Pavilion favourite; Jock and Evelyn, in their latest act; the Yankee Doodle Girls, a clever, attractive troupe of vocalists and dancers, under the direction of Mr. Bert Coote; and Miss Elsie Steadman, whose singing is charged with piquancy and point. Mr. Bond Sayers directs a first-rate orchestra here; and Mr. William Cobbett is a courteous assistant-manager.

CAMBERWELL EMPIRE.

The art of pleasing the public has been practised by Mr. Jesse Sparrow in many London suburbs, but in no hall has his success been more gratifying than at the Camberwell Empire, which he has brought to a state of complete prosperity. Packed houses have this week nightly greeted the artists who make up the current bill, the head of which is taken by the sketch Lift 'Ems, Limited, an obvious skit on a well-known provision stores, in which the Six Brothers Luck combine to furnish an interlude of riotous fun. The efforts of the comedians to create mirth are indefatigable, and the laughter aroused during the progress of the sketch is unceasing. An important place on the programme is also allotted to a vocal scena called Christina of Sketra, which has the benefit of special scenery by Richard Douglass. It depicts the rugged shore of a remote Scottish seaport, noted for its oyster industry, and its chief character is the young fisher-girl Christina. Her fame as a singer having reached the ears of a manager about to produce a Scottish opera, that worthy journeys to Sketra to judge for himself. His trouble is well rewarded, for he finds that the lowly fisher girl has a voice of remarkable power and range. Its excellent qualities are displayed in a quaint folk-song, and in the popular Scottish ballad, "Loch Lomond." The manager is entranced, and immediately engages her at a fabulous salary. Being a vocalist himself, he joins her in an expressive rendering as a duet of the favourite "Mary of Argyle." The scena is smartly rendered by Wills and Mackenzie, who have occupied important positions in the Carl Rosa company. Miss Mackenzie, who made a comely and picturesque Scotch lassie, is possessed of a dramatic soprano voice, powerful and well-modulated, and she sings in a cultivated style that obtains applause from all parts of the house. Mr. John Wills, who, with Miss Esme Austin, is the author of the libretto, renders able assistance as the opera producer, and sings tastefully in the duet.

A pleasant diversion is created by Little Ikey Moe, the diminutive comedian who won magisterial approbation early in the week when he applied for a licence to perform. He is a smart little raconteur, and delivers Yiddisher yarns with an appreciation of their point which is thoroughly shared by his hearers. The youthful comedian also sings a quaint song of a Hebrew character, and in answer to repeated recalls submits a dance full of eccentricity. Miss Olive West, who in private life is the daughter of the well-known music-hall manager, Mr. "Teddy" Giles, is a newcomer to the ranks of the comedienne. She has the gift of song well developed, and is an expert dancer. Both accomplishments are agreeably displayed in the lively lilt of "Schneider," in which Miss West makes a vivacious Dutch girl, and performs a skilful sabot dance. The pretty and clever artist also supplements her song of "Don't knock, Mr. Jones, come in," with a series of intricate and well-conceived steps, and wins a popular ovation. Mr. Arthur Holland cuts a smart figure as a naval officer, who sings of "bidding good-bye on the quay" in excellent style. Mr. Sam Spira entertains at the piano with realistic mimicry; Primavesi juggles marvellously; Mr. Frank F. Street is a diverting story-teller; and the programme also consists of Haig and Novel, in a comedy act; Les Uniques, gymnastic performers; and Jeapes' Animated Graphic, with a coloured moving picture representing the Trial of Mary, Queen of Scots. Mr. Percy Ford is still manager and secretary of the Camberwell Empire, and Mr. Gus Danter now holds the position of acting-manager.

THE PARAGON.

Business has improved wonderfully here since the reduction in prices and the establishment of the two-houses-a-night plan. The removal of the drinking-bars from the promenade was a much-needed reform, and the maintenance of perfect order is now much easier. Miss Marie Lloyd, correctly described as "the queen of all comediennes," sings in her inimitable style "Don't grumble at woman any more," "Rum-tiddley-um-tum-tay," and "The Directoire Girl," for which she receives an ovation. Miss Lloyd is indeed a true artist, her different expression and rendering of each number being perfect. Mr. George Robey has two new songs which are quite up to his usual standard, being entitled "It's a lie" and "I think I shall sleep well to-night." Needless to say, the house is kept in continual laughter the whole time he is on the stage. Miss Flo Esdaile's delightful voice is heard to advantage in "The Soldiers' Chorus," from Faust, the top notes being reached with the greatest ease. Mr. Dan Thomas, garbed as an "old dame," gives an interesting song in "Columbine," his second item, "Play up Millwall," being greatly to the liking of the football enthusiasts. La Pia, in fantastic dances, introduces many novelties, the principal being a representation of a stormy sea with great waves breaking and dashing on the shore. The dancer is enveloped, and finally engulfed, in the huge seas that surround her. The effect is really wonderful, and the lady retires amid rounds of applause. The Poluski Brothers provoke roars of laughter with their many funniosities. Miss Frances Letty, chorus singer, possesses a couple of tuneful numbers in "Does anyone want a girl?" and "Mr. Jackson," which are ably rendered, a smart wooden shoe dance completing the lady's interesting turn. The Daunton-Shaw troupe of cyclists perform many daring feats, the elder male partners being exceptionally clever. The ladies make a pretty picture. Hughes and Elliott amuse with "Santa Claus" and "The Beauty Show," concluding with a cleverly-executed sand dance. Matthews and Cowper, in "When the clock went wrong," provide plenty of good fun, many complications arising owing to the mixing up of the "she's" by the Irish servant, one being a clock and the other the wife. Vether Brothers give a neat and clever trapeze performance which is quite original, the costumes and properties being quite unique; Mr. Fred Elton at the piano wins favour with several tuneful ditties, the principal being a charming little number, "Little Maid of Monte Carlo," which will soon be popularised. Conway and Leland, "the merry monopedes," together with Ruffell's Bioscope, conclude a most enjoyable programme.

THE METROPOLITAN.

The desire for sketches of a short and entertaining type is very pronounced at the halls, and Mr. Jack Edgar is ever seeking to discover novelties that thrill or convulse with laughter. He has secured for this week a tabloid of tragedy—in other words, a dramatic episode, written by Robert Wilford, and entitled

"THE ESPADA."

Lady Daphne ..... MISS HILDA DICK
Hon. Paul Esmond ..... MR. HENRY MARTIN
Noel Gordon ..... MR. PHILLIP POTTER
Brother Silvanus ..... MR. ARTHUR GORDON
Don Manrico ..... MR. GUY CARY

It is quite in the Grand Guignol vein, is this tragedietta. Don Manrico, "the Espada," has not lost his heart to a dark beauty of Seville, but is passionately attached to Lady Daphne, whose Anglo-Saxon beauty has bewitched him. She has smiled upon him only to deceive, concealing the fact that she is married. In a conversation which is overheard by the Espada she speaks of other conquests, and evidently regards her love affair with the hot-blooded bull-sticker as a mere flirtation. It is no jesting matter with him, and he determines to give the coquette short shrift. Locking the doors and windows, he tells her that she shall deceive no more. She, however, cajoles him, and later she is able to give a signal for help. Her two male friends arrive just too late to save her from the Spaniard's dagger; but a pistol shot rings out, and Lady Daphne, who lies dead on the couch, is revenged, a bullet reaching the Espada's heart. Miss Hilda Dick makes a most fascinating temptress, and tackles the difficult scene between Lady Daphne and Don Manrico with discretion, restraint, and considerable force. Mr. Guy Cary is a picturesque Don Manrico, and shows intensity. He must not, however, allow his forcible display of the Espada's passion to hurry his utterance in a way that makes him occasionally indistinct. The sketch is beautifully mounted, the elaborate interior being painted by Francis H. Bull. The incidental music, by Mark Strong, adds local colour to the picturesque little piece.

Mr. and Mrs. Royston Deno sound an uproarious comedy note in their comedietta My Lady's Chamber, which we have already commended; and Lytton and Bland are quite popular in A Lesson in Love.

Mr. George Robey sheds joy around when he relates his adventures as a lion tamer, and tells us something of the idiosyncrasies of the king of beasts and his playful little ways. The patter is becoming funnier every night, and there can be no doubt that George has a number that will do him excellent service. Miss Amy Clevere returns here to renew the triumphs she has won in her dainty dancing and tuneful singing of coon melodies. "Dresden China" is admirably suited to her style, and she brings down the house by the genuine fascination of her rendering of "I don't like the white moon shining." Miss Cressie Leonard, an excellent burlesque actress, habited as a principal boy, gives a taste of her quality in the song "Will there be any girls there?" Haley's Garden of Girls, who score in their dancing, have a pretty and most effective scena; Mr. Bert Danson, a capital comedian, has a lively and amusing song, "When a fellow's in love with a girl"; Miss Luna Love is a chic dancer; Miss Amy Marsden, the "comedy girl," is seen in her latest success, "I'm Salome"; and Master Edward Frisby is applauded in ballads. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope is responsible for an interlude of up-to-date and attractive pictures.

MOSS' EMPIRES, LTD., AND THE CAMBERWELL PALACE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—The attention of our clients, Moss' Empires, Ltd., has been called to the paragraph which appeared in your issue of Sept. 26, in which it is stated that the directors of the Camberwell Palace have given notice of their intention to terminate their booking arrangements with our clients. As this statement is inaccurate, we should be glad if you will make this correction in your next issue.—Yours truly,

SMITH, RUNDELL, AND DODS.
9, John-street, Bedford-row, W.C.

As the result of a recent matinée, Mr. J. M. Glover was enabled, at Bexhill, to hand over to the local clergy a cheque for £91, to assist the unemployed and poor during the approaching winter.

NAT TRAVERS, a well-known coster comedian, was summoned at Great Yarmouth on Saturday for distributing handbills containing betting announcements. Travers' name appeared on the front of the bills with the programme of a pier entertainment, but at the foot and on the back were intimations by a betting agent of Flushing inviting business. It was stated that the only pecuniary benefit to the comedian was in getting his bills free of cost from the betting agent, and that he had no other share in the transactions carried on at Flushing. The magistrates held that it was a distinct breach of the Betting Act, and inflicted a penalty of 19s., at the same time cautioning him against any repetition of it in Yarmouth.

STAGE STORIES.

DR. WALFORD BODIE'S LATEST LITERARY SENSATION.

A FEAST OF GOOD THINGS.

"Stage Stories" is the title of an entertaining volume which has just been issued by Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent, and Co., Ltd., 4, Stationers' Hall-court, London, E.C., and the price of which is a shilling. The author is Dr. Walford Bodie, who is appearing in the New Gaiety Theatre, Ayr, this week, and delighting large audiences. This is not Dr. Bodie's first essay in literature, as not long ago he wrote "The Bodie Book," which was enthusiastically received by Press and public, and still has a good vogue. "Stage Stories" is a work in lighter vein, and will, we feel sure, have a larger sale than his first contribution. In the course of eighteen fair-sized chapters Dr. Bodie has many interesting sayings to set down and many amusing and exciting experiences to narrate, all of which make capital reading. The book is, in fact, the story of his life so far. Dr. Bodie is still comparatively young, but already his career has been full of interest, and he has travelled far in the way of public entertainment and as a public entertainer. From very small beginnings he has attained to a position of remarkable success on the stage; and now he can "sport" a motor-car—and a very fine car it is too, as those who have seen it in the streets of Ayr this week can testify. During his career, Dr. Bodie has been music hall doctor, ventriloquist, conjurer, illusionist, and lightning caricaturist. It is a strange combination, yet in each he has achieved remarkable success. Dr. Bodie is an Aberdonian. There are, however, few traces in his speech in public that he was born in the silver city by the Dee; but no doubt in private conversation with brother Aberdonians he can use with fluency and picturesqueness the language of "Johnny Gibb of Gushetneuk," the finest classic in the Aberdeenshire tongue, and a work that is truer to the life of the people than the efforts of Barrie or Crockett or any of the other literary spademen in the kailyard school. A score of years ago Dr. Bodie was in the employment of the National Telephone Company, at Aberdeen, and it was then that he made his first appearances in public. It was at Saturday evening entertainments that he graduated. Those entertainments he says "were useful to me. They trained me for my future profession. They accustomed me to the sight of an audience watching me, listening to me, and intent on being instructed or amused by me. They put my hand on the pulse of the people. They taught me to read the faces of the people. They gave me a sense of my own power, and a confidence in that power. They led up not only to my first performance in the Town Hall of Stonehaven, but to countless more performances in other halls and in other places throughout the British Isles." Dr. Bodie has always realised the great value of advertising and keeping on friendly terms with the members of the Fourth Estate, which shows his astuteness and perspicacity. Even in those early days, he was billed as "The Great Walford Bodie: The Man of the Hour." His friends were responsible for the adjective "great," which he admits was "a little premature." The drawings at the first performance at the pleasant little town of Stonehaven amounted to thirty-five shillings; and, although this sum was less than the hire of the hall, the hallkeeper agreed to accept it. Dr. Bodie deals, inter alia, with his cures by means of electricity or magnetism, his experiences in putting men in a trance, and records conversations with Billington, the hangman. Billington, he remarks, was a character in his way; a rough-hewn North countryman, with the hard, honest features characteristic of the people of the North of England. "I'd never hang you" (Dr. Bodie), said Billington, "however much they offered me for the job, and I'd save you from anyone else doing it. I'd get you reprieved. And I'll tell you how I'd manage it. I'd fix up the apparatus so that it wouldn't work properly. Then I'd bring you to the scaffold, and make two or three attempts at swinging you off. Of course, I should not succeed, and I'd take you back to the cell. Then the prison people would write to the Home Secretary, and you'd be reprieved. Yes, I know how to hang a man, and I know how to save him from being hanged." This was surely the height of gratitude in a public servant; but it is not a spirit that should be emulated. By many persons Dr. Bodie has always been regarded as an uncanny bodie. He looks it at times. He has fathomed the way in which one can successfully entertain and mystify the public; and he has also learned some things which set the medical faculty agape. He is a clever and daring man; if he had not considerable intellectual ability he could not accomplish the things he does. Owing to the nature of his calling, he sees many landladies, and some of his experiences with this necessary and generally respectable class make laughable reading. After giving specimens of conjuring and ventriloquism in the presence of an old-fashioned landlady, Dr. Bodie was told by her to leave at once. He asked the reason why he should leave, and was told, "You're no canny. You hae put the fear o' death on me. I winna hae you here." "Surely, madam, you'll allow us to have something to eat before we go?" he said. "No' a bite," was the reply; "tak' yer things and gang." And they (Dr. Bodie and his wife) had to depart at once, the landlady pushing them out of her house and throwing their belongings after them. What we have written should, we think, convey some idea of the style of the book, and whet the appetite of those who like this sort of thing. Dr. Bodie is unquestionably as interesting on paper as he is before the footlights. He is a capital story teller, and writes lucidly and accurately.—Ayrshire Post, Oct. 2, 1908.

DR. WALFORD BODIE

INVENTIONS.

[The particulars furnished below of recent applications for patents are taken from the official records. Correspondence is invited with our readers on all matters relating to new ideas and inventions, with a view to affording them advice and assistance. Letters should be addressed to the Manager, Inventions Department, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, London.]

Inventors and others who have no business representative are invited to communicate with the Manager of the Inventions Dept. as above.

APPLICATIONS.

20,001.—Alfred William Southey and John Brown Thorp, of London. Improvements in apparatus for games and sports.

20,107.—George Ernest Forrester, of London. Improvements in or connected with wheel-shaped cycle tracks of that class in which the wheel is vertically supported and rotatable by the action of cyclist riding upon the inner surface of the rim or track.

20,229.—Henry Phillips, of London. Improvements in disappearing targets for miniature rifle ranges.

20,238.—George Clarke, of Halesworth, Suffolk. Improved rifle butt for miniature or full charge rifles.

20,256.—Frank Harvey Urry and William David Locke, of London. Improvements in coin-freed amusement apparatus.

COMPLETE SPECIFICATIONS ACCEPTED.

20,778.—Kiralfy. Gravity railways and similar amusement apparatus.

8,482.—Bond and Searle. Waterways or pleasure canals for the purpose of amusement.

15,496.—Kamman and Kaszab. Targets.

SPECIFICATION OPEN TO INSPECTION.

19,319.—Lütticke. Process for producing animated bioscope and mutoscope scenes by means of mechanically-constructed figures.

ABRIDGMENTS OF SPECIFICATIONS.

11,296.—Artificial snow man. Lindner, G., and Heyda, O., both of Frankfurt-on-the-Main.

An imitation snow man is made from papier-mâché or other material, and consists of separate body portions (a, b, c, d) adapted to be fitted together in known manner, each portion being formed in halves secured together by button-hole fastenings (e). The head, hat, and, if desired, the arms, are so secured that they fall off easily when struck by a snowball-like or other missile.

11,410.—Theatrical scenery. Poole, G. W. S., of Weymouth.

Flats or sections (a) for constructing the insides of rooms, &c., are provided with additional change scene cloths or curtains (c), which can be pulled down over rollers (b) to represent different interiors without the necessity of changing the flats. The curtains are secured to the floor by eyes (d) or other devices, and are stretched by weights or springs at the back. To enable performers to pass through doors or openings in the flats the curtains not in use are held away from the frame by a hinged ledge (f). The ends of the rollers are retained by pivoted plates or pawls (a3) in slots or bearings (a2) in detachable plates or extensions (a1), adapted to slide in guides at the upper ends of the flats. The flats are connected together by cleats and ropes in the usual manner.

11,705.—Musical instruments, music. Michaelis, F., of London.

Instruments with sonorous strings; violins. Transverse divisions of distinctive colour are marked upon the finger-boards of violins and other stringed instruments, in such a way that the marks may be readily removed. A transfer strip of the shape of the finger-board is employed to produce a series of white marks, as shown, the black spaces being the surface of the finger-board itself. Music notation. The notes to be played by fingering on the white spaces are indicated by a cross or otherwise.

11,720.—Roundabouts. Johnson, P. T., of Magnolia, Illinois, U.S.A.

A manual or pedal-operated roundabout consists of a platform (4), supported by a U-shaped frame (3), in which is mounted a wheel (10), and by rear hangers (5) carrying a wheel (7). The frame (3) is connected to a pivoted radial bar (17) or the motion of the car is confined to a circular path by a rotating frame to which the platform (4) is connected. The car is driven by means of a lever (26), which is reciprocated in a slot in the platform, the lever being connected by a pitman (22) to a crank (20) on a shaft (19) mounted in hangers (18). The shaft (19) communicates motion to the wheel (10) by means of a sprocket-wheel (16) on a shaft (13) geared to the shaft (19), and a chain (17) which drives a wheel (11) integral with or connected to a hub (9) of the wheel (10). The hub (9) is mounted on a detachable axle in the lower part of the frame (3). The car is provided with a seat (29).

AMUSEMENT APPARATUS.—Yet another form of railway recreation apparatus has been invented, and this time the designer of same is Mr. Arthur G. Strathie, of Edinburgh. The apparatus consists of a "drum-shaped" frame, to the periphery of which there are fixed two rings or the like. These rings have flanges which serve as tyres to enable the frame to roll on the rails of the track. To the internal circumference of the frame are fixed two rails, on which an ordinary car can travel. The action of the apparatus is somewhat on these lines: The circular frame travels over the track by rolling on the rails, while at the same time an apparent rotary motion is imparted to the car as the frame rotates.

TETRAZZINI TRILLS FROM TREE-TOP.—Two American inventors have perfected a device for repeating talking-machine records by telephone. At a demonstration given, Caruso's voice came from a receiver hidden in a shrub, and Tetrazzini's trills from the top of a tall pine.

RECENT U.S. AMERICAN PATENT.—Mr. A. F. Biavati, of Freeport, N.Y., has provided a useful adjunct to these pleasure-giving appliances, amusement cars, and his particular purpose is to provide means for readily handling the cars employed. The invention comprises apparatus for lifting a car from one level to another, so as to bring the support of the car into registry with a railroad track, then tilting the supporting mechanism so as to cause the car to glide obliquely downward along the track.

TO STAGE MACHINISTS AND ELECTRICIANS.—The Manager will be pleased to receive particulars of any new stage appliances or ideas for same for illustration in this column.

Can You Invent?—Do you wish to know of prizes offered to inventors valued at £10,000, £5,000, £5,300, £4,000, £1,000, £400, £300, £200, £100, and £50? If so, then get a copy of Patents and Designs, a newspaper called into existence by Mr. Lloyd-George's Patents and Designs Act, 1907, which lately came into operation. Patents and Designs, price 2d., can be had at all bookstalls, newsagents, and at the Publishing Office, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

THE BEDFORD.

There is a long and varied programme at the Bedford this week, and in the three hours' performance there are many very entertaining items. One of the most interesting turns is that given by Mr. Alfred West, the well-known pianist, who plays with a delightful finish, and his "Patrol March" is keenly relished, as also are the other items from his répertoire. We shall look forward to hearing this accomplished musician again. The Florodoras appear in their lively comedy act, Two's Company—Three's None, which is most diverting, and replete with capital songs and dances. The business they introduce with a boy from the gallery, who joins them on the stage, is very whimsical, and causes the utmost amusement. Miss José Collins, who is also on the bill, makes a big hit with her song "My Cuban Girl," and her second number, "You're the boy," of a lighter description, is sung with great point. Miss Collins is a great favourite. On the occasion of our visit that diverting comedian Mr. Herbert Rule appeared as a deputy, and his song, "Little brown jug," fairly brought down the house. Mr. Rule also introduced a chorus song à la Wilkie Bard, which is cleverly worked, the interruption from the box being a highly amusing piece of business. The Lorrisons, in their laughable scena, keep the fun going merrily all the time they hold the stage. The male partner is extremly grotesque in his style, and has many droll gags. The Markies present a clever musical act, playing on glasses and bells, the solo on the bottles being both novel and tuneful.

Miss Florence Creagh and company present a dramatic sketch entitled Daddy's Boy, in which Miss Creagh gives a fine portrayal of the neglected wife. Mr. H. W. Hatchman is particularly good as the husband, who returns home to find that his baby is dead, and that his wife is planning to elope with his friend. Mr. Frederick Lloyd and Mr. C. H. Ash also lend valuable assistance. It is a striking little drama, played in the best style, and has a capital reception. Frank Sley and Nipper give a bright turn, the dancing of the Nipper being remarkable and creating great interest. The Belasco Trio are melodious male vocalists, who sing and play the piano. One of them gives a clever and neatly-executed wooden shoe dance, introducing some novel steps, their turn being greatly applauded. Minton and Moore appear early in the programme in a bright little scena. They are most entertaining, and introduce some pretty vocal numbers.

Mollie Seymour, described as the "musical comedy girl," sings a most lively song anent "Madrid," and also gives a violin solo, which meets with great approval and makes her most popular. Astley's American Circus, which also figures on the programme, provides a merry entertainment. During the week prizes are to be offered for those who can ride round the ring on the mule, pony, or revolving table. The efforts of the would-be prize-winners cause the utmost hilarity. An extra turn is given by a couple of young athletes, whose finished display of barrel-jumping is much applauded. Miss Botha, a charming comedienne, also appears; and the Biograph concludes this very long but interesting programme. Mr. Donald Brown has a strong bill for his patrons this week, and he and his chief, Mr. B. P. Lucas, deserve the excellent support they get.

MISS FREDA SHARLOTTE is putting on at the Empress, Brixton, next week, her new monologue, written especially for her by Paul Pelham, entitled Is Life Worth Living?

A NEW departure has been taken at the London Pavilion, where on Monday afternoon was given the first of a series of "Cinématinées." The word denotes, of course, matinées at which the staple of entertainment is animated photographs; indeed, the only other attraction is a gramophone. At these matinées, which are announced for all week days except Saturdays, smoking is prohibited and the charges much reduced, the dearest seats being half a crown.

ERNEST GIBBS, 28, described as a costermonger, of Clerkenwell, was charged with exposing and offering for sale thirty-five copies of pirated music at Ferndale-road, Brixton, on Saturday evening. When taken into custody by Police-constable Terry, 395W, the prisoner said that the music had been given to him to sell by a man whom he casually met. He did not know, he said, what was meant by pirated music. A representative of the Music Publishers' Association told the magistrate that the prisoner was a man for whom they had been looking for some time, but the prisoner asserted that that could not be so, as he only came from Nottingham on Saturday. Mr. Hopkins ordered the prisoner to pay a fine of £5, and made an order for the destruction of the music.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

Peterborough October Fair.

The ancient cathedral city of Peterborough rejoices in two pleasure fairs annually. The principal one of these is locally known as "the Bridge Fair." It is held on the meadow-land on the south side of Peterborough Bridge, hence its name—Bridge Fair.

The date of this fair coincides with Nottingham, and, for that reason, amongst others, it is very largely in the hands of the showmen who travel the East Anglian round. Messrs. Thurston and Sons and Barker and Thurston, and the providers of minor novelties who follow the banner of these greater showmen, maintain the fair.

The principal concerns included the fine cinematograph theatre of Messrs. Thurston and the superb modern machine sets, including motor-cars, switchback gondola, galloping horses, helter-skelter towers, and other machine and show novelties. There were overboats, high-fliers, shooting galleries, variety and penalty frames, and hoopla circles in abundance, altogether making one of the best fairs held in the city for many years past.

Swindon Fair.

As usual, this fair was mainly provided by the local caterers, Jennings Brothers, who displayed steam horses, shooting galleries, and throwing games. There were no shows, and the limitation of the entertainments to the well-known concerns of the local showmen does not tend to increase the interest in the fair, or to maintain its popularity.

The Showmen's Guild at Hull Fair.

In accordance with long-established custom, the annual meeting for the North of England members of the Showmen's Guild will be held at Hull Fair on Sunday next. It is hoped that the Mayor of Hull will occupy the chair at the afternoon meeting, timed for three o'clock on the fair ground. There will be a second gathering in the evening. This will take the form of the Guild service, and will be open to both show people and the general public.

Retford Fair.

For this fair Messrs. Tuby and Sons provided the principal attractions. These included the Coliseum of animated pictures, the motor-car set, the steam swings, park swings, and Winchester range. The other concerns were Johnson's varieties, Hunt's rifle saloons, and throwing games, stalls, &c., by Messrs. Illingworth, Gellett, Duck, Harris, and local traders. An interesting feature of this fair was the showmen's service, held in Messrs. Tuby's Coliseum on the Sunday. Nearly two thousand persons took part in the service, which was conducted throughout by the vicar of Retford, the Rev. Canon Mumford. The hymn-singing was sustained by the "Stella" band, a local organisation of eighteen instrumentalists. The vicar has kindly consented to act as honorary local chaplain to the Showmen's Guild.

Guild subscription, 1908:—Mr. Bleackley, hon. member, Bury, 10s. 6d.; Mr. Bernard Hill, 5s.

Picturesque Hiring-fair.

Various quaint features characterised the old-fashioned Michaelmas hiring-fair at High Wycombe, Buckinghamshire. It is one of the very few fairs which are still held under the old conditions, and it continues to attract large numbers of agriculturists and labourers from different parts of Bucks, Berks, and Oxon. Many of the servants who assembled in the neighbourhood of the ancient Guildhall were picturesquely decorated for the occasion. Some wore huge button-holes, while others displayed distinctive emblems of their callings. Waggoners, for instance, displayed pieces of whipcord, shepherds tufts of wool, and ploughmen plaited horsehair. There was a good deal of animation about mid-day, when the major part of the hiring took place. Large numbers of the men make a rule of changing their situations at Michaelmas, and consequently there was a good supply of hands. Terms of remuneration did not show much alteration as compared with the rates prevailing twelve months ago. The pleasure portion of the fair, formerly held in the public streets, was once more relegated to a meadow in the vicinity of the town, and thousands of people were present from the countryside.

Elland Wakes.

For this village festival the following shows, machines, &c., were present:—Hitchen's Premier Picture Exhibition, with up-to-date films cleverly operated by J. Humphries, Hitchen's electric jumping horses; Seibon's flying airships, and Reynolds's motor-cars and bottle battery.

Woodstock Bower.

This celebrated fair was held under favourable conditions. The entertainments were Wilson's cinematograph theatre, Ayres's steam horses, Buckland's steam roundabouts, and the usual addenda of minor amusements.

Burton-on-Trent Hirings.

For the fair here the usual big crowd of high-class concerns foregathered:—Dr. Lawrence's cinematograph theatre, and the two similar shows of Messrs. A. Twigdon and A. Proctor, P. Collins's motor-cars, Mrs. Weir's steam horses, shooter, and games, Smart's shooting range and throwing games. The amusement caterers were Messrs. Charlton, Blond, Mercer, Proctor, James, Westrop, and others.

NOTTINGHAM GOOSE FAIR.

Every year when the great National Carnival comes round, for, indeed, Nottingham Fair is more than local and is truly a national event, there is always a breezy discussion in the Nottingham Press with regard to the wisdom or otherwise of continuing the fair. Some would-be reformer, with a daring pen, enters the lists to have a tilt at the fair. This year the usual battle of the pens has taken place. The would-be demolisher of "Goose" Fair expressed himself in the following terms:

"It is a singular thing that for three days in the year a large bulk of the community should be reduced to the level of, and rejoice in the amusements suitable to, the inmates of a lunatic asylum, and yet in our much-lauded city this is what really happens. There is no solid argument to be adduced in its favour, and yet year after year traffic is dislocated, trade upset, the centre of the city turned into a chaos for the solo purpose of serving up idiotic and trivial amusements to a section of the community who, at any rate for the time being, have lost their heads. Just after last Goose Fair I was talking to the son of a well-known and prominent Nottingham gentleman, and this worthy gave utterance to the following pithy sentence, 'You want to be half boozed to enjoy the fair.' He admitted that if you were in full possesion of your faculties the affair was a nuisance, and to thoroughly enter into its joys the less sense and reason you had the better. I quite agreed with the young gentleman.

"There is something to be said for the country 'wakes' and 'feasts'; there is a certain element of old-world romance about them, and they are held in healthy open spaces; but a huge, tawdry saturnalia in the centre of a busy town has nothing to recommend it. Never was a fair more aptly named. If the silly babies of Nottingham cannot do without their painted rattle let (as you suggest) the nursery be removed to Bulwell Forest. It will be well ventilated, and the city will be rid of an intolerable nuisance. Bulwellites and the golfers would welcome it with open arms, and the sensible residue of the population could, as far as sight and sound go, remain in happy ignorance of the fact that within a mile or two a considerable portion of their fellow-citizens were performing antics that would cause a respectable savage to gaze in wonder and astonishment."

The Local Defence of the Fair.

In answer to this tirade, the Editor of the Nottingham Daily Express thus replies: "Year by year as the fair comes round, it is attacked and voted a nuisance by a number of people; and the opinion is expressed that it is out of place in these enlightened days and ought to be abolished. But threatened men live long, and the old fair, although often assailed, still flourishes.

"It is too deeply rooted in the affections of the majority of Nottingham people to be lightly disturbed; and its continued popularity is seen in the great crowds which it attracts not only from the city itself, but from a wide radius outside. It is a time for family reunions, for natives of Nottingham who have left the city make a point of returning home for the fair. That it is an important date in the local calendar is evidenced by the frequency with which people say that 'such and such an event' happened just before or after Goose Fair, as the case may be. For the children the annual festival with its shows and wealth of toys is a delightful time—to be anticipated with pleasure for days beforehand and talked about for days afterward. It does one good to see how whole-heartedly the youngsters enjoy themselves. Many even among the 'grown-ups' are not averse to throwing off the usual restraint and participating in 'the fun of the fair'; and it is a joyful sight to see some staid citizen bestriding a fiery steed on a whirling roundabout. Possibly some of those who grumble at the fair find themselves at one time or other during the three days drawn into its vortex, and discover that they can, after all, have a good time."

For our own part, we have always maintained that the so-called defect of its quality, i.e., being held in the centre of a great city, is the greatest argument for its continuance and the greatest source of its abiding popularity. We hold the opinion that it is a good thing for a great trade or commercial centre to be obliged at least once a year to give itself up to other things and other enterprises than the sordid pleasure of money-grubbing; that it speaks volumes for the sanity, health, and prosperity of a great industrial centre, when trade and commerce, by the force of universal consent, is held up for a time that the workers may go out and play.

Examples of this kind are all too rare, and it is to the credit of great industrial communities like Oldham, Nottingham, Hull, and Gloucester that the municipalities recognise this necessity for surcease from toil for the workers, and co-operate with the people's amusement providers—the itinerant showmen—to make and to hold a fair that embodies all the best traditions of the past and all the improvements of the present.

The Fair, Past and Present.

'Twas Goose Fair cracked the merriest "wheeze,"
Where Babel's babble filled the breeze;
Glad Goose Fair's gambols oft would cheer
The country-side through half the year.

The title "Goose Fair," now almost universally given to Nottingham's historic pleasure fair, cannot be traced back more than four hundred years, and it is undoubtedly owing to the fact that large numbers of geese were driven there for sale from the stubble land of Nottinghamshire and from the Fen-land of both Lincoln and Cambridge. The first appearance of the words "Goose Fair" is in "The Nottingham Records," under date 1541, and runs as follows: "Particulars of the Chamberlain's Expenditure. Item, we demand allowans for xxij stalles yat the Sheryffes had on Gose Fair dey."

There are also some interesting records of a later date, as the following in 1634: "Scarlett gownes to walk the fayre. This companie are agreed that all the Aldermen and Cloathinge (livery) shall wayte on Maister Maior to walke the fayre on Saint Matthewes daye nexte, in their scarlet gownes; and this order, for the grace of the towne, to have contynewance for ever."

Of course, it goes without saying that the makers of history whose fertile imagination scorns the base alloy of actual fact have woven around Goose Fair many pretty stories, and one of them is worth repeating. "There was once upon a time a certain college don who was so dissatisfied with his experience of married life that he determined his only child, a boy, who had been motherless from infancy, should be kept from ever seeing (until his wisdom tooth was fully grown) deceitful womankind. When this period of safety had been reached the father took the full-fledged man to the fair, and instead of being utterly absorbed by the shows and other attractions of the fair, he was entirely amazed and overwhelmed with the charm and beauty of the women of Nottingham. The father and the son (according to the old ballad) have this dialogue. The youth says, as he gazed upon the beauties of Nottingham:—

"Oh, father! what are these?"
"Birds," said the Don, "they call them Geese!"
"Sweet, charming birds!" exclaimed the lad,
"If I had one I should be glad!
But see, they don't attempt to fly!
I'll go and catch one, father, should I?
We'll take it with us to our cell,
And I'll be bound to treat it well!"

George Hickling (the venerable poet of Cotgrave), in one of his local rhymes, thus described the fair of fifty years ago:—

We pass the Trent "bridges" and enter the town,
And straightway we haste to that place of renown—
The centre of tumult—the great market square,
With which in all England there's none can compare.

And thus soon warms to his subject:—

There's Wombwell's menagerie and Holloway's stage,
And all the most wonderful things of the age:
Fat pigs and fat children in plenty are there—
Descriptions of giants and of dwarfs rend the air.
Then there's Indian wars and Waterloo's battle,
Engagements in China and wonderful cattle;
There's "grand exhibitions" and high learned ponies,
And hares which perform, and astonishing conies;
Here your portrait is taken, and here you are weighed,
And here try your strength if a penny be paid.
"Tom-fools" and fine actors in glittering array
Exhibit their tinsel in beams of the day;
Then you see "Punch and Judy" at the turn of the street,
And jugglers and tumblers in plenty you meet.
Here's monkeys and donkeys, and animals funny,
And birds of fine plumage from lands which are sunny;
Here's an elephant huge that can "stand on his head,"
And a man eating fire as if it were bread.

Then down the bazaars we elbow our way,
And gaze on the gorgeous, the tempting display:
There's gingerbread husbands and gingerbread wives,
And fourpenny trumpets and sixpenny knives.

Its Increasing Popularity.

Probably nowhere else in the wide, wide world is the annual fair so great and all-absorbing an institution as it is at Nottingham. The official figures supplied by the Corporation will give some indication of the business importance to show-people and fair-ground traders of this immensely popular fair. Over 300 standings have been let for shows of all kinds, riding machines in endless variety throwing games, bazaars, pannum stalls, and the other numberless amusements of a popular fair.

The revenue to the city funds in tolls amounts to £1,500.

For three whole days the town is given over to the display and to the whole-hearted enjoyment of the fair. The vast area of the city market and various spaces in side streets are completely covered with the shows and other amusements provided by the enterprising itinerant entertainers. Traversing the heart of the town from east to west, from north to south, you make your way through long avennes and streets of stalls, and these in many instances are the enterprises of the shopkeepers, before whose very doors the stalls are erected. For the time being Cheapside, Long-row, Chapel Bar, Angel-row, South-parade, and Exchange-row are lined with the stalls of both travelling and permanent traders. As your train empties itself into the station you are immediately carried along in the great stream of your fellow-travellers, who have journeyed from all parts of England to Nottingham Goose Fair. At once you feel the power and attraction of the fair. Your pulse beats to the music and joy of it, and you find yourself speedily on the fair-ground and in the full swing and glorious abandonment of England's greatest open-air carnival.

The Pilgrims of the Fair.

All the great Trunk lines ran specials for the fair days. The Midland brought people from Leeds, Bradford, and the Yorkshire towns served by their system—Manchester, Liverpool, and the Lancashire area, the Derbyshire towns, and from Birmingham, Walsall, and Wolverhampton, Peterborough, King's Lynn, Stamford, Bristol, Cheltenham, and Gloucester, St. Albans, Luton, and Kettering, Bedford, Wellingborough, and Northampton, Lincoln, Newark, Leicester, Loughborough, Chesterfield, and Sheffield. The Great Central Railway had an excellent service of specials on their line, including the direct London to Nottingham, from Liverpool, Manchester, and big towns on their routes, with Cleethorpes, Hull, and the Eastern coast towns. From Sheffield and other Yorkshire towns the G.C. had to considerably strengthen their ordinary trains, and also ran a few trains in duplicate. The Great Northern Railway Company also brought crowds of sightseers from their territory. Special and strengthened ordinary trains from Hitchin, Peterborough, and Grantham; Luton, Hertford, and Bottesford; Louth and Horncastle; Boston, Billingborough, and Sleaford; Lynn, Holbeach, and Spalding; Birmingham, Wolverhampton, and Walsall; Halifax, Bradford, Leeds, Batley, and Wakefield; St. Ives and March; Yarmouth, Ipswich, and Lynn.

Another significant fact for the people eager to chant the requiem of popular fairs is that thousands more excursionists than last year's big total came into Nottingham to keep Goose Fair.

The Shows and Big Machine Novelties.

On the vast market square, where the fair is held, you may enjoy all the delights of a British fair under the very best conditions. Here are huge concerns of every kind, designed by the art of man for the delight of his fellows, each one a marvel in its own peculiar feature of attractiveness; you may ride electric motor-cars, circling round a fixed track that gives you all the exhilarating excitement of up hill and down dale rapid speeding without any of the attendant dangers of the way.

If your fancy flies high, you may be wheeled and whirled through the air in Japanese ships, whose astounding vagaries of motion test the courage and enterprise of the daring voyageur. You may career round the racecourse on galloping horses, you may feed your fancy full by riding a long-limbed ostrich in a Kaffir circus, or you may imagine yourself sweetly gliding on the waterways and lagoons of Venice in your own electric-driven gondola. If you are of a bucolic temperament you may ride your own racing cockerel, farmyard rooster, or rollicking porker, and last (if you like it so) you may enjoy a trip in a Chinese junk, or be carried skyward in steam yachts or airships. When you have fully enjoyed all these (or any of these) you may patronise England's premier menagerie—Wombwell's—or any of, or, better still, all of, the cinematograph theatres, each one the best of its kind and each different to the others. But what pen can describe this group of big shows, when we say that it includes such experts of the fair-ground as George Kemp, T. Payne, E. Lawrence, J. Proctor, A. Twigdon, and Mrs. F. Collins.

Freak shows are not allowed at the fair, but side shows of an attractive character are accommodated as far as space permits.

The machine novelties were provided by Messrs. P. and J. Collins, J. Whiting, A. Twigdon, Relph and Pedley, Holdsworth, A. C. Beech, Green, Hall, and Proctor, and others.

The photographic concerns were those of Messrs. J. Caddick and C. Warwick; and amongst the stallholders were W. Jennings, H. Sharp, the Brothers Warwick, and Mesdames Mulhearn, James, and Hall.

An application was made on Monday at Lambeth for a licence to enable a tiny little chap, said to be 13½ years of age, to appear at the Empire, Camberwell. The child had to be placed upon the solicitors' table for the magistrate to see him. His birth certificate was produced, and it was stated that he was exempt from school attendance, having passed the seventh standard. The Magistrate: Is he to look as old as possible or as young as possible? The Manager: As young as possible. The Magistrate: Then he will succeed. The licence was granted.

LONDON PAVILION "CINE-MATINEE."

"Cinematinée" is the name for a special kind of entertainment, which was inaugurated on Monday afternoon at the London Pavilion, and which it is proposed to continue every afternoon, Saturdays excepted. The programmes are to consist of exhibitions of Cinema animated pictures, produced with original effects, singing and talking pictures illustrated from current events of interest, specially taken for the purpose exclusively for the London Pavilion. The Gramophone Company has installed a new and elaborate instrument which, we are told, electrically reproduces the voices of the world's most famous singers. Thus, on Monday afternoon, the audience enjoyed the treat of hearing Mr. Harry Lauder singing "I love a lassie," and La Tortajada in "La Creola," both being at the same time pictorially represented on the screen with all the animation associated with their actual performances.

One of the most effective of the pictures shown bore the title, The Life and Death of Mary Stuart. This beautifully highly-cloloured hand-painted film had been secured specially for the London Pavilion, illustrating in a series of magnificent views the life and death of one of Scotland's foremost historical characters. So wonderfully are the scenes portrayed, the capture and escape of the ill-fated lady, her imprisonment, her trial, and, finally, her execution, that one can readily imagine the scene was actually taken at the period of the incidents depicted. The picture is historically correct, the various characters being portrayed by some of the greatest actors and actresses in France. The film itself cost many hundreds of pounds to produce, and is perhaps the most costly film that has ever been exhibited. How the Coster Sold the Seeds tells an amusing story. An enterprising coster tries to sell his seeds in the village, the inhabitants of which are ardent gardeners. He fails to impress them, and hands a good lot over to one man, saying that if they do not produce a record growth he will return the money. In the dead of the night he steals out to the patch where the seeds have been sown, puts in a number of young trees, bushes, and plants. Next morning, to the astonishment of the village, the seeds have grown. Our coster passes through again, and sells out his whole stock of seeds in a very short time.

Prospecting for Gold is of educational and topical interest. It is not often we have such a combination which at once appeals to every section of the community. Photographically, the film is as near perfection as could be desired. The atmospheric conditions in Egypt assisted Mr. H. S. Brown, the operator, who accompanied the expedition, and he has shown great ability in focusing the scenes to the best advantage. The procession of camels and men leaving Assuan makes a good start and we get a splendid panorama of scenery until the first stop, which shows the process of revictualling and overhauling the various loads. Incidents such as tracing a lost camel, the crossing of the desert, and the arrival at the camp, make interesting features of the journey. The work at the prospecting shaft seems primitive, but gives a perfect demonstration of the methods adopted to procure the precious metal. One of the most novel scenes is that of men drilling at the bottom of the shaft preparatory to blasting. The lighting of this section and the movements of the natives is particularly realistic. The crushing and panning show the slow process of obtaining the gold, and make a splendid finish.

Children of the East consists of a series of remarkable studies of Indian life and character. The camera first takes us to a typical Hindi village fair, where amusements of all kinds are in progress. We are introduced to frolicsome maidens who indulge in a variety of native dances, acrobats who perform fearsome feats of strength and daring, snake-charmers, war-dancers, and various other Oriental people. Then we get some highly interesting pictures of a herd of gigantic elephants—not the little twopenny-halfpenny elephants that we are accustomed to at English circuses, but real Indian monsters. The series terminates with some interesting and amusing scenes of domestic life amongst the ebony-hued children of the East.

In a Stone Quarry is a new Italian film which is one of the finest examples of high-class beautiful photography that has ever been produced in Italy, where it recently made a great sensation. Briefly, the story is of the adventures of a young journeyman who comes to a stone quarry seeking employment. He meets and falls in love with his employer's daughter and thus arouses the ire and anger of the superintendent, who also seeks the maiden's hand, but unsuccessfully. The superintendent, when he discovers that the maiden reciprocates the journeyman's love, forces a quarrel upon him, but their fellow-workmen separate them. A message arrives, instructing the foreman to proceed to inspect a stone quarry and to take a workman with him. He chooses the journeyman, planning a crafty scheme of revenge. Arriving at the quarry he forces the journeyman to descend a very dangerous shaft that he himself is afraid to descend. The journeyman descends, while the treacherous superintendent above cuts the rope to hurl him to his death. His escape from death, thrilling rescue, and the announcement of his betrothal to the owner's daughter complete a wonderful picture.

Nick Carter.—Nick Carter, the hero, proves himself to be a veritable tracker of criminals. The story deals with the adventures of a doctor, newly married, and wealthy, who is induced by an old hag to accompany her to a so-called "bad case." When the doctor arrives at the house—which proves to be a thieves' abode—he is seized, bound, and gagged. The thieves try to make him sign a document giving up his money to them. This, naturally, he refuses to do, and they resort to torture. In the meantime, the distracted wife, feeling something is wrong, seeks the service of Nick Carter. He disguises himself cleverly as the old hag, and, with two assistants, goes to the house where the doctor is imprisoned. He quite gulls the malefactors, and succeeds in freeing the doctor and capturing the gang.

Among other pictures exhibited are a comical subject, New Laid Eggs; a dramatic film, The Man in Overalls; and The Lady and the Lions.

The White City, Old Trafford.

This beautiful amusement park closed its second season on the 3rd inst., on which day the grounds were crowded—all the shows working at full pressure—giving the management further encouragement in their intention to open next spring with extra attractions.

Meantime the magnificent ballroom continues to be open under the direction of Mr. Tom Walton, and the popular skating rink also remains open daily during the winter under the management of Mr. L. C. Everett.

There is plenty of evidence to show that these grounds are fast growing in popularity, and that such entertainments as are provided there are to the taste of this rapidly-growing district.

It is claimed by the management that the "attendance this year ran enormously ahead of last year," and the experience of the working of the various shows enables a proper selection of the most popular for next season.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

SYDNEY, Sept. 1.—Mr. J. C. Williamson has made two changes during the week. At Her Majesty's Miss Margaret Anglin finished a brilliant season and left for Melbourne, Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch occupying the stage on the following night. In this dramatisation of the popular story the acute up-country American flavour is given by a company of imported artists, all perfect experts in the simple life depicted by the authors. Miss Ada Dwyer has the name-part, and nothing could possibly excel her deft handling of the "star optimist." The ingénue, Lovey Mary, falls to the lot of Miss Lottie Alter, a wise appropriation. The mature bride-to-be and wife, Miss Hazy, is Miss Helen Lowell's portion, and from her first entrance she is intensely amusing;; the vinegar-souled Mrs. Eichorn has Miss Helen Raymond as her bitter-tongued exponent; and our old favourite, Miss Jennie Reiffarth, depicts Mrs. Schultz as a ponderous German. Mr. John F. Webber gives a fine character-portrait of Mr. Stubbins. Mr. Wiggs has full justice done him by Mr. G. Bryant; and Mr. Joseph W. Smiley doubles the parts of Deputy Sheriff and stage-director. Miss Helene Raymond is Miss Lucy; and a host of other people play the parts allotted to them in London and America. The play is produced by arrangement with Liebler and Co., of New York, with Mr. Fred Meek as the firm's representative. Mr. J. C. Williamson has staged the idyll excellently well.

At the Theatre Royal, managed by Mr. Edward H. Major, The Red Mill is replaced by Peter Pan, with Miss Tittell Brune as Peter. Mr. Williamson has given us some beautiful scenery. Mr. Loring Fernie is Mr. Darling and the Pirate Captain; Mr. Edwin Lester gives a correct portrait of a Redskin Chief; with Miss Adele Kelly as the amorous Tiger Lily. Misses Rosie Fitzgerald, Ethel Phillips, and Florence Kelly, and Messrs. Phil Curtis, Fred Cambourne, and Maurice Dudley are in the cast; and Mr. Charles H. Weston gives a clever representation of the dog, Nana. Mr. L. B. Carleton directs, Mr. Maurice Dudley stage-manages, and Mr. George Leopold conducts the orchestra.

The Tivoli has a capital story-teller in Mr. Ted Kalman, a real reviver after a weary day at business. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meymott are a distinct success in their sketches. Mr. Meymott's father was a Sydney judge. Mr. Frank Rae, who has a phenomenal soprano voice, has "caught on" most firmly; Miss Nita Leete, an ever-welcome soprano, is always worth listening to; and Miss Mignonette Kokin is in her last week. The Miles-Stavordale Quintette, Austin Rudd, Galette's dogs and baboons; and Regan and Ryan are only a few of those engaged by Mr. Harry Rickards to delight his patrons.

West's Pictures had to vacate the Palace Theatre owing to its being otherwise appropriated, and will now be shown at the Town Hall on Saturday nights only.

The Bijou Picture Palace, erected opposite the Central railway station, was opened on the 29th with a fine series of biograph views. Mr. J. F. Gavin is the manager.

ROYAL ALBERT LICENCE.

Mr. H. H. Bodkin (instructed by Mr. James Turner) applied on Tuesday to the West Ham Town Council for the renewal of a music and dancing and stage-plays licence to Mr. Arthur Edward Green, of the Royal Albert Music Hall, Canning Town. Counsel said that last year the licence was held by a Mr. Hunt, but there were then difficulties which led to Mr. Hunt closing the house, and a few days before the renewal sessions the Judge of the Court of Chancery appointed Mr. A. E. Green as receiver and manager. The application for renewal of the licence to Mr. Green was made, and contemporaneously Mr. W. Maddams, the freeholder, put forward plans to alter and enlarge the hall. These were approved by the committee of the Council, which on Oct. 1 last year renewed the licence to Mr. Green on condition that the plans should be adhered to and the building carried out within eight months, and that no drinking-bars be provided in the auditorium.

The reason of the closing of the house by Mr. Hunt was that a considerable sum of money was needed to be spent on the house—about £1,000 for exits—and as the hall was a small one, the Council would appreciate that it would be overloaded with capital expenditure. Mr. Maddams, having this in view, prepared the plans which the Council's committee adopted, but he (Mr. Bodkin) was there now to say that that scheme had fallen through.

Mr. Maddams, who was seventy-six years of age, had been in negotiation with a Mr. Underwood to transfer his interests to a person who would have the capital and the business experience to carry on an undertaking of this kind, but those negotiations fell through. From time to time after that until this very week other negotiations had been going on between Mr. Maddams and various other people to carry out the scheme which the Council sanctioned last year, and now he was in a position to state that a firm and absolute contract had been entered into to take over the property and to let it for ninety-nine years. The deposit had been paid, all the parties were at one, and Mr. Maddams had acquired property at a cost of some thousands of pounds to make the necessary exits.

The plans being approved, there would be started immediately the process of taking over the interior of the hall and to fit it with the decorations (now lying in the hall) which had been taken from Mrs. Langtry's theatre (the Imperial) in London. The stage would be widened 10ft., and when the whole work was done West Ham would have the most beautiful music hall in the metropolitan district.

They had got a firm contract with Universal Amusement, Ltd., who would provide about half the capital, while Mr. Maddams would provide the remainder and also the land required. The hall would cost from £10,000 to £12,000, and he felt sure the Council would give very careful consideration to the application. The Council, after a sitting in camera about three-quarters of an hour, announced that the further consideration of the application would be adjourned for three weeks.

CHILDREN ON THE STAGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I quite agree with "Music Hall Manager" that no magistrate should be allowed to refuse a child a licence when the child's health is certified good and well cared for, and accompanied by a responsible person. To obtain a licence the Act (Employment of Children in places of amusement) demands certain formalities, and if these are furnished and it is shown that all the requirements of the law are in order, then I think it is poor law that permits a magistrate to refuse the licence for no apparent or expressed reason. The early stage experience, so well spoken of by Miss Ellen Terry and other well-known stars, is evidently to become a thing of the past, and the "academy artist" will replace the "natural artist," who got to the front by merit, not money.
—Yours faithfully, MANAGER.
Balham, S.W., Oct. 8, 1908.

The Munich Wagner performances, it is said, have resulted in a deficit of about £5,000, in addition to which the municipality had paid a subvention of £3,000 in advance.

FILM GOSSIP.

Showmen and Managers throughout the United Kingdom, and in every English-speaking country, will find in this column particulars of some of the best and newest Films in the Market. Many of these Films we have seen ourselves, and can confidently recommend showmen to add them to their list of attractions.

Pathé Frères.

A Virtuous Young Man.—This film gives us several comical scenes. A young fellow from the country arrives in the city with a note from his father to an old friend, in which the parent states that the youth is about to be married, and as he is far from being up in the ways of the world, desires to have him remain in town for a while and learn something of city ways. When the young man, who is an awkward, supercilious individual, arrives at the home of the friend, he is received very cordially by the man and his charming wife. The young fellow shows at once that he has a very keen eye for beauty and is strongly impressed with his hostess. In the next picture we see the host taking the young fellow out to show him the sights. They arrive at a café and are enjoying some refreshments, when two pretty girls at the next table carry on a flirtation with him, but the youth is too timid to make any advances, so finally the girls take sole possession of him, and lead him away from his friend. He escapes, but they pursue him and overtake him sitting on a bench in the park, and after relieving him of his watch and money they let him trot along. He hurries back to the home of his friend, and finds the wife alone, and she, being rather attracted by his demure and winning ways, makes him sit on the couch with her, and soon they are having a very pretty little love scene, when, to their horror, in walks the enraged husband. He immediately proceeds to give his guest a good beating. After kicking him all over the house, he sits down and writes a note to his father, telling him that he is returning his son after one day's stay in town, for he has graduated with honours, and could even give him points now. He then starts the young man on his way home with a kick.

Aunt Sally's Outing.—At the fair the showman puts up his marionettes, with their red and smiling faces, and drops off to sleep. Being careful that he should not wake up while they are jumping over the counter, those grimacing figures mean to have an outing, and a good time at that. They all go together, huddled in a heap, for they are afraid of losing their way, and all the people in the fair look at them in mild surprise. First they go to the cinematograph show and the wooden bride amuses itself so much that it nearly goes over the balcony in front, while the bridegroom and the best man do their best to keep it back. Afterwards the whole party has a try at tobogganing, and some of them challenge the athletes and weight-lifters. After trying their skill at a neighbouring Aunt Sally show, the puppets come back to the booth and take their respective places again. The showman wakes up, rubs his eyes, and sees that all his little people are there, and he is pleased to know that no one is missing.

Impossible to Lunch.—The Openair family have been thinking for a long time about having a right good time in the country and a lunch on the grass. On a fine morning they start very early, laden with victuals. They spread out their eatables on the lawn just outside a large manufacturing town, and are happy in the anticipation of a whole day in the fresh air. The keeper comes up and politely orders them to withdraw from the privately-owned property which they had thought was the common. Of course, they have to pack up again and depart. This time they take a table outside a restaurant, but a cyclist running right into them upsets them and their belongings. The Openair family gather up the remainder of their goods and chattels and this time take possession of an abandoned hut in the wood, but a tramp, on lighting his pipe, sets fire to the dry grass outside, and in a few minutes the poor people inside the hut have to struggle for their lives out of the smoke and fire. They think that they will be safe in a small boat to finish their lunch; but a sailing boat makes for them, and in no time their small craft is cut in two by the larger vessel. Wet, tired, untidy, hungry, &c., the members of the Openair family come home, and swear never to attempt such an impossible thing as enjoying a day in the country again.

A Sicilian's Revenge.—It is amongst the magnificent scenery of the wild and imposing mountains of Sicily that we must go now to see two fishermen, Peppo and Matteo, courting pretty Marcita. But as the girl decides in favour of Peppo her rejected suitor thinks he has been slighted, and he follows Marcita when she goes to see her lover, and the moment she is alone he jumps forward and kidnaps her. Attracted by the noise, Peppo comes back, and sees a heavy cart disappearing round a corner of the road. He runs distractedly to the house of his beloved, and in a few words acquaints her father with the fact; then, taking short cuts, they soon overtake the cart, which they take by storm. Whilst the old man cuts the ropes which bind his daughter, Peppo has a hand-to-hand fight with Matteo; but Marcita, when free, slips behind the latter, and stabs him with her dagger.

Charles Urban Trading Co., Ltd.

Mr. Wilbur Wright's Aeroplane Flights.—By arrangement with Mr. Wilbur Wright, the celebrated aeroplanist, the Urban Company has obtained the exclusive right for kinematographic reproduction of his very interesting flights at Camp d'Auvours, near Le Mans—a most unique film, representing the Wright aeroplane in all its aspects, suspended, at rest, and in full flight. These views were not taken surreptitiously, but under the most favourable conditions, and from the best points of view, giving, consequently, perfect results.

The order of the pictures shows the Wright aeroplane emerging from its shed, the airship wheeled on a trolley to Camp d'Auvours, Mr. Wilbur Wright examining and testing the motor, a close view of the airship, its propelling gear, and its inventor, and a capital portrait of Mr. Wright as he makes ready for flight. Then we witness the start. There is a swift run along the rail, a slight ascent, and a dash into the distance at the rate of forty miles an hour. The airship now takes wide circles, soaring over the tops of trees, turning with the ease and grace of a bird, and answering to every touch of the guiding hand. A close view of the aeroplane in flight is afforded as Mr. Wright steers direct for the camera, and the descent is accomplished with equal ease and grace. The concluding scene depicts the aeroplane being towed back by motor to its hall.

The Balkan States and Bulgaria.—For some time past the Urban Trading Company has been engaged upon pictures of the Balkan States—a new issue, of course—and these are now completed and ready for exhibition at a most opportune time, when the eyes of the whole world are centred upon what is happening in the Near East. The first series depicts the Bulgarian Army in being, and presents a spirited display of all arms of the service. The second shows the disputed Oriental railway, the original cause of the present trouble, and affords panoramic views of Tirnova, the ancient capital of Bulgaria. The third section deals comprehensively with Bosnia, Herzegovina, and Dalmatia, the States recently annexed by the Austrian Government. The habits and customs of the people and the picturesque scenery of the different neighbourhoods are fully illustrated in this delightful series, which should enjoy a wide popularity.

Wifey's Strategy.—It is breakfast time, and the first quarrel is caused between the loving couple by the wife's attempts at biscuit-baking. To prove the impossibility of eating the biscuit the husband breaks a plate. The upshot is that before leaving for business he threatens to engage a cook. Being a clever amateur, wifey decides not to be outdone, so, getting the address of a servants' agency, she plots with the manager to score one. Disguised as a Swedish servant, she is interviewed by her husband, who has just gone through exciting adventures with cooks of all nations—pugilistic and otherwise—and, after exchanging references, she is engaged. In accordance with arrangements, the new cook is met by hubby, who gets her home after a hard tussle with her numerous goods and chattels. Upon arrival home he finds a note left by his wife, saying: "Have tried to please, but it seems hopeless. I won't stay with another woman in the house. Gone to mother's." The receipt of this loving epistle so unnerves the poor man that he immediately goes to drown his sorrows in drink. Cook follows the example set, with the result that, when ordered to clear the table, she gets slightly confused, turning dishes, ornaments, bric-à brac, &c., into the dishpan, after emptying the dishwater over the master of the house. Cook and master now meet in the kitchen. He exercises his authority, and orders her out of the house. Now the fun increases, for the cook turns a pan of flour over him and puts some grease on the stove. The smoke thus raised causes the man to call an alarm of fire. Returning to the kitchen, he objects to the cook drinking, and in endeavouring to get hold of her bottle pulls off her wig. Seeing the joke, he is just embracing the wife, when the firemen enter and deluge them.

Ingomar, the Barbarian.—Myron, an armourmaker, and father of Parthenia, the heroine, sets out on a journey to sell his wares, but is captured by a barbarian tribe, whose chief is Ingomar. The capture is seen by a friendly fisherman, Lykon, who carries the news with all speed to Myron's family. In making an effort to release her father Parthenia learns of the ransom demanded, but fails to raise the necessary amount. Nothing daunted, she sets out to seek her father's captors, and is captured on the road. When brought before Ingomar her bravery compels his admiration, in spite of the fact that he looks upon women as slaves. She is held as hostage whilst her father is released to seek the ransom. A change now comes over Ingomar, his admiration turning to love for Parthenia. The barbarians, fearing to lose their chief, abduct Parthenia, but, coming to her rescue, Ingomar accepts her as his share of the spoils, and forsakes his tribe to escort her home. Arriving in Messalia, Ingomar is coldly greeted, and mischief is made by a hoary-headed villain—Polydor by name—a one-time suitor of Parthenia's. She refuses to listen to his protestations of love, and Polydor leaves, vowing vengeance. We next find him as the purchaser of Myron's debt, when, demanding immediate settlement, as Myron has not the wherewithal to satisfy his demands Polydor claims father and family as his slaves. The barbarian, not understanding such "civilised" methods, wants to kill Polydor; but upon receiving an explanation from Parthenia he offers himself and is accepted in their stead. Learning this, the barbarians, believing Ingomar to be held against his will, besiege the city; and, panic ensuing, it is left to Ingomar to appear as leader and save the city. The result of this is that Polydor is driven out of the city, Ingomar succeeding in winning Parthenia and being acclaimed Governor.

France and Germany on the Bioscope.—Apropos of the international "incident" at Casa Blanca, it is interesting to note that the Empire is now showing on the Bioscope some very interesting pictures of French and German manœuvres, in which the soldiers of the two nations are shown in alternate pictures. In order to render the nationalities clear to the observer two distinct colours have been introduced—yellow indicating the French forces and blue the German. The picture concludes with a fine view of the German Emperor and his staff watching the "battle" from a hill. General de Lacroix, of the French army, is seen observing a reconnoitre.

Nordisk Films Co.

Sherlock Holmes.—Raffles, the master-thief, who is able to move about in high society just as easily as amongst the lowest criminals, has been ordered by "the king of criminals," Moriarty, to steal a valuable necklace from Lady John Bedford. Lady Bedford's chambermaid and her sweetheart, Crousy, have, however, also formed a scheme, according to which they, too, were going to steal the necklace. Accidentally both parties meet in Sir John's antechamber during the night after a party in which Raffles had been the guest of the house. The thieves commence fighting, but Raffles gains the victory and secures the booty, and is thanked and honoured for having captured Crousy, who is taken to prison. But the pearls are not found in Crousy's possession, and the assistance of Sherlock Holmes is requisitioned. After a conversation with Raffles, Holmes knows who is the thief. A message is sent to the police-station asking for a warrant, Raffles realises that he is found out, and writes a note to Moriarty asking him to make away with Sherlock Holmes. Sherlock Holmes arrives at Raffles' smartly-furnished home, attended by two police officers. Raffles escapes through a clock, which is connected with the adjoining room through the wall. While travelling by train to a port with the intention of leaving England, Raffles is discovered by Holmes and duly arrested, after an exciting fight. The other criminals decide upon revenge. In Moriarty's cellar a scheme is laid for the destruction of Sherlock Holmes. Dr. Watson, Holmes's friend, and the boy Billy are sent for under different pretences, and Moriarty himself is to settle Sherlock Holmes for ever in the great detective's own room. Eventually, covered by Holmes's revolver, the king of criminals is arrested, and Holmes falls down exhausted, having now fulfilled the greatest work of his life.

The Gaumont Company.

The Gaumont Company are to be envied their monopoly of Harry Lauder for living picture purposes. The great comedian is humorous under all circumstances, and the snapshots secured of him by this company in various phases of everyday life are among the most genuinely interesting on their list. This week they have issued Harry Lauder Leaves for America, which opens with a view of the artist's flower-covered motor-car, preceded by several Highland pipers, and surrounded by well-wishers, entering Euston Station. Dismounting, Harry is next seen at the door of his compartment, which is surrounded by a surging crowd all anxious for a handsake. Following this we get a remarkable picture of Lauder and his agent, Mr. George Foster, at lunch in the special saloon reserved for the comedian in the Liverpool train—a picture of wonderful quality considering the difficulties of lighting. At Liverpool further interesting views are given of the procession, still headed by pipers, proceeding to the gangway, Lauder with his wife standing close to the operator, affording an opportunity for a large scale photograph which has been well utilised. On deck a further interesting picture shows the hero of the occasion, who wears a Highland costume, rendering a solo on the bagpipes, and the film concludes with a picture of the Lusitania steaming out of harbour. Despite occasional patches of indifferent quality, due to the wretched conditions of light prevailing when most of the scenes were taken, the film is, on the whole, one of the most striking issued for a long time, and well deserves the success practically assured it.

LONDON HIPPODROME OUTING.

There were two extra saloons on the train that left Victoria at 9 o'clock last Sunday morning for Dorking, and both were labelled "Hippodrome." It was not an innovation of the L.B. and S.C. Railway in providing a travelling theatre for their patrons, as might at first be supposed, but merely special accommodation placed at the disposal of Mr. Fred Trussell, the London Hippodrome manager, for the convenience of his staff travelling to Dorking, en route to Wootton Hatch, there to have a day's jollification.

One or two missed the train—the morning was foggy—but got down by a later one. Brakes were waiting at Dorking to convey the party the four intervening miles to Dan Dibble's "Hatch." Now midway there is a lovely bit of Surrey scenery round about the Rookery, and Mr. Trussell called a halt for the party to view it. The Hippodrome manager having to mark the ground at the hotel for the afternoon's sports could not accompany the party through some more delightful uplands, so after giving elaborate directions to Mr. Will A. Bennet, the Press agent, as to the route through wood and dell to Wootton Hatch, and promising to meet them at a given spot, Mr. Trussell drove away.

The morning was sunshiny and hot, and the ladies and gentlemen thoroughly enjoyed the scenery and the ramble—for a time. But the field paths and stiles to be crossed seemed never ending, and, the ladies complaining of feeling tired, the guide's face presently wore a worried look. On the programme luncheon was scheduled for 1 o'clock. Noonday had passed, and there was still no sign of the "Hatch." Not a living creature or habitation had been passed, and it dawned on all that the way was hopelessly lost. But Providence was good, for a very small boy, munching a very large apple, came in sight, and after a good deal of persuasion and bribing agreed to pilot the party to its destination. More woods, more fields, more stiles, and the weary wanderers reached Wootton just in time for luncheon. Although everyone thoroughly enjoyed the walk, it might have turned out an awkward adventure.

The two star turns of the sports programme were undoubtedly the one-mile handicap and the cricket match—Mr. Fred Trussell's XI. v. Mr. H. C. Wild's XI. The former was won in splendid style by a young lad named Rice, whose supremacy was contested every inch of the way by Mr. Alexander.

The cricket match was remarkable for the tenacity with which Mr. Trussell kept his wicket up from the first to the last ball delivered, and the bowling of Mr. Will Bennet, both gentlemen being in the winning team. Mr. Wild's team was dismissed for 32 runs, and Mr. Trussell's team scored 34 without the sacrifice of a single wicket.

The following is a list of the sporting events and the winners thereof:—

100-Yards Race.—Alexander, 1; Thompson, 2.

Thread-needle Race.—Darville, 1; Barnes, 2.

Three-Legged Race.—Thompson and Alexander, 1; Rice and Thomas, 2.

One-Mile Race.—Rice, 1; Alexander, 2; Cane, 3.

Egg-and-Spoon Race (Ladies).—Sandford, 1; Hubbock, 2.

Heavy-weight Race (over 15st.).—Thompson, 1; Harris, 2.

Girls' 100-Yards Race.—Darvill, 1; Laws, 2.

Quarter-Mile Handicap.—Rice, 1; Goodyer, 2.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Mr. John Drew began his annual engagement at the Empire Theatre on the 14th inst., appearing in Mr. W. Somerset Maugham's three-act comedy Jack Straw, which proved to be a most suitable vehicle for this past-master of all the arts of light comedy, and was received with emphatic approval by a crowded house. It was a long time since Mr. Drew had appeared in any sort of make-up, and to see him with a French beard and dressed as a waiter at a fashionable hotel was a surprise indeed. His unwonted appearance caused a titter, and put the audience in a good humour at the start. Then there was cause for rejoicing in the fact that the comedy not only contained a delightful rôle for Mr. Drew, but served to re-introduce an old-time favourite to Broadway playgoers in the person of Miss Rose Coghlan, who made a distinct hit as Mrs. Parker-Jennings. Miss Coghlan played the ambitious bourgeoise to the life, and divided the acting honours with Mr. Drew. Their comedy scenes together were hugely enjoyed by the audience, the infectious humour of the piece provoking no end of laughter and applause. Miss Mary Boland as Ethel was charming; Mr. Frank Goldsmith gave a capital impersonation of Lord Serio; Lady Wanley was well played by Miss Adelaide Prince; and Mr. Parker-Jennings was ably represented by Mr. Fred Tyler. The comedy made an excellent impression, and bids fair to be as successful here as it has been in London. It is highly probable that two plays from Mr. Maugham's pen will be running in New York simultaneously, as Lady Frederick, with Miss Ethel Barrymore in the title-rôle, will be produced here very shortly.

"What Happened Then," a "musical fantasy," by Austin Strong and Edward Corliss, was produced at His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal, on the 14th inst. Mr. De Wolf Hopper was at the head of the company, and important parts were played by Miss Toby Claude and Mr. Dallas Welford. According to the local newspapers, Mr. Hopper has a big success on his hands, his performance of the rôle of the Pied Piper of Hamelin being warmly praised. The story of the play tells what happened after the Pied Piper failed to receive his pay from the burgomaster of Hamelin for piping all the rats out of the town. It seems he played again on his pipes and lured all the children of the place into the mountains, where he established the City of Innocence. The action is supposed to occur fifty years hence, and the afore-mentioned city to be three hundred years old. In his efforts to obtain a mate for the heroine of the story, the one little girl left over on the "general wedding day," the piper pipes to the Innocent City not only an eligible Duke, but three servants of the latter, dreadful creatures who attempt to corrupt the city and kill the Pied Piper. With the assistance of many magical and fairy creatures this awful disaster is averted, and the spirit of romance preserved. There are said to be seventy-four speaking characters, three beautiful scenes, and elaborate mechanical effects. The seven-league boots, the casks containing the forty thieves, and other incidents and characters from the old familiar nursery tales are introduced.

"School Days," a sketch that enjoyed a long term of popularity at the vaudeville houses, has been lengthened into a three-act musical play, and in its new form has been produced at the Circle Theatre, where it is now playing to large audiences. The book is by Aaron Hoffman, the lyrics by Edward Gardenier and Vincent Bryan, and the music by Gus Edwards, the well-known song composer. There are forty girls and boys in the cast, the majority of them being between the ages of sixteen and twenty. Miss Janet Priest, a diminutive comedienne, has a prominent part; and Miss Hazel Cox sings the prettiest number in the piece, "Maybe it's a bear," in which she is the centre of a group of frightened children in nightdresses. The games and tricks played by the youngsters in the school-yard and an examination in the class-room, which elicits a number of nonsensical answers, are depicted in a lively and entertaining manner. The music is melodious and catchy, and the piece just suits the large percentage of playgoers who like something with lots of "go" in it.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Mr. Israel Zangwill, who arrived here last week, has gone to Washington to superintend the production of his new play The Melting Pot at the Columbia Theatre on Oct. 5. It was in Washington that Mr. Zangwill's first play, The Children of the Ghetto, was first produced in America about nine years ago. Since then he has given us Merely Mary Ann and other successful plays. The Melting Pot touches on the immigration problem and expresses some of Mr. Zangwill's ideas as to how this problem may best be solved. It is a play of cosmopolitan New York, wherein are fused all the nationalities of the earth—hence the title. Two of the scenes are laid in the Borough of Richmond, or Staten Island, across the bay from Manhattan, and reached in twenty minutes by the ferry-boats; and the others in an "east side" settlement house. All of the characters save one are foreigners. The central character is a young Russian Hebrew student and musician named David Quixano, who has come to the United States after his parents have been murdered at Kishineff. At his uncle's house on Staten Island he works upon a wonderful epic opera that is to symbolise all that is best in America. Before this he has met a young woman, Vera Ravendal, who teaches at a settlement-house on the lower east side. She is herself a Russian, who escaped after her revolutionary propaganda had brought her under the notice of the Russian police. Quincy Davenport, jun., the son of a wealthy man and a friend of Miss Ravendal, brings to the settlement-house the leader of his own private orchestra to look over David's composition. Davenport discovers that Miss Ravendal has fallen in love with David, and brings the Baron and Baroness Ravendal, Vera's father and stepmother, to New York in an effort to put a stop to the affair. The father is horrified to discover that his daughter is in love with a Hebrew, but is about to make the best of it when David recognises the Baron as "the butcher of Kishineff." This, for a time, makes the marriage of David and Vera an impossibility; but the difficulty is solved ere the curtain falls, and the play ends happily. Mr. Walker Whiteside, who has been chosen by Mr. Zangwill to play the principal part in his new drama, is a Westerner, whose reputation as an actor of Shakespearean rôles has been made outside of New York, in which city he seldom appears. Other well-known players in the cast are Miss Chrystal Herne, Messrs. John Blair, Henry Bergman, and Grant Stewart.

"Father and Son," a new American play in four acts, by Edgar Selwyn, has been well received at the Majestic Theatre, and Mr. William Norris, whose comical capers have made us laugh many a time and oft in musical comedy, has shown his versatility by appearing in characters quite different from those which he has been wont to represent. He impersonates "Doc" Filkins, a veterinary surgeon practising in a small manufacturing town in New Jersey, where the residents consider themselves quite up to date. Filkins has a fondness for aphorisms, and is regarded as the local sage, even though he is somewhat erratic and has the name of being a little queer at times. He has adopted a boy named Billy, the child of a woman he once loved, and has reared him as his own son. There comes a time, however, when Billy learns the truth about himself, and when he discovers that Filkins is not his real father he proceeds to sow wild oats with a generous hand. He has fallen in love with Grace Gardner, whose uncle, Arthur Welby, is a rich millowner, and as Billy is only one of the hands, of course it won't do at all. So Welby, to show him how useless his suit is, tells him that he is not the son of "Doc" Filkins—that his antecedents, in fact, are somewhat shady. Billy is a high-spirited boy, and the disclosure hits him hard. He goes on strike with the rest of the hands, and when they draw lots and it falls to him to set fire to the works, he is quite willing. But Billy is caught, and his foster-father has to exert himself to save the lad from being sent to gaol. He not only does this, but, thanks to the village gossip, discovers that the proud Welby is the boy's real father. Then the two men join hands in giving Billy a fresh start. The scenes are laid in "Doc" Filkins's cottage, the post office, and Welby's home. All the parts are well played, the cast including Messrs. John Westley, George C. Staley, Herbert Corthell, Misses Madeleine Louis, Marion Abbott, Georgie Lawrence, and Alice Gale.

"Mater," an American comedy in three acts, by Percy Mackaye, was produced by Mr. Henry Miller at the Savoy Theatre on the 25th inst. It was admirably acted, the principal characters being represented by Miss Isabel Irving, Mr. Charles A. Stevenson, and Mr. Frederick Lewis, and made a decided hit. The time is the present, and the place a small city. The story, which may be described as whimsical, deals with the political ambitions of a young man of twenty-two and the part played by his mother in helping him to realise them. The mother proves the shrewder politician of the two, and leads him to victory in an election when his own methods and impulses would have carried him to certain defeat. "Mater," as her son calls her, is a Mrs. Dean, a woman of forty-five with the manners and appearance of a girl. She is the widow of a man who made his mark in the United States Senate. Her son Michael is a candidate for an important office, and he is filled with lofty notions of the duty he owes to himself and his country. He declares that he will be one man free from the taint of corruption; that he will follow in the footsteps of his father, who he believes to have been a politician without a stain. "Mater" lets him know, however, that by various subterfuges she assisted in promoting her husband's political fortunes, and that after each rash act in his behalf the senator was wrathful, only to turn around in the end and "make-up" with his wife. Michael is uncompromising in his attitude towards the Hon. Arthur Cullen, a political "boss," who happens to be a susceptible bachelor. This attitude of his means that Michael has no chance of election, Cullen being conscienceless and tricky. So, in spite of her son's wishes, "Mater" makes an ally of Cullen by leading him into a flirtation. Michael is elected, but when he learns the truth he repudiates his mother and threatens to resign his office. But he finally arrives at his mother's way of thinking, and agrees that hers was a commonsense way to win a political fight. All of which indicates that the play is a sort of satire on ideal politics, and as such it should appeal very strongly to those who hold that all politicians are "tarred with the same brush."

Many friends will be pleased to know that Mrs. Charles Warren and her little son are doing well.

"Pigs in Clover," Mr. John Lawson's latest production, has scored an instant success, and will be seen at the Canterbury and Euston next week. Mr. Oswald Stoll has selected this episode for his London halls.

Messrs. Witmark's striking piece "The Teddy Bears' Picnic," by John W. Bratton, composer of "The Mosquitoes' Parade," is likely to be in greatest request among grotesque and fantastic dancers in pantomime.

At the Paragon during the week Miss Frances Letty's powerful voice has been heard to the greatest advantage in her new song, which Mr. David Day's firm has secured, entitled "Have your ears burned, Mr. Jackson?" It is written and composed by Percy Edgar.

The Viviana Company's dainty and amusing dancing scena, entitled The Toy Shop, created quite a sensation at the Jersey Opera House. The two girls who appear as dolls are a particularly pleasing and shapely pair, whose piquant and delicate dancing nightly provoked a perfect furore.

Manager E. J. Dexter (late of Dundee), after seeing The Collar Stud at Carlisle last year, remarked that "the sketch was fit to top the bill of any music hall." The management of the New Hippodrome, Rotherham, will doubtless endorse this opinion, for this most original of all of Messrs. Muir and Bartlett's comedies is packing their house nightly, Wednesday's business creating a record.

There was a good deal of excitement on Westminster Bridge, on Monday, due to the behaviour of a performer who rejoices in the name of Jack Sheppard, and who has adopted the title of "the handcuff king." The performer, who cannot swim a stroke, jumped from the bridge into the river loaded down with manacles. On rising to the surface he threw up his arms, and was hauled into a boat in waiting for him. The dive was said to be the outcome of a £250 wager.

Mr. Austin Fryers writes :—"In the report of the liquidation of the Thespian Syndicate, to whom I sublet Hengler's Circus for certain periods, it is stated that under this lease the syndicate acquired the right to run wrestling. As a matter of fact, I expressly barred wrestling, believing strongly that such an exhibition is quite unsuitable for a place of amusement where children are specially catered for. It was on the urgent plea of the syndicate to permit wrestling that I conceded the privilege, not wishing to oppose what they believed would result in financial gain. Wrestling, in any shape or form, will find no place in the programme I present at Hengler's."

MR. FRED MILLER'S TESTIMONIAL.

The excellent qualities of Mr. Fred Miller, as a man, as a sportsman, and as a manager, are generally recognised by all branches of the profession, and no artist or proprietor who has ever come into contact with him has failed to recognise his sterling honesty of purpose, or to be impressed by his unobtrusive courtesy and consideration to everyone working with him. For fifteen years Mr. Miller has been associated with the halls, and though the sphere of his activity for most of that time has been restricted to the South and East of London, his connection with the Syndicate has brought him much popularity up West. Several of his friends, taking into consideration his long and honourable career, feel that the present time is very opportune for presenting him with a testimonial, which it is intended shall take the shape of a purse of gold. Mr. W. H. Armstrong, the well-known professional solicitor, of 1, Renfrew-road, Lambeth, is interesting himself in the project, and Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, manager of The Era, is the hon. treasurer of the fund, and will be pleased to receive subscriptions.

It was at Lechlade, Gloucestershire, that Mr. Fred Miller first saw the light. His father, an influential grazing farmer, was an enthusiastic rider to hounds, and from the age of twelve young Fred followed his father in the field, and in many an eventful run was in the first flight. At the age of seventeen he accepted an offer from an uncle in the cattle trade, and settled down with him at Wormholt Farm, Shepherd's Bush, where he gained considerable experience and became a good business man. The death of his uncle brought about a change in his fortunes, and he accepted a situation as travelling secretary with Captain Macdonald. Again his employer died, and he had to try fresh fields and pastures new. Through the instrumentality of the late Mr. Harry Lundy, distantly related to him through marriage, Mr. Miller was introduced to Mr. George Adney Payne, who gave him the position of secretary to Mr. Arthur Tressidder, then manager of the Paragon. On Mr. Tressidder's departure on a voyage in search of health Mr. Miller was transferred to Mr. Will Lennon, the successor of Mr. Tressidder at the Paragon. At his death Mr. G. A. Payne chose Mr. Miller for the managership of the house in the Mile End-road, and on the resignation of Mr. Fred Holden of his position at the Canterbury Mr. Miller was installed as manager of both the Canterbury and the Paragon.

The jubilee of the Canterbury in November, 1902, when Charles Morton paid his last visit to a house that was indelibly associated with his career, owed its interest and its success to the organising powers of Mr. Miller, who placed before the patrons of the historic house a novel realisation of the present and past in music-hall entertainment. The portraits of favourites of the 'sixties, the 'seventies, and the 'eighties were thrown upon a screen, and many of the famous old songs were sung by new favourites. It was a great night. Though Mr. Miller has severed his connection with the Canterbury, it is to be hoped that he will be placed in a position commensurate with his abilities and experience at another hall. His many friends anticipate that it will be in London.

Mr. Kendall Robinson, a staunch friend of Mr. Fred Miller, in sending a contribution to this Fund, testifies as follows :—"I have much pleasure in enclosing cheque for one guinea for the Miller Testimonial. I have known Mr. Miller for many years. Uniformly warm-hearted and open-handed, his kindnesses and 'good turns' to large numbers of those who were brought in contact with him at the Paragon and Canterbury can only have been limited by his physical capacity for doing them."

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT BULMER,
The Empire, Liverpool.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT MITCHELL,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. J. CHRISTIE,
Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

PANTOMIME PLEASANTRIES.

In Time] of Peace prepare for—

DO YOU WISH TO MAKE A SUCCESS IN PANTOMIME.

Display your wisdom and intelligence by coming to

THE FOUNTAIN HEAD OF MELLIFLUOUS MELODIES.

Songs of all Kinds and Conditions to suit

All Characters and Pantomime Situations.

The sure fire Pantomime hit will be

"WAY DOWN IN COLON TOWN."

For novelty, melody and originality this charming number has never been equalled. If you have not heard it make haste and do it—Go to the Chelsea Palace next week and hear

"WAY DOWN IN COLON TOWN."

Sung by Mr. ANDIE CAINE.

Have you heard the new Tenor Mr. ARTHUR HICKMAN sing

"FAR AWAY SOMEONE THINKS OF YOU TO-NIGHT."

A positive furore at the Grand, Clapham.

Did you hear Mr. WILL DILLON sing

"PLAYTIME"

at the Oxford and Tivoli.

A chorus number which lingers in the memory.

No Pantomime can afford to be without it.

All of our sanguine prophecies have been realised by the enormous success made by Miss LIL HAWTHORNE with

"JUST SOME ONE."

The present rage of America. The coming Christmas chorus song.

The comic song for the mirth-provoker—

"EVERYBODY KNOWS IT'S THERE."

with extra verses, by Mr. EDGAR BATEMAN.

And still another chorus number—

"YOU CAN'T STOP YOUR HEART FROM BEATING FOR THE GIRL YOU LOVE."

THE BOY WHO STUTTERED AND THE GIRL WHO LISPED.

An absolute sensation as sung by MISS LIL HAWTHORNE.

An immense success wherever sung.

NOTE.—Miss Lil Hawthorne has the exclusive singing rights for Music Halls of "The Boy who Stuttered and the Girl who Lisped" and "Just Some One."

Titles of Pictures:—The Bridge of Galata and Bosphorus—In the Streets of Constantinople—The Crowd Cheering the New Era of Liberty. 379ft. The Subject, £6 6s. 4d.

In view of the threatened Crisis now pending in the Near East, the above Films are proving of great interest, and Showmen and Managers should insist upon same being included in their programme.

THIS WEEK'S NOVELTIES.

A VIRTUOUS YOUNG MAN.

Code Word, "ETUDE."

A young fellow from the country arrives in the the city with a note from his father to an old friend, stating that as he is not well up in the ways of the world, his father wishes him to remain in town for some time before his marriage. The young fellow goes with his new friend to different places of entertainment, and at a coffee-house two pretty girls try to flirt with him; but he is so bashful that he runs away from them, and after several adventures he comes back to the house of his friend, where he finds the lady alone. She is so kind to him that he loses his shyness, and when the husband comes back he witnesses a love scene, which makes him send the young man back to his father with a kick.

610ft. The Subject, £10 3s. 4d.

HER FLOWERS.

Code Word, "EXCUSE."

Magnificent flowers appear suddenly on the screen, and form artistic and varied bouquets in the hands of the beautiful magician.

478ft. The Subject, £7 19s. 4d. Colouring extra, £4 15s.

POOR DOGGIE.

Code Word, "FARANDOLE."

A stray poodle, living only on the bones and refuse it finds in the streets, and driven away by house porters, looks at every passer-by in the hopes of finding in him a new master; all in vain. At last a lady, having dropped her gold purse on stepping into her motor-car, the poodle takes it in his mouth and runs after the automobile as swiftly as its legs will carry it, and as a reward the lady gives doggy a shelter.

297ft. The Subject, £4 19s. 0d.

JAMES HAS BEEN EATING GARLIC.

Code Word, "ETENDUE."

James has been eating garlic, and as he is going along it seems that all the flavours of the South are following him. Lots of people faint as he passes them, and finally he succumbs, a victim of his own greediness.

362ft. The Subject, £6 0s. 8d. Toning extra, 6s.

A SICILIAN'S REVENGE.

Code Word, "EXPRESS."

This scene takes place in Sicily, where two fishermen, Peppo and Matteo, are courting the same girl, Marcita. When she shows Peppo that it is he that she prefers, Matteo follows her, and selecting a moment when she is alone on the high road, he kidnaps her. Attracted by the noise, Peppo, who had just left her, realises at a glimpse that the cart which is swiftly disappearing round a corner is carrying away the woman he loves. He runs to her house, acquaints her father with the facts in a few words, and the two having taken short cuts soon overtake the cart. As soon as Marcita is free from the ropes which were binding her, she slips behind Matteo, who is having a hand to hand fight with her lover, and stabs him with her dagger.

412ft. The Subject, £6 17s. 4d.

AUNT SALLY'S OUTING.

Code Word, "EXCES."

At the fair the showman puts up his marionettes, and, pending the arrival of his customers, he goes to sleep in his chair. The puppets, seeing this, jump over the counter, and huddled together in a heap, for they are afraid of losing their way, they go to the cinematograph show. The wooden bride amuses itself so much that it nearly goes over the balcony in front, and the bridegroom and the best-man do their best to keep it back. Then they have a try at tobogganing, and some challenge the athletes and weight-lifters.

773ft. The Subject, £12 17s. 8d.

AN UNEXPECTED SQUALL.

Code Word, "EXPATRIER."

The following took place in the land of the incredible, which lies somewhere in the South of France. This is how it happened:—The whole town was gathered round the bandstand listening to the music. Mrs. Somebody was selling newspapers in her stand. Suddenly a terrible north-west wind arose, and took up in the air the newsvendor and her stand. By Jove! All the town ran after the runaway; gendarmes on horseback rode just under the new aeroplane. On abating, the wind did land Mrs. Somebody in the middle of the river, and then someone had to get into the water and rescue the poor woman. That was an excitement.

248ft. The Subject, £4 2s. 8d.

NEW YORK.

Code Word, "FANAL."

Title of pictures:—The Statue of Liberty (by Bartholdi)—Arrival of a Liner at the Harbour—Ellis Island—The Aliens' Landing-place—Aliens on Board Ship—Landing—Broadway—View of St. Paul's House—A Few Sky-scrapers—The Brooklyn Bridge—Public Walks in Central Park, &c., &c.

510ft. The Subject, £8 10s. 0d.

IMPOSSIBLE TO LUNCH.

Code Word, "EXPIRER."

The open-air family start very early one fine morning laden with victuals. They spread out their things on the lawn just outside a large manufacturing town, and are happy in the anticipation of a whole day in the fresh air. Yet, the keeper comes and politely orders them from the privately-owned property, which they had thought was the common. They sit down outside a restaurant, but a clumsy cyclist runs into them with his machine, and upsets their belongings. Leaving the inhospitable place, they go to an abandoned hut, but a tramp, on lighting his pipe, sets fire to the dry grass outside, and a moment later the poor people have to struggle for their lives out of the furnace. Taking refuge in a small boat, they see their craft cut in two by a larger vessel, and swear never to attempt such an impossible thing as enjoying a day in the country again.

445ft. The Subject, £7 8s. 4d.

COLLECTION OF POSTAGE STAMPS.

Code Word, "EVALUABLE."

Postage stamps from every country in the world are displayed on the screen by native dancers while executing their national dances. This is a very good film, perfectly coloured, and quite novel.

528ft. The Subject, £8 16s. 0d. Colouring extra, £5 5s.

Pathé's Films

UNEQUALLED THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

PATHÉ FRÈRES AHEAD OF ALL OTHER FIRMS.

LAST WEEK'S NOVELTIES.

THE THOUGHT-READER.

Code Word, "FABLIAU."

This very interesting film has met with a big success on account of its originality, which consists in the thoughts of the people being portrayed, so to speak, on their own heads. The whole story in a nutshell is that of a clever doctor foreseeing the designs of other people, and stopping them if he chooses in order to prevent accidents or mistakes. For himself, however, he prefers not to see too much or too far, and he never applies his gift to things which concern him directly.

595ft. The Subject, £9 18s. 4d.

THE FAUN.

Code Word, "ETAGE."

A faun, in love with Diana, appears amongst the undergrowth in the forest, and on his way he awakens the sleeping nymphs. But Diana, delighted with the sweet music made by a god at her side, does not take notice of the faun; the latter is so jealous that he throws the god to the ground. Yet Cupid, the god of love, gives to Diana a philter, thanks to which the young god comes back to life, whereas the faun, having been bound with ropes by the nymphs, is changed into a stone faun in a petrifying fountain.

445ft. The Subject, £7 8s. 4d. Colouring and Toning, extra £4 10s. 0d.

THE MINIATURE CIRCUS.

Code Word, "ESTRADE."

Many children would like to have their toys go about like those of our little friend, who sees in his dream his wooden horses, elephants, tigers, &c., perform all sorts of clever turns, and surely they will spend a delightful few minutes looking at the film whenever and wherever it is shown.

643ft. The Subject, £10 14s. 4d. Colouring extra, £7 0s. 0d.

THE EASTERN CRISIS.

THE BULGARIAN ARMY IN THE FIELD.

A Frontier Post, showing both Turkish and Bulgarian Guards at Baratara: a jealously guarded line. Bulgarian troops of all arms. Manœuvres. Dashing charge of cavalry. Fording a river at a gallop. Descent of a mountain pass. Smart work by artillery. Mounted infantry at work. Troops on the march. Bodyguard of the New King of Bulgaria, &c., &c.

No. 2275. Code "Ferdinand." Length 600ft.

GENERAL SCENES IN BULGARIA.

Including Railway and other Panoramas. Habits and customs of native life—quaint towns, typical characters, bazaar and street scenes, &c. Views of Sofia, Drenova, Gabrova, Rilo Monastery. Loading grain at Bulgas, &c.

No. 2277. Code "Sofia." Length 305ft.

TIRNOVA: The Ancient Capital of Bulgaria.

Scene of the proclamation of the New Dynasty. Every stick and stone the ideal home of romance and fantasy, the background for chivalry and clashing armour. More mediæval than Rothenburg, a rabbit warren of strange houses, picturesquely huddled in a sort of limestone crater, and culminating in a citadel which affects to be impregnable. Preceded by general panoramic views from a train passing through the Gorge of Tirnova.

No. 2276. Code "Capital." Length 200ft.

HERZEGOVINA, BOSNIA, AND DALMATIA.

Annexed by Austria, Oct. 7, 1908. Railway and other panoramas. Wild, rugged, and verdant landscapes, foaming torrents, &c. Life in the cities. Quaint and unusual.

No. 1993. Code "Bosnia." Length 710ft.

SALVING OF THE "GLADIATOR."

Photographed by Special and Exclusive Permission of the Lords of the Admiralty and the Liverpool Salvage Association.

Thrilling pictures of the gigantic task. Wrecked on April 25, towed into Portsmouth Oct. 3. Panoramic Views during the various stages. Divers at Work—Sinking the Caissons—Shore Cables and Engines—Pumping Operations—Raising the "Gladiator"—The Righted Vessel. Further events will be secured as they occur. A WONDERFUL PICTURE.

No. 2260. Code "Caisson." Length 450ft.

PANTO WINNERS! PANTO HITS!

Every Artiste, Author, or Manager should examine them. There are a lot of "down the course" songs offered this year, but THESE are the only REAL CERTAIN SURE WINNERS.

PRINCIPAL BOY–
"I CAN'T GET AWAY FROM THE GIRLS."
"MY LIMELIGHT LOU."

PRINCIPAL GIRL–
"HOLD ME TIGHTER, MR. LIGHTER."
"WHO'D LIKE TO PAY FOR MY HOLIDAY."

BOY or GIRL (very effective)–
"JENNIE, DON'T SWING ON THE GATE."

COMEDIAN–
"GIRLS, GIRLS, NOTHING ELSE BUT GIRLS."

CHORUS SONGS (beautifully harmonised)–
* "LITTLE SILVER MOONBEAM."
(Great for staging purposes. The best since "Pansy Faces.")
* "WHEN THE SUNRISE PAINTS THE DISTANT HILLS WITH ROSE."
* "SWEET BELLS OF HOME."

Band Parts can be had of those marked *, price 1/- per set.

PLEASE ENCLOSE SIX STAMPS FOR POSTAGE. These are the only songs that "stand out" on their merits. They are bound to keep you in the front rank if you are there already, or, if not, are certain to place you there right away.

ONE THOUSAND POUNDS

FOR TWENTY-FIVE SHILLINGS.

TO THE PUBLISHER, "THE ERA."

Sir,—
It may possibly interest you to learn that a Quarter-Column Advertisement in "The Era" (One Insertion) resulted in over £1,000 Bookings for an Entertainment with which I was connected some little time ago. The Entertainment was entitled and the Bookings were effected within a week.

ALFRED WEST'S "OUR NAVY,"

Yours faithfully,
H. GOLDSMITH-WHITTON,
Late Manager, West's "Our Navy," Ltd. &c.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—His Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—The Merry Widow, by Mr. George Edwardes's company, crowds the house in every part this week. The piece is splendidly acted, full justice in particular being done to the music. Miss Clare Evelyn makes a fascinating widow, and she also sings with rare skill, while her dancing in the waltz scene is wonderfully artistic. Mr. Basil S. Foster is an admirable Prince; Miss Mary Grey, who possesses a voice of fine calibre, makes a success of Natalie; Mr. Lionel Victor and Mr. Tom Kedmow are excellent as Popoff and Nisch; Mr. Haigh Jackson sings most tunefully as Jolidan; and Mme. Novikovitch is well portrayed by Miss Nora L. Barnby; while Mr. Grafton Williams cleverly represents the old General, and Mr. Albert Kavanagh is a very capable Cascada. The play is superbly staged.

Palace Theatre.—Lessees, The United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—The Brothers Horne play their mirthful sketch The Biter Bit with an exuberant humour that proves irresistible; Mr. Jock Whiteford, Scotch comedian, is as popular as ever; Mr. Albert Wyndham and company give a finished rendering of the castle scene from King John. Mr. Wyndham admirably sustains the part of Hubert; and Miss Paul Shepherd imparts a poignant degree of pathos to her representation of Prince Arthur. Enzer, the soldier juggler and sword expert, gives a highly interesting display of his skill, in which he is ably assisted by Miss Clarice with a first-class exposition of ju-jitsu; and among the other artists in the bill are Miss Ethel Dove, a captivating comedienne and dancer; Allis and Cassati, versatile comedians; and those warm favourites the Kimberley Boys.

Beach Pavilion.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. David Thomson.—The principal attraction this week is a ladies' beauty competition, in which there are a large number of entrants The votes will be counted and the result announced on Saturday. An excellent variety programme is likewise presented, the artists including Miss Violet Davidson (soprano), Miss Muriel Collie (comedienne), Master George Hendry (dancer), Mr. Jack Marson (Scotch comedian), Mr. David Thomson (humorist), and Mr. J. O. Kynoch (pianist).

Alhambra. — Proprietor, Mr. John Sinclair; General-Manager, Mr. G. B. Lee.—Principal among the artists this week are Mr. Tom Melrose, an expert comedian and dancer; Mr. Tom Read and Miss Elsie Wright, first-class duettists and comedians; Miss G. Stewart, a promising soprano; and Mr. Dan Fraser, Scotch comedian, who is rapturously encored for every song.

Empire Music Hall.—Managers, Messrs. R. Calder and J. Montague.—The company includes a large number of clever artists, among them Mr. Archie Murray, coloured comedian and banjoist; Miss Marie Rose, a fine singer and dancer; Prof. Montague, a skilful humorous conjurer; Miss Ada Brogden and Mr. George Millard, comedians and dancers; Mr. Arthur Bright, descriptive vocalist; and Miss May Calder, pianist. The exceedingly funny farce Black Justice is well played by the Empire sketch company.

ABERTILLERY.—Metropole Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. J. Seaborn.—The Woman Who Gambles is capitally staged here this week. Miss Laura Walker scores heavily, and deserves the appreciation shown to her for her fine rendering of Countess Natalia Steinbach; Count Otto Steinbach is performed in a natural and masterly manner by Mr. Clifford Rean; and Mr. Norman N. Overton gives a clever conception of Baron Cratzlaw. Mr. Reginald Fox gives a fine portrayal of Lieut. Karl Ctzartoriski; Miss E. Conway as Cora Gouldhart is much admired; and the minor parts are in capable hands.

Pavilion.—Lessees, Messrs. E. and H. Tilney; Manager, Mr. E. Pryce.—The Derrington Family, a clever troupe of cyclists, head an interesting programme, and get much applause for their daring feats; the famous comedian Will English never fails to amuse; the Sisters Morgan are capable vocalists; Mike Asher proves very popular with his songs and dance; Denby and Dent are laughable comedy duologue artists; Ada Gatley is very successful in her unique pot-pourri speciality; a novel and pleasing turn is given by the Avocas, who excel as vocalists in the sensational scena entitled The Reckless Miner; and the Bioscope shows some very interesting pictures.

ACCRINGTON.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—The Hardie and Von Leer company in Two Lancashire Lasses in London is here. Mr. Herbert Pearson gives a manly impersonation of John Edmunds; Mr. E. Rayson Cousens capably portrays the Rev. Frank Selby; Mr. Fred Morgan gives a capital rendition of Jonas Deane; Mr. Chas. Bevan makes an effective Edward Langley; and Mr. Chris Mason is a humorous Samuel Hallett. Miss Rosslyn Vane as Constance proves herself a capable artist; Miss Alice Defoe plays Nellie very sympathetically; Miss Marie Corri is a charming Lucy; and Miss Evelyn Shaw is well suited as Jane Adelaide Bloomfield. The remaining characters are in competent hands.

ALDERSHOT. — Royal and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—Mr. Frank Stanmore's company, in a musical absurdity, The Gay Deceivers, is proving a change that is highly appreciated. Miss Kate Chard plays the rôle of Mrs. Dewar with refreshing ease and grace, and has a fine appearance in her favour; Miss Dorothy Chard's is a meritorious portrayal of Dora; and Miss Dora Lane is successful as Winnie. Several excruciatingly funny comedy scenes are introduced by Mr. Mark Lester as the butler Joseph and Miss Pauline Primm as the pert maid, Rosie. Mr. Frank Stanmore gives an amusing personation of Lord Reggie, and makes endless fun with the screen scene; Mr. Arthur Dennis gives a clever enactment of the Colonel; Mr. Douglas Phillips as the Lieutenant is all that could be desired; whilst as the Major Mr. Francis Chamier is good. Mr. Leslie Hawkins is a clever dancer, and as Pinch, the burglar, introduces some good legmania business.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Mr. F. Mouillot's company is here with A Message from Mars. Mr. Wallace Widdicombe as Horace Parker realises admirably the self-satisfied, cynical, and callous man of the world; Mr. W. H. Brougham is a majestic Messenger; Mr. Norman Clark impresses the audience as the Tramp; Mr. Robert Grey is an effective Dicey; and minor rôles are adequately filled by Messrs. Eric Ward, Eustace French, Eric Fowler, Walter Selby, and others. Miss Flora Hastings interprets with rare charm the kindly, considerate gentlewoman, Miss Parker, and Miss Rose Helene is sweet as Minnie Templer

Empire Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—In the way of instrumental expert playing we have here this week Emil and Ediss, banjoists; A-Ba-Be's Picture-postcard Album affords a good deal of diversion; and Ada Parker wins favour as a comedienne and dancer. Eva Chadwick displays in song her tuneful soprano voice; the Village Fire Brigade, in four scenes, presented by Ritchie Hearn, wins great favour; A. R. Clifford is a versatile artist in song and patter; Geo. Westland is a canny Scotch humorist; Florence Raymond is a humorous and refined exponent of the art of ventriloquism; Harry Ford is an extremely laughable, droll comedian; and Uncle's Picnic is depicted on the Bioscope.

Picturedrome.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros., Liverpool.—The animated picture exhibition here continues to attract the people. This week's bill has many features of interest, and includes The Rivals, a love tragedy of the cavalier period; The Scullion's Dream, a clever humorous set; and Baby's Playmate, introducing a charming child and an intelligent horse, with a dramatic finale. The Pneumatic Policeman provokes roars of laughter, and so does Moving In.

ATTERCLIFFE.—Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Pease; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry Sanders.—Viviana and company, under the title of The Toy Shop, introduce a bright and original dancing scena, full of fun and vivacity; Mr. Ted Curtis and his black and white piccaninnies are popular in song and dance; a clever exhibition on the horizontal bars and trapeze is given by Ariel and Astarte; Miss Marion Blake's vocalism is of a high order; Terry and Bentley (lady and gentleman) present a refined comedy act; Mr. T. C. Edwards, the popular Australian baritone vocalist, has a good reception; Valvo, described as a "military" ventriloquist, is smart, and causes hearty laughter by his witticisms; and Mr. E. C. Clayton's pictures, including Caught in the Quicksands, are highly appreciated.

AYR.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—On the first three nights of this week the attraction was Mr. Arthur Roberts, Miss Ruby Celeste, and company, appearing in two pieces nightly, The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife and Till Sunday. The Macdonalds, musical experts, are whimsical in the extreme; as a mimic and speciality whistler Mr. Herbert Lyne is entertaining; and Onda and Artell, gymnasts, are also in the bill.

Town Hall.—Between the show of films here there are variety turns, including the Merry Mannikins, the Bentleys (with a musical turn), and Mr. Dufton Scott.

Volunteer Hall.—Mr. Durward Lely and company appeared on Saturday evening in The Bonnie Brier Bush. The company gave every satisfaction.

BACUP.—New Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denman-Wood.—Mr. Stephen Pritt's company, in His Wife No Longer, has formed the attraction here this week. Mr. E. Paul Neville gave a capital interpretation of the part of the hero, Harold Medworth; and Daniel Trench found a clever exponent in Mr. David Donaldson. Mr. Clavering Craig's performance as the callous villain, Anthony Merivale, was sufficiently repulsive; Mr. C. Vivian Charles as Tommy Oglethorpe gave a humorous study of that character; Mr. C. Wordley Hulse submitted a masterly representation of the Rev. Frank Willacy; Mr. David McFarlane was decidedly amusing as P.C. Michael Flanaghan; Miss Rosa Mervyn made a sympathetic and pleasing Mrs. Merivale; Miss Nellie Lawson gave a carefully-studied performance of Lucy Hooper; and Miss Florrie Hayes as Marion Jefferies was highly commendable.

BARNSTAPLE.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Long Bridge Trustees; Manager, Mr. Harry Ashton.—The bill of fare this week is being provided by Mr. and Mrs. John Walters' No. 1 company in the fairy play Babes in the Wood, and large audiences are being attracted. The scenery and properties carried by the company are extensive and elaborate, the chorus work together well, and the various songs and dances are thoroughly enjoyed.

Albert Hall.—Proprietors, The Barnstaple Town Council; Manager, Mr. O. J. Nicklin.—Mr. Walter George and his Smart Set delighted large audiences on two nights; the company includes Miss Georgie Martin, a burlesque actress of pronounced ability; Miss Lena Hutchings, who possesses a powerful soprano voice; Miss Pattie O'Hanlon, contralto; and Messrs. Oliver Comber, Samuel Woodin, and Edgar Hulland, who is a clever pianist.

BARRY DOCK.—New Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden.—Mr. Frank G. Pitt presented £1,000 Reward to a well-filled house on Monday. As Mme. Sanson Miss Kathryne Eckhart acted with power; Mr. Frank Pitt, an effective Vincent Rainsworth, was well supported by Mr. Frank Dallas as Inspector Gilbert; Miss Minnie Goepel gains many admirers for a clever portrayal of Kitty Springthorpe; the comedy parts are well filled by Miss Marjorie Seymour and Mr. Joe English; Mr. J. Wilton plays admirably as Gilbert Lisle; and Messrs. Edward De Vere, William Gibson, A. Merton, and Miss Alice Clarke all do well in their respective parts.

BATH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—A return visit of When Knights Were Bold is again attracting large audiences. Mr. Henry J. Ford is starred in the heavy rôle of Sir Guy de Vere, which he enacts with the greatest success, laughter being incessant while he is on the stage. Mr. Vernon Sainsbury continues to impersonate Mr. Isaacson, and is even better than before; the Hon. Charles Widdicombe is hit off capitally by Mr. Cecil Clayton. The experience of Mr. William Lockhart is brought out well in his present character of the Rev. Peter Pottleberry; Mr. George Rowlands is fairly satisfactory as Sir Brian Ballymole. Two excellent impersonations are those of Mr. Talbot Homewood and Mr. Reginald Hunter as Whittle and Barker. Miss Bruce Joy catches just the right key of farce as the "ancestral worshipper" Lady Rowena. Miss Phyllis Back as Miss Isaacson, Miss Violet Graham as Millicent, Miss Gretchen Yates as Marjorie, Miss Adrienne Yates as Kate, Miss Bessie Walters as Alice Barker, and Miss Ethel Royall as the Hon. Mrs. Waldegrave are all good. A duologue, The Wrong Side of the Road, is enacted smartly by Mr. Cecil Clayton and Miss Phyllis Back.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Webb and Branston render duets with artistic effect far above the average; the Three Sisters Silcott, who sing the taking "Farewell, Killarney," score a success in a capitally-arranged naval composition; the Two Kays return to win further laurels in their scena The Cuckoo; Robins and Collier create much hilarity in their comedy act The Lady and the Porter; Chas. Woodwall gets on capital terms with the audience as a light comedian; Mlle. Bartenelli as a contortionist does many smart feats upon a particularly small platform, and as one of the Vyponds gains plaudits with her amusing partner in a well-arranged turn. Raymond's Biotableaux are to the fore as usual.

Assembly Rooms.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Howes, jun.—A delightful series of entertainments is being given this week by Mr. Harold Montague and his lady and gentlemen coadjutators who style themselves "The Vagabonds." The refinement, combined with much humour, together with their excellent musical abilities, gains for them many admirers.

BATLEY.—Theatre.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Whitty; Manager, Mr. Alfred A. Taylor.—The attraction here this week is The King of Crime, presented by Mr. Harry Battersby's company. Mr. F. B. Woulfe plays the title-rôle effectively, and Miss Milfred Eversleigh as Ronjarre's blind wife is successful. Other principal parts are capably played by Mr. William Miller, Mr. William Melvyn, Miss Nance Battersby, and Miss Edith Loraine.

BEDFORD.—Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—Mr. Herbert Ralland is presenting a well-selected company in Pinero's comedy His House in Order. The play was thoroughly enjoyed and loudly applauded on Monday. Miss Kitty Cavendish plays Nina with conspicuous ability; Mr. J. Herbert Beaumont as Hilary Jesson is distinguished and debonair; Mr. W. Henry Hargreaves acts with dignity and fine feeling as Filmer Jesson; Miss Victoria Wray impersonates Geraldine Ridgeley very ably; and Mr. Randolfe Reade is convincing as Major Maurewarde. Miss Avis Grahame, Mr. Langford Browne, and Mr. Dudley Stuart all give clever studies of the Ridgeleys; and Miss Peggy Rae is good as Derek Jesson.

BELFAST.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Alone in London, the attraction here, has been ably presented by Mr. J. F. Elliston's company. In the rôle of Richard Redcliffe Mr. Percy Rhodes was convincing, his fine acting being much admired; and praise is due to Miss Theresa Osborne for her clever interpretation of Nan. In the part of John Biddlecombe Mr. W. S. Hartford displayed ability; and Mr. Lonnen Meadows would be difficult to excel in his old part of Charley Johnson. Miss Gertie Douglas was a vivacious Liz Jenkinson; Miss Mary Stafford Smith a capable Tom Chickweed; Miss Elsie Clarke exhibited unusual talent for one so young in her interpretation of Little Paul; and Mr. Harry McClelland was all that could possibly be desired as Mr. Burnaby. Mr. Percy Bell's impersonation of Jenkinson reflected credit on him; and Mr. Blundell Fenton furnished an excellent piece of acting as Walter Burnaby.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. S. Salmond.—The star here is Chirgwin, "the white-eyed Kaffir," who in song and patter repeats his former success. Much fun has been created by the sketch Three of a Kind, ably presented by Miss Ethel Arden and Mr. George Abel; and Selbo's juggling feats have created quite a sensation. Miss Ida Brophy is a charming comedienne with good songs; and Recco appears in his mirth-provoking tumbling act, How to Become an Acrobat. Mr. Fred Hallam, comedian, Mr. George Collins, comedian, and the Palace pictures complete the bill.

Royal Hippodrome.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Will Sley and Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The leading attraction here is provided by Chas. Austen and company, who present with success their comedy creation Parker, P.C. Mr. Frank Coyle's songs have been accorded a good reception; Bliss and Bliss, patter comedians and dancers, take well; and the musical act of the Four Maisanos is one of the best items on the programme. Jenny and Will Fordyce, in comedy singing or dancing, afford satisfaction; and also appearing are Beattie and Babs, two exceedingly smart juveniles, who made a big hit on Monday; Mr. W. L. Murray, in feats of strength; Miss Eileen Douglas, a refined comedienne, who sings and dances well; the Damm Brothers, acrobats; and the Hipposcope in interesting pictures.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—The top-liners here are the redoubtable Craggs, who return with their act, entitled Billy, the New Steward of the Channel Queen, which affords them much scope to exhibit their marvellous acrobatic feats. Tennyson and Wallis, comedians, uphold their reputation in songs and up-to-date patter; and Mendel, the blind pianist's brilliant and clever performance has been cheered to the echo. Mr. Gus Garrick deserves much praise for his impersonations, which are certainly realistic; Humpsti and Bumpsti are deserving of much praise in an act which is aptly described as unparalleled eccentricity. Miss Daisy Martell, comedienne, and the Bioscope are also included in the programme.

New Alhambra Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—The famous Filmograph presents here this week the following pictures:—The Last Cartridge, Wanted, a Son-in-Law, Beauty's Eyes, London of To-day, A Drama of Country Life, &c. In addition Maddison Brothers, comedians and burlesque boxers, appear with much success, and Mr. Horace Slade, a clever dancer.

St. George's Hall.—General-Manager, Mr. Robert Wilson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur.—The success of this the latest addition to the amusements in Belfast continues to be maintained, and undoubtedly Mr. Fred L. Arthur must be congratulated on the success of his untiring efforts. Among the many pictures presented, special mention should be made of those representing the Franco-British Exhibition, which are most interesting. Mr. Barnes Stuart and Mr. Bob Ritchie, baritone, are also in the bill.

BILSTON.—New Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John M. Dawson; Business-manager, Mr. S. Hadskis Dawson.—Mr. Alex C. Grant has brought a good all-round company this week with A Master of Millions. Mr. Grant does well as the Master; Mr. Frank Lester proves amusing as Muggins; Miss Gipsy Alexander is very good as Stella; and Miss Edna Wilkinson is a charming Lucy Manners.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant; Secretary, Miss Isabel Morris.—Mr. F. Mouillot's No. 1 company, in the musical comedy, The Girl Behind the Counter, is delighting large audiences. Mr. Kennedy Allen proves himself a comedian of resource as General Sir Wilkie Willoughby, and scores the success of the evening; Mr. Ferris Pounds as Viscount Cushington gives a clever caricature; Mr. Sam Lockridge exhibits exceptional vocal and histrionic skill as Charles Chetwyn; Mons. Claude Dampier is an admirable Monsieur Duval; and Adolphus Dudds is well embodied by Mr. Frederick Park. Miss Ida Stratham wins all hearts by a charming performance of Winnie Willoughby; Millie Mostyn is finely played by Miss Irene Vere; Miss Winifred Knightley is a splendid Lady Willoughby; and Miss Eileen Clangford as Ninette and Miss Irene Lavington as Susie are both eminently successful. Messrs. A. M. Moore and William Amery are particularly good as the two waiters; and Mr. Geoffrey Allsop scores heavily as the Commissionaire. Subordinate parts are all well filled.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Miss Hetty King, the favourite comedienne, in some of her clever male impersonations, is a perfect loadstone of attraction here; Mr. Tom Costello, the popular character comedian, meets with his customary big reception, being always a hot favourite here; and Sandford and Lyons, in their clever simultaneous dancing, and the Norman and Leonard Trio, instrumentalists, are pronounced successes. A capital all-round company also includes Frank Seeley, a good comedian; Miss Irene Rose, descriptive vocalist; the Ascotts, comedians and dancers; Cyril Carl, in a clever vocal scena; Miss Ethel Walker, piano entertainer; and Brown's Royal Bioscope.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The Scarlet Pimpernel will apparently never fade, for this time its success has been greater than ever. Mr. Fred Terry's vim and buoyancy as Sir Percy and his tender by-play with Lady Blakeney carry the audience completely away; the Lady Blakeney of Miss Miriam Lewes is an exquisite portrayal; next to this certainly comes Mr. Horace Hodges as the sinister and irascible Chauvelin; Mr. Alfred Kendrick is again an excellent Sir Andrew Ffoulkes; Miss Kathleen Doyle gives an engaging presentment of Susanne; Mr. A. E. Anson bears himself with easy grace as the Prince of Wales; and the other rôles are played in praiseworthy fashion.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—Mrs. Dot has found much favour on its first appearance down here. Miss May Palfrey in the title-rôle presents an enchanting picture of the by no means down-hearted widow; Mr. F. Kinsey Peile submits some clever comedy acting as Blenkinsop; Mr. Hugh C. Buckler makes a sympathetic Gerald Halstane; Mr. Basil Hallam contributes an effective delineation of Freddy Perkins; Mr. McIntyre Wicksteed as Charles is the very model of the part; Miss Aida Jenoure acts in the manner of the proud and worldly Lady Sellenger admirably; Miss Evelyn Beaumont is charming as Nellie; and Mrs. G. Kemmis makes a most pleasant part of Miss Eliza Macgregor. The play is preceded by A Lively Dinner.

Alexander Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—The Fatal Wedding is re-appearing here with all its old success, and is presented by Mr. Bert Coote's special company. Miss Ethel Kay as the wife, Mabel, brings in much sympathy for the rôle, her acting being highly capable throughout; Mr. Cecil A. Melton is successful in his portrayal of the husband, Howard Wilson; Mr. Frank Harrison is thorough in his method of acting the man about town, Robert Curtis; Miss Elaine Vanbrugh gives a strongly dramatic portrayal of the adventuress, Cora Williams; and the "Little Mother," Jessie, is cleverly represented by Miss Lulu Wohlmann. Miss Ethel Sarjient, Mr. Charles Lockne, Mr. Cyril Melton, Mr. Frank Ashley, and a host of smart specialities support.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—The Great World of London appears here, with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Melville in the cast, a fact which the patrons here appreciate by filling the theatre nightly. Mrs. Melville, under the nom de théâtre of Miss Rose Ralph, does better than ever in this her present rôle, Lilian; Mr. Hugh Carmichael proves an able exponent of the husband's rôle, Jack Clinton; Mr. Clinton Baddeley keep the house in a ferment of excitement in his well-acted study of Thornton; Mr. Andrew Emm (Melville) relieves the tension of the play with his genuine good humour as Tom Bates; Miss Edie Martin shines as Tagrag; and some clever character studies are given by Mr. Edgar Snow, Mr. Francis Everard, Mr. G. H. Tulford, Miss Naomi Hope, and several others.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The Nihilist, with its exciting situations and strong company, headed by Messrs. O. Silverstone and H. Wright, is a big success here. Mr. Joseph Millane is specially engaged in his absorbing and dramatic portrayal of Ivan, the blacksmith; Messrs. Silverstone and Wright exercise a big influence as Petroff and Bobbie Smart respectively; Mr. Leo R. Neilson sustains the rôle of the Prince in a particularly able manner; Miss Florrie Kelsey fully realises the rôle of the Princess; Miss Edna Clare takes the sympathy of the house as Alexina; and May Ediss wins admiration as little Alexina. Miss Jessica Ford at Katrina acts in a very useful way; and Mr. Cowell Clark as Karl Orloff, Mr. J. Brunelle Harvey as Father Gourko, and Mr. Morgan Dale as Sergeant Markoff do well.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Lake.—Her Love Against the World draws full houses here with Messrs. Hallatt and Howard's company again. Mr. Fred Emery acts the chivalrous Eric to perfection, his voice and manner being in full sympathy with the rôle; Miss Rosie St. John makes a searching appeal as the despitefully treated Nello; Mr. Lewis Gilbert plays the vengeful rôle of Ulric very powerfully; Mr. W. H. Hallatt is a dignified and popular character as Prince Othmar; Miss Grace Heywood as the good angel of the piece, Iris, is completely idolised for her graceful and womanly attributes; and the lighter parts are humorously enacted by Mr. Henry B. Lewis, Mr. John Mill, Miss Gertie Reed, and Miss Hettie Ferguson.

Palace Theatre, Bordesley.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—Lucky Durham is bringing good business here, Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company being responsible for the acting, which is commendably good in every part. Mr. S. Herbert Humber's exposition of the character of Durham is sound and convincing; Mr. T. Renaud Lockwood's fine portrayal of Lord Mountfallon is an effective contrast to Mr. Arthur Leigh's lighter and cleverly drawn character of the son, the Hon. Reggie; Miss Alice Esther Belmore's treatment of the rôle of Helen is decidedly good and charming; Mr. William Heilbronn proves his ability as Mr. Vallender; and much credit is due to Mr. J. H. Gerald as Walcombe, Miss Beatrice Sinclair as Mrs. Durham, Miss Florence Dulhunty as the Hon. Margaret, and Miss Rosabel Dodd as Lady Mountfallon.

Grand Theatre of Varieties.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—The musical extravaganza The Dandy Thieves is presented here by the Fred Karno company, with Fred Kitchen in the cast, and creates plenty of laughter; Vanco in his clever musical entertainment is exceedingly versatile; Rousby's scenic and electrical review of London is interesting; Fatmah Diard charms with her sweet singing; Cruikshank, the jester, is witty and entertaining; Alexandra and Bertie, in their refined aerial act, are loudly applauded; and other good turns are the Mezzettis in a clever bar act, and Walter Curtis, who supplies plenty of fun.

Empire Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—The Elliott-Savonas in their marvellous musical creation The Palace of Orpheus are attracting crowded houses. Another attraction is the well-known comedian John L. Shine, whose latest success, An Actor's Art, is a smart little playlet; Cruikshank is deputising for the Egbert Bros. Professor Dubois, with his educated baboon; Lord, Murray, and Lord, James Stuart, the Three Welsh Girls, Maud Vera, and Billy French complete a fine programme.

Hippodrome. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Lyons.—R. G. Knowles is delighting the packed houses in this huge building. Messrs. Blunt and Knight's company is appearing in the dramatic episode The Grip of Iron; the Three Orrors have an original act; and Cullen, Carthy, and Little Cluley, Herbert La Martine, Dollie and Elsie, Minnie Love, and C. D. Reekie complete the bill.

Gaiety Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—The big attraction here is Dolly Elsworthy and her company in the sketch Sweet Mistress Dorothy. The Bensons have an amusing sketch, The Page and the Maid; Walter Emmerson and W. J. Ashcroft are popular comedians; the Shentons are a good vocal and dancing turn. Other prominent turns are May Marton, Martine and Son, Curwen and Belle, and Ruffell's Bioscope.

King's Hall.—Lessees, Messrs. Moore and Kennedy.—Sacco Homann, a Hungarian fasting man, commenced a fast of fifty-two days, while there is an exceptionally fine series of pictures being shown.

Curzon Hall.—Lessee, Mr. Waller Jeffs.—May Maude Murray is the attraction here this week. There are some entertaining pictures, including Peculiar People, Adventures of Tompkins, The Swashbuckler, The Unseizable Pickpocket, &c.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — Eden Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—Messrs. Cowper Smith and Douglas Payne's company opened to a good house on Monday in the musical comedy The New Girl. Mr. Edward W. Colman (Colonel Bullett), Mr. Ralph Lynn (Bertie Holbrook), and Mr. K. Black, jun. (Brown) kept the house thoroughly amused. Mr. Edgar McIntyre was capital as Harry Harrow; Miss Ivy Leighton gave a pretty and fascinating portrayal of the French girl, Cerise; in the title-rôle Miss Rosa Bennett was charming; and Miss Victoria Douglas was a great success as Martha Grimm. Miss Beatrice Sutherland played the rôles of Flossie and Jane, and was full of merriment, pleasing all. The chorus was strong and well controlled by Mr. Julian Rutt.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—The Prodigal Son, ably enacted by Mr. George D. Day's company, is again proving attractive here. Mr. Albert Ward's depiction of Oscar Stephensson is loudly applauded, and Magnus Stephensson is creditably sustained by Mr. H. J. Crane; Mr. Jackson Hayes as Stephen Magnusson, and Mr. A. J. Williams as Oscar Neilson, also play well; the dual rôle of Thora and Elin is in the capable hands of Miss Pauline Emeric, and Helga Neilson is ably accounted for by Miss Pearla Gardner. Other parts are in capable hands.

Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—Mr. Frank Bertram's company is paying another visit here this week with The Breed of the Treshams. The very difficult part of Lieut. Raresby is played on this occasion by Mr. Sidney Bland, whose success is complete; Viscount Dorsington is ably represented by Mr. Alfred Hollis, and Colonel Hungerford by Mr. W. R. Winning; Miss Mildred Hodson as Margaret Hungerford also merits commendation.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—John Leopold's company of acrobats, with their sketch, entitled The Houseboat, top the bill here this week, and evoke rounds of applause; Harry Claff and Alice Tremayne contribute a good sketch; the De Wynne Brothers provide a unique athletic turn; Mildred Bryan, an Irish mezzo-soprano, meets with the most cordial reception; Fred Walmsley is a comedian who is rapidly approaching the front rank; and La Tostia, the clever mandolinist, St. Ruth and Conyers, operatic duettists, and Mr. "E.," raconteur, also supply good turns.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's company is here with The Lancashire Lad. In the part of David Elmore Mr. A. Alexander was rewarded with applause; Mr. T. G. Vane as Max Carton was sufficiently villainous; Mr. Percy Maitland gave a finished impersonation of Tim Wincott; the humour of the piece was safe in the hands of Mr. Bob Anderson as John Willie Wardle; and the Jessie Wincote of Miss Stanley Burt was a pleasing rendition.

The Gaiety.—Lessee, Mr. Wm. Yates Gregory; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baugh.—The Gentrys in their comedy duo entitled Bits supply a capital turn; Mary Gold wins favour as a vocalist; Lillie le Breton on the trapeze is clever; and Wal Owen, comedian; George Gulliver, ventriloquist; Mlle. Zeldor in a musical act, and the Bioscope make up an excellent programme.

Hippodrome.—Lessees, Messrs. Doyle and O'Connell; General-Manager, Mr. Tom Doyle.—Maggie Rimmer is a dainty artist; and Charles Craston, in quaint comedy, and the Pictorials complete an attractive bill.

BOLTON. — Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Mr. Gaston Mayer's production, Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, is this week paying its first visit to Bolton. Mrs. Madge Carr Cook is simply delightful as Mrs. Wiggs; Miss Christine Rayner is a comely Lovey Mary; and there is a charm and freshness in Miss Mary Deverell's Miss Lucy. Miss Rita Carlyle as Miss Hazy (the nervous bride) gives a performance that is much relished; Mr. Fredk. Forrest is an equally quaint Mr. Stubbins; and Mr. Walter M. Cameron is pleasing as Mr. Wiggs.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—Miss Kate Carney's company, in the successful scenas, "The Yiddisher Boy" and "Good-morning, Mr. Postman," is loudly welcomed by crowded audiences. Contributions to the bill are also made by the Haverleys, American song illustrators; Jessie Buckle, comedienne; C. H. Charlton, phenomenal wizard; Fred Curran, parody comedian; Slippere, blind pianist and baritone vocalist; Conway and Garland, in a screaming burlesque absurdity, Left in Charge; Nellie Chandos, a dainty comedienno and dancer; Charcot and his automatic man; and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

Empire Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; General-Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. R. Harrison.—A strong bill is presented here with Vonetta, lady illusionist and quick-change artist and dancer, at the top. Fred Poplar, comedian; Kitty Wager, comedienne; Eric, ventriloquist; the Cecilias, up-to-date lady instrumentalists; the Three Tivoli Girls, vocal and speciality dancers; Renie Grahame, character vocalist; Ernesto, juggler and musical equilibrist; and the Bioscope are also in the programme.

Temperance Hall.—Hamilton's Excursions opened here on Monday for a short annual season, and have been extensively patronised. Supplementing the Excursions, a variety company appears, comprising Mlle. Florence, equilibrist on the moving globe; Miss Blanche Murray, ballad vocalist; the Two St. Johns, musical performers and dancers; and Abex, "the college boy," in a rare display of muscular strength. Mr. Claude Howell is the lecturer and guide.

BOOTLE. — Muncaster Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Wilmott; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Young.—The stock company is this week presenting the comedy drama Sons of the Sea. Mr. Stanley S. Gordon makes a manly Dave Hardy; Mr. Cyril Grier is well placed as Squire Lyndurst; Mr. Albert Sember is a capable Ephraim Tubbs; Mrs. Nina Vaughton plays Edith Bruce sweetly; Miss Kathleen Magee gives a capital performance of Marie Broschel; Mr. Alfred D. Adams is a powerful Arthur Lyndurst; and the comedy element is well sustained by Mr. Alfred Grenville as Adolphus Brown and Mr. Tom H. Solly as Marmaduke Montague. Miss Effie Macintosh is a sprightly Nancy Tubbs.

BOSCOMBE.—Hippodrome, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Ball.—Joe Peterman and company head the bill with The Pawnbroker. An excellent turn is the Onlaw Trio, presenting in an artistic manner their incomparable wire equilibristic act, which is both daring and clever; the Wakeman Quintette are successful in their musical comedy sketch; another clever turn is provided by Charles Ulrick, the barrel king; Vandinoff, the lightning painter, is well received; Maud Wellon, comedienne, and Marie Wilton give satisfaction; and the Hipp

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company in the new version of The Christian opened here on Monday. Mr. Roy Redgrave effectively sustained the character of John Storm, and Mr. Fewlass Llewellyn gave a capital impersonation of Father Lamplugh. Glory Quayle was in the hands of Miss Daisy Scudamore, and the remaining parts were capably filled especially by Mr. Wilfred Noy as Drake, Mr. Herbert Hewetson as Lord Ure, and Miss Molly Hayden as Mrs. Callender.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—The Belle of Mayfair, which is this week presented by Mr. Milton Bode's company, opened to a well-packed audience on Monday night. Mr. Harry Parker was particularly quaint as Sir John Chaldicott, Bart.; Mr. Lawrence Wensley gave a capital performance of the part of Hugh Meredith; Mr. Percy Yorke's Earl of Mount Highgate, Mr. Edward Hugounet's Raymond Finchley, and Mr. Lauri Lisle's Comte de Perrier were amusing and commendable efforts. Miss Florence Imeson played Julia Chaldicott with brightness, and was at once natural and convincing. As her maid, Pincott, Miss Blanche Astley danced charmingly; Miss Agnes Tandy gracefully represented the Princess Ehrenbreitstein. A charming bevy of ladies in pretty frocks fill minor rôles, and Mr. Leslie Stuart's haunting music is delightfully rendered.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Miss Maud Hildyard and her capable company reappear here again this week in the drama The Great Awakening. Miss Hildyard is again seen as Lola Selby, stirring her audience visibly with her emotional acting, and Mr. Wallis Clark fills with striking effect the part of the maniac James Selby; Miss Fay Garnett-Vayne as Molly Merton and Mr. Conrad Franklin as Captain Lambert are good, and there is a fund of humour in the acting of Mr. Tracey Barrow as Billy Brass and Miss Cissie Podmore as Selina Worts.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—Queenie Leighton in well-acted descriptive songs is winning applause here this week, and Nora Emerald, soubrette and dancer, submits a dainty turn; Theresa Cerutti displays much grace in the execution of a classical dance; G. H. Elliott, "chocolate-coloured coon," wins hearty applause with his songs and dancing. With a voice of great compass Sybil St. Elmo renders ballads charmingly. In The Concert Rehearsal Lady Mansel's smart little company of juveniles are warmly applauded; the Sisters Grovini, expert acrobats, present a very clever entertainment. There is some excellent harmony in the vocal speciality submitted by Stewart and Morgan; marvellous animal imitations by Donaldson Bros. in Sports in a Jungle are productive of roars of laughter; and some amusing pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Harry Champion, comedian, with eccentric songs, well sung, wins hearty plaudits. There is some very fine banjo-playing by the Leonas. In very charming and dainty style Little Rose Pink submits her taking song and dance. In "Songs and Singers" Belle Braham, the pictorial songstress, meets with success. There is some good musical comedy in the turn by Stidder and Dunbar; Albert Letine is a capital female impersonator; as speciality entertainers Drum and Major are amusing; with good patter and dancing Keith and Merson, in their turn, The Meet, amuse the audience. Excellent harmony by the Tally Ho! Trio secures well-won applause, and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux are very entertaining.

BRIGHTON. — Grand Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Mr. T. Edward Ward's company opened here on Monday with The Love of the Princess, and has attracted crowded houses. Mr. William Coleman gave a masterly portrayal of the hero, Prince Conrad; Miss Ward submitted a very charming impersonation of the heroine, Princess Idalia; Mr. E. H. Dobell's King Josef was a fine character study; Mr. Ernest E. Imeson acquitted himself admirably as Count Nicholas; Mr. Beckett Bould displayed able acting as Lieut. Orlans; Mr. Graham Winsford was an excellent Lieut. Zaroff; Miss Nellie Garside made a very pleasing Lady Irene Ramona; and the remaining characters were satisfactorily sustained.

Alhambra.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—There is a capital company here this week. Fred Karno's comedy company wins the heartiest of laughter in the farce Mumming Birds; the Great Northern Troupe of international dancers find great favour with the audience; Ingram and Irving are cordially received in their absurdity The New Office Boy; La Belle Flora, in a dainty mélange which includes daring cycling feats and classic dances, merits warm praise; the Lyric Mummers, operatic duologue artists, achieve great success; Herbert Rule, character comedian, wins hearty applause; Marie Strout is a pleasing comedienne; Belle Orphini submits a good ring act; the Sisters Condor are effective in song and dance; and the Alhambrascope pictures are excellent.

Hippodrome Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. J. Brown.—An excellent programme is sustained here this week. Mr. Laurence Irving and Miss Mabel Hackney are highly successful in the tragic episode No. 909, West; Wild, Willie, and West, the bounding navvies, are very amusing; Albert Whelan, the Australian entertainer, is enthusiastically received; Mlle. Renée appears in a capital drawing-room musical act; a pleasing sporting farce, The Lady Jockey, is presented by Miss Teddy Edmund's company; Clown Barker's refined comedy animal act is excellent; Lee and Kingston are an artistic comedy duo; the Three Sisters Tree submit a refined act, Hunting; the Schiavonis Troupe of acrobats are favourably received; Nash and Noel are versatile comedians and dancers; Sibb and Sibb are clever double trapeze artists; and the Barrascope pictures are interesting.

West Pier.—Secretary and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Scholey.—Mr. Norman V. Norman's company opened their second week here on Monday with Still Waters Run Deep, and again delight crowded audiences. Mr. Norman V. Norman achieved distinct success with his splendid portrayal of John Mildmay; Miss Beatrice Wilson submitted a highly artistic and finished enactment of Mrs. Sternhold; Mr. Sam Wilkinson was very entertaining as Mr. Potter; Mr. Alfred Gray merits cordial praise for his capital embodiment of Captain Hawksley; and Miss V. Malcolm Barnett made a charming Mrs. Mildmay. The répertoire for the week also included The Adventure of Lady Ursula, Nell Gwynn, David Garrick, and The Swashbuckler.

Palace Pier Theatre.—The Rev. Forbes Phillips' romantic costume play, A Maid of France, is proving very attractive here this week. Miss Hilda Forbes Phillips merits unstinted commendation for her delightful impersonation of Frances Charmonti; Mr. George Munro gives a forcible enactment of Sergeant Cartouche; Mr. Henry Eglington, who produces the play, makes an impressive Emperor; Mr. Arthur Beckingham is admirably placed as Pope Pius VII.; Miss Daphne Gelstone is a pleasing Julie Hasnet; Miss Letitia Rushforth is highly effective as Mme. Caselli; Mr. Digby Worsley proves very entertaining as Henri Duvernet; and the minor parts are well filled.

Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. M. Barrasford; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Fred Bauer.—The exhibition of animated pictures here still proves very attractive. A Roman Idyll conveys a very interesting love story; When Other Lips is full of stirring incidents; The Lightning Postcard is a cleverly-worked film; and much humour is afforded by Uncle's Rejected Present, At the Stage Door, Then There Was a Row, and Under a Crocodile's Skin. Mr. W. Thirkettle contributes songs in good style.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. Edward Terry and his company are here in a round of plays. On Monday evening Sweet Lavender was performed to a well-filled house. Mr. Terry scored his accustomed success in his old part of Dick Phenyl; Miss Gwendolen Wren was very pleasing as Lavender; Miss Agnes Knight presented a clever study of Ruth Rolt; Miss Edith Coleman was sufficiently vivacious as Minnie Gilfillian; Miss Sophie Lingwood made a good comedy part of Mrs. Gilfillian; Mr. Kenneth Brampton and Mr. Edmund Hollick did well in their respective parts of Clement Hale and Horace Bream; Mr. Poole Kirkwood acted effectively as Geoffrey Wedderburn; Mr. William Dexter was well placed as Dr. Delaney; and Mr. Maw and Mr. Bulger had satisfactory exponents in Mr. George Byrne and Mr. Percy Crawford. The one scene, Phenyl's Chambers in the Temple, was well appointed. Liberty Hall, Fiander's Widow, and The Magistrate are also billed.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Alty.—The interesting drama Two Little Sailor Boys, by Walter Howard, is the attraction here. Miss Blanche Steele displays much power in her exposition of Lola Grey; Mr. H. E. Herbert acts in manly and convincing style as Commander Noel Tregarthen; Mildred Grey has a pleasing representative in Miss Muriel Dean; Mr. Horace Booth acts consistently as Lieut. Richard Redstone; the two Sailor Boys are cleverly taken by the Misses Effie Crawford and Ivy Millais; and in the comic part of Ben Baxter Mr. Tom E. Sinclair scores a decided success. The remaining characters are all carefully played, and the drama is well staged.

Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—The interesting sketch The Little Stowaway heads the programme, and it is well played by a competent company, including Miss Marjory Armstrong in the title-rôle. G. W. Hunter, comedian, obtains appreciation; Fred Karno's company amuse with a comic sketch, Dinner Hour; the Three Romas do some clever work in the gladiatorial line; Far and Farland, comedians, are applauded for their efforts to amuse; Gracie Lawn is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; the Della Sisters are competent vocalists; and some good animated pictures, The Guardian of the Bank, conclude the entertainment.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—Victoria Monks heads the programme most successfully; W. T. Thompson and company amuse with their smart sketch Watch the Chalk; Lilian Sivado does some clever and graceful acts on the trapeze and rope; Sid Bandon obtains applause for a song-scena; the Fedora Quartette are smart acrobatic dancers and vocalists; the Dunlops are expert in trick cycling and roller skating; Fyne and Hurley amuse as a coster and dude; Clyne and Clark are energetic speciality artists and dancers; and Nellie Neil is a pleasing vocalist and a clever step-dancer. The performance concludes with amusing animated pictures.

Colston Hall.—Ralph Pringle's animated pictures continue to be atractive.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre, Ltd.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—The Female Swindler, by Walter Melville, is this week's attraction, and proves most enjoyable. Mr. Jerold Heather is excellent as John Coulson; Miss Violet Elliott makes a great impression in the title-rôle, and is ably assisted by Mr. Stanley Radcliffe as the villainous Geoffrey Warden; Mr. John Hitchins is very amusing in his various disguises; a charming May Andrews is presented by Miss Beatrice Hone; Mr. Guy P. Ellis does well as Harold Travers; Mr. Fred Rignold as Abraham Mikestein, Miss Kate E. Lawrence as Mrs. Poppem, Miss Bella Moody as Mary Ann Mee, Mr. D. Winstow (Detective Dixon), Mr. A. Kenyon Gray (James Oliver), and the other members give most satisfactory representations of their various characters. The scenery and staging are very good.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The Beloved Vagabond is being presented here this week by Mr. Fredk. Mouillot's company, and was accorded a great reception on Monday. Mr. Arthur Royston as Paragot gives a true and earnest representation of the title-rôle. Miss Lila Fraydon's impersonation of Blanquette earns whole-hearted admiration; and Miss Katherine Harrington as Joanna displays many artistic gifts. An admirable Asticot is found in Mr. Ramsay Macbeth; and the Comte de Verreuil finds an able exponent in Mr. Warburton Gamble. Delightful is the rendering of Louisette by Miss Hetty Kenyon; and Mr. Alfred Drayton is good as Lord Rushworth.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The Vasilesqu Troupe perform a number of startling tricks on the bars; Ferris and May are responsible for a charming little sketch introducing good music and acting; and the Gentle Mackweys present a fast and furious comedy acrobatic act. The Westwoods are distinctly clever on cycles; the Bros. Ashley are re-welcomed for their comedy boxing act, Next, Please; Clive and Vera introduce some pretty patter into The Squire and the Dairymaid; Little Ganty's fun creates a deal of laughter; Madge May, comedienne, is good; and the Empire Theatroscope is greatly in favour.

Palace Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Hardcastle.—Great interest is evinced here in the visit of Gunner Moir. A fine picture illustrating the fight between that worthy and Tommy Burns is explained by Major Best, and bouts arranged with local boxers are highly interesting. The Donatos, one-legged clowns, are received with well-merited applause; and much amusement is caused by the Three Prestons in an absurdity The Liftman's Rise. Roars of laughter fill the house during the turn of Dan Whitley, eccentric comedian; and Leo and Roland are expert in hand-balancing. Flo Burnett is a good singer; and Nora Noble, comedienne, is pleasing. Harvey's Troupe of ten Americans are very smart; and The Policeman's Whistle is a funny film by Raymond's Bio-tableaux.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — New Theatre and Opera House.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—London with the Lid Off is presented by Mr. Stanley-Carlton's company this week. Mr. Carlton is eminently suited to the rôle of the Rev. Allen Gordon; a villainous quartet of swell burglars is composed of Miss R. Hamliton Belasco as Mrs. Glandale, Miss Charlotte Ballinger as Sarah Shafto, Mr. James Hart as Collini, and Mr. Wm. G. Marshall as Gratton Gale, the latter impersonating the blind burglar with dramatic effect. The persecuted heroine (Astra Bell) is pathetically played by Miss Rubie Maude; a veritable sleuth-hound of the law is Miss Amy Ellam, a clever lady detective; a spice of humour is introduced into the play by Mr. Lancelot Usher (Percy Plunker) and Miss Emily Lewis (Dolly); and Mr. Marshall Meade does well as Mr. Templeton. The mounting of the piece is excellent.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS. — Theatre Royal. — General-Manager, Mr. Auguste A. Peuleve.—Miss Florence Glossop-Harris and her company opened here on Monday, when David Garrick was presented to a brilliant house. Mr. Frank Cellier's delineation of the title-rôle leaves nothing to be desired, tremendous applause greeting his appearance. The Alderman Ingat of Mr. Arthur Goodsall is a finished piece of acting, the same remark applying to Mr. Percival Madgewick's portrayal of Squire Chivy; the rôles of Mr. Smith, Mr. Brown, and Mr. Jones are in the capable hands of Mr. Horace Sinclair, Mr. Francis Roberts, and Mr. Murray Kinnell; Miss Glossop-Harris plays Ada Ingat with the fascination characteristic of her acting; Mrs. Smith and Miss Araminta Brown are taken by Miss Mary Goulden and Miss Janet Warden in a highly-diverting manner. The comedy is preceded by the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet, Miss Glossop-Harris appearing as Romeo with conspicuous success and Miss Gertrude Tate making a charming Juliet. The Merchant of Venice, Hamlet, and Romeo and Juliet are billed for the rest of the week.

CAMBRIDGE. — New Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L. — Mr. Payne Seddon's company presented for the first three nights of the week The Mystery of Edwin Drood. Mr. C. H. Croker-King made a great success as John Jasper, acting with fine force from beginning to end; Miss Nita Charlton looked and played charmingly the part of Rosa Budd; Mr. Ridell Robinson was extremely good as Edwin Drood; Mr. Edward Thirlby (Mr. Grewgious) made the character very interesting; and the Durdles of Mr. Lloyd Townrow might have walked out of the book. Miss Gladys Gesson made the most of Helena Landless; Miss Irene Ross was excellent as The Deputy; Mrs. William Mallalieu is to be highly commended for her embodiment of the proprietress of an opium den; Mr. Crisparkle, Neville Landless, Mrs. Crisparkle, and Miss Twinkleton were capitally portrayed by Mr. Leslie Rea, Mr. Charles Bruce, Miss Eleanor Gilbart, and Miss Laura Bolt respectively.

CARDIFF.—New Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—The Thief is presented here this week by Mr. George Alexander's company, and opened on Monday to a large audience. Miss Marie Polini gave a flawless portrayal of the part Marise Chelford, and was at all times perfectly natural; Mr. Rupert Lister gave a skilful interpretation of Richard Chelford; Mr. Cyril Harcourt acted with considerable distinction as Raymond Leyton; Mr. Owen Nares was responsible for a capital rendition of the rôle of Harry Leyton; Miss Jean Cadell made a charming Isabel Leyton; and Mr. Luke Forster was agreeably prominent as Mr. Protheroe. The play is preceded by Too Happy by Half, in which Miss Eileen Kerin and Mr. Charles King, as Mr. and Mrs. Verner, gain considerable applause. The staging of both pieces deserves particular mention.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—Packed houses have been the rule here nightly. The ever-popular comedienne Lil Hawthorne pays a welcome return visit, and in her latest numbers adds to her list of successes. The charming Ray Wallace is always a Cardiff favourite, and nothing more refined could be desired than her clever mimicry at the piano; Callahan and St. George present with marked effect The Old Neighbourhood, a concoction of comedy, music, and pathos; Billy McClain and his royal happy blacks in a Southern scena are decidedly entertaining; while the animal novelty act presented by Maud Rochez in the shape of a variety theatre enacted entirely by monkeys, is a masterpiece of training; Charles Vincent never fails to keep the "house" lively; and Victor Travers, eccentric comedian and dancer, thoroughly merits the applause accorded him; Leonie Dixon, soubrette; Gaumont's chronomegaphone, and the always interesting American Bioscope complete.

Theatre Royal.—Under the Management of Mr. Rollo Balmain.—Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer, supported by an excellent company, is fulfilling a week's engagement here, and opened on Monday with Hamlet. Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer in the title-rôle gave a particularly fine portrayal, and received a reception worthy of such histrionic abilities; as Laertes Mr. F. Skein proved himself an actor of great powers; Claudius was interpreted in fine style by Mr. Bernard Merefield; and Polonius was well played by Mr. Arthur Kean; Miss Maud Garth as Ophelia and Miss Alice Odea as Gertrude deserve special mention. Mary Queen of Scots, Nell Gwynn of Old Drury, Sapho, Leah, The Merchant of Venice and Jane Shore are also in the répertoire.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—Heading a capital programme this week are Frederick Maxwell, Miss Lois Du Cane and company in a capital sketch entitled Hawksley's Luck, which largely accounts for the good business done this week. Others who contribute to the excellent bill are Ted Johnson and Belle de Vere, comedy and sensational wire trick cyclists; the Florios, novel comedy wire and equilibristic artists; Ross and Grayson, in "Piano-playing Extraordinary"; the Roxbys, vocalists and dancers; Madge Allan comedienne and dancer; Edith Chantler, juvenile vocalist; and Kitty Willis, comedienne; while Raymond's bio-tableaux complete.

CARLISLE.—H.M. Theatre.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—The first visit here of the comic opera Amasis drew a large house on Monday. Messrs. Jose and Young are fortunate in securing so many clever artists for the principal parts, and with a strong and well-drilled chorus, pretty dresses, fine scenic effects, and tuneful music, the piece went with a delightful swing from start to finish. Mr. W. H. Denny's ripe experience was clearly evinced in the title-rôle, his clever acting creating unbounded amusement; there were no dull moments when he was on the stage. Mr. Edward McKeown's fine presence made him an ideal Prince, his sweet voice was heard to advantage in several tuneful numbers; Mr. Arthur Stroud as Cheiro, Mr. Fred Hudson as Nebenchairi, and Mr. Walter D. Brodie as Sebak, have excellent parts, in which they acquitted thmselves admirably; Miss Winifred O'Connor was a charming Princess, her vivacious acting and cultivated and skilful vocalisation made her an immediate favourite; a clever dance by Miss Mabel Lovett was deservedly applauded. Mr. J. Van Henvel directed an augmented orchestra, whose clever performance added much to the success.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Morgan.—The Szarvasiferencz troupe of Hungarian singers, dancers, and acrobats, who top the bill this week contribute a fine turn, their singing and dancing, characteristic of their nationality are excellent, and as acrobats they excel, their wonderful feats, executed with rare skill and daring, bringing down the house. Morny Cash, on a return visit with new songs and funny patter, is as popular as ever; Yvonne Lamor is described as a "somewhat different comedienne," and her act is certainly novel and entertaining; Vanando, a clever ventriloquist, has some clever ideas, which he works out with excellent effect; Mlle. Haydee's miniature vaudeville theatre is splendidly worked and staged, and deservedly received a large share of applause; Chas. Russell, a comedian with a funny style, and Sadie Simpson, a smart dancer and comedienne, are popular turns. The Pepiscope, with some excellent pictures, complete.

CASTLEFORD.—Royal.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Cr. Hy. Masterman, J.P.—Mr. Frank Lindo and company, with the domestic drama, Home, Sweet Home, is doing excellent business here. The scenery and other accessories are good. Miss Marion Wakeford, in the emotional rôle of Joan, plays throughout in a natural and charming manner; as the old fisherman, David Armitage, Mr. D. Lawrence Doyle's acting is powerful and touching; as Stephen Armitage Mr. Frank Lindo speaks with fluency and ease, and gives a most graphic representation; Mr. Archer Brown is excellent as the typical Duke; Lucas Lyle has a capital exponent in Mr. Helsby Wright, who plays the villain with distinction; Mr. Norton Shields shines as the brainless Hon. Percy; Miss Maud Leslie Cudd is a smart and volatile Sybil Fay; Little Dora is well undertaken by Miss Violet Esme; Mr. Richard Walsh does some particularly good work as Dick Redmayne; Mr. Tom E. Lewis is good as Keary; and Mr. G. Rogers and Miss Hetty Webster do well as Lord Silvermore and Lady Somerton.

Queen's Theatre of Varieties. — Proprietors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and W. H. Emerson; General-Manager, Mr. Will H. Emerson; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Travis.—Topping the bill is Chas. Majilton's company, in the musical comedy-sketches, The Trippers and Round the Clock, which evoke roars of laughter. Ormonde Penstone, magician and smoke-painter, is decidedly smart; the Boston Twins, comedians, mimics and knock-abouts, are productive of much laughter; Will Hebden, with a couple of capital songs, is much appreciated; John Cronow, as a facial expert and impersonator, is well received; Jimmy James manipulates the tambourine, bones, and banjo in a very skilful manner, and creates mirth as a comedian; the Two Le Bruns provide an appreciative turn in a vocal and juggling scena; and the Loyal Dominion Co.'s animated pictures are, as usual, much appreciated.

CHATHAM. — Theatre Royal. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard.—Mr. Lyn Harding and Sidney Cooper's company in The Flag-Lieutenant forms the attraction here this week. Mr. Langhorne Burton as Richard Lascelles is capital, and has a fine reception nightly; Mr. George Mallett is effective as the Hon. Sir Berkeley Wynne; Mr. Montagu Love makes an ideal Major of Marines; Mr. John Wheatman is natural as Michael Palliser; Mr. Hugh Wakefield is sufficiently boisterous as Horatio Hood; Miss Florence Jackson displays much skill in her impersonation of Mrs. Cameron; Miss Marjorie Chard makes a charming Lady Hermione Wynne; and Miss Viva Birkett is an admirable Viola Hood.

Barnard's Palace of Varieties.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Here we have Leonard Mortimer and company in a popular production, entitled The Good Intent. Daly and O'Brien are a couple of agile dancers; the Belasco Trio present a well-liked turn of song and dance; J. H. Carney's rapid changes of costume without leaving the stage surprise all; and the Four Scoreys in a musical mélange; O'Reenie and Dean, comedy cyclists; A. T. Bute, comedian; and Lacey's Erascope are other attractions.

Gaiety Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis.—Lily Burnand, who owes her first English engagement to the Gaiety's worthy proprietor, is on a welcome return visit, topping the bill with marked success; Geo. French has a capital ditty, "Out of the working classes"; Kid Johnson and Masie Pelham contribute a well-liked pot-pourri act; Mostol's musical entertainment is appreciated; the Sutcliffe Troupe give a spirited acrobatic display; and Frank Fox, comedian, and Madge Beresford, a pleasing comedienne, complete the company. The Edisonograph has new films.

CHELTENHAM.—Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Miss Maie Ash and The Gay Gordons are playing to packed houses here this week. Miss Ash makes the jolliest little heroine as Peggy Quainton, singing in the pleasantest way imaginable; Mr. Frank Lincoln is delightfully droll as Angus Graeme, and scores heavily in his singing; Miss Nellie Lonnen as Victoria Siddons acts pleasingly, and sings and dances excellently; Mr. Tom Graves is responsible for much merriment as the chief of the strolling comedians; he is ably assisted by Miss Ida Laurie as the wife and Mr. Edward Nainby as the lugubrious offspring; Miss Gladys Deane as Mary McLeod sings very nicely; Mr. Edward Beecher acts pleasantly as the millionaire "poppa," Andrew Quainton; Miss Ida Mann is natural as Janet McLeod; Mr. Norman Forrest does well as the ponderous Corporal John Smith; and Mr. R. H. Vallis makes a hit with a marvellous Highland fling as Jack McPhrisky.

CLYDEBANK.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Proprietor and Director, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—The Monckton top the bill this week with the comedietta Two in a Flat, which was well received; Miss Mabel Comely won much favour for her smart singing and dancing; Signor Bandoni is a good musician; Mr. J. H. Heffern is an entertaining comedian; Miss Billie Burford, comedienne, gets a good reception; Mr. Percy Maye as a female impersonator would be hard to beat; and the Bioscope is a great draw, the pictures shown being excellent.

COLCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Chas. Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company opened a half week's engagement here on Monday with Peter's Mother. Miss Violet Ley won golden opinions in the name-part, the applause meted out to her being hearty and well-sustained; Mr. Eille Norwood was excellent as John Crewys, Q.C.; Mr. Vivian Gilbert was a most interesting Peter; Mr. Townshend Whitling was effective as Sir Timothy; and Mr. Walter Russell as Canon Birch and Mr. Edward Jephson as Dr. Blundell each creditably enacted their parts; Miss Hilda Sims was ingenuous as Sarah; and the two aunts of Peter were delightfully portrayed by Miss Mary Griffiths and Miss Josephine Rae. The Mystery of Edwin Drood occupied the boards for the concluding half of the week.

Hippodrome.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—The principal turn here is Messrs. Fred Ginnett and Wal Pink's spectacular and equestrian episode, St. George and the Dragon, which is on a return visit; Alice Maydue goes well in her satirical comedy-drama business; Mersano, amuses all with his coin and card manipulating and "extemporisms"; Maxey and Pete, trick and comedy cyclists, provide a good item; Willie and Johnnie, the acrobatic and balancing piccaninnies, are extremely clever; Ivy Proudfoot, with capital songs, is a treat; and W. H. Downs, the coloured ballad vocalist, is also well received.

CONSETT.—New Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Messrs. Kimberley Green and Hinton's company is here this week with the military play, The Power of the King. Mr. Travis Green essays the rôle of Prince Oscar with much effect; Miss Leila Zillwood is prominent in the part of Lady Anastasia; Mr. Gerald Blake is a good Captain Rupert Landgrave; and as King of Vallambrosa Mr. Charles Whitlock acts creditably. Mr. P. Merton Wright does full justice to the part of General Stenovis; Mr. Wilton Drury as Fritz and Miss Grace Barton as Marget, keep the audience in the best of humour; and Miss Georgina V. France is a capable Lady Fleviva.

CORK.—Palace Theatre, Ltd. — Manager, Mr. Thomas F. O'Brien.—This popular place of entertainment provides a first-class bill of fare this week. Carl Hertz, illusionist, assisted by Miss Emmeline D'Alton, presents his illusions in a finished style. The lady assumes a recumbent position and rises in the air by the very neatly done levitation trick. Another feat is binding a male attendant on a board with locks, and on drawing the curtains it is the lady who is firmly bound, the erstwhile captive appearing at the same time among the audience. The disappearing bird and cage is another clever trick. Cambo, a musical man-monkey, is capital; G. W. Foster is a good eccentric comedian; Cestria, an entertaining comedy juggler; the Three Violets sing and dance charmingly; Alick Milne gives a good ventriloquial turn; Russell Rainbow is a capital coloured dancing comedian; the Vagrants, a quartette of male singers, sing humorous and sentimental songs with considerable success; and the Palascope, in latest pictures, is interesting.

COVENTRY.—The Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—The evergreen Charley's Aunt is paying a visit at the above house this week after a long interval. The company is under the direction of Mr. Brandon Thomas. In the title-rôle Mr. G. A. Seager keeps the audience in a constant state of hilarity; Mr. Theo McCausland Stewart is a typical Sir Francis; Mr. Roy Byford a comical Stephen Spettigue; Miss Vere Gerald a stately Donna Lucia; and Miss Evelyn Grey is seen to advantage as Ela Delahay.

Hippodrome Theatre.—Manager, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. E. Wright.—This week Haydn Reano brings his famous band of English performers, thirty in number, who play with military precision several marches and the famous "1812 Overture" (Tschaikowsky). Another feature of the programme is the turn given by W. J. Churchill, a very good comedian; Primavesi submits some extraordinary juggling tricks; Lily Black, comedienne, sings some good songs; Ray and Lingard appear in an amusing comedy duologue entitled The 1st of April; the Sisters Ford are capable dancers; and Stacey and Williams prove an interesting comedy pair.

Empire.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Dance; Manager, Mr. K. Draco.—An attractive programme is being witnessed this week by good audiences. The chief item is Ernest Cadle's novel act, Casey's Court, introducing thirty juveniles in song and amusement. Will Murphy appears successfully as Mrs. Casey; Ludwig Amann is successful in his famous impersonations of "Makers of History, Past and Present"; Fred Keeton is a capable comedian; and other popular people are Lottie Govell, comedienne and dancer; Hal Hughman, the inimitable imitator; Les Martinets in a novelty act, The Rag Doll; and Gus le Clerq, comedian. The Empire Bioscope concludes.

CRADLEY HEATH.—Empire Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Draycott's répertoire company is remaining a second week here. The Shadows of a Great City occupies the boards for the first part of the week, and Mr. Charles Draycott takes the part of Jim Farren in a style peculiarly his own, carrying the audience with him. Mrs. Charles Draycott does a marvellous piece of acting in her dual impersonation of Annie Standish and Nellie Standish (mother and daughter); Mr. Geo. Steel as Tom Cooper acts with great feeling and much discernment; Mr. Geo. Arthur as George Benson has a lot to do and wins constant recognition; Mr. Chas. H. Herberte might have been at Scotland Yard all his life from the way he plays the detective, Arkwright; Miss Louise Milward deserves special mention for her clever and humorous interpretation of Biddy Roonan; Mr. Henry Hasell and Mr. Chas. E. Warne are well placed as Jacobs and Hammond; whilst Mr. Wilfred J. Short, Mr. Sydney Russell, and Miss Doris Vincent as Downey, James, and Little Nellie do their best to complete a good all-round company.

CREWE.—Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Howard.—Lovers of Shakespeare are well catered for here this week by Allan Wilkie's Shakespearean Répertoire Co. On Monday Mr. Wilkie was seen to advantage as Hamlet and his clever acting will be long remembered; Mr. Alexander Marsh played excellently as the Ghost; Mr. John Paley capably sustained the rôle of King Claudius; Mr. Frank Royde as Laertes was much appreciated; Mr. Houston Meharry was a good Polonius; Mr. Ernest Digges an effective Horatio; and Mr. Ian Flemming and Mr. Edwin Beverley were successful as the First and Second Grave-

About six weeks ago I was suffering with

PIMPLES

ALL OVER MY FACE,

brought on probably by painting my face for my eccentric business. I was also suffering with SCURF IN THE HAIR. Being rather alarmed, I asked a friend's advice, and he recommended me to take "Clarke's Blood Mixture." I purchased a 2/9 bottle, and within a week I found marked improvement. The pimples and the scurf is entirely gone. I cannot tell you how thankful I am at having taken "Clarke's Blood Mixture," and I shall recommend it to everybody, as I think it only right that such a remedy should be known.—(Signed) JOHN HENRY JONES, known as "Little Johnny," Llandudno's Popular Comedian, Thorndale, Llandudno, Feb. 24, 1908.

VANISHED LIKE MAGIC,

diggers respectively. Miss Carrie Baillie played superbly the difficult part of Ophelia; Miss Mildred Surrey was an admirable Queen Gertrude, and Miss Eily O'Dempsey was good as the Player Queen. The répertoire includes The Merchant of Venice, The Sleigh Bells, David Garrick, Othello, Julius Cæsar, and Richard III.

CROOK.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Wallace Davidson, Ltd.; Resident-Manageress, Mrs. Wallace Davidson.—Miss Ada Frank's company, under the direction of Mr. Courtney Robinson, is appearing here this week in the domestic play, A Fight for Life. As Count Adrian Mr. Courtney Robinson has an excellent reception and Miss Ada Frank as Susanne is extremely clever. The part of Dan Murphy is well sustained by Mr. George Scully, and Miss Carrie Henderson as the Tigress is truly villainous; Miss Chrissie Bickerstaffe makes a pathetic blind girl Marie, and the characters of Jean and Carlos Cardell are in the capable hands of Mr. Clifton Earle and Mr. William Matthews respectively; Miss Rose Woodhall is good as the Countess Du Maily. The staging of the play is excellent.

CROYDON. — Grand Theatre. — Manager, Mr. Roland Daniel; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Archer.—On Tuesday a special flying matinée of Mr. Cyril Maude in Toddles. During the week Mr. Leonard Boyne's company is delighting visitors with Raffles. Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald is a charming Lady Ethel; Miss Hilda Moore makes a good deal of the rôle of Gwendoline Conran; Miss Lilian Hallows is praiseworthy as Mrs. Vidal; and useful assistance is given by Misses Blanka Stewart and Dorothy Gordon as Lady Melrose and Marie. Mr. Leonard Boyne is a host in himself as A. J. Raffles; Mr. Arthur Willoughby is excellent as the Earl of Amersteth; Mr. Cecil Brymer is creditable in the part of Viscount Crowley; Mr. E. W. Thomas is admirable as Curtis Bedford; Mr. Harold West deserves a word as Harry Manders; and Messrs. Buckstone Clair and Harold Perry are adequate as Crawshay and Merton.

Hippodrome and New Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Osmond.—Mr. Henry Swinerd's company in the musical novelty comedy Dare Devil Dorothy is the attraction here this week. Mr. Walter Ashley gives a capital portrayal of Capt. George Fielding; Mr. Walter B. Nugent figures prominently as the villain Capt. Edward Dudley; Mr. Harry Ugar as Silas Crump is responsible for the comic rôle, which he capably fills; a word of praise is due to Mr. W. H. Troutbeck for his representation of Smith the footman; and Mr. Dean Ecliffe as Featherstone Haugh is very good. Miss Nellie Harcourt is to be congratulated on her impersonation of Judith; Miss Nellie Vallentine as Ruth Montrose does well; and Miss Dorothy Desmonde acts charmingly as Dorothy Montrose, her songs being well rendered.

DARLINGTON.—Theatre Royal—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Bell; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hal Cummings.—A return visit is being made by Mr. Charles Macdona in Mr. Popple of Ippleton. Mr. Macdona as Freddy Popple appeared in the part with his usual success; Miss Nellie Hodson as La Bolero received a hearty reception, her singing and acting being much appreciated; Mr. Louis Du Cane, in the part of Norman Popple carries himself well; Mr. Nap Barry is good as George Hennay; and Miss Lillian Lait as his wife excels in the rôle. Mr. Tom May is very smart as Platt; Miss May Hart sings charmingly as Louise; Miss Amy Singleton is impressive as Mrs. Doring; Mr. James Stevenson as Mr. Doring gives a clever rendering; and Miss Marie Moss as Violet Brinton is sweetly pretty. There is a capital chorus, and the piece goes with a swing.

New Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Hersee.—The Carmos head the bill this week, and win well-merited applause in their herculean juggling act; Maude Mortimer, vocal comedienne, sings in winning style; Harry Marte is a clever singer and dancer. Good numbers are also provided by Fred Barnes, comedian; the Raymond Trio, in their musical and dancing act; Alec Kendal, comedian; and Cassie Walmer, in her latest successes.

DARWEN.—Public Hall, Palace of Varieties.—Lessees, Messrs. Thomson, Leivers, and Bennett; Manager, Mr. J. E. Thomson; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Kerrigan.—English and Penley, comedy sketch artists, are exceedingly humorous; the Sisters Hula, comediennes and dancers, give a fine turn; Geo. Edwards is applauded for his selections from Rudyard Kipling and G. R. Sims; Evie Temple, comedienne, is well received; and Sam Shipley is clever in his new act. Pictures from the Bioscope are of the best.

DERBY.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley.—Mr. George Dance's company is here this week with The Girls of Gottenberg. As Max Mr. Bertie Wright proves himself a comedian of the highest ability; Miss Ellaline Thorne as Mitzi may be said to divide honours with Mr. Wright, and plays and sings in a manner most charming and effective; Mr. Tom Shelford as Prince Otto acquits himself cleverly; and Elsa and Lucille are very prettily portrayed by Miss Amie Grey and Miss Susie Raymond respectively. As Clementine Miss May Marshall proves herself a genuine comedienne and an accomplished vocalist; Mr. Howard Cridland, Mr. Hugh Henson, Mr. David Miller, Mr. Rudd Allen, and Mr. Edwin Stanley are excellent in their various parts. Well-played also are the parts of the Burgomaster and Town Clerk, depicted with great success by Messrs. Morgan Rickards and Tom Squire; while Miss Susie Beardon gives a pleasing depiction of Katrina. All the other parts are in capable hands.

Palace. — Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes.—The principal attraction here this week is the Achmed Ibrahim Troupe of Bedouin Arabs, whose tumbling and equilibristic feats are remarkable, their efforts meeting with all-round approval. Walter Stanley, a clever comedian, causes much hearty laughter; Flo Deighton, vocalist, is possessed of a fine voice, and renders her songs with effect; the Zelovas, acrobats and equilibrists, submit an excellent performance; Frank Sylvo is a diverting comedy juggler; Dalton and Euston are praiseworthy comedians and dancers; and Minnie Mace is a pleasing comedienne. The Bioscope, as usual, is not the least entertaining item on the programme.

DEVONPORT.—Theatre Metropole.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—The Greed of Gold is welcome here again. Mr. Wilson Errol proves a popular hero as Arthur Errol; Mr. W. H. Domoney plays the villain in effective style; Mr. James Jarrett gives a clever representation of a dumb man; and Miss Beatrice Hughes, an actress of tender years, receives much genuine applause. Mr. J. P. Marsden and Miss May Watts-Knight adequately fill the lighter rôles. The scenic effects are all that can be desired.

Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor.—The principal turn is provided by Mr. Walter Ellis and company in The Sleep-Walker, an intensely humorous production, in which the small company of three do excellently; Binns and Binns, comedy musicians, furnish a most popular number; the Milicent Frères perform some gymnastic feats of ability and daring; and Bert Jerrell is a hard-working, quaint Dutch comedian. Joan Dering, vocalist and violinist, receive many flattering encomiums; Eadie and Ramsden, comedy duo, are quite at home in this class of business; and Bugler Carr furnishes a number full of interest to the strong contingent of Service men present.

DONCASTER. — New Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—The Catch of the Season, from the Vaudeville Theatre, London, pays its first visit to Doncaster this week, and is attracting large "houses" every evening. Mr. Charles Hanbury takes the rôle of the Duke of St. Jermyns; and Miss Gladys Guy is as charming as she is pretty in the part of Angela. Mr. H. C. Barry is a quaint comedian, and he can make the audience laugh before he says a word. The company is well balanced.

DUBLIN.—Gaiety Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Hyland.—The Mollusc, presented by Miss Annie Hughes and a capable company, has been played here to large audiences. Miss Hughes gives a charming and artistic delineation of Mrs. Baxter, and Mr. Athol Stewart endows the part of Tom Kemp with a personality all his own, making the character thoroughly interesting; Miss Lillias Waldegrave supplies a careful study of the rôle of Miss Roberts, and Mr. Alick Chumley enacts the part of Mr. Baxter in a praiseworthy manner. In A Bit of Old Chelsea, which precedes, Miss Hughes displays her versatility to advantage in the rôle of Alexandra Victoria Belchamber, and Mr. Alick Chumley achieves success as Jack Hillier; Mr. Wylie A. Thompson is exceedingly good as Phil McDonnell, and Mr. F. Hartley as Phil Raymond plays excellently.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—The Follies' excellent entertainment has been enjoyed by crowded houses nightly. Their burlesques on A White Man, The Merry Widow, and The Christian are most amusing. Everybody's Benefit, too, creates roars of laughter. The artists who contributed included Mr. Norman A. Blume, Miss Ethel Allandane, Mr. Lewis Sydney, Miss Gwennie Mars, Muriel George, Mr. Dan Everard, Miss Dollis Brooke, and Mr. H. G. Pellissier, all of whom obtained flattering marks of favour.

Queen's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. W. S. Pearse; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Hereford Jones.—The new series of pictures presented here this week, which are both instructive and amusing, are being patronised by full houses at each performance. The variety turns, which include Edwards and Ward, duettists and dancers, and Bob Pearson, the popular humorist and guide, are warmly appreciated.

Empire. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—The ever-welcome Mark Sheridan is the chief attraction here this week, and creates a furore nightly with his quaint patter and songs. The New York Nippers score a success in their novel entertainment, as do the Five Olracs, in their clever acrobatic act. Nellie Martell is a charming comedienne, with good songs; the performance of the Musical Schaffers is greatly appreciated; P. J. Ling, comedian and mimic, has established himself a favourite; Jock Mills, Scotch comedian, is recalled nightly; Lillie Currie, comedienne, provides a pleasing turn; and the Empire pictures are, as usual, interesting.

Tivoli.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—Daisy Mayer, in her presentation of coon stories with music, wins enthusiastic applause; Burke, Andrus, and Frisco create much amusement in the absurdity Trafalgar Square; and Lena Brunton, comedienne and mimic, meets with a good reception. Heeley and Meeley are highly-diverting comedians, and Horace Jones, "the comedy tit-bit," provides a capital turn; the Three Krakes, "electric car conductors," are responsible for much laughter, and Fred Arthur, comedian, is as popular as ever; Harley and Melton are very humorous in song and patter, and Bert Kemble, comedian, makes a hit. The Bioscope concludes.

Round Room Rotunda.—The programme here continues to draw large houses nightly. The variety entertainment, which includes the Snow Family, eccentric and expert skaters, Miss Phyllis St. Clare, soprano vocalist, Harry Dowsett, vocal comedian, the George French Troupe of cyclists, and Learto, with his clever dog Babs, is heartily enjoyed.

World's Fair and Music Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The artists here this week are:—Mons. Savaro, bird mimic and musical equilibrist; Alice Leigh, ballad vocalist; Little Bert Allen, eccentric comedian; Long Amos, comedian and dancer; Miss Lilian, vocalist and dancer; Long and Short, comedians and sketch artists; and the Cinematograph.

Pavilion, Kingstown.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Jack McDermott.—A good bill is presented here by Messrs. Adeler and Sutton's vaudeville company. Miss Emilie Tait, a soprano vocalist of more than ordinary merit, is encored; the popular humorist, Fred Jeffs, keeps the audience highly amused; Mr. Ernest Sewell proves himself a clever conjurer; Mr. Francis Rayne's vocal items are well received; Mr. Jack McDermott, comedian, is as entertaining as ever; and Mr. Perry, accompanist and solo pianist, is also deserving of mention.

DUDLEY.—Opera House.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Mr. Wilson Benge and company are here this week in The Eve of Her Wedding. Mr. Benge plays the principal part of George Tremain in telling style, being ably assisted by Miss Sadie Smith as the heroine Mavis Leverton.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. P. Peberdy.—The Tennessee Guards, who head the bill this week, perform some sensational lightning drill with marvellous precision; Harry Luck, a favourite comedian, soon "catches on"; Hearne and Palmer are clever gymnastic knockabouts; Bertha Norwood secures applause as a clever soubrette and dancer; the Wallys give an exceptionally clean and clever juggling act; the Sisters Eugenee as gymnasts are notable for their physique and originality; J. P. Ford, Gapner and Steele (duettists), Gala and Norris, and Wyndham and Kitty (wire artists) all help to make up a good bill.

DUNDEE.—Her Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—Mr. George Alexander's company had a gratifying reception from a crowded house here on Monday, when The Thief was presented. Mr. Stephen T. Ewart as Richard Chelford was a fine polished man of the world, his acting being marked by grace and finish; the Marise Chelford of Miss May Congdon was an altogether delightful study; as Harry Leyton Mr. Alfred Lugg did exceedingly well; and another polished performance was that of Mr. Gerald Ames as Raymond Leyton. Miss May Dibley was a pretty and attractive Isabel Leyton; and the detective of Mr. Cyril Cattley was also a clever bit of work. The play was artistically staged, and the principals were repeatedly called to the front at the close. As a curtain-raiser, Too Happy by Half, in which Miss Irene Leonard and Messrs. Percy Marmont and Alfred Lugg distinguished themselves, proved very amusing. The auxetophone recitals introduced by Mr. Louis Karpe are proving very popular with early-door patrons.

Palace Theatre. — Lessees, the United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—An excellent company here is headed by Florrie Forde, whose clever rendering of catchy songs at once made her a warm favourite; Steeley and Dowton, burlesque artists, are responsible for an amusing turn; Spry and Monti are big favourites, their business being marked by smartness and point; Harry Zettar, an excellent comedian, scores in song and dance; and Clark's Nippers present a very clever turn. Cissie Thompson affords much enjoyment by her sweet singing; and George Ray is a Scotch comedian with an original style. The Eeduns appear in their charming electric vocal scena entitled The Spider and the Fly; and Veturini completely mystifies the audience with his clever illusion. The Bioscope completes a varied and attractive bill.

Gaiety Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company are engaged here in two dramas entitled A Beautiful Fiend and The Power of a Wicked Woman. The former was staged on Monday, and proved a great success. Mr. Montague Beaudyn as the hero, Major Ivan Paulovitch, gave a capital representation of the part; while as Wanda Lubinoff Miss Marie Robson was exceedingly good. Mr. Jerrold E. Reed as the villainous Count Karateff was conspicuously successful; and Mr. Frank Holyoake as Sergius Strogoff was well placed. The other parts were in safe keeping. The scenery is fresh and appropriate.

Empire Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—The major portion of the entertainment here is devoted to pictures, of which many fine examples are shown. His First Experiment in Chemistry is a very funny film, and a coloured picture, The Beginning of the Serpentine, is a triumph of cinematographic photography. The variety items include Adeline Yohle and company in their pleasing musical interlude In Possession; and Will Harris, a comedian possessed of a good voice.

Newman's Picture Palace.—The pictures shown this week include The Two Fairies, An Old Man's Heroism, The Stolen Jewels, Tomkins Buys a Donkey, The Curate's Honeymoon, The Sky Cyclist, and a host of others. The laughable sketch Fun on the Farm causes considerable amusement; the clever exhibition of dancing by a local troupe being also an attractive item. Little Doris captivates with her sweet singing.

Kinnaird Hall.—The U.S.A. Animated Picture Company, under the capable management of Mr. Victor Hamilton, is being well patronised. An entirely different programme is given this week, the pictures including The Legend of the Ghost, In Time of Rebellion, The Brigands of Calabria, and a very notable film—Quebec to Niagara.

EASTBOURNE. — Pier Pavilion Theatre.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes. — Messrs. Lionel Glenister and J. W. Wood-Ingram's able company is appearing here in Jack Straw, and proving an attraction. Mr. Lionel Glenister is particularly happy and capable in the part of Jack Straw; as Mrs. Parker-Jennings Miss Florence St. John gives a delightfully natural and clever performance; Mr. Frederick Moyes is a very capable Ambrose Holland; Mr. J. Edgar Stevenson is a quiet and effective Marquis of Serlo; Mr. J. W. Wood-Ingram's work as Count Adrian is marked by dignity; Mr. C. Grose is an effective Vincent Parker-Jennings; Mr. A. T. Gullifer is a successful Mr. Parker-Jennings; while Mr. E. Graham is very good as Lewis Abbot. Miss Edie Graham, attractive and gifted, is a conspicuous success as Lady Wanley; Miss Lucy Milner, prettily girlish, is a sympathetic Ethel; Miss Estelle Despa deserves much praise for her cleverness as Mrs. Withers; and Miss Jessica Waters contributes good help as Rosie Abbott. A Long Journey is the curtain-raiser.

Devonshire Park Theatre.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray, King, and Clark.—Mr. Lionel Rignold and company are here in What the Butler Saw. In the comedy part of Pink Mr. Lionel Rignold has a part which suits him exactly; Mr. Charles Fawcett as the happy-go-lucky Barrington is most effective; Mr. George Ascot is a comically irascible General Dunlop; Mr. G. Nelson Wallace is a success as Professor Shale; Mr. Raymond Dudley does good work as Sir Charles Foden; Mr. Harry H. Rignold gives a clever sketch of Wienstein; Mr. H. L. Tracy is a good Sidney Clifford; Mr. Louis Lingard an enthusiastic and capable Vere; and Mr. H. Warburton a satisfactory Dr. Clayton. Miss Ada Blanche, bright and attractive in manner and handsomely gowned, is a prominently successful Mrs. Barrington; Miss Christine Jensen a realistic Miss Foden; and Miss Gladys Lloyd and Miss Babs Stuart are charming representatives of Nora and Clarissa, as is also Miss B. Egerton as Selina. Miss Mona Garland is a dignified Mrs. Fleming-Smythe, Miss Julie St. George does ably as Mrs. Hake, and Miss Lillian Rose is a girlish and active Sophie.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; District-Manager, Mr. George Egbert; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Holloway.—Heading the bill here are the Six Idols, ladies who are clever exponents of the art of dancing; the Austral Trio, in a musical turn, are pleasingly novel; Manning and Domersil have a smart and up-to-date sketch, Knocked Out; Sim Maree is a remarkably supple contortionist; Miss Lil O'Gorman is an original and attractive comedienne; Miss May Clarke sings ballads with much taste; Mr. Harry Lawson is a natural and successful comedian; Lambert and Butler dance with ability; and new pictures are exhibited on the Bioscope.

ECCLES.—Crown Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. R. Andrews.—Nat Clifford heads the bill, and proves a huge success; Fanny Robina furnishes a good turn, and it is quite plain that she is a warm favourite; Petro and Leon, comedy gymnasts, are funny; Billie Bint is well received; the Brothers Ford are responsible for a clever exhibition of dancing; Barfort and Carson evoke much mirth; Florrie Cooper knows how to make excellent use of a good voice; Herr Karoly Czynski, musical expert and vocalist, gives a good account of himself; France and Francis render some clever acrobatic feats; the Days give an astounding performance; and Red Man's Justice is depicted on the Bioscope.

EDINBURGH.—Royal Lyceum Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—The reputation which The Gay Gordons achieved in Edinburgh some months ago has been emphasised on the return visit of this lively production, with Mr. Seymour Hicks and Miss Ellaline Terriss in their original parts. These two mirthful and vivacious performers keep the piece very much alive, and they have capital support from a strong company. Mr. Johnny Danvers as the old showman provides unlimited fun; while the other members of the Siddons family have full justice done to their varied humours by Mr. George Carroll as Edmund, Miss Nell Carter as Victoria, and Miss Sidney Fairbrother as Charlotte. Every part in the cast is in competent hands, and with plenty of excellent singing and dancing by a full chorus, and the equipment of beautiful costumes, combined with lovely scenery, the piece satiates both eyes and ears, running with the greatest possible verve and animation from start to finish.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison once again show their enterprise in presenting the capital farcical comedy Brewster's Millions for the first time to an Edinburgh audience. The theatre was crowded on Monday evening, and the comedy went to an accompaniment of loud laughter and hearty applause, from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Mr. Percy Hutchison has, in Monty Brewster, a part that fits him like the proverbial glove. The actor is full of resource, and his energy and his ease and humour enabled him to give a genuinely clever and amusing performance of the rôle. Mr. Hutchison is excellently supported by a capable company. The ladies have little to do save to look pretty in their elegant gowns, and in this they are eminently successful. There is much charm in Miss Cicely Stuckeys fresh and girlish Margaret Gray, and Miss Sybil Walsh, Miss Frances Davis, Miss Eva Stuart, Miss Mary Seaton, and Miss Mary Scott are all meritorious in their respective parts. Mr. Cyril Rawdon is seen to advantage as Charlie Harrison, and Mr. Henry Hampson as Archie Golding, Mr. Aubrey Mather as Joseph McLeod, Mr. Charles Esdale as Frank Bragden, and Mr. Douglas Greet as Tommy Smith play their parts with great vivacity. Neat character sketches are filled in by Mr. A. P. Kaye as Monsieur Borgie and Mr. Robert Forsyth as Mr. Grant; while a special word of praise is due to Mr. Frank Hill, whose acting as Rawles proves him to be as droll a comedian as, when—years ago—he set the little Princess's Theatre here in a roar with his power of humour. The play was well staged, the effective working of the Yacht scene calling forth enthusiastic plaudits.

King's Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—Crowded houses have been drawn here this week by the classical dances of Mlle. Sahara, who displays a plentitude of grace and refinement in the attitudes and movements of her three performances, Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," the "Dance of Salome," and the "Dance of Cleopatra"; Mr. Albert Bellman and Miss Lottie Moore, in their vaudeville entertainment, please their audiences greatly, as also do Ryan and Hall with an eccentric acrobatic exhibition; and the comedienne turns of Miss Ruby Norton and Miss Kitty Douglas are well received. Eldra and his educated dog Prince show some wonderful results in canine training; compressed grand opera is enjoyably presented by Mr. Ernest Charles Gittins, who produces portions of The Daughter of the Regiment and Martha, with Mlle. Adele Prescott as the prima donna; and Messrs. Sidney Dooley and Charles Seymour's company appear very successfully in a thirty minutes' complete musical comedy, entitled A King for a Day, in which Mr. Will Letters as principal comedian, creates much amusement. Bioscope films round off an attractive bill.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—The programme this week possesses a peculiar interest in the inclusion of the mysterious singer, L'Incognita, who has not only a graceful personality, but is a vocalist of wide range and culture. Mr. Horace Goldin, the remarkable illusionist, mystifies and delights his audience by the surprising feats which he performs; Verno and Voyce evoke shouts of laughter by their amusing business in their funny sketch The Fly-Far Man, and their singing is admirable; Charlene and Charlene give a clever entertainment, consisting of smart juggling feats and xylophone playing; Miss Julia Kent and Mr. Alec Keith are excellent in their duologue sketches; Miss Daisy James, in a costume à la mode, proves herself a charming comedienne; Mr. Dion Wade's imitations are lifelike; Mr. Bert Harrow, comedian, and Mr. Fred Lincoln, capital artists both, provide entertaining turns; and the Bioscope, with a fresh series of views, concludes the programme.

EXETER.—Theatre Royal.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—A return visit is being paid here by Mr. Robert Macdonald's company, in the musical comedy, The Dairymaids. Mr. Dan Agar again sustains the part of Joe Mivens cleverly, and is, if possible, better than on his last appearance here; and Miss Empsie Bowman captivates as Peggy, both singing and dancing well; Mr. Richard Telford is highly amusing as Sam Brudenell; Miss Nellie Bowman as Eliza is one of the hits of the production; Miss Carry Lacey is good as Lady Brudenell; Mr. J. Scott Melville and Mr. Bernard Vaughan well sustain the parts of Lieut. Meredith and Dr. O'Byrne respectively. The Four Sandow Girls are good.

FALKIRK.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—For the first three nights of this week Mr. Wentworth Croke's company appeared in the new version of The Christian. John Storm was admirably played by Mr. Henry Renouf, whose make-up and acting made Hall Caine's great character live on the stage; Miss Doris Gilham has all those graceful attributes which go to a bright and successful portrayal of the vivacious Glory Quayle; and also of the deeper and more impressionable side of her character. Out of a large and really excellent company, all of whom are well up to their work, mention may also be made of Mr. Oswald Marshall, Mr. George R. Montford, and Mr. C. T. Turpin. On Thursday and three following nights Mr. Arthur Roberts, supported by his London company, filled the bill.

FLEETWOOD. — Queen's Theatre. — Manager, Mr. H. J. Snelson.—The new domestic play, The Woman From Russia, is drawing good houses this week. Miss Adria Hill, in the title-rôle, displays strong histrionic ability; Mr. Robert Ayrton as Frank Haldane, a war correspondent, gives a powerful rendering of his part; the ruffianly Capt. Alexis Zarvisti is capitally undertaken by Mr. Max Coutts; and Mr. James Firth as Jerry Moriarty creates endless amusement.

Co-operative Hall.—Manager, Mr. Thos. Robinson.—The Loyal British Empire Animated Picture Company is still drawing crowded houses. A Drama in Country Life is a picture of thrilling interest; and A Brother's Sacrifice is a powerful dramatic film. The Military Manœuvres at Saumur prove most interesting, and numerous humorous pictures keep the audience amused. Mr. Tom Reed, comedian, contributes songs at intervals, and is well received.

FOLKESTONE.—Pleasure Gardens Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—This week welcomed a return visit of Mr. Ian Maclaren and company, in Shakespeare, old English comedy, and romantic plays. Monday night opened with The Merchant of Venice, in which Mr. Ian Maclaren upheld his reputation in the portrayal of Shylock. In voice and gesture Mr. Maclaren was perfect, and was quite equal to all the exacting situations of the play. Miss Violet Sterne was brilliant as Portia, especially in the Trial Scene, when her elocutionary power was shown to full advantage; Mr. George Relph made a handsome Bassanio; capital support was given in their respective parts by Mr. Murray Hathorn as Antonio, Mr. J. V. Bryant as Gratanio, and Mr. Manning Sproston as Salarino. Mr. Charles Brown supplied the humour as Old Gobbo. Mr. F. Stafford Dawson made a stately Prince of Morocco, and spoke his lines exceedingly well in the Casket Scene; as Nerissa Miss Claire Townshend was everything that could be desired; in the part of Jessica, the Jewess, Miss Muriel Dole was commendable, and gave promise of greater things; the singing of Miss Blanche Johnstone and the dancing of Miss Gladys Carton were greatly appreciated. Henry of Lancaster, School for Scandal, Hamlet, David Garrick, and As You Like It are also billed.

Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—The Gipsies and their Jester are giving their last performances this week, and are re-engaged for next season. The Poppies open for a week on Monday.

GAINSBOROUGH.—King's Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Stear.—Messrs. Alwyne and Thompson's company appeared here on Tuesday and Wednesday in My Sweetheart. Miss Violet Hurley was a vivacious Tina; and Mr. Wilfred E. Brandon gave a fair rendering of Tony. Mr. Chas. Cameron was a good Dr. Oliver; Mr. Quartermayne and Miss Kathie Bratley were excellent representatives of Bartlett and Mrs. Fletcher; and the rest of the characters were in capable hands.

Empire Hippodrome. — Lessees, the Gainsborough Syndicate.—This place is doing good business with a picture show, a sketch, True to the Core, and variety company.

GATESHEAD. — King's Theatre. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager and Licensee, Mr. Harold Arnold.—Harry Roxbury, as funny as ever, is starring here this week with The Prince of Monte Carlo; Nellie Hewitt presents a dainty musical act; Lisbon and Barker are extremely funny in their attempts at extemporisation; Barney Vox is an entertaining ventriloquist; Tom Joy, comedian, Ben Harris's Nippers, and Gertie Lewes are also in the bill.

Metropole Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder.—Mr. William Greet's talented company, in The Sign of the Cross, has drawn large audiences to this house during the week. Mr. Cyril Austin-Lee supplies a powerful Marcus; and Mr. C. Yorke repeats his excellent portrayal of Nero. Mr. Chas. Aldred is a vigorous Tigellinus; and Licinius is ably embodied by Mr. J. Weatherall. Miss Constance Little earns loud praise for her depiction of Mercia; Berenice is well looked after by Miss Lily Ward; and a vivacious Dacia emanates from Miss Cissie Carlton. Other rôles are well looked after, and the setting is distinctly good.

GLASGOW.—Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphreys.—The Moody-Manners Opera Company, Ltd., opened here on Monday with a fine performance of Carmen. Miss Zelie de Lussan was once more the representative of the gipsy girl, and gave an excellent rendering, vocally and dramatically; Mr. Seth Hughes in the tenor part of Don José acquitted himself well, being possessed of a sweet voice, and in the tragic moments of the opera he rose ably to the occasion; Miss Kate Anderson made a charming Michaela; and an impassioned rendering of the part of Escamillo was given by Mr. Lewys James. On Tuesday Lohengrin was given, with Mme. de Vere Sapio and Mr. Philip Broyd in the leading parts. Faust served to introduce Mr. Seth Hughes and Mme. de Vere Sapio, with Mr. Charles Manners as Mephistopheles. On Thursday an important revival of Die Meistersinger was staged, and the programme also included Madame Butterfly, Tannhäuser and The Bohemian Girl.

King's, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—A welcome return visit is this week being payed by Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company in The Dairymaids. Mr. Harry Dent is exceedingly funny and entertaining as Joe Mivens; Mr. E. Statham Staples is responsible for much hilarity in the part of Lieut. Sam Brudenell; Miss Phyllis Dare's impersonation of Peggy is a fine performance; Miss Glady's Ivery makes a pleasing Winifred; Miss Lottie Sargent is a fetching Eliza; Miss Edith Blanche makes a stately Lady Brudenell; and Miss Dorothy Laine makes the most of the part of Helen.

Royalty, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Carpenter.—The Cheat, the new military play by Messrs. Edward Ferris and B. P. Matthews, has reached Glasgow this week, and proves to be a production of strong dramatic interest. The company is Mr. Hubert Druce's, and includes Mr. Frank Cooper, who gives fine distinction to the character of Stephen Blanchard; Mr. Edward Ferris appears as the hero, Lieut. Richard Blanchard, and presents a capital study of an officer and a gentleman; the task of representing the unprincipled Captain Rivers is accomplished with credit by Mr. Claude King; well contrasted types of character are seen in the General Blanchard of Mr Royston Keith and the Admiral Hardy of Mr. Windham Guise; as Ethel Hardy Miss Helen Russell acts with grace and dignity; Miss Eugenie Francklyn gives strong emotional effect to the part of Joan Fielding; and Miss Daisy Atherton makes a pleasing Marjorie Vorland. Mr. Charles Goodhart's Dr. Vorland is an imposing figure; Mr. Edward G. Rae lends due weight to the rôle of Colonel Paget; the young officers Brabazon (Mr. Max Leeds) and Neyland (Mr. Charles Crawford) are very well played; and distinctive character work is seen in the Lal-Sing of Mr. S. A. Cookson and the Larry O'Brien of Mr. Littledale Power.

Grand.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Christie Grant.—The fine performance of Dorothy is again attracting most appreciative and enthusiastic audiences to the Grand this week. The auditorium has been quite transformed into a place of beauty and comfort, and the sweetly-pretty opera has charms all its own. Mr. John Coates continues to sing with most delightful charm, and acts the lover to perfection; Mr. Hayden Coffin is a pleasing singer of "Queen of my heart"; the burlesque humour of Mr. Arthur Williams as the Sheriff's officer leaves nothing to be desired; Miss Ruth Davenport as Dorothy is excellent, and has a sweet voice; and Miss Hebe Bliss also merits much praise.

Royal Princess's.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch. — Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Mackey and company appear here in Rollicking Rory, with Mr. Mackey as Rory, a part he ably fills. Mr. Fred W. Leonard as Stephen D'Arcy and Mr. Charles Bailey as Captain Ashleigh are particularly effective, and are well supported by Messrs. Chas. Horner and St. John Stuart. Mrs. Chalmers Mackey does well, and the singing of Mme. Constance Bellamy and Miss Nana Flensburg is thoroughly enjoyed.

Metropole, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company appears this week in A Wrecker of Men. Miss Florence Mel rose Millet gives a strong delineation of the fascinating Risca Mallinson; Mr. Eric Campbell as one of her victims is a powerful Jim Murley; Miss Gwendoline Talbot is a charming Doris Melville; and the hero, Guise Strange, is ably represented by Mr. Arthur Robinson. Mr. Milner Noble as Pharosaphus, a mysterious Egyptian wanderer, looks and acts the part to perfection; and the Jew, Isaacs, has a good exponent in Mr. Charles E. Lovell. Miss Gertrude Camp is pleasing in the part of Marion Isaacs; while Miss Beatrice Reynolds supplies plentiful comedy as Vavasole Slopper. Another of the "wrecker's" victims is finely played by Mr. Thompson Carruthers as Eric Melville; Mr. Millar Willson is successful as the Hon. Reggie Verincourt; and Mr. J. Ansdell Wilson makes a dignified Railton.

Lyceum.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Her Road to Ruin contains all the essentials for a thrilling evening's entertainment. Miss Beatrice Edwards as Jess Willoughby and Mr. Henry Wolston as Frank Temple both show a keen appreciation of their responsibilities. They are well supported by Mr. Dane Clarke as the Bishop; Mr. Otto Munster as Tom Wells, the poor journalist; Mr. Alex. Bradley as Philip Hardy, the villain; Miss Alice Bowes as May Willoughby; and Miss Nellie Bouser in her triple rôle, in which she shows great ability. Mr. Harry Talbot as Billy Boots and Miss Marie Wright as Jenny Crackling in their "Theatrical Rehearsal" in the third act are responsible for a most amusing interlude.

Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Manners.—Miss Marie Lloyd is the top turn here, and her impersonation of the "Directoire Girl" is well received. Other notable turns include Spry and Austin, a versatile pair; the Bros. Redmond; Reichen and his dogs in a clever performance; the Jackson Family in a fine musical entertainment; Marion Scott, comedienne; Phil and Nellie Peters, entertainers; Ella Lane, comedienne; and the Lukushimas, Japanese entertainers.

Zoo-Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Councillor E. H. Bostock; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. H. A.

maids from school" dance with a gouty old soldier; and Bessie Knight is a lively comedienne of the coon variety. The Bioscope pleasingly winds up the evening.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Evan Good.—That quaint and original comedienne, Maidie Scott, is again proving a great hit here, and all her songs are enthusiastically received. George Dance's company in The Burglar's Ball provide a lively and enjoyable half-hour's sketch, which goes well all through; another clever and amusing sketch is Ferdie's Ma-in-Law, which is responsible for roars of laughter; the Four Spanish Goldinis give a unique turn with their carpet-spinning and other novel items; Harry Levaine is an amusing and original comedian; Walker and May, the coloured singers and dancers, again prove great favourites here; and Edwin Barwick, in a new scena; Massona, the jolly juggler; and Spangles and Sawdust, in an aerial act, complete a lengthy programme.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—The comic juggling act of Radford and Valentine provokes a deal of merriment here; and that clever American couple, Blake and Amber, make a hit with their operatic burlesque business. Ethel Loftus shows talent as a girl comedienne; Lambeth and Robertson give one of their amusing sketches of Scottish character; and a refined gymnastic act is submitted by Rappo and Ella. The singing and instrumental turn of the Scottish Belles finds favour; the smart dancing and club-juggling of the Claymores is also well received; Harry Arnold, a local comedian, makes a successful appearance; and Harry Bold's patter and singing and the duets of the Sisters Wingrove complete a pleasing programme.

COLISEUM.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—Ella Retford is the star here, and this chic comedienne and dainty dancer is accorded a rousing and well-deserved reception at every performance. That gigantic specimen of humanity, Machnow, the Russian giant, is also here, and his huge proportions excite great wonder and astonishment; Herbert Shelley gives his clever protean sketch, Dan, the Outlaw, in which his able performance of the five different characters and the incidental songs earn him hearty applause; Rell and Butt give a smart comedy act, with some clever dancing; the Haytors contribute an amusing sketch and some eccentric dancing &c.; the turn of Kisbey, the call-boy, is well worked up, and proves popular; Adey Spencer is a neat and nimble dancer; Ernest Tilbury sings well in illustrated songs; Harry Herbert is an eccentric comedian with several very smart songs; and the Bioscope is well up to date. Merrill and Ward, comedy trick cyclists, only appeared on Monday evening owing to their unfortunate accident.

GAIETY, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—Programmes of interest and amusement are still being held before the patrons of the Anderston house. This week Williams and Warden take the leading place, and are thoroughly enjoyed in their Irish cross-talk and dancing. Daisy Morrell is extremely popular; Ivy May and Edie Ward are both comediennes above the average; the Sisters Rivers as duettists, whistlers, and dancers take well; and Fred Smart, eccentric comedian, and the Gaiety Bioscope terminate a well-balanced programme.

PANOPTICON.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—Here we have Arthur Crow, who excels as a comedian with plenty of side-splitting patter; Klean and Klever are clever dancers; the Silvane's have many friends; the Sisters Ely do well in their song; and a popular item on this programme is the Bioscope.

GLOUCESTER. — PALACE. — Owners, Messrs. Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. C. W. Poole.—Messrs. Conn and Conrad have a good act of the gymnastic order; the Four Amaranths are clever acrobatic dancers; and excellent clog dancing is given by Macintosh and Royal. Nat Watkins patters well; and Harry Edson has two wonderfully trained dogs. Mr. Henry A. Moore, as actor and mimic, is clever and refined; and McDonald and Huntingdon entertain capitally with their American duets, dancing, &c. Miss Millie Howell, descriptive vocalist, sings two songs; and the Palacescope concludes.

KING'S HALL.—Messrs. Poole's Theatres, Ltd.—The popular life-motioned pictures and illustrated songs are the form of entertainment here. Miss Gertie Nicholas is the vocalist.

GOOLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Fred Greaves.—Messrs. Elliman and company opened here on Monday with A Heart's Desire. The scenery is first-rate, and the piece is well staged. Mr. R. F. Stacey makes a manly Lord St. Ives; Luke Forrest is most ably taken by Mr. E. Leroy; a good portrayal is that of Mr. J. Mitchell as Eric May; Mr. H. Lawrence plays with spirit the part of Hon. B. Beresford; Mr. J. Hames is an amusing Coombes; Mr. C. King is a capital David McCulloch; Miss Lily Prescott wins all hearts by her natural portrayal of Olya; Miss B. Leroy is an excellent Hon. E. Beresford; and Miss H. May plays with charm and grace the rôle of Gwendoline Rose.

GRAVESEND.—NEW PUBLIC HALL AND THEATRE.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. R. Feaver Clarke, J.P.—Mr. Bannister Howard sent a good company in When Knights Were Bold, under the direction of Mr. A. Howard, on Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Bert Beswick as Sir Guy de Vere worked untiringly, and infused an enormous amount of humour into the character. He was ably assisted by his servants, Wittle and Barker, happily entrusted to Messrs. C. Roadnight and S. F. Courtenay. As Mr. Isaacson Mr. C. Benson was perfectly easy and natural; as was Mr. Humphrey Warden as Sir Brian Ballymote; Mr. Colin Johnston as the Dean was dignified; and Mr. Algernon Lee was very funny as the Hon. Charles Widdicombe. As Miss Isaacson Miss Madge Devereux was decidedly good; whilst as Lady Millicent Miss May Guthrie was most captivating. Miss Elsie Groves as Mrs. Pottlebury, Miss Ada Waugh as Alice Barker, and Miss Norah Kingsley as the Hon. Mrs. Waldegrave were all good; and Miss Edith Anton Laing as Lady Rowena acted delightfully throughout.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — ROYAL AQUARIUM THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Sherlock Holmes is the attraction here this week. In the title-rôle Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart displays marked ability; Mr. Douglas Murray is very humorous as Sydney Prince; James Larrabee has a clever exponent in Mr. Mark Draper; Mr. Robert Gilbert is good as Professor Moriarity; Miss Edith Vogne cleverly portrays Madge Larrabee; and Miss Betty Fairfax is charming as Alice Faulkner. The play is well mounted.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Victor Rowe has commenced a season of animated pictures and varieties; the pictures are clear and steady. Charles Williams is a smart light comedian; Irene May executes some exceptionally clever dances; Charles May's illustrated songs are popular; Veld is an excellent instrumentalist; and the Neilsons, in Silly Billy, are well received.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. George Gilbert.—Fred Earle receives a cordial reception; Nellie Derham is a pleasing comedienne; the Dayton Troupe are exceptionally clever acrobats; Leicester Cooke is a good equestrian; Percy Farrimond's excellent voice is heard to advantage; Jules Kiono is a smart hand equilibrist; Edgar Budden scores as a bone sololist and skate dancer; and Doodles' absurdities create much merriment.

THE GEM.—Proprietors, the Yarmouth Amusement Centre, Ltd.; Resident-Director, Mr. C. B. Cochran.—Excellent films, both humorous and dramatic, are being exhibited here this week. Those worthy of special mention are Saved by an Ape, Drummers' Day Off, and The Pilot's Daughter. The illustrated song, "Shadowland," is well received.

GREENOCK. — ALEXANDRA THEATRE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. B. Cardwell's juvenile pantomime company is this week presenting The House that Jack Built. Miss Daisy Wood as Jack quickly made herself a favourite, and has had a flattering reception at each house; Miss Dolly Dodds is exceedingly graceful as Jill, and sings her songs prettily; Miss Jennie Hughes as the Fairy and Miss Gladys Wyse in the character of Wee McGregor are worthy of special mention. Messrs. Graham and Barron are a capital pair of comedians; Mr. Jimmie Watson as Aunt Purdy causes roars of laughter; Squire Bounce is capably sustained by Mr. H. Hillerby; and the specialities are of an attractive nature. The dresses are gorgeous, and the scenery a marked feature of a splendid performance.

EMPIRE.—Lessees, the Greenock Empire Syndicate; Responsible-Manager, Mr. Edward McCormick; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. J. Colquhoun.—The premier attraction this week is Dr. Walford Bodie, the bloodless surgeon, who performed some wonderful cures in sight of the audience, and caused screams of laughter with his mesmerism; Li Chang Hi creates much astonishment with his marvellous conjuring feats; the Three Alskarnos, risley comedians, Mrs. Mabel Martin, in a musical act, the Brothers Baxter, comedians, Ivey Aberdare, comedienne and dancer, the Original Musical Shipbuilders, Fransisco, juggler and equilibrist, and Little Dollie Robson, comedienne and dancer, complete an excellent programme.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry L. Skivington.—Leoni Clarke, the "cat king," is giving his highly interesting performance with his admirably trained animals here this week. Others appearing successfully are Ryde and Beeman, a pair of clever and amusing acrobats; Sidney Dolf, the "originator of novelties"; Tom E. Hughes, a comedian of undoubted merit; Doyle and Gibson, clever cross-talk comedians; Dancit, the "American dancing nugget"; and Vrea Mayne, a charming comedienne. The Hippodrome pictures are again a capital collection.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—A new drama, A Country Girl in London, is being presented by Messrs. Alfred Northway and W. V. Garrod. Mr. Garrod himself appears as Frank Gordon, and invests the part with sympathy and dignity; Miss Bertha Kingston instils a pleasing charm into the part of Marjorie Hamilton; the strongly emotional character of Gwendoline Gordon is excellently realised by Miss Josephine Colona; Mr. G. Moreton Williams suitably portrays the unscrupulous adventurer, Godfrey Clinton; Mr. Clifford Marle faithfully reflects the varying moods of Job Smithers; Mr. John S. Sheridan is good as Squire Hamilton; Mr. E. W. Avery is responsible for clever character acting as Heinrich Oppenhein; and Mr. Seymour Perry as Wilberforce Puddyphat and Miss Lesley Adair as Adelaide Puddyphat contribute excellent comedy scenes.

THE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Much interest is being aroused by the visit of Miss Alice Hollander, the celebrated Australian contralto. She is contributing a series of favourite concerts ballads, in which her beautiful voice is heard to the best advantage, and she is enthusiastically received. The Proveanies, a clever troupe of lady cyclists, give a daring exhibition of difficult feats; the Saxonias, a quintette of musicians, perform selections upon saxophones, &c.; Frank Harwood, a popular actor-vocalist, is repeating his former success here; Cora Magda gives a smart gymnastic display on the trapeze; May de Rowse is a comedienne and dancer with a dainty style; and Lorne and Lorne appear in a capital vocal comedy sketch.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Another company under the Hutchison management is at this house this week, presenting Mrs. Ponderbury's Past. Mr. George Mudie makes a realistic henpecked husband as Mr. Ponderbury, and causes unlimited laughter; Mr. Drew Mackintosh is delightfully fresh and buoyant as Mervyn Thorpe; the old servant, Peter, as depicted by Mr. Alfred Ibberson is a fine character-study; Miss Florence Wellesley is charming and lovable as Ethel Penniston; Miss Florence Wix infuses sufficient abandon into the part of Mme. Modjeski to make it an unqualified success; and Miss Annie Stalman's Mrs. Ponderbury is a clever performance. The comedy is preceded by His Landlady, well put on and played.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Mme. Ada Colley is delighting big houses, her cultivated voice being heard to fine effect; Jack Brooks mystifies the audience with his conjuring tricks; and Pictures complete.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Reg. H. Foster.—The Seven Perezoffs contribute a pantomimic juggling turn, An Animated Supper at Maxim's—a smart performance admirably staged and dressed. Burns and Bentley are two clever dancers; Bob Hamilton, Scotch comedian, is a success; Addie Dorina proves a skilful protean artist in Dr. Spot's Patients, ably assisted by Frank Wheatcroft as Dr. Spot; Talbot and Pearce provide a musical treat in Yo-San; Charles Tuppen's playing on a coach-horn meets with warm approval; Annie Schubert sings delightfully in her scena, The Deputy; and Jessie Burnett, comedienne, and the Pictures complete the enjoyable entertainment.

HAMILTON, N.B.—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. René Clayton.—Arthur Watson and Flo Stanley's company, in a musical comedy sketch, The Cruise of H.M.S. Victory, are topping the bill here this week; dainty Kitty Colyer's clever dancing and sweet singing make her a big favourite; G. B. Preston, an old local favourite, meets with a very flattering welcome; Fraser and French, ragtime vocalists and dancers, are well received; Blarney and Kennard, cross-talk comedians, are amusing, as are also a couple of dogs introduced into their turn; the Three Arleys, together with their cleverly-trained dogs, give an exceptionally good acrobatic show; Clarice Sefton dances very cleverly; Miss Josie Mooney is good in a character comedy song; Mr. Walter Munro, comedian and dancer, and the Bioscope conclude.

HANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Douglas Elphinstone.—A tremendous ovation was accorded Miss Lily Brayton and Mr. Oscar Asche at the conclusion, on Monday evening, of The Taming of the Shrew. Mr. Asche's Petruchio was a great piece of acting, only equalled by Miss Brayton's Katharina. Miss Muriel Ashwynne as Bianca played with artistic sweetness; Miss Constance Robertson as Curtis played her part cleverly; Mr. G. Kay Souper as Lucentio gave a masterly interpretation; Mr. Tripp Edgar as Tranio was splendid; Mr. Caleb Porter as Gremio, Mr. Herbert Grimwood as Baptista, Mr. J. Fritz Russell as Vicentio, Mr. R. Ian Penny as Hortensio, Mr. R. F. Anson as Biondello, Mr. Henry Kitts as Grumio, and Mr. Arthur Trandom, one and all, are worthy of special praise. Othello and The Two Pins are also being given for one night each. The general-manager is Mr. B. A. Meyer and Mr. Christopher Lloyd directs the orchestra.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—Charles Prelle's Bijou Circus causes endless fun; Raymond's Bio-tableaux show The Salving of the Gladiator and The Eucharest Procession very clearly; Harry Conlin is a quaint comedian; Monks at Play is cleverly put on by Surrey Lindon's Entertainers; the Dunedin Troupe of trick cyclists verge on the miraculous; Rosie Coleman, comedienne, is good; the Three Panamas have a smart act; Nipper Lupino Lane is a brilliant dancer; Belle Davis returns with her talented pick chick actors, and again scores a tremendous success.

KING'S EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Moore and Kennedy; Acting-Manager and Operator, Capt. F. Shaw.—This week's pictures include the Isle of Man Motor Race, The Little Cripple, Dolly's Adventure, The Pneumatic Policeman, The Convict and the Dove, A Raw Recruit, and The Bathroom Tragedy. Mlle. Vanda Lorraine on the rolling globe and slack wire is very successful.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding Smith.—For the first three nights of this week Messrs. Dauncey and Levaux's company appeared in The Walls of Jericho, and large houses were attracted. Mr. Alfred Goddard was excellent as Jack Frobisher, and brought down the house at his outburst in Act. 3. Miss Nancy Beresford was a capable exponent of Lady Alethea; and Mr. A. W. Tyrer was well placed as the vicious Harry Dallas. Mr. Russell Barry was good as Hankey Bannister. Other parts were well filled.

ST. JAMES'S HALL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Sydney H. Carter; General-Manager, Mr. F. D. Sunderland; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred A. Parker.—This spacious and well-equipped hall has been permanently taken by Mr. Carter's company. Picture shows are given morning and afternoon, and large audiences are the rule. Among the films shown are Mary Stuart, The Fountains of Versailles, Darnley's Comedians, Moving In, The Miser, and Othello, Captain Devereux appears in his dog sensation, The Canine Streets of London, and is greatly appreciated.

THE KURSAAL.—General-Manager and Musical-Director, Mr. Julian Clifford; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. R. Eldrid.—Miss Adelaide Lambe is the vocalist here this week. The Munograph shows new films; and Consul, the well-known monkey trained to a high state of perfection, is announced. A special afternoon is announced for Tuesday with Mr. Walter Gordon, entertainer. For Wednesday Mr. Percy French, in his entertainment, was billed.

HARTLEPOOL.—EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. C. Ferrier.—Pictures continue to hold sway here, and some exceedingly good ones are shown this week. The Rarebit Fiend, a clever trick film, causes roars of laughter, and another amusing picture is The French Recruit. The Marathon Race, Lost in the Alps, The Trainer's Daughter, Engulfed in the Quicksand, and An Italian's honour are all very interesting. An illustrated song, "When the fields are white with daisies," is rendered in Mr. Chas. Ferrier's usual masterly style.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—The Moody-Manners Opera Company opened a week's visit here on Monday with the first performance in Hastings of Puccini's opera, Madame Butterfly, which was received with much applause by a house crowded in every part. Mr. Cuthbert Hawley directed the largely-augmented orchestra, and secured a thoroughly artistic and impressive rendering. The opera was beautifully mounted. Miss Enriqueta Crichton played the title-rôle with exquisite pathos, and held the house enthralled in the final scene; Mr. Charles Carter filled the rôle of Pinkerton, and in the duet of the first act shared with Miss Crichton a brilliant success; Mr. Charles Moorhouse was seen and heard to advantage as Sharples, the American Consul; Miss Rosina Beynon was excellent as Suzuki, using her fine voice effectively; Mr. R. Brookes gave a good impersonation of Goro, the marriage broker; and effective aid was given by Miss V. Barry as Kate Pinkerton. On Tuesday Faust was presented, Carmen was billed for Wednesday, Cavalleria Rusticana and Pagliacci on Thursday, Lohengrin on Friday, and The Bohemian Girl to-day.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Vivian-Fisher; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Walter Norman.—A well-varied programme is opened by Neville Delmar, a light comedian; Lillie Luraine is a clever instrumentalist; a variety of interesting subjects are depicted on the Bioscope; the Edelweiss Troupe, international entertainers, sing with much sweetness and expression; Charles Trave is a good comic; a merry illusionist is seen in Kinnard, whose sleight-of-hand puzzles his audiences; the Sisters Bartholomew are smart singers and dancers; particularly good are the sayings of Chas. Grantley; and a laughable comedy act, The Substitute, is introduced by Sid Cotterell and company.

PIER PROMENADE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—Mr. Arthur B. Malden's cinematograph lectures continue to attract good audiences. They are interestingly varied, and the modern tourist seems to revisit the scenes of his summer holiday. Mr. Malden is an excellent elocutionist, and his graphic description adds greatly to the pleasing effect of the views. This week he takes Modern and Historical Paris, Scotland, the Land of Mountain, Flood, and Fell, and A Yachting Cruise to Norway.

ST. LEONARD'S PIER. — Entertainment Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—On Monday Mr. Walter Maclean, supported by a talented company, opened a week's visit here in David Garrick, in which he gave a well-studied and convincing exposition of the name-rôle. He was well supported by Miss Eveleen Mills as Ada Ingot. A fine conception of the self-important Simon Ingot was supplied by Mr. T. J. Ford; and the merchant's friends had amusing exponents respectively in Messrs. J. W. Hooper, W. P. Wells, and P. Lewis, and Misses May Conrade and Eily Wilson. The dissolute Squire Chivey was capably represented by Mr. R. C. Harcourt and the servant by Mr. Bishop. A briskly-played comedietta, Uncle Joe, preceded the comedy.

HEREFORD.—GARRICK THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. P. Barnsley.—Dainty Lady Dorothy is being played here by Messrs. Edgar Dereve and Snell Robinson. The music is particularly good. A sweet voice and bright, natural acting marked Miss Ida Ernest's delineation of Lady Dorothy; Mr. W. H. Montgomery gave a good impersonation of Lord Arnold; and Mr. Jerrold Manville as General Sir James Miles introduced excellent comedy.

HORWICH.—NEW PRINCES'.—Lessees, The Horwich Theatre Co.; Manager, Mr. R. H. White.—Miss Maud Haywood and Mr. C. Shott's company, in A Son's Devotion, forms the attraction this week. Mr. Edward Ranier's interpretation of Eric Farnham is a fine performance, and he is ably assisted by an all-round good company. The Bank Robbery is played as a curtain-raiser.

HUDDERSFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. J. Phillips.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is here with Florodora, in which Mr. Fred Eastman plays the part of the irrepressible Tweedlepunch with his usual laughter-raising ability; Mr. Stanley White is bright and brusque as Cyrus Gilfain; Miss Maisie Ellinger as Dolores is handsome and charming enough to account for the lovelorn state of Amercoed, played with effect by Mr. H. V. Cropton; Mr. Edwin Oxlee is quite a flamboyant sort of person as Leandro; Miss M. Van Dieman is smart as Valeda, the maid; Miss Bessie Middleton is daintily natural as Angela Gilfain; and Miss Edith Houseley plays the up-to-date society lady to the life. There is a good chorus and pretty scenery and dresses.

HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The turns appearing here are Brinn, the strong man, in his clever act "Pastimes on a Battleship." Miss Lizzie Kirk, comedienne and dancer; O'Malley and Brown in a comedy duologue; Frank Leon, an expert clog dancer; Great Scott in a daring performance on the unsupported ladder; Harry Simms, light comedian; Carl Lynn, an entertaining animal mimic; the Five Sisters Warwick, a neat and clever troupe of cyclists; and new films on the Bioscope.

HULL.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Morton's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Miss Ellen Terry is paying a welcome visit this week with Mr. Jas. Carew in Captain Brassbound's Conversion. Lady Cicely is just the character to carry an audience, and that there is full appreciation of the rôle goes without saying. The Scotch missionary, Rankin, is well played by Mr. Story-Gofton; Captain Brassbound finds a fitting place for Mr. Jas. Carew; Mr. Max Montesole figures well as Felix Drinkwater, and renders a difficult rôle with credit; and there is much to admire in both Mr. Frank Powell's Captain Kearney and Mr. David Hallam's Marzo.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Manager, Mr. Tom Bogue.—It is some time since we saw Mr. Zangwill's Merely Mary Ann, and it may well be said that it has received the welcome it deserves. Remarkably skilful is the picture that Miss Jessica Solomon paints of Mary Ann. Her creation is one that merits every commendation: she realises the rôle in a very pleasing fashion, and conveys to the audience the Mary Ann which Zangwill meant her to be. Her art is natural and pleasant. Mr. Paul Lovett was a very effective Lancelot; whilst the Peter of Mr. Stephen Logan was exceptionally good. Miss Violet Greville is well cast as Mrs. Leadbatter, and makes the part one that just takes the audience's fancy.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Morton's, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—The attraction this week is The Girl with the Angel Face. Miss Florence Green undertakes with much credit the name-rôle; the village sexton is a rôle which finds for Mr. Fred G. Evison ample opportunities. Miss Mildred Carr and Mr. Allen Charles effectively hit off the comedy parts.

THE CIRCUS.—Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Emerson.—Sydney Carter's pictures are drawing crowded houses.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—Jack Laurier tops the bill with success; Applicants, a clever sketch, is presented by Dean Tribune and company; Lucy Coventry is a very clever dancer; F. V. St. Clair's topical songs make a big hit; and other turns include Stella Stahl, Blake and Granby, and the Three Cattanios.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Slingsby.—Appearing here are the Gregson Comedy Duo, the Eltons, the Sisters Carlton, the Marblesque Trio, Harry Harvey, Little Vena, and two local shoeblacks.

ILKESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—For Love and the King is proving quite an attraction this week in the hands of Mr. C. Watson Mill and company, Mr. Mill himself receiving quite an ovation for his capital interpretation of Jarval. Miss Rosalind Tate takes the part of Princess Athene in a praiseworthy manner; Miss Joan Ellis plays with good taste as Natila; and Mr. Alfred Hilliard is quite at home in the rôle of Prince Uros. King Kara is cleverly represented by Mr. Frank Lyndon; and Duke Fernand finds a suitable exponent in Mr. Geoffrey Chate. Miss Marie Ault gives a good reading of Grazier; and Miss Frances Tierney is successful as Edith Meredith. Mr. Jim K. Woods causes much amusement as Carl Oppenheim; Mr. John Burton is aptly chosen for the miser Michael Obrenovic; and Vladimir Obrenovic finds an excellent interpreter in Mr. Henry Earlesmere.

IPSWICH.—LYCEUM.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company is here with At Cripple Creek and At Roaring Camp. The company is popular, and includes the following artists:—Miss Constance Elgin, Miss Lily Beagle, Miss Rosie Hopkins, Miss Daisy Carlton (as the heroine), and Miss Dorah Dillon; Mr. Henry Hare, Mr. Charles B. Johnson, Mr. Roy Jackson, Mr. Harley West, Mr. Arthur North, and Mr. Will Hook.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Miss Alexandra Dagmar is receiving a hearty welcome on her return visit, and her popularity is unbounded. Her vocal abilities are of a very high class. Lockhart's Elephants, under Capt. Taylor's management, have been here several times, but their clever feats and marvellous training always meet with appreciation. Miss Marguerite Ismay and her White Coons sing well and dance exquisitely. The Bill also includes Joe Archer, Louis Karno, and George Gordon, comedians; Ruhart, the juggler; Lavell Brothers, knockabouts; and Charles Dixon's company in Uncle Obadiah.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson.—Messrs. Garside and Knowles' company is here with the drama Her Marriage Vow. Mr. J. Forbes Knowles gives a finished rendering of Ned Benton; Mr. Charles B. Beddells is well placed as Gilbert Carlton; and Mr. Edwin J. Collins is excellent as Daffy Dan. Mr. Chas. Mont causes much amusement as Larry Leary, and is ably assisted by Miss Winifred Barton as Maggie Clare. Miss Helena Walbran is charming as Kate Walters; Miss Nellie Shirley makes the most of the part of Hester Norton; and the rest of the characters are in very good hands.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. E. Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—The concluding programme of the vaudeville season here contains two splendid star turns in Les Montallos, who introduce some wonderfully trained cockatoos, and the Almos, in which the man, who proves himself a simply marvellous equilibrist, is assisted by a remarkably pretty and piquant girl. Other turns are Takio, a Japanese mimic, whose English is particularly good, but whose pronunciation of one or two words caused the "gods" much amusement; Eva Daunton, vocalist and dancer; Gracie Hunt, comedienne; Lucie Bernard, with illustrated songs; and E. W. Selman, comedian. The dramatic season opens next week with the popular lessee's drama As Midnight Chimes.

KEIGHLEY.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Kendall; Acting-Manager, Mr. Will Carson.—A well-filled house greeted The Lady of Ostend on Monday. Mr. Lawrence Brough acts cleverly as the French Baron; Mr. Wm. Spray gives an admirable performance of Dick Whortles; and Mr. Robert Bolder, Mr. William Macready, and Miss Barbara Glynn render capable support.

KETTERING.—AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Payne.—The attraction this week is Mr. J. A. Campbell's company with The Old Folks at Home. Mr. Aidan Lovett is an admirable Andrew Ross; Mr. Vernon Proctor a successful Hugh Lovell; and the unscrupulous character of Lord Kenilworth is forcibly enacted by Mr. Frank Liston. Miss Maud Warburton gives a charming rendering of Dorothy; and Miss Kate Froud's acting as Patricia Bathurst is good. Mr. Frank Caffran and Miss Nellie Hook contribute some excellent comedy as Ben Jolly and Susan respectively. The acting of Mr. Henry Nelson and Miss Clara Santley as the "old folks" is deserving of the highest praise.

KIDDERMINSTER. — NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Gudgeon.—Kidderminster has again an opportunity of seeing the musical comedy The Prince of Pilsen, presented in first-class style by Mr. Baron H. Harris's company. Mr. Harry Kilburn as Hans Wagner is exceedingly funny, and keeps the audience laughing practically the whole time he is on the stage. Miss Sophie Harris as Mrs. Maddison Cracker makes the most of her opportunities, her dresses being beautiful and artistic; Mr. Leslie Powers as the Prince is striking, and renders the part with power; Lieut. Tom Wagner is in the capable hands of Mr. Arthur Geary; and Mr. Chas. Rogers is funny in the rôle of the Earl of Shrimpton. Miss Nellie Lomas is a pretty Nellie Wagner; and Miss Mabel Dent as Sidonio dances well and is full of fun. There are some capital songs well rendered, which were encored again and again.

KIRKCALDY.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The Prince of Monte Carlo is being presented by Mr. Harry Roxbury's company, including Mr. Tubby Edlin, who is making a phenomenal success in the comedy rôle. Mr. Chevalier Cliquot presents quite a sensational turn; Ike and Will Scott are quaint comedians and clever dancers; Lidsay and Harte, in a Scotch musical turn, have a warm reception; and Bass and Davies, comedians and dancers, contribute acceptably. An interesting exhibition of wrestling is given by Little Hackenschmidt. The Hipposcope concludes.

LANCASTER. — GRAND THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. C. Howitt.—Mr. Cecil A. Collins and company are presenting Hands Across the Sea to fair audiences. As Jack Dudley Mr. Collins appears to special advantage; Joseph Stillwood and his son Robert are exceedingly well played by Mr. Adam Alexander and Mr. C. Clifton Boyne respectively;

The Imperial Tobacco Co. (of Great Britain and Ireland), Limited.

the part of Tom Bassett could scarcely be in better hands than those of Mr. Forrester Harvey; Miss Beatrice Whitney gives a careful study of Lilian Melford; and as Lucy Nettleford Miss Lilla Nordon is a success.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. John Porter and W. J. Fergusson.—Mr. Chas. Parker's Six Æolians are the stars here; Jenny Manings in a novel juggling act; Edward E. Ford with droll facial expressions; J. J. Mannix, coon comedian; Chas. Santon, a good vocalist; Kathleen Gray, comedienne; Lily Hayes, comedienne and dancer, and the Hippograph complete the bill.

Leamington. — Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. George Anthony.—An excellent attraction is provided for the opening of the dramatic season this week, Mr. Lewis Waller's principal company, under the direction of Mr. F. Clive Ross, appearing in the romantic play Robin Hood. This being the first occasion the piece has been played locally, Robin Hood is receiving a warm reception at the hands of Leamington audiences. The character of Robin Hood is entrusted with Mr. Ethelbert Edwards, who proves himself admirably adapted for the part; Miss Lilian Stennis makes a charming Lady Marian; Mr. J. N. Briant a good King Richard; and Mr. H. Elliott Ball an effective Prince John. Mr. C. Bruce Winston as Friar Tuck and Mr. F. Clive Ross as John Little provide much amusement; whilst Miss Irene Malvesyn is a dignified Eleanor of Acquitaine.

Royal Assembly Rooms.—Proprietor, Mr. A. Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. Francis Londberg.—Mr. Waller Jeff's New Century picture company is now entering on its thirteenth week, and still continues to do good business owing to the constant change of up-to-date pictures. The variety turns this week are the Musical Morrellis in a smart musical performance, and Miss Connie Kemp, soprano.

Leeds.—Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—The popular new musical comedy Tom Jones made its bow to a full house at this theatre on Monday, and was voted a vastly amusing entertainment. Mr. Dan Rolyat leads the humorous element in great style, his Benjamin Partridge evoking continual merriment; Mr. Ambrose Manning is also original and entertaining in the character of Squire Western; the part of Tom Jones is well within the capabilities of Mr. Harry Welchman, his vocal renderings being much appreciated; whilst his rival Blifil is an efficient personation by Mr. Deane Percival. Miss Florence Smithson, a big favourite locally, sings and acts well up to her reputation in the leading part of Sophia. Mr. Edward German's pretty music is admirably rendered by an augmented orchestra under the able bâton of Mr. E. Thornton.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—Her Forbidden Marriage is the entertainment here, its presentation by Mr. Walter Melville's clever company being well patronised. The heroine, Lucy Lancaster, is a pleasing and accomplished effort by Miss Geraldine Le Sage; Mr. Henry Lonsdale makes a manly and effective figure as George Maddison; whilst Miss Agnes Imlay is duly impressive as the Mother Superior. Mr. Fred de Vere and Miss Maude Merrick deserve much praise for clever work in humorous characters.

Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.—District-Manager, Mr. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—George Bastow leads here with clever and amusing character-studies, and his work arouses the demonstrative appreciation of full houses. The evergreen J. W. Rowley is at the bottom of the bill, and is as popular as ever; Carrie Laurie's Juveniles are again a pleasing and successful turn; an expert acrobatic entertainment is subscribed by the Three Brothers Huxter; a neat comedy sketch by Arthur Jefferson's company goes well; Harry Drew enhances his reputation as vocalist; and clever turns are given by Howe and Ardie, Ernie Mayne, and the Great Lumars.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—The most popular item of entertainment this week is W. Selkirk's juvenile spectacle, All Scoteh, cleverly presented by one hundred local children. The Musical Tritons achieve success with a fine turn; the Alberto troupe are well received in a capital speciality; those old favourites, the Brothers Obo, are again doing well; and Leonard Teel, Nellie Ridgway, and the Melroses also prove most entertaining.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford.—Vesta Victoria is the bright particular star at this hall, and her turn arouses the liveliest enthusiasm; Carlton, with a clever sleight-of-hand turn, is deservedly popular; Nightingale and Stignant again score with a farcical sketch; another amusing episode is effectively done by Mr. and Mrs. George Leonard; feats of strength by John Grun Marx arouse much interest; and of the rest Vasey and Ramsey, Joe Conway, Mike Noño, and Fioretti and Elly are particularly prominent.

City Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Charles Harvey and company score here with a laughable sketch, which is cleverly presented; Edna Latonne is successful as vocalist and impersonator; Larry Lewis is prominent amongst the comedy providers; Crosby and Walker and Bert Williams also doing well.

Leicester.—Royal Opera House.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. Charles Hermann.—Mr. William Mollison and his excellent company occupy the boards here in a répertoire of plays including The Merchant of Venice, The Bonnie Briar Bush, Macbeth, and As You Like It. The first-mentioned was presented on Monday evening, when Mr. William Mollison, an actor of high histrionic talents, gave a really fine interpretation of Shylock, being well supported by Miss Evelyn McNay, who made a favourable impression as Portia. Other parts calling for special eulogium were played by Mr. William Calvert, Antonio; Mr. Archie W. Chappell, Bassanio; Mr. Murray Graham, Lorenzo; Mr. R. B. Drysdale, Lancelot Gobbo; Miss Edith Blair-Staples, Jessica; and Miss Gladys Brandon Gower, Nerissa. On Tuesday The Bonnie Briar Bush was given with Mr. William Mollison making a conspicuous success as Lachlan Campbell, and Miss Evelyn McNay giving a delightful impersonation of Flora. The plays are well staged and dressed.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—A capital attraction is staged here this week in the interesting play, Under Two Flags, which is being presented by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company. Miss Agnes Verity as the vivandiere Cigarette, makes a hit with an excellent performance, and Mr. Austen Milroy is also a conspicuous success as Louis Victor; Mr. Arthur Elwyn is good as Colonel Chanteroy; Miss Dorothy Lart plays well as Princess Venetia Corona; Mr. Victor Gardon is capital as Lord Rockingham; and both Mr. Harry Benson as Rake and Miss Elsa Anderson as Lavina deserve special praise.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—At the head of a good all-round programme this week is Tom Foy and company in the absurdity, The Yorkshire Lad in London. At the other end is Ella Shields, a particularly smart singer of coon songs; the Ten-Ji Troupe do some wonderful things in the way of juggling with jets of water, &c., their show being a first-class one; the Eight Lancashire Lads gain a popular reception for their smart dancing; Harry Grey is a versatile comedian; La Belle Nello is aptly termed the queen of equipoise, the suppleness of her limbs being a revelation; the Sisters Allen are excellent speciality dancers; Charles Stevens is a capital light comedian; and Olive Armidale a dainty soubrette. The Bioscope is an entertaining feature.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Lawrence.—Special interest is centred here on the latest craze, a beauty competition, and also a competition for the best head of hair, for which the substantial amount of £50 is being offered in prizes. Johnny Holland and company present their ultra-farcical absurdity, The Boat Builder, with their usual success; the Czar Troupe of Russian dancers are particularly smart; Daisy Silcott maintains her popularity as a comedienne; Jimmy Laurie is a capital comedian; Maude Beaumont, burlesque actress, goes well; Jack Heath is an entertaining eccentric comedian; the Levans in illustrated songs, and May Tudor, chorus vocalist, also appear; Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope maintains its popularity with What Willie Did and An Indian Romance.

The Empire.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company; District-Manager, Mr. Gerald Hunt; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. A. Hurley.—The chief moving pictures in a big programme here this week are The Pirate's Honour, A Romance of the Slums, The Maniac's Revenge, or the Pretty Girl Farmer, The Young Sportswoman, The Fresh Air Fiend, and Sausage Fruit. A popular and cleverly worked show is provided by De Vere's lifelike marionettes, in a turn that has the merit of originality in many particulars. There is also a dancing competition taking place during the week.

Leigh.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wallace Childs.—Mrs. Sam Duckworth's company is here with The Conscience of a Judge. Mr. Kenyon Musgrave as Herbert Granstone, the judge, deserves praise for his representation; Mr. Reginald Maurice plays admirably as Cecil Bentley; Mr. Sam Courtney is an excellent Sir Edwin Mervin; Jessica Draycott is capably presented by Miss Nellie Howitt; Miss Mabel Coleman is successful as Ethel Vaughan; and the comic side of the drama is safe in the hands of Mr. Fred W. Graham, an excellent Horatio Winters; Mr. Frank Ayrton as John Summers, and Miss Madge Seymour as Mary Wilson.

Leith.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Licensee and Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—The Girl Who Wrecked His Home, a new drama from the prolific pen of Mr. Walter Melville, is interpreted by the author's own touring company in a manner which promises well for the continued popularity of the production. Mr. Fred Goddard plays the leading rôle of Jack Marshall with effective reserve of power; Bertha Marshall is portrayed by Miss Louise Hampton with genuine feeling and sympathy; and the younger and elder Winifred find pleasing representatives in Miss Ida Thompson and Miss Lulu Bowes. The members of the Stevenson family, father and son, are capably represented by Mr. Herbert Goddard, Master Dick Evans, and Mr. Norman B. Canaon; villainy is duly worked in strenuous fashion by Mr. Paul Barry Lewers as Leonard Kenyon, and his accomplices, Josh Crockett and Val Raymond, well acted by Mr. Will L. Clement and Miss Georgie de Lara; and the comedy element is successfully developed by Mr. Francis Hope and Miss Alys Eden as Tommy Biffin and Lottie Primrose.

Liverpool.—Royal Court Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—The second visit to Liverpool at this theatre of The Merry Widow has proved even a greater triumph than the former one. Miss Lily Elsie repeated her former success, and charmed everybody with her graceful dancing and clear, telling voice. The reception accorded to the artist must have proved very gratifying. Another who earned great favour was Mr. Leonard Mackay, whose Prince Danilo was a finished performance. He and Miss Elsie were conjointly the favourites of the evening. Miss Ethel Cadman, possessed of a rich voice, which was remarkable for its purity, deservedly enjoyed some of the honours, and her depiction of Natalie ranked among the best efforts of the company. Mr. W. W. Talleur Andrews was Jolidon, in which part he excelled, and found general appreciation of his singing. Regarding the humorous section of the comedy, the gentlemen responsible left nothing undone to arouse laughter. It would be exceedingly difficult to imagine a funnier Popoff than that presented by Mr. Eric Thorne. The dryness of his humour and the seriousness of his face when delivering witticisms provoked shouts of laughter. An able supporter was Mr. W. H. Rawlins, who undertook Nisch. That well-known and excellent comedian was never seen to better advantage, and much of the fun of the evening was the outcome of his efforts. Mr. Somers Bellamy as the Marquis Cascada and Mr. Theodore Leonard in the rôle of Novakovitch deserved thanks.

Shakespeare Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—The Sins of Society, presented by Mr. F. W. Bolam's company, paid a first visit to Liverpool this week. Mr. E. Vassal-Vaughan was a capital exponent of the part of Sir Dorian March; Mr. C. F. Collins made a convincingly villainous Noel Ferrers; Lady Goldbury was delightfully impersonated by Miss Pattie Browne; Miss Grace E. Leslie presented a Lady Marion that was full of sympathetic feeling; as James Hogg Mr. Blake Adams proved entirely amusing; Miss Dorothy Giles acted sweetly as Lady Ashley; and worthy support also came from Mr. Frederick Annerley (Mr. Morris) and Mr. E. P. Gee (Parker).

Rotunda Theatre.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—The Girl Who Took the Wrong Turning has proved a draw at the popular north-end house, Mr. Walter Melville's company of artists being an accomplished one. Mr. F. Ronald Adair in the rôle of Willie Mason was a great favourite, and earned much applause; Miss Jessie Belmore acted with a deal of dramatic force the part of the unfortunate Sophie Coventry; Mr. Raymond Wood as the rascally James Harcourt did well; Miss Nannie Meade did excellently with the rôle of Vesta le Clere; extremely humorous were Mr. F. Ingram (Johnny Walker) and Miss Marie Kildare (Poppy Slater); Miss Zoe Davis proved successful as Lucy Coventry; Mr. Sydney Sarl did justice to Bill Slater; and Mr. Frank R. Robertson gave satisfaction with his Jack Fenton.

Star Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Here this week Messrs. Paumier and Howard's able company gave The Midnight Wedding. The leading rôle was undertaken by Mr. A. E. Winnington Barnes, who showed much ability as the heroic Paul Valmar; Miss Yvonne Orchardson handled the parts of Princess Astrea and Lieut. Karl with every satisfaction. The comedy was well presented by Messrs. James E. Page (a very funny Sergeant Max), Harry Richardson (Corporal Otto), Algie Spalding (Private Bobo), and Miss Itua Herne (Rozel). Mr. John Nebitt made a dignified Prince Leopold; and Mr. Francis Hawley did well as Father Gerard. To-morrow (Sunday) Mr. Harris Fineberg will kindly lend the use of his theatre for a sacred concert in aid of the unemployed fund.

Empire.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole.—Owing to the indisposition of one of the artists, Bella and Bijou, the top-liners, were unable to appear, and Mr. George Lashwood deputised. On Wednesday evening Mme. Alice Esty, the renowned prima-donna, was added to the programme. The Gothams pleased with their capital entertainment; Nell Emerald had some acceptable songs and dances; a well-presented dramatic episode, Told in a Flat, came from Harry Rogers and company; the Frank L. Gregory Troupe went through a smart hoop-rolling and juggling show; Maudie Francis, as a comedienne and dancer, pleased immensely; a clever musical act emanated from the Four Jumels; and contributions likewise came from the Athlones, athletes; and Cyril Dane, comedian.

Queen's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Granville.—Here during the week Mr. Andrew Melville's company has given Driven from Home.

Lyric.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—Top of the bill here this week has been an able dramatic sketch entitled The Light in the Window, given by Fred Winn and company. It was received with much favour. The Pasquali Brothers went through a smart exhibition as speciality equilibrists and tumblers; Gus Harris appeared in his latest success, "'Tis Primrose Day"; a sparkling musical entertainment was provided by Aiston's White Stars; Tony Black, Scotch comedian, proved very amusing; as aerial gymnasts Natalia and Diana showed much ability; and others in the list were Edie Anderson, comedienne and dancer; and Ida Barr, burlesque artist.

Royal Hippodrome. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Heading the programme here this week have been the interesting Colibris Midgets, whose work earned for them a deal of hearty applause. Buddha's Blackboard, on which questions were answered, proved a source of enjoyment and bewilderment; the humorous Michael Nolan brought his latest songs, which were richly enjoyed; some particularly smart and funny tumbling was gone through by the Three Van Hosts; Leonie de Lausanne and company presented a neat turn of expert rifle shooting; Harry Rogerson, "the tired comedian," made his audience roar with laughter; a smart comedy musical mélange came from the Hiatts; Lena Wylie sang several soprano songs with taste; and Rosie Reval, comedy and dialect artist, was acceptable.

Royal Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—Good business has been done here this week with The Duke's Motto; or, I Am Here! played by the stock dramatic company. Mr. David G. Noble acted excellently as Legardere; Mr. Leo Montgomery satisfactorily doubled Phillipe of Orleans and Duke Nevers; Mr. Sydney Grant made a strong Duke Gonzague; Miss Florence Palmer gained honours with her Blanche de Nevers; Miss Lilian Radbourne acquitted herself most creditably in the character of Blanche de Caylus; Miss Florence Cameron was Pepita; and good work also emanated from Messrs. Robb Wilton (Passepoil), Cecil Ravenswood (Peyrolles), and R. Seath Innes (Staupitz). Some fine Bioscope pictures, shown by Mr. Anthony Brown, completed the programme.

Westminster.—Lessee, Mr. Fred E. Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery. — Here this week have been Lennie Ward, who made her first appearance in Liverpool, with several popular songs; George Christian, a very funny comedian; Lieut. Uniquem, ventriloquist, with an amusing smoking puppet; Delmar Demay, whose sketch, The Hero's Return was immensely funny; Dolly Ross, comedienne and dancer; and the Bioscope.

Olympia.—District-Manager, Mr. Albert Bulmer; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton. — George Lashwood headed the bill here this week, and got a rousing welcome. Among his latest songs were "The Admiral" and "Hang out the front door key." Fred Edwards and company, including Miss Bertha Northam, kept their audience in a jolly mood with the sketch Kleptomaniacs; Edith Fink delighted everyone with her taking songs; the Boccaccio Trio of Italian singers and instrumentalists, including Signor Francia, gave a neat musical turn, Hu-la-la; the Delomes gained general applause for their dancing speciality, "The Phantom Clogs"; George Newburn, an accomplished and popular mimic, had a cordial reception for his work; and Violet Halls, comedienne; and May Edouin, with her latest scena, were also in the list.

Pavilion.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. Henry Hearn.—Principal here this week were the Six Brothers Luck, with their laughable sketch The Demon of the Cellar. Will Probyn's Brooklyn Comedy Four submitted an amusing musical sketch; Baddow, ventriloquist, paid a return visit; Alfred Graham's Premier Juveniles presented a pretty vocal scena, "A Concert on the Lawn"; Kingstone Trollope had a clever dramatic monologue, "Only a Dream"; U. C. Ugo, assisted by Valetta, won much approval for his magical scena, "Mirthful Mysteries"; the gymnastic turn of Ajax and George was appreciated; and also in the programme were Mark Henton, comedian; and Milner and Storey, comedy duettists.

Londonderry.—Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Payne Seddon.—The variety programmes continue to attract large and appreciative houses twice nightly. Prominent in the bill this week is the remarkable turn of Morimura, Japanese illusionist, while the Sisters Henderson, musical speciality artists, give a refined and clever performance. Mr. Chas. M. Daly's company gives a highly amusing sketch, and other contributors to a good programme are Mlle. Reine Drassa, speciality dancer; Mowing and Codney, coloured comedians and dancers; Miss Rosie Dawn, Scotch comedienne; Gilroy and Cross, comedians and dancers; while the Dalyscope pictures are as popular as ever.

Long Eaton.—St. James's Theatre. — The Dandy Fifth constitutes an amusing entertainment. Mr. J. Edward Fraser has the part of the highwayman—a fine representation; Miss Pauline Hague, who has portrayed Kate Lorrimer over a thousand times, is excellent; Trooper Brown and Polly are amusingly played by Jack Crichton and Miss Nora Moira; the singing of the Blue Moon Quartette is enjoyed.

The Palace.—Two shows nightly bring good patronage. Mr. Alf Smith has up-to-date films; Professor Garton gives an amazing display, and there are other attractions.

Loughborough.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and George Robertson; Resident Business-Manager, Mr. W. Payne Seddon.—Mr. Gilbert Payne's company in The Honeymoon has been attracting good houses. Mr. Gilbert Payne himself as Nathaniel Noodle is the life and soul of the piece; Mr. H. F. Housden as Colonel Brown is eminently suited to the part; Jack Armstrong loses nothing in the capable hands of Mr. Leslie Erle; Mr. Edward Ray as Archie Mashington plays creditably; Miss Hetty Lind as Madge delights the house by her clever singing and acting; Miss Connie Meadows as Bweetie Noodle is well received. The speciality dances by the Godfrey Girls are skilfully performed.

Lowestoft.—Marina.—Manager, Mr. E. A. Smith.—Poole's Myriorama is paying its annual visit here this week.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. Frank Freeland.—Splendid business is the general rule here, and the programme is quite to the popular taste. Fred Earle, in some quaint humorous numbers, heads the bill this week and scores heavily. Donald McDougal, a Scotch comedian, also came in for a big reception, and was recalled again and again by the audience, which consisted of a goodly portion of the 10,000 Scotch fish workers at present engaged in the fishing here. Other turns include Ugo Nap, burlesque artist; Albano, harpist; Mario, juggler; R. A. Speedwell, a clever lightning cartoonist; Sisters Transfield, musical experts; Woolmer Young, comedian, &c. The British Biograph Co. also contribute to the general success.

Luton.—Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Manager, Mr. Louis J. Beard.—Miss Violet Osmund has brought her first-class company The Belle of the Ball to this theatre this week under the direction of Mr. Alexander Loftus. Mr. Johnny Schofield is particularly funny in the character of Timothy Tompkins; Mr. Chas. Adeson as Farmer Jones is also droll; Mr. Robert Hyett, the young squire, is very good; Poppy is in the able hands of Miss Gertrude Melville.

Maesteg. — Town Hall Theatre.—Lessees, Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. C. F. Knowles.—Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company in Home, Sweet Home, pays a return visit here. Mr. Arthur Hinton as Stephen Armitage plays with much success; as David Armitage, Mr. Fred G. Kay is good; the Duke of Ancaster is presented in capital style by Mr. Chas. Clifford; Lucas Lyle is capably portrayed by Mr. David Beattie; as the Hon. Percy Ancaster, Mr. Victor G. Millard deserves mention; Mr. Frank Brunell is at home as Dick Redmayne; Mr. William Bailey is a capable Solomon Keaay, Miss Lydia Andre a charming Joan, Miss Kitty Collinson a successful Lady Summerton, Miss Laura Wright an attractive Sybil Fay, and Dora is played naturally by little Hilda Vokes. For Thursday and Friday East Lynne is billed.

Macclesfield. — Theatre Royal. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—Mr. Fred C. Somerfield's company presented the stirring melodrama Geoffrey Langdon's Wife before a large and appreciative audience on Monday. In the title-rôle Miss Cissie Bellamy submitted a well-studied and clever portrayal; Mr. Paul Beckett as Felix Beverley gave an adequate representation; as Jack Stirling, Mr. Wilson Summers acted with dignity and power; Miss Agnes Collier played the society lady with refinement; and Miss Kate Lever showed ability as Nancy. Mr. Wilfred Cheetham acquitted himself creditably as Geoffrey Langdon; Mr. Arthur Lowry as Arthur Bellairs did well; as Colonel Miles Mr. Charles Coventry was successful; Mr. Percy Brown as Thomas and Mr. Herbert Fuller as Charles make the most of their respective parts.

Drill Hall.—Prof. Wood's musical and pictorial combination, under the supervision of Mr. T. R. Wood, occupies the hall this week, and provides a very interesting programme. The pictures are up to date and full of interest. The variety combination includes Mme. Doré, oboe soloist; Miss Nellie Nora, instrumentalist; Ted Wooton, vocalist; Walter Gray, juggler; Mr. H. S. S. Watson, humorist; and Mr. H. A. Dowson, pianist.

Maidenhead.—Town Hall. — Secretary, the Town Clerk.—Mr. Chas. Harrington's No. 1 American combination played Uncle Tom's Cabin for three nights, commencing the 12th inst., and met with much success. Mr. J. Carr presented Uncle Tom in a natural and convincing manner; in Mr. E. A. Massingham Phineas Fletcher had an able representative; Mr. Tom Bowrow was good as St. Clair; and Mr. John Milward made a manly George Harris. Messrs. J. Henry Rogers and James Jackson were thorough in the repulsive parts of Legree and Dan Haley; and Mr. Walter Langford was well suited as Marks. Miss Hero Hathaway was a pathetic Eliza Harris; Miss Jennie Malcolm and Miss Hetty Johnson were good as Aunt Ophelia and Cassy; Mrs. Carr was a homely Aunt Chloe; Miss Annie Watson raised much laughter as Topsy; and Holly Haslewood exercised due care in the part of Little Eva.

Maidstone.—Palace.—Manager, Mr. Stanley Baskerville.—A good bill is headed by Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, who give a clever cycling act, one of the best seen here for a long time; Metz and Metz are clever simultaneous dancers and cross-talk comedians; the powerful military sketch, Mutiny, is well staged by Frank E. Burdett and Co.; Tom Taylor, singing collier, has a well-trained baritone voice, which he uses to advantage in two well-sung songs; Lytton and Bland, in the scena A Lesson in Love, are popular; and other items of the bill are May Fayre, comedienne, the Sisters Hampel, duettists, and the Palace Pictures.

Manchester.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—Mr. Arthur Bouchier opened his second week here on Monday by a performance of The Walls of Jericho, which was played in perfect style. It is almost superfluous to praise Mr. Bouchier's impersonation of Jack Frobisher or the Lady Alethea of Miss Violet Vanbrugh; the level is a high one, and it is maintained consistently throughout. Mr. Arthur Whitby, in his old part of the Marquis of Steventon, also played admirably; and an easy and effective depiction of Hankey Bannister was given by Mr. Leon Quartermaine. Other notable successes were scored by Miss Pamela Gaythorne as Lady Lucy, and Miss Henrietta Watson as Lady Westerby; while all the remaining parts were satisfactorily filled. On Wednesday a fine performance of The Arm of the Law was given, preceded by Mr. Sutro's play, entitled A Marriage Has Been Arranged; and on Thursday a new play, The Outsider, was put on, a notice of which appears elsewhere.

Prince's Theatre. — Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—A return visit of Mr. George Edwardes' company, in The Girls of Gottenberg, was welcomed here on Monday. The cast was notable for the inclusion of Mr. Edmund Payne as Max Moddiekopf, his original creation, and the substitution of Happy Fanny Fields for Miss Gertie Millar, who played Mitzi so successfully here some time ago. Mr. Payne's whimsicalities kept the house in continuous good humour; and Miss Fields as Mitzi scored a decided hit. Mr. Leslie Holland as Otto was full of life and humour; Miss Maisie Gay did well as Clementine; Miss Thelma Raye gave a very nice depiction of Elsa; Mr. Fred Payne repeated his excellent impersonation of Brittlbottl; and others worthy of praise were Mr. Arnold Lucy, Mr. Fred Allandale, Mr. Douglas Munro, Mr. A. Chentrens, and Mr. Louis Denver. A pretty and noteworthy feature of the second act was the dance by Miss Florence Phillips.

Grand Junction Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Hewitt.—Who is She? from the Royal Osborne Theatre, is the attraction here this week.

Gaiety Theatre. — Proprietor, Miss A. E. F. Horniman; Manager, Mr. B. Iden Payne.—This week here Rostand's comedy, The Fantasticks, is put on. It is well played by a cast which includes Mr. Esme Percy, specially engaged for the rôle of Porcinet. His clever work is admirably supplemented by that of Miss Hilda Bruce Potter as Sylvette, Messrs. Charles Bibby and Edward Landor as Benjamin and Pasquin, Mr. Jules Shaw as Straforel, and Messrs. Leonard Mudie and Joseph A. Keogh in minor parts. The comedy is preceded by a "Bajazzade," in one act, by Dr. Erich Korn, and entitled Columbine. Mlle. Camilla Dulberg is rather powerful in the title-rôle; but the piece is not a pleasing one.

Royal Osborne Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Messrs. Sidney Rennef and G. M. Copping's domestic drama, Love Rules the World, is deservedly appreciated here this week. Mr. Richard Vane plays strongly as Harold Kingston; Mr. Stephen Langton as Stephen Blight makes an effective villain, ably assisted by Miss Constance Medwyn as Flo Morton; Mr. Alex. Wilson Wynne is very pleasing as Paul Carruthers; Mr. Sidney Rennef is seen to great advantage as Jim Dixey; and Miss Conyers Radcliffe has all the qualifications for an excellent heroine as Maud Carruthers. A prominent feature of the play is the humour supplied by Mr. Walter Dale and Miss Kitty Russell as Billy Binks and Kitty Snowdrop.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. Andrew.—Twice nightly Mr. Sam Duckworth's company are presenting here an interesting drama, Her Nameless Child. Mr. J. W. Evelyn as Anthony Ford is particularly successful; Mr. Sidney C. Cranston plays well as Arthur, the blacksmith's son; Mr. Arthur Pringle as the villainous Lord Henry Woodville is strong and effective; Miss Pattie Hastings acts sympathetically as Phyllis Ford; and Miss Mona Gray as Lady Sybil is a worthy assistant of Lord Henry in his wickedness. Good comic parts are well played by Mr. Larry Clements and Miss Renie Douglas.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—Gus Elen, the popular coster comedian, is the star turn here this week, and is very well received. Prominent also is A Royal Heart, an admirable dramatic episode, admirably played by Fisher White's company, including A. Scott Craven. Edward Lauri and May Beatty, in In Her Boudoir, are highly successful; and other good turns are Ralph and Nellie Howard, in a comedy act; Agnes Tina, a very smart juvenile mimic; the Charles Fisher Pocket Opera Company, in excerpts from Il Trovatore; Sinclair and Parr, comedy vocalists; the Eight Stella Girls, vocalists and dancers; and Nettie Starr, comedienne and dancer.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—Loie Fuller and her dancers are exceptionally graceful exponents of the terpsichorean art, and the "Ballet of Light," presented, with its wonderful colour effects, is a feast of delight; Colonel Gaston Bordeverry is an astonishing rifle and pistol shot, his performance being wonderfully clever; the Two Anartos fairly bring down the house with smart talk and pleasing music; Hilda Jacobsen, the charming burlesque actress, is successful, as usual; Mason and Bart are comedy gymnasts of more than average merit; Nellie Ganthony scores as a society entertainer; Angus Strong, baritone, has a good voice; Senor Varez, tenor, sings well; Keen and Waller are quietly effective in a novel eccentric act; and Brown and Le Clerq are as funny as of yore in Black Justice. Bioscope pictures complete.

King's, Longsight.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. James R. Trippett.—Harriett Vernon is the bright particular star here this week, and meets with a big reception, her charming song scenas, "A Yuletide Story" and "Sunshine and Shadow," being highly successful; the Four Netherlands are excellent vocalists and dancers; George Prince, the "crazy" comedian, makes a hit; Leslie Race, the "new" comedian, takes well; Edythe and Toto give a neat and novel act; the Farrows are smart sketch artists; and others who offer good turns are Fred Athalan, head balancer; Beau and Belle, in scena, "Past and Present"; George Griffin, comedian, who dances well; and the Sisters Lotus, duettists. Married for Nothing is the Bioscope film.

Palace. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—Mrs. Lewis Waller, ably supported by a capable company, including Mr. Leonard Robson, plays delightfully as Lady Jane Rumblow, in a capital comedy, The Admiral's

HENRY IRVING SHAKESPEARE.

A NEW AND CHEAP EDITION OFFERED TO "THE ERA" READERS ON SPECIALLY ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

THERE can be little doubt that the whole profession should have this Edition of the great dramatist's works, arranged as it has been by the greatest Shakespearean actor of modern times, in conjunction with Mr. Frank A. Marshall; with extensive Notes and Introductions by Joseph Knight, O. F. Adams, H. A. Evans, P. L. Round, Dr. Richard Garnett, A. Symons, W. J. Rolfe, A. Wilson Verity, Canon Beeching, P. A. Daniel, and Prof. Edward Dowden.

The Edition has many features to recommend it, which here can merely be touched upon: "Shakespeare as a Playwright" by Sir H. Irving, "An Appreciation of Sir Henry Irving" from the pen of Bram Stoker, "Shakespeare's Country" contributed by Jerome Harrison, being, perhaps, the most important. Whilst the text is given unmutilated, un-Bowdlerized, Sir Henry has specially marked those portions which can, in his judgment, best be omitted in dramatic presentation.

The books have been specially illustrated by celebrated artists and each has a coloured frontispiece.

6/= TO EACH SUBSCRIBER A MAGNIFICENT PHOTOGRAVURE PORTRAIT OF SIR HENRY IRVING AS HAMLET IS PRESENTED.

Send 6/- to-day, and complete edition in 14 volumes will be despatched, carriage paid; nine monthly payments of a similar sum and one payment of 3/- will complete the purchase.

"THE ERA" OFFICE, 5, TAVISTOCK STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

Lady. Screamingly funny are Hayman and Franklin in the Hebrew farcical sketch, A Suit for Divorce; and Park's Eton Boys and Girton Girls are exceedingly clever vocal entertainers. Dan Conroy, comedian, does well; and other smart turns are offered by A. W. Scott, comedian; Mark Leslie, coon comedian and dancer; Percival, at the piano, in his one-man musical comedy; Annie Long, comedienne; and the Brothers Lawrence, dancers. The Palace Pictures, good, as usual, are shown.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Billie Barlow, the ever-charming comedienne, is here this week with her usual success; Hal Forde, the well-known light comedian, is popular as ever, his "Doomsday Book" song being smart and up-to-date; Revill Hall scores as a humorist, entertainer, and mimic; the Zenary Brothers are exceedingly good in a novel and high-class acrobatic act; Atroy is a neat juggler and hoop roller; Lily Eyton, character comedienne, sings well; Laurie Wylie, the "mimicking mannikin," is excellent; Ethel Dancy, contralto, has a good voice; Fred Maitland, assisted by a "Suffragist," gives an original and amusing turn; and Viola is a very pleasing instrumentalist. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope pictures complete.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—Radie Furman is a jolly little Dutch girl, and captivates with her smart sayings and dancing; Gillen is an amusing ventriloquist; and Zeta Grey and Wal Grace, ably assisted, are excellent in a musical comedy act, The Lancashire Lass. One, Billy Farrell, has a good reception; the Miners' Quartette, including Billy Dewey, who sings and dances well, blend harmoniously; Rowland Hill makes a decided hit with his historical song; Edwin Adeler is a swell comedian of more than average merit; Wal Robbins, the black and white musical comedian, patters well; and the Swift Duo are clever trick cyclists. Pierrot's Drunkenness is shown on the Bioscope.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Wentworth.—Zona Vevey, in dainty songs, with catchy choruses, assisted by Herr Max Erard, pianist-accompanist, tops the bill here this week, and is very well received; Edie Veno, a comedian of the order eccentric, is very funny, and makes a hit; Fred W. Millis is a first-rate ventriloquist; the Three Behans are good in a novel quick-change act; Harwood's Juveniles in their novelty scena, The Children's Christmas Eve, are pleasing; Monty Walker, swell comedian, takes well; Ada Jenner, in an up-to-date sketch, The Lady Barber, is amusing; and other good items are those of Allsopp and Beckwith, comedy duo; Percy Curry, comedian; and Clifford Stuart, Lancashire comedian.

RUSHOLME PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie.—Remaining here another week are the following artists, who appear with their usual success in special scenas and sketches: Messrs. Fred Carlton, Bruce Green, Bill Bailey, Andy Drew, Leonard Slater, Walter Barrett, Jack Waller, and the Misses Cecilia Gold and Iris Banfield.

MANSFIELD. — GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Capt. Clayton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Mark Lorne.—Messrs. Glenville and Osmond's company in A Soldier of France was well received here on Monday. Mr. Percy Ballard as Corporal Jean was excellent; Mr. Albert Guyon in the part of Judas Delara was a great success; and Capt. Louis Loraine was played admirably by Mr. Edward Hobart. The important part of Pauline Loraine was in the cauable hands of Miss Carlotte Anson. Mr. Freddie Edwards as Jollyboy and Miss Jennie Clare as Margery frequently caused roars of laughter; Rita was charmingly portrayed by Miss Maggie Hobart. Elaborate scenery, painted by Mr. Alec Toole, the resident artist, was a feature of the performance.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. E. Michael; General-Manager, Mr. W. W. Keene.—The Education of Elizabeth has been presented here this week by Mr. Ernest E. Norris and company, and, owing to its phenomenal success, the piece was billed to run the whole six nights instead of only four, as originally intended. Miss Winifred Ingram gives a thoroughly sound and artistic presentment of Elizabeth Banks; Miss Blanche Lynd is altogether admirable as Blanche Macyntire, her impersonation being a charming one; and Miss Helene Forrest makes a refined Lucy Middleton. Miss May Norris is delightful as Lily Kerr; Mr. Ernest E. Norris plays Reggie Hankey with the resourcefulness and finish of the accomplished actor; and Mr. Fred Castleman does admirable work as Mr. Whitby. Mr. Bert Morley plays effectively as Harry Fairfox; and capable support is given by Mr. Hugh W. Peel as Parsons, Mr. Carlton Holt as a Waiter, and Mr. Julius Hogen as a police officer.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—The turns this week include the Three Sisters Lee, vocalists, dancers, and acrobats, and they have been accorded a most flattering reception. Winnie Stanhope, comedienne, meets with success; and Will Conn, the all-round page, vocalist, instrumentalist, and dancer, is well applauded. Stevens and Rennoir, eccentric comedians, also add to the plethora of dancers in the programme; and Billy Hubbard, comedian, proves most amusing. Charles Baldwin's pantomimists and comedians conclude the entertainment with the absurdity The Bank Clerks, which is broad farce and bustle throughout.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees, the South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Albert Jackson.—With Edged Tools, presented by Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company, is here. Mr. William Grant ably impersonates the rôle of Jack Meredith; Mr. Charles Hartopp supplies a capital representation of Guy Oscard; Victor Durnovo is successfully assumed by Mr. Campbell Goldsmid; and Mr. J. A. Rosier is well cast as Sir John Meredith. Miss Phyllis Relph plays gracefully as Jocelyn Gordon; Millicent Chyne is admirably impersonated by Miss Marie Leonhard; Miss Isabel Grey makes a good Lady Cantourne; and Miss Violet Thorold as Lady Herries is deserving of praise.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—The programme this week includes Bostock's Educated Baboons; Ellis and Watts, swell comedians; Roy Beavis, conjurer; the Dunvilles, in a comedy musical act; Nita Carman, comedienne; Fred Charles, comedian; Bianco and Emile, vocalists and dancers; Lozelle, in a novel speciality act; and animated pictures.

METHIL.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Methil Theatre Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Sydney Arnold.—Prince Bendon's Variety Company occupies the boards this week. Miss Mary Meek, soprano, creates a favourable impression; Mr. J. K. Macfarlane, a comedian of quaint methods, evokes laughter; the singing of Mr. J. M. Aitken, a young baritone, is of good quality; Prince Bendon gives an amusing ventriloquial entertainment; a bright little artist is Miss Daisy Taylor, whose clever dancing especially appeals to the house. A capital series of up-to-date pictures is shown on Benden's Bioscope.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Messrs. Ed. Van Biene and John F. Traynor's company is this week presenting Man and Wife. Mr. Traynor submits a manly rendering of the character of Paul Revere; the despicable Captain D'Esparre is cleverly typified by Mr. Ed. M. Hamilton; Mr. Geo. Overs plays with ability as the cripple, Jean; Mr. Geo. Rammell is a dignified Colonel Latour; and a brusque Sergt. Jacques is Mr. Ambrose Horton. Miss Kate Hallam is refined and sympathetic in her impersonation of the wronged heroine, Marcelle; Miss Violet Temple submits a well-studied rendering of Ruth Revere; comedy is agreeably contributed to by Mr. E. Hall-Eldon and Mr. Geo. Vining as Bimbo and Bambo, and Miss Millie Doris as Rosette.

NEW PICTURE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Will Hunter; Manager, Mr. E. H. Jones.—A capital series of pictures being shown here this week includes the Harlequin's Story, Duel after the Ball, The Rivals, The Devil's Three Sins, &c.

PUBLIC HALL.—Mr. Will Hunter's pierrots are here this week. The artists are Miss Flo D'Alton, Miss Edie Greene, Mr. Will Hunter, Mr. Charlie Orme, Mr. Ernie Graham, Mr. Harold Carlyle, Mr. J. Leslie Tyrrell, and Mr. Bert Nicholson.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Edward Jowsey; Manager and Licensee, Mr. W. Ker Chatto.—The Middlesbrough Amateur Operatic Society were accorded a most cordial reception on Monday night, when by special permission they produced the comic opera Merrie England.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson.—Miss Lena Ashwell's company occupies the boards here this week in Diana of Dobson's. In the title-rôle Miss Emilie Polini, who is no stranger to Middlesbrough, gives a delightful impersonation; Mr. Frank Woolfe as Victor Bretherton is a distinct success; Mr. W. Kingsford Pearce does exceedingly well as Sir Jabez Grinlay; as Miss Pringle Miss Daisy England is seen to advantage. The play is preceded by The Bishop's Candlesticks.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Chas. Rembges.—Mr. Fred Karno's company provides the star turn here in a sketch entitled The Casuals; Hyde and Cody Trio provide another enjoyable turn; and W. T. Ellwanger in The Peacemaker is a great favourite. Bert Weston, comedian, is amusing; and Gracie Graham, comedienne, is very pleasing.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Manager, Mr. C. E. Nicholls.—Marie Loftus, the famous comedienne, provides the star turn here this week, and scores a great success with her latest songs. The Paxton Troupe present a particularly clever and daring acrobatic act; Alf Gibson, with his quaint humour and original style, is well received; Rosa Sartella is a capital vocalist; and Ernest Rees, comedian, is amusing. A clever trick cycling turn is given by Henry and Tyler; and Mabelle May, vocalist, and Stuart and Stuart, in their pot-pourri act, also do well.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. Ormesby French. — This place of amusement, which is now under new management, is rapidly regaining its popularity. Hall and Hall, in their comedy sketch Bertie and the Barmaid, cause much merriment; the Sisters Jonghmans score a success in their vocal trios; Billy Ross and company are good; and Wake and Dean, patterers, cause much laughter. James Bray is an excellent vocalist; and McAskell is a clever conjurer.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hales. — Mr. William Maclaren's company is again paying a return visit in the late Wilson Barrett's great play Claudian, and on Monday opened to an excellent house. Mr. William Maclaren gives a fine interpretation of the title-rôle; and Miss Lily C. Bandmann is sweet and sympathetic as the sorely-tried Almida. Theorus, the sculptor, and his wife, Serena, have apt and fitting exponents in Mr. G. Edward Dunstan and Miss Amy Hardcastle; Agazil, the sturdy blacksmith, as played by Mr. Douglas Earle, is deserving of praise, as is also Mr. Bernard Elliott's interpretation of the somewhat unsavoury rôle of Thariogalus, the Tetrarch. Other characters deserving of praise are Mr. Chas. T. Challoner as Belos, Miss Ruth Trafford (whom we have already made mention of under another name) as Edessa, and Mr. Cecil Maynard as Rhamantes; while a word of praise should be given to Mlle. Stella Dorin for her cymbal dance. The dresses and staging are exceptionally good.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. H. E. Jones and A. Douglass.—A fine programme is presented again this week, and full houses thoroughly appreciate the various items. Mr. Leo Carle in his quick-change act has caused quite a sensation, his violin playing also being excellent; Mr. Frank Laurl's sketches at the piano cause loud laughter; Messrs. Fields and Lewis score in a mock melodrama; the Three Temples sing operatic selections in fine style; a delightful turn is given by Miss Adela Crispin; the Milsted-Bell Trio are responsible for an excellent sketch, Three Sharps in a Flat; and Mr. Cliff Dixo sings well. The animated pictures are chiefly educational and poetical, and find great favour.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. W. G. Sutton.—The summer season closed on Saturday last, but during this and next month Saturday popular concerts have been arranged.

THE PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. Frank W. Nall.—Skating here has caught on, and good business is being done. There is a good band in attendance.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—Keen interest is evinced in the visit of Mr. George Alexander and Miss Irene Vanbrugh to Tyneside in their latest success The Thief, and each evening sees the house packed to its utmost limits. Mr. Alexander and Miss Vanbrugh in the parts of Richard Chelford and his wife Marise are seen to the greatest advantage, and their efforts arouse unbounded enthusiasm. Mr. Dawson Milward gives a finished impersonation of Raymond Leyton; Miss Nina Sevening is equally successful as Isabel Leyton; and other parts are ably played by Mr. Reginald Owen and Mr. E. Vivian Reynolds. As a curtain-raiser The Nursery Governess is presented, and in it Miss Jean Maclinlay, Mr. Harcourt Williams, and Mr. Ashton Pearse give excellent portrayals.

TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—The engagement for this week of Mrs. Patrick Campbell and her company in The Thunderbolt was enthusiastically appreciated on Monday evening. Mrs. Patrick Campbell in the emotional part of the erring Phyllis Mortimore fully maintained her great reputation; while Miss Stella Patrick Campbell gave a delightful rendering of the part of Helen Thornhill; Mr. Julian Royce is responsible for an excellent interpretation of the manly Thaddeus Mortimore; Mr. Murray Carson's portrayal of the bluff James Mortimore was decidedly good; and Stephen Mortimore was well played by Mr. Edgar Kent. Mr. E. H. Brocke and Mr. J. D. Beveridge acquitted themselves admirably as the solicitors; while Master Cyril Bruce and Miss Mignon Clifford left nothing to be desired as Cyril and Joyce respectively. Other parts are ably played by Mr. Charles A. Doran, Miss Florence Farr, Miss Florence Wells, and Miss Florence Kahn. Electra and The Second Mrs. Tanqueray are also in the week's bill.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—Mr. Walter Melville's company is paying a return visit here this week in A Girl's Cross Roads, and is again attracting good houses. Miss Hilda Beverley's acting of the degraded Barbara Wade is most realistic; Mr. Charles Franmore appears as John Meadows, and gives a clever performance; Mr. Jack Fortescue plays the part of the hero, Jack Livingstone with manly dignity; Mr. Edward Valentine is effective as Dr. Weston; Mr. Edward Chester appears as the unscrupulous Cuthbert Lumley; and is well supported by Miss Nita Langford as Nellie Meadows; Miss Dorothy Hildebrande is charming as Constance Cornell; and Mr. F. Hodson and Miss Daisy Meynard are responsible for humorous parts.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. F. W. Bolam.—The Silver King is proving immensely successful. Mr. Fred Daviss makes an excellent Wilfrid Denver and Miss Edyth Goodall a sweet and sympathetic Nellie Denver; while Mr. Edward J. George retains his old part of Daniel Jaikes. All the other characters are well represented.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—The ever-popular Boissetts Troupe in The Bricklayers head an interesting programme here this week, and, as usual, prove vastly amusing; Bellonini, the famous juggler, is well to the fore, and gives a clever and interesting turn; an artistic musical mélange is contributed by the popular Carina Sisters; and the Three Cape Girls contribute a smart dancing turn. Dave Austin and company present an original sketch, His Wedding Morn; whilst the patter of Armstrong and Carney is decidedly original. Other artists contributing meritorious turns are Johnny Walker, comedian; Crown Trio, speciality vocalists; and Ruth Lytton, Scotch character vocalist, the Bioscope completing an all-round excellent bill.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—The Great Lafayette is retained another week, and is proving an immense draw. Other clever artists included in the programme are Max Waldon, female impersonator; Welda and Wynne, B. Troba, Laurence Barclay, Leonard and Vereky, and George Carncross.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Messrs. Paumier and Howard's company are playing The Prince and the Beggar Maid this week to enthusiastic houses. Mr. Ernest Cox as Prince Olaf, who had a touch of light humour, was an ideal lover; Miss Ethel Bracewell played Princess Monica with a becoming dignity; Mr. Melville Bickford's Prince Michael was pathetic; while Mr. Alfred Brandon played the elder brother Prince Hildred with force. Mr. W. S. Hardy does well in the part of Col. Wellenberg; and the other officers are well represented by Messrs. B. Hamilton, Fred Upton, J. H. Vyvyan, Sidney Bayliss, Herbert Nield, Edward Bowen, Arnold Cameron, and Arthur E. Robinson. Mr. W. S. Mills played Captain Hector splendidly, with humour and well-expressed loyalty. Lieut. Karl Stromberg in the hands of Mr. Reginald Payne was humorous, and Mr. Fred Wilson's Nathan afforded an opportunity for expressive acting; while Mr. Kenneth Black played Bishop Illyria with marked dignity. Miss Gertrude Branscombe as Carniola was exceptionally sweet, pretty, and natural; while Miss Jessica Black as Viola was bright and amusing.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll.—A very clever sketch, Charles, His Friend, is presented here by Mr. Courtice Pounds as Charles, Miss Louie Pounds as Lulu, Miss Pearl Keats as Barbara, and Mr. H. Lambart as Peter Ward. Geo. Formby is popular with his taking songs; Georgina Leno manifests much of her father's talent; and Thora showed great skill in a ventriloquial turn. La Danseuse is a promising young artist; Frank Couch, with smart patter, is given a flattering reception; and Austin Boyd and Trixie Gilfain provide a very pleasing musical turn. The Bioscope, with capital films, completes the bill.

NORTHAMPTON.—NEW PALACE THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Manager, Mr. Thos. A. Evans; Musical Director, Mr. Walter Ashton. — This being anniversary week, Marie Kendall was specially engaged to give éclat to the occasion, and her engagement has been a highly-successful one, both houses being nightly crowded with enthusiastic admirers. Mlle. Lumiere presents a brilliant spectacle in her electrical fairy grotto; the Court Jesters, introduced by J. G. Taylor, give a merry mixture of song and dance; Steve McCarthy makes a hit with his policeman's song, "If I catch you bending," and tenders some expert dancing; the Maximilian Trio show some clever balancing; George Lawrence gains approval as an actor vocalist; the Sisters Redfern are favourably received as banjoists; Mr. and Mrs. Shelley evoke roars of laughter in their duologue; May Maymant is a handsome comedienne; Bains and Reed are good knockabouts; and the Palace Pictures entertain with vivid pictures of The Daily Life of a French Sailor.

NORTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Mr. A. Clifton Alderson and his capable company are presenting The Coal King, which has had an enthusiastic reception. As Tom Roberts Mr. Alderson gives a fine and consistent rendering, and Ulick Burke as Sir Reginald Hartford submits an excellent study; Mr. George Hanbury makes the most of his opportunities as Walter Hartford; Mr. Sam Roberts is good as Jim Williams; and Mr. Frank Dalton scores as Dick Shirley. Miss Winifred Love deserves special praise for her portrayal of Grace Shirley; Miss Joan Wellman proves a capital Mad Ann; and Miss Max Hinton is pleasing as Araminta Green.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—Mr. Phil Herman, actor-vocalist, tops the bill here, and has been warmly greeted; Les Valdos, the eccentric 'busmen, cause much hearty laughter; Messrs. Ray and Ross, comedians and speciality artists, have made a great hit; Mlle. Tella renders her songs in good style; Master Walter Aubrey, coon vocalist, is popular; Miss Nannie Shaw, Scottish comedienne, Miss Sadie Hope, comedienne and dancer, and the Mouldoscope contribute successfully to the programme.

NORTHWICH.—CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. S. Golden; Secretary, Miss E. Golden.—Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Day's company is presenting For Love of a Woman here. The honours of the performance go to Miss May Day for her clever rendering of Nance Manor; Mr. Jerrold Ord is a manly Ned Merrick; as Guy Manor Mr. Frederick Garratt makes the most of the part; Allen Paget is capably acted by Mr. Eustace Day; Miss Eva St. Vincent is good as Jane Manor.

PAVILION. — Proprietress, Mrs. P. E. Fletcher; Manager, Mr. Towyn Thomas.—Barry Gilmore, an old favourite, is topping the bill here this week, and his quaint humour convulses the house; Miss Alexandra Royal gives her songs in a dashing manner; Howard and Lenore are skilful dancers; the Spadonis (Madge and Sylvia) are clever dancers; Miss Eunice Lowe is a vocalist above the average; Mr. Laurie Howard is a clever dancer; and Jack Holland's eccentric dancing causes much amusement. Excellent pictures by Ruffell's Bioscope are nightly shown.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Morgan.—An excellent company is presenting the sensational play of Leah Kleschna here this week. Mr. Hamilton Deane deserves praise for his impersonation of Paul Sylvaine; Mr. Algernon J. Hicks is good as Raoul Berton; and the same may be said of Mr. Clayton as Monsieur Garnier. Mr. Charles Barrett is much appreciated as General Berton; Miss Bessie Rignold, with much earnestness, portrays the character of Leah Kleschna, and her vocal items in the last act are very successful. The other characters are ably filled.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—Joe Peterman's company, including George Ricketts as Novinski, in The Belle of the Orient, heads the bill. The sketch is full of fun, whilst the singing is much appreciated. Agnes Molteno, assisted by Mr. T. T. Edwards and Little Dolly, excite much sympathy in their scena An Old-time Story; the Elite Harmony Boys are very good in their vocal act, Messmates Ashore; Graham, the Lilliputian wonder, is very successful; and a humorous turn is given by Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic. Sam Redfern as a comedian is well received; May Newall is a good vocalist; and Kerr and Koe are clever dancers. The Hippo-Bio. is also attractive.

BANK PLAIN ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—The Franco-British Co. present a fresh programme, which includes the Marathon Race of Saturday, last week, and other up-to-date pictures. Good patronage is secured.

NOTTINGHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—My Mimosa Maid forms a strong attraction this week. Miss Marie Studholme is altogether dainty, lively, and charming as Paulette, and her songs are given with delightful freshness; Miss May Garstang is well fitted as Mme. Pelaine; and Miss Ruby Gray is effective in the part of Marcelle. As Victor Guilbert, Mr. Charles McNaughton is all that could be desired. Always funny, and with seemingly endless stores of humour, he keeps the house in continuous laughter, in which he is capitally aided by Mr. Charles Paton in the guise of a bailiff. Mr. Arthur Jackson makes an amusing waiter, as also Mr. Fred Gilbert. Popette is played vivaciously by Miss Mabel Hirst; and the two officers are a decided acquisition as impersonated by Messrs. J. H. Goldsworthy and L. Winter. Master Archie McCaig does well as Bock; and Mr. Percy Carr shows conspicuous ability in the rôle of M. Gerrard.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry Upton.—Mr. F. G. Kimberley's company is providing pleasant fare in A Soldier's Honour. Mr. Elan Meredith appropriately shows the gallant conduct and manly nature of Captain Deane; and Mr. T. A. Ellis well expresses the sterling friendship of Captain Temple. Mr. Andrew Money makes the villainy of Henry Thornley stand out with startling clearness, and he is ably assisted by Mr. A. Anderson (Holly) and Mr. Vernon Cooper (Burly Bill). Miss Ruth Zillwood is to be congratulated on her artistic impersonation of the unsavoury character of Cora Lee; Miss Edie Macklin as Jemima Eliza is bubbling over with goodness and merriment; and charming studies are also provided by Misses Edie Trapnell and M. Shelton.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—The popularity of Eugene Stratton increases at each visit, and he is delighting large audiences nightly with his artistic "coon" songs; Howard and Harris contribute an excellent acrobatic performance, which evokes hearty commendation; Leo Tell shows marked ability in his imitations of musical instruments; and Gwennie Llewellyn captivates the house by her remarkably clever rendering of operatic airs. Bi-Bo-Bi proves a smart manipulator of sleigh bells; and the dancing of Eddie Hayes and Mona Wynne draws appreciative applause. Ben Albert is good, both in song and patter; and Madge Osmond effectively portrays a "dandy." Duncan and Godfrey help the fun in their cockney sketch; and humorous pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

KING'S THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. E. O. Waller.—Animated pictures still continue to attract large audiences, and the illustrated songs of Mr. Ernie Williams are a constant source of pleasure.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. V. Carnell.—The company of Jake Friedman have kept the fun moving this week in their picturesque sketch Life in Holland. Capital work is done by Miss Florence Hunton and Mr. Friedman. The Columbia Comedy Trio combine harmony with comicality, to the great delight of their hearers; another musical combination is that of the Courtiers, who sing with artistic care and fine effect; the gymnastic exhibition of La Vails deserves the highest praise; and the somersaults of Hayes and Meritz are of a skilful and daring nature. The ventriloquism of Lieut. Travis forms a thoroughly diverting turn; and the dancing on roller skates of Willie Gardner is a smart piece of work. Items are also contributed by J. W. Gallagher, Violet Lorraine, and the Barrascope.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors, Theatre and Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Coyle.—Mr. R. Mitchelson's company under the direction of Mr. Augustine Knight is presenting The Assassin. Mr. Augustine Knight is admirably suited as Prince Demetri; Mr. Bonhote Wilson wins much appreciation as Ivan Ipanoff; Mr. Edwin Lever is to be commended upon his forcible acting as Duke Carl; Mr. Edward Swinton depicts Baron Alphonse in a manner deserving much praise; and Mr. Tom Taylor as Peter creates a good deal of amusement. Mr. Edward Fryer as General Nichol, Mr. Edward Jenner as Captain O'Neil, and Mr. James Abbot as Evangie are well suited. Miss Ella Vale fills the rôle of Countess Wanda with ability; an interesting and attractive Connie Jonathan is presented by Miss Hettie Senior; Miss Eva Trevenna as Nita deserves praise for her sympathetic portrayal; Miss Ada Douglas as Nardine Farina and Miss E. Robertson as Katrine play their parts with success. The piece is elaborately mounted.

OLDHAM.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme. —Mr. Herbert Sleath's company is here in A White Man. Mr. Frank E. Petley as Jim Carston is splendid, his acting earning several recalls; Mr. Lewis Broughton is very successful as the Earl of Kerhill; Mr. H. Wilmott Jackson makes a good Sir John Applegate; Miss Eleanor May is very stately as the Countess of Kerhill; and Miss Gertrude Price is a capital Dowager Lady Kerhill. Miss Margaret Fairleigh as Nat-u-ritch acts in a clever manner as a shy Indian girl; Mr. Eric Hudson is most realistic as Tab-y-Wana; Mr. R. A. Brandon cleverly interprets the part of Big Bill; Mr. A. C. Hardy is smart as Bud Hardy; and Mr. Arthur Gibbons is capital as the bully, Cash Hawkins. Miss Rosina White is most winning as Little Hal.

COLOSSEUM THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—When London Sleeps is being presented by Mr. Lester Collingwood's company. Mr. Ed. E. Ashby is a manly David Engleheart, the athletic hero, and his arch enemy, Capt. Rodney Haynes, is acted well by Mr. Harry Wren. Miss Mabel Scudamore is delightful as Queenie Carruthers; Miss Lilla Wilde is forcible as Hilda Carode, a woman with a past; Mr. F. E. Thomas makes a capital Bob Jones; Miss Bella Power is very good as Mrs. Jones; Miss Doris Brereton is a sympathetic Lelia; Mr. Douglas Campbell makes a good Sammy Blyth; and Mr. Frank Howard is smart as Bertie Broomhead. Some capital comedy causes roars of laughter.

Royal Theatre of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Kilrow.—Bransby Williams in his famous impersonations scores a most emphatic success. Chas. R. Whittle again appears with new songs, and has a fine reception; the Dandies present a delightful turn with excellent singing; the Selbinis perform in a daring manner in a capital cycle act; Ada Martine wins much applause with some smart dancing; Helen Martin scores with well-rendered songs; and a funny sketch by Frank Elliston and company takes well. Will Willis, comedian, and an amusing picture on the Dottoscope fill the bill.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Nuttall.—Ernie Myers proves himself a favourite with smart comedy songs; Azella Wilson is most graceful in a unique act on the trapeze; Lily Lonsdale uses her splendid voice with telling effect in well-sung songs; Boyne and Hope are highly successful in their farcical comedy; the Love Cure, Almon, is clever in an equilibristic turn; Cribb and Cribb are very good in a comedy act; and the Stowe Bros. do well as equilibrists. The Dottoscope concludes with an interesting picture.

OXFORD.—East Oxford Theatre.—Lessees, Miss Winifred Stuart and Mr. C. Watson Mill; Manager, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's company is paying a return visit here with Sapho, which drew an appreciative house on Monday. As Jean Caussin Mr. Ernest R. Abbott plays with great robustness and feeling; Mr. Frank Stephens is highly successful as Uncle Cesaire; Mr. Vincent W. Carlyle is good as Henri Dechellette; and Mr. W. H. Davis-Brown is droll as Hettema. As D'Arac Mr. Edwin Keene gives some excellent musical specialities in Act 1, and Mr. Walter Rosier does well as old Legrand. Miss Florence North makes a very graceful Lucy; Miss Isabel Singleton makes the most of Mme. Hettema; and Miss E. Gertrude Jones is really clever as Josaph. Miss Ada Abbott, on whom the brunt of the acting falls as Fanny Legrand, works strenuously and succeeds in giving a very sympathetic and natural rendering.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—Mr. T. Morton Powell's company is appearing here this week in When It Was Dark. Mr. Haldane Dalton is a powerful exponent of Constantine Schwabe; Mr. Wilfred Lyndon displays talent in his assumption of the Rev. Basil Gortre; Mr. Charles Brandon's impersonation of Sir Robert Llewellyn is very effective; the Rev. Mr. Byars is capitally played by Mr. William H. Burton; a capable and humorous portrayal of the Hon. Charles Gayfly is furnished by Mr. George Fawde; Nunc Wallace is admirably embodied by Mr. Jack Armitage; Mr. Alfred Collingham's Harold Spence is highly appreciated; Mr. J. T. Inglis does well as Mr. Ommaney; Ionides is faithfully portrayed by Mr. Charles Grandley; and Mr. Francis Cavins as Ali al Murad is excellent. Miss Ethel Griffies displays much charming ability in the rôle of Gertrude Hunt; Helena Byars is extremely well personated by Miss Marie Barrett; Miss Tessa Myers amusingly enacts Gracie Goldeye; and Minnie Golightly and Flossie Lovegay are successfully undertaken by Misses Emilie Schular and Florrie Lyndon.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Stead.—The foremost place in the programme this week is occupied by the Musical Twelve, which includes Mlle. Louise van Dalle, George Hilton St. Just, and T. H. Wood, in a new and original musical mélange founded on the famous opera The Bohemian Girl. An entertainment which greatly pleases the audience is contributed by the Three Cheers, with their performing cats; Walker and Lake appear in their diverting exploit Extemporania; the Lafaille Troupe do some extraordinary gymnastic and equilibristic feats and are warmly greeted; Lily Tiso is a clever comedienne and dancer; Henry Hallam and Josephine Stanton delight and amuse in their musical comedy sketch A Broken Journey; Sandy and Carl, comedians, dancers, and burlesque boxers, are much appreciated; a popular and entertaining comedienne is Beattie Bloom; Wisper proves himself a clever comedy juggler; and the Bioscope concludes with some interesting pictures.

PENTRE.—Tivoli Palace and Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—Topping the bill this week is the popular artist, Lilian Lee, in a picturesque scena, with catchy songs and dainty dances. The Three Coopers, comedy vocalists, are well received; the Weimars contribute a graceful entertainment on the elevated wire; Bonnetti and Corrie, in their juggling act, are clever; the Brothers Ralston, character duettists, are capable artists; Lillie Bloy, comedienne; Morris and Richards, comedy acrobats; Jim Topping; Phern and Phern, in a musical act; and the Tivoliscope are also in the bill.

PETERBOROUGH.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. A. Darville Vernon.—On Monday Messrs. Edward Lloyd and Frank Adair's company opened here with Man to Man. Mr. H. Holland submits a finished piece of acting as Matthew Ellerton; George Gordon is excellently represented by Mr. Edward Lloyd; Richard Ellerton is in the capable hands of Mr. Frank Adair; and Mr. R. Val Shane is well placed as Rev. Philip Ormond. The humorous element is well sustained by Mr. Clifford Bown as Bill Burkley, he being ably assisted by Mr. Herbert Williams as Samuel Plumtree and Miss Adeline Lester as Miss Lavinia Dove. Miss Louie Adair fills the rôle of Ethel Maythorne in a way that leaves little to be desired, and Miss Evelyn Warde appears to advantage as Gipsy Madge.

New Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Fred Karno and A. H. Edwards; Manager, Mr. Frank Gallagher.—The attractions here this week include Tarro Myaki, ju-jitsu wrestler; Clive Watts, wonderful eccentric dancer; Lenton and Lane, in a comedy concoction entitled Unconsidered Trifles; Russell Carr, ventriloquist; Datas, the marvellous memory man; and Arthur Page and Co., in a dramatic sketch entitled A Midnight Call.

PLYMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—A house packed from floor to ceiling assembled on Monday for the initial performance of the Carl Rosa Opera Company, and were rewarded with one of the richest musical treats heard in Plymouth for a considerable period. Faust was the first of the attractive répertoire presented, and the more popular numbers of this magnificent work were rapturously applauded. To Mr. Arthur Winckworth was entrusted the exacting rôle of Mephistopheles, and he proved himself a singer and actor of first-rate ability. Mr. Walter Wheatley as Faust has a delightfully mellow tenor voice, and scored brilliantly in the rendering of "Salve Dimora," in the garden scene; Mr. Hebden Foster as Valentine is well adapted to the soldier-vocalist's part, and was at his best in the beautiful "Dio Poperte"; while Mr. Alexander Richard gave an attractive rendering of Wagner. Margarita was played by Mme. Elizabeth Burgess, and the critical audience were not slow to demonstrate their approval of her clear soprano voice; while Miss Christine Ritz as Siebel furnished a contrast with numbers allocated to the contralto. During the week Carmen, Cavalleria Rusticana, The Merry Wives of Windsor, Il Trovatore, Tannhäuser, and The Bohemian Girl have also been performed.

Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—The principal turn is that of Geo. Anger and company in Jack, the Giant Killer. Mr. Anger is a man of colossal proportions; whilst his opponent, Jack (Master Ernest Rommel), is quite a diminutive bit of humanity, and the battle between the two is therefore very diverting. The Three Richards present a comedy acrobatic turn above the ordinary level; Bert Danson is a first-rate comedian, his songs being refreshingly free from anything distasteful; "The Enchanted Iona" is a clever combination of humour and acceptable statuary, Mr. Chas. Fraser working hard in the former department, while Pearce and Warde have an amusing burlesque on boxing. Remaining contributors to the bill are Marie Neilson, dancer; the Two Clares, in a song-scena; and Fred Tenby, comedian.

PONTEFRACT.—Alexandra Theatre of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff.—Coverdale and Huxley's Juveniles are at the top of an attractive bill here in a daintily-conceived scena, Pansy's Birthday. The children dance and sing charmingly, and the comedian of the troupe puts in some really funny business. Hess and Lisbon, in addition to a clever exposition of figure-skating, cause great hilarity by their comic business; Hall and Wilson, in a motor-cycling act, create intense excitement in the progress of their "stationary race," which is indicated by figures on a miniature track. One of the pair does some exceptionally novel trick-riding on the "rollers." East and West sing of topical items with much point; and Ena Correlli dances herself into favour. Cade Burnett, actor-vocalist, sings good songs; Marie Powell, in a "Poor Joe" type of song, is pathetic; and Lang and Beal, comedians, practise the "noble art" in a manner not after Moir-Burns. There are new and interesting pictures shown on the Bioscope.

PORTH.—The Palace, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. W. Poole; Manager, Mr. Walter Bynorth.—Chief place is occupied by the Five Spanish Juanitos, whose acrobatic performance is appreciated by all; Karr and Kooney, comedians in scarlet, are applauded; Ivy Adelaide is a refined singer and an admirable dancer; Dot Hardy scores a success as a low-comedy artist; Lloyd Morgan, who possesses a very sweet voice, is a great favourite; the Brothers Harrison are responsible for great amusement as the golfing Johnnies; Rozel gives a marvellous gymnastic performance; Dan Filmer, comedian and dancer, is a capital turn; the Palacescope, with its fine pictures, still maintains its reputation; and the Miltons, skating comedians, are exceedingly clever.

PORTSMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Lady Frederick is being presented by Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's strong company. In the title-rôle Mrs. Brown-Potter has a part that suits her admirably, the complexity of the character being depicted with great success, and gaining much applause; Mr. Phillip Cunningham nobly supports her in his splendid portrayal of the well-bred man of the world, Paradine Fouldes; Mr. Reginald van Ranney well sustained the rôle of Sir Gerald O'Mara; Mr. Herbert Garthorne is excellent as Lord Mereston; Mr. Cecil Bevan is entirely satisfactory as Captain Montgomerie; and Mr. Shirley Lea depicts Admiral Carlisle with much ability. Miss Phyllis Manners is good as Mme. Claude; Miss Edith Deverell made a charming Rose; Lady Mereston found a capable exponent in Miss Madeline Du Val; and Angelique, Lady Frederick's maid, is most admirably acted by Miss E. Nolan O'Connor. The play is preceded by The Peacemaker.

Prince's Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's original London company is here for the week with The New East Lynne, Miss Beth Elliott cleverly sustaining the dual rôles of Lady Isabel and Mme. Vine. Mr. Frederick Harker ably presented Archibald Carlyle, and with distinction; as Francis Leveson, alias Captain Thorne, Mr. W. H. Garbois acted most creditably. The part of Justice Hare is taken by Mr. W. Lowe with care and precision; Lord Mountsevern is safely entrusted to Mr. W. Talbot; Mr. W. T. Ellonby is excellent in his part of Richard Hare; and Mr. Richard Nugent is diverting and decidedly good as Murty O'Flynn; Cornelia Carlyle is well portrayed by Miss Sophy Shenton; Barbara Hare is personated by Miss Josephine Gwynne in very capable manner; Miss Doris Denville as Willie Carlyle is deserving of much praise for her capital acting.

King's Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The top-liner here this week is Georges Hackenschmidt, who is proving a most popular attraction, and gives a fine exhibition of wrestling; the Moxon Trio, a clever combination of hand-balancers and equilibrists, receive a cordial welcome; Jack Rae, a gymnast with novel business, meets with approval; Clarke and Hayden in musical comedy duologue, By Appointment, are very creditable; Dora Brooklyn, a charming comedienne, does excellent work; Bellew and Stack's company in stirring sketch, An Outside Chance, appear with success; Ford and Barras submit an amusing turn; Wyndham and Waters in highly-diverting sketch, The Professor and His Pupil, score well. The animated pictures are of more than usual amusing description.

Empire Palace.—Managing-Director, Captain Warren Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—Menotti, the Stockholm performer, submits his daring performances on a cycle track on a single wire; Phil Bransby, the coster comedian, gains a good hearing; Merlin, the demon crocodile, is a clever contortionist; Jack Collinson and company in two capital items, Who's Won and The Club Raid, are successful, and have a cordial greeting; Fielding and Hull in vocal entertainment, Bathing, are diverting, and cause plenty of merriment; Baker and Balfe, a pair of versatile xylophone experts, give excellent operatic selections; Don and Mabel in Scottish scena, Sandy's Return, provide an agreeable turn; Queenie Essex, a dainty comedienne, gives two acceptable vocal numbers. New pictures of interesting character by Payne's Bio. conclude.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris; Acting-Manager, Col. Roberts, V.D.—The great attraction here this week is "The Globe of Life"—an immense wire globe, in which Wizard and Irene Stone very daringly ride cycles at a terrific pace, causing a storm of appreciative applause; the Fitzroys, very smart gymnasts, create a favourable impression; Baby Vi Davis, billed as the youngest actress-vocalist, deserves the approval accorded to her; Orpheus, an accomplished musician, submits a capital turn; Mr. Harry Taft, American whistling comedian, is responsible for much amusement for his amusing contribution; Tokio Troupe of Japanese acrobats give a bright and clever entertainment; The Hunting Morn, a well-presented scena, with amusing pictures by the Hippo Bio, is much appreciated; Mr. Edwin Boyde, an eccentric comedian, with his humorous songs, scores tremendously; Frazer and Haley, duettists, are also popular here.

PRESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, the Executors of the late W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—Mr. Charles Frohman's company this week is presenting The Hypocrites. Mr. A. B. Imeson as the Rev. Edgar Linnell was loudly applauded for his very excellent rendition; Mr. Alfred S. Barber as the pompous Mr. Wilbur was most natural; and Mr. King Fordham gave a good account of himself as Lennard Wilmore. Mr. Charles Harley as Mr. Viveash, the lawyer, was exceedingly good; Mr. Cecil Brooking presented a capital character-study of the Rev. Edward Daubeney; Mr Sydney Hamilton was a dignified Sir John; and in the difficult rôle of Rachel Neve Miss Gladys Harvey is certainly to be complimented on her tactful presentation of the part. Miss Gladys Purnell was a winsome and attractive Helen Plugenet; Miss Amy Ravenscroft had a by no means easy part as Mrs. Wilbur, but she emerged with flying colours; Miss Madge Severne as Mrs. Linnell and Miss Florence Steventon as Mrs. Blaney sustained their parts capitally, as did also Miss Violet Harley as Patty.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company in the drama Two Little Drummer Boys is the attraction here. Mr. Edward Bikker sustains his original part of General Kingsley, V.C., in a manly and dignified manner; Mr. Harry Scott is an imposing Capt. Frank Carsdale; and Mr. Geoff. Sutherland a good Lieut. Kingsley. Mr. Oswald Douglas presents the unprincipled Capt. George Darrell in a characteristic manner; Mr. Frank Cope is a soldierly Major Kilkerrin; Mr. Will Percy as Quiney O'Quirke and Mr. Chas. Gallier as Timothy Trimmer succeed in keeping the audience in merry mood, and they are ably supported by Miss Patricia Connaughton, a captivating Molly; Miss Violet Ingram is a powerful Margaret; Miss Marie Ainslie a capable Alma Kingsley; and Miss Maggie English as Eric Carlisle and Miss Maudie Douglas as Jack Smith are excellent.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. B. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—Mr. Arthur Rigby, supported by his company of twenty artists, has a good reception with his comic operetta, The Isle of Ooma. The setting is really good, and the dresses are excellent. Harry Russon is an actor-comedian with a good song, and his recital of a Kipling poem is loudly applauded. Herbert and Linden are a clever duo of expert clog dancers; Rose and Wold give a clever exhibition on the bounding wire; Evelyn Taylor, comedienne, contributes a couple of songs; and Greener, singing pit lad, possesses a good voice. Sydney Mason and Theresa Moore present a dramatic episode entitled The Usurer.

RADCLIFFE. — Grand Opera House.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Boothman.—The piece, entitled Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman, is exceedingly interesting. In the title-rôle Mr. Lewis Edgard achieves his customary success; Mr. C. Kean makes a typical Curtis Bedford; Mr. Arthur Bell does good work as Harry Manders; and the ruffian Crawshaw has a capable exponent in Mr. Oswald Griffiths. Mr. P. Alexander is an effective Lord Amersteth; and Mr. G. Grogson deserves a word as Barraclough. Miss Brenda Gibson takes the part of Mrs. Vidal to perfection; Miss Beatrice Marsdene as Gwendoline is attractive; and Miss Eva Bevington is a typical French maid.

RAMSGATE.—Royal Victoria Theatre.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jules Richeux.—Mr. Richeux continues to maintain his reputation for supplying good dramatic fare at the above theatre. This week the diverting farce, Are You a Mason? has been giving great amusement to audiences nightly. It is played in clever fashion by Mr. Charles Macdona's company. Mr. H. Langdon Bruce is fine as George Fisher; and Mr. E. H. Paterson is admirable as Amos Bloodgood. Mr. Francis J. Bithell effectively sustains the part of Frank Perry, son-in-law of Amos; Miss Adelaide Grace makes first-rate play with the part of the aggressive Mrs. Bloodgood; and other characters are performed with distinct ability by Mr. G. P. Polson (John Halton), Mr. E. E. Clive (a typical "fallen star") as Hamilton Travers. The ladies are all charming. They include Miss Rita Narcelli, Miss Rita Johnson, and Miss Dulcie Verney (Eva, Annie, and Lulu, daughters of Mrs. Bloodgood), and the Misses Viola Garland, Mary Kilpack, and Pleongains. Are You a Mason? has been preceded each evening by the dramatic episode A Bad Penny (Lestocq).

Royal Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; Resident-Manager, Mr. Dan Forrest.—Large and appreciative audiences have assembled here twice nightly during the week to witness attractive exhibitions of animated pictures given by the Palace Bioscope Company, and entertainments by a select vaudeville company. The films shown are of general and humorous interest, and among the turns which intersperse the pictures, the appearance of Sterling and Cashen, military comedy duo and champion dancers, in their novel performance, "The New Army," create much amusement. There is a change of pictures at each performance.

RAWTENSTALL.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; General Business-Manager, Mr. A. B. Feather.—Convict 99 is being greatly appreciated by large audiences. As Lawrence Gray Mr. Frank Beresford gives a strong and artistic interpretation; and Miss Dorothy Milne is a delightfully sympathetic and womanly Geraldine Lucas; Mr. Benson North is a capital Ralph Vickers; and Mr. J. Warris Lindon an excellent Christopher Lucas. As Maggie Mason Miss Jennie Richards is very successful, and with Mr. Edward Kipling as James Stinchcombe keeps the humorous part of the play well sustained, the latter artist being an excellent comedian. Mr. P. L. Julian as Jim Lacy is very good; as also are Messrs. Fred Epiteaux, Mr. H. Peachey, and Mr. W. Fordyce, as the Judge and the Counsel. Mr. Hal Forde is clever as the Magistrate; and Mr. Walter Westwood makes an excellent Jannaway. Mr. F. Wilson shows to advantage as the Doctor; and Mr. Wilfred Harris is a success as Jennings. Miss Woolgar Mellon is capital as Mrs. Smedley.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Benton.—Miss Lena Ashwell's principal company is appearing this week in the phenomenally successful play Diana of Dobson's. Miss Dorothy Green acts most effectively in the difficult part of Diana Massingberd, her amazing change from shop-girl drudgery in the first act to masquerading as a wealthy widow in the second act being very cleverly depicted; Mr. H. Grendon Bentley appears to advantage as Captain the Hon. Victor Brotherton; the vulgarity of the self-made Sir Jabez Grindley is cleverly expressed by Mr. Alfred Harris; Miss Mary Stuart as Mrs. Cantelupe and Miss Georgette de Serville as Mrs. Whyte Fraser are both good; the shop assistants at Dobson's are well impersonated by Miss Molly Tremaine, Miss Kate Turner, Miss Nannie Griffin, and Miss Eva Leonard Boyne; Miss Helen Vicary is excellent as the indignant forewoman, Miss Pringle; and Mr. Albert Wainwright acts well as P.C. Fellowes. The play is preceded by The Bishop's Candlesticks, which is well acted by Messrs. Alfred Harris, A. Wainwright, T. Pauncefort, Miss Helen Vicary, and Miss Georgette de Serville. A successful matinée was given on Wednesday.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Draco.—This week's programme is of a very diversified character. Edward Crosland's Melody Makers appear very successfully in a clever and novel musical scena, entitled The Burglar's Dream; the De Breans, a troupe of Japanese entertainers, give an expert juggling performance; the Three Rubys, contortionist and acrobatic ladies, perform some extraordinary feats; George Bernard is an effective actor-vocalist; Lloyd and Lane create much amusement in their comedietta That's Torn It; the Herald Comedy Four are much appreciated; Ruby Emerson is a pleasing comedienne; and Rose Elliott is successful as a singer of sensible songs.

Large Town Hall.—Walter Jeffs' New Century pictures are still attracting large audiences, this being the last week of the exhibition. A complete change has been made in the programme, one of the new scenes depicted being that of last Saturday's football match between Reading and New Brompton.

REDDITCH.—Public Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. J. E. Field.—Florodora, under the direction of Mr. Charles Constant, opened here on the 9th and 10th, and did excellent business. Mr. Gus Danby as the showman, Miss Daisy Lake as Dolores, and Miss Lillie Blythe as Lady Heyrood, met with marked receptions. Mr. Albany Ward's pictures opened on Monday last, for six nights, and are doing good business. A variety company also gives general satisfaction.

ROCHDALE.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Burton.—Tom Jones is drawing good houses. It is finely staged, and the music is charming. Mr. Cyril Thompson in the title-rôle both acts and sings with vigour and effect; Mr. Fred Seymour as the irascible Squire Western is heard to great advantage; and Mr. George Elton is highly amusing as Benjamin Partridge. Miss Florrie Saunders is a vivacious Honour; Miss Florence McAvoy is effective as Miss Western; Lady Bellaston is finely enacted by Miss Olive Elton; and Miss Alice Moffat charmingly fulfils the part of Sophia.

Empire.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—Maurin's fountains produce some beautiful effects; the Wedburns are mirth-provoking with their smart patter; Billy Hobbs is a capital coon comedian and dancer; and other turns are presented by Jimmy Shields, one-legged comedian and dancer; Master Richard May, vocalist; Carn and Rose, in vocal scena; Adele Lincoln, comedienne and dancer; and the Empire Bioscope pictures.

SALFORD.—Prince of Wales's.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—Mr. A. A. Roberts's company presented the drama Straight from the Shoulder to a good house on Monday, and had a very cordial reception; Mr. Matthew Boulton gives an earnest and manly portrayal of Dr. Francis Bedford; Mr. Leonard Clarke was very effective as David Gleeson, and afterwards as Major Lucas; Mr. Fred Beck as Jim Green, Miss Edie Casson as Miss Brittle, and Miss Beatrice Moore were well placed, and kept the fun to the front. Miss Beatrice Burdett was a charming Millicent Grant. Mr. George H. Child gave a good study of the Rev. John Armitage; Mr. Cuthbert Dennison as Donald MacGregor, Mr. Franklin McAvoy as Henry W. Grant, Miss Frances Bruce as Mary Gleeson, Mr. Bertram Carlton as Sergeant Bright, and Mr. George Fisher as Fred Stafford did well in their respective parts.

Regent Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing-Director Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—This week's programme includes several old friends, who are here again. It is headed with My Pal, Jerry, in which Lew Lake and company keep the house in roars; Barton and Franklin Trio are much applauded for their musical act. The other turns include Ernest Montefiore and company, in their dramatic and musical sketch, The Little Colonel; Fred Land, comedian; Woodhouse and Wells, comedians and dancers; Alice Maude, juvenile male impersonator; and Marie Goodwin, comedienne.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. George F. Slatter.—Flo Hilton heads an excellent bill with her clever male impersonations; Denaro Bros. are smart juvenile acrobats; Carney Bros., in vocal scena, "Brothers," were much appreciated; a clever swimming act is performed by Kirk and Saraski. The other turns include the Colonials, including James Grant, Scotch comedian, in Unexpected Guests; Leo Trainor, comedian; Brothers Lydamore, comedians and dancers; Jukes and Earle, comediennes and eccentric dancers; Maxford and O'Neill, clever patterers; and Original Zedoras, smart gymnasts.

Opera House and Assembly Rooms, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Lester King.—Mr. Lester King carries the audience with him in the chorus of his illustrated song, "Boys of the old brigade," and the following films are also well received: In a Stone Quarry, Stickphast, Magic Piano, Little Flower-seller, Adventures of a Watch, Power of the Child, Wild Goose-chase, Miniature Circus, Virtuous Young Man, &c.

SALISBURY.—County Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Whitehead; Business-Manager, Mr. T. Brinsmead.—A delightful visit has this week been paid by Miss Lena Ashwell's company in Diana of Dobson's. In the title-rôle Miss Violet Vorley is charming; Miss Hilda Francks as Mrs. Cantelupe is amusing; Miss Pamela Hope looks charming as Mrs. Whyte-Fraser; as Sir Jabez Grinley, a most clever exponent is found in Mr. Philip Sanders; Mr. Briscoe Owen as Capt. Bretherton is very good.

SEACOMBE.—Irving Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan.—Messrs. H. B. Levy and J. E. Cardwell's company is doing well here this week, with the musical comedy burlesque, A Merry Maid. Mr. Vyvyan Wakeman is a great favourite as Larry O'Hooligan, his sister, Biddy, being smartly hit off by Mr. W. S. Hutchinson. Mr. Howard Lawrence scores as Thady Cluncy; and Miss Fanny Adamson gets a capital reception as Angela Vere de Vere. Mr. H. Tracey's droll presentiment of Vere Swank causes much hilarity; and the precocity of Wee George Wood as Bertie Vere de Vere is surprising and clever. Miss May Gibson as Peggy O'Hooligan is heard to advantage in several popular songs.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. A. C. Harrison; Manager, Mr. H. D. Lyle.—Mr. Geoffrey Fulton's company is here this week with A Girl Redeemed from Sin. Mr. Philippe Orr impersonates Robert Denham with ability; Ernest Sylveston's villainy finds a clever exponent in Mr. Geo. Lyttleton; an admirable conception of the manly Will May is presented by Mr. Jo Monkhouse; Jim Jakes provides Mr. Victor Knight with plenty of scope for his abilities as a comedian; Samuel Lee is faithfully depicted by Mr. John E. Tomlinson; and Mr. Walle Spinner is very funny as the Hon. Bertie Boyes. As Nancy Lee, Miss Olive Fulton wins hearty approval; Peggy is sketched in a humorous style by Miss Ada Oxley; and as Mrs. Lee Miss Fanny Olive is satisfactory.

SHEERNESS. — Hippodrome. — Proprietors, Sheerness Hippodrome Co. — The Four Mexican Lariats, who top the bill, furnish a smart and sensational lassoing performance; Ella Lorraine, ballad vocalist, is accorded an enthusiastic reception; Roze and Calvert give an entertaining turn; Carl and Carr, comedians, afford the greatest pleasure; and Madison and Webb are clever comedy artists. Charles Cardon, comedian, is good; Henri Bekker is a conjurer of ability; and the Bioscope depicts the Four-inch Motor Race in the Isle of Man in a highly satisfactory manner.

Co-operative Hall.—Lessees, the New Bioscope Trading Co.; Manager, Mr. F. R. Griffiths.—Among the popular dramatic and comedy pictures shown here are The Black Princess, The Quebec Pageant, Jones and the Lamp-post, The Gambler, In a Submarine, The Secret of the Iron Mask, and The Baby Competition.

SHEFFIELD.—Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—A White Man, with its picturesque mise-en-scene and powerful dramatic interest, kept the attention of a good house on Monday, not a little of the success of the play being due to the admirable acting of Mr. Herbert Sleath and his excellent company. The character of Jim Carston, as limned by Mr. Sleath, stood out from the crowded canvas—a bold, fascinating, and virile presentment of a real man; and a companion study—an impersonation of a characteristic Western type—was Mr. George Faucett's Big Bill; the Earl of Kerhill found a careful representative in Mr. Harold Weston; Mr. M. Johnston was first-rate as Cash Hawkins; Miss Rhoda Ray made a pretty and pathetic Indian maiden; and Miss Enid Sass looked well in her becoming dresses and acted in a graceful manner as the Countess of Kerhill; and the others in the cast all did conscientious work. Some admirably painted scenery conduced to the general artistic success.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The Convict's Daughter is a favourite piece with the habitues of the classic Royal, and on Monday Mr. Frank Bertram and his talented company were accorded splendid receptions. Mr. Frank Bertram repeated his clever impersonations of Michael Graham, and showed much versatility in his quick changes to Weary Willie, "the Mystery," and Convict 89; Mr. Walter Graham acted with vigour and earnestness as the hero, Harold Trevelyan; Mr. Willie Black again caused considerable laughter as Patrick, and all the other parts were in competent hands. The realistic effects were well managed, the convict-hero's escape on a passing train winning sympathetic cheers from the gallery and responsive echoes from the pit and stalls.

Alexandra Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. William D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—Mr. Walter Melville's popular domestic drama, The Girl Who Lost Her Character, was played to a large audience on Monday by Mr. Melville's No. 1 Company. In the title-rôle Miss Violet Lawson looked charming in several exquisite confections, and she acted with the requisite emotional ability; Mr. Edward Maclean was admirable as a conventional stage clergyman; Mr. Harold Macarthy acted well in the dual parts of Jack England and Private Johnson; good character sketches were the Dick Punch of Mr. George Asquin and the Joe Purvis of Mr. John Wilson; Mr. Richard Ferris submitted a characteristic military study as "an officer and a gentleman," Captain Caversham; Miss Sybil Hare was a pretty Rose Seymour; and other characters were well played by Mr. George Mitchell, Mr. Jack Clark, Mr. J. Dixon, Mr. A. Bowerman, Miss Mamie Thorpe, Miss Mary Poulton, and Miss Lydia Mannington. The piece was elaborately staged.

Empire Palace Theatre.—The Moss Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—Mr. Syd May has long been a favourite at the Empire, and his appearance in several new impersonations gave great pleasure to a big house on Monday. Miss Arabella Allen's character studies were much enjoyed, and other features in a generous programme were Mr. Harry Tate's company in Motoring, a screamingly funny absurdity; Miss Jennie Johns, speciality artist; the Warsaw Brothers, in a smart act; Miss Renee Rell, vocalist and dancer; the Bioscope, with humorous films; the Narow Brothers, in a smart comedy cycling act; Johnson and Burt, eccentric comedians; and the lively and well staged musical farce, The Tea Shop, or Tigers, Ltd., in which Mr. B. Daley Cooper, Miss Mabel Lait, and a numerous company of clever vocalists and dancers appeared with considerable success.

The Hippodrome. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne.—A strong company is engaged here this week, the artists being Sheffield's own serio-comedienne, Miss Florrie Gallimore, who is singing her latest success, "A Yorkshire Girl," assisted by a voluntary choir of a thousand local voices; Kelly and Agnes, talented terpsichorean artists; Starr and Jerome, comedy entertainers; Mr. Leonard Barry, with his comical mouchers; the celebrated violinist, M. Jan Rudini, in a dramatic episode, The Power of Music; the Three Permans, in a clever gymnastic performance; Miss Ida Ross; the Lannons, duettists; the Barrascope, with artistic films; and the celebrated Miss Topsy Sinden, in her graceful exposition of the "light fantastic art."

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. A. W. Turpin.—The great local "song competition" is a popular fixture, and also appearing to large audiences are Mr. Alf Ripon, ventriloquist; Sylvestre and Waller, in an operatic scena; Miss Lottie Bray, speciality artist; Miss Daisy Hicks, comedienne; Miss Ivy Dene, vocalist; the Gelders, the comedy magicians; and the Raymond Bio-Tableaux, with good and instructive pictures.

Central Theatre.—Lessees, the Jasper Redfern Co., Ltd.—In addition to the usual picture programme, the Dancing Gilberts, burlesque artists; Shavo, juggler; Harry Morris, comic singer; and Miss Mabel Robarts, vocalist, are appearing nightly.

Montgomery Hall.—Manager, Mr. Mottershaw.—The Imperial Animated Pictures under the direction of the Sheffield Photo Co., conclude a successful season here. Such artistic films as In Sunny Madeira, &c., have given refined delight to large audiences.

Albert Hall.—Manager, Mr. J. Peace.—The welcome return visit here of Mr. Sydney Carter's realistic talking and singing pictures, with photographic presentments of Harry Lauder, Victoria Monks, George Lashwood, and other stars has met with the cordial approval of the Bioscope-going public.

The Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. C. A. Wordsworth.—Here also animated pictures of topical interest, "comics," and picturesque views of famous beauty spots, form the main attraction.

SHREWSBURY. — Theatre Royal. — Licensee an Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton.—Appropriately mounted and admirably enacted, the comedy Irene Wycherley is being well received here this week, being staged by the Monckton-Hoffe Comedy Company. Miss Maude Henderson acts with consummate ability the extremely exacting rôle of Irene Wycherley; Miss Grace Illingworth is a very capable Carrie Hardinge; Miss Evelyn Cecil acts most creditably the part of Hilda Preston; Miss Emmie Creamer merits considerable praise as Parker; Miss Muriel Carmel is successful as Linda Hetheridge; Miss Beatrice Mervyn as Lady Wycherley plays her part in a capital manner; Mr. Ralph Hutton as Sir Peter Wycherley, Bart., acts in talented fashion; Mr. Edward Sorley makes a very fine Harry Chesterton; Miss Phyllis Stuckey is pleasing and accomplished as Muriel Wycherley; Mr. Chas. Garry, who has a difficult and exacting part as Philip Wycherley, proves himself a highly-trained actor; Miss Maud Linden may be deservedly complimented upon her interpretation of the rôle of Lily Summers and Mr. Claude Haviland is a manly and vigorous Charles Summers.

SMETHWICK. — Theatre Royal. — Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard;

Forsyth's Enterprises, who retain Taka, the champion Japanese wrestler. Taka's clever scientific exhibitions of jui-jitsu are as popular as his smart wrestling bouts. The programme also comprises items by Whit Acre (comedian) and Zasma (the dental athlete), who both merit their retention; Gipsy Ann, with her well-trained fortune-telling dog; Nora Doone, a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Mons. Rogers, who exhibits a very small pony that creates much interest; the Victas as hand-balancers, table and barrel jumpers, their cleverness winning capital recognition; Mlle. Rosini's Miniature Menagerie represented by dogs; and the American Bioscope in an enjoyable series of pictures. A special children's matinée will be given this (Saturday) afternoon, and for this evening Miss Natalia Janotha, the world-renowned pianiste, is fulfilling a special engagement in a concert recital, who will be assisted by Miss Emily D'Orsay (soprano), Mr. Arthur Hammond (baritone), and Miss Nora Freeley (solo violin).

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Directors, Messrs. Geo. Conquest and Richard H. Nervey; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—Sentenced for Life is being played by Mr. Fred Bulwer's powerful company. Mr. John B. Shinton displays masterly talent in the rôle of Lieut. Roy Stillwell, and he is accorded applause in a merited impersonation of a convict; Mr. Fred Lloyd makes a strong character of the villain in Capt. Paul Derrick, who throughout is most successful; Mr. Evan Roland is eminently suited as the Rev. Martin Orris, and his conversation is particularly noticeable; Miss Ada M. Ryder as Adele Gray is both sympathetic and dignified, whose clever portrayal makes her very popular; Miss Gwynne Warren is responsible for the characterisation of Kate Rennel, and which she takes in praiseworthy manner; Mr. Tod Squires proves an inimitable Percy M'Gentle, his comical mannerisms being heartily received, and he is ably supported by Messrs. Arthur Reand and Edgar P. Melrose as convicts.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. H. E. Angless; Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—For the fourth week in succession the Anglo-American Bioscope Company entertain with a long programme of most interesting and delightful series of pictures, which are well received, and well supported.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE, WINTER GARDENS.—Proprietors, The Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens Co., Ltd.; Secretary and General-Manager, Mr. R. Singleton.—Mr. and Mrs. Kendal and their excellent company are fulfilling their annual engagement here, and on Monday evening The Whirlpool was accorded a hearty reception. In the rôle of Elijah D. Tillotson Mr. Kendal gave a realistic and impressive interpretation of the bluff, honest Westerner; Mrs. Kendal depicted the part of Miss Livingstone with her well-known grace and charm, the all-round excellence of the interpretation being worthy of her high reputation; Bertram Livingstone was enacted by Mr. Bassett Roe with earnestness and force; as Ephraim Johnson Mr. Edmund Gurney presented a striking character study; Mr. Wellesley Draper's impersonation of Cunningham Cutter is highly commendable; Mr. Metcalfe Wood is exceedingly droll as the old clerk, Chappin; Mrs. A. B. Tapping is well placed in the character of Miss Gretchen de Kaater; Miss Gertrude Van Stuyler is admirably played by Miss Ethel Dane; and other good portraitures are those of Mr. T. Holding as the Hon. R. Killigrew, Mr. W. M. Rutherford as Parker, and Miss Sara de Groot as Elise. For Thursday and Friday evenings The House of Clay is billed.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. John and Fred Coulson.—The boards are occupied by Mr. Fred Mouillot's company, in A Desperate Marriage. Dick Strang is portrayed in manly and breezy style by Mr. J. Knox-Orde; Mr. E. W. Maule Cole makes a desperate personage of Clarence Woolmer; Mr. Herbert Lloyd acts well as Elijah Boggs; Miss Winifred White plays the part of Audrey Howard in a sweet and sympathetic manner; and Miriam Elton is powerfully portrayed by Miss Gertrude Gilbert. The comedy parts are well represented by Mr. Walter Rousby as Tom Stripe, and Miss Nellie Rousby as Bertha Onions. Mr. Houghton Goddard and Mr. Edwin Fergusson are good as Dr. Frank Baxter and the Chaplain respectively.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—Barton and Ashley, who head the bill, are well received in their farcical creation, entitled Canal Boat Sal; the Cumberlands contribute a clever acrobatic cycling turn; Rhoda Paul, who is a local favourite, is much appreciated for her male impersonations; the Maples supply a funny sketch, How to Treat a Burglar. Other good items are Happy Tom Parker, eccentric comedian; Little Keeno, juvenile comedian and dancer; Ouida Macdermott, descriptive vocalist; and the Bioscope.

TIVOLI, LAYGATE-LANE.—Proprietor, Councillor J. K. Hall.—Roars of laughter greet the Four Randoms in their absurdity The Wrong Bedroom; Zenora gives some wonderful exhibitions of hand-balancing and equilibrism; and the Tivoloscope makes up the programme.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. H. Robertson; General-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—The attraction at the above house this week is Mr. T. Arthur Jones's company in When Other Lips. The piece is well mounted, and well played by a capable company, including Miss M. Daventry and the author.

THE NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Joseph Burrows; General-Manager, Mr. George Battle.—Large crowds continue to flock to this place of amusement. The Carlotti Brothers in their musical speciality, "Ten Minutes with the Great Masters," top the bill. Marshall and Wright are a pair of clever comedians and dancers; Willie Roberts, Scotland's boy comedian, meets with a flattering reception; Fred Horsfall is a clever vocal comedian; and Harry Jennings scores a success with his singing and dancing. The company also includes Sira, the one-legged phenomenon; the Sisters Dainton, duettists and dancers; and Kail Stern, coon comedian. The Hipposcope again proves an attraction.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, St. Helens Theatre, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. A. McLeod Loader.—The Ugliest Woman on Earth is being presented here by Mr. Frederick Melville's company. Mr. Philip Darien as Jack Merryman acts particularly well; Miss Beatrice Horner, in the title-rôle, gains the sympathies of the house; Mr. Leyton Cancellor's assumption of Hubert Gold proclaims him a capable actor; and Mr. Leonard Thackeray is equally good as Antonio Luchesi. The lighter parts are taken by Mr. Freddie Bentley as Tubby, and Miss Nellie Jackson as Aggie with great success; and Miss Gertrude Harrison plays with power the part of Rose Courtney. Dr. Carr has a fine representative in Mr. Gerald Nolan; and Miss Violet Macaree is interesting as Morita.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—A varied programme is produced this week, headed by Harry Tate's No. 1 company, in Fishing, a most amusing sketch, and well played; the Carlyles give an astonishing display of whirlwind dancing; Miss Winifred Ward is enthusiastically recalled for her songs; and Julian Mack's talk is laughter-provoking. Dorothy Watson gives a refined entertainment; and Stelling and Love are applauded for their efforts. Arthur Bedini is successful in a pantomime act.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—The large audiences which have assembled here throughout the week have given ample testimony to the continued popularity of A Royal Divorce. Mr. W. W. Kelly's company is a capable one, and includes Mr. Keith Fraser, who acts effectively as Napoleon; and Miss Margaret Watson, who impersonates the character of Josephine with much power and feeling; Mr. W. Robbins is a pleasing Doctor Corrisart; Grimaud is amusingly portrayed by Mr. Geo. Hudson; Stephanie is delightfully presented by Miss Maude Lacy; and Miss Winnie Tempest acts with ability in the character of Marie Louise.

EMPIRE. — Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—The Magic Carpet, which is mystifying and interesting, forms the chief attraction here this week; John Warren, as an expert conjuror and actor, showing to much advantage. W. G. Webber's excellent vocalism is appreciated; Otto and Olga, musical experts, are amusing entertainers; Chas. Banks and dog, "Woof," are distinctly pleasing; and Mollie Woolstenhulme, operatic vocalist, Cora Corina, vocalist and dancer, W. Fullbrook's sketch Astronomy, and the Bohemians, instrumentalists and comedy artists, add their full share to a capital programme.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—CASTLE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cecil Imeson.—This theatre was crowded on Monday evening by a most appreciative audience, who heartily enjoyed The Dairymaids. Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company is one of all-round excellence. Miss Clare Marsden is a charming Peggy, and wins great applause for her singing; Mr. Johnny Osborne as Joe Mivens is very funny, and dances with great skill; Miss Mabel Younge as Lady Brudenell acts to perfection; Mr. J. A. Warden as Dr. O'Byrne is well suited to the part; Mr. Wykes Ashdowne as Lieut. Frank Meredith and Mr. Nelson Keys as Lieut. Sam Brudenell act and sing well. Miss Clara Lockstone as Winifred, Peggy's sister, is very sweet; Miss Gladys Silvani as Eliza, the maid-of-all work, is very funny; Miss Madge Avery does ample justice to her part as Miss Penelope; Mr. Boris Bellew as Lieut. Brereton is very clever.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—May Moore Duprez, the jolly Dutch girl, makes her first appearance here, and received a hearty welcome, her singing and dancing being of the best; Ted Waite, comedian, is as popular as ever, his quaint style causing much laughter; Duncan and Brasque, in a sketch entitled A Society Butterfly, are very entertaining; Charles Rowen, comedian, sings in good style, and is very funny; J. H. McCann, roller-skate dancer, is very skilful; the Nettas, comedian and comedienne, sing well; the Five Vernons, xylophone specialists, play popular airs; Gracie Grahame, comedienne, is very taking. The Bioscope concludes with up-to-date pictures.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—Mr. M. Montgomery's stock company presents here this week the historical drama, Jane Shore, and is a great attraction. Payne's Bio-Photoscope shows some excellent pictures.

STOKE-ON-TRENT.—THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; General-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—The Stein-Eretto Troupe provide a most interesting hand-jumping and acrobatic exhibition; the comedy of the Three Chanters is very amusing and their harmonising sweet; Maude Courtney tells some smart American yarns, and her duet with her partner in the circle is most pleasing; La Belle Lilly and Albert's comedy instrumental act is good; Mr. C. and his stories are well received; and the Wambas; Rennie, ventriloquist, and his dog Popsey; and Harry Taylor are also contributors. The Man in Overalls, depicted on the Bioscope, proves popular.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. S. F. Davidson; General-Manager, Mr. A. Telford; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Reach.—One of Mr. Walter Melville's dramas, Married to the Wrong Man, is being presented this week to appreciative audiences. Miss Gertrude Boswell as Ruth excites great sympathy in her dumb scenes; Mr. Oswald Gray represents Jack Gladwin with well enacted gallantry; the villain, Captain Deering, is played on strong lines by Mr. H. Lane Bayliff; and the humour of the piece is supplied by Mr. Syd Claydon as Timothy Clinker.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company is presenting A Warning to Women. The part of Moira Kennion is well played by Miss Lilian Herries; Mr. Leonard Lawrence gives a clever portrayal of the rascally doctor, Marcus Dread; Mr. Charles O'Connor makes an excellent Fergus; and little Edith Rutland is a capable Myles.

EMPIRE THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Mr. W. C. Fields heads the bill this week, and his eccentric juggling creates much amusement. The Lancashire Glee Singers are proving themselves a fine combination of vocalists; Miss May Henderson is smart in song and dance; Conway and Leland are aptly described as the "Cheerful Monopedes"; Drew and Alders, the Coastguards, have a capital sketch; and other items are given in smart style by Walter Wade, comedian and mimic; Harry Bancroft, vocal comedian; and Emmie Ames, who scores well with her scena, Emmie's Christmas Tree.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, United Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lennox Barry.—The chief attraction here is J. Gar Kiddie and company in The House of Tinn, a musical farce in which Mr. Kiddie is particularly funny as the Long Waiter. Albas is well received for his wire-walking feats; the Sisters Marion sing well, and other turns are given by Herbert Clifton, Archie Pitt, the quaint comedian; Belle and Greta, duettists and dancers; and Perrette and Mona, in a comedy scena.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton, and District Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Captain Clayton.—Hardie and Von Leer's company, in The Two Little Vagabonds, opened here on Monday to a crowded house. The play was warmly received.

SWANSEA. — GRAND. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Oswald Brooks; Acting-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. Walter Dean.—To Mr. Wentworth Croke's company the patrons of the Grand are indebted this week for a powerful reading of The Bondman. Mr. Lionel Atwill is to be congratulated for his powerful playing as Michael Sunlocks; no less successful is Mr. R. S. Quentin, who makes grand use of his opportunities as Jason; acting with great feeling, Miss Georgina Wynter carries away her audience as Greeba. Another capable effort is that of Mr. W. H. Rotherham, who, in the dual rôles of Father Ferrati and the Grandfather, shows undoubted talent. An unusually large company give excellent support.

STAR.—Mr. E. H. Knight's company is very successful in The Lighthouse Robbery here this week. Tom Manley finds an able exponent in Mr. Henry Hearn; and as Squire Hammond, Mr. William Annsley distinguishes himself; and the villain Mr. Percy Beresford plays well. Miss Maggie makes a vivacious and charming Ruth, her singing being excellent. Miss Ethel Lovett as Little Nelly, and Miss Hilda Baynton as Rose Prescott act really cleverly. The humour provided by Mr. Sam Fisher is genuine.

EMPIRES, LTD.—Manager, Mr. P. C. Rowe; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Lennon.—The principal attraction this week is provided by Tom Edwards, whose topical sayings were not in the least effective of a really enjoyable turn; Arthur Lennard comes again to us with old and new numbers, which are given in his best vein; a terpsichorean turn is given by the Mollass Quartette, whose grace and ability is beyond question; the Lyric Quartette sing illustrated songs very effectively; and Ross and Lewis, the Yankee-Doodle Duo, are at the top of the tree in humorous dancing. The Les Voces sing gems from the operas in cultivated style; two clever children are Miss Margaret and Master John Rawson, whose efforts are distinctly pleasing; Marie Empress proves herself a talented comedian; and the Bioscope concludes.

SWINDON.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—The programme this week includes Les Barrois, acrobats; the Sisters Brooke, charming serios; and the Society Quartette with a singing and dancing act. Frank Hartley, boy juggler, is smart; a pleasing turn is that of Flora Cromer, comedienne; Mina Green is a dainty burlesque comedienne; and Jay Laurier, the Impressionable One, keeps the house in roars. The Empire Pictures complete.

TORQUAY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—A first visit of The Belle of Mayfair is being paid here by Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company. Miss Nellie Barnwell is dainty and pleasing in the rôle of Julia Chaldicott; Miss Dora Lyons is a charming Pincott, her attractive dancing being much appreciated; as the unrefined Sir John Chaldicott Mr. Sydney Burt introduces some clever patter; Lady Chaldicott is creditably taken by Miss Denny Fitzherbert; Earl Mount Highgate is amusingly portrayed by Mr. Stephen Hall; Miss Madeline Keats is a charming Countess Mount Highgate; Mr. Stanley Ravenscroft is well placed as Raymond Finchley; and Mr. Michael Raven is heard to advantage as Hugh Meredith; Miss Grace Mackay is a typical Gibson Girl, and a delightful representation of the Princess is given by Miss Patricia Weldon.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Welton Dale; Manager, Mr. A. H. Burdett.—This week's Hippodrome programme includes a burlesque scena, The Singing Servants; Nita Clem, a clever comedienne; Amandus, facial mimic, in realistic impersonations; Gilbert Orme and Lester May, comedians; Jenny Alexander, a child comedienne of more than average ability; and the Hippodrome pictures. The sixth anniversary of the theatre is to be celebrated by a visit from Mr. Cyril Maude in Toddles.

TYLDESLEY. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. W. Brierley, A. Brierley, and W. German; Manager, Mr. W. W. Brierley.—Mr. John Gerant and company in the military drama At Duty's Call is here this week. Mr. John Gerant sustains capably the part of Harold Allison; General Gordon is satisfactorily presented by Mr. Ernest St. John; Mr. Charles C. Calvert is successful as Captain G. Allison; and Mr. Frank Morton is adequate as Jack Spencer. Miss Beatrice Western makes a charming Dora Drummond; Miss Ada Roscoe an excellent Salema; Miss Laurie O'Neill a vivacious maid; and genuine humour is supplied by Mr. J. T. Dillsen as Terry O'Halloran.

WAKEFIELD. — OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Mr. Charles M. Bestic's company is here with the new musical comedy, The Flower Girl. Miss Dorothy Firmin gives a charming and vivacious portrayal of the title-rôle, and sings delightfully; Mr. Martin Adeson as Joe Wheeler is the mainstay of the piece, and scores a huge success with his songs and patter. He is ably supported by Mr. Alfred Donohoe as Johnny Wheeler. Mr. Norman Bowyer is a most amusing dude; Mr. Robert Howard, who is heard to advantage in several songs, is capital as the Hon. Billy Greenhill; Mr. Henry Adnes as Alphonse de Racquet and Miss Florence Wilton as Lizzette de Racquet introduce some clever and amusing business; Miss Jeannie Holmes is good as the Suffragette, and Miss Townley Laurence is successful as Maisie Flirtington. Other minor parts are ably presented by Misses Cassie and Alice King, Phyllis Leslie, Kitty Hyde, and Messrs. L. Stanislaus, Arthur Carter, and F. Williams.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The oy Bros. and company create unbounded merriment in a comedy absurdity, The Tea House; Bennett and Martell, comedians, have a good reception; Henriette and Selina provide a pleasing musical turn; the Emson Girls (Rita and Kitty) are dainty duettists and dancers; Stanley and Vandyke in their sketch, A Broken Promise, earn hearty appreciation; Fred Mason is an expert whistler, and Miss Marie St. John, descriptive vocalist, merits favour.

WALSALL.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, the Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—The varied programme submitted here includes the chameleon comedian Mr. Hymack, the man with the hump; Maggie Walsh, the original Lancashire singing mill girl; the Hartley Wonders, in a capital jumping speciality; Harry May Hemsley, caricaturist and impersonator of children; the Gandsmidts, novelty acrobats; George Young, expert blind musician and concertina player; The Little Mother, on the American Bioscope; and "Makers of History," artistic living statuary, by Albert Toft.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's principal company is here in the drama The Little Bread Winner. Little Winnie Crisp charmingly portrays the rôle of Meg. Other characters are well sustained.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—The Warrington Amateur Operatic Society are occupying the boards at this house this week, and an enthusiastic reception is given the talented amateurs for a delightful interpretation of German and Wood's comic opera Merrie England.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Waters.—Capital business has again been done at this house. The Wiltons are clever speciality artists; and Lilian Lowe scores well with select ballads. Arthur Royce is a capital character vocalist. The pictures are all good, and include a dramatic series.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. G. D. Bradbury.—A beauty competition is the chief attraction here this week. The Brothers St. Clair are exceptionally clever comedy cyclists, and their football turn is very amusing; Steve Bartle sings well, and his selections on the concertina are much enjoyed; the Five Broadway Girls are refined singers and dancers; the Smythsons score with their sketch Love Germs; Annie Heath is a chic comedienne and dancer; and Gladys and Alber good comedy tumblers.

WEDNESBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Battersby; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Kuner.—Mr. Chas. H. Lester's company, including Miss Beatrice Anderson, in A Life for a Life is here. Mr. Chas. H. Lester plays Don Leon Fernanders, alias Josh Harker, in capital style; the rôle of Pedro Li Calci is manfully portrayed by Mr. Richard Boxo; as John Evelyn Mr. Chas. Osborne is well suited; well-merited applause being accorded to Mr. Claude Seaton for his skilful interpretation of Bunker Bill. Miss Beatrice Anderson in the part of Eulalie evokes hearty appreciation; the presentation of Kate Evelyn by Miss Dorothy Riddell scores a decided success; Little Irene as Venetta meets with hearty approval; and Mr. Horace Buckley as Tim McCarthy and Mr. Jack Mason as Slim Jim are highly commendable in their respective parts.

WEST BROMWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. R. Nightingale.—There is a striking attraction at this place of amusement this week, Mr. James Bell presenting Miss Annie Bell and a strong company in The Idol of Paris. As Flare-Flare, a variety star, Miss Annie Bell is admirable; Miss Annie Megson as Ann is capable; Miss Phena Powell as Mme. Sancterre and Miss Pharo Anderson as Rachael Bernhardt fill their parts with distinction; Mr. Gordon Robey as H.R.H. Prince Sergius Zoresky has a part well suited to him; Mr. Wilson Howard as Phillipe D'Esterre is clever; and the other parts are satisfactorily sustained.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Archie Ainsleigh.—This place of amusement opened on Monday night with a departure from its ordinary variety entertainment, and for the first time took advantage of the full licence recently granted to produce stage plays. The first play to be staged was Henry Arthur Jones's The Hypocrites, and it would be difficult to find a more attractive one. The company, which is under the direction of Mr. Sylvanus Dauncey, is an excellent one. Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton as the Rev. Edgar Linnel is remarkably good; the Mrs. Wilmore of Miss Laura Graves is also a fine study; and the other characters are sustained in a most praiseworthy manner.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. Herbert E. Feather.—Stuart Lomath's revised adaptation of Sapho is being presented this week by Mrs. Frank Bateman and Stuart Lomath's company. Mr. Lomath himself undertakes the rôle of Jean Gaussin, and gives a masterly interpretation of the part; Miss Lizzie Montague is an ideal Sapho; Irene is prettily represented by Miss Lily Clutterbuck; drolleries are judiciously introduced by Mr. Percy Shaw as Uncle Cesaire and Miss Ellen Owen as Cleopatra; and others who do well in their respective rôles are Mr. C. Lincoln as Famant, Mr. Geo. Harvey as Dechelette, Mr. Geo. Herbert as Jules Delbret, and Miss Nelly Wilson as Mme. Hettema.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. A. E. Dobney.—Haley's Juveniles, a remarkably clever troupe of children, are the principal attraction in the programme this week. W. G. Wesley, in patter and comic song, is exceedingly funny; some capital imitations of birds, &c., are rendered by Fritz Von Liston; Emma Don is always a favourite here; the Hanaway Bros. are smart at patter and neat at simultaneous dancing; Elmo and Rego perform many clever and comical acrobatic feats; a remarkably smart and amusing Tyneside ventriloquist (whose name does not transpire) substitutes for No. 10; and some interesting Pictures by Raymond's Bioscope conclude the bill.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE. — KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. H. F. Maltby's company is here this week in a round of plays by his own pen. On Monday Fraud was staged. Mr. Maltby gave a highly artistic interpretation of Robert Jones; Mr. Wyn Weaver's talents found ample scope in the character of Mr. Barnes; Mr. Bremner Wills, excellently made up, gave a fine impersonation of the Rev. Stanley Kershaw; Mr. Arthur Claremont showed much dramatic ability as Leslie Partington; Mr. Norman H. Tracey was decidedly good as the priggish Tommy Kershaw; Mr. James Willoughby made the most of Mr. Bramber; whilst Mr. S. Clegg was quaintly humorous as Jackson. Miss Mara Maltby's delineation of Ernestine Kershaw merits the highest eulogy; Miss Florence Wynn showed much skill as Miss Butler; Miss Lizzie Maddocks was a praiseworthy Mrs. Kershaw; and Miss Kathleen St. George was all that could be desired as Harper.

WIDNES.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Jas. Kiddie.—Messrs. Plummer and Blake's company is here this week with the American comedy Happy Hooligan, which goes with a great swing. Mr. W. H. Lester is very funny as Happy Hooligan; good work is done by Mr. Jos. J. Sullivan as Donald McGregor; Mr. John K. Hawley is smart and entertaining as Max Guggenheimer; Mr. Harry Emeric is well fitted to the part of Charley Flipp; Miss Lottie Wilson secures honours as the Widow Johnson, singing very nicely; and Miss Rose Lyndon is distinctly pleasing as Rose. The play is well staged, and the musical numbers are bright and catchy.

WIGAN. — ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Co.—Mr. J. W. Turner's talented company is paying a welcome return visit in a repertoire of standard operas. Those billed are The Lily of Killarney, Faust, Maritana, Il Trovatore, Martha, and The Bohemian Girl.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—Les Frères Bakusio are excellent head-to-head balancers and acrobats; H. O. Wells is encored for humorous songs; August and September create roars of laughter; the Kurios appear successfully in a blend of pantomime, art, and mystery; Bert Woodward, the cycling coon, deserves special mention; the Prince Milner Trio are responsible for some excellent wire-walking and balancing; Mi Narom has humorous songs; the Danbys are dancers above the average; and Marie Blythe, vocalist, and Patrick Playfair complete.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Co.; District-Manager, Mr. Gerald Hunt; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Woon.—Another capital programme is in evidence this week. The pictures include The Bully and the Recruit, Pony Express, Cossacks of the Don, The Fireman's Daughter, Beatrice Cenci, A Mexican Love Story, and a host of other good films. Mr. Chas. Cassel is a pleasing descriptive and character vocalist; and Mr. Frank Stanert, who hails from the land of stars and stripes, is a novelty, his laughing song and musical items gaining rounds of applause. Full houses are the rule.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles Barnard; Resident-Manager, Mr. Gerald Spencer.—Hardie and Von Leer's company is proving an excellent draw this week in The Sailor's Wedding. The company is exceptionally strong, and the drama is very well staged. Mr. C. W. Standing as Lieut. Gordon Drake is all that a chivalrous young English naval officer should be; and Mr. Cecil Klein gives a perfectly easy and natural portrayal of the part of his friend, Sir Victor Lascelles; Mr. William Sequin is successful as Count Bellini; Mr. Hodgson Taylor as the scheming Giovanni Ferici does well; Mr. Frank Gordon gives a clever character study as Giacomo, and Mr. Walter Pemberton as Jack Hawkins makes a typical sailor; Miss Winifred Pearson's impersonation of the adventuress, Lenore de Gresac, is deserving of the highest praise, and proves her to be an actress possessing much dramatic power; Miss Laura Hansen as the Countess Bellini is sympathetic and dignified; Miss Dulcie Greatwich is a delightfully ingenuous heroine as Mary; and Miss M. Sadie is amusing as Polly Clarke. The minor characters are all capably played.

EMPIRE PALACE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—A good all-round bill is topped by Chianti, a protean actor who accomplishes with bewildering rapidity a number of changes in costume and scenic effect, depicting the people of various nations; Tom and Marie Motramo, whilst being exceedingly funny, delight the audience with their musical contributions; Kurkamp, the singing conductor, has an excellent voice; and Mack Ollive whistles tunefully in a most elaborate stage setting. Beattie and Blanche, duettists and dancers; A. G. Spry, comedian; and Lilian Farrar, comedienne and dancer, complete the bill.

WORCESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Le Warde.—Mr. F. R. Benson's North Shakespearean company constitutes the attraction this week. The programme during the week has comprised Taming of the Shrew, Richelieu, Twelfth Night, Romeo and Juliet, Faust, The School for Scandal, Henry V., and Richard III.—sufficiently diversified to meet all tastes. The company is a large and capable one. Mr. Henry Herbert occupies pride of place, and his masterly impersonations have aroused the enthusiasm of well-filled houses. Mr. Herbert also undertakes the arduous duties of management with conspicuous success. Other members of the company calling for mention are Mr. Bernard Limpus, Mr. Arthur Fayne, Mr. James Berry, Mr. Harvey Brabay, Mr. Everard Vanderlip, Mr. Victor Wiltshire, Mr. Vincent Hallman, Mr. Sam Cohen, Mr. Patrick Lewis, Misses Violet Farebrother, May de Launey, Jean Graeme, Palgrave and Gladys Vanderzee. The company is splendidly equipped with scenery and costumes for this tour, and the works in their extensive repertory are presented under the best possible conditions.

WORTHING.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Mr. Fred J. Webb's company presented A Knight in Armour for the first three nights. Mr. F. Wheatley was good as James Milbourne; Mr. Fred J. Webb did well as Frank Milbourne; Mr. Louis Nanton was an excellent Bill Newton; Mr. W. Henderson a capable Dominie Domino; Mr. Geo. Paradise a convincing Sternhold Keys; and Miss Olive Webb an able Miss M. Danvers-Smith. On Thursday Mr. Ernest Dare and company presented In the Soup.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Jno. J. Scott.—This week the attractions are Bert Lytton, the swell comique, who catches on well; Lucretia and Josephine, clever burlesque artists and smart dancers; Grover, an eccentric magical juggling comedian, and the Bioscope pictures.

YORK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—Lovers of highly-flavoured drama are having a treat this week in witnessing The Great White Chief, admirably played by Mr. Lingford Carson's company. As Reindeer, the dumb man, Mr. Carson gives a very clever rendering of a part which calls forth all his efforts; Mr. Mansell Fane as the chief acts with great coolness and skill; as the villain Mr. George Butler takes the fullest advantage of his opportunities to display his talents as an actor of undoubted merit; much fun is caused by Mr. Leonard Maitland as George Rupert Walker; and Miss Ross Clyde, Miss Dulcie Lawrence, and Miss Pollie Denville are particularly clever in their various rôles.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—Pyck, Tholl, and Taylor in their absurdity entitled The Dancing Master give a show which at once catches on; the Denwartz Troupe are hand-balancers of extraordinary ability; Julian Ross sings some catchy songs in good style; the Lovelaces are song illustrators of great merit; Simms and Simms, musical comedians, are well received; and Harry Russell and company in a neat sketch, The Two Jays, are pleasing; Irene Weldon, Frank Melville, and the Bioscope, complete the list.

A NEW place of entertainment has been opened in the Burgh Hall, Woodside, a division of Aberdeen, largely inhabited by the paper workers and granite quarrymen. The first show last Saturday was crowded.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Play entitled
"THE PRINCE AND THE BEGGAR MAID."

If the dramas of recent years had been up to the standard of The Prince and the Beggar Maid there would have been no outpourings on the decline of the drama of which so much has been said and written during the past few years. Mr. Walter Howard is the author of some very successful plays, and he has invested them all with stories which make them attractive, are in no way repulsive, but, on the other hand, wholesome. So it is with The Prince and the Beggar Maid, one of the latest of the Lyceum successes. The plot is romantic, and worked out with fantastical cleverness, the sensational incidents being very exciting. Excellent audiences at the King's this week have testified to the popularity of the piece. Mr. Ivan Cleveland displays remarkable ability as the cruel Hildred, Prince of Sylvania. A very clever impersonation of the deformed Prince Michael is afforded by Mr. Graeme Campbell, his make-up and manner being alike admirable. Mr. Herbert Ford makes an exceedingly dashing and brave Prince Olaf, easily paving his way into the good graces of the ladies of the audience. Mr. Edmund Lee plays well as the brusque Colonel Wellenberg, and Colonel Schwartz and Captain Karsberg are capably handled by Mr. Ivan Ewart and Mr. N. Christie. Nathan, the dumb servant, is intelligently expressed by Mr. J. E. Gardner, and Mr. Francis Hawley creates a good impression as the hypocritical Bishop of Illyria. A performance of exceeding merit is given by Mr. D. Lewin Mannering in the character of Captain Hector. Mr. Kendal Chalmers provides much amusement by his rendering of Lieut. Karl Strömberg. In Monica, Princess of Illyria, Miss Annie Saker has a part that suits her to perfection, and it is needless to say that she does ample credit to her opportunities. Miss Dido Drake acts prettily as Viola. As the beggar-maid Camiola Miss Isla Garnet-Vayne makes a decided hit. The costumes and scenery are elaborate and artistic.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, Oct. 12,
MR. AND MRS. F. R. BENSON AND CO.

Mr. and Mrs. Benson and their Shakespearean company are paying another welcome visit here this week. The répertoire for the week consists of The Merchant of Venice, Julius Cæsar, Macbeth, Hamlet, She Stoops to Conquer, and Richard III. As is customary with all Mr. Benson's enterprises, the scenery and dresses are a marked feature. On the night of our visit Julius Cæsar was being presented, and Mr. Murray Carrington is seen in a capital portrayal of the title-rôle, which he undertakes with a naturalness and finish beyond reproach. Mr. F. R. Benson infuses much pathos into the part of Marcus Antonius, speaking his lines with much care. The part of Cassius is admirably undertaken by Mr. Baliol Holloway, an actor of much worth, whose work throughout the long and trying part deserves the highest praise. Mr. E. A. Warburton must also be complimented upon his admirable assumption of Marcus Brutus, giving as he does an earnest and conscientious reading. Mr. H. O. Nicholson sustains the character of Casca in a most capable manner; and Mr. J. P. Wilson speaks his lines with much care as Trebonius. Messrs. G. F. Hannam Clark and Worlock are well placed as Metellus Cimber and Artemidorus, the same remark applying to Mr. M. Johnston as Decius Brutus. Mr. Johnston makes an excellent representative of Pindarus. The ladies have not much chance in this play, but Mrs. F. R. Benson created a good impression by her fine acting as Portia, the part being artistically treated. As Calphurnia, Miss Helen Haye proves herself an accomplished and clever artist; and the Misses Leah Hanman (Lucius) and A. P. Nicholson (Cæsar's servant) both do justice to their parts. The remaining parts are all in capable hands. Messrs. W. H. Quinton, stage-manager, and his assistant, Mr. Harry Stafford, are deserving of much praise for their work. Mr. Cuthbert Ricketts is Mr. Benson's business-manager.

THE CORONET.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Play, entitled
"MAN AND SUPERMAN."

Crowded houses are witnessing the Vedrenne-Barker performances at Notting Hill Gate, and worshippers at the shrine of Bernard Shaw as well as the ardent admirers of Mr. Granville Barker are in their element. Mr. Shaw's verbal fireworks are permitted to ricochet in all directions, and for any hapless sensitive wight who feels the sting of the falling stick from his random rockets there is scant sympathy. Clever, caustic, cynical, cryptic, and callous, he is everything by turns and nothing long. As the hare-brained philosopher and amiable Anarchist Jack Tanner Mr. Granville Barker presents a remarkable study of character. His charm and fascination of manner as well as his fluent delivery of the long-winded diatribes against convention and the "life force," make the part positively alluring and convincing. Miss Frances Dillon is such a charming and handsome exponent of the selfish, insincere, aggravating, and strong-minded Ann Whitefield that our only wonder is that Jack Tanner holds out so long against her wiles and artifices. Miss Auriol Lee as the managing young woman, Miss Violet Robinson, alias Mrs. Hector Malone, makes a great hit by her intensely natural and notable impersonation, and looks pretty as a picture. Mr. David Powell as the sentimental idiot Octavius Robinson shows what can be done by first-rate acting in that he engages our sympathy for this namby-pamby poet and lap-dog of society. Mr. Michael Sherbrooke is exceedingly good as the testy old guardian, Roebuck Ramsden, his facial play and expression of discomfiture being particularly life-like and amusingly grotesque. Mr. Richard Haigh scores tremendously as the Cockney chauffeur, 'Enry Straker, and causes roars of laughter by his droll philosophy. Mr. Frederick Lloyd is good as Hector Malone; and Mr. James Hearn contributes a life-like embodiment of the self-made man, Mr. Malone, his father. Miss Helen Rous is very funny as the lugubrious and lachrymose Mrs. Whitefield; and Miss Maud Burton does all that is required of her as a parlourmaid. Miss Frances Wetherall supplies a clever picture of middle-aged acerbity as the pronounced spinster, Miss Ramsden. Mr. Arthur Bowyer is stage-manager, Mr. Harry W. Lumley acting-manager, and Mr. E. Taylor Platt is general-manager.

THE BROADWAY, NEW CROSS.

On Monday, Oct 12, the Musical Comedy entitled
"MISS HOOK OF HOLLAND."

An enthusiastic reception was accorded the pretty Dutch musical play entitled Miss Hook of Holland, which commenced a return engagement on Monday. Miss Marie Wilson plays the title-rôle (otherwise Sally) in delightful fashion, singing and acting in a manner which wins all hearts. Freda Voos and Clara Voos have very charming representatives in Miss Amy Preston and Miss Maudy Jennings; Miss Queenie Preston is excellent as Gretchen; Miss N. Barn is good as the old market woman, and Miss F. Cragie is a capital Thelka; Miss Mabel Sealby is a bright and clever Mina, and Ludwig is capitally played by Mr. Percy Davidson; Mr. Arthur Reynolds as Mr. Hook is exceptionally good, and Mr. Fred Hobbs as Captain Adrian Paap and Mr. Lionel Scott as Lieutenant de Coop are excellent; Mr. Powis Pinder is good as Bandmaster Van Voyt; Mr. H. Holland plays the old policeman cleverly; Mr. Charles Russ as Hans Mans gave a good rendering of the part; Mr. H. Smith acts well as Hendrick Drack, as does Mr. A. Murry as Van Eck and Mr. Fred Lyne as Simon Slinks. The attractive and tuneful chorus adds greatly to the general success, and the orchestra is under the able direction of Mr. Sydney Shaw. The play is produced by Mr. Leslie Holland. Mr. Herbert Austin is manager for Mr. George Dance, and Mr. Bertram Iles is the popular resident acting-manager.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Play entitled
"BEAU BROCADE."

The high standard which Mr. Bannister Howard has set himself at Sydenham is well maintained in the current attraction, which is being presented by Mr. Reginald Dance's company. The piece is from the pens of Baroness Orczy and Montague Barstow, the authors of The Scarlet Pimpernel, which has had such a singularly successful run, and the same thrilling character surrounds the scenes and incidents as that which commended the Pimpernel so strongly to favour. Interest in the slight story is ingeniously stimulated throughout, and the pursuit of papers from the time they leave the hands of their rightful owner to their safe deposit in the proper quarters, which is carried on by village and road, and over a lonely heath at sunset, kept the audience at the Crystal Palace on Monday thoroughly engrossed. The various parts are in the hands of players of tried ability. The rôle of the intrepid highwayman known as Beau Brocade is sustained in a fitting spirit of chivalry by Mr. Reginald Dance, who dresses with becoming elegance and bears himself gallantly. He has a rich and well modulated voice, which enables him to express with every point the effective lines of the part, and though in some of the softer sentences he speaks so low as to become almost inaudible, it is only momentary, and later the words ring out with telling emphasis. A typical village blacksmith is found in the John Stitch of Mr. Dalziel Heron, whose impersonation is full of rugged force and vigorous declamation. Mr. Frank Powell makes a truly forbidding appearance as the vindictive Sir Humphrey Challoner, whose truculence is expressed in every word and action. The character is drawn on frank melodramatic lines, but Mr. Powell enriches it with much varied action and resource. A particularly fine performance is that of the Sergeant, played by Mr. J. W. Brighten, who invests his rendering with much fire and energy. The fair sex is represented by only two personages, and of the leading lady Miss Ruth Mackay is a comely representative. She plays Lady Patience Gascoyne with gentleness and refinement, the winsomeness of the earlier acts being agreeably contrasted with the more impassioned phases of the later ones. Her love scenes with Jack Bathurst are carried out with admirable delicacy, and throughout the performance is one of sweetness and grace. Miss May Brooke is the maid Betty, and gives a neat and intelligent embodiment. The serious scenes are lightened by a liberal infusion of humour, the bulk of which is supplied by the country yokel Jock Miggs, in which part Mr. Edward Irwin acquits himself with every credit. He loses no opportunity of broadening the effect of his lines, and is well justified by the laughter he arouses. Mr. H. Asheton Tonge is little less droll as the parish beadle, a second edition of Shakespeare's Dogberry, and his numerous perversions of the King's English result in continual mirth. Mr. Stanley Lathbury cuts a quaint figure, and acts with an effective sense of drollery as the lawyer Mr. Mittachip; and the part of his clerk is well taken by Mr. Albert Thomas. Mr. Frank Darch wins sympathy for the fugitive Earl of Stretton; Mr. R. Hayes is a handsome and elegant Duke of Cumberland; Mr. A. E. Mayne is benign in appearance and manner as Squire West; and the cast is completed by Mr. R. Hope as a postboy. The piece is admirably mounted, and the picturesque military uniforms of the middle of the eighteenth century lend an agreeable note of colour to the proceedings. The audience gave frequent tokens of satisfaction at the piece and calls for the principals accompanied the end of each act.

BRITANNIA THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Drama entitled
"A LONDON ACTRESS."

The production of A London Actress by Mr. M. Montgomery's company is proving a great success, and crowded houses have been the rule during the week. The stock company engaged are winning favour by their excellent acting. Mr. Ryland-Leigh gives a fine impersonation of Clive Crawford. Mr. Harry Tresham presents an artistic performance as the open-hearted naval officer, Ned Kingstone; Captain Mannering, R.N.R., is a life-like personation of a retired naval officer as introduced by Mr. W. S. Clerke; Mr. H. G. Brandon as Moses Mendoza introduces a good representation of the typical Jewish moneylender who is always at hand to assist virtue and denounce villainy, and is a performance that deserves special mention. Considerable amusement is caused by Mr. Alan Himeson as Pat Mahony, an Irishman whose accent and brogue are natural. Mr. Pat Ivan Gore is a good representative of a kind-hearted London policeman, and he receives the applause of the audience. Miss Ethyle Gordon Murray is to be heartily congratulated for her fine performance of Hilda Langley, an adventuress, a part that gives ample opportunity for an artist to show her talent in the varying emotions the character requires, which Miss Murray takes every advantage of. A considerable amount of the success of the drama is attributed to the interpretation of the sorely-tried Phyllis Crawford, which is sympathetically and charmingly played by Miss Lalla Stanhope, a young artist who is rapidly coming to the front; Miss Edna Lester is good as Biddy Maloney, and Miss Florence Barnes acquits herself in a dual impersonation of Rosie Blythe and Mrs. Skinner, characters of distinct opposite temperament, remarkably well. The drama is well mounted, and the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. F. W. Hatley, renders some tuneful selections during the evening. Mr. Fred A. Fowler, the courteous manager, attends to the comfort of his numerous patrons in his usual affable manner.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Musical Play, in Two Acts, entitled
"MISS HOOK OF HOLLAND."

This charming musical production made a most welcome reappearance at the Kingston playhouse on Monday evening, when an exceptionally capable and well-drilled company, under the direction of Mr. George Dance, commenced a week's engagement. Mr. Peter Davey, the enterprising managing-director of the theatre, knows well how popular musical plays are in the riverside town, and he never loses an opportunity of bringing the best of the London productions in front of his patrons. Few musical plays that have appeared at the Royal County have been received with so much favour, or, let it be added, that deserved it. The audience on Monday night "tumbled" at once to the tuneful numbers composed by Mr. Paul A. Rubens, encored every one of them, and whistled and sang them in the street next day. The drollery of the play was also evidenced by the laughter which resounded throughout the house from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The title-rôle was filled by Miss Alice Coverick, a young lady who, as a riverside pierrette, had won many friends during the summer in the Royal borough. As the gay young daughter of the Dutch distiller she made a decided hit and many additional friends, singing and dancing and looking the part with a rare charm. The equally gay young Dutch bandmaster finds a most capable exponent in Mr. Frank Crimp, whose fine singing frequently attracts particular notice. Equally successful, both in acting and in song, is the Captain Papp of Mr. George Ide, whose rendering of the song "Soldiers of the Netherlands" is one of the numbers to be remembered. It would be difficult to find a more droll exponent of the lazy canal loafer, Simon Slinks, than Mr. Tom Seymour, whose shuffle and impassive countenance are an object-lesson to the unemployed of any country. The lighter side of the comedy is also well exemplified by Mr. Tom Shale, who plays the father of the charming Miss Hook with inimitable drollery. All the subordinate parts in the play are also well placed, the scenery, properties, and dresses are all of first-class order, and the whole show goes with a fine swing that carries all before it. It may be added that there is a most capable augmented orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Alfred Vernon, and that the company is being toured under the management of Mr. Edward Beresford.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Drama, entitled
"THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH."

There was a good-sized audience assembled on Monday to witness Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company in the old Elephant favourite The Village Blacksmith. Billed as a great human play, it certainly appeals to the emotions of audiences here, who have been quick to show their approval or disapproval in very forceful manner. Mr. Sam Livesey gives a fine impersonation of the village blacksmith, John Strong, and his stalwart appearance gives realism to his acting; Mr. Albert Sinclair is as villainous as possible in the part of Captain Leo. The wrestling match between John Strong and the Captain at the finish is conducted in a very strenuous style. Mr. Thomas E. Marshall scores as Jeremiah Parkins; Mr. Fred Howing, a delightful Billy Twigg, the blacksmith's boy, sings a good comic song in the last scene; Miss Maggie Edwards plays well and convincingly in the part of Kate Strong; Miss Cassie A. Grande is a pathetic figure as the unfortunate Ruth Parkins; Mrs. T. O. Livesey fills the part of Sal Parkins; and Miss Edith Gidders makes the most of the part of Martha Mopps. A very praiseworthy performance is that of Miss Lily Leicester as the blacksmith's child, Harry Strong. The Elephant Bioscope continues its series of excellent pictures.

NEW LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Drama, entitled
"HER LUCK IN LONDON."

The golden opinions earned by this excellent company some eighteen months ago when they first visited the Lyric are being more than realised by the performances this week. Miss Mary Neil as Nellie Harborne again proves herself an actress of great ability. It is by no means an easy part, and the manner in which it is played reflects great credit upon Miss Neil. Miss Florrie Groves' work in the character of Maud Gladys Shovepenny is excellent throughout; Mr. Douglas Cecil, in appearance and acting, is most successful as the Hon. Fitzgerald O'Connor; Mr. Frank Strickland works hard as Richard Lenowen, and earns the hatred of the audience for this villainous character; as the Rev. Lionel Strong Mr. Douglas Tremayne gives a finished performance; Mr. T. Lionel Ellis submits a clever study as Stephen Harborne; Mr. S. P. Clewlow makes a good "fop" as Algie Kircumbie; as Jerry Goldbed Mr. Henri Gerald provides plenty of amusement; Miss Beatrice Hudson does well in the character of Lilian Harborne; and Miss Marie Clavering as Mme. Gabrielle is praiseworthy. Miss Amy B. Ellis is a humorous Mrs. Thirsty. The staging of the play leaves nothing to be desired.

PAVILION THEATRE, E.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Drama, entitled
"A LION'S HEART."

The management of the Pavilion Theatre are fortunate in securing for this week Mr. Joseph Bebb's company in Arthur Shirley and Ben Landeck's stirring emotional play A Lion's Heart. The story is a straightforward and continuous one, dealing largely with the customs of the convicts in the island of New Caledonia, who are allowed, under certain circumstances, a plot of land to cultivate. The play is highly appreciated by the large audiences which are patronising the theatre. Mr. Henry Bedford as Rizardo, the lion tamer, gives an excellent exposition of the part, his emotional acting in the prologue being productive of great enthusiasm. The adventurer, Gaspard Dobre, as enacted by Mr. Stephen Scanlan, is a portrayal of intense vigour and power, and is a clever study of refined villainy followed by final repentance. The erring wife, Louise, is performed with poignant pathos by Miss Ada Oakley, whose fine acting in the last act interested everyone. Mr. Leonard Booker as the young farmer, Dick Lorrimore, looks exceedingly well, and plays with manliness; and Bessie is made the most of by Miss Madge Beresford. The young barrister, Jack Bealey, as enacted by Mr. Edgar J. Coyne, becomes a great favourite; and Mr. Archie Helsby renders the scheming Colonel Robert de Villefort with effect. Mr. Edward Lowrie as Timothy Puggs and Miss Ida Bastow as Helene cause much amusement. The remaining characters are in the capable hands of Mr. Peter Bennett, Mr. Robert Eyre, Mr. John Belton, Miss Beatrice Holmes, and little Elsie May. The scenery for this production is especially fine, particularly the Exterior of Manor Farm and the Hotel St. Moritz, while the costumes are in the best possible taste. Mr. John Belton is the manager for the company.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Joseph Arthur, entitled
"THE STILL ALARM."

At the Shakespeare Theatre this week Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company is holding the boards with the stirring drama The Still Alarm. An excellent company has been engaged, and the representation is illustrated by fine scenery, the Engine House scene introducing two specially-trained horses in a realistic set. Mr. M. H. Glenville makes a fine, manly Jack Manley, his vigorous manner and earnestness being well suited to the rôle. Mr. Gerald Kennedy contributes a finished impersonation of the scheming John Bird; and Mr. Tom Beasley's presentation of Willie Manley leaves nothing to be desired. Mr. Fred Osmond as Doc Wilber is bubbling over with humour, his humorous antics keeping the audience well amused. Mr. Lewis Gordon as Franklyn Fordham and Mr. J. Sutton Pateman as Joe Jones put in some excellent work; and Mr. Ernest Hamilton as Jenkins and Mr. Frank Wilson as a Messenger Boy are also deserving of praise. Miss Beatrice Shirley makes a charming Elinor Fordham, acting throughout with zest and sincerity; Miss Hettie Zillwood, a vivacious Carrie Wilber, gains much applause for her song and dance; and Miss Mabel Veriton is seen to advantage in the rôle of Mrs. Manley. The Lyric Comedy Four sing several glees with pleasing effect. The comfort of the audience is well looked after by Mr. H. Percival Young, the courteous acting-manager for Messrs. Bennett and Bennett.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Musical Comedy
"THE BELLE OF NEW YORK."

Presented by Mr. J. Bannister Howard, Mr. George Musgrove's principal company is greatly pleasing the Dalstonites this week by most efficient performances of the musical comedy The Belle of New York. Mr. Arthur Ricketts is Ichabod Bronson, the millionaire, and he delineates the part ably. Harry Bronson is represented by Mr. James A. Watts, who acts with plenty of vigour and sings well. The favourite song "When we are married" is still persistently encored. Mr. Frank Lawton scores a decided success as Blinky Bill McQuirk, "a mixed ale pugilist." His eccentricities keep the house in a roar. The same may be said with regard to Mr. J. W. Tate as the Polite Lunatic, whose urbanity as a would-be cut-throat even renders such a character reassuring. Mr. William Hartigan is also amusing as Doe Snifkins, manager of the Cora Angelique Comic Opera Company, and in sustaining the fun he is well supported by Mr. Alec Godfrey as Kenneth Mug, low comedian. Mr. Hal Kirke and Mr. Ray L. Cody greatly please with their quaint but sprightly business as the Portuguese Twins. Miss Hebe Kneleer as Violet Gray, the Salvation Army lass, who is acknowledged as the Belle of New York, acts with surprising vivacity, and sings and dances in a charming manner. Miss Dorothy Doria as a Parisienne sings and dances well; Miss Winnie Browne is somewhat of a favourite as Cora Angelique; and Miss Florence Hersee as Mamie Clancy, a Peel-street girl, dances splendidly. The cast also includes Mr. R. Edwards, Mr. C. Henry, Mr. Owen O'Brien, Mr. T. Dixon, Mr. Towsley, Miss Betty Hall, and Miss Maud Bower.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Comedy, entitled
"LADY FREDERICK."

The first appearance of Lady Frederick in the suburbs, with the added attraction of Miss Mabel Love in the title-rôle, has this week drawn crowded audiences to the Kennington Theatre. Miss Love makes full use of her manifold artistic graces, and imparts into her rendering of the title-part a liveliness and energy that keep the audience absorbed. The charming personality and natural vivacity by which Miss Love has endeared herself to the playgoing public are again utilised in her conception of Lady Frederick, and as the impulsive and almost tempestuous Irishwoman she is bewitching. Sir Gerald O'Mara, her brother, is admirably acted by Mr. Patrick Quill; Mr. Robert Minster gives an artistic impersonation of Mr. Paradine Fouldes, the sentimental cynic, whose speech teems with apt epigrams and caustic witticisms. Miss Elsie Irving as Lady Mereston presents a careful study of the fond parent, anxious to protect her son from the clutches of an alleged designing woman. Mr. E. F. Meads as Lord Mereston sustains a difficult part with great effect. The Captain Montgomery of Mr. Edward Bonfield leaves nothing to be desired; and Admiral Carlisle is interestingly portrayed by Captain Gerald Gambier. As the daughter Rose Miss Lynn Fontanne wins all hearts by her charming manner and talented acting. Miss Beatrice Grosvenor in the rôle of Mme. Claude gives evidence of being a clever and versatile actress; Messrs. John Orme and Harry Winton are excellent as Thompson and Pierre respectively; and Miss Rita Ward as Angelique shows much promise. Mr. Bruce Smith also gives satisfaction as Lady Frederick's footman. The scenery, effects, and dresses are exceptionally fine, the setting of the first act being a masterpiece of staging. The play is preceded by The Peacemaker.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Comedy entitled
"CAPTAIN DREW ON LEAVE."

This bright comedy of Mr. H. H. Davies, associated with the fame of Sir Charles Wyndham's name, was produced here on Monday, and proved very successful. Miss Nora Carton, under whose management the play is presented, has surrounded herself with a company of clever artists, with the result that a complete representation is afforded. Miss Cynthia Brooke gave a capital performance as Mrs. Moxon. This lady was specially good in the striking scene which concludes the third act. Miss Nora Carton was delightfully animated as the rich heiress, Miss Mills, her efforts being admirably seconded by Mr. Willox Cadogan, who plays her somewhat dull fiancé; Mr. Gerald Venning is to be distinctly commended for his portrait of the scheming Chester Hassall; Mr. Tom Mowbray renders useful support as the quiet husband, George Moxon. In the title-rôle Mr. Charles V. Vaughan throughout played splendidly, and richly deserved the approval his acting evoked; Miss Lydia Hayward was good as the maid. Captain Drew on Leave is nicely staged and handsomely dressed. The play was preceded by that capital old farce, Cut Off with a Shilling.

THE GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"THE GAY GORDONS."

The visit of Mr. Seymour Hicks's principal company is proving a great success, and has drawn crowded houses, a potent source of attraction being, no doubt, the presence of Miss Zena Dare in the cast. Mr. Stanley Brett is responsible for the important rôle of Angus Græme. He infuses into his impersonation a large amount of irrepressible vitality, and he is possessed of a charm of manner that puts him on the best of terms with his audience in very little time. His love-making, also, is quite irresistible. Mr. Edward Lewis as Nervy Natt keeps the house in roars of laughter at his whimsical doings; and is ably supported by Mr. Wilfred Norman as Edmund, and by Miss Nellie Dade as Charlotte Siddons. Mr. Ernest Torrence gives a good representation of the American millionaire, Andrew Quainton. Mr. Paul Plunket makes a good show as Corporal John Smith, forced to masquerade as the Earl; and the young noblemen are brightly and breezily played by Messrs. J. Wooley, E. Leith, Reg. Adair, and J. Carlisle. Mr. Buchanan Wake is good as the lawyer, Speedy, and Mr. J. Sims Woolley displays uncanny energy as the wonderful McPhrisky. The part of Janet McLeod is played with appropriate tenderness by Miss Eugenie Vernie. Miss Madge Vincent does well as Victoria Siddons; as does also Miss Ada Fraser as Lady Millicent. Miss Zena Dare is a great success as Peggy Quainton, playing brightly and naturally, as well as contributing several song and dances, which are very well received. The dresses are handsome, and the piece is mounted in excellent style.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Musical Farce, entitled
"HIS MAJESTY'S GUESTS."

Laughter and brightness are reigning supreme at the above popular South London house, where the efforts of Mr. Fred Kaino's clever company of comedians, who are paying a return visit with His Majesty's Guests, are much appreciated. Mr. George Hester as Sergeant Lightning is the life and soul of the production. While he is on the stage the fun never flags for an instant, and his supply of mirth-provoking patter seems inexhaustible. Miss Aggie Morris ably aids him in the fun-making as Lady Maud Easem, and the character duet between the two is much appreciated. Miss Edith Ager makes a prepossessing and dainty Dolly Miffin, her singing being greatly admired; and Miss Kitty Brunton is amusing as the New Woman, Miss Manley. Mr. E. Freshwater makes a stalwart Lord Easem, and his fine baritone voice is heard to advantage in a couple of ballads. Mr. Charles Usher contributes a good character sketch as Mr. Miffin; and Mr. C. Griffiths does well as Harry. Mr. Tom Manardo is an entertaining Selina, and goes through some clever knockabout business. Mr. Sid Kranns as the irrepressible Minks does excellently; and Mr. T. Ellis Buxton is good as the doorkeeper, Fritz. The scenery is quite adequate, and the production is received with every mark of approval.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Play, by Hall Caine,
"THE PRODIGAL SON."

Mr. Wentworth Croke's company in The Prodigal Son, which is paying a return visit, is proving a strong attraction here this week. An excellent cast has been engaged, and the piece is well mounted. Mr. Hugh Montgomery as the serious, rugged-natured Magnus, submits a manly, earnest, and incisive performance, and the character is exceedingly popular. Mr. Gordon Macintosh as the brilliant though pusillanimous Oscar plays with ease, fluency, and distinction, his acting in the Casino scene being especially good. Mr. Charles Cooper portrays Stephen Magnusson with expression and dignity; and Mr. Philip Renouf submits a sound performance as Oscar Neilson. Miss Valerie Crespin, in the dual rôle of Thora and Elin, is sympathetic and charming as the former, while as the guileless Elin she is becomingly naive and girlish. Miss Barbara Gott is decidedly successful as Anna Magnusson; Miss Marie Harcourt is a natural and interesting Margaret Neilson; and in the important rôle of Helga Miss Mildred Cottell acts with much tact and latent strength. Others who do well are Mr. E. Rivarz as Dr. Olsen, Mr. Charles A. Maynards (who stage-manages) as Neils Finsen; and Mr. G. Dickson-Kenwin as Director of the Casino.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Drama, by Arthur Shirley,
"THE MIDNIGHT MAIL."

In a centre of railway workers like Stratford The Midnight Mail, with its thrilling locomotive scene and many railway appurtenances, is having to stand the test of critical audiences this week, and that the piece is easily repeating the success it has met with here on previous visits augurs well for its popularity as a touring production. Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Willard's company interpret the piece with much credit, and a high standard is maintained with the staging and scenic effects. Mr. Geo. Harvard looks the part of the brawny engine-driver Harry Steyne splendidly, and he makes a highly popular hero; as the cunningly facetious reprobate Billy Brewer Mr. Grant Lytton's performance is of incalculable value; and Mr. Chas. H. Longden makes a fluent and dignified Leonard Royle. Miss Trissie Humphries plays with much feeling and expression as May Steyne, and enlists the sympathies of the audience throughout. Miss Daisy Clifford is a bright and prepossessing Nancy Brewer; Miss Jeannie Weston charmingly impersonates Lady Phyllis Eustace; and Miss Marie Longden plays Miss Mildmay very appropriately. Mr. C. P. Wentworth makes up well and acts incisively as the Turkish adventurer Hassan Padisha; Mr. T. C. Glenville makes the most of his opportunities as Jasper Thornleigh; and Mr. Fred Morley is a smart P.C. Duncombe. Minor parts in a long cast all have quite capable representatives.

ROYAL ARTILLERY, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Comedy Opera, entitled
"THE MERRY WIDOW."

Messrs. Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth must be congratulated on securing such an exceedingly powerful "draw" as Mr. George Edwardes's company in the record-breaking play of The Merry Widow. The opera is lavishly mounted and gorgeously dressed, and the acting and singing are of high artistic merit. Not the least attractive feature of the production is the dance performed by Miss Mysie Devine and Mr. Frank Greene to that now famous waltz refrain, and encores are repeatedly demanded. Miss Devine, in the title-rôle, invests the part with delicacy and feeling, and is accorded a flattering reception. Miss Ada Thomas as Natali supplies an attractive and pleasing study, her vocal numbers being rendered in a charming manner. The character of Baron Popoff, the Marsovian Ambassador, is in the very capable hands of Mr. Edward D'Arcy, a comedian of excellent ability, who provokes roars of laughter whenever he is on the stage. Mr. Frank Greene is a clever exponent of the part of Prince Danilo, scoring heavily in a humorous characterisation. Mr. Ripley Evans as Vicomte Camille de Jolidon has a good tenor voice, which he uses to the best advantage, and is entirely successful. Nisch is a most comical personage as played by Mr. Fred Fowler, whose agile dancing is much appreciated. Minor characters in the cast are all undertaken by members of experience and praiseworthy ability.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Oct. 12, the Drama entitled
"WHY MEN LOVE WOMEN."

The prolific pen of Mr. Walter Howard has been used to effective purpose in this attractive drama, which is doing good business this week. The plot is worked out in India, and the play, being unfolded amid Eastern surroundings, lends itself to picturesque treatment, a circumstance of which every advantage is taken. Miss Ellen Snow has secured a capable company, who are greatly appreciated, and in the character of Violet Livingstone Miss Stone maintains a strong hold of the audience, imbuing the part with much pathos and emotion. Mr. Oliver Rogers does full justice to the severely harassed Gerald Fielding, of whom he makes a prominent figure. The villainous Captain Staniloff is imbued with due ferocity by Mr. Lionel Gadsden, who gives a good impersonation; Mr. Ernest Griffen is impressive as the Maharajah of Balore; and Mr. N. Carter Slaughter is successful as Lieut. Tommy Fitzherbert. The comic relief is adequately supplied by Mr. Harwood Roberts as Orlando Figgins, who keeps the house amused; Miss Nita Owen and Miss Freda Vaughan as Birdie and Baby respectively add much to the humour; Miss Maud Court gives a graceful impersonation of Muriel Zoluski; and Mr. W. Norman, Mr. Arthur Radford, Mr. Fred West, Mr. George Storm, and Mr. W. Wilson are efficient in minor parts.

"A LONG JOURNEY."

A Dramatic Episode, by Marie Muggeridge, produced at the New Theatre Royal, Birkenhead, on Monday, Oct. 5.

Rex Hardy ..... Mr. Christmas Grose
Bobby ..... Mr. Ernest Graham
Madame Bontemps ..... Miss Estelle Despa
Constance Ford ..... Miss Lucy Milner

This little play opens in a studio in the Quartier Latin, Paris, where we find Madame Bontemps (the landlady), Constance Ford, and Bobby making preparations to celebrate the return of Rex Hardy, who, after some years of struggles and privations, has suddenly attained affluence by composing a successful opera. Bobby is in love with Constance, and presses his attentions upon her; but the girl refuses him, adding that though she likes him their affection can only be of a platonic nature, as her love is already given to Rex Hardy. It appears that Constance, under a promise of marriage by the latter, has been living with him, and now that better times have come she looks for the fulfilment of his word. Bobby also, to whom Rex confides the truth, assumes that the marriage will take place as a matter of course, and is much surprised on hearing from Rex that he is already engaged to another lady. A strong recriminatory scene takes place between Rex and Constance, and wine being produced, she, in her despair, puts poison in her glass, unknown to Rex, who leaves the house. Constance writes a letter of farewell to Bobby informing him that she is going a long journey, swallows the poison, and dies.

The piece is interesting, but is overweighted with material. It formed a striking contrast to the performance of Jack Straw. It was capably interpreted by members of Messrs. Lionel Glenister and J. W. Wood-Ingram's company, notably so by Miss Lucy Milner, who did all that was possible with the part of Constance. Miss Estelle Despa was a vivacious Madame Bontemps; as Bobby Mr. Ernest Graham played with care and effect; and Mr. Christmas Grose made the most of his opportunities in the unthankful rôle of Rex Hardy.

The second fancy dress carnival, dance, and confetti fête of the season was greatly enjoyed at the Crystal Palace on Wednesday, and a number of valuable prizes were awarded.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the meeting of the council, held at 353, Strand, on Tuesday, Oct. 13. Present:—Mr. Fred Grove (in the chair), Mr. H. W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Misses Marion Lind, Rose Mathews, and Lucy Sibley, and Messrs. Clarence Derwent, Sebastian Smith, Jackson Wilcox, and Hubert Blount (secretary).

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The secretary read a letter from a member with regard to his claim against a manager, and instructions were given to the hon. solicitor to write to the said manager for the money. The secretary also read a letter from the manager of a provincial theatre, enclosing a letter from a firm of surveyors with regard to the dressing-rooms, &c., and was instructed to send a copy of the letter to the gentleman who first made the complaint.

The hon. solicitor reported that he had written to two members on a matter; that the bailiff of the County Court had sent in a notice to the effect that he levied execution upon the goods of a manager, but they were claimed by another party, and that he had written to the member reporting, and that he had written to and advised four lady members.

The secretary was instructed to strike off the members who have not yet paid their subscriptions for the current year.

ACTORS' UNION.

The usual committee meeting of the Actors' Union took place on the 8th inst., when the following were present:—Messrs. F. Rawson Buckley (in the chair), D. Lewin Mannering, E. Howard Templeton, A. Maitland Stapley, Orlando Barnett, and Kenneth Blackmore (secretary). Letters were received from the following:—Messrs. Jerrold Heather, Frank Strickland, Geo. P. Lester, Edwin J. Collins, J. Hastings Batson, Fred F. Loyd, Geo. H. Child, Royce Milton, and Ruddle Brown.

The secretary placed sixteen resignations before the committee, which were accepted.

Mr. Francis Chamier, having resigned his seat on the committee, Mr. Gerald Mirrielees automatically takes his place.

The secretary was instructed to post, in sealed envelopes, copies of the minutes to every committeeman not present.

The secretary was instructed to write to Mr. Geo. H. Child, and, in reply to his question, say that he is still eligible for the committee.

The secretary was instructed to inform a member to send particulars of his case to the hon. solicitor.

Eleven new members were elected.

A member was advanced 30s. from the Fund to defray his travelling expenses and the purchasing of props to join a company.

Stamps for the benevolent Fund are now ready. They are made up into books containing thirty at 2s. 6d. each. Application for these books must be made to Mr. Kenneth Blackmore.

A new agency has been opened at Coatbridge, under the direction of Mr. J. P. Dippie, The Deerhound Hotel, 66, Main-street.

Mr. Jarvis, of the Criterion Hotel, Bournemouth, has resigned the position of agent to the A.U. The address of the new agent will be published later. Mr. Leslie Arthur has resigned his position of assistant secretary to the Actors' Union, and terminates his engagement to-day (Saturday).

"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI."

(FROM OUR NEW YORK CORRESPONDENT.)

A Gentleman From Mississippi, a play in four acts, which has made a decided hit at the Bijou Theatre, has been pronounced the best American comedy of politics since The Senator. It was written by Harrison Rhodes and Thomas A. Wise, and the latter appears in the title-rôle. William H. Langdon is the name of the gentleman who goes to the Capitol at Washington as Senator from the State of Mississippi. He is what is known as a "typical Southern gentleman," courteous, genial, easy-going, and with a sense of honour that nothing can bend. As played by Mr. Wise, Senator Langdon is one of the most attractive and likeable characters to be found upon the local stage; and Mr. Douglas Fairbanks as "Bud" Haines, a youthful reporter, who becomes the Senator's private secretary, acts the part in a delightfully natural manner. The principal characters are easily recognisable as the types that abound in the National Capitol, and the plot is said to be founded on an actual occurrence. Senator Langdon arrives in Washington to be buttonholed by politicians who are working for their own pockets all the time, and need his vote in order to further their scheme to establish a naval station at a certain harbour on the Gulf Coast. They have invested heavily in the adjoining land, counting on an enormous increase in value. Langdon listens to them, and decides that he wants a smart young man to act as his secretary and instruct him in the game of politics as it is played in Washington. So he engages "Bud" Haines, correspondent for a New York newspaper. Haines is a foe to corruption, and he advises Langdon to favour a rival site for the naval station. The political "grafters" are threatened with defeat, and they play what they believe to be their winning card when they openly announce that the son and daughter of the Senator have a pecuniary interest in the success of their scheme. This puts Langdon to the test, but he does not falter, and at the last moment he conceives a plan that completely routs the "grafters." He votes against them, although his own family loses by it, and goes back with a light heart to his beloved Mississippi, having proved that he values his good name above riches. The dialogue is "breezy" and mirth-provoking, being full of wholesome humour, and the various characters are portrayed in a lifelike manner.

PROMENADE CONCERTS.

Mr. W. H. Bell's Prelude, "Agamemnon," for orchestra was the principal novelty of the Promenade Concert on Tuesday evening. Although not strikingly original, or by any means equal to Mr. Bell's other compositions, the Prelude is in some respects a fairly effective work, while it is richly scored for the orchestra. As no information is given in the programme as to the date of Mr. Bell's production, it is probably an early work of the composer. An attractive programme was forthcoming on Tuesday evening, and the large audience were greatly interested in the first appearance at these concerts of Mr. Paul Goldschmidt, a pianist of remarkable ability. Mr. Goldschmidt played Liszt's Pianoforte Concerto No. 1 in E flat with great refinement of style and admirable technique, revealing to the full the poetical effect of Liszt's much-discussed Concerto. At the conclusion the delighted audience made a strong demand for an encore, which the pianist politely but firmly refused. The orchestra, under Mr. Wood, gave fine performances of Wagner's Overture to The Flying Dutchman, the charming Ballet Air in G from Schubert's Rosamunde, and Grieg's popular "Peer Gynt," Suite No. 1. Also included in the programme was Tchaikovsky's Chant Sans Paroles, Concerto No. 2 in B flat (Handel), Sibelius's Symphonic Poem "Finlandia," and Elgar's Dream-Children, two pieces for orchestra. The vocalists were Mlle. Eve Simony and Mr. Paul Reimers, who gave an excellent account of Air du Rossignol (Les Noces du Jeannette), Victor Massé, and Carissimi's "Vittoria! mio core"; while the organist, Mr. Gostelow, was much applauded in Handel's Concerto in B flat.

RE-OPENING THE NEW, OXFORD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Oxford New Theatre, which has been closed during the Long Vacation, reopened on Monday, after undergoing reconstruction, details of which appeared in our last issue. The interior now presents a charming appearance, and great admiration was expressed.

There was no vacant seat in the theatre on Monday, there being present at the reopening the Vice-Chancellor of the University (Dr. T. Herbert Warren, President of Magdalen), both the University Proctors, many heads of colleges and professors, the Mayor (Alderman Ansell), and most of the aldermen and magistrates of the city. The performance began with the National Anthem, after which Mr. Percival Riley, the well-known actor (who resides now in Oxford), spoke the following prologue, written by an Oxford "Don," in excellent style:—

Eternal Progress marks dramatic art:
Once it was Thespis, now it's D'Oyly Carte;
You, too, advance as other people do—
You've ampler Galleries and an Exit new;
No nightly thousands need their lot deplore
By want of space excluded from your door;
Your audiences are privileged to sit
In Stalls more numerous and a larger Pit:
For due approval from the Press he meets
Who gives his critics comfortable seats.

More than two decades here the Muse has spent (Though none can say that she's a Decadent),
Now, though she change her mere material frame,
Her lines of policy are still the same.
In seats of learning all should be designed
To form the manners and improve the mind,
And here in Oxford none can help discerning
How Drama still goes hand in hand with Learning:
Thus 'tis a fact which history records,
That Dons themselves have trod these self-same boards;
Thus the pale student, fired with noble rage,
Who fondly yearns to shine upon the stage,
And deems himself of fame no less deserving
Than Arthur Bourchier or than H. B. Irving,
May, if he likes, a double object seek,
And learn his τύπτω while he acts in Greek.
No modern drama claims him for his hero
By Jones or Sheridan, Goldsmith or Pinero:
For him this motto o'er your doors is graven—
"This Haven's barred, save to the Bard of Avon!"
Nor is't alone that Undergraduate who
Such blessings knows, the public shares them too;
Townsmen or Dons, whate'er their rank or station, all
Regard this stage as strictly educational.
Be London's theatres by plays defaced
Which mar the morals and degrade the taste,—
You (let me emphasise the pronoun—YOU),
Howe'er so frivolous the piece you view,
Feel no anxiety, but know 'tis meant
For Intellectual Enlightenment,
Because it first has satisfied the care
Of the Vice-Chancellor and eke the Mayor!

Secure in this we'll strive ('tis hoped not futilely)
To link the Dulce with the merely Utile.
You—for the Drama is your servant still,
And you, kind friends, can make it what you will—
Help while you may, and don't demand of it
Horseplay for acting, double entente for wit:
Afar be those unconscionable folks
Who laugh at pathos and who groan at jokes;
And farther still those rude unlettered boys
Who fill the Theatre with senseless noise—
Poor youths who can't appreciate at all
A Comedy which isn't "Musical"!
Keep far all such—you'll find that you'll have got
A Stage that's worthy of this classic spot;
Or with its fare if e'er you wish to quarrel,
The fault's with you, and not with Mr. Dorrill!

Time shifts the scenes: To-day before your view
The curtain rises on a piece that's new.
"Act I., Scene 1—Enter a Theatre"
Who humbly hopes that you'll be kind to her:
Give her new run which now commences thus,
The best of auguries by applauding us.

A special performance was then given of When Knights Were Bold by Mr. James Welch, with his entire London company. Mr. Welch was in his happiest vein, and kept the house convulsed with laughter right through the play. He evidently liked his audience, and never played Sir Guy de Vere in more amusing fashion; and his outrageous gagging must really have rather put out the members of his company, as they were laughing themselves when they should not. Miss Audrey Ford gave a very fine representation of Lady Rowena; Miss Daisy Cordell was a handsome and fascinating Sarah Isaacson, the other ladies' parts being admirably filled by the Misses Maev O'Hea, Gwendoline Rayne, Annie Furrell, Annie Chippendale, and Helen Palgrave. Mr. Arthur Grenville was a convincing Isaac; Mr. George Desmond was an amusing Widdicombe; and Messrs. Guy Lane and Cecil Kinnaird were successful as Dr. Pottleberry and Sir Brian Ballymote.

Needless to say, Mr. Welch had a great reception, and had to speak a few words at the finish, in which he thanked Mr. Dorrill, the managing-director of the theatre, for asking him to reopen the theatre. He asked the audience if they liked their new handsome house, and a thundering "Yes" answered the question.

Mr. C. C. Dorrill, the managing-director, is to be congratulated on the handsome house he now invites the Oxford public to patronise, and the sterling success attending the opening night augurs well for a prosperous future under his skilful management. Mr. G. T. Lucas, son of the late managing-director, is now the assistant-manager. The programme for the present term is a strong one, and the management will doubtless reap the reward of their heavy expenditure for the comfort of their patrons in largely-increased returns from their more commodious theatre.

THE NEW THEATRE, OXFORD

"THE FLAG LIEUTENANT."

The first tour of this powerful play, now running with such success at the Playhouse, opened at the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, on the 5th inst. under the generalship of Messrs. Lyn Harding and Sidney Cooper, by arrangement with Mr. Cyril Maude, and it was received by a crowded house, both then and at subsequent performances during the week, with such unmistakable favour that the happiest auguries are entertained of a successful journey through the provinces. It will be a surprise indeed if the experience at Kingston be not repeated in every town visited, for, apart altogether from the play itself, which is of a stamp that never fails to arouse enthusiasm, it is presented by a company of which it may be said that almost every member is an artist, whilst it has been staged with a thoroughness, completeness, and disregard of expense that one seldom finds except in shows of A1 quality. The four scenes have been painted specially for the tour by W. D. Hobbs, the well-known scenic artist, and contribute in no small measure to the realistic effect produced upon the onlookers. The ladies' dresses and the officers' uniforms are excellent. It is with a thrill of pride that Britishers see naval officers of fine physique, resplendent in their blue and gold uniforms, treading the deck of a British man-of-war, and to find their orders obeyed by breezy blue-jackets and marines with all the discipline that one finds in the first line of defence. From the moment the curtain rises on the first act until it finally descends the interest of the audience never wanes. It is frequently evidenced by vociferous applause, and manifested at the close of each act by the recall of the principal performers. The chief interest is centred in the warm-hearted, boyish, brave flag lieutenant, whose loyal and unselfish devotion to a friend in the face of social obloquy wins for him a warm corner in the hearts of the onlookers. The part is played by Mr. Langhorne Burton with a dash and abandon that never fail him, and shows that a very wise selection was made when arranging the cast. Mr. H. Montague Love as Major Thesiger also creates a most favourable impression. Mr. George Mallett makes a capitally typical and dignified Vice-Admiral, whilst good work is also done by Mr. Stephen Gatling as the flag captain, by Mr. Claude Little as the Admiral's secretary, by Messrs. Hugh Wakefield and Lyonel Watts as the midshipmen, by Mr. Victor Lawrence as the quartermaster, by Mr. W. S. Stevenson as the sergeant of marines, and by Mr. Frederick C. Leister as the Colonel of the Campbell Highlanders. Particularly noticeable amongst a capital company were Mr. E. S. Petley, who plays the surgeon with a delightful sang-froid, and Mr. John Wheatman, whose Michael Palliser, the Hibernian telegraphist, it would be difficult to beat. Amongst the ladies honours were equally divided between Miss Florence Jackson as the wealthy widow Mrs. Cameron and Miss Marjorie Chard as Lady Hermione Wynne, both torn by conflicting emotions, which were assumed with remarkable success. Miss Evelyn Robson acquitted herself well as the matronly Lady Dugdale, and Miss Stella Leigh made the most of her opportunities as the scandal-mongering Mrs. Gough-Bogle. The company go next week to Chatham, and afterwards to Eastbourne, Folkestone, Brighton, Cheltenham, Bath, Southampton, and Bournemouth, and another tour that will extend until the end of next year commences at Preston on Dec. 24. Mr. George Mallett is acting as the general-manger, Mr. C. S. Lewis is acting-manager, Mr. W. S. Stevenson is stage-manager, and Mr. J. Wilfred Chilton is the agent in advance.

"MRS. PECKHAM'S CAROUSE."

A ONE-ACT PLAY, BY GEORGE ADE.

Miss May Irwin has returned to the regular stage after a long season in vaudeville and is now appearing in this playlet at the Garrick Theatre, New York, where success has attended her. Mrs. Peckham's Carouse, by George Ade, has been put on as a curtain-raiser to The Mollusc. Mrs. Peckham is a prominent member of a temperance society known as the Daughters of Abstinence. Her husband is a lawyer, and both he and his clerk wear the blue ribbon. The temperance movement is pretty strong in the little town where the Peckhams dwell, and so enthusiastic is Mrs. Peckham over the address which she is to deliver at a meeting to be held in the evening that she calls at her husband's office to read it to him. She comes at an inopportune moment, as the carrier has just delivered to Mr. Peckham a bottle of forty-year-old rye whisky which his brother-in-law has sent him, and which he is just about to sample when his wife's voice is heard in the outer office. The whisky is quickly put out of sight, Peckham hears the address, hypocritically approving his wife's sentiments, and she departs for the meeting. A moment later, Thomas Barrett, a man about town, arrives, and when he hears about the whisky he decides that it is quite old enough to drink. Mrs. Peckham comes back for a glove that she has left behind, and catches Peckham in the outer office with a glass of water in his hand. He trembles like a leaf, and his manner is decidedly strange. When his wife tries to get her glove he prevents her, and give sall sorts of absurd reasons why she should not enter his private office. There is a man in there who has been taken ill, he finally tells her, and the glass of water is for him, although in his nervousness he has just drunk it himself. Peckham gets his friend to rush out as if there were something the matter with him, but unfortunately he overdoes it when he passes Mrs. Peckham in the outer office, and she decides that he is drunk. As a Daughter of Abstinence she telephones to Mrs. Barrett that her husband is intoxicated. Then she leaves once more for the meeting. Barrett slips back for the delayed drink, and the glasses are filled when Mrs. Peckham's voice is heard once more outside. Frightened out of his wits Peckham springs into a convenient wardrobe and shuts himself up in it, leaving Barrett to face the music. He is bearing up wonderfully when Mrs. Barrett comes storming in and finds her husband alone with the venerable Daughter of Abstinence and a bottle of whisky on the table between them! Crazy with jealousy, she threatens to get a divorce and expose Mrs. Peckham. Speechless with rage and mortification Mrs. Peckham sinks into a chair and faints. Then the demon Drink takes his revenge on the reformer. Barrett gives her two drinks of whisky to revive her, and she comes to in a most joyous frame of mind. With bonnet awry, and her voice and features decidedly twisted, she attempts to deliver her lecture, and the effect is most comical. Peckham sneaks out in the meantime, and comes back as if he had been absent all the while. Peace is finally restored when an ink bottle (supposed to be the whisky) is thrown out of the window. Mrs. Peckham hears the crash, and believes that the accursed stuff will do no further mischief. But Barrett slips out with the bottle of whisky under his arm.

Miss Irwin impersonates the temperance reformer in her own inimitable way, and the piece is received with roars of laughter. Mr. Charles Frohman intends to present it in London next spring.

MR. W. GOODWIN WOODWARD.

By numerous friends and employees it was considered that the eminent services rendered to the staff of the Palace Theatre, Bordesley, by the popular manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward, should meet with due recognition, and the matter having taken a tangible form, it was decided that a presentation and complimentary supper be given to Mr. Woodward on Tuesday, Oct. 6. Needless to say, the affair was taken up with much enthusiasm, and after the curtain had been rung down on Mr. Roland Yorke's production, The Old Home, on Tuesday, the stage was cleared for the important business on hand. A numerous and representative company did ample justice to the excellent bill of fare provided, after which the toasts of "The King," "Moss Empires, Ltd.," "The Visitors," and "The Staff" were duly honoured.

Mr. F. Fox presided, and amongst others present were Mr., Mrs. and Miss Woodward, Mr. Woodward, jun., Mr. Roland Yorke, Mr. Archer, Mr. Hopkins, and Messrs. Knowles, Jennings, Crighton, Johnson, Butler, and others. The presentation took the form of a gold watch, on which was engraved the following inscription: "Presented to Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward, manager of the Bordesley Palace Theatre, by the staff and friends, Oct. 6." Mr. F. Fox, in making the presentation, referred to the sterling qualities possessed by Mr. Woodward, who had commanded a host of friends during the short time he had held his present important position. Mr. Woodward, in acknowledging the valuable token of their esteem, hoped that the amicable relations existing between himself and the members of the staff would long continue.

The popular manager was also the fortunate recipient of a gold Swan fountain pen from Mr. Roland Yorke and a gold snuff-box from Mr. Archer. An excellent concert of vocal and instrumental music was rendered by several members of the staff and friends, and in the "wee sma' hours" a memorable gathering terminated with the National Anthem being given in true British style. Mr. Fox admirably filled the position of chairman, and was ably seconded by Mr. Knowles.

Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward, who was born at Cheltenham, belonged to a musical family and made his début at nine years of age, singing at a concert. He won a scholarship at Cheltenham Grammar School for singing, and trained for the Civil Service, which he entered and did successfully for years. He then drifted into theatrical management, being engaged by St. John Denton to produce pantomimes, and stage-managed them. Then he was secured by Fred H. Anderson as general-manager of his touring companies, more especially The Sands of Time, which was produced at the Shakespeare, Clapham, and afterwards toured. Mr. Woodward then filled the position of manager for the Palace of Varieties, Northampton. On vacating that position he was engaged by Charles Macdona, and was for five years manager of various musical comedies run by that gentleman. The pantomimes Mr. Woodward has produced include Cinderella (Harriett Vernon principal boy), Dick Whittington (Marie Loftus principal boy), Puss in Boots (Lil Hawthorne principal boy), Babes in the Wood (Rita Presano principal boy), &c. He has had a large managerial experience, having risen from the very bottom rung of the ladder. Though a strict disciplinarian, Mr. Woodward retains the goodwill and wins the respect of all artists with whom he comes in contact.

No one need be without a typewriter, so essential to a properly-conducted business, since one can be acquired for the modest sum of £3 10s., carriage paid. The Junior Typewriter in case is only 10in. long, 5in. wide, and 2in. high, and, with its leatherette case, strongly resembles a Kodak. Its weight is just 3½lb., including the case, hence it may be sent through the post. The agents for this unique production are G. Wheeler and Co., of 203, Strand, W.C.

HENRY IRVING SHAKESPEARE.

"THE ERA'S" OFFER.

The offer which we made a fortnight ago to our readers of a new and cheap edition of "The Henry Irving Shakespeare" on specially advantageous terms has been responded to, and will doubtless continue to be taken advantage of by them. As we remarked, editions of the greatest dramatist's works are innumerable, but the one that bears the name of the departed Chief—a student and a scholar, as well as a great actor—carries the hall-mark of thoroughness in its artistic beauty and literary excellence. The illustrations—mostly by Mr. Gordon Browne, with the assistance in six of the plays of Mr. W. H. Margetson, Mr. Frank Dadd, and Mr. Maynard Brown—certainly realise the characters of the plays in a way that appeals equally to the student of the text and the art critic. It was said of a great caricaturist whose black-and-white work is to be found in many volumes published during the last century that his women are hideous. Shakespeare's heroines have invariably inspired artists, and how beautifully Mr. Gordon Browne has caught the expression of the tired and lovelorn Rosalind is to be learnt from the full-page etching of Touchstone, Celia, and Rosalind in the Forest of Arden. Again, how happy is the artist in the varied expression he is able to put into the features of the clowns and comic characters of the immortal comedies. In its illustrations alone, therefore, the Irving Shakespeare stands unrivalled.

The patient research and the untiring care of the editors are to be discovered in the introductions to each play, carefully collated from the most reliable authorities, and in the notes concerning the text; but the guiding principle which has been kept in view throughout is the treatment of Shakespeare's work as that of a dramatist, whose plays were intended not to be read as poetical exercises, but to be represented by living men and women before a general audience. The text is given unmutilated, un-Bowdlerised, and Sir Henry Irving has specially marked those portions which, in his judgment, had best be omitted in dramatic presentation.

For the convenience of the student, as well as of the general reader, the Introductions to each play have been divided into three heads: (1) "The Literary History," which treats of the various early editions of the plays and the sources whence the plot, or dialogue, may have been wholly, or in part, borrowed. (2) "The Stage History"—which, in many cases, is very scanty, as we have so few early records of the representations of Shakespeare's plays—giving an account of any remarkable stage versions of the plays which may have been produced, as well as some notice of the most remarkable performances and of any notable cast. (3) "The Critical Remarks," indicating for the reader's guidance the general tone and purport of the play, and calling attention to any noteworthy features in the structure of the plot or in the treatment of the characters.

In this new edition the work has been divided into volumes of more handy size. An appreciation of the late Sir Henry Irving has been given by his friend Mr. Bram Stoker. An important addition has also been made in Mr. Jerome Harrison's description of The Shakespeare Land, forming part of Vol. 14 of the work, which is richly illustrated with half-tone reproductions from photographs specially made for the purpose. From an artistic point of view a notable feature of the present edition is the series of reproductions of pictures by eminent Academicians that form the frontispieces of the several volumes. The appreciation contains the following estimate of the late Henry Irving's character and genius:—

Henry Irving was not only a great actor; in him were combined those attributes which go to make up a great man. He had a mind to conceive and relentless purpose to carry thought into effect. In this edition of Shakespeare which bears his name there is evidence of these high qualities. For it must be always remembered that acting in its highest sense is not merely an effort of the individual; it is an effort organised and purposed, and comprehends not merely the action of one, but the interdependence of many. An actor, save in a soliloquy, can no more run through the gamut of emotions set by the dramatist than a single soldier can complete the evolutions of a battle. Acting in its personal aspect was always held by Irving himself to be impersonation—the giving of concrete identity to abstract thought. Schlegel defined the actor's part in the ensemble of stage effort as "secondary concrete"—which, to borrow a simile from theosophy, is, I take it, like the massing of physical atoms in the building up of an astral body. But in this building there may be a choice of many possibilities which, though all equally good for the representation of the individual character, might act differently on the development of other characters of the play. To seize, therefore, that which has a wider significance of general purpose and the most direct bearing on characters set in juxtaposition is the supreme of mimetic art. This belongs to the inceptive stage of impersonation, and is therefore an important matter of consideration in the study of a play. The other side of acting, the carrying of the accepted idea into execution, is purely individual. It is of the art of the stage rather than of the study; and so we need not follow it here. It will be well, however, for the student either of the drama or the stage to consider at the outset of the study of this edition of Shakespeare how much, and what kind, of work went to the making of Irving's part in it. The purely scholarly and literary part was chiefly done by Frank Marshall; but to Irving fell the task of shortening the plays in such manner as to bring the time of playing or reading into reasonable compass, without omitting anything which would show the progress of the story, or the development of the characters. In this is included what I have called the interdependence of the characters. In later day, when scenic art and historic exactness of costume are commonplaces, and when the art of stage lighting, which Irving enlarged and almost re-created, is a matter of scientific perfection, it is possible to do without certain descriptions of place and period which were, when the plays were written, necessary aids to the imagination of the audience. But a thoughtless excision might easily create uncertainty, if not absolute puzzlement. To an unthinking reader the placing of those printed lines which mark the excisions may seem a simple enough task. But let such an one consider the preparation and forethought necessary for the judicious placing of them, and he will learn a lesson which by purity of reason may help him later in many ways of thought. For such work it was necessary to know the whole play thoroughly well before beginning to "cut" at all. The end had to be known as well as the beginning, for so only could the knife be judiciously handled. Each character had to be followed, and separately, so that no clause throwing enlightenment concerning it might be excised. In fine, knowledge, accurate and comprehensive, was required of the author's scope and method of development. Not reading of a piece once or twice, nor less than many times could fit an editor for such a task. In addition, the editor should have supreme stage knowledge, so that out of actual experience he might, in the plays not generally acted, know how far a modern audience or a skilled actor could rely on the actor's part for full illustration of the emotion to be conveyed. Histrionic art is so quick in its method that at times a single glance or movement will convey an idea more completely, as well as more rapidly, than a series of phrases.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Sir Charles Wyndham and Mr. Beerbohm Tree have been appointed as a deputation from the Society of West-End Theatre Managers to attend the Mansion House meeting on the 28th inst. on the subject of the excessive charges imposed by the Metropolitan Water Board. There is great need of revision in this respect, and it is sincerely to be hoped that the efforts of the distinguished representatives of the theatres interest will be productive of satisfactory results.

The theatres for which music and dancing licenses are to be asked at the forthcoming meetings of the Licensing Committee of the London County Council are the Shaftesbury, the Camden, and the Crown, Peckham. The committee will sit on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 6 and 7, at the Sessions House, Clerkenwell, for the purpose of hearing applications for licenses for places both north and south of the Thames. The Council, sitting as the Licensing Authority, will consider the report of the committee at the County Hall, Spring Gardens, on Friday, Nov. 27, and the following day, if necessary.

The falling horse episode in The Marriages of Mayfair was the subject of a question in the House of Commons on Thursday, when Mr. Carr-Gomm asked the Home Secretary if his attention had been drawn to the stage representation at Drury Lane Theatre of a horse falling from a precipice, and whether the Home Office inspector had satisfied himself that there is no ill-treatment of the animal. Mr. H. Samuel replied: "Theatres are not under Home Office inspection; but the Secretary of State has made inquiry into this matter, and learned that the measures taken are such that there is no ill-treatment of the horse."

The effect of the horse falling over a precipice is produced by the animal descending on to a movable platform to below the level of the stage, and the suggestion that there is cruelty or risk attached to the fall is untenable. The performance has, moreover, met with the approval of an inspector of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The safety of children attending theatres is provided for in the Children's Bill, which has this week been before Parliament. The measure contains a clause making it necessary for the person who provides an entertainment at which the number of children who attend is more than a hundred, and access to any part of the building in which the children are accommodated is by stairs, "to station and keep stationed wherever necessary a sufficient number of adult attendants, properly instructed as to their duties, to prevent more children or other persons being admitted to any such part of the building than that part can properly accommodate, and to control the movement of the children and other persons admitted to any such part whilst entering and leaving, and to take all other reasonable precautions for the safety of the children."

The occupier of a building who permits it to be used "for hire, or reward, for the purposes of an entertainment" is required to take "all reasonable steps to secure the observance of the provisions of this section." Failure to fulfil such requirement renders the person responsible liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding, in the case of a first offence, £50, and not exceeding £100 in the case of a second or subsequent offence. Furthermore, if the building is licensed "under any of the enactments relating to the licensing of theatres and of houses and other places for music and dancing, the licence shall be liable to be revoked by the authority by which the licence was granted."

Miss Viola Tree, whose vocal accomplishments have won so much admiration, will make an advance in the operatic career to which she justly aspires by undertaking the title-rôle in Herman Gotz's opera Francesca da Rimini, which is to be given by the students of the Royal College of Music in December. It will be the first performance in England of the work, which was produced at the Court Theatre at Carlsruhe while the composer was conductor there. Francesca was not entirely completed by Goetz. Two acts were finished by the composer, who merely sketched the last, and left it to Ernest Frank to complete the score.

Miss Lena Ashwell will give a matinée of Mr Wilfred Coleby's new and successful drama, The Sway Boat, at the Kingsway Theatre, this afternoon and every Saturday at three o'clock. Though reluctant to abandon the Wednesday matinées which were so popular in her former season, Miss Ashwell is compelled to do so by reason of the great emotional strain made upon her by her rôle of Lady Kilross. It should be noted that the curtain now rises on the first piece, The Treasure, at 8.15 p.m., a quarter of an hour earlier than formerly.

The announcement in numerous newspapers that Mr. Lewis Waller had been out of the bill of the Lyric Theatre and has now returned is inaccurate. The popular actor certainly had a sudden attack of laryngitis on Saturday, the 3rd inst., but he played both in the afternoon and the evening. Mr. Waller, moreover, has an unbroken record, and has never once been out of the bill.

Mr. Oswald Stoll, with characteristic enterprise, arranged for Mr. Cyril Maude and the Playhouse company to pay a flying visit to the Leicester Palace Theatre on the afternoon of the 8th inst., when Toddles was presented before a large and fashionable audience. The Palace has for some time now possessed both a dramatic and singing and dancing licence, so that there is no difficulty in submitting at this beautiful vaudeville theatre any class of entertainment. Although smoking is allowed, the gentlemen present without exception abstained, and the ladies, who attended in considerable numbers, had the courtesy, even to the gallery, to remove their hats and bonnets without request.

The audience expected much, and were not disappointed, and from the rising of the curtain till the close heartily appreciated the highly-amusing situations in Toddles, the name-part of which was played by Mr. Cyril Maude in his own artistic style. Another well-played part was that of Mrs. Joblyn by Miss Emma Chambers, who kept the laughter going while she was on the stage. Mr. Allen Thomas scored a well-deserved success as Joblyn, and as Haslitt Mr. Sydney Paxton was very good. Mr. H. Robert Averell was particularly smart as Boolby, and Miss Helen Ferrers as Lady Dover could hardly be improved upon. Miss Rosalie Toller was altogether charming as Constance Joblyn. At the termination of the performance the curtain had to be repeatedly raised in answer to the enthusiastic applause.

Mr. and Mrs. Forbes Robertson will be the guests of the evening at the opening dinner of the New Vagabond Club, which takes place at the Hotel Cecil on Sunday, Nov. 1. Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., will preside.

Mr. Martin Harvey will deliver an address embodying "Some Reflections on the Art of Acting," to the members of the O.P. Club at the Criterion Restaurant on Sunday next.

Mr. H. B. Irving has been elected a member of the Athenæum Club. Mr. Irving's illustrious father, it will be remembered, was one of the most esteemed members of the Athenæum.

Mr. Percy Hutchison and his company in Brewster's Millions were accorded a hearty welcome at the King's Theatre, Glasgow, last week. On Saturday night the enthusiasm was intense, and although the curtain had been raised again and again the audience would not leave the theatre until Mr. Hutchison had responded to their cry for "Speech!" Mr. Hutchison thanked them for their cordial reception on behalf of Miss Hutchison, his company, and himself. He remarked that although his companies visited hundreds of theatres everywhere, he could safely say none was more excellently managed than the King's, Glasgow. It was a real pleasure to be there. They were very fortunate in having such a courteous manager as Mr. D. MacFarlane. The great strength of Brewster's Millions as a draw is proved by the fact that sixty-eight visits of Hutchison companies to Glasgow have been recorded. The company travelled to Edinburgh on Sunday, and on the following night received a great ovation from a packed house.

Mr. Norman V. Norman was the guest of honour at the Pen and Palette Club, Brighton, on Sunday last. A very pleasant and enjoyable evening was spent, Mr. Norman during the course of the evening returning thanks for the honour done to him by the members of the club. Mr. Norman is still playing Nell Gwynn, with Miss Beatrice Wilson as Mistress Nell receiving flattering greetings from houses crowded in every part.

The following extract from John Strange Winter's article "Back to the Coast" is a striking tribute by that popular authoress and ardent playgoer to the artistic efforts of a company that has won eulogy on all hands. "On Wednesday we went back to the theatre, and laughed and wept over David Garrick, as if we had never seen it before. It is a beautiful show, one of the best things Mr. Norman does. Thursday we went to that charming musical comedy, The Merry Widow. Friday we went to see Mr. Norman as the Merry Monarch and Miss Beatrice Wilson as Nell Gwyn. I have it my mind that Miss Wilson is Mistress Nell in her last incarnation."

"Iolanthe" will be revived at the Savoy on Monday. Mrs. D'Oyly Carte has been successful in securing Mr. Rutland Barrington for his original part of Lord Mountararat, and the cast will be completed by Mr. C. H. Workman, Mr. Henry Herbert, Mr. Leo Sheffield, Mr. Henry A. Lytton, Miss Louie Rene, Miss Jessie Rose, Miss Dorothy Court, Miss Beatrice Boarer, Miss Ethel Lewis, and Miss Clara Dow.

The second Fancy Dress Ball at Covent Garden on the evening of the 9th inst. proved most successful, and several beautiful frocks were on view. The prettiest and most original was "The Penny Post to U.S.A.," designed by Mr. Clarkson, which gained first prize. It was a unique confection, with painted panels, showing the English and American post-offices, a portrait of Henniker Heaton, and an arrangement of envelopes cunningly devised on the skirt. The head-dress was a postman's hat, bearing portraits of President Roosevelt and the Postmasters-General of England and America. Hand prop English and American flags were surmounted by a model of the Lusitania. The costume was worn by a beautiful French girl.

The second prize was won by a costume entitled "On the Moors," also designed by Mr. Clarkson. It was a pretty and effective dress, composed of a brown satin coat, mauve skirt, trimmed with mauve chiffon and heather, and having hand-painted panels of landscape scenes. The large hat was trimmed with heather and birds on the wing, and a hand prop of heather and birds completed the design. Other pretty and effective dresses were "The Sun," "Belle of Brittany," "Merrie Widow," "Miss Hook of Holland," and several very handsome dominoes, mostly designed by Mr. W. Clarkson. Excellent music was supplied by Dan Godfrey's Band.

A matinee on behalf of the Actors' Church Union will be given on Thursday, Dec. 10, under the direction of the Rev. J. Stephen Barrass, Rector of St. Laurence, Jewry, and Mr. J. Maundy-Gregory. Mr. Cyril Maude has kindly lent the Playhouse, and arrangements for a long and attractive afternoon's programme are being made. By the courtesy of Mr. Alfred Turner, seats may be already booked at the Playhouse. The matinée will be under distinguished patronage. It is desired to emphasise the fact that the Actors' Church Union is not a mission to actors.

An interesting little pamphlet was presented by Mr. H. B. Irving to every member of the audience on the revival of The Lyons Mail at the Shaftesbury Theatre on Thursday. It contains a brief account of the origin and history of the play, and mentions that Mr. Hermann Vezin appeared in the dual part of Lesurques and Dubosc at the Gaiety in 1870. Nellie Farren was then the Joliquet, and the late Robert Soutar the Courriol. The pamphlet is embellished with many interesting illustrations.

A new comedy, in three acts, entitled Mrs. Bailey's Debts, founded by Charles Eddy on his novel of the same name, is to be produced at a matinée at the Garrick on Tuesday, Oct. 27. The cast will include Miss Hilda Antony, Miss Florence Lloyd, Miss Esmé Hubbard, Mr. Edward Sass (by permission of Mr. Forbes Robertson), and Mr. Sidney Paxton. The theatre has been kindly lent for the occasion by Miss Evelyn Millard, and the proceeds of the performance will be devoted to Pearson's Fresh Air Fund.

Miss Adrienne Augarde has been enabled, by the courtesy of Mr. Oswald Stoll, to whom she was under contract, to accept an offer made her by Mr. Joseph Brooks, the American manager, to play the title-part in the musical comedy Peggy Machree during the autumn and winter tour of that piece in America. Miss Augarde sails for New York on Wednesday to join the company headed by Mr. Joseph O'Mara, who left London last Saturday.

Mrs. Langtry (Lady De Bathe) has repeated a former triumph by again winning the Cesarewitch Stakes at Newmarket. The last occasion was eleven years ago, when the race was won by the famous actress's horse Merman. The victor of Wednesday's event was Yentoi, a horse which Lady De Bathe purchased last season from Mr. George Edwardes.

Mr. Harry Bristow has been secured by Mr. Andrew Melville to take up the duties of stage management with The Diver's Luck company. Mr. Bristow finishes to-night (Saturday) a seven and a half months' tour as Peter Sloke, and stage-manager, in Tom H. Taylor's Is Life Worth Living? company.

Mr. Tom B. Davis, having "barred" the matinée hat during the performances of The Belle of Brittany, is doing everything possible to facilitate the delicate operation of removing and readjusting feminine headgear at the Queen's Theatre, which opens this evening. Mr. Davis has taken a bold step, and the experiment will be watched with great interest, as it is understood that should the innovation prove a success the plucky manager will extend it to other theatres under his management. It is manifestly a movement in the right direction, which should be supported by all men and every unselfish woman.

Mr. J. B. Mulholland has secured for the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, next week the elaborate revival of Dorothy in which two of the most important parts are taken by their original exponents and others are rendered by artists of great popularity. Mr. John Coates, the accomplished tenor, forsaking for the present grand opera and oratorio, will be seen as Geoffrey Wilder; Mr. Hayden Coffin will resume his original part of Harry Sherwood, created by him at the Gaiety Theatre, and will, of course, sing "Queen of my heart," the song which he rendered famous; Mr. Arthur Williams will also undertake his original part, Lurcher, in which he made probably the greatest hit of his career; and charming Miss Ruth Davenport will assume the title-rôle. Dorothy will be played for six nights only, with one matinée, and as the usual prices remain unaltered the handsome King's Theatre should be crowded at every performance.

The present season at the King's Theatre is proving the most successful in the history of that house, and while making all the allowance for expert management, the fact that "the play's the thing" is again proved. Mr. Mulholland has already presented such varied attractions as Tom Jones, The Prince and the Beggar Maid, The Merry Widow, H. B. Irving, Miss Hook of Holland, The Sins of Society, The Gay Gordons, &c., and follows on with the Hayden Coffin and John Coates Dorothy company, Mrs. Patrick Campbell's The Girls of Gottenberg, The Christian, Oscar Asche and Lily Brayton, Havana, Jack Straw, &c. Incidentally, it may be added that Mr. (Alderman) Mulholland has again for the third year in succession been offered the Mayoralty of Hammersmith.

"Lady Epping's Lawsuit" at the Criterion displays a number of novelties in the way of costume. The gown worn in the first act by Miss Mary Moore as the Countess of Epping is of sky-blue chiffon cut in the Directoire mode, and trimmed with Oriental embroidery on the bodice. A long sash of blue lined with old-rose falls from the back. The chemisette and quaint little half-sleeves to the elbow are of white lace. An immense white hat trimmed with six white and blue feathers adds to the beauty of the gown.

Miss Moore wears in the second act one of the new Labrador-net, sleeveless Manteau over a violet gown in the same shade. It is a Directoire dress, and the waist is swathed with a gold sash fastened high up at the back with two large gold buttons. Miss Moore also looks charming in the last act in a rose du Barri Directoire gown, with the over-dress of velvet in the same colour. It contrasts well with the beautiful sables worn by the actress.

Mrs. Sam Sothern, as the actress Miss Berengaria Mortimer, is attired, in the second act, in a remarkable "Mermaid" dress. It is made in deep Veronese green souple satin, the gown being cut in the conventional lines of the Directoire, but swathing the body and coming well below the hips is a meshed over-dress of black that wonderfully resembles the scales of a mermaid. A tailed fringe adds to the effect, which is also accentuated by the twist of the train round the feet and ankles. A large black hat trimmed with feathers and a lace veil completes the toilette

Another remarkable dress worn by Mrs. Sothern is carried out effectively in black and white. The skirt is of white cloth with a lining of black faintly revealed at the hem. The exquisite jacket is of white lace, the long basques of which are split up back and front to beyond the waist, where they are held together by a folded band of emerald green. Black chiffon lines the white coat, and a large black and white hat is worn. In the final scene Mrs. Sothern wears the millinerie dernier cri, the chief trimming of which is wide, green satin ribbon, rosetted at the right side, and with ends falling the full length of the dress.

Very quaint is the gown worn in the first act by Miss Norma Whalley as Miss Olivia Vanderhide. In a new shade of pale brown the over-dress of lace in the same shade is only seamed on the shoulders, the side seams being laced together by heavy cords, finished with tassels. The hat is also brown.

Mr. Robert Arthur has arranged for an exceptionally powerful attraction at the Kennington Theatre next week, during which Mr. James Welch and Miss Audrey Ford, supported by the Wyndham's Theatre cast, will appear in When Knights Were Bold.

Miss Mabel Love received a warm welcome on her appearance at the Kennington Theatre on Monday in Lady Frederick. The huge audience on Monday thoroughly appreciated the fine acting of Miss Love and the company supporting her. It was the first visit of Lady Frederick to any theatre in the suburban area, and the result was yet another triumph for the Hutchison management.

At the matinée on Wednesday at the Lyric, Hammersmith, owing to Miss Neil being unwell, her part of Nellie Harborne in Her Luck in London was undertaken by Miss Florrie Groves, who displayed ability which should assure prominence in her profession in the future. The young actress's performance throughout was excellent, and Miss Groves received several curtains at the end of each act.

Mr. Wentworth Croke's studio at the Lyric, Hammersmith, where Mr. Harry Drury is principal artist, have just been given the work of providing the whole scenery of Messrs. Glenville and Osmond's new production, entitled Wife and Kingdom, which is to be toured in the coming spring.

Mr. Norman V. Norman and Miss Beatrice Wilson enjoyed great success in Under the Red Robe in Brighton last week. The theatre was filled with enthusiastic audiences, and both Mr. Norman and Miss Wilson were repeatedly called before the curtain, Miss Wilson being presented with a great number of bouquets and other floral gifts.

A special matinée is being generously given to-day (Saturday) at the Prince's Theatre, Preston, for the benefit of the Poor Children's Fund, under the patronage and presence of the Mayor of Preston and other influential citizens.

The Incorporated Stage Society is entering on its tenth season, and will shortly be able to celebrate its fiftieth production. At a meeting of the council just held the following have been appointed to the executive committee:—Messrs. H. A. Hertz, Charles Strachey, W. Lee Mathews, G. Bernard Shaw, and C. E. Wheeler; Miss Louise Salom and Mrs. Bernard Shaw, with Mr. W. Hector Thomson as honorary treasurer and Mr. Frederick Whelen as chairman. A programme for the ensuing season will shortly be issued. The secretary is Mr. A. E Drinkwater, of 9, Arundel-street, Strand.

Miss Alys Lorraine, a pupil of Marchesi and Jean de Reské, made a most successful début on the 5th inst at the Royal French Opera at the Hague, in Faust. Her interpretation of the rôle of Marguerite was a revelation, and she was called seven times before the curtain in the course of the evening. The American Minister at The Hague and other members of the diplomatic corps occupied boxes, and sent many baskets of flowers to the new prima donna. Miss Lorraine, who has a marvellous voice, has done a good deal of concert work in London, where she interpreted the works of various members of Royal families.

Mr. William Cartwright, the stage-manager of the Elephant and Castle Theatre, was complimented by Mr. Paul Taylor, the magistrate at Marlborough-street Police Court, on Wednesday, for his very plucky action in stopping a horse under circumstances which held a risk of great danger to himself. It appears that about a month ago Mr. Cartwright was in a cart which contained some articles of furniture which were being conveyed to Mr. Barnard's private house at Hampstead. While proceeding along the Finchley-road he saw approaching two motors, both going towards London. They were travelling at a very fast rate, in fact, the respective chauffeurs were racing each other. Mr. Cartwright mentioned to his own driver that he thought there would be an accident before the motors had gone very much further. On turning round a few seconds later, Mr. Cartwright saw that the rear motor had collided with a van thirty yards behind the cart in which he was seated. The van-driver was flung into the road, and his horse, thoroughly affrighted, dashed in full gallop towards Mr. Cartwright's vehicle. Mr. Cartwright jumped to the ground, hung on to the runaway horse's bridle, was dragged some fifteen yards, but succeeded in stopping the animal and taking it back to where its driver lay unconscious. The latter was somewhat badly injured, and was taken to a hospital. Mr. Cartwright escaped with slight injury to his knees. Mr. Paul Taylor, who, as already stated, complimented Mr. Cartwright upon his bravery, promised that a statement regarding it would be sent to the proper quarter. Mr. Cartwright, who is a sturdy, well-set-up young man of twenty-seven, is an all-round athlete. In 1903 he won a victory with the sculls over Ernest Barry, who succeeded in securing the English Sculling Championship last week. On that occasion Cartwright received two seconds from Barry, and beat him by a couple of lengths, which was equivalent to rowing him level and winning by a length and a half. Mr. Cartwright has also taken part in many prominent boxing and football contests.

The announcement by Mr. Charles Barnard, of the first production of Walter Melville's new play, entitled The Beggar Girl's Wedding, on Monday next should draw the popular young dramatist's admirers from all parts of the metropolis to the Elephant and Castle Theatre. It is intended to run The Beggar Girl's Wedding for a season, and the success of similar enterprises at the Standard Theatre, where a Melvillian drama has often enjoyed quite a long run, should be a good augury for the production in the south of London.

"The Beggar Girl's Wedding" unfolds in the Melvillian way a story of London life. The action takes place in various parts of the metropolis, but the last scene is laid at a cottage in a Sussex village. The production will be on an elaborate scale, special efforts being made to surpass in realism all previous representations on the stage of "The Thames Embankment by Night." Among other talented artists who have been selected by the author, the company will include the popular comedienne Miss Eva Dare (Mrs. Walter Melville) as Tina Torkington, Miss Olive Warnes as a fascinating society lady, Miss Vashti Wynne as the Beggar Girl, and Messrs. Herbert Morgan, Ellis J. Preston, and Otto Minster.

The new gowns introduced into the play of Fanny and the Servant Problem at the Aldwych are described as "pose" dresses. The tightness of the Directoire still remains, but by the novel arrangement of sash and trimming an altogether different effect is secured. In the first act Miss Fannie Ward wears a beautiful cloth gown in the new shade of shell-pink. Cut in the tight lines of the Directoire, it is redeemed from a too exclusive leaning to that mode by the buttoning of the right side, and the draping of the black, heavily fringed satin sash on the left. With the exception of the sash and two faint lines of black satin on the plain cloth sleeves, the gown is entirely of pink, as the chemisette and neck and sleeve frills are of shell-pink net. Over this delightful gown is thrown a sealskin cloak, and a sealskin "Mephistopheles" cap trimmed with pink feather is worn.

In the second act Miss Ward appears in a quaint mid-Victorian gown of black taffeta, draped across the front and bunched out over a bustle at the back. A wonderful effect is secured in the third act when the twenty other ladies in the cast appear simultaneously on the stage with Miss Ward. Of their dresses five are green, but they are so deftly arranged with the other shades that they form a beautiful mosaic of colour.

After successfully managing various musical enterprises on the continent, Colonel Mapleson has returned to England, and will resume his position as managing-director of Mapleson and Co., of which the London offices are at 47, Charing Cross-road. Mapleson and Co. have also opened a variety department at the above address which will be under the direction of Mr. J. D. McLaren, for many years manager of the Carl Rosa Opera Co., concert direction Daniel Mayer, and Mitchell's (now Ashton's) Royal Agency.

Derby is shortly to be provided with another temple of the drama, a syndicate having entered into preliminary arrangements to lease a site in Becketwell-lane for the erection of a new theatre. The site is the old house recently occupied by the National Telephone Company as an exchange.

The Moody-Manners Opera Company gave a concert at the Theatre Royal, Glasgow, on Wednesday afternoon, in aid of the City Distress Fund. The matinée was under the patronage and presence of the Lord Provost and magistrates, and an excellent and varied programme was sustained by the principals and chorus of the company, all of whom gave their services gratuitously.

Mr. S. Burton has severed his connection of nine years' standing with Messrs. Polini and Melford's Silver King company, to take up the duties of Resident-Manager of the Northern Theatres Co., Ltd., theatre at Rochdale.

Miss Pearl Noyle, who to-night (Saturday) concludes a seven and a half months' tour, playing Bett Watts in Tom H. Taylor's Is Life Worth Living? company, has been engaged to play Peggy in Mr. Andrew Melville's The Diver's Luck company.

Miss Constance Elgin has been re-engaged by Miss Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow to create the part of Jovita de Sutro in their new production of At Roaring Camp at Ipswich. Miss Elgin has previously played Cigarette in Under Two Flags, Antoinette de Mauban in The Prisoner of Zenda, and Dynamite Ann in Cripple Creek, under the same management.

The Lord Provost of Glasgow (Sir William Bilsland, Bart.) and the Magistrates of the city have accepted an invitation from Mr. Arthur Jefferson, on behalf of the Metropole Theatre directorate, and Mr. and Mrs. William Maclaren (of the Claudian company) to be present at a special matinée performance of that play during the week of the 26th inst., the entire proceeds of which will be handed over to his Lordship's unemployed fund. Mr. and Mrs. Maclaren and the members of their company have generously volunteered their services; the executors of the late Wilson Barrett have agreed to forego their fees; and the city printers, bill-posting firms, the various tradesmen concerned, and the Metropole staff in all departments, have "joined hands" in the good cause.

Miss Mouillot, the new lessee of the Court Theatre, will introduce Mr. F. D. Bone, the author of the clever one-act play Pride of Regiment, as the writer of a three-act piece in conjunction with Mr. William Shore. The new drama is called Isaac's Wife, and deals with civil and military life in the Far East. Its production is fixed for Sunday, Dec. 6.

Mr. J. Fisher White will discourse on "The Actor's Art" to the Playgoers' Club in the Medici Hall of the Hotel Cecil to-morrow (Sunday) evening. The chair will be taken by Mrs. Tree.

The Council of the British Academy have made arrangements with Mr. William Poel to give his production of Samson Agonistes before the members and their friends on the occasion of the Milton Tercentenary next December.

"Lady Epping's Lawsuit" at the Criterion now begins at nine o'clock. On Wednesday next Mr. H. H. Davies's comedy will be preceded by a new one-act play, entitled The Burglar Who Failed, by Mr. St. John Hankin, author of The Return of the Prodigal and Charity that Began at Home. The parts in the new playlet will be sustained by Mr. Ferdinand Gottschalk, Miss Elfrida Clement, and Miss Kate Wingfield.

At the Penrith Police Court on the 6th inst. the application was renewed on behalf of Mr. Wilson Stacey for a licence for a portable theatre at Penrith. Mr. Stacey said he asked for a licence for six months. He had submitted plans of the proposed building to the Urban Council, and he had the consent in writing of the Council. Mr. H. Graham opposed on behalf of the Copyright Protection Association, and cross-questioned the applicant with regard to his alleged unauthorised performances of The Silver King (which it was stated was a misprint for The Silver Ring), The New Magdalen, Two Little Vagabonds, and other plays. For the applicant it was contended that if the copyrights had been infringed, it was the duty of the owners to proceed in the proper way. After a consultation in private the magistrates refused the licence.

The Crystal Palace Theatre will next week have a potent attraction in Hubert Henry Davies' clever comedy The Mollusc, with Miss Annie Hughes in the title-rôle. The talented comedienne will enjoy strong artistic support in Miss Lilias Waldegrave, Mr. Athol Stewart, and Mr. Alick Chumley.

Mme. Adelina Patti will make one of her rare appearances in London during next month. The celebrated diva has promised to sing at Father Bernard Vaughan's charity concert, to be held at the Albert Hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 4.

The visits of the Moody-Manners Opera Company to the Grand Opera House, Middlesbrough, are invariably looked forward to by the numerous patrons of this magnificent building. Middlesbrough has always been one of Mr. Manners' strongholds, and the seventh visit during a period of five years of the principal combination is being eagerly welcomed. The capital programme of operas selected includes Aida and Wagner's Meistersinger.

At the first of the Symphony Concerts at Queen's Hall this afternoon Sir Edward Elgar will conduct the second of his suites from The Wand of Youth (which was produced last month at the Worcester Festival). M. Ysaye will also be in the programme, and will play Beethoven's Concerto and a Concerto Grosso of Corelli.

Mr. Wentworth Croke has arranged with the Moody-Manners Opera Company to give a flying matinée of Madame Butterfly at the Lyric Opera House, Hammersmith, on Friday, Oct. 30.

Competitions for two scholarships at the Royal Academy of Music will take place next month, and three others will be decided early in January. Two of the Ada Lewis Scholarships for tenors and basses or baritones respectively will be competed for on Thursday, Nov. 5. Competitions for the Macfarren Scholarship for musical composition will take place on Friday, Jan. 8, and those for the George Mence Smith Scholarship (for male vocalists) and for the Sainton Scholarship for promise in violin-playing will be held on or about the same date. Forms of entry, with full particulars, are obtainable on application to the secretary.

Miss Evelyn Millard is negotiating for another theatre to continue the run of Idols at the conclusion of her tenancy at the Garrick Theatre on Jan. 31.

Mr. W. Yates Gregory has taken over the Theatre Royal, Shrewsbury, which he intends running in conjunction with the Palace Theatre, Wrexham.

A novelty in the way of "curtain-raisers" is furnished at the New Theatre, where Bellamy the Magnificent is now preceded by selections on the harp by Miss Winifred Hemming. The harp is an instrument out of which much harmonious effect may be gained, and Miss Hemming's accomplished art enables her to produce sweet strains that ravish the ear. The audience on Thursday evening, when the talented performer began her engagement, took great delight in her selections.

Mr. William Lockhart wishes to direct attention to the fact that, although he has no permanent address, his whereabouts will always be found in the avertising columns of The Era.

The performance of Mrs. Madge Carr Cook and her company at the Theatre Royal, Bolton, have aroused the enthusiasm of audiences there. Repeated calls have been bestowed on the artists, and it is safe to say that Mrs. Wiggs and her cabbage patch will live long in the memories of Bolton playgoers.

"The Belle of the Ball," which was produced at Southport in July, will be introduced to London on Monday at the Crown Theatre, Peckham. Miss Violet Osmund's company, under the direction of Mr. Alex. Loftus, will present the musical comedy, which is founded upon the fairy story "Cinderella." A strong cast is headed by the popular comedian Mr. Johnnie Schofield, who will be supported by such well-known artists as Mr. Robert Hyatt, Mr. Charles Adeson, Mr. W. E. Clewd, Mr. E. A. Bertram, Miss Gertrude Melville, and Miss Florence Watson. The chorus numbers over forty voices, and the orchestra, under the bâton of Mr. J. W. Rogers, will be augmented.

Miss Vashti Wynne, after a lengthy tour of the music halls, is returning to the theatres, having been engaged by Mr. Walter Melville for lead in the production of The Beggar Girl's Wedding at the Elephant and Castle on Monday.

The F. R. Benson Shakespearean Company (North) produced Faust on the 9th inst. at the Knightstone Pavilion, Weston-super-Mare, before a large and enthusiastic audience. The mounting of the play was very effective. Mr. Henry Herbert, who was responsible for the production, also distinguished himself in the rôle of Mephistopheles. Mr. Bernard Lupus was the Faust, and made a fine impression, being particularly good in the scene on the Brocken. Miss Gladys Vanderzee made a very charming Marguerite in the first part of the play, and was powerful and convincing in the exacting Prison scene. The rest of the acting was on a high level, and met with well-deserved praise at the hands of the audience, the calls being numerous and enthusiastic.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Miss Allan and Royalty.

THE story of Miss Maud Allan's appearance before King Edward at Marienbad in May, 1907, is told by her in her just published autobiography. But her greatest triumph was reserved for London this spring. "How plainly it all comes back to me! How clearly I seem to hear her Majesty's voice as taking hold of my hand she said: 'How beautiful your dancing is. It has given me real delight!' It all happened one night after my usual appearance at the theatre. It was after a dinner given in honour of their Majesties by the Earl and Countess of Dudley. The beautiful ballroom, in its white and gold splendour, was radiant with beautiful women and sparkling gems. One end had been reserved for me, and with a background of masses of smilax and La France roses I felt as though I had been transported to Fairyland! I looked with quivering heart and tears in my eyes at all the wondrous beauty of my surroundings, and calling upon the fairies to support and guide me—danced as I have never danced before! When I had finished I saw the King and Queen applauding—I grew dizzy with joy, and I could have kissed the hem of her garment. When Lady Dudley came to me with a message that the Queen would receive me, London held at that moment no happier girl—England's Queen, ever young, ever charitable, had recognised my efforts to give something beautiful to the world, and I was now to hear it from her own dear lips. I have heard it and rejoice!" How much depends on the way in which it is done and on the genius of the individual artist is shown by the recent reception of a lady dancer at a theatre in a provincial town, where the "gods" hailed her appearance with "Go home and put your clothes on!"

An Odd Advertisement.

"ONE afternoon, in the course of my season at the Haymarket," writes Mr. Charles Brookfield, "a magnificent carriage and pair drove up to the stage-door, and a message was brought to me that I was wanted. I went out, and found Gillie Farquhar in the Duke of Beaufort's carriage. He had called to ask me if I would play for his 'benefit,' which was shortly to take place at the Gaiety Theatre. I told him I would play for him, but that I should charge him for my services, as I didn't see why anyone who had been such a short time on the stage, and who had rich relatives, should have a 'benefit.' During this conversation I noticed two or three of the stage hands appeared to be closely admiring, as well they might, the beautiful japanning of his Grace's equipage, but I did not suspect how they were actually employed. All the workmen in the theatre used to carry variegated gummed labels about 10 inches in circumference bearing the legend 'Haymarket Theatre. Mr. Charles Brookfield's Summer Season—Evergreen—To-night!' which they would idly stick on to lamp-posts and palings and counters. When Gillie called out to the Duke's coachman, 'Twice round the park and then home!' and the splendid pair of horses bounded down Suffolk-street, I discovered that my faithful employees had covered the back of the carriage with these gaudy announcements. That night we had quite a distinguished audience.

A Tree-ian Hoax.

"ONE summer's night in 1888," says the same genial raconteur, "Comyns Carr and Tree and I had been dining together, and as we walked up the Haymarket soon after ten o'clock we noticed a very trifling conflagration on the terrace of the old Her Majesty's Opera House. Someone had opened the theatre with a season of promenade concerts, and the balcony above the principal entrance was tastefully laid out with grottos and palms in pots, and illuminated with coloured lights, so that an imaginative Londoner could sit there and smoke, and fancy himself miles away—say at Rosherville Gardens. Somehow or other, a Chinese lantern had set alight to an eightpenny plant, to the great alarm of a sentimental couple who were sharing a glass of shandy-gaff close at hand. But a waiter soon extinguished the blaze by a few adroit flicks of his napkin. However, Comyns Carr decided that this was a matter to be inquired into, so we buttoned our overcoats up to our chins, with a vague idea of giving ourselves an official appearance, and walked up to the check-taker.

"'WE'VE called respecting that outbreak of fire on the terrace at 10.15,' said Carr to the man, in a confidential yet authoritative undertone. 'I presume you'll let us pass quietly, without obliging us to exercise our authority?' 'Otherwise——' exclaimed Tree impetuously, clutching at some imaginary object in his inside breast-pocket. 'Sh-sh, mate!' said Carr. 'Gently does it! Give the chap a chance. He seems an orderly, well-conducted man.' 'I've nothing about him in my notes,' said I. We had by this time telepathically cast ourselves—Carr as a kind of inspector, Tree as an utterly impossible Gaboriau detective, and myself as a sort of nondescript mouchard.

"THE check-taker turned rather pale. 'Are you from—the police?' he inquired, in a rather awe-stricken tone. 'From the Yard,' said Tree, in a metallic voice. 'If you'll kindly step this way,' said the man. 'I'll fetch the manager.' 'If you please,' said Carr. 'And it is my duty to inform you that anything you say will be taken down in writing, and altered and used against you at your trial.' We were soon on the terrace, interrogating couples and cross-examining waiters. Tree turned to me, and said in an audible aside: 'Corky! twice down the terrace and report!'

"WHEN I got back, the manager was begging that we would all come to his room and take a glass of wine, and Carr was taking impressions of the waiter's thumbs in his pocket-book by means of a piece of burnt cork. There was tall rockery covered with ferns near where we stood. Tree now advanced to it, and pulled out a large, jagged piece of rock, which proved to be a kind of corner-stone, for the whole structure fell in fragments on to the tessellated pavement. 'Why, what's that for?' inquired the astonished manager. Tree nodded his head two or three times mysteriously, then slipped the stone into his side-pocket, and ejaculated in sepulchral tones, 'Analysis!' It was not until nine years later that he took the rest of the theatre."

A Fire Alarm.

IN the course of an interview last week Mr. Ernest Shand related an amusing experience connected with his first appearance on the stage. "My first appearance," said Mr. Shand, "was at the Theatre Royal, Exeter, in Formosa. I was only a youngster, and my part was what is known as a 'thinking' one. I yearned for an opportunity to shine in a speaking part, and when, to my delight, I discovered that one man did not appreciate the honour of having entrusted to him the duty of imparting to the hero the weighty intelligence that 'the house was on fire!' I squared him with twopence to allow me to impart the news. When the time came I rushed on the stage, but the sea of faces before me put the fire right out, and I stood rooted to the spot with my mouth open. The hero waited a reasonable—or, as he put it afterwards, in his coarse way, a 'blank unreasonable'—time, and then said, 'I suppose you have come to say that the house is on fire.' Covered with confusion, I crept off the stage—a sadder and wiser youngster."

Mr. Hubert Henry Davies has demanded a good deal of Miss Mary Moore in asking her to carry on her own shoulders the responsibility of the success or failure of his new piece. In The Mollusc, Miss Moore's part was one of four which were almost equally interesting. In Lady Epping's Lawsuit, Miss Moore carries out the old operatic idea of "myself and a few puppets." Lady Epping is the be-all and end-all of the piece. Her husband, her innocent lover, and her friends are people of little or no importance. It was a great testimony to Miss Moore's powers and to the author's wit and humour that the piece was as favourably received as it was at the Criterion on Monday.

The story is slight. The Countess of Epping is affected by a mania for play-writing, and has entered into an alliance, for purposes of collaboration, with a dramatic author called Paul Hughes. The acquaintanceship has developed into a flirtation which Lady Epping, a fashionable, superficial, and cheerfully flighty personage, encourages for her amusement, but which Hughes takes more seriously than is well for his peace of mind or that of his wife. The first act is taken up with establishing this situation. In the second, Paul presses his suit, and, when repelled by the Countess, tells her bluntly that he is tired of being played with. Either he will earn the reputation of being her successful lover, or he will have an affectionate wife and a well-ordered home—"one or the other." Lady Epping is, as usual, artful and elusive; and there is a capital little comedy scene in which, when Mrs. Hughes comes to reproach the Countess with "carrying on" with Paul, her ladyship turns off the attack by pretending to think that Mrs. Hughes has called to express her repentance for a flirtation with Lord Oswald Bruce-Bannerman. But all other ideas are extruded from Lady Epping's not very capacious mind by the discovery, which she fancies that she has made, that Hughes has stolen the plot of one of her plays and used it for one of his own. She vows that she will go to law; and she does so, telephoning to her solicitor at the end of the second act.

The third takes place in a Court of Justice, arranged on the scale of completeness which we expect nowadays, with a trial which is eminently realistic and absurd. The judge is a personal friend of Lady Epping's; and she impairs the gravity of the case by addressing him familiarly on the bench. The trial is carried out in a manner which might be called farcical were it not that its absurdity may be paralleled every day in the Law Courts. The sparrings of the counsel, the portentous insistence on trifles, the personal feeling and amusing bias exhibited are rather comic than fantastic. A dramatic point is reached when Hughes' counsel, in order to prove animus, puts in a very compromising letter which Lady Epping wrote to Paul in carrying on their flirtation. The Countess is in despair. "Snatch it!" she whispers to her counsel, but he has not daring enough for such a deed. In the end, Lady Epping is put into the witness-box, and innocently asks to be allowed to read out the letter herself. When she gets it into her hands she calmly substitutes in her reading an innocent invitation to dinner for the assignation which the note contained, and, as if absently, tears the document into little bits. The Judge, who knows what was in it, is, ostensibly at any rate, indignant, and he signs an order for Lady Epping's committal to the cells. But this is cancelled when she protests her innocence of any evil intent, and withdraws her case, throwing all the blame upon her discomfited counsel. The judge brings down the curtain with a few words of sober advice to playwriting fine ladies and dramatists with a taste for smart society.

Miss Mary Moore is inimitable in characters of the class to which the Countess of Epping belongs; and those who are familiar with the perfect "style," absolute certainty of definition, and the curious mixture of charm and silliness which she manages to suggest in her comedy performances, can imagine how she revels in portraying the feather-headed but quick-witted woman of fashion. The sketch really contains a very clever observation of life, and a subtler analysis than one expects in a piece of this kind. No one else in the cast has any great opportunity of distinction; but, so far as they go, all the subordinate characters are played with marvellous neatness, skill, and finish. Mr. Sam Sothern, whose speciality is the depiction of slightly-puzzled, well-meaning honest men, is as good as ever as the much-worried Paul Hughes; and a strikingly refined and intelligent exposition of the rôle of Mrs. Paul Hughes is supplied by Miss Grace Lane, whom one is always glad to see on a West-End stage. Judges in Court have always some chance of "scoring"; and Mr. Eric Lewis is very droll in his clear and quiet way as Mr. Justice Wray. The two Counsel are actively and amusingly embodied by Mr. Ferdinand Gottschalk and Mr. Berte Thomas; and Mrs. Sam Sothern supplies a broadly-marked suggestion of a "gushing" society actress. The remaining characters are well dressed and groomed, and serve their purpose of "furnishing the stage." Miss Elfrida Clement depicts Lady Lucy Lister with a delicate flavour of affectation; and Miss Norma Whalley is acceptable and agreeable as Miss Olivia Vanderhide. Miss Anne Cleaver does satisfactory work as Lady Beacroft; and Miss Frances Vine deserves credit for her sound and careful performance as Miss Ferris. Mr. John Toke as Earl of Epping does useful and careful work; Mr. Walter Pearce is firm, easy, and unimpeachably correct as Lord Oswald Bruce-Bannerman; and Mr. Toosé, remarkably well made up, is soberly effective as the Usher. Mr. Cooper is efficient as the Rev. Dr. Gull; and Mr. Arthur Hare and Mr. Reginald Besant are commendable representatives of Mr. Hickory and Mr. Pearson; Mr. Lawrence White being an excellent exponent of the young and inexperienced servant Henry; and Mr. Thomas Braidon making a natural and reposeful Associate. The play is dressed and mounted with the utmost liberality and taste.

A recent phenomenon is the resurgence of Mr. Jerome K. Jerome as a dramatist. His play The Passing of the Third Floor Back is doing remarkably well at the St. James's, and there is much amusing matter in the "quite possible" comedy which Miss Fannie Ward, under the ægis of Mr. Charles Frohman, offered to an expectant audience at the Aldwych on Wednesday. Servants are beginning to play quite an important part in contemporary drama; but Mr. Jerome's title is a little misleading. It is not the "servant problem" as we understand it which is the question to be considered, but how Fanny Bennet, a young and pretty music-hall artist who has married into the aristocracy, will get out of difficulties arising from her relationships. In a fine old hall in Rutlandshire we see, when the curtain rises, two elderly ladies expecting the arrival of their nephew, Vernon Wetherell, Lord Bantock, and his newly-married wife. Knowing that she has been on the stage, the aunts are a little anxious as to how she will suit her new surroundings. Not that the kind-hearted creatures would be very critical; but they are under the influence of their servants, who all belong to the same family, which has served the Wetherells for three successive generations. The butler is especially authoritative in a heavy, pompous, ceremonious way; and, as he is a stern religionist, he nails up "improving" texts in her ladyship's bedroom. Lord Bantock and his bride arrive, and are warmly received by the aunts; but Lady Bantock has a shock when she recognises in the butler her own uncle, and in the rest of the servants her near relations. The butler announces his intention of holding his tongue, and at the same time "training" his niece to fill the position she has attained by marriage.

Fanny telegraphs for her late business-manager, Mr. Geo. P. Newte, to come down to the Hall, and, when he arrives, has an explanation with him. It seems that when Lord Bantock asked Newte about his intended wife's connections Newte invented a bishop and a judge on the spur of the moment, so that Lord Bantock has no idea of her real origin. Innocent of any desire to deceive, Fanny is at first for making a clean breast of it to her husband; but Newte persuades her to let matters remain as they are and to "put her foot down." The visit to the Hall of a party of lively young ladies from the variety stage gives Lady Bantock an opportunity of exerting her authority, and she obliges the butler and his subordinates to wait upon the girls, who depart noisy, delighted, and refreshed. The situation, however, is too strained to endure; and, at the end of the second act, Fanny writes a cheque for two months' wages for the whole gang of domestics in lieu of notice, and hands it to the housekeeper, after confessing to her husband and his aunts her relationship to the household, and expressing her sorrow that her uncle and his family should have driven her to take this step. All now depends on the generosity and fairness of Lord Bantock, which, fortunately, stands the test. He confesses that, had he known exactly the state of the case, he would have hesitated before marrying Fanny; but, as things are, he is proud of having won her. In the last act matters are arranged without the necessity of the butler leaving the service of the family. Appealed to by Fanny, who says she will only retain her position as Lady Bantock if her uncle approves, the great Bennet melts, and consents to sanction the union, and continue to be her domestic.

Miss Fannie Ward is generally clever enough to choose for herself a part which is within her powers, and her prettiness, vivacity, and the ring of genuine feeling in her voice do the rest. On Wednesday, wearing some very becoming frocks, and one—an early Victorian silk gown with an "improver," which belonged to Lord Bantock's late mother—which was extremely odd and quaint, she won all hearts by her free, warm-hearted, and impulsive acting as Fanny. Her depiction of anger and irritation was very natural and telling; and in the more sentimental scenes she hit the right note exactly. Miss Ward has added another to her list of successes. A strong and steady embodiment of the rôle of Martin Bennet was supplied by Mr. Charles Cartwright, whose sonorous tones and portentously self-important bearing made the butler a very prominent and memorable personage. Two exquisitely artistic portraitures of amiable elderly ladies were supplied by Miss Adela Measor and Miss Carlotta Addison, who made a very sweet and charming couple; and Mr. John W. Dean, as the business-manager, gave a character-sketch in which much droll comedy was mingled with a little deep and genuine feeling. Miss Kate Phillips bore herself perfectly well as the housekeeper; Miss Alma Murray gave a clever rendering of the rôle of Jane Bennet; and Miss Mabel Garden hit off neatly the characteristics of Honoria; Mr. Charles Sugden, as a kind of medical "chorus" or friend of the family, acting with his usual mellow repose and crisp sagacity. Amongst the dozen variety ladies who invaded the scene in the second act it is not easy to choose or distinguish; but Miss Esmé Beringer, Miss Lydia Flopp, and Miss Vera Beringer were all equal to their opportunities. Fanny and the Servant Problem went with a laugh throughout, and had a very friendly and favourable reception. The single scene was an excellent example of the extent to which modern stage furnishing and arrangement can be carried.

"SEXTON BLAKE" is paying a visit to the Royalty Theatre and Opera House, Barrow-in-Furness. Mr. Horace Hunter in the title-rôle is extremely effective, and Mr. Brian Daly is a clever Farmer Blackburn; Mr. Wm. Felton is an admirable Roger Blackburn, and Mr. Stephen Nicholls a fine Squire Lovell; Mr. Charles East is a sufficiently villainous Randolph Lovell, and Miss Lily Hammersley makes a sweet Marjorie Lovell, while Miss Lena Delphine is well suited as Euphemia Pattacake.

The circumstances attending the late Sir Henry Irving's famous revival of The Lyons Mail at the Lyceum in 1877 have been completely stated by Mr. Austin Brereton in his "Life of Henry Irving." The play in which these two characters are introduced is, as most people are aware, founded on fact. In 1796, an innocent man, Joseph Lesurques, was condemned to the guillotine for a murder committed by a notorious captain of a band of robbers, Dubosc, whom he had the misfortune to resemble in appearance. The truth came to light too late for a reprieve, and the unhappy man was executed. Four years after this deplorable miscarriage of justice the real criminal was discovered and guillotined. There is still to be seen in the cemetery of Père la Chaise a simple white marble monument bearing this pathetic epitaph: "A la mémoire de Joseph Lesurques, victime de la plus déplorable des erreurs humains, 31 Octobre, 1796. Sa veuve et ses enfants, martyrs tous deux sur la terre, tous deux sont réunis au ciel." The remarkable trial furnished the groundwork of Le Courrier de Lyon, a drama by MM. Moreau, Siraudin, and Delacour, first represented at the Théâtre de la Gaîté, Paris, on March 16, 1850, with M. Lacressonière in the dual rôle of Lesurques and Dubosc. The dramatists had the express sanction of the descendants and heirs of Joseph Lesurques for the use of that unhappy man's name. The drama was soon transplanted to England. On March 10, 1851, it was acted at the Standard Theatre, and on June 26, 1854, it was represented at the Princess's Theatre, with Charles Kean in the double character. Charles Reade's adaptation—as arranged for the Princess's—was used for the revival of the drama at the Lyceum. The title used at the Lyceum was given to the piece by Mr. J. W. Clark, of the Cambridge A.D.C.

The Lyons Mail depends very largely for its success on the special ability of the impersonator of Lesurques and Dubosc. But it is one of those plays which must be acted well by all concerned in its production. The following was the cast of Sir Henry Irving's revival:—Joseph Lesurques, Mr. Henry Irving; Dubosc, Mr. Henry Irving; Jerome Lesurques, Mr. T. Mead; Didier, Mr. E. H. Brooke; Joliquet, Miss Lydia Howard; M. Dorval, Mr. F. Tyars; Lambert, Mr. Louther; Guerneau, Mr. Glyndon; Postmaster at Montgeron, Mr. Collett; Coco, Mr. Branscombe; Garçon at Café, Mr. Tapping; Guard, Mr. Harwood; Postillion, Mr. Allen; Courriol, Mr. R. C. Lyons; Choppard, Mr. Huntley; Fouinard, Mr. J. Archer; Durochat, Mr. Helps; Julie, Miss Virginia Francis; Jeannette, Miss Isabel Bateman. There were troubles on the first night to add to the anxieties of the chief actor. Someone had thought it wise to do away with the customary farce which eked out a short programme, the result being that the performance ended at the unusual hour of ten o'clock. This was too much for the occupants of the pit and gallery at the Lyceum production, and Irving had to do his best to pacify the irate members. Calls were made for Mr. Reade, calls were made for Mr. Irving, appeals were made for a speech, and, at one time, there seemed a likelihood of a debate on the relative value of farces persistently put up at the Lyceum. But Mr. Irving, with commendable diplomacy, elected to refer the matter to the management. And the Press advised Mrs. Bateman that the prices charged for admission were such that an entertainment of greater length was required. These prices, it may be noted, were somewhat less than those which now prevail: dress circle, 5s.; upper circle, 3s.; pit, 2s.; gallery, 1s. The stalls which, in the previous year, were 7s., had now been raised to 10s. Despite the trials of the first night, The Lyons Mail made a great hit, and it ran until the end of the season.

Mr. H. B. Irving achieved a great personal success as Joseph Lesurques and Dubosc at the Shaftesbury on Thursday. All the points in the two characters which were emphasised by the father were well and ably developed by the son. He did full justice to the refined and elevated character of Joseph Lesurques, and developed with care and effect the smallest details of the sordid degradation of Dubosc. The intensity of his acting in the stronger passages was very great, and he constantly reminded us of his illustrious parent in method, accent, and appearance. The completeness of his triumph was proved by the scene of enthusiasm which took place at the conclusion of the performance. Mr. Irving was called with an earnestness that would not be denied, and, after a prolonged scene of enthusiasm, was forced to say a few words. He confined himself to hoping that he had made the play interesting, both to those to whom it was new and to those who were familiar with it in the old days at the Lyceum. The answer was a cry of "You have!" Mr. H. B. Irving had valuable support from a strong and well-chosen company. Mr. Eric Maxon was capital as Courriol; and Mr. Charles Dodsworth, Mr. Tom Reynolds, and Mr. Norman MacOwan supplied very graphic and grotesque representations of the other members of the rascally robber gang. A very fine reading of the rôle of Jerome Lesurques was contributed by that sound and experienced actor Mr. Frank Tyars. It was a performance which had all the mellow thoroughness of the old Lyceum school, and it touched the audience deeply. Mr. Frank Cochrane gave a careful and very satisfactory performance as Dorval, and Didier was really well played by Mr. Frank Randell. Miss Phyllis Embury charmed the audience completely, and was decidedly pleasing and intelligent as Julie. She showed marked talent, and created a very favourable impression. Miss Dorothea Baird was very acceptable and agreeable as Janette, and all the minor rôles had careful and competent representatives.

The Lyons Mail was preceded by the play in one act by Miss Cicely Hamilton entitled

"THE SERGEANT OF HUSSARS."

Joseph Arnault ..... MR. GEORGE SILVER
Voisin ..... MR. FRANK COCHRANE
Jeanne ..... MISS DOROTHEA BAIRD

This little play was first performed at the Theatre in Bedford-street, under the auspices of the Play Actors, on June 23 last year. It is a strong, bitter, and sensational sketch, with a powerful part for the representative of Jeanne, the French peasant girl who has been seduced by a soldier. She is sought, with honourable motives, by the honest and affectionate Joseph Arnault; and when she learns that her seducer is a married man, she resolves, in her wrath, to give the signal which will cause him to visit her, so that he shall be shot by Arnault. When the moment comes, however, she cannot bring herself to permit the murder; and she is shot dead in the attempt to prevent it. Miss Dorothea Baird played Jeanne with much earnestness and ability, and a handsome bouquet was thrown to her at the end of her performance. She had excellent support from Mr. George Silver, who gave a strong and effective interpretation of the rôle of Joseph Arnault, and by Mr. Frank Cochrane, who was clever and characteristic as the third personage of the play.

THE DRAMA IN BERLIN.

"EROTIK,"

Satirical Comedy, in Three Acts, by Gustav Wied, Produced at the Berliner Theatre, Oct. 9.

BERLIN, THURSDAY, OCT. 15.—The almost unprecedented success accorded to the Danish playwright's comedy Zwei mal Zwei ist Fünf (Twice Two is Five) naturally caused the demand for tickets for the new production to be very great, and there was not a vacant seat in the house. There were two pieces in the bill, both by Wied, and Ein Erinnerungsfest, an act in four rooms—as the author terms it—served as curtain-raiser. Unfortunately, there is little to be said in favour of either, beyond some pretty dialogue and one or two very well-drawn characters, and for the first time under the new management at the Berliner (MM. Meinhard and Bernauer) some hisses were intermingled with the applause. The first piece depicts, with the aid of the new revolving stage, the reminiscences of the husband and the lover of a deceased lady. The husband is a coarse countryman, who lives for the indulgence of his material senses—we see him eating like a pig—and whose grief is only skin-deep; the lover is a cynical, blasé aristocrat. After a while the talk, and especially the jokes, about the dead woman become worse than monotonous, and the piece will never become popular. In Erotik the chief amusement is caused by an amateur matrimonial agent named Fix (admirably acted by Herr Meinhard), who, to cover his own sins, couples everyone together. Spag and Kraft are two farmers who wed Petersen and Jörensen, their housekeepers, one because she has saved money, the other for another reason. This is the whole plot, and only the author's characteristic humour—which, however, is sparsely distributed this time—saves the piece. Both plays were exceedingly well acted, and author and artist were "called."

Two Italian companies are with us at present, and though both are excellent, the business is the reverse of good. This is especially the case with the famous Sicilian actor Grasso at the Gastspiel Theatre (formerly known as the Wolzagen); the position in the east of the city is about as unfavourable as possible for an undertaking of this kind, and the foreign guests are playing to almost empty houses. The plays produced are highly dramatic; indeed, blood-and-thunder pieces would describe them more accurately. One solitary comedy, or satirical parody upon the volks-play Zolfara, delighted the small and happy portion of the audience that understood it.

AT the Neues Signora Mimi Aguglia is giving a season of Italian tragedy. Her acting is very fine, and she is well supported. On alternate nights Clyde Fitch's four-act comedy Wahrheit (German by B. Pogson) is running successfully.

"DER KOLONIALSKANDAL," the new farce by Herren von Zobeltitz and von Metsch, met with a very cordial reception at the New Schauspielhaus. There is not much of a plot, the main idea being the sending of an up-to-date young journalist to the German colonies to discover (in the interests of his paper) a scandal at any price. The fun is, however, quite as good as in many other farces, and it is a matter of surprise that the piece has been—temporarily, at least—removed from the bill.

THE Schliersee peasant company, with its clever artists, is doing well at the New Royal Opera (Krolls). On Tuesday night the Kaiser was present at a performance of the merry volks-play, Der Paragraphenschuster, and visibly enjoyed it. At the close of the evening His Majesty sent for Xaver Terofal—the actor of the name-part and general-manager—and expressed his warm appreciation of both the play and the interpretation.

PUCCINI'S Bohème has been revived at the Royal Opera, and, under Kapellmeister Blech's leadership, left little, orchestrally speaking, to be desired. Miss Farrar as Mimi was not altogether satisfactory, but unstinted commendation must be awarded to MM. Hoffmann, Bachmann, and Maclennan, and to Mrs. Maclennan (Florence Easton) as Musette.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The students' concert on Monday afternoon commenced with two movements from Mendelssohn's organ "Sonata in A, No. 3," the Andante being most intelligently rendered by Mr. Leonard Gordon. In three songs by Arthur Somervell, "Birds in the high hall garden," "O that 'twere possible," and "Go not, happy day," Mr. Horace Witty displayed a well-trained voice and poetical expression in his singing. A characteristic work of Bach, "Prelude in A minor from Second Suite," for pianoforte, from the master's "Suites Anglaises," was neatly executed by Miss Edith K. Bird; and Miss Margaret Bradfield received hearty applause for her really able performance of Papini's violin solo "Souvenir de Sorento." "Fair spring is returning," from Saint-Saëns' Samson and Delilah, was carefully sung by Miss Hilda Felstead; and Miss Rita Ramsden gave an effective rendering of two songs by Landon Ronald, "Down in the forest" and "Away on the hill." Two pianoforte solos, "Arabesque" (Debussy), played by Miss Flora Willoughby, and Chopin's "Scherzo in B flat minor," cleverly played by Miss Margaret Richardson, concluded a short but interesting concert.

"The Era" in Halves.

"'THE ERA,' otherwise the 'Actors' Bible,' is," says the Chronicle, "one of our biggest weeklies. To tear it in halves by one effort is an achievement that would seem only possible to one of those gentlemen who get £100 a week for exhibiting their strength in the variety theatres. Yet a correspondent of one of the Australian papers has been complaining that his last copy of The Era was delivered in a completely bisected condition. Here is a little postal mystery which St. Martin-le-Grand might endeavour to elucidate. It is certainly the case that both at the G.P.O. and the district offices bags of mails are anything but gently handled."

THE Duchess of Albany and Prince and Princess Alexander of Teck witnessed The Lyons Mail at the Shaftesbury Theatre on Thursday. The audience also included the Earl and Countess of Lathom.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE EUSTON.

Mr. Freddie French and company's presentation at the Euston this week of the laughable skit, The Policemen's Ballet; or, Votes, Votes, Votes! comes opportunely enough in view of the Suffragette fiasco of Tuesday evening, when certain notoriety-seeking women attempted to incite the starving unemployed to raid the Houses of Parliament. From the sketch referred to the militant Suffragettes will—if they take the trouble of visiting the music hall in Euston-road—get an idea of how ridiculous their behaviour appears to other people. There are two scenes, the first of which opens with a Suffragette meeting outside the House of Commons, and the usual absurdities about "mere man" are indulged in. A husband of one of the Suffragettes is holding a baby, and he is particularly servile in his attitude towards his female companions. After a comical fight between police and Suffragettes we are taken to the second scene, the stage of the Municipal Theatre. Here some ballet girls are induced by the Suffragettes to go out on strike. In his extremity the manager accepts the offer of the police to take their place, and a dozen or so of these gentlemen in blue engage in very diverting Terpsichorean antics. The trifle has found great favour with the audiences. The Sisters McCalla submit a capital singing and dancing turn; and Mr. W. H. Clemart once more gives a demonstration of his remarkable ventriloquial powers. Miss Kitty Clinton is a dainty comedienne who possesses a tuneful voice and an expressive manner; and the Dardinis perform many really smart and entertaining juggling feats. Mr. Tom Woottwell, who can always be relied upon for an attractive item, furnishes a characteristic rendering of the song, "What did I do?" in which he appears attired as a Tommy Atkins. Miss Ethel Whiteside and Piccaninnies offer a delightful coon scena, in which we get some pleasing vocalism; and Mr. George Brooks interests the house with his verses on the subject of the sights one sees on "the midnight mail." Mr. John Lawson arouses the tragic sensibilities of the spectators by the acting of himself and company in the sketch Pigs in Clover; and Miss Margaret Parker and company present the stirring interlude Lucky Jim, the part of the honest newspaper boy being cleverly acted by Miss Parker. Miss Madge Gray, comedienne, whose name appears on the programme, has been compelled to absent herself on account of illness. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope shows several good films.

THE MIDDLESEX.

There is a precocious juvenile artist at the Middlesex this week in the person of Master Ikey Moe. He seems to possess what for his years—we judge them to be somewhere in the neighbourhood of a dozen—is an astonishing sang froid. He commences his turn by relating a number of really amusing Hebrew anecdotes, delivered in the Yiddish dialect, which create no little hilarity among all sections of the audience. As a concluding effort he sings a song, "Oh, Solly"—the sentiments and subject of which are of the same character as his patter—which, combined with its accompanying dance, entirely wins the favour of the house. Ikey Moe should certainly be heard of in the future. Another juvenile performer at the same establishment this week goes by the name of Little Victoria, a bright, winsome, and intelligent petite comedienne, who sings sweetly a couple of numbers, "Will you buy a bunch of shamrocks?" and "The Flip-Flap." She also engages in a lively dance. Still another capital comedy and dancing act is furnished by Miss Connie Mascot; and Mr. Cyrus Dare is once more seen and heard to advantage in his wonderful imitations of children, accompanying himself at the piano. The Sauteron Troupe give an amazingly smart exhibition of jumping in and out of high baskets, and up and down piled up chairs; and Miss Lily Esplin agreeably entertains her hearers with her rendering of the well-known "Dada" song, as well as with her succeeding low comedy item. Mr. Wilton Heriot and company present what is called, and what certainly proves to be, a "protean pleasantry," in which the gentleman undertakes the characterisation of five people of totally different individuality and nationality. His acting, as well as that of his lady partner, is eminently successful. Fancourt and Rubie have a highly entertaining comedy act, in which the former appears as a comical waiter and the latter as a "young sport." Mr. Johnny Dwyer makes the most of his old favourite, "I kept on trotting up and down," which, however, does not appeal to Drury-lane folks so much as the more homely ditty, "My little wife," which proves immensely popular. Rich and Rich are most diverting as eccentric comedians, and considerable hilarity is also caused by Doody and Wright, the Australian comiques. Miss Lallie Brooke appears in a most attractive performance as an old-fashioned maiden of the early Victorian period, who proves that she is capable of doing all that modern girls can do. So she appears as a Gibson girl, a Sandow girl, and even as a Salome dancer, and in each of these her postures are exceedingly graceful. Her "Old-fashioned girl" verses are delightfully rendered, and the whole act is to be commended for its inherent charm and refinement. Mr. Ryder Slone, the popular character comedian, furnishes no small diversion in his song concerning the comforts of Sing-Sing prison in New York, and his other, which tells the story of a wife who works all day, while her husband works all night, is also an agreeable number. Mr. Carter Livesey and Miss Lilian Rosebery repeat their former success in the extremely laughable absurdity, The Would-be Actors; and a variety of interesting pictures are shown on the Bioscope screen.

CROUCH END HIPPODROME.

A capital programme is being presented here this week to full houses. The overture, Paul Lincke's "Glow Worm," is performed very ably by the orchestra under the conductorship of Mr. Archie Howells, after which the ball is set rolling by Rose Tilley with two pleasing songs, "Men and manners" and "He's my pal," the latter having a rattling good chorus in which the audiences lustily join. The Orchids, smart vocal comedy duo, are paying a welcome visit. The smartness and refinement of their style are exemplified in their rendering of a medley song, cross patter, and neatly-executed dancing. Oliver Martin creates merriment with his descriptive song, relating his experiences as a jockey for the first time. He follows on with a burlesque recitation on "Kissing Cup's Race." The Lutinas secure success in a physical mélange, an act of marked originality, in which their skill as singers, dancers, trapeze work, and wire walking are strikingly exemplified. An excellent turn is contributed by Cissie Lupino, a talented speciality character dancer, who cleverly depicts the national dancing of Scotland, Ireland, and Holland, appropriately attired, following with a marionette dance, and concluding with an exceptionally clever step-dance. Mooney and Holbein's company appears in a comedy sketch entitled Oysters Is. a Bucket, and are loudly applauded for their hard work. Willie Stoppit keeps the house in a continual roar all the time he is on the stage. As an eccentric fellow he is deserving of warm praise for the originality of his methods. His turn is one of the most appreciated on the bill. Young George Benson's imitations of George Lashwood, Sam Mayo, Geo. Robey, and Harry Lauder are excellent, and lend pleasing diversity to the evening's entertainment. A comic acrobatic act is presented by the Creo Brothers, attired as Continental gipsies. It is a clever turn and withal very amusing. Another turn highly appreciated is that of Miss Yolande Noble, who gives three of her latest successful songs, "David Evans," "To-morrow," and "Holiday." A very amusing pair are Dale and O'Malley. They contribute some genuine fun, and constitute one of the best turns on the programme. A most commendable item is a comedy episode, by Mr. A. W. Pinero, entitled Hester's Mystery, in which Horace Pollock and company appear. The parts, all of them, are capitally played, and the piece is well received. The evening's entertainment is brought to a close with the Imperial Bioscope.

RICHMOND HIPPODROME.

Novelty again marks the all-round excellence of the Richmond bill, and every item on Monday was rapturously received, and all went as merrily as the proverbial marriage bells. The fun is opened with a couple of musical wags, Grey and Brown, both excellent instrumentalists, who delight the audience with examples of their skill. Despite the national sneer of Sydney Smith, Scotch humour has found a host of admirers, and Sam Thompson, a comedian from over the border, with his song dealing with the emancipation of the creature Man is responsible for quite a funny effort. The house indeed screamed at the Scotch wag, and accorded him the compliment of a "call."

There is quite a melodramatic vein in Her Good Name, satisfactorily enacted by Miss Diana Hope's company. Bright and winsome Norah Stockelle quite early won the good graces of the audiences. To a particularly pleasing personality she brings no mean talent as a vocalist and dancer. Her ditty anent a certain sailor man was one of the best things of the evening. Cedar and Elgar are refreshingly comical in a patter scene, Ye Dayes of Olde. The fun becomes deliriously merry in this novel act, which is quite admirably done.

Starr and Leslie get through a smart programme of dexterous club-balancing, stick-whirling, and other tricks of that cult. The usual gossip between this quaint pair proved irresistible, and merriment reigned supreme during the entire turn. Star and Leslie form an ideal combination.

There are all the ingredients of a lasting success in Phil Rees' Stable Lads' episode. The juvenile comedian is always desperately in earnest, and this company of boys sing and dance with tireless energy; they have been admirably trained, and Mr. Rees may be proud of them, to say nothing of the dog who contributes his share to the show with satisfactory results. Gladys Mavius is tremendously popular here. She sings with no end of gusto, and in an incredibly short time had the vocal assistance of the gods; her clever step-dancing won immediate recognition. Getting Even—billed as a farcical comedy—is rattled through to an accompaniment of laughter by clever Gracie Whiteford and Fred Sinclair; it is the old story of The Taming of the Shrew in a new gown, but let it be said that the compressed version is delightfully amusing, though some of the lines we have heard before; thus history repeats itself. Mr. Linaker's orchestra does well, and Mr. H. J. Brett in front leaves nothing to be desired.

BARNARD'S, GREENWICH.

A large and well-pleased audience assembled on Monday to do full justice to the liberal fare provided for their delectation by Mr. Barnard and his capable and popular representative, Mr. Bert Dent. The Woodwards are skilful and pleasing cyclists, and fully deserved the applause bestowed on them; Kenneth and Kane are a capital comedy couple who contribute a clever turn, which includes an excellent rendering of the "Blind Boy" on a one-string violin; Miss Madge Field is very successful with "Rainbow of my heart"; and Minton and Moore contribute some amusing patter.

Lillain, the talented mimic, gave some clever imitations, including those of Miss Marie Kendall in "Suffragettes," Miss Marie Lloyd in "The Skirt," and Miss Kate Carney in "Liza"; Mr. George Ridgwell is a clever vocalist and instrumentalist. He contributed "The Lost Chord" (cornet solo) and sang "Asthore" in capital style. Some excellent pictures on the Bioscope brought an enjoyable performance to a successful conclusion.

Aiston's White Stars, a clever quintette, are meeting with great success this week in their duologues, patter, and other business at the Lyric Theatre, Liverpool.

The Mohamed Ben Mohamed Troupe of nine genuine Souasa Arabs return to England in December. They are now fulfilling four weeks with the Circus Henry, Brussels.

In a recent notice of the Paragon it was stated in error that the two-houses-a-night system had been adopted there. The programme is only given once nightly.

Jennie Alexander, child mimic, makes her début on Monday at the Holborn Empire. She has been booked by Leo Fritz's Agency for over 275 consecutive weeks. She is only thirteen years old.

As announced in The Era of last week, Mr. Walter Hague, conductor of the Empire orchestra, Liverpool, has severed his connection with that place of amusement. Mr. Hague, who is a musician of undoubted ability, had held the position for some eight or nine years, and the work of his band, guided by a master-hand, was always one of the features of the evening's programme.

Mr. Nelson Barry, the popular manager of the Manchester Hippodrome, was made on Tuesday the recipient of a handsomely framed photograph of the staff. Mr. George F. Reynolds (assistant manager) and Mr. Harry Garnham (advertisement manager), who jointly made the presentation, referred to the excellent relations that existed between manager and staff, and asked Mr. Barry's acceptance of this memento of his first appearance in command of their fourth annual picnic. Mr. Nelson Barry, in returning thanks, said that the present success of the Manchester Hippodrome was in no small measure due to the universal interest taken in it by the staff itself.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Marcelle, an operetta in two acts, by Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders, is the latest "Casino success." These two words form a phrase that has become proverbial, for the attractions at the Casino usually please the public and enjoy good runs. Marcelle has brought that excellent German comedian Mr. Jess Dandy to the fore again, and he is just as funny as he was in The Prince of Pilsen. Then we have Miss Louise Gunning, now a "star" under the Shubert management, who appears as Marcelle, and whose birdlike notes would go a long way towards ensuring the success of any musical play. Miss Gunning sings "My own Paree" and "The message of the red, red rose" entrancingly. But her success is not confined to her vocal achievements, for she acts with no little charm the part of a Parisian actress who is unexpectedly called upon to represent a boy. The scene is a small German town near the French frontier. Baron von Berghoff (Mr. Jess Dandy) has to produce a son at short notice in order to comply with an ancient law which requires that each owner of the estate after twenty years' tenure shall deed it to his heir. Having no son, the Baron is about to be dispossessed in favour of his nephew Karl, a lieutenant in the German army. When the attorney waits on him in pursuance of the legal requirements the artful Baron conceives the idea of pretending that he has a son who has been brought up in Paris. So he temporises, and sends Dumm the cellarer to meet the Paris train with instructions to bring back the first person he sees who is not over nineteen and can speak French. Dumm fails to understand that a lad is required, and comes back with Marcelle. Being persuaded to dress as a boy and take the name of Otto, the young French girl finds herself in the position of having to be a son and a daughter to the Baron at the same time. As the son she flirts with all the girls, and as the daughter she falls in love with nephew Karl. The ensuing complications include a duel, which Marcelle, as the so-called Otto, barely escapes having to fight with an excitable Frenchman. Karl saves her, however, and in the end they agree to marry and leave the Baron to enjoy his estates as long as he lives. The most amusing scene in the piece occurs when the Baron and the lawyer try to make each other drunk after each has secretly poured into the punch-bowl an overpowering compound of his own. They repeatedly empty their glasses back into the bowl behind each other's backs, waiting in vain for developments. Mr. Frank Rushworth as Lieut. Karl acts the part well, and charms the ear when he sings the sentimental number "After a while." Mr. Henry Norman as Dumm the cellarer renders a drinking song in capital style; Mr. Lawrence Wheat wins applause in a spirited song and dance called "Kalamazoo"; Miss Elsa Ryan appears with success as Fräulein Elsa; Mr. George Boniface, jun., is capital as Lawyer Klug; and Mr. Herbert Cawthorne is funny as Herr Schwindle, a burgomaster.

Miss Lulu Glaser, who is now under the management of the Shuberts, is appearing at the Lyric Theatre in Mlle. Mischief, a Viennese operetta, in three acts, which has been somewhat modified and adapted for the American stage. The original book was by Kraatz and Von Sterk, and the score by Carl M. Ziehrer. The American version is by Sydney Rosenfeld. As a comedy without music the piece was produced a few years ago by Mr. Louis Mann and Miss Clara Lipman under the title of The Girl in the Barracks. Rosetta, an artists' model, makes a wager with a group of her admirers that she will spend twenty-four hours in the barracks of Fremstadt as a soldier. Against the advice of her lover, André Claire, an artist, she makes the attempt, and, being nineteen and audacious, she actually succeeds. Taking the name and credentials of Freddy Meline, the son of a rich automobile manufacturer, who has joined the regiment but mislaid himself somewhere for the time being, she assumes several male disguises, and when a bold lieutenant discovers her sex she tells him a plausible story and keeps his friendship by making violent love to him. This doesn't appeal to her sweetheart, who has enlisted in order to keep an eye on her; but he is forced to put up with her flirtatious capers, and as a raw recruit is subjected to all sorts of indignities. The venturesome Rosetta gets into deep water as the result of her explanations and prevarications, but she wins her wager and marries her sweetheart. The first act shows the studio of Claire, the artist; the other scenes representing the inside and outside of the barracks. Rosetta is the best part that Miss Glaser has played since she relinquished Dolly Varden, and her success has been most emphatic. Her never-failing vivacity and heartiness have always made her a favourite with her audiences, but she has never appeared to such advantage as she does in the garb of a boy of nineteen. The music is tuneful throughout. "Le Cœur de Ninon," sung most charmingly by Miss Gertrude Darrell, aroused the utmost enthusiasm. "Other things," a topical song for Miss Glaser, proved very amusing, and "My own Vienna," a delightful waltz melody, pleased the audience immensely and was repeatedly encored. "Sweetheart," the finale of the second act, and "The Army Corps," rendered in fine style by Mr. W. T. Carleton, were also well received. Messrs. Alexander Clark, Robert Dempster, Roy Atwell, and Robert Broderick contributed to the success of the performance.

Mr. Robert Edeson, who is fulfilling his annual engagement at the Hudson Theatre, has been rather unfortunate this season so far, neither The Call of the North, his opening attraction, nor The Offenders, a play written by Elmer Blaney Harris, in which he is now appearing, having proved successful. Again we have a story of a criminal whose efforts to reform fail to keep him out of prison. The story in this instance is more improbable than the one told by the author of The Regeneration, which was recently produced at Wallack's Theatre, and then described. Klif King, who has spent half his lifetime in prison, is reformed after he has been caught in the act of stealing by the wife of an unscrupulous politician, Horace Street, who, for the usual consideration, helps to smother a legislative measure directed against child labour. It is the one reform in which his wife, Helen, is most interested; but he believes that the woman's place is the home—that she should attend to that and let him corrupt legislators and accept bribes from the proprietors of disreputable resorts. Helen befriends the convict King, and he reforms, but her husband is instrumental in sending him to prison again. In the meantime, however, King exposes the politician, and his wife obtains a divorce from him. The play deals with sociological problems, and depicts the work of reclaiming the children of the street. Mr. Edeson appears as Klif King and Miss Katherine Grey as Helen Street.

Mr. Herbert Shelley has had to refuse offers of eight immediate weeks in Scotland with his Irish play Dare the Outlaw.

Glasgow has been making extensive claims on the generosity of the profession lately in connection with the Unemployed Relief Fund, and the latest was on Thursday evening, when Mr. Rich. Waldon generously devoted the entire proceeds of both houses at the Palace Theatre to the fund. The occasion was graced by the patronage and presence of the Lord Provost (Sir William Bilsland, Bart.), Lady Bilsland, and the magistrates of the city. Our preliminary paragraph of last week unfortunately read as if this performance had taken place a week earlier.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE, Sept. 8.—Princess Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson.—The Red Mill is proving a great attraction. Messrs. John Forde and Fred Leslie as the principal fun-makers are irresistible, and their dancing is cleverly executed. Misses Fanny Dango, Olive Godwin, and Alma Barber have several musical numbers which are brightly sung. The costumes and scenery are on a most elaborate scale.

Her Majesty's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. E. J. Tait.—The last week of The Thief, in which Miss Margaret Anglin displays her great dramatic skill, and Mr. George Titheradge submits some finished acting, is announced. Next Saturday Miss Anglin will be seen in comedy, when Truth, by Clyde Fitch, will be presented by the present company.

Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Meynell and Gunn.—Planquette's delightful comic opera Les Cloches de Corneville, which is well presented by the National Opera Company, drew a large and enthusiastic audience on Saturday night. The piece is capitally staged, and as there is good singing by the principals and chorus, with excellent orchestration, the opera should continue in favour for some time.

King's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Business-Manager, Mr. Julius Grant.—The stirring Australian melodrama Robbery Under Arms has been attracting large houses. All the characters are well represented by Mr. Anderson's company while the scenery is typical of Australia throughout. During the action of the piece a number of striking tableaux call forth loud applause. Mr Julius Grant is Mr. Anderson's popular manager in Melbourne.

Bijou Theatre.—Lessee, Miss Florence Baines.—Miss Florence Baines and her company were received on Saturday night by an audience which crowded the house in every part. The amusing features of Mrs. Lee's Lodgers were greeted with laughter and applause.

Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon.—Several new turns were added to an already strong bill on Saturday evening. They were all good. Miss Mignonette Kokin proved herself to be one of the best dancers that has appeared at this theatre for some considerable time. Another very popular addition to the programme was made by Osborn and Brooks, musical comedy artists, whose smart burlesque will find favour in Australia. Much amusement was caused by Galleti and his performing dogs and baboons. A welcome reappearance was made by Little Baby Watson, one of the most charming child artists who have ever appeared in Melbourne. The rest of a generous bill of fare was provided by Fred Fluett, George Dean, Burt Shepard, Tod Lowen, Desmond Sisters, Four Rosebuds, Ranger Sisters, Naomi Tanna, and Rochfort and Hart. The ever-acceptable biograph showed some interesting pictures.

Gaiety Theatre.—Business-Manager, Mr. Harry Brennan.—The programme just now is an excellent one, and includes Jean Hugarde, James Marion, Joe Rox, Marie Marlow, Jack Morrissey, Wally Edwards, Bruce Drysdale, Driscoll Brothers, Arthur Tanchart, James Craydon, Ivy Nicholls, Coleman Girls, and P. J. Knowles.

West's Pictures at Wirth's Olympia are as popular as ever. Frequent changes of programme are the order of the day. An interesting subject shown on Saturday evening was that of the Marathon Race.

ACTORS AND TRADE UNIONISM.

"The low wages received by actors and actresses," writes Miss Daisy Halling and Mr Charles Lister in the Socialist Review, "are largely due to economic forces that operate in almost every trade: the competition of wage earner with wage-earner, the excess of the supply of labour, the limitation of the demand for labour; but there is one factor that is unique in this particular conspiracy of circumstances against the bread-winner. Many young ladies and gentlemen have a romantic and sentimental longing for the footlights. They are people with private means, they will almost pay to be allowed to act, they can dress the part. Managers are therefore inclined to engage these almost unpaid amateurs to the exclusion of those who depend on acting for their bread and butter. The unpaid amateur undersells the wage-earner, demoralises stage-life, and causes bad art to be given to the public.

"Actors are not compelled to have any qualifications in England to entitle them to be called actors. I sign a contract with a manager: I am an actor. The difference that there is between myself and Mr. Tree is one of degree, not of kind.

"In France the evil of the unpaid amateur is obviated by the fact that the Paris managers will not take on any actor or actress who has not been through the Conservatoire, where only bonâ-fide wage-earners are allowed to take up the course. The result is a higher scale of efficiency, and the elimination of the unfair competition of the unfit.

"In Germany there are a number of dramatic schools run by leading managers such as Herr Rheinhardt, of Berlin. A diploma from one of these schools is of as vital importance to the aspirant as a course at the Conservatoire.

"In both France and Germany there is strong Trade Union feeling among actors and actresses and a National Theatre. Not a German town of any size is without a Stadt Theatre and a Stadt Oper Haus, or, as is more usual, a theatre or opera house partly subsidised out of the pocket of the ruling prince. Both France and Germany are far better equipped in actors than ourselves, and the reason is not far to seek. Superior organisation is bound to win the day.

"The actor is a wage-earner, and he has certain specific evils obtaining in his own profession that can only be overcome by Trade Unionism. There is dire need for the organisation of actors; there has always been; but there are certain obstacles in the way of militant unionism among artists. The relation of actor to manager is often a very intimate relation. An artist may be an actor one day and a manager the next. A miner has no reasonable expectations of becoming a colliery proprietor. Any actor, on the other hand, may develop into a Beerbohm Tree or a George Alexander. In many trades that have been successfully organised, members of the Union have often found themselves at the same time in the position of employers and workmen; but in all these trades there is a gulf between the 'boss' and the worker. In the theatrical profession this gulf is very often bridged.

"The opponents of Trade Unionism for actors are inclined to overrate the intimacy of the connection between employer and employed, the advocates of Trade Unionism to minimise it; but there is no doubt the actor's hopes of rising to a manager's position will operate against Trade Unionism . . .

"The actor's abhorrence of anything that savours of the horny-handed make him a very difficult subject for the organiser. Figures fail to raise him from his apathy, and he does not realise that he is being worse paid that the engineer or the cotton operative in despite of his proud membership of a profession of artists."

Mr. T. W. Rowe, chairman of the Palace, Newcastle, Company, and manager of the theatre, has been made a Sheriff of the City Council. Mr. Rowe was elected to the Council in 1905.

J. H. Stevens.—The Gaiety girls who have married peers include: Miss Constance Macdonald Gilchrist, who became the Countess of Orkney in 1892; Miss Rosie Boote, who wedded the Marquis of Headfort in 1901; and Miss Sylvia Storey, daughter of Fred Storey, actor, who was united to the seventh Earl Poulett as recently as September last. Other ladies of the stage who may be regarded as prospective peeresses are: Miss Denise Orme (Jessie Smither), who married in 1907 the Hon. John Yarde-Buller, heir to the barony of Churston; and Miss Camille Clifford (the Gibson girl), who became the wife of the Hon. Henry Lyndhurst Bruce, eldest son of Lord Aberdare. Miss Eva Carrington (Chandler), another Gibson girl, was united to Baron de Clifford, an Irish peer, in February, 1906.

H. F. G.—Miss Lily Hanbury (Mrs. Herbert Guedalla) died on March 5 last.

T. A. (Cambridge).—We will reply fully to your question next week.

W. Blakeman (Stafford).—Dan Leno's last appearance in Leicester was at the Palace there on Saturday, Sept. 3, 1904. See notice above.

Charles Nightingale.—American playwrights eagerly seized upon Mrs. Henry Wood's novel "East Lynne" for adaptation immediately after its publication in 1861, and Miss Avonia Jones, wife of Gustavus Vaughan Brooke, the famous tragedian, made a hit in the States as Lady Isabel. She was engaged by Mr. Shepherd to play at the Surrey that part in Mr. John Oxenford's version of the story (the first to be produced in London), which saw the footlights on Feb. 5, 1866, at the famous transpontine house, just then rebuilt. Mr. "Jimmy" Fernandez was the original Archibald Carlyle, Mr. E. F. Edgar played the villain Levison, and Miss Rose Ogilvie was the Barbara Hare. On June 29, 1867, the Oxenford version of East Lynne was revived at the Surrey, with Miss Caroline Heath and Mr. Wilson Barrett as Lady Isabel and Archibald Carlyle. Other versions were written by Wilson Barrett (the Bullock version), J. C. Chute, T. A. Palmer, Edmund Gurney, Lilla Wilde, and Herbert Shelley. Many famous actresses have appeared in the part of Lady Isabel, among others Mrs. Hermann Vezin, Miss Dolores Drummond, Miss Louise Moodie, Miss Bella Pateman, Miss Sarah Thorne, Miss Ada Cavendish, Miss Furtado, and many more. Mr. W. L. Abingdon has played Levison.

Messrs. Fred Wilkins and Brother, Ltd., of Whitechapel, Liverpool, are adding considerably to their already wide activities in the furnishing of theatres and music halls. They are supplying fire-proof curtains, tip-up seats, pit seating, and other furnishings for the New Hippodrome, Rochdale, and fibrous plaster decorations and other work for the New Grand Theatre and Hippodrome, Bedford Leigh, which opens about Dec. 1. They have also furnished tip-up chairs, pit seats, fire-proof curtain, &c., for the Hippodrome, Todmorden, which opened on the 5th inst.; and the fire-proof curtain and various other embellishments for New Theatre, Lancaster, were also the work of this enterprising firm, who have, moreover, just completed the fibrous plaster decoration, electric lighting, seating, carpets, scenery, and general furnishing of the Hippodrome, Grange-road, Birkenhead, in addition to the scenery for the Palace, Hippodrome, Oldham, and a large number of other theatres.

Voice and Throat.

Mr. SIMS REEVES, the World-Famed Tenor, writing on "The Art of Singing," said:—"Condy's Fluid clears the Throat and braces up the uvula, which in some singers interrupts the pure emission of the Voice."

Used as a gargle 8 drops of Condy's Fluid in a tumbler of water instantly clear the Throat and Strengthen the Voice. Condy's Fluid is guaranteed to contain NO Permanganate of Potash, which is poisonous. Insist on having "Condy's Fluid."

Stage Trials.

The actor is in much the same position as Royalty—he has always to be at his best. The remark applies to both sexes, of course.

Every night a houseful of critics hangs upon his every word, compares his every note. Everyday colds and indispositions, recognised in all other vocations, are not allowed to him. Whatever his real feelings may be, neither brain nor voice nor body must betray his indisposition if he wishes to retain, let alone to strengthen, his hold of popular approval.

You, yourself, know how often the very knowledge of this is nearly your undoing.

Something more than mere food is essential from time to time; something to animate, invigorate, staminate, without any depressing or reactionary after-effect; one thing—Hall's Wine, the marvellous restorative.

You might do far worse than take Hall's Wine this very day—you could not do better. It is not a tonic of the "here to-day, gone to-morrow" order. For long years it has been the reliable support of many of the leading men and women on stage and platform. And so you will find it.

Blood food, brain food, nerve food—that is what Hall's Wine really is. Its benefits are almost instant, yet permanent. Slackness is replaced by energy, care by confidence, weakness by strength. Your words come with ease, your voice does not fail you, and you are able to sustain the most exacting part.

And just as Hall's Wine supports so it protects—creates a vigorous circulation, and thus affords the surest safeguard against the many chills and bronchial troubles to which the "profession" is exposed.

TESTIMONIAL.

Market Hotel,
Birmingham.

Dear Sirs,

Thanks for your letter. I am pleased to say Hall's Wine has done me good. I have ordered two large bottles, and find it most excellent, and shall continue to take it as it is a splendid tonic and invigorator.

I am, dear Sirs,
Truly yours,
(Signed) GWENNIE HASTO,
Theatre Royal,
Birmingham.

Lush and Cook, Limited, the chemical dyers and art cleaners, of 29, Charing Cross-road, W.C., guarantee work of unapproachable excellence, and theatrical managers who have soiled pantomime dresses will find their methods of restoration completely satisfactory. Their despatch in the execution of orders and moderate charges are the main features of a business that is increasing rapidly.

Mr. Harry Nicholls' company in If We Only Knew is at His Majesty's Theatre, Barrow-in-Furness. He himself as the humorous villain is exceptionally attractive, and Mr. F. A. Gawthorne is fine as Dick Steen; while Mr. Ernest Young is particularly good. The incidental music of Mr. John Crook is very good.

The Princess of Wales and suite witnessed the performance of Faust at His Majesty's Theatre on Saturday evening. On Monday the King and suite visited the Duke of York's and saw the performance of Mr. J. M. Barrie's play, What Every Woman Knows.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.

For Sustaining the Voice.
Invaluable for ACTORS and SINGERS.
Indispensable for PUBLIC SPEAKERS

Gentlemen,—For sudden affections of the Bronchial Organs I use and most cheerfully recommend "Brown's Troches." They are regarded as most eligible, convenient, and indispensable by numerous artists of my acquaintance, BOTH IN EUROPE AND AMERICA. They seem to act specially on the organs of the voice, and produce a clear enunciation.—Yours truly (Signed), Maria Rosa Mapleson.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT
FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.
By ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Copyright confusion is, like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr. Albert A. Strong's new work, entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr. Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his textbook on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" Office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chace Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1908.

ACTOR-MANAGERS AS ADVISERS.

The strength of the chain which binds the playgoer to the performer was strongly evidenced at the Adelphi the other evening, when Mr. MARTIN HARVEY had a curious experience. A bouquet of white lilies was thrown on the stage while he was taking a call at the end of the final scene between Lucy Ashton and the Master of Ravenswood in The Last Heir, Mr. STEPHEN PHILLIPS's adaptation of "The Bride of Lammermoor." It appeared to come from one of the boxes, but Mr. HARVEY afterwards traced all the occupants of the boxes that night, and has come to the conclusion that he must have been mistaken in that idea. It may have been thrown from one of the side seats in the upper circle.

When Mr. HARVEY came to examine the bouquet he was astonished to find that it contained a note written in pencil in a refined feminine handwriting on the margin of a back page of the programme. A wedding-ring was tied to the bouquet. The note was a most distressing communication, indicating that the writer (who gave neither name nor address) was in great trouble, and asking Mr. HARVEY, if he were willing to help her, to advertise the fact through the agony column. In response to this request, he inserted the following in a daily paper:

Will the LADY who THREW from BOX at the ADELPHI, on Thursday, BOUQUET, containing wedding ring and distressing letter, WRITE to Mr. Martin Harvey, who will do as she requests.

Mr. HARVEY thinks the writing of the note was an impulsive action inspired by the similarity of Lucy's tragic situation in the play to that of the writer. Lucy had been forced into an odious marriage, and the scene that provoked the incident was between her and the man she loved. The tying of the wedding-ring to the bouquet, in conjunction with the wording of the note, seems to suggest that the lady who threw it is the victim of a similar matrimonial tragedy. Mr. HARVEY, it may be added, is no novice in these matters, and has been indirectly responsible for the reuniting of a husband and wife after several years of separation.

The incident opens to the imagination a wide vista of possibilities. The responsibilities of our actor-managers are already very onerous and numerous. Besides acting his part in a play every evening, the actor-manager has to be always considering or preparing a new piece to follow it; to receive interviewers, to lay foundation-stones, to attend social functions, to engage artists, to inspire and instruct scene-painters and costumiers, to make speeches at public dinners, and to write articles in monthly magazines. To these various occupations it appears there is now to be added that of setting straight the crooked ways of the world as they affect the lives of individual playgoers. It seems that the excuse to be offered is a resemblance between the troubles of the patron of the drama and something in the piece which the actor-manager is presenting on the stage. A new terror may thus be added to the anxieties of actor-management. Miss LENA ASHWELL may receive missives from ladies who have fallen victims to the "drug habit," deploring their weakness and asking her to suggest, if not to supply, the means of a cure. Sir CHARLES WYNDHAM will be requested by gentlemen who have had a little difficulty at their club about the absolute fairness of their play to decide if detection at a card-table really justifies suicide; and young women who have loved not wisely but too well may implore Mr. BEERBOHM TREE to get them out of difficulties which would never have arisen if the Devil had not been mixed up in the matter. As for Mr. GEORGE ALEXANDER, husbands with kleptomaniac wives will intrude their sorrows upon him by post, and beg him to advise them on the strength of his dramatic difficulties with Miss IRENE VANBRUGH in The Thief. Mr. ARTHUR BOURCHIER'S great success as the Catholic priest in The Duel will suggest him at once as father-confessor to all the unhappy wives in smart society; and Mr. FORBES ROBERTSON'S Socratic method, as applied to the lodgers in the Bayswater boarding-house at the St. James's, will encourage all sorts of sinners to crave his comforting attentions. As for Miss MARY MOORE, the ready wit with which she deals with the compromising letter in Lady Epping's Lawsuit is no doubt the envy of many ladies in her audiences who have found themselves in awkward situations as the result of their little escapades, and she will be plagued to suggest a way out of many an imbroglio; and Miss MARIE TEMPEST will be pestered for counsel on the strength of the bright intelligence she displays in Mrs. Dot at the Comedy. The only actor-managers who are likely to escape annoyance are Mr. H. B. IRVING—who, however, as an expert in criminology, may possibly be asked to assist to restore a burglar or two to his friends and relations—and Mr. CYRIL MAUDE, whose careless, breezy Flag Lieutenant gets into such scrapes himself that few would feel inclined to resort to the actor for wise direction on the strength of his impersonation. Nor would many ladies be brave enough to adopt the method of downright perjury so successfully employed by Miss MILLARD in Idols at the Garrick. We daresay that if the correspondence of our leading actor-managers and actress-managers is preserved, it contains numerous and diverting examples of the faith of the public in their sympathy and good nature; a faith which is really touching in its sincerity, and which is entirely reasonable and justified. We only wish we could secure a few of these amusing epistles for publication in our "Items of Interest" column, without, of course, even initials to expose the identity of the writers.

"THE TREASURE."

Play, in One Act, by Elisabeth Kirby, founded on a Story by L. N. Becké in "The Smart Set," produced at the Kingsway Theatre on Monday, Oct. 12.

Algernon Ifley .....Mr. T. A. SHANNON
Mary .....Miss DOROTHY BRUNT
Mrs. Van Buskirk .....Miss MARY BARTON
Charles James Jenkins .....Mr. O. P. HEGGIE
Isaac Cohen .....Mr. W. LEMMON WARDE

The one-act play by Elisabeth Kirby which precedes The Sway Boat is somewhat slight in texture and rather improbable in its incidents, but it serves its purpose of keeping the audience amused for half an hour. The "treasure" is the manservant of a young and very foolish bachelor, and is possessed of such exceptional ability and perfect manners that he is frequently "loaned" to his master's friends on occasions of more than ordinary importance. He confesses to his master that he has one great failing—he cannot resist the annexation of anything which glitters, especially diamonds, although immediately afterwards he is filled with horror and remorse. With every appearance of penitence, he produces a tiara, a necklace, &c., which he took, he protests, much against his will, from guests at a dinner party given by one of his master's friends the night before. At his earnest solicitation his master helps him to restore the trinkets to their rightful owners, but learns a little later that in the interval paste has been substituted for the real stones. He accuses Jenkins of villainy, but the valet turns on him and tells him that, as an accessory after the fact, his silence is secured, and by the same threat the master is forced to "square" a private detective and to compensate the victims for their loss. As the fraudulent Jenkins Mr. O. P. Heggie is excellent, and gives a very clever impersonation; Mr. T. A. Shannon as the master is satisfactory in a curious part; and Miss Mary Barton as a talkative widow is genuinely amusing. Mr. W. Lemmon Warde as the detective Isaac Cohen, is characteristic, and his Jewish accent is excellent.

THE Répertoire Theatre Association operating at the Theatre Royal, Margate, announce an interesting trial week commencing on Monday next of Griffith Gaunt, a new romantic costume play adapted from Charles Reade's novel by Messrs. Freeman Wills and Canon Frederick Langbridge, the authors of The Only Way.

MR. GEORGE BROADBENT, who for twenty-four years was secretary of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, died on Monday. The deceased gentleman, who was exceedingly popular among the musical circles of the city on the Mersey, had reached the age of sixty-two years, and when only fourteen years of age entered the clerical service of the society. He was a prominent member of the Masonic body, being a P.M. of Lodge 1,013 Royal Victoria.

THE grim interior of Brixton Gaol was enlivened on Sunday afternoon by the visit of Mr. and Mrs. Kennerley Rumford (Mme. Clara Butt), who sang to the prisoners to the number of six or seven hundred men assembled in the chapel. Mme. Butt rendered "The Promise of Life" and "Abide with Me," and Mr. Rumford gave "There is a green hill far away" and "Nazareth," the artists afterwards joining in the duet "Night Hymn at Sea." Absolute silence reigned in the hall, no applause being allowed, but the gratitude of the unfortunate men at the popular vocalists' kindly act must have been intense.

The latest play to be produced by Mr. Arthur Bourchier, The Outsider, contains, besides its strong and virile story, some features of curious and appealing interest. The two leading characters, General Mortimer and Lady Helen Caldwell, are drawn more or less from life. Most people who see the play will make a pretty shrewd guess at the identity suggested by the General, while Lady Helen, it may be added, is a well-known figure in society, and will be recognised by the London stalls.

The first act takes place at Lady Helen Caldwell's London house. She is the worthy descendant of a long line of ministers and statesmen, and as a graceful political wire-puller and patroness of Parliamentary leaders, embryo and complete, she represents no mean power in the land. But her work lies also in the direction of match-making, and, at the outset, we find a typical example in the engagement of two of her protégés, her nephew and adopted son, Dick, and Elsie, daughter of Admiral Farleigh. Other little jobs and instances of the lady's extraordinary power are in evidence; while among the guests present after her luncheon party are a Cabinet Minister, of the young and pushful type, a War Office clerk, the Prime Minister himself, and also a lady journalist, erstwhile a singer, who, however, has given up the latter vocation in the cause of art, though it was fostered under the good offices of Lady Helen, for the more concrete benefits of a post on a latter-day scurrilous rag called the Phœnix.

The talk is on politics, and, of course, the new Army scheme. Burdicott, of the War Office, is much disturbed; a new appointment has been made, and an exalted position given to a certain General Mortimer, a great big active fellow with new ideas, and a very big reputation in India—"a provincial sort of place to be known in," as Burdicott puts it. Mortimer is, of course, one of Lady Helen's protégés, and he presently arrives. Burdicott soon gets a taste of his quality in the shape of a sound rating for not having replied to a letter which the General has written to him. Lady Helen afterwards takes Mortimer to task for his outspokenness in her drawing-room; but now that they are alone at last, Mortimer is more outspoken still. The son of a city tailor, who had put him in a crack regiment (to be faced with the hardest fight against odds to gain his present position), for the honour and glory of being the father of "an officer and a gentleman," the General boldly disavows himself a gentleman in the conventional sense of the term. What is more, he knows how his present appointment has been gained; it has been a backstairs business he has got in behind Lady Helen's petticoat. She expostulates, but he will have no humbug; if her friendship is to mean assistance of this kind, he throws her friendship back in her face. She is hurt and shocked, yet he goes on: the truth is he loves her, and has loved her ever since he set eyes on her; and he cannot, in his splendidly straightforwardness, occupy any other position than that of an avowed lover. Here is a dilemma. What is to be done? The social situation is made awkward. Lady Helen's training, experience, and ambition show her what to do. She accepts him, though without love, with a whole-hearted endeavour to be a faithful wife and comrade in his attempt to reach by honest means the top of the tree. The General, in a whirl of happiness, seizes her hands, covers them with kisses, and the curtain descends.

The second act occurs eighteen months later, in the library of Lady Helen Mortimer's home. The country is on the verge of war. It is nearing midnight, and a tension of unrest is in the air. Burdicott, of the War Office, and Margaret Hepplestone, the lady journalist, make affairs clear in conversation, the former anxious but reserved, the latter vainly endeavouring to extract from him information which, once obtained in advance of the proper hour, would give her the position of lady correspondent of the Phœnix. Dick and Elsie, now happily married, appear; and Dick has news that war is actually to come, and that General Mortimer (now Sir George) is to command, and he (Dick) has been appointed to his staff. Elsie breaks down and cries. Later on, Mortimer up to his eyes in work, appears, accompanied by an A.D.C. Left alone, he is beset by the lady journalist, whom he unceremoniously rebuffs, having scarcely time to admire her impudence. The lady, however, sneaks in again, and conceals herself behind some palms and window-hangings in a corner of the room. A scene between the General and Lady Helen next transpires, and, of course, the whole of it is overheard by Margaret Hepplestone—Mortimer's news of his appointment; Lady Helen's enthusiastic pleasure (a biting contrast in Mortimer's heart to little Elsie's tears); all the little things, in short, she wants to know including the certainty that on one side at least there is no love in the domestic situation of the General and his wife. After the latter's exit, Mortimer hears a slight sound, and, locating it, brings the eavesdropper from her hiding-place. He is a resourceful man, and has his remedy; he simply locks the door and keeps her a prisoner till her information has become public property. They sit there together in the dead of night, he cool and firm, she venting her spleen upon him, and taunting him with his loveless marriage. The scene is interrupted by cries of "War" outside. She may go now; her knowledge is no more than that of the newsboys in the street. Lady Helen re-enters, and she and her husband acknowledge from the balcony the cheers of a crowd which has gathered about the house. As they turn back into the room, Elsie is seen weeping on her husband's shoulder. "Ah," says the General, taking his wife's hand, "that is what I want!"

The third act takes place at an inn near Dover, and the curtain goes up on a sad little group. Mortimer has been superseded, and is hourly expected home. His campaign has displeased both the public and the Cabinet; there have been no red-hot victories, no fireworks, and no news but that of one reverse. The Government has been treated with contempt, and to save its own downfall it has recalled the General against whom popular feeling has begun to run high. When Sir George at last enters, however, it becomes apparent that he is unbeaten, and has no doubt of the ultimate success of the plan of campaign he has left behind. But there is that other battle he has lost, and in a touching scene he offers to do all he can to free Lady Helen from her position as his wife. Failure has wrought a change in Lady Helen, however: it has done for him what the most brilliant success, apparently, could never do—she finds herself able to give her husband all the support and love that are needed by him in this dark hour. Then the clouds break. Burdicott rushes in with the announcement that Mortimer's successor, by following rigidly the plans laid down, and resolutely refusing to change them in the slightest, is even now reaping the fruition of victory, vide a cablegram to hand. Everything is progressing magnificently, and it is only a question of a little more time and patience. This is not all. International complications are looming elsewhere, and Mortimer has been selected to command the allied forces on the Chinese frontier.

The General turns to his wife: "Now, then, you—is this another of your jobs?" She begins to expostulate, but Mortimer only smiles—the broad smile of a happy and light-hearted man who understands and is understood by the woman he loves.

It will be seen that the chief parts are quite in the style which brings out the special gifts of the two principal members of the cast. Mr. Arthur Bourchier's depiction of General Mortimer was instinct with life and individuality from his first brusque entrance to the final tender scene—always manly, direct, human, and suggestive of the genius of the character he impersonated. Every opportunity was given also to Miss Violet Vanbrugh, not only for the exercise of her splendid emotional gifts, but also her inimitable society finesse in the varied situations, and her triumph in the rôle of Lady Helen Caldwell was never in doubt. The second couple, contrasting poignantly with the General and his wife, were admirably played by Mr. Charles Bryant as the Hon. Richard Caldwell and Miss Pamela Gaythorne as Elsie. Miss Henrietta Watson also scored a marked success as the egregiously enterprising lady journalist Margaret Hepplestone; while as Admiral Farleigh Mr. Arthur Whitby played with his customary ease and finish, and Mr. Leon Quartermaine was brisk and effective as Burdicott. Among the minor parts, which were all relatively well handled, Miss Eva Killick was especially commendable in the rôle of Lady Vereker.

There was loud applause at the close of the play, and Mr. Bourchier, in response to calls, made short speech of thanks. Demands for the authors resulted in an explanation that Captain Robert Marshall was unavoidably absent, but his co-author, Mayne Lindsay, was induced to bow her acknowledgments to the delighted house.

AN AGENT'S COMMISSION.

The case of Denton v. Hildyard came before His Honour Judge Woodfall in the Westminster County Court on Thursday as a claim by Mr. St. John Denton, the well-known theatrical agent, of Maiden-lane, Strand, against Miss Maud Hildyard, authoress and actress, for £20 commission on engagements. Counsel for the plaintiff said the claim was for the usual ten per cent. on ten weeks' engagement at £20 a week. Defendant was a well-known actress and dramatic authoress, and played in her own pieces. Plaintiff wrote to her to know if there was any possibility of their doing business together, and suggesting that she should call. She did call, and eventually a client decided to engage her for a forty-week Australian tour at £70 a week if she did not play in her own pieces, and £60 if she did play in them, on condition that her acting suited him. The client went to Southport, saw her act, and the contract was agreed to. In accordance with custom, the commission was charged on the first ten weeks.

Plaintiff gave evidence in support, and in cross-examination said ten per cent. on the first ten weeks' salary was the usual amount. The agent served the hirer in the matter as well as the hired. He did not draw up the contract, but arranged the terms as to salary, &c.

Mr. Meynell, plaintiff's client, deposed to being a theatrical manager in Australia. He bore out plaintiff's evidence, and declared that he paid plaintiff no commission. The usual commission was ten per cent. if the commission was limited to ten weeks. He heard nothing of defendant declining to have anything to do with agents.

Mr. Herbert Blackmore gave evidence that the custom was to pay ten per cent. on salary for the first ten weeks in a case like this. In hundreds of cases agents did not draw the contracts. Ten per cent. on the first ten weeks was the universal custom in the theatrical profession. Mr. Ben Nathan gave similar evidence.

The defendant declared that the terms were discussed direct with Mr. Meynell at Stockport, and she concluded the bargain with him there, without the aid of plaintiff. Cross-examined, she said she did not know Mr. Meynell before Mr. Denton brought them together, but she though he was acting on Mr. Meynell's behalf. She distinctly told Mr. Meynell that she would have nothing to do with any agent.

Mr. Monty Bayly, general secretary of the V.A.F., said he was of opinion, after hearing the evidence, that the plaintiff was not entitled to any commission on this engagement.

Mr. Charles Coborn, who said he had had thirty-three years' experience, said it was not an invariable custom to pay ten per cent. He had paid five per cent. on pantomime engagements.

His Honour said he must find for the plaintiff, holding that defendant, although she appeared not to have intended to do so, bound herself. It was quite clear that the engagement was brought about by plaintiff's introduction, and he gave him judgment for ten per cent. on £50 for ten weeks. He found plaintiff had not proved his case to commission on that part of the salary relating to dramatic rights, and he entered judgment for the plaintiff for £50, with costs.

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

DURBAN, SEPT. 14.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, The Empire Theatre Co., South Africa, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. C. Hyman.—A welcome item is Alec Worcester in excepts from musical comedies; Ambrose Thorn nightly meets with undeniable success; the Kellaways are a smart pair of juvenile artists; Miss Estelle Stapley shows herself to be an accomplished performer on both violin and piano; Miss Edith Burn, serio, does well; the Arbras, acrobats, execute some wonderful feats of balancing; Kitty Gordon tops the bill, and is admired for her dainty singing; Ruby and Laws are an able comedy duo; and other items on the bill are Gaumont's Chronomegaphone and the Bioscope.

PIETERMARITZBURG, SEPT. 14. — SCOTT'S THEATRE.—Lessees, B. and F. Wheeler, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. F. F. Woodman.—The Little Michus has met with complete public approval. Mr. William Everard as Gaston Rigaud makes good use of his fine voice; Mr. Foster Courtenay as General Des Ifs keeps the audience in uncontrollable mirth; the Bagnolet of Mr. Alf Beers is an amusing study; Mr. F. J. Blackman gives a capital delineation of Pierre Michu; Miss Hilda Guiver as Herpin is well suited to the part; a clever danseuse is Miss Nellie Lawrence, who undertakes the rôle of Mlle. St. Cyr; Miss Florence Vi as Mme. Michu scores a success; the rôles of Blanche Marie and Marie Blanche are in the hands of Misses Chrissie Ralland and Elsa Partiss, who captivate all by their charming singing and dainty acting. The chorus is efficient and the scenery up to the standard that one can always expect from the management. Other pieces to follow are The Girl Behind the Counter and The Merry Widow.

UNDER the name of the Glasgow Stage Society, a new organisation has been lately started in Glasgow to foster interest in the literary drama, and to emulate to some extent the good work of the Irish National Theatre at Dublin, Miss Horniman's company, at the Gaiety, Manchester, and the Ulster Literary Theatre at Belfast. The new society will, however, proceed on somewhat different lines.

"ISRAEL."

Play, in Three Acts, by M. Henry Bernstein, Produced at Réjane's on Oct. 13.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, Oct. 15.—M. Henry Bernstein's comedy Israël, heralded with a flourish of trumpets, was produced at the Théâtre Réjane, where, thanks to the admirable interpretation and to two or three very telling scenes, it met with an excellent reception. But the stage is not the place to treat religious problems, and the talented author committed the mistake of discussing the Jewish question in that form. Every praise is due to M. Bernstein for the earnestness and tact with which he handled his delicate subject; but in order to develop his theories he was compelled to introduce lengthy conversations between two of his dramatis personæ, with the result that these dialogues became in reality lectures, and proved somewhat tedious. Nor did these discussions lead to any result, for the violent conflict continued to the end without the problem being solved. The scene of the first act is laid in the Cercle de la Rue Royale, one of the fashionable Paris clubs. Prince Thibault de Courcy, a young Deputy, the leader of the Anti-Semitic party, objects to the presence in the club of the millionaire Justin Gutlieb, a Jew. Unheeding the fact that Gutlieb is a man of irreproachable character, respected by all, Thibault asks him to resign his membership, and as Gutlieb refuses the young Deputy assaults him. A duel is bound to follow, and Thibault, an expert swordsman, swears to kill his adversary. In the second act—at the house of the Duchesse de Courcy—a surprise is in store for us. The Duchesse implores her son not to cross swords with Gutlieb. Something in that lady's attitude arouses suspicion in Thibault, who questions her, and then learns that he, Thibault, Prince de Courcy, is the son of Gutlieb, the Jew, with whom, years before, the Duchesse had a liaison. Thibault, whose first impulse was to commit suicide, listens to the exhortations of Father de Silvian, his confessor, and decides to become a Trappist. But in his subsequent meeting with Gutlieb the latter succeeds in convincing him that, as he lacks faith, he ought not to join the religious order. Unfortunately, Gutlieb does not know that the monastery is his son's last resource; for, irresolute and mad with grief, Thibault now poisons himself. It was the first time we had the pleasure of applauding Mme. Réjane in the rôle of a "mother," and as the Duchesse the great artist fairly enchanted the house. M. Louis Gauthier gave real distinction and individuality to the part of Thibault, and M. de Max was an impressive confessor. M. Signoret hardly did justice to the rôle of Gutlieb, which certainly did not suit his special aptitudes. The minor parts were very well rendered by MM. Tréville, Hall, and Monteaux.

M. SUDERMAN'S four-act play, Parmi les pierres, adapted by MM. Maurice Valentin and Rémon, was produced at the Odéon, and despite the sentimental touches—so dear to German playwrights, but to which the French are averse—the audience received the work with marked favour. Nor can it be denied that the ideas expressed therein raise it to a high level. If I am not mistaken, the adapters made some slight alteration in the plot. Jacob Bielger, M. Suderman's hero, has spent six years in prison. He has had the misfortune to kill a man, and although it was almost a case of self-defence, he finds himself after his release shunned by everybody and unable to earn a livelihood. After having undergone many privations, Zarncke, a stonemason, engages him as night-watchman. Zarncke is a philanthropist, interested in the welfare of discharged prisoners, and Biegler hopes that his troubles are at an end. But he has reckoned without his comrades. They have discovered that Biegler is a "jail-bird," and from that moment shower insults upon him. Two of them, Gottlinck and old Eichholz, even enter into a conspiracy to murder him by arranging to drop a large piece of granite on his head. Laura, Gottlinck's discarded msitress, however, warns him of the impending danger, and Biegler does not fall a victim to these men's diabolical plot. Thanks to this attempt on his life, he is rehabilitated, and becomes the husband of the gentle Laura. The distinguished German author owes a debt of gratitude to his exponents—MM. Desjardin, Armand, Bour, Léon Bernard, and Mlle. Van Doren—who shared with him the success of the evening.

A DRAMATISED version of M. Paul Bourget's novel "L'Emigré" has been brought out at the Théâtre de la Renaissance. Many scenes are treated with consummate skill, but the author—a well-known reactionary—infused a little too much retrograde spirit into his play. Every broad-minded Frenchman looks upon armies as necessary evils, and agrees with England that a general disarmament will benefit humanity. Nor does he worship aristocracy in the belief that titled people are superior to those less favoured by birth. The tirades, therefore, on the prestige of the army and on the duties of the members of the aristocracy sounded like an echo from a bygone age, and missed their effect. The plot is as follows: Landri de Clavier, lieutenant in a dragoon regiment, the son of the Marquis de Clavier Granchamps, refuses to marry Françoise de Charlus because he loves Valentine Ollier, a young widow, companion to the Duchesse de Charlus. The Marquis refuses to give his consent to this match, as, according to him, noblemen are privileged beings, to whom a high mission has been entrusted, which does not allow them to marry outside their sphere. But Jaubourg, the Marquis's intimate friend, has fallen dangerously ill, and, whilst delirious, makes an unexpected disclosure to Landri. And I cannot help remarking that our up-to-date authors make very light of the morality of Duchesses, Marquises, and tutti quanti. In M. Bernstein's before-mentioned play we see a Duchesse run off the rails with a Jew; here it is Jaubourg who has had a liaison with the Marquise de Clavier, and, therefore, is Landri's father. Landri, of course, is neither pleased nor flattered. But he keeps the secret to himself and marries Valentine, which brings about a rupture between him and the Marquis. The latter, however, having received an anonymous letter revealing the truth, understands Landri's action in the matter. They become reconciled, and Landri emigrates with his wife to America. The naïve play was finely acted. M. Guitry impersonated the old Marquis in a masterly manner, and MM. Dubosc, Capellani, and Mlle. Dorziat helped to impart colour to this sombre story.

A SLIP OF THE PEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—My attention has been called to the fact that in my notice of the performance of Dear Old Charlie at the Grand, West Hartlepool, last week, I said that Mr. George Conquest was responsible for the delineation of the titular part, whereas the credit for its excellent portrayal should have been given to Mr. George Lestocq. I cannot imagine how the mistake occurred, but can only say the fault was entirely that of—Yours faithfully

YOUR WEST HARTLEPOOL CORRESPONDENT.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

The New Year's collection for the Music Hall Home Fund, 1908-9, will have the very warm espousal of that star of the first magnitude, Miss Marie Lloyd. In a practical and sympathetic manner Miss Lloyd has already started the fund with a contribution of three guineas. The queen of comediennes has a generous heart for her less fortunate brothers and sisters in the profession.

"To-morrow," which is to be operatic as well as scenic in character, is to be the Christmas production at the London Hippodrome. The subject should have immense possibilities for exercising the ingenuity of Mr. Frank Parker, the equestrian and stage director. Is it possible that we are to have a new sensation "aeroplanned" by that clever gentleman? Mr. Bolossy Kiralfy will co-operate with Mr. Parker.

Mr. George Robey is following the example of Mr. Harry Lauder, and has compiled a small volume of "memoirs" bearing the title "George Robey: My Life Up to Now," to be published by Messrs. Greening. It should be a bright book, and we hope to "wade" through it shortly.

Miss Madge Temple, the fascinating singer who exhibits a remarkable and richly befeathered umbrella hat at the Coliseum, was recently married to Mr. Hermann E. Darewski, a popular member of the staff of Francis, Day, and Hunter, and the composer of the bride's most successful numbers, "Esau," "Come, be my rainbow," and "Kissing."

Miss Adrienne Augarde, who has by kind permission of Mr. Oswald Stoll postponed her English engagements, sailed per s.s. Kronprinzessin Cecile on Wednesday for America. Miss Augarde has been engaged by Mr. Joseph Brooks to star in the title-rôle of Peggy Machree, with Mr. Joseph D'Mara in the hero's part, and will open in New York on Nov. 15.

Mr. Jocelyn Brandon, author of The Love that Kills, a version of L'Arlésienne, has placed upon the agenda of the L.C.C. the following notice of motion:—"That, in the opinion of the Council, it is unnecessary to differentiate between the licences granted to theatres and to music halls; and that it be referred to the General Purposes Committee to consider and report what amendments should be made in the standing orders of the Council with the view to granting a general and uniform licence to all places of entertainment licensed by the Council, under which it would be optional for the licensee, subject to such restrictions as may be considered desirable, to give either dramatic or what are known as variety entertainments."

It will be remembered that Councils in the outer metropolitan area—such as Walthamstow or Richmond—are quite ready to grant stage play in addition to music and dancing licences, and have done so; but Mr. Brandon's "uniformity" proposal touches the whole principle of licensing, and though apparently a simple one, it is its very simplicity that it is likely to cause controversy.

The laws of entertainment licensing, with all their absurdities and anomalies, are in urgent need of amendment and revision; but the real necessity of the moment is the acquisition by the Council of further powers in order that that important governing body may regulate irregular places of amusement, such as clubs, which more often than not form the arena for the production of piracies of every kind—variety or theatrical.

Applications for music-hall licences for two more suburban theatres will be made to the London County Council in November. One of these houses is the Camden, which was opened on Dec. 26, 1900. The other is the Crown, Peckham, which was opened by the late Wilson Barrett with a performance of The Sign of the Cross, on Oct. 31, 1893.

The application for the Camden is being made by Mr. Sidney Marler, of the Jacobus-Marler Syndicate, on behalf of the London Theatres of Varieties, of which Mr. Walter Gibbons is managing-director. It is this company, with which Mr. George Dance is associated, which will control the Shaftesbury when the London County Council grant the music-hall licence now being asked for. The new title selected for the Shaftesbury is the London Casino—an unfortunate choice.

The Brothers Luck, owing to their success in Lift 'Em's, Limited, have commissioned the author, Chris Davis, to write two new pantomimic episodes, respectively entitled The Abode of Love and Bluebottles. Mr. Davis will shortly produce off his "own bat" a new sensational episode, entitled The Fighting Doctor.

Mme. Yvette Guilbert has confirmed the statement that she is leaving the variety stage for a time to interpret a number of character parts in the regular drama. After a short holiday in Paris she will begin rehearsing the rôle of the heroine in The Marriage of a Star, a comedy which deals with the story of a French actress who marries an Englishman. This is to be produced by Yvette in London next year

The directors of the Empire Theatre have arranged to give a special matinée in aid of the Lifeboat Fund on Tuesday, Nov. 24. A varied programme, in which the leading actors and actresses will appear, has been arranged, and the performance is under the distinguished patronage of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, the Duke of Fife, the Lord Mayor, &c.

Miss Vesta Tilley made her reappearance in London on Monday evening last at the Shepherd's Bush Empire, and the splendid house was thronged at each performance by delighted audiences, who would not be satisfied with less than four songs from this incomparable artist. Miss Tilley sang first "No girl's a fairy," following it with "The seaside smile" and, thirdly, "Jolly good luck to the girl who loves a soldier." So imperative was the clamour for more that Miss Tilley had to appear again, when she sang her latest success, "I'm the idol of the girls."

The new Empire ballet, A Day in Paris, will be produced on Monday. The principal artists are Mlle. Lydia Kyasht, Mlle. Zanfretta, Mr. Jameton, Miss Elise Clerc, Miss Phyllis Bedells, Mr. T. Walls, and Mr. Fred Farren. The story is simple and direct. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and daughter arrive at the gay capital, bent on seeing the sights, and encounter a lively student (Mr. Fred Farren), who promptly becomes their guide. He takes them round Paris, and it is round the amusing episodes in which they figure that the story revolves. Mlle. Kyasht is the central figure, and will introduce some extremely beautiful dances. Mr. Fred Farren is provided with a part which will be found to give his nimble genius the utmost opportunities of fun and frolic.

Miss Dot Stephens, who, since recovering from her serious accident, has been appearing with the greatest success in the principal music halls, sailed on Saturday last for South Africa, where she is booked to appear for nine weeks. On her return she plays her third tour with Moss' Empires, Ltd., and in the autumn tours a drama from the pen of Mr. Frank Price, an author rapidly coming to the front. In this she has an opportunity of introducing all the numbers so popular in the halls, and the play also contains other novel features which should make it a certain success.

An order was made by Mr. Justice Neville on Tuesday for the compulsory winding-up of the Brighton Alhambra, Ltd., but it is understood that the company will appeal. It was stated that the petitioners, who were the trustees of the will of the late Mr. Robert McKergow, held a mortgage on the property for £19,000, which fell due in December last, and had not been paid.

Mr. Jenkins, K.C., urged that the company could pay its debts if given a reasonable time. The property was to be put up for public auction as a going concern at the Mart on Nov 11, and it was believed that more than sufficient would be realised to discharge all encumbrances, He applied that the petition might stand over until after the sale.

His Lordship said that the only course open to him was to make a compulsory order, but he did so with regret. It was clear that the company was unable to pay the debt, and the question before him was not whether at any future time it might be in a position to do so.

Messrs. Douglas Young and Co. have been instructed to offer for sale on Nov. 11 the Alhambra, Brighton, a fully-licensed freehold music hall, providing a total accommodation for over 2,500 persons. Built in the early nineties, this house had as its first manager Mr. William Bailey, now of the West London, and at one time manager of the Metropolitan and the Alhambra, Leicester-square. Later the reins were held by Mr. Harry Lundy, who had to seek the bankruptcy court, when the hall passed into the hands of the Official Receiver. Mr. J. L. Graydon also for some years controlled the house.

With regard to the proposed new variety theatre for Southport, we are informed that the venture is not a purely Manchester undertaking, but the launching of it depends to a large extent on the support accorded it in Southport. Unless this is forthcoming in the measure looked for, the project will not be proceeded with.

It is pointed out by the promoters that Blackpool—which, by the way, has practically no "season" at all during the winter months—can support eight or nine big places of amusement. For this reason the conclusion has been arrived at that Southport could well make a new variety theatre pay. While the theatre is to be managed by Southport directors, a Manchester firm is prepared to find a third of the capital. The chief question is the measure of support which Southport may accord, and the capital which may be forthcoming locally.

By the kindness of Mr. Oswald Stoll, two sacred concerts were given at the Leicester Palace Theatre on Sunday last, when Mr. Hayden Coffin sang with his usual artistic expression, and the Irish Guards band and Miss Daisy Sherriff, vocalist, were the other attractions. The concerts were in aid of the Poor Children's Christmas Treat Fund.

Mr. Fred Solo has concluded his third season with his Drolls and Demures company on Redcar Pier, where he has given general satisfaction to his directors and many patrons during his season. He had Mr. Malcolm Scott and the Northern quartettes from Durham and York cathedrals and other special attractions. He will resume work at the music halls shortly.

We are informed by Councillor Everton that he has disposed of the Empress Variety Theatre, Hartlepool, to Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope Company, which takes possession of the house at an immediate date.

In order to assist the general distress prevalent in Burnley owing to the state of the cotton trade, matinée performances have been held at the two variety theatres, and the amounts which have been handed to the Mayor's Distress Fund are as follows:—Empire Theatre of Varieties (lessee and manager, Mr. W. C. Horner): Money at doors, £19 17s. 11d.; collected by Mrs. Horner, £33 3s. 9d.; given by Mrs. Horner, £5; refreshments and programmes, £3 1s. 3d.; total, £61 2s. 11d. Palace Theatre and Hippodrome (managing-director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten), £60 10s. 3d. A football match was also played on Tuesday between Burnley (League team) and Variety Artists, which proved to be very humorous, and realised about £50, which will be handed over to the same fund.

A new Scottish romantic sketch was produced by Miss Helen Kennedy and company at the Pavilion Theatre, Glasgow, on Tuesday. It met with a most flattering reception, the curtain having to be raised no less than three times at the finish. Miss Kennedy was presented with a large horseshoe wreath, wishing her good luck. The scenery and dresses are beautiful, and the plot is very interesting.

Mr. Thos. A. Evans, manager of the New Palace Theatre, Northampton, on Monday, the first night of the anniversary week, on behalf of the proprietor, Mr. Fred H. Anderson, tendered sincere thanks to the public of Northampton for their generous support during the past five years. In return, Mr. Anderson would do his level best to obtain the best of talent available in the variety world.

A syndicate has been formed to acquire the old Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, in Guild-street, and convert it into a music hall. No expense will be spared in making the necessary structural alterations.

On Wednesday night the fireproof curtain at the Bordesley Palace, Birmingham, refused to act after being lowered, and after fruitless efforts to raise it, it was found necessary to dismiss the audience, who dispersed quietly and good-temperedly enough. However, by Thursday morning the thing was rectified, and the resident-manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward, had special bills out apprising the public of the fact, the performance of Lucky Durham that evening being witnessed by the usual large audience that the Palace attracts.

Miss Irene Moncrieff will shortly appear in the title-rôle of Mr. Kyburn-Dellar's latest work, entitled The Flaming Hussy (in one flame).

The directors of the Blackpool Winter Gardens, of which Mr. J. R. Huddlestone is manager, are recommending a dividend at the rate of 4 per cent. In respect of the Blackpool Tower, Mr. Harrop and his fellow directors advise the declaration of a dividend at the rate of 6 per cent.

The remains of Mr. Alfred Browne, lately manager of the Sunderland Palace of Varieties, were interred in Bishopwearmouth Cemetery on Friday, the 9th. There was a large gathering of friends and sympathisers at the graveside.

Brighton's amusement resorts are not invariably successful; but the receipts at the West Pier in breezy London-by-the-Sea have been sufficiently large during the present season to enable the directors to declare a dividend of 9 per cent.

Wednesday being the anniversary of the opening of the Hippodrome, Hamilton, N.B., the first performance on that evening was under the distinguished patronage and presence of the Provost, Magistrates, and Councillors of the burgh. The entire proceeds of that performance were devoted to the Hamilton branches of the Queen Victoria Jubilee Institute and the Children's League of Pity.

Mr. George Lashwood opens on Monday at the London Coliseum, where he will again delight his myriads of admirers with his gigantic success "Hang out the front-door key." Messrs. Francis and Day, who publish the song, have in this number what is known as a "gilt-edged security."

Vasco, the "mad musician," whose success at the Empire is recent history, has been elected a member of the Water Rats fraternity. He sails on Saturday next by the Lusitania for the States. George Ross, of Ross and Graydon, has also become a brother of the same order.

Miss Vashti Wynne, after a lengthy tour of the music halls, is returning to the theatres, having been engaged by Mr. Walter Melville for lead in the production of The Beggar Girl's Wedding at the Elephant and Castle Theatre on Monday.

Miss Alexandra Dagmar returns to London after a short tour, and opens on Monday at the Oxford and Metropolitan, where she will introduce her successful song entitled "A marriage of Mayfair," by Geo. Arthurs and Orlando Powell.

Miss Vesta Victoria has now definitely decided to produce "The lass who loved a sailor," by Messrs. John P. Harrington and Orlando Powell, at the Holborn Empire, when she opens at that house on Monday, the 26th. It is confidently expected to prove the bonne bouche of this talented comedienne's répertoire, when she again gives America a taste of her quality shortly.

Amongst recent purchasers of Imperial cars is Miss Cecilia Loftus, the well-known variety artist, who has just ordered a 30 h.p. model from Messrs. C. E. Whittaker, Ltd., of 66, Great Russell-street, the sole agents for Great Britain and the Colonies.

"The Old Willow Plate," an operatic phantasy, written by Robert Willford and composed by Mark Strong, is to be produced by Mr. Herbert Cottesmore at the Camberwell Empire on Monday. The scenery of this costly production is by Mr. Francis H. Bull, and the costumes by J. A. Harrison. Mr. Cottesmore has several other big attractions in active preparation. All communications re dates should be made to Messrs. G. and F. Peel, Granville House, Arundel-street, Strand.

Miss Winifred Hare has been secured for the part of Robinson Crusoe at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, next Christmas. Miss Hare recently offered £100 for a suitable song for her to sing in this pantomime, and very keen competition is taking place among song writers and composers in consequence. Strangely enough, although she wants the song for an Irish pantomime, not one manuscript has been received from Ireland yet.

The many friends of Miss Millie Hylton will be delighted to learn that that lady has recovered from her recent indisposition, which at one time threatened to be very serious. She will open at the Manchester Hippodrome on Nov. 2, with new songs by Chas. Wilmot and Hermann Darewski, jun., taking with her the beautiful stage wardrobe which she recently purchased from Louise, of Paris.

On Monday night last the captains and chiefs of the French Fire Brigade visited the Empire Theatre, Holborn, in full regalia. A crowded house gave them an enormous reception, and when the orchestra played the "Marseillaise" the whole house rose en masse and cheered vociferously.

At the conclusion of the performance Mr. E. Leslie Conroy, the manager, introduced six of the captains to the audience, and the entente cordiale was fully illustrated by the cheers which greeted them. There were over 500 people waiting to show their appreciation outside the building after the performance, and they actually carried several chiefs and captains shoulder high through the streets. Altogether it was a great night.

At the Richmond Theatre on Monday a new and original musical interlude in three scenes, entitled The Mountain Belle, will be produced by Mr. Lawrence Anarto and Mr. Harry Rushworth's company. The book and lyrics emanate from the pen of Mr. Charles Crosier, the music has been composed by Mr. Harry Rushworth, and considerable interest is centred in the initial performance.

Mr. Lawrence Anarto, as one of the Brothers Anarto, has loomed large as a music hall and pantomime favourite, and Mr. Harry Rushworth, as a conductor and composer, has long been recognised as one of the first musicians in the Isle of Man. Since leaving his adopted country in 1900 he has had a large and varied experience—a two years' tour with Our Navy as musical director through the Australasian Colonies, New Zealand, and Queensland; in the same capacity with Mr. C. P. Levelly's Amorelle company; and with Mr. John Hart as chef d'orchestre and arranger of music for Christmas production at Bradford

"The Mountain Belle" is brightly written, and has an interesting and coherent story. It will be artistically mounted, and will be interpreted by a carefully-selected company and a full chorus.

There is an old Scotch whiskey curiously named "The Era." It is blended on the banks of the Clyde by Messrs. McIntyre, Ltd., Glasgow. It is the mountain dew whose flavour is cherished by Dr. Bodie, Mr. T. Colquhoun, the Acmes, and Leoni Clarke. These convivial souls—all excellent judges of spirit—while out motoring this week near Glasgow toasted some of their dear London friends, to whom they sent a "wee drappie" of The Era brand in order that they might return the compliment in Cockaigne.

Mr. T. E. Dunville has hit upon an idea out of the common to procure new gags and wheezes for his song "Stickyback, the postman." Week by week members of the public are invited, through the columns of London Opinion, to send the comedian at the hall where he is appearing amusing "postcards" to read aloud during the performance of the song, and each week he awards monetary prizes to the senders of the two best gags.

The two criticisms annexed were written in Lancashire papers upon the Dutch entertainment presented by the Four Netherlands:—"Strange and weird in the extreme are the ideas of some of those who set themselves to entertain us. What enjoyment an audience can obtain from watching four women take off their stockings puzzles me. The troupe I saw go through this performance crowded on to the footlights, first shielding the operation by raised parasols, behind which they tugged at their hose in anything but an elegant fashion. The gallery giggled and the house was put into a highly nervous state. When the stockings were removed the quartette danced. They were described on the programme as 'character singers and dancers, in their latest sensation.' The authorities who prohibit living statuary allow these kind of suggestive acts to pass unnoticed. Why?"

"The famous Sisters Netherlands, who gave an ideal 'Dutch' show last year, present an entirely new performance. Opening with a smartly-costumed 'cadet' song and dance, they conclude with a song and dance scena, 'The Tale of a Stocking.' It is an original—even daring (but not by any means a vulgar) show, and culminates, after a humorous interlude, in a clever and pretty barefooted dance of a most charming character, which evokes hearty applause." So much depends on point of view.

When the Ilford Hippodrome opens it will be under the control of the London Theatres of Varieties, Ltd., of which circuit Mr. Walter Gibbons is managing-director.

Miss Rosie Heath, a sufferer for some years from dementia, has had several lengthy rational intervals, during which she has visited friends, who have been led to hope for the complete recovery of this charming burlesque artist of the eighties. Unfortunately, these hopes have proved fallacious. Mrs. Heath, her mother, who is over eighty, has recently lost her husband.

Miss Henriquette Maude, who is this week pursuing her successful London career at the Surrey, temporarily lost the cowboy costume that is necessary to her turn; but turning her ingenuity to account, she was able to improvise one. Fortunately the original dress was restored to her when she applied to the lost property office at Scotland Yard. Her recitation of Frank Desprez's stirring poem "Losca" has roused much enthusiasm among the dwellers across the bridge.

At the Bath House, Dean-street, Oxford-street, will be found Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ashby (of Kelly and Ashby), who will be pleased to see all old and new friends. The house is one minute from the Oxford, and there is a large club room for rehearsals.

On the "Maud Allan Day" at the Palace Theatre on Wednesday the popular dancer completed her 250th appearance at that house, and to commemorate the event Miss Allan presented, in addition to "The Vision of Salome," an extended répertoire of her classic dances, including Rubinstein's "Valse Caprice," Chopin's "Marche Funèbre," and Mendelssohn's Spring Song. The house was crowded. Before the fall of the curtain Miss Allan was presented by the directors with a magnificent bouquet of golden chrysanthemums. To every member of the audience was given a souvenir edition of Miss Allan's book, "My Life and Dancing."

"All at Sea," an original musical-comedy sketch, in three scenes, is from the pen of Mr. Edward Foster, the resident-manager of the Grand Theatre, Birmingham, the music being by Mr. Guy Jones, the composer of The Gay Gordons. We hope to announce at an early date the production of the novelty at an important variety theatre. It has been copyrighted.

Miss Hanid Alexander, who has made such an outstanding success at the London Pavilion, where she is nightly appearing, is a pupil of Mme. Helen Townshend, and has been vocally and dramatically trained by that "coaching" expert. Mme. Townshend has, as usual, a long list of students playing principal parts in many of the forthcoming pantomimes at Christmas.

An unfortunate accident happened in the Coliseum, Glasgow, on Monday evening, at the second house. Merrill and Ward, trick cyclists, were in the midst of their business, and were about to perform their most daring feat, a somersault on the bicycle from a sloping platform ten feet high, when they lost their balance, and, in the fall, Merrill was severely injured.

Mr. Harry Burdette, manager at the Coliseum, at once summoned a doctor, and as soon as possible had the sufferer removed to the Victoria Infirmary, Glasgow. The accident, naturally, caused much excitement among the large audience.

The well-known comedian, Ted E. Box, had a marvellous escape from a serious accident on Tuesday evening while returning in his brougham to the South London from the Metropolitan. A motor-car dashed into the horse, severely cutting it, breaking the shafts, and bending the undercarriage of the brougham. Fortunately, Mr. Box escaped with a severe shaking up. He had to walk over Lambeth-bridge in his make-up to get a cab, having had to go via Lambeth-bridge owing to the suffragettes blocking the thoroughfare of Westminster-bridge. He arrived at the South just in time to do his turn.

Mr. Frederick Maxwell has in active preparation, and will shortly produce, another new sketch from his own pen entitled Give a Man a Chance. Several novel features will be introduced in it, and the general mounting and effects will be on a lavish scale. Miss Lois du Cane will have an especially good part in Loanda, an Indian girl. After his present tour he will return to London for a lengthy season.

Mr. Stanley C. May, who has represented Messrs. Richard Warner and Co., Ltd., for some years, both in London and the provinces, resigns his position with that firm on Saturday next to join Leo Fritz as manager and representative on the following Monday. Mr. Fritz, owing to the increase of business, has taken new offices in Cecil House, Charing Cross-road, where he hopes to see his old friends.

The first Music Hall and Theatrical Football League match took place on Sunday last in ideal weather and under perfect conditions. The opposing teams were the Tivoli and Broadway Theatre, New Cross. Mr. Joe Wilson, manager of the Tivoli, Mr. Wilkie Bard, and Mr. Fred Ginnett were amongst the visitors, and after a short delay Mr. Wilson kicked off for his team at 11.25. The Broadway became immediately prominent, making several smart rushes. Their clever wing forwards were well fed by a smart set of half-backs, of whom the centre was the star man. When the Tivoli forwards set themselves going play became very exciting, and just before half-time A. Webb scored with a beauty, the teams crossing over 1—0 in favour of the Tivoli.

In the second half the Tivolians gradually worked their way down into the Broadway territory, and from a beautiful centre A. Webb put the Tivoli two up. Eventually Broadway sent the ball into the mouth of the Tivoli goal. In stopping it the goalkeeper slipped, and the ball just rolled over the line. With the score 2—1 the interesting match finished in favour of the Tivoli.

James Horgrove Thurley, formerly chairman of the Suburban Varieties, Limited, was committed for trial at the Mansion House on Wednesday charged with forging cheques for £50 and £10. It was stated that the Suburban Varieties had an account at the Fleet-street branch of the Capital and Counties Bank. The prisoner opened a private account there, and paid into his account cheques for £50 and £10, drawn on the Suburban Varieties account. The cheques were signed by himself as chairman and purported to be signed by a co-director, Mr. Cuthbert Simkins; but the latter's signatures were forgeries. When arrested it was alleged the prisoner said, "I can but plead guilty."

Regan and Ryan have just returned from a phenomenally successful engagement in Australia with Mr. Harry Rickards. Their original style of telling gags while walking was a big feature down under. They go to the Theatre Royal, Newcastle-on-Tyne, this Christmas, making their fourth season in that city for pantomime.

A freehold estate in Keighley, acquired some time ago as a site for a music hall (the plans being approved by the Corporation) was offered by Mr. Murgatroyd Smith for sale on Wednesday evening, when it was knocked down for £1,725 to Mr. F. S. Pearson, accountant, on behalf of a local magnate, who intends to erect a large warehouse thereon.

A question which has agitated the minds of Mr. W. H. Mallock and others is disposed of in a few lines in Is Life Worth Living? a monologue, produced at the Empress, Brixton, this week. Miss Freda Sharlotte delivers the piece, and impersonates a woman who lives luxuriously on ten thousand a year, but is dying miserably of ennui. She puts to herself the fateful query alluded to, and sinks into a chair asleep. Then appears a weird gnome, who beckons to the sleeper and hurries off.

After a moment's pause the lady awakes, and relates in rhyme how she has been led, like old Scrooge, to many and various scenes, depicting the noble exertions of a mother for her child, a thrilling rescue at a fire, and the work of the lifeboat crew at sea—all the incidents going to prove how much life is worth the living. The realm of sport is entered as a conclusion, and the keen contests at cricket, football, and on the turf are extolled, a tribute to the King as sportsman and peacemaker forming a fitting finale. Miss Sharlotte expressively renders the monologue, which is accompanied by effective music, and is loudly cheered.

Mr. William A. Bennet, the popular Press agent for the Moss and Stoll combine, is resigning his position at Cranbourn-mansions, and in a few weeks will be installed in offices at 22, Denmark-street, Charing Cross-road. Mr. Bennet came into prominence when he succeeded Mr. Coates at the Coliseum. Previous to taking up the position he had been working assiduously for the suburban Empires connected with the Moss-Stoll circuit. Previous to becoming a Press agent, he was at one time chief reporter on the Weekly Dispatch, and was also on the staff of the Daily Mail.

Such an experienced journalist and smart business man should not languish for clients, and we are given to understand that Mr. Will Bennet will represent some of the leading artists of the theatrical and music-hall professions, and incidentally a couple of West-End theatres.

The usual monthly meeting of the committee of the Music Hall Sick Fund was held on Wednesday at the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road. In the absence of the president (Mr. Fred Karno), Mr. Pat Carey presided, and there were also present Messrs. W. J. Wainratta, H. E. High, T. Carney, Frank Boyce, S. White, W. Brisco, G. Fredericks, T. B. Brydge, F. Melli, and O. Grimaldi.

Eight new members were elected, and the chairman expressed his gratification at the increase in the membership. He believed that the society was regarded by the profession as a very sound investment, and he had no doubt that the oldest music-hall provident fund in existence would continue to flourish, in spite of the fact that in these days it had to meet with competition from other societies with similar objects.

It was agreed that the secretary (Mr. R. T. Baines) should be instructed to write a letter to the hon. treasurer (Mr. Frank Heath) expressing the regret of the members at hearing of his illness, which prevented him attending the meeting, and their hope that he would speedily recover. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

At the 580th meeting of the Executive Committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, held on Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Marriott Edgar presided, and among those present were Messrs. W. H. Atlas, J. McNally, J. Tray, T. C. Callaghan, Lieut. Albini, and C. Douglas Stuart (secretary). The draft of the annual report was passed after a few slight alterations.

Mr. Douglas White was nominated for Vice-President, and Messrs. Albert Womber, Charles Parker, J. Obo, and James Miller were made committeemen. This brings the total number up to fifty-seven. Three more will be co-opted by ballot of the entire committee in order to bring the number up to the required sixty.

Mr. Albert Wyndham, who terminates his provincial tour in three weeks, will open at the Surrey in a special production of Prince Arthur, with the great child actress, Miss Paula Sheppard, as the Prince.

"There are always a certain number of songs," says the Morning Leader, "which, by the unbounded favour they have already achieved, leave the panto-makers no chance but to accept them. They take their places by right of conquest. Such is the case this year. There is, for example, 'Oh! Oh! Antonio.' We may depend upon it that few of the 250 pantos to be produced in London and the provinces this Christmas will be without this big hit of Florrie Forde.

"Then there is the melodious story of 'Sue, Sue, Sue,' beloved by that popular coon, G. H. Elliott. With the aid of Mr. Hermann E. Darewski's charming music, 'Sue' has already turned myriad heads in London and the provinces, and when Mr. Elliott goes to the Prince of Wales's at Birmingham it will not be long before the whole city will be singing, humming, and whistling, 'Sue, Sue, Sue.'"

The latest quotations for music hall shares are as follow:—Alhambra, 1¼; Canterbury, ¼; Empire, 15s. paid, 1¼; ditto, 10s. paid, 1; London Pavilion Ordinary, 4; ditto Pref., 4¾; Metropolitan, 14s.; Moss Empire, 5; ditto 5 per cent. Pref., 3¾; Oxford, 6; Palace, 18s. 6d.; Tivoli, 5¼; Var. Cons. Theatres, 9s. 6d.

Miss Melinda May, secretary Music Hall Ladies' Guild, 61, New Oxford-street, W.C., tenders her thanks to the following ladies:—Miss Rose Elliott, for her contribution of £1 3s. 6d. (through Mrs. Fred Ginnett); to Miss Louie Davis, for her collection of £1 2s. 6d.; and Mrs. Phil Hayes, 5s. (through Miss Davis); Mrs. Tom Wootwell 2s. 6d., and a very useful parcel of clothing (anonymous) from Kennington Cross. Miss May would be grateful for gentlemen's as well as ladies' wearing apparel, of which the Guild is greatly in need. Friends of the charity are heartily invited, and are sure of a welcome at the reception and tea held every Wednesday from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Councillor James Baggs, a director of the Portsmouth Empire Palace Co., Ltd., was unanimously selected Mayor of Portsmouth for the ensuing year.

The Water Rats' Agency, which has been established as a result of the V.A.F. dispute, is now in active working order, under the personal superintendence of Mr. Joe O'Gorman.

Walter Lovick Butler, an elderly man, of Broad-street, Lambeth, was charged at Bow-street, on remand, with obtaining money by false pretences. It was stated that the prisoner recently obtained a loan from the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund by means of a forged reference signed in the name of F. Yapp. When he was arrested by Detective-sergeant Collins, he said:—"I don't understand it. Mr. Frank Yapp told me I could use his name, and write what I liked. I wrote the sketch he is now playing in, Next, Please. I may as well say at once that I wrote the reference myself." Mr. Frank Yapp, a music hall artist, said that he had known the prisoner for many years as a respectable man, and if he had applied to him for a reference he would have given him one. The prisoner was bound over in 40s. to come up for judgment if called upon.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

Any novelty from the pen of that graceful composer Herbert E. Haines is always hailed with expectant delight by lovers of music, and his reputation will be enhanced by two latest additions to Messrs. Francis and Day's catalogue, in which Mr. Haines is at his best. The titles are "Angela's serenade" and "Cinderella" intermezzo.

Other numbers in the press about to be issued by Messrs. Francis and Day include songs entitled respectively "In the land of the kangaroo," by Fred Godfrey, Percy Edgar, and T. W. Thurban, and "I'm not the swallow that flies away," by G. A. Stevens, sung by Miss Gladys Mavius.

Miss Daisy Irving's fine voice has, at the Tivoli, been heard during the week to the greatest advantage in the ballad by Percy Edgar, entitled "Let me but hope." The music is in Henry E. Pether's best vein, which is saying much. Mr. David Day's firm issue the number.

During the week at the London Coliseum Mr. Louis de Rondelle's fine orchestra has been performing the new Intermezzo Parisienne entitled "Musette," by Neil Moret, the composer of "Poppies." The morceau is likely to vie in popularity with the gifted composer's former "rage," as is borne out by the avalanche of requests addressed to Messrs. Francis and Day's orchestral department for band parts of the same.

Miss Annie Purcell is this week making a decided hit with Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford's charming song entitled "Mary Anne," published by Francis, Day, and Hunter. Another pretty song by the same authors, entitled "I'm going to marry Maisie," and published by Messrs. Price and Reynolds, will shortly be featured on the halls by the Magpies, and this number will also be heard in several of London's biggest pantomimes at Christmas.

Messrs. Joseph Williams, of 32, Great Portland-street, W., have just published a merry musical comedy for girls entitled When Woman Rules, written by Mr. F. Hutchinson, with music composed by Lionel Elliott, and the ease with which the comedy can be staged and costumed ought to make it very popular with lady amateurs. The scene of When Woman Rules is laid at Lynde Castle. Lady Dorothy Lynde, feeling that the wrongs of her sex demand redress, determines to hold a court of law in the hall of Lynde Castle, being herself the judge, and her lady friends taking the parts of the counsel for defence, counsel for prosecution, clerk of the court, and the jury. The dialogue is lively, as all the ladies want principal parts and picturesque costumes, while the jury decline to serve unless they can wear a delicate shade of art blue. Muriel Hardinge, counsel for defence, has a short solo, "O men of the world, see our banner unfurled," and the chorus,

"With solemn step and weighty tread,
With learnèd air and thoughtful head,
We maids of Lynde these volumes bear,
For Law's our joy, our study dear," is very effective. Copies of the libretto and music are published at the modest price of 1s. each, and all rights of representation are reserved by Messrs. Joseph Williams.

Of quite another character is The Sentence, a short one-act play by Miss Edith Wheeler. There are only three persons—Judge Dane, Lady Cecil (his wife), and a friend, Rudolph Chalmers, K.C.—in this little play, the motive of which turns on the hypnotic powers of Judge Dane, who either has or thinks he has used them unfairly in causing his brother's death, and in winning his wife and present position as Judge. The Sentence ends by the conscience-stricken Judge shooting himself. As the time of performance only takes about half an hour, and as no special scenery or effects are required, Miss Wheeler's play is admirably adapted to drawing-room representation.

From the same firm comes "The Sleepy Song," abridged from the poem by Josephine Daskam, with music by Katharine Barry. "Ein Liebeslied," a pianoforte solo, with violin accompaniment, composed by Seymour Powell, contains a pleasing and expressive melody, and is an excellent study for a clever amateur. In "Malagnena," an effective Habanera for the piano, Mr. Arnoldo Sartorio has given English fingering above the notes and foreign fingering below the notes. A French composer, M. Edouard L'Enfant, has written a clever piano solo entitled "Pierrot et Colombine," which is dedicated to his pupil, Mlle. Joséphine Redding.

Mr. F. Hutchinson has written a laughable play for amateurs in The Cressmans Entertain. The unexpected appearance of Mrs. Cressman's great-aunt, Miss Sarah Hopkins, from whom the Cressmans have expectations, is a diverting incident, as the old lady is somewhat eccentric and old-fashioned. Much fun is also caused by the goings-on of Perkins, a hired waiter. The play can easily be given in a drawing-room, and has been written to give scope to members of a house-party who do not wish for frequent rehearsals.

Miss Annie Braddan (the Manx girl) brings the song she has made famous in the provinces, "Far away in Australia," to London next Monday. She will be heard at the Ealing Hippodrome.

A difficult pantomime problem is the sorting out of the real "gems of song" from the many worthless ones. In order to influence managers and artists many weird and wonderful arguments are used—for instance, by some it is mooted that "girl" songs are out of date, as though that were possible. Such songs always have and always will be the people's favourites as long as the world goes round. But—and it is this but which baffles so many would-be writers of popular numbers—the subject must be redressed in an interesting and attractive manner and the melody must be the crowning glory, bright and dashing, yet simple, melodious, catchy, and easy to remember. There is one number this season which fulfils all the above requirements, and that is Mr. Chas. Whittle's great song, "I don't care to" (published by the Star Music Co.). It has already been secured for most of the big pantomime productions in Glasgow, Edinburgh, Newcastle, Manchester, Birmingham, Sheffield, Nottingham, Bristol, Cardiff, Hanley, Dublin, Belfast, &c., not forgetting ten London pantomimes. Light comedians and principal boys, hurry up, or you'll be left!

Mr. Bert Feldman, of Feldman and Co., to use his own words, has now got "the real gem" for the forthcoming pantomimes in the shape of a production and chorus number entitled "I like your old French bonnet," and is confident that the chorus will become even more popular than the famous "Zuyder Zee." The words and music are by Messrs. Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford. Pantomime boys and girls should hurry up and book this charming song.

Miss Maidie Scott has secured a song, written and composed by Will Hyde, entitled "As soon as a fellow gets married," and Mr. Josh Dixon a comic number from the same pen called "Home-made nursery rhymes."

Mr. Harry Dacre, the well-known publisher and author-composer of whom we hear all too little nowadays, was a visitor to the Tivoli on Tuesday last, and was observed to be enjoying the fine programme with evident zest.

LONDON HIPPODROME.

Classic dancers multiply apace, and it seems that the newest apostle of the poetry of motion deprecates the methods of the schools, and would even speak disrespectfully of Taglioni and the famous pas de quatre. Broadly and briefly speaking, the lover of the art of expression in dancing accepts all that is worthy in the unconventionality of the new without losing his belief in the established conventions that have given us a Genée. Artemis Colonna, who made her début at the London Hippodrome on Monday, is of the opinion that dancing has been degraded and debased, but that there is some hope that the ugly contortions of the modern ballerina will be altered gradually into something more graceful and harmonious. Mlle. Colonna, like Miss Maud Allan, was originally inspired by the melodies of Chopin—that erratic and romantic poet of dance music—to a novel interpretation of his delightful cadences. His Fantaisie Impromptu naturally stimulated her to a freedom of gesture and movement—spontaneous, not academic. Like Miss Allan, she, too, studied examples of Greek sculpture in classic Athens, where her artistic temperament revelled in the rich suggestions of perfectly modelled antiques. For her opening solo Colonna on Monday afternoon chose the Blue Danube waltz, one of the famous dance measures that is likely to achieve immortality. Dressed like a Greek nymph, in loose classic robes of soft silk, the dancer at first adopts a pensive attitude, which develops into greater animation as the opening bars of the first melody, with its irresistible lilt, are played. Then she starts from her seat, and with face irradiated with pleasure, expresses the joy of living in her rapid waltzing. She perhaps reaches a higher plane of her art when she realises in her gesture play and movement something of the tragedy of Iphigenia in Aulis. Glück's opera, it may be recalled, marked a new era in the history of French opera. This severe and deeply conceived work transports us bodily into Greece: it is pervaded throughout by the atmosphere of the days of Sophocles. Colonna in her interpretation of the beautiful Minuet and Saraband, suggests with considerable intelligence the tragedy of the sacrifice to the gods of the daughter of Agamemnon and Clytemnestra; but the business of the scene—in itself a clever representation of the Acropolis at Athens—was spoilt by anachronisms. It was on the actual spot depicted by this special scene—cleverly painted by Joseph Harker—that Colonna danced before the King of Greece and Court.

The Sands of Dee reaches its wonderful water catastrophe twice daily, and nothing quite so thrilling has been seen even at the Hippodrome, where Mr. Frank Parker has exercised more mechanical ingenuity in regard to stage effects in the course of a decade than was the case in the previous half-century. The roar of the engulfing waves, the rapid advance of the tide that threatens to immolate the heroine, strike the ordinary visitor with awe, and the great enthusiasm which breaks forth at the moment of her gallant rescue by her sailor lover has the genuine ring of exultation. Mr. J. H. Barnes, Miss Ruth Maitland, Mr. Lawson Butt, Mr. Norman Trevor, and Mr. Fred Wallace play better than ever.

Mr. Charles Aldrich delights the audience by his droll burlesque of juggling; the Four Holloways create a big sensation by their wire performance, Miss Holloway's bicycling tricks on the thin filament of steel being of unprecedented difficulty; and Princess Trixie is quite an accomplished performer in the three R's, with music as an additional accomplishment. Those popular Hippodrome humorists Alexandre and Hughes keep the house laughing; and we have eminent circus drolls in the Fratellini Brothers and the Brothers Albano. Kioto, Japanese equilibrist, stands on a loose pedestal of wooden bricks, changes his feet for his hands by skilful bending; Botello and Virginia are clever and smart aerial gymnasts; and Zeynard's Liliputian speciality and equestrian troupe submit a most interesting speciality. It is always a pleasure to meet Mr. Fred Trussell in front of the house here.

"Ice cream! Baked chestnuts!" is the title of an eccentric comedy topical duet for principal comedian and "dame" in pantomime which Messrs. Harrington and Powell are issuing the rights of, price £2 2s. per town. Already several of our leading comedians engaged in pantomime have secured the rights for their respective towns. The number opens up vast possibilities for the introduction of "business."

Messrs. John P. Harrington and Orlando Powell have just completed a "serenade" of more than ordinary charm for Miss Kitty Tims entitled "Where only the stars can hear," which the latter will produce for the first time at the Metropolitan on Monday.

"Fads and Fancies" is the title of a new song by John P. Harrington and Orlando Powell, in which the authors indulge in some sly digs at human foibles. This number will be "featured" at the Oxford on Monday next by stately Miss Alexandra Dagmar, who specially commissioned Messrs. Harrington and Powell to write the song for her.

RETURN OF CECILIA LOFTUS.

Unheralded by preliminary puff, Cissie Loftus (as she was then known) stepped on to the stage of the Oxford one Saturday matinée, and immediately became famous. How well does the writer remember the girl of fifteen in her simple white dress, with her light brown tresses au naturel, holding an immense house spellbound by the perfect naturalness of her imitations of the stars of the period. Her success was immediately noised abroad, and Mr. George Edwardes very soon secured her to play the part of Haydée. It was afterwards the privilege of the young actress to be chosen by Sir Henry Irving for the rôle of Marguerite in his last revival of Faust at the Lyceum; but in no character has she been seen to greater advantage than in that of Peter Pan at the Duke of York's.

After an absence of some eighteen months, Miss Loftus is to be seen again in St. Martin's-lane, this time at the Coliseum. With the development of her gifts by experience and observation, she is greater than ever as a mimic. There is subtler finesse, a more absolute certainty of touch, greater minuteness of detail. Cecilia is both serious and droll. Her passion seems very real when in the tones of Miss Ethel Irving as Lady Frederick she rates Lady Mereston for her persecution; and one laughs consumedly a minute or two later when one recognises Marie Dressler singing "A great big girl like me." Mr. Hayden Coffin is an old favourite; but Caruso is new. Herein are great vocal difficulties, which are surmounted with surprising success. The genuine cleverness of her facial play is conspicuous in her realisation of the American comedian, Mr. Bert Williams (the Jonah man of In Dahomey), playing a game of poker. An even more admirable example of her keen perception and exactitude is the singing, as Yvette Guilbert, of "The Keys of Heaven." Her Harry Lauder, too, is a great success. Miss Loftus has been received during the week by Coliseum audiences with acclamation, and Mr. Stoll may be congratulated on securing such an eminent actress to top his bill.

Other attractions at the Coliseum include the Arthur Lloyd Trio, in their drawing-room entertainment known as Little Charlie; or, The Twin Sisters. The family traditions are well sustained in this bright, clever, and capably-acted trifle. We have a Parisian sensation in the Apache dance of M. Volbert, a most agile performer, who is assisted by Mlle. Sylve; and in The Rogues of the Turf we get all the excitement of a five-act racing drama, with real thorough-breds, in the short space of half-an-hour. The great race for the Manchester Cup is positively thrilling. Early in the bill we find Les Frasettis—a lady fiddler and a gentleman harpist, and incidentally most skilful xylophonists, whose musical entertainment makes a hit. The tenor, Tom Child, sings exceedingly well, being heard to great advantage in "Take a pair of sparkling eyes," Sullivan's delightful tenor song from The Gondoliers, and in "Mary of Argyle."

Miss Madge Temple, that delightful artist, has made her reappearance at this house, and has once more proved that she deserves her reputation of being one of the smartest-dressed women on the stage. She wore a most becoming blue silk gown of the very latest Parisian design, and a handsome "matinée" hat. Her first number, "Come, be my rainbow," with "atmospheric" and "meteorological" effects, was rendered in most charming manner, the refrain being readily taken up by the audience. The other number, "Kissing," she gave with inimitable archness. She creates a sensation when, in answer to a call, she emerges from the wings in her wonderful 14ft. hat, with lovely feathers. Oh, what a surprise!

Other turns include Horace and Olga's interesting troupe of toy terriers and cats; Wright and Lawson, a couple of curiosities; Odette Valery, in her "Salome" and "Cleopatra" dances; and "Visions of Wagner," produced by Charles Wilson, illustrative of the stories of Lohengrin and Tannhäuser. The Bioscope is also an attraction. Mr. Dundas Slater, the popular manager here, is rejoicing in crowded and delighted audiences. The Coliseum has established a high reputation, and it is evident that it has its special clientèle of patrons, who are not exactly what may be called music hall frequenters.

Messrs. John P. Harrington and Orlando Powell are responsible for Mr. Jock Whiteford's song-scena, "Mary, ma Hieland Fairy," which the popular Scotch comedian produced for the first time at the Hippodrome, Birmingham, with the most gratifying results.

Teachers of music who have hailed as veritable godsends the scholarly works of Mr. J. Simpson, whose books on "Irregular Scale Practice" and "Scale and Arpeggio Manuals" for the pianoforte, have been hallmarked by the approval of Sir Geo. Martin, the late Walter Macfarren, and Dr. E. H. Turpin, will be glad to learn that the publishers of the foregoing manuals, Messrs. Francis and Day, are issuing two more works from the same pen, forming Nos. 7 and 8 of the "High School Editions"—to wit, "Simpson's Violin Scale and Arpeggio Manual" and "Simpson's High School Pianoforte Tutor."

"PAQUITA."

Romantic Ballet, Arranged and Produced by Signor Alfredo Curti, Music by George W. Byng, Costumes by Alias from designs by Comelli, Scenery by E. H. Ryan. Presented under the Personal Direction of Alfred Moul at the Alhambra, on Monday, Oct. 12.

Prince Philip	Miss Julia Seale
Don Gomez de Sylva	Signor G. Rosi
Duke of Alcala	Signor Santini
Roderigo Perez	Mr. Tom Coventry
Piquilo	Mr. G. Almonti
Pedro	Signor Frielli
Concita, Inez	Mlle. Jacqueline Blaney
Manolita	Miss L. Bryant
Paquita	Mlle. Britta

A sensuous and beautiful spectacle, with the picturesque environment, the warmth of atmosphere, the rich colouring, and the passion demanded of a romantic ballet which has its genesis in the immediate neighbourhood of the Moorish Alhambra! This is our verdict on Paquita. Mr. Alfred Moul has certainly done well in presenting, amid such magnificent surroundings, such an intelligible story—which reminds one so strongly of the libretto of Maritana—and he has done even better in entrusting the principal part to a young artist so well equipped as Mlle. Britta, who has the advantages of a most attractive personality, and is still in her teens. On Monday evening she began most auspiciously a brilliant career at the famous ballet house, and at once established herself a favourite.

We may briefly sketch the scenario of the new ballet. Paquita's lover, the impecunious Don Gomez, is imprisoned and threatened with death on account of his share in a duel which he fights in defence of the gipsy girl, who determines to rescue him. She comes with the gipsy chief, disguised as a monk, and the rest is quite easy. The chief, on behalf of his companions, proposes that Paquita shall marry the man who has been ready to lay down his life for her, and she joyfully consents. The wedding then and there takes place, with the gipsy rite of breaking a jar. Don Gomez then departs by the window of the prison, leaving his newly-made bride behind. Paquita can, however, take care of herself, and when the Duke Alcala forces his odious attentions upon her she draws a dagger and threatens to kill herself. She is then taken away by two guards.

In the next scene, the Ambassadors' Hall at the Alhambra, Mr. E. H. Ryan has painted a Moorish interior of great splendour, and herein the gaiety of the beautifully-dressed throng, the magnificent proportions of the architecture, and the brilliance of the decorations make up a mise-en-scène of glittering beauty. La Fête Galante, a superb series of dances, employs the whole corps de ballet. In a fan and veil dance we see coryphées daintily clad in pink; in a garland dance a rich tone of green feasts the eye; and in the dance of Bacchanals gold is the prevailing colour. The story continues with the entry of Paquita, whose position as captive excites the pity of Prince Philip, who asks her to dance. His favourite, Inez, jealous of the gipsy girl, insists that Paquita shall dance undraped, but such an indignity is prevented by the Prince, who makes an avowal of his passion; but eventually Don Gomez is granted his freedom, and the newly-wedded pair are reunited.

Of the new dancer we have already spoken. We may, however, add that while there was apparently no desire to overload her with responsibilities, she admirably realised them. In the second scene she showed considerable command of passion in her miming, and the dance in the final scene completed her conquest. She reminds one at times of her gifted countrywoman Genée. Julia Seale expressed with perfect art the admiration of Prince Philip for the heroine and his chagrin at his rebuff; Mlle. Jacqueline Blaney made an attractive Inez; Signor G. Rosi sang a tuneful serenade as Don Gomez; Signor Frielli was a passionate Pedro; and Mr. Tom Coventry, Mr. G. Almonti, and Signor Santini played other parts with all the significance demanded, Miss L. Bryant completing the cast of principals as Manolita.

Mr. George W. Byng's music is throughout bright, engaging, and full of melody. The farandole and the mazurka by the muleteers in the first scene are happy examples of inspiring dance measures; and the ear is again captured by the series of dances in the last scene, which we have endeavoured to describe. The conclusion of the ballet was marked by great enthusiasm, and principals and everybody concerned were called and recalled. Paquita should be exercising her fascinations at the Alhambra for months to come.

Mr. Harry Marlow, author-composer of "Bayon," so popular in most of last year's pantomimes, has supplied the Monte Carlo Publishing Co. with a new number for the forthcoming pantomime season. The title is "Gretna Green," and the song (the words of which are by Mr. Andrew N. Allen) recounts in diverting fashion the adventures of a young cavalier and his "ladye love." "Gretna Green" should certainly be a song for principal boys in all our Christmas "annuals" this year.

V.A.F. AND AGENTS.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting of the V.A.F., held at the Bedford Head Hotel, a vote of continued confidence and support in the executive committee was passed unanimously. The proceedings were not open to the Press.

There is scarcely anything to report in connection with the above dispute. The boycotted agents are pursuing a policy of masterly inactivity, and the situation is practically the same as it was a week ago. Mr. Joe O'Gorman has been selected to superintend the newly-established Water Rats Agency, and the General Secretary of the V.A.F. has sent out the following circular to every music hall manager in the country:—

Dear Sir,—

Re THE AGENCY DISPUTE.

In order that you and your patrons may not suffer any inconvenience in completing your programmes owing to the boycott of the agents by our members, we have made arrangements whereby we can put you into immediate communication with any artiste whose services you desire.

Our members have supplied us with a full list of bookings, together with their absolutely lowest terms, and you can rest assured your requirements—more especially as regards the barring clause—will receive our immediate attention.

As we are not charging our members for the services rendered, the sincerity of our motive cannot possibly be misconstrued.—Yours faithfully,

Monte Bayly,
General Secretary.

In view of the knotty question whether deducted commission is equitably assignable, the following letter from Mr. Oswald Stoll to an artist who wrote suggesting to that gentleman that the agent should be dispensed with is interesting:—

Oct. 2, 1908.

Dear Sir,—I have your letter of yesterday's date, intimating that, in view of the dispute between the Variety Artists' Federation and the agents, you would prefer to do business direct instead of through your agent, Mr. George Peel.

In arriving at your salary for this week, we took into account the fact that you were paying your agent 10 per cent. We are quite agreeable to meet your wishes by doing business direct on your making this reduction on your salary.—Yours faithfully, p. Oswald Stoll, A.Y.

AGENTS' PROTEST.

To the Editor of The Era.

Sir,—Our attention has been called to the following statement in the Performer of the 8th inst., that "it was made clear that people who made engagements for the Continent, such as Marinelli, &c., were in the habit of charging 15 to 20 per cent." This statement, as far as we are concerned, is wholly devoid of the truth, and as there is no justification for it, we should be glad if you will contradict it in the next issue of your widely-read journal.—Yours faithfully,

E. Wollheim
(p. H. B. Marinelli, Ltd.)

To the Editor of The Era.

Sir,—In the issue of the Performer of the 8th inst. there was published a report of a speech made at the V.A.F. meeting held on the 2nd inst., by Mr. O'Gorman, in which he named this firm as having charged clients 15 per cent. commission.

We ask the hospitality of your columns to most emphatically contradict such wanton and irresponsible assertions. In no single instance since our firm's existence have we ever charged any one artist or troupe of artists more than the recognised commission of 10 per cent.

Our books are periodically audited by Messrs. Baker, Sutton, and Co., chartered accountants, of Eldon-street House, E.C., who can vouch for the accuracy of our statement. Thanking you in anticipation for the insertion of our reply to Mr. O'Gorman's baseless charges,—We are, sir, yours faithfully, Somers and Warner.

Jean Macduff, the Scotch male impersonator, is meeting with much success on her first appearance at the Opera House, Workington. Mr. Herbert Melville, her manager, has under consideration several London offers.

Owing to the sudden indisposition of Miss Clara Alexander on Thursday evening, Mr. Walter Macnamara went on at a moment's notice and worked his clever skit, The Member for Bunkham, with such success that it has been retained on the bill for the remainder of the week.

Such is the vogue of open-air entertainers by the seaside that already in our columns managers and town clerks are inviting offers for the season 1909. The Corporation of Sunderland is betimes with an announcement asking for tenders for the use of the pierrot enclosure, adjoining the Holey Rock, Lower Promenade, Roker, Sunderland, for next summer. Offers are to be delivered at the offices of Mr. F. M. Bowey, town clerk, Sunderland.

Pantomime is growing near, at least as regards songs. Managers, producers, and artists are alike eager to find the one thing essential for pantomime—the popular song. Mr. Fred Elton is this week exploiting his one hundred-guinea song, "When the leaves are tinged with gold," at the Canterbury and Duchess, Balham, and, if we may judge by its reception it bids fair to be most popular. It has already been secured by several of our leading pantomime producers. It will be issued by the National Publishing Co., 132, Charing Cross-road. The author is Mr. J. F. Lambe, whose "Queen of Old Samara" has become world famous.

Five of Mr. J. F. Lambe's most successful songs are being sung in London this week—"Jessie, the flower of Inverness," by Miss Annie Purcell at the Bedford, published by Price and Reynolds; "When the berry is on the holly," by Miss Ethel Arundell at the Standard, published by Francis and Day; "Maggie Schneider" (Francis and Day), and "Oh, Salome," by Miss Jessie Preston at the Empress, Brixton; and Mr. Fred Elton's one hundred-guinea song, "When the leaves are tinged with gold," at the Canterbury and the Duchess, Balham. The author-composer of "Queen of Old Samara" ought to be a happy man.

The question of the local band stand was again considered at a meeting of the Clacton Traders' Association on Monday night. A Councillor proposed the following resolution:—"That the Clacton Traders' Association views with some anxiety the proposed alteration in the arrangements on the band stand, and urges the Clacton Urban District Council to on no account dispense with the military bands, as in the Association's opinion the benefit to the whole town of having a high-class entertainment at the most prominent spot in the town far outweighs any pecuniary advantage which might be gained by letting to a contractor." Another Councillor explained that they had £300 for the letting of chairs, &c., on the beach—which was all included in the band stand accounts; they had had bona-fide offers of £200 for the band stand; there was the £200 which they had dropped, and there was about £100 paid in the way of rates, &c., in respect of the band stand, which was charged to the greensward account. That made the £800, which was equal to a 4d. rate. The matter was discussed at length; and there was evidently a strong feeling against the alteration.

"OH! OH! ANTONIO!"

Miss FLORRIE FORDE'S LATEST SENSATION.

Will be the rage of the coming pantomimes. Principal Boys and Girls should secure this at once.

OH! OH! ANTONIO!

A COMEDIAN'S TRAVELS.

Mr. Harry Phydora, writing from St. Paul Hotel, West 60th Street, New York, where he is having a look round, says:—"Of course, never having been by another route, I don't know, but I should think the one I took—via Canada—the best. You have only four days open sea, and if you are lucky, as I was, you meet with experiences that you never could meet with by other routes. I sailed from Liverpool September 10th, had a good passage, and on the 15th just before we sighted Belle Island, I saw my first iceberg. The doctor estimated it at 200ft. high and a couple of miles distant, which, of course, at sea would appear very near, and a good two-thirds of it seemed to be under water. You can easily imagine what a huge floating mass of ice it was, shaped exactly like an island, with a lighthouse one end, then a few hillocks rising gradually to the full height and looking like a huge cliff, and then again gradually descending to the sea. Across the Gulf of St. Lawrence good weather, and a lovely run up the St. Lawrence River, though the river is too wide to see the beauty of its banks at their best. On our arrival at Quebec at 1 p.m. on Thursday, 17th, we visited the historic Plains of Abraham, whereGenerals Wolfe and Montcalm were both killed, and should have sailed at 10 p.m., but the smoke from forest fires up-country was so dense on the river we could not start. Next morning it was no better, so took the car to Montmorency Falls—only a few cents' ride, and one of the most beautiful sights one could wish to see. The falls are 100ft. higher than Niagara, and mark the end of 'he Montmorency river. Though the volume of water is not nearly so great as Niagara, still the falls are a sight to quite fill the eye. At half-past ten p.m. on Friday, 18th, the strong wind which sprung up cleared away the smoke, and we were under way by eleven, arriving at Montreal at nine on Saturday morning, just missing our connection for New York.

We stayed the day and night in Montreal, and left at half-past eight Sunday morning; and, after a tiring train journey, arrived at New York at three a.m. Monday. Over Brooklyn Bridge to Coney Island, and, once there, you have all the fun of the fair in abundance. Each side of a fairly wide street, about a hundred yards from, and running parallel with, the sea is lined with all sorts of attractions of a holiday nature. The switchback in every variety—here called the rocky road to Dublin, there looping the loop, and, again, the Devil's Highway, and so on. Then the semi-music halls, where you pay for a drink, and a continuous cinematograph is being displayed; or at another a half dozen or more girls sit in a semicircle on a stage, and take it in turns to get up and sing a song or perform a skirt dance. Then every few yards a restaurant or café of every nationality under the sun, where you can dine à la France, Germany, Italy, Chinee, Greek, American, or English for a very moderate sum, from 50 cents to a dollar, as per the advertisements outside. What it may cost you before leaving the inside is something I would not care to guess at.

There is one show, or, rather, a combination of shows, that is real good fun, and worth all the money easy, and that is the Steeplechase Enclosure. There are twenty-five different items, all labelled from 5 cents each, but you can buy a combination ticket for a quarter (25 cents), and have a shot at all of them; but to be there and watch the others try them is worth the visit. As you enter you hear shrieks and screams from every quarter, and whilst you are trying to collect yourself, and though there was not a breath of air stirring when you entered, you find yourself suddenly hatless from a regular tornado of cold wind, which a little dwarf-like man has turned on you from a huge funnel. As you are not the only hatless one, you can afford to laugh with the rest, and start to share in the fun of the "eccentric stairs," the "Lion and Mouse," a maze made of wire, through which you can watch the people inside trying to get out or go in, and make an effort yourself. Then there are several varieties of the Alpine slide. The one where you sit on a mat and get thrown off at the finish after a few very "busy" turns. A novelty to me was the "Human Niagara." On an incline there are about thirty rollers, which just clear each other, covered with different-coloured plush, and, four-abreast from a slippery platform at the top, you descend, your own weight causing the rollers to pass you from one to the other with a little "bump" between each pass, until you reach the bottom. There is a giant see-saw, which is exactly like the Flip-Flap in appearance, only about one-third the size, and it see-saws in the air, instead of going right over.

RE "BROTHERLY LOVE."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I notice in your contemporary The Performer of Oct. 8 a letter from Mr. Walter Gibbons on the prohibitive attitude certain West-end managers threaten to adopt as far as the engagement of star artists by the outlying two-houses-a-night variety palaces is concerned.

As a ci-devant manager, and, I may say, successful pilot into London of the double-house system, I feel that a few words on the disastrous effect of syndicate monopoly, as experienced by me during the latter part of my régime at Sadler's Wells Theatre, may be of interest.

I opened Sadler's Wells with instant and striking financial success, but lo! the eye of the imitator was upon me, and I soon after felt the touch of strong opposition, and discovered that it was not to be man-to-man fights, but a keen contest on my part against the overwhelming force of powerful managerial allies, for the two-houses-a-night establishment which opened within a stone's throw of my own began slowly but surely to attract the patrons who had been so ready to recognise my initial efforts for their entertainment. I looked for the reason, and found that I was losing ground, not through the superior generalship of my opponents, but through the strategic movements of the power behind the throne, in the person of a music-hall syndicate magnate, who was controlling quite a circuit of halls, and made emphatic points, apparently, of boycotting my one establishment in contracts which debarred star artists and attractions from appearing with me.

I readily realised my inability to battle single-handed with a Hydra, and, preferring discretion to valour, I retired diplomatically, though not yet vanquished, from the field.

It cannot be wondered at, therefore, that those managers who now apprehend aggressive evolutions on the part of my former opponent, who admittedly operated with powerful support for nearly seven years, should take protective measures against the annexation of their special artists, and seek sanctuary in the brilliance of such stars whose course they are still able to rule. Self-preservation is the first law of life, and is only human nature after all.—I remain, yours faithfully, GEORGE E. BELMONT.

Cambridge Circus, W., Oct. 15.

TWO GILMORES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Owing to the impression prevailing among a number of artists that I am the Mr. Gilmore who was recently injuncted by Little Tich, I wish most emphatically to state that such is not the case, as the reports of the action will show. I hope you will find space for this letter.—Yours faithfully, ROBB GILMORE.

Chelsea Palace, Oct. 14.

FUNERAL OF MR. HARRY LESTER.

The funeral of Mr. Harry Lester (Isaac Snape), who committed suicide on the 6th inst., took place on Tuesday afternoon. The cortège, consisting of a car containing the coffin and covered with wreaths, and ten mourning coaches, left the residence of the deceased at 16, Kennington-road, at a quarter to one, and arrived at Lambeth Cemetery, Tooting, at 2.20.

The principal mourners, who occupied the first three carriages, were Mrs. Lester (widow), Mr. Snape (father), Mr. Snape, jun. (brother), a sister and daughter of the deceased, Mr. D. White, "Ma" Dixon, and Mr. Salt, the last-mentioned having been an old schoolmate of Harry Lester. These were followed by five coaches, in which were members of the Terriers' Association, namely, Mr. Jesse Sparrow (president), Mr. Burgess (solicitor), Mr. C. Pratt, Mr. B. Whiteley, Mr. Atlas (of Atlas and Vulcana), Mr. Dalmaine, Mr. F. Neimann, Mr. S. Salter—the foregoing eight gentlemen acted as pall-bearers—Mr. Johnnie Alexander, Mr. B. Bent, Mr. Bassett, Mr. Pearson, Mr. P. Ford, Mr. B. Woodger, Mr. Dome, Mr. Johnny Gilmour, Mr. Maddon, Mr. Kato, Mr. Cliffe, Mr. Henderson, Mr. Box, Mr. Lang, Mr. Monkley, Mr. Dalton, Mr. Dodson, Mr. R. Whiteley, Mr. Woodrow, Mr. Kohler, Mr. C. Cornish, Mr. Traynor, and Mr. Jos. Gardiner. The M.H.A.R.A. was represented by Mr. Harry Blake, Mr. C. D. Stuart, Mr. Horace Wheatley, and Mr. T. C. Callaghan, whilst a contingent of the Water Rats included Mr. Joe Elvin, Mr. Jack Lotto, Mr. Alfred Martinetti, Mr. James Howard, Mr. Jeff Vendome, and Mr. Reed Pinaud.

The Cemetery Chaplain officiated both at the service in the chapel and at the graveside. The coffin, which was of polished oak, with brass mountings, bore the following inscription:—

ISAAC SNAPE
(Harry Lester),
Died 6th Oct., 1908.
Aged 48 years.

Amongst other people who were present at the interment were Mr. McCarthy, the deceased's medical adviser, and Mr. George Sinclair, the well-known agent, who had to be wheeled to the cemetery in his chair.

A number of beautiful wreaths were sent. The widow's floral tribute was in the form of a heart resting on an easel, bearing the simple, but expressive, words, "My Harry." Other wreaths came from the father, brother, sister, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Larola, Camberwell Terriers, Brother Terriers, Mr. Billy Downs, Mr. Douglas White, Mr. Angelo Asher, Mr. and Mrs. Stockton, Mr. and Mrs. Newton (Bradford), "Lottie," Mr. and Mrs. Wright and Charlie, Mr. Walter Hawkins, Fred and Prissie Millis, "Lizzie and Rose," Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner, Mr. J. Sparrow, Mr. and Mrs. Neiman, Mr. Alfred Borelli, the Grand Order of Water Rats, Master Hairdressers' Association (Lambeth Branch), M.H.A.R.A., Mr. and Mrs. Wal Pink, Mr. and Mrs. Skipper, Mr. Dan Kirton, Miss Marie Seaton, Mr. and Mrs. Kellerman, Atlas and Vulcana, Mr. and Mrs. Papa Brown, Mr. S. N. Salter, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle, Mr. George Aytoun, Mr. G. Sinclair, Mrs. H. E. Ebden, Harry and Flora Blake, Mr. J. Lotto, Sam Stream and Marie Sefton, Mr. W. Salter, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Merrie, Mr. Walter Norman, Mr. Alf. Aubyn, Mr. Tom Blandon, Mr. Ted E. Box, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt, "Mary and Harry," Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Stuart, Mr. Hill, Miss Soper, Newman Family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zola, and "Ma" Dixon.

The funeral arrangements were conducted by Mr Theophilus Dunkley and his son, Mr W. R. Dunkley.

Mrs. Harry Lester and her daughter have been the recipients of much sympathy in their sad bereavement. The following letters express the deep sense of sorrow felt by the Terriers Fraternity in the loss of their brother and secretary:—

"The Meet,"
Dover Castle Hotel,
Sunday, Oct. 11, 1908.

Dear Mrs. Lester,—I am directed by the members of the Terriers' Association, in open meet, to express to you and your daughter their deep feeling of regret and sympathy at the sad loss you have both sustained in the lamented death of your husband Harry Lester, our esteemed and valued brother Terrier and colleague. Trusting you may find consolation in your bereavement in the reflection that he did his duty in this world nobly and honourably,—Yours sincerely,

Harry Gage.

The Three Stags' Committee Room,
Kennington-road,
Oct. 12, 1908.

Dear Mrs. Lester,—I am desired by the Committee of the Terriers' Association to convey to you and your daughter their deep sympathy at the irreparable loss you have both sustained in the lamented death of your husband, a loss which they share, appreciating as they do the zealous and exemplary manner in which he discharged his duties as secretary of the Association.—I am, dear madam, yours truly,

Harry Gage.

CANONBURY TOWER CLUB'S CONCERT.

Alderman G. S. Elliott, the Mayor of Islington, who was accompanied by the Mayoress, occupied the chair at a dinner and concert given by the Canonbury Tower Club at King Edward's Hall, Canonbury Tower, on Saturday evening. Colonel Dance, the warden, was the vice-chairman, and the company of ladies and gentlemen numbered nearly one hundred. The musical programme, which had been arranged by the Entertainment Committee, gave complete satisfaction. One of the most successful items was the laughable sketch by Cayley Calvert entitled A Little Dinner, the three characters in which were admirably played by Mr. and Mrs. Roland Henry and Mr. Arthur Court. Mr. Henry in the part of the jealous waiter was highly amusing, and he had excellent support from the lady and gentleman already mentioned. Later in the evening Mr. Roland Henry again scored with his very clever character sketch of a loafer addressing a crowd of workingmen. Mr. A. McKelvin succeeded in keeping the audience amused by his humorous description of "The wedding of Sandy McNab" and "The Talkalogue" was another contribution by the same artist that was well received. Mr. A. C. Chapman in his musical sketches at the piano, "When Richard the First Sat on the Throne" and "Tom, the Piper's Son," made a hit; and Mr. George McDonald introduced his "merry marionette"—a figure that was cleverly voiced and worked—with marked success. Miss Elmes gave an admirable rendering of Tosti's "Good-bye"; and Miss Ross sang in pleasing style "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "A summer's night." Miss Kohler was applauded for her artistic rendering of "My dear soul." Mr. J. H. Ross had a good reception for his comic ditties "Who?" and "You." Mr. Gordon-Meager, who possesses a fine baritone voice, did justice to "The Storm King" and "Bandolero." Mr. Wm. Meadows was a most efficient accompanist at the piano; and Mr. Will Clinch carried out the duties of stage-manager with his usual energy and to the complete satisfaction of all concerned.

The pictures this week at the New Hippodrome, Barrow-in-Furness, are quite up to the usual excellent standard and drawing capital houses. Mr. W. G. Quirk (baritone) renders several good songs during the evening.

THE STEREOMATOS.

A NEW THEATRICAL AND PANTOMIME EFFECT.

The Stereomatos, which forms one of the most interesting and attractive entertainment features at the Franco-British Exhibition, is likely to prove of considerable assistance to the producers of pantomimes, who have hitherto experienced difficulty in being able to present on the stage "properties" of figures of huge dimensions. Technically, the Stereomatos may be described as a scientific optical machine, which projects stereoscopically upon a properly-prepared sheet to any desired enlargement, free from all vibration, any solid substance, animate or inanimate. Thus with the aid of this invention can be shown, as if in a magnified form, human beings, animals, flowers, statuary—in fact, any and everything, with absolute fidelity to life and nature, and with all the natural colours and shadings of colour.

How valuable such an apparatus would be to the pantomime producer will be readily understood, for by its use any object or person can be enlarged enormously. For instance, comparatively small things can be given the appearance of great size, a Lilliputian can be transformed in a Brobdingnagian, and it seems to us that the possibilities of this machine in the direction we have indicated are practically unlimited.

To give an idea of these possibilities, it might be well to describe what is being done by the Stereomatos at the White City. The programme opens with the exhibition of an Ingersoll watch of such huge dimensions that one can scarcely believe in the possibility of being able to place it in the waistcoat pocket. But it is nothing more than an ordinary "ticker" enlarged to eighteen times its actual size. Then we see a bunch of flowers—asters, chrysanthemums, and others—increased almost to the bulk of sunflowers, the colours being retained in all their natural perpectness. So, in similar manner, a tank of goldfish is brought before the gaze of the astonished spectator, who finds that the sparkling little denizens of our ponds have assumed the physical proportions of mackerel! A pretty little twelve-inch statue of the "Fairy of the Sea" is extended, in exquisite bodily proportions, to six feet; and a common dinner-plate is made large enough for a score of men to stand upon. A man in a recumbent position is drawn before the screen, feet foremost. He is only really of average size and height, yet by the time he has passed the screen he has been lengthened to two hundred feet, and broadened in proportion. The sight of him would be enough to cause the Irish giant of revered memory to blush with envy, if only he could be resurrected to witness so great a miracle!

Mr. W. Vaughan Neale, the inventor, who has charge of the Stereomatos—Stéréomatos Française, to bestow upon it the full dignity of its title—at the Exhibition, holds out high hopes of the uses to which it may be put in future theatrical productions. He is of the opinion that the apparatus would be of particular advantage in the representation of scenes under the sea, as small "properties" designed to play the parts of crocodiles, sea serpents, &c., can be given an aspect of truly awe-inspiring physical greatness. No doubt more than one pantomime manager will take the Stereomatos into his employment during the forthcoming season. Mr. Neale, by the way, is well known for his "flying specialities," especially in connection with Mr. Tree's production of A Midsummer Night's Dream at His Majesty's Theatre. In this direction Mr. Neale's latest novelty is "walking in the air," a comic act for comedians, introduced for the first time during last season's pantomime at the Theatre Royal, Manchester. Mr. Neale, who was born in Piræus, near Athens, is a son of the late W. B. Neale, H.B.M. Consul-General for Continental Greece. His grandfather was Judge Neale, of Madras. The inventor of the Stereomatos was intended for the Diplomatic Service, but in consequence of the death of his father he commenced a business life in the offices of Sir Charles Tennant. The late Lady Henry Gordon-Lennox was his aunt. Mr. Neale's permanent address is the Vaudeville Club.

MR. HENRY CARLTON AND AMATEURS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—It has come to my knowledge that certain persons have been writing to managers to the effect that I have taken an amateur lady into my company. This is absolutely false. I never have done in the past, neither do I intend in the future to employ amateurs.

All the parts in my little comedies are played by first-class, competent, and experienced artists only, and any proprietor who engages me can rely upon a good reliable show.

I should esteem it a very great favour if you would publish this letter fully in The Era, as such libellous and false reports are likely to prove detrimental to my business reputation. Thanking you in anticipation,—Yours faithfully,

HENRY CARLTON.

A MATTER OF YEARS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA

Sir,—In your criticism of Pigs in Clover you state: "Miss Buena Bent, whom Mr. Lawson may be said to have discovered some years ago, thoroughly proves the wisdom of his choice," &c. I might point out that my first engagement with Mr. Lawson was made some sixteen months ago, the contract being for twelve months with an option. You will therefore see that my engagement is not yet two years old.—Yours faithfully,

BUENA BENT.

MISS CECILIA LOFTUS

COLISEUM THEATRE, LONDON.

PRESS OPINIONS.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.
THE COLISEUM.

A warm welcome was given to Miss Cecilia Loftus on her reappearance yesterday afternoon as the chief "star" in the Coliseum's bill. It is a long time since the London public has seen Miss Loftus in the character of a mimic, and what she did yesterday can have left her audience in no doubt as to her having preserved those qualities which won for her so large a measure of popularity when she first made display of her powers. Miss Loftus's touch is as sure, and her methods as quiet and unforced, as was the case formerly, and, as in the years gone by, she is too conscientious an artist to exaggerate unduly the mannerisms of the performers whom she elects to imitate. Indeed, in much that she accomplished yesterday, she made her chief effects by the art of faithful mimicry rather than of parody. Two of her "impersonations," notably, stood out from the rest in this connection. That, in the first instance, of Harry Lauder singing "I love a lassie," in which the Scottish comedian's every look, gesture, and accent were reproduced with deft fidelity, and, in the second, the portrayal of "Lady Frederick" in imitation of Miss Ethel Irving. The scene chosen was the melodramatic one of the compromising letter, and there is no questioning the skill with which the mimic echoed, as it were, the tones of the original, and gave her audience a vivid counterfeit of a clever actress in one of her most telling moods. Long ago Miss Loftus showed us how aptly she could "hit off" the mannerisms of Mr. Hayden Coffin, but yesterday she seemed anxious to impress upon her hearers the fact that Mr. Coffin's mannerisms are far less pronounced now than they used to be, and so this particular "impression" perhaps just missed fire. On the other hand, the touch of caricature was not to seek in Miss Loftus's delivery of "The Keys of Heaven," à la Yvette Guilbert—an admirable example of the mimic's powers of observation and refined sense of humour. Miss Loftus can do wonders with her voice, and can reproduce with remarkable fidelity the tones of a variety of artists of both sexes. Miss Loftus's performance calls for nothing but praise, and the Coliseum audience said so in no hesitating terms

WILLIAM MARION REEDY IN ST. LOUIS MIRROR.

CECILIA LOFTUS.

There are more mimics and imitators on the stage now than could be accommodated in Madison-square, New York, if a convention of them were brought together. But there's only one Cecilia Loftus—the Cissy that was. Why is she greater than all those who have followed her? Because she is a woman of genius. She is an actress. She can write, and draw, and sing. She has played in juxtaposition with artists like Irving and Sothern. She has given a wonderful performance as "the serio-comic governess." She comes as come all the great actors and actresses—she was, as the saying is, born on the stage. There is grease paint in her blood. Perverse managers will have her in her imitations. The public will have her, too, in work which, while the best of its kind, is but the merest by-play of her gifts. No obiter dictum, this. This town was charmed and thrilled by her acting in a series of plays at Suburban Garden last summer.

But her imitations have a quality all their own. They are simple, yet they are subtle. They are truthful copies of originals, yet at the same time not only criticisms of the originals, but at times bold interpretations of her own. We remember her imitation of Mme. Nazimova as Ibsen's Nora. It has the merit of a creation and it clutches the hearer. When she touches her imitation with caricature she does it kindly, as in the case of Ethel Barrymore. When she imitates Vesta Victoria it is with the introduction into the song of a finer, more silken fibre in the work. And all she does is done with her individual contribution to the part mimicked of a truer sense of artistic values and a delicious modesty of method. There is no sense of effort conveyed to the spectator or auditor. She gives to what she does an air, a grace, something ethereal. There is no woman on the stage so much mistress of naïvété. Her work and herself have a distinction that is stranger to the vaudeville stage. She has an atmosphere that glamours her acting, a personality that touches what might easily fall close to coarseness to finer issues. To see her in vaudeville is like coming upon a daintily strong etching among a lot of chromos, or to catch a strain of Schubert or Schumann after a crash of ragtime, or to come upon a piece of Sèvres in a cupboard of ham and china ware.

Miss Loftus is an actress of finesse and of keen percipiency of character. She makes of her imitations more than mimicry. They are not only replicas of the actors and actresses imitated, but condensed revelations of the characters in which the actors imitated have appeared. She is no mere surface-skimmer. She goes deeper than those she imitates, and shows the dissonance between the actors and the parts they essay. She does it without prejudice. She does it with an enchanting demureness, with suppressed self-consciousness, with a soft virginal air of ingenuousness and girlishness of grace which are of the things of pure delight that never can grow old.

THE STANDARD.

MISS LOFTUS AT THE COLISEUM.

To a programme already loaded with good things another attractive feature has been added at the Coliseum, namely, Miss Cecilia Loftus, in some of her clever impersonations. This versatile young comedienne's girlish grace and liquid voice are sufficient to charm, apart from her great gifts of mimicry.

Obviously suffering from "nerves," Miss Loftus did not succeed in bringing the personality of Mr. Hayden Coffin very forcibly before one in her opening impersonation, but that of Yvette Guilbert was most laughable, if somewhat of a travesty. Harry Lauder, of course, was brilliant; the house was delighted with the exceedingly vivid pictures of Bert Williams, America's leading comedian. To those, however, who are familiar with Lady Frederick, Miss "Cissy" Loftus's study of Miss Ethel Irving in the letter scene was the triumph of the performance. Miss Loftus was loudly recalled, and several "extras" had to be given.

DAILY MAIL.

After a long absence in America, Miss Cissie Loftus reappeared in London yesterday, at the Coliseum. Her faculty for imitation has lost none of its power. Some of her impressions of stage "stars" were sufficiently close to life to make the listener imagine that the artist imitated, and not the imitator, was speaking or singing.

THE TIMES.
THE COLISEUM.

The list of performers at the Coliseum, which already included many well-known names, was much strengthened yesterday by the appearance of Miss Cecilia Loftus, who has been away from the London stage so long as to be almost a stranger.

She does not, however, appear to be a day older than when she was last seen at the Duke of York's. Her voice is just as wonderful, and her imitations of actors and actresses are even cleverer than they used to be. Hayden Coffin, Yvette Guilbert, Harry Lauder, Caruso, Bert Williams, Marie Dressler, and Ethel Irving were the public favourites whom she had chosen as the subjects of her imitations on her reappearance; and they were all so good that it is difficult to pick out any one of them as specially excellent. Perhaps the cleverest bit of acting which she gave was the imitation of Mr. Bert Williams dealing a hand at poker, the facial play in this little bit of dumb-show being extraordinarily vivid and illuminating. It is wonderful how she contrives to mimic not only the more obvious little tricks and peculiarities of each of her victims, but also the varying timbres and intonations of their several voices. To represent the quiet little swagger of Harry Lauder's walk, or the hand-action of Marie Dressler, or the mannerisms of Mr. Hayden Coffin as well as Miss Loftus does is in itself a feat of which no professed mimic need feel ashamed. But, of course, to this she adds the power of making her voice exactly reproduce the particular inflections and compass which belong to each of them. Her Caruso is absolutely different to her Harry Lauder or her Hayden Coffin, and the distinction between her Marie Dressler and her Ethel Irving, both of them admirable impersonations, is just as marked. Practically she relies entirely on her voice and her slight and never exaggerated gesticulations to carry her through, without any elaboration in the way of make-up. And, above all, her personal charm is just as magnetic as ever. In fact, her performance is so delightful that it is sure to be very popular.

MORNING LEADER.
CISSIE LOFTUS'S RETURN.

There are many clever mimetic actresses on the stage; but there is only one Cissie Loftus. Cissie—or "Miss Cecilia," as she is called, for she is now quite grown up—made her appearance at the Coliseum yesterday; and the enthusiastic welcome that she received was proof that London has an affectionate memory for its old friends.

In appearance she is just as much a child as ever—a tall child, with a wonderfully expressive and mobile face, with her long hair hanging down her back, and a plain white silk dress that takes from her years instead of adding to them.

In her imitations, too, she is just the same Cissie Loftus. Her art, however, has gained in breadth; her characters are more robust, and, if anything, her impersonations are more realistic than they used to be. Her répertoire is quite up to date; and Lauder, Miss Ethel Irving, and Miss Marie Dressler are amongst her new imitations.

MORNING POST.
LONDON COLISEUM.

Ten years ago the two perfect products of our theatre were the imitations of Miss Cissie Loftus and the song impersonations of Mr. Albert Chevalier. Miss Loftus, who has returned to the variety stage after too long an absence, yesterday showed at the London Coliseum that she has lost none of her exquisite art, that her observation is as searching, her critical faculty as keen, and her sense of humour as constant and unfailing as ever. Of the English artists she was wont to make fun of in the old days only Mr. Hayden Coffin remains effective. Miss Letty Lind, Miss Connie Ediss, and Miss Edna May—to mention but a few—are already no more seen, and Miss Marie Tempest is seen only in comedy. Others have come to the fore, as, for instance, Miss Lily Elsie, Mr. Harry Lauder, and Miss Ethel Irving, and Miss Loftus deals faithfully with them all. An artist of Miss Irving's ability must be very hard to score off, and Miss Loftus's imitation of Miss Irving is much "straighter" than are most of her others. She selects one of Lady Frederick's passionate outbursts, and, while closely reproducing Miss Irving's tones and gestures, really rouses the audience to a sense of Lady Frederick's wrongs. Of non-British artists Miss Loftus gives delicious accounts of Madame Bernhardt, Signor Caruso, and Miss Marie Dressler, whose astounding and ear-splitting methods she takes off very cleverly in "A great big girl like me." Another American artist treated at considerable length is Mr. Williams, the coloured "Jonah-man" of In Dahomey, given a few years back at the Shaftesbury, whom Miss Loftus imitates not only on the stage but in private life playing a harassing game of cards. The Coliseum is a vast house for so delicate an art as Miss Loftus's, but she was warmly applauded, and will bear seeing again when she has thoroughly settled down.

STANDARD.
RETURN OF MISS CISSIE LOFTUS.

After many years' excellent work on the stage, both in America and in this country (where she last appeared in the 1905 revival of Peter Pan at the Duke of York's), Miss Cecilia Loftus has returned to the English music-halls. Recently she has been touring in the provinces, and yesterday she appeared at the Coliseum, where she was very warmly welcomed by the large audience.

Again she afforded great amusement by her remarkable imitations of footlight favourites, and her mimicry of Miss Ethel Irving in the letter scene from Lady Frederick and of Miss Marie Dressler singing "A great big girl like me" was a splendid exhibition of her powers. Another extremely clever "selection" was her pantomimic illustration of a man playing a game of poker, a little sketch both realistic and amusing.

Miss Loftus is receiving the highest salary ever paid to a single artist at the Coliseum; her remuneration is £250 weekly for twelve performances.

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE.
RETURN OF MISS CISSIE LOFTUS.

Miss Cissie Loftus made a welcome return to the London variety stage at the Coliseum yesterday, where she had a most enthusiastic reception. Her brilliant mimicry seems only to have improved with time. When the orchestra struck up "I love a lassie" the audience forgot in a moment the slight girlish figure in the now familiar white frock, and saw and heard only Harry Lauder, as Miss Loftus gave his every accent and gesture. No less happy are her imitations of Miss Ethel Irving in Lady Frederick, and Miss Yvette Guilbert's singing in quaint broken English, with a wealth of gesticulation, "The Keys of Heaven." Her little monologue on a lady in a tramcar with her little boy is an excellent study.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SHOWMEN'S GUILD AT HULL FAIR.

In accordance with long-established custom, the meeting of the Showmen's Guild at Hull Fair takes the form of the annual gathering for the North of England members of the Society. For several years past the meeting has been honoured and recognised by the Mayor and Corporation. The Mayor of Hull—Alderman Feldman—presided at last year's gathering, but was unable to do so at the present year's fair. He sent the following letter to the Guild secretary:—

"Town Hall, Hull,
"Oct. 8, 1908.

"Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your lefter of the 5th inst., but regret that, owing to absence from home, I shall be unable to preside at the showmen's annual meeting at Hull Fair on Sunday afternoon next. If, however, I can be of any assistance to the Showmen's Guild later in the week, I shall be glad.—Yours faithfully,

"H. FELDMAN (Mayor)."

The Mayoress, Mrs. Feldman, graced the meeting by her kindly presence, and with her were Mrs. Levy, Councillor and Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Wokes, Councillor Dean, Mr. R. Grace (market superintendent), and other ladies and gentlemen interested in the work of the Showmen's Guild.

Councillor Wokes occupied the chair, and, in opening the proceedings, said that in the regrettable absence of the chief magistrate he had been called upon to preside at that meeting. He was the junior member of the City Council, and he viewed with apprehension the fact that the youngest member of the Council had been called upon by the Guild Chaplain at the last moment to preside over so important a gathering. He could only observe that he had satisfied himself by his interview with Mr. Horne, and by reading the annual report and other sources of information concerning the work of the Guild, that it was deserving of public recognition, therefore it gave him great pleasure to fill the position of chairman. He thought that the meeting would agree with him that it was a specially unique feature to find a trade union with a regularly-appointed chaplain. It seemed to him to indicate that the showmen in their trade organisation were prepared to work upon broader, more generous, and, he would venture to say, higher lines than the ordinary trade protection societies. He was pleased to identify himself with the work of the Showmen's Guild. It would ill-beseem him to stand between that meeting and the address from the chaplain, to which they were all looking forward with so much interest and expectation. He therefore called upon the Guild Chaplain to address the meeting. (Applause.)

The Guild Chaplain's Address.

The Rev. T. Horne, in the course of an eloquent address on behalf of that class who helped the tired workers to find rest, recreation, relaxation, and amusement, said the showmen class were part and parcel of the nation, and therefore took their share in promoting the interests of the great commonwealth. Theirs was an extraordinary business. It was obvious it must be so, or else they would have no patronage. The showman filled a proper place, and the fun of the fair was an antidote for trials and troubles of life. The reverend gentleman, by caustic wit, discomfited those "faddy, fussy reformers" who desired to see the end of their pleasure fairs. He retold, with fitting phrase, the story of his own life, and how he became associated with the showman movement. In vigorous terms he denounced the new Movable Dwellings Bill introduced by Lord Clifford in the House of Lords, and which threatened an industry which directly gave employment to 70,000 people, and upon whom thousands more were dependent—engineers, founders, painters, joiners, tent and rope makers, moulders, all in some measure taking part in bringing up the showmen's world to its proper state of equipment and efficiency.

The Defence of the Showman's Life and Work.

Proceeding, he said a great deal of prejudice and misapprehension with regard to the life of the showman existed, but the showman claimed to be a part and parcel of the nation. They gave their talent and enterprise for the general amusement at the various popular fairs, and if they were able to earn their daily bread, all the more credit to them. Some people were narrow-minded enough to object. They said, "Look at the amount of money they are taking out of the town. Oh, what a wicked lot of people they must be, and what terrible lies they do tell. (Laughter.) What a blessing it would be if they could be only wiped off the face of the earth. What a terrible thing it was that the people should indulge in this dreadful dissipation." That was the kind of letter they sometimes read in the newspapers. The showman suffered a great deal from the faddy, so-called reformer, who wanted to mould everything according to his own narrow views of life. They had to meet legislative proposals that would seriously destroy the liberty of the showman, and interfere with the amusement of the people, so that it would be impossible to carry on the great enterprise in which they were engaged.

The Sufficiency of the Present Health Laws.

A very telling portion of the Guild Chaplain's address was that in which he clearly showed that every law for the sanitary well-being and for the health of the general public that applied to dwellings of all kinds, from the palace of the peer to the cottage of the working man, applied with equal rigour to the movable dwellings of showmen. It was forgotten by these would-be reformers of the showmen's life that ninety per cent. of travelling showmen and fairground amusement caterers possessed two homes, their permanent residence in some town convenient as a centre for their year's work, and a living carriage or movable dwelling that they used when following the fairs. He pointed out that it was essential for the showman to have his dwelling next to his show. He also explained that they had also their permanent homes, and no man loved his home better than a showman. He declared that 70,000 people obtained a living in connection with the shows in the various departments, and added that it would be a serious thing from an employment point of view if the showmen were interfered with in getting their living.

At the conclusion of the Rev. T. Horne's forcible and eloquent address, the following resolution was put, and carried unanimously:—

"That this public meeting of showpeople and their friends, at Hull Fair, heartily approves of the work of the Showmen's Guild, and protests against the Movable Dwellings Bill, now before Parliament, as being class legislation aimed at the showman's liberty of life, and penalising his trade and business."

Other Speakers.

In seconding the resolution, Mr. P. COLLINS said that the Bill was uncalled for. He referred to showmen as a law-abiding section of the community, and pointed out that they most of them had their homes in different parts of the country as well as their movable dwellings, which were a necessity to their trade and business. He strongly denounced the root evil and fault of the Bill which classed them as "gipsies and hedge crawlers." The promoters of such class legislation over-reached themselves. In their anxiety to find means of penalising the gipsies they were endeavouring to inflict upon a numerous and industrious class of workers grievous insult and terrible injury. He was quite sure that the good people of Hull would give their sympathy and support to the opposition of the showmen against so manifest a piece of class legislation as the Movable Dwellings Bill. The resolution was then submitted to the meeting and unanimously carried.

Mr. A. C. TYLER moved a vote of thanks to the Rev. T. Horne, the chairman, and other speakers, and in doing so observed that the showpeople were not the common class in the community that Lord Clifford and others like him tried to make the public believe. It was a libel and a disgrace that such things should be said of a body of men who were doing their best to provide cheap and popular amusements for all classes of the community.

The Rev. T. HORNE, in acknowledging the vote, expressed the pleasure he had felt on this occasion and upon the occasions of his previous visits to Hull. It was to him both pleasure and duty to identify himself in this crusade against faddy and fussy legislation that would interfere with the life and liberty of the travelling showmen, and that also threatened the popular amusements of the people. He concluded by moving a vote of thanks to the Mayoress, who had so kindly identified herself with their concerns, and by her presence on the fair-ground that afternoon had very greatly pleased the showpeople. To the members of the City Council and the ladies and gentlemen present he wished to tender the hearty thanks of the president and the council of the Showmen's Guild, and he therefore moved the vote of thanks to the Mayoress, the City Councillors, and the other friends present at that gathering.

The vote was passed with acclamation.

Mr. Councillor NELSON, in responding for the Mayoress and the other visitors, said that he had listened with the greatest possible pleasure to Mr. Horne's address. He was quite sure that the showmen as a body must be proud of their chaplain, and it was no small honour to the city of Hull that the Showmen's Guild so ably co-operated with the corporation in making the fair one of the best in the country. Instead of thanking the visitors for their attendance the obligation was entirely on the other side, and he was sure that he was speaking not only for the Mayoress and the members of the Council present, but that he also voiced the unanimous opinion of that meeting when he said they had been delighted with the stirring address of the Guild chaplain. He thanked them for the vote.

The meeting then terminated.

Business Meeting of the Guild.

Later in the evening a business meeting of the Guild was held under the presidency of the Rev. T. Horne, and was numerously attended by the showmen at the fair. Mr. Horne detailed the measures taken by the Guild to safeguard the interests of the fair-ground community, and the determined opposition which the society was carrying on against the Movable Dwellings Bill. He moved a resolution condemning the Bill, which was seconded by Mr. P. Collins and carried unanimously.

A request made by the Mayor of Hull that a benefit performance should be given by the showmen to the funds of the local hospital was then considered, and, after discussion, it was agreed that the Guild chaplain be requested to reply officially for the showmen, and to state that in consideration of the urgent need of funds for the hospital this year, that the shows would give two hours' takings on the last day of the fair, the hours being those between four and six in the afternoon, but that the showmen's readiness to comply this year must not be taken as a precedent to govern future occasions. The showmen then went into committee as to the best means of raising the necessary funds for the Parliamentary work of the Guild, and the following subscription list was opened at the meeting:—

R. Fossett, £1; Messrs. Relph and Pedley, £1; Foster and Co., Lincoln, £1; J. Corrigan, 10s. 6d.; P. Collins, 10s.; G. Green, 10s.; J. Green, 10s.; G. Marshall, 10s.; E. Farrar, 10s.; S. Waddington, 10s.; J. Plinston, 10s.; B. Howden, 10s.; John Collins, 10s.; Holdsworth, 10s.; Monte Brothers, 10s.; J. H. Chipperfield, 10s.; W. Murphy, 10s.; A. Payne, 10s.; H. Powell, 10s.; W. H. Marshall, 10s.; J. W. Waddington, 10s.; A. Richards, 10s.; H. Hughes, 10s.; Mr. Hackett, 10s.; G. Cornwell, 5s.; J. Hastings, 5s.; Lieske, 5s.; H. Wallis, 5s.; Pattison, 5s.; J. Seed, 3s. 6d.; Ratcliffe, 3s.; G. Westray, 2s. 6d.; J. Gledstone, 2s. 6d.; Westwood, 2s.; J. Thompson, 2s.; J. S. Stockwell, 2s.; and 6d. in smaller amounts. Mr. R. Grace, hon. member, 10s.

The Evening Meeting of the Guild.

The Guild chaplain preached both morning and evening at Dairycoates Church, one of the churches in the neighbourhood of the fair-ground. Both this year and last the vicar and the choir of Dairycoats Church have rendered most valuable assistance in the singing of the service on the fair-ground. The Guild service was held (like all the other meetings of the Guild during the day) in Enoch Farrar's beautiful show pavilion. Both the proprietor and the working staff rendered most valuable service in the arrangement of the show for both meetings and service. The booth at the evening meeting was crowded to the utmost of its seating capacity, and many late-comers had to stand on the gallery at the back. There was an extremely gratifying attendance of showpeople, and the greatest possible interest was manifested at the meeting by the outside public.

The choir in their robes, headed by the cross-bearer, occupied the front seats of the pavilion, and gave considerable church form and order to the service. The singing of the hymns was most hearty and congregational, and the Guild Chaplain held the congregation in rapt attention as he discoursed upon the Holy Gospel for the day and applied its lessons to the life of both showpeople and the general congregation.

Mr. Moss and his pupil, Hargreave, again (as last year) effectively led the singing with trumpets.

A GOOD programme is being presented this week at the Tivoli, Barrow-in-Furness, and is being enthusiastically received. The chief item is the Five X Rays. They give a most humorous comedy knockabout and gymnastic turn, and their tricks are exceedingly smart and clever. V. L. Granville, character impersonator, is a turn that stands out well. Of splendid stage appearance, his acting is good and his characters well portrayed. Violet King is a splendid musician. She sings and plays the piano well, and her performance on the violin is a musical treat. Harry Leybourne is excellent, his skit on the village concert quite convulsed the audience. Other very good turns are Rudge Whitworth, a smart society entertainer; Kendric and Larna, is a song and dance scena; Edith St. Clair, a very pleasing comedienne; and Vernon's Bioscope, as popular as ever.

WE have official authority for announcing that it has been definitely decided to hold in the palaces and grounds of the Franco-British Exhibition at Shepherd's Bush during the summer and autumn of next year a great International and Colonial Exhibition. Mr. Imre Kiralfy, in a very business-like way, has already formulated his plans for a new World's Fair on a big and imposing scale.

ON the 28th, 29th, and 30th of this month a great charity bazaar will take place at the Franco-British Exhibition, the proceeds of which will be given to the League of Mercy and to three French charities in London, including the French Hospital in Soho. A committee has been organised for this purpose, including a number of distinguished ladies, among whom are the Duchess of Sutherland, the Countess of Plymouth, the Countess of Bective, the Countess of Ancaster, and Lady Brassey.

HULL FAIR.

THE most notable feature of this year's fair has been the large extension of the available ground space. The large field which hitherto has been solely used for the horse fair has been annexed for the purposes of the pleasure fair, and the result has been a remodelling of the entrance avenues and the addition of a new one, the horse fair being relegated to another site under the control of the Corporation. The fairground is approached from Walton Street, and the whole stretch of this thoroughfare was lined with stalls and small bazaars—a kaleidoscope of ever-changing light and colour. The new entrance diverted the main stream of visitors from the old principal entrance, and in a very large measure took the people away from some of the most important attractions of the fair.

ENTERING the great square of the fairground by the new entrance the first important concern to attract attention was the vaudeville portable theatre of varieties—an excellent up-to-date concern, under local management. The other shows along this line included the two concerns of Mr. Harry Hughes, the fine art gallery, and the assault-at-arms pavilion, the haunted castle, Pattison's model show, Westray's miniature jungle, three cake-walk machines by Messrs. J. Corrigan, A. Richards, and Monte Brothers, a bicycle circle, and Beech's two concerns—the haunted chamber and the aeroplane overboats.

The Line of Big Shows.

AT the top of the new avenue was Bailey's famous circus, one of the institutions of this fair, provided by Sir Robert Fossett, the premier of British circus proprietors. The next show, and occupying its accustomed place of honour, was Bostock Wombwell's menagerie (manager, Mr. Birkett). One of the advantages of the extension of ground space is seen in the arrangement of the big shows, which this year had ample space on both sides for emergency exits. Randall Williams' superb show occupied the premier position at the top of the second entrance and next to Wombwell's. Next in the line of shows came Chipperfield's well-known menagerie; then following one another came Captain Tom Payne's bioscope, Enoch Farrer's cinematograph theatre, and Farrer and Tyler's magnificent coliseum of animated photography. Continuing the line of shows were J. Hastings's two concerns (the midget marvels and the giant lady), T. Wortley's two concerns (the model of a coal mine and the portable Royal Academy), the Westwood Colonial giant children, and Lewis's snake jungle. Aspland's magnificent show was a special feature of this part of the fair. Following Aspland's came the concerns of Messrs. Relph and Pedley. These included the latest novelty in fairground machines, the rollicking porkers, a grotesque, yet charming variation of the animal carousal, the Japanese wheeling the whirl, and the motor-car set. H. Powell's helter-skelter was a commanding feature at the end of the great line of shows.

The Machines, Swings, and Gem Novelties.

SPACE will not permit us doing more than to give a list of the machine novelties present at Hull Fair. There were motor-car sets by Messrs. Collins, J. Green, B. Howden and Son, W. H. Marshall, Goldthorpe Marshall, W. Murphy, and W. H. Waddington.

MR. P. COLLINS, ever to the fore with the latest novelties, had a composite set of racing porkers and birds; Mr. John Collins exhibited four-abreast galloping horses and the twin ships in the air; there were also roundabout sets by Messrs. A. Payne and Shipley; steam swings by Morley; and manual swings by R. Payne and other caterers. Helter-skelter towers by Messrs. Holdsworth and Gavan and Waddington; and gem horses and motor-cars by Messrs. Gledstone, Seed, and Gavan.

Shooting Concerns and Throwing Games.

AMONGST the providers of these ever-popular attractions were Messrs. George Cornwell, Richards, Watson, Goodall, Payne, Ratcliffe, Levey and Lieski. The bazaars, always a popular feature of Hull Fair, were provided by Messrs. Howarth, Gledstone, Seed, and Johnson. The houp-la frames, throwing games, coker sheets, electric fish ponds, Japanese fish stalls, and all the fun of the fair were provided by (amongst others) Messrs. Middlebrook, Burgin, Steward, Doubtfire, Fisher, Watson, Wright, Jameson, Edwards, Turner, Stockwell, Jones, Houldsworth, and other caterers of the Yorkshire round.

A NOTICEABLE feature here, too, is the enterprise of local caterers and stallholders. Hundreds of smart local traders pitch their stalls on the line of march to and from the fairground, and reap the well-won reward of their endeavour. To the Corporation, for its enlightened and progressive policy in making provision for the amusement of the people, every praise is due, and the city treasury will reap a rich reward, to the easement of public burdens, not only in tollage for shows and stalls, but also in the revenue of their splendid electric trams, loaded on the fair days to their utmost carrying capacity, taking visitors to and from the open fair and carnival in Walton street.

A SPECIAL word of praise is due to the expert official of the Corporation, Mr. Robert Grace, the superintendent of markets and fairs. Mr. Grace, in interpreting the policy of the City Council into actual fact, has brought to bear a remarkable ability for organisation and control, and Mr. Grace has his reward in the well-equipped fair, second to none in the United Kingdom. Every detail of management is thoroughly carried through under his immediate control. Every provision for the safety and comfort of the multitude, and for the use and benefit of showpeople, is provided by the City Council, and controlled by their courteous and indefatigable chief officer for the fair, Mr. Robert Grace.

Mayoress in Fair Caravans.

THE Mayoress of Hull and a party enjoyed a unique experience at the Hull fairground on Sunday last, when they paid a visit to several of the living-vans of the show proprietors. Elaborately fitted up, these vans are complete from a domestic point of view. In one van an apartment was fitted up like a dainty little drawing-room, and on the table, which slides out of the way when not required, was set an artistic tea-service. The fireplace was polished like silver, the fittings being of electro plate. On the sideboard were Worcester china ornaments and bric-à-brac. From the drawing-room a small door gave access to the sleeping apartment, wherein the bed was covered with an artistic eiderdown quilt. There was one difficulty which the ladies encountered, and that was on account of the ample hats now the prevailing mode. Some of them were wider than the narrow doorways of these caravans! And the Mayoress, who was amused at the position, remarked with a smile that they were not made for matinée hats.

THE showmen will probably receive a visit from the Mayoress and party seeking contributions for the medical charities. Last year the showmen gave over £40.

Fair at Wath-on-Dearne.

MESSRS. TUBY & SONS continue their successful round of fairs with a pleasure fair at Wath, a thriving centre of the Yorkshire coalfields. The Doncaster firm exhibited their superb new coliseum of living pictures and variety and their two large sets of roundabouts, the motor-cars, and the four-a-breast galloping horses. The other concerns were Amos's steam swings, Messrs. Fisher, Shaw, and Pullan's shooters, and throwing games and varieties by Messrs. Percival, Calver, Shaw, Campfield, Moore, Robinson, Webb, Walker, and others.

INVENTIONS.

[The particulars furnished below of recent applications for patents are taken from the official records. Correspondence is invited with our readers on all matters relating to new ideas and inventions, with a view to affording them advice and assistance. Letters should be addressed to the Manager, Inventions Department, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, London.]

Inventors and others who have no business representative are invited to communicate with the Manager of the Inventions Dept. as above.

APPLICATIONS.

20,442.—Herbert Henry Pratt, of Reading. Air-rifle target.

20,541.—Martin Albert John Harper and John Robert Harper, of London. Improvements in the construction and application of apparatus for producing or throwing moving multi-coloured effects on or through suitable screens, vapours, or liquids, and the like.

20,542.—Martin Albert John Harper and John Robert Harper, of London. Improvements in the construction of apparatus for producing or throwing moving multi-coloured effects on or through suitable screens, vapours, or liquids.

20,688.—Robert Hodges Bishop and William Danton Sandwell, of London. Improvements in mechanical galloping horse circuses or roundabouts.

20,695.—Emile Frederick Ginnett, of London. Improvements in amusement apparatus.

COMPLETE SPECIFICATIONS ACCEPTED.

22,316.—Stranders. Apparatus for the production of an effect for the amusement of an audience.

9,199.—Dameron. Amusement devices.

18,431.—Champtassin. Gymnastic appliance.

ABRIDGMENTS OF SPECIFICATIONS.

11,980.—Finger-exercising apparatus. Finger, R., of Prague, Austria.

A finger-stretching apparatus consists of a plate 1 for supporting the hand in an outstretched position, and keys or wedges, 8, 9, 10, 11, which are secured in any desired position on the plate 1 by means of clamping screws 13.

12,013.—Roundabouts. Ellis, G. B., of London; Sulzer, E. T., of New York.

The carrying devices A of a roundabout are mounted on a series of concentric rings B, which rest on rails Q arranged on a framework R. The framework is provided with supporting rollers O, which run on rails N, and is rotated by one or more motors G. A shaft S is provided with cranks T, adapted, when turned upwards, to engage pins U carried by the rings B. The cranks, when turned upwards, are held in position by a spring lock, which engages the shaft S. The cranks may be caused to release the pins U by an arm Y, which strikes an arm X, and turns the cranks down. When the framework is rotated, the rings revolve with the same angular velocity, but when the cranks are turned down the rings slide on the rails Q with varying speeds due to their momentum.

12,118.—Amusements for fairs. Harrison, T., of Preston, Lancashire.

A "helter-skelter" spiral track 3, arranged round a model of a lighthouse 1, ends with a sharp descent 4, followed by a slight rise or gradual dip, and a complete reversal in direction as shown.

TO STAGE MACHINISTS AND ELECTRICIANS. — The Manager will be pleased to receive particulars of any new stage appliances or ideas for same for illustration in this column.

Can You Invent?—Do you wish to know of prizes offered to inventors valued at £10,000, £5,300, £5,000, £4,000, £1,000, £400, £300, £200, £100, and £50? If so, then get a copy of Patents and Designs, a newspaper called into existence by Mr. Lloyd George's Patents and Designs Act, 1907, which lately came into operation. Patents and Designs, price 2d., can be had at all bookstalls, newsagents', and at the Publishing Office, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MR. EDITOR—SIR,—In your last edition you report me as singing at the Vaudeville Club under the name of Alfred Hickman. As there happens to be an Alfred Hickman in the profession, would you be good enough to point out that the songs sung on Sunday week were rendered by—Yours faithfully, ARTHUR HICKMAN.

MR. DOVE PATERSON continues to attract large audiences to the Gaiety, Aberdeen, with his display of cinematograms. Variety is lent to the entertainment by the fine tenor singing of Mr. Felix Nolan.

KINEMATOGRAPH COPYRIGHT. The law affecting the same. By William Jago, F.I.O., F.C.S., barrister-at-law. Price 6d. Address, The Publisher, The Era Offices, 5, Tavistock-street, London, W.C.

"LIFE AND LOVE."

A Sketch by E. Dalverr, produced at the Palace, Stoke Newington, on Monday, Oct. 12.

Karl Veronski ..... MR. IVAN BERLYN
Lieut. Frank Morton ..... MR. P. CLARK
Ethel ..... MISS HOLLOM
Vareska Orloff ..... MISS MARION TURNER
Colonel Orloff ..... MR. F. JOYNSON POWELL
James ..... MR. ELLIS CARLISLE

Life and Love, a sketch by E. Dalverr, which was produced with considerable success at the Palace, Stoke Newington, on Monday last by Mr. Ivan Berlyn, is a powerful and interesting drama in miniature, with a coherent plot, interestingly told. As it has also the advantage of being excellently mounted and exceedingly well acted all round, its chances of success in the future are of the brightest.

The scene is laid in St. Petersburg, in the drawing-room of the house of Karl Veronski, a Russian Jew who has become a naturalised Englishman. Three years before the period of the play Karl has separated from his young English wife on the understanding that if she does not return to him within that time he is to consider they are parted for ever. In the meantime, thinking he has been mistaken in marrying one not of his own race, and having inherited a large fortune, he has returned to Russia and devoted his life to aiding his own people to resist the persecution they suffer at the hands of the Russian Government. On this, the last evening of the three years, he is visited by Lieut. Frank Morton, a young officer attached to the English Embassy. Karl has promised Morton's father before his death to do all he could to protect and befriend the son. Morton confides to Karl that he has fallen in love, and when Karl finds that the object of Morton's affection is his own wife, Ethel, and, wrongly thinking that she returns his love, quite misunderstands the object of her visit when she enters the room a few minutes later, and refuses to hear her explanation of why she has come to him. When they have left, Vareska, the wife of Colonel Orloff, comes to warn Karl of a conspiracy against him. In a passionate scene Vareska declares her love for Karl and tells him that she, too, being a Jewess, has made the mistake of marrying out of her own race, and implores him to take her. To him Colonel Orloff enters, and finding them together, is only too eager to seize on the excuse for ridding himself of his wife, of whom he has tired, and threatens them both with exile to Siberia; but Karl checkmates him by the aid of a compromising document which he holds implicating Orloff in a plot against the life of the Czar. Morton brings Ethel back, she having told him that she is Karl's wife, and that her only wish is to return to him, and all ends happily.

Mr. Ivan Berlyn gives a most picturesque and interesting rendering of Karl Veronski, and Mr. F. Joynson Powell is an admirably brusque and truculent Colonel Orloff; Miss Marion Turner plays powerfully as Vareska, and Miss Hollom is a charming and graceful Ethel; Mr. P. Clark makes a manly and gallant Lieut. Frank Morton, and the little that Mr. Ellis Carlisle has to do as Veronski's footman, James, is done well.

MASKELYNE AND DEVANT'S.

All that is best and most ingenious in the magical art is to be found at the St. George's Hall, a fact that is fully recognised by lovers of the marvellous, and a visit to the "home of mystery" in the middle of the week found an audience in complete possession of the hall. A prominent place in the programme is taken by the "surprising absurdity" called The Magical Master, which introduces Mr. David Devant in his favourite rôle of a student of magic. Astonishment combined with mirth reigns supreme while he is occupied with his experiments, and the effect of "The Giant's Breakfast," in which an ordinary egg is at a touch turned into one of Brobdingnagian proportions; of "The Fairy's Grotto," in which a nymph is seen to emerge from space; of "The Wandering Wool," and of "The Dissected Messenger," is as powerful as ever. The culminating feat is that of the Indian Rope Trick, by which a man clinging to a rope in full view of the audience is made to disappear instanter. Mr. Devant performs his tricks with his customary cleverness, and with the humour which he knows so well how to exercise, and is throughout loudly cheered. Mr. Chas. Glenrose is an effective foil as the new man-servant; Miss Dora Devant makes a comely and well-spoken nymph of the sea; and similar effect is secured by Miss Florence Eaton as a phantom bird, Mr. B. Mackenzie doing well as an Indian youth.

The Philosopher's Diamond well justifies its title of "comedy of marvels," and is the source of much wonderment and no little amusement. A new importation to the cast has been made since the production by the engagement of Mr. Gordon Bailey, who has been doing such important work in recent Shakespearean revivals at the Lyceum. Mr. Bailey has the part of Sir Grimley Greensward, formerly played by Mr. Nevil Maskelyne, and gives a finished study, with an appropriate touch of senility, of the fussy old baronet, his make-up being artistic and his elocution particularly notable. Mr. E. Morehen repeats his droll enactment of the "rag-man"; and Mr. Arnold Mussett adds to the humour by his clever impersonation of the butler, Bootles. Mr. E. S. Elton is again a most impressive mahatma; and Mr. Charles Glenrose acts capably as his henchman. Miss Cassie Bruce makes a captivating fairy of Moonsheen, acting and speaking with delicacy and grace; and Miss Helen McCulloch renders valuable aid as Lady Catherine.

The "Society Snapshots" of Mr. Nelson Jackson at the piano are the cause of abundant mirth. They are drolly conceived, and possess a freshness that is very agreeable. The entertainer has a happily-written parody of "The Charge of the Light Brigade," in which the patrons of the "summer sales" are cleverly satirised, and the travesty of a curate's announcement from the pulpit and the account of an Irish party's trip to "Paree," give excuses for unlimited mirth. The mysteries of thought-transference are deepened by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marriott, who indulge in a seance of "technopathy," by means of which the lady performer, blindfolded on the stage, describes articles obtained from among members of the audience by her husband, who says never a word except to cry "Correct!" as each article is accurately described. Essman, the juggling waiter, continues his dexterous display with plates, bottles, provisions, tables, and other articles of domestic use, and wins much applause. A choice selection of animated pictures completes the entertainment, for which Mr. F. Cramer's excellent orchestra provides the requisite harmony.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

Fairs Ahead.

The fairs ahead for next week are:—City-road (Bradford), on the Midland, Great Northern, and Lancashire and Yorkshire; Leek, on the North Staffordshire; Southam, on the London and North-Western; St. Austell, on the Great Western; Lowestoft, on the Great Eastern; Devizes, on the Great Western; Salisbury, on the Great Western and London and South-Western; Chichester, on the London, Brighton, and South Coast; Bridlington, on the North-Eastern; Ilkeston, on the Midland and Great Northern; Market Bosworth, on the London and North-Western, and Midland; Princes Risborough, on the Great Western; Wigan, on the London and North-Western, Great Central, and Lancashire and Yorkshire; Clitheroe, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Hatfield, on the Great Northern; Stratford-on-Avon, on the Great Western and East and West Junction; Arnold, on the Great Northern; Cinderford, on the Great Western and Midland; Edwinstowe, on the London, Dover, and East Coast; Heath, on the Great Central; Holmfirth, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Kirkby, on the Midland; Market Drayton, on the Great Western and North Staffordshire; Stow-on-the-Wold, on the Great Western; Wingerworth, on the Midland; and Llandovery, on the London and North-Western and Great Western Railways.

Abingdon Fair.

At the old historic fair at Abingdon a number of the very best shows on the Southern Round were present. These included W. Taylor's superb cinematograph theatre, Alf. Ball and Son's similar concern—the New Lyceum, and Knighton's fine art gallery. The riding machines were W. Wilson's switchback motor-cars, Thomas's galloping horses, Forrest's Japanese airship, Knighton's overboats, and Fitchett's park swings. There was a capital array of shooting concerns, provided by Messrs. Bailey, Hatwell, Sanders, and others. The throwing games included the present-day novelty, the hoop-la May-poles, coker sheets, ring boards, and other novelties. The fair was well set out by the competent and ever-obliging Mr. T. Faulkner.

Tamworth Fair.

This well-known Midland pleasure fair was well provided with first-class entertainments, including P. Collins's cinematograph theatre, Leo's Egyptian Hall entertainments, Harris's school of boxers, Braham's performing birds, Mme. Small, the Lilliputian marvel, the "Young Colossus," and the model of the coal-mine exhibiton. The capital array of machine novelties were provided by P. Collins, and included motor-cars and other novelties. There were the usual well-ordered varieties—shooting ranges, houp-las, and throwing games.

Tetbury Fair.

The machines and other entertainments at this fair were provided by Messrs. Wellington, Jennings, Gratton, Cole and Edwards.

Woburn Fair.

The amusements at this fair, consisting of steam horses, racing birds, rifle saloons, bottle batteries, and throwing games, were provided by the local showmen, Messrs. Smith and Short.

Chipping Norton Fair.

Amongst the amusements at this fair were Forrest's steam horses and rifle saloon; H. Ayer's houp-la frames, variety stalls, and park swings; and throwing games were provided by Messrs. Buckland and Hollifield.

Macclesfield Fair.

The big show at this Cheshire fixture was Crighton's palace of light, with splendid range of up-to-date pictures. The machine list (a very strong one) included steam-horse sets, racing birds, and big boats by Hibbert; switchback motor-cars and galloping horses by E. Holland; and steam yachts by Isaac Richards. Shooting galleries, throwing games, penalty frames, and variety stalls were by by Messrs. Beckett, Worthington, J. White, Whatmore, G. White, Murphy, Worthington, J. Jones, Ormerod, Harrington, Fearn, Gorton Jones, J. Jones, jun., and local stallholders.

An Echo of Nottingham Fair.

The upholders of Goose Fair will find another argument to their hands in the tramway returns for the three days that this year's carnival lasted, the figures breaking all records. During the three days of the fair the trams took no less than £2,642 2s. 8d., and carried 560,578 passengers. This is an increase of £120 in money and 24,700 in numbers over last year. Saturday easily beat any previous day in the history of the undertaking, the receipts amounting to £1,173 12s., and the number of passengers carried to 254,730. This is 9,000 more than on Goose Fair Saturday last year—the previous highest figure.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Fair.

There was a curious interruption to the business of the Nottingham Chamber of Commerce at its last meeting. A Mr. Stiebel interrupted, and introduced the following motion:—"That in the opinion of this Council it is desirable in the best interests of the city for Goose Fair to be abolished." This gentleman, with the un-English name, expressed his alarm that the old English fair for which Nottingham was famous had such popularity and vitality. He expressed the opinion that English people had too many holidays and too many opportunities to get rid of their money, and concluded with the usual reference to the fair as being a "pandemonium." That blessed word "pandemonium" was the refuge of all faddists, narrow-minded puritans, when they wanted to have a fling at the open-air amusements of the people. The Mayor of Nottingham, who was present, expressed the opinion that in face of the general popularity of the fair with the people, he was sure that the City Council would take no steps to abolish it. With the exception of Barnstaple and Barnet, Nottingham was, he believed, the oldest existing fair. It was, however, purely a pleasure fair, and it rested with the inhabitants to say whether it should be continued or not. If they were anxious to do away with it they should make their opinions known at the November elections.

The Mayor was followed by a number of speakers, including the Sheriff, who stoutly defended the fair, and, in the end, the resolution was withdrawn.

When it is remembered that the rates benefit to the amount of £1,500, and also that £2,542 is netted by the Corporation Tramways, it is not to be wondered at that there are many people in Nottingham who, although, they have outgrown the attractions of the fair, will not burden themselves with the additional rate that such a loss of revenue would demand. After all, however, the question is for the people of Nottingham, and he would be a bold candidate for civic honours who, at the next November elections inscribed upon his banner "I stand for the abolition of Goose Fair."

A Local Champion on the Fair.

Fortunately, for certain reformers, there is always a large body of thoughtful men and women who endeavour to see both sides of every question. We have, therefore, much pleasure in reproducing an extract from the letter of a Nottingham gentleman, who deals with Mr. Stiebel's opinion in a most calm and impartial manner.

"In its time it has encountered numberless foes, but public opinion has ever proved its friend. However objectionable this old-time institution may have become in the eyes of some, it appeared slightly inopportune to have reintroduced the question of its abolition at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, and members also expressed opinion to that effect. They had met to discourse on matters connected with commerce, and not to hold discussions on the diversions and amusements of the people. It seems to be the ambition of the moralist to educate the mind to a certain standard of morality, and such frivolities as pleasure fairs are considered to be merely stumbling-blocks in the path of this ideal. The morals of all classes might be improved, but let the moralist be reminded that the lower class has not the means and facilities for enjoyment which the upper class of society has, and, therefore, has a legitimate right to exercise its prerogative when opportunity offers. It moreover prefers enjoyment after its own fashion, and resents undue interference with its liberty. Pleasure fairs which are only occasional are conducted with as much decency and propriety as theatres and music halls, and have a similar right to exist."

The Hull Press on the Work of the Guild.

The Eastern Morning News, under the heading "The Showmen's Friend" has the following interesting paragraph:—"Those who have been privileged to attend a meeting of the showmen can bear testimony to the wonderful influence and hold the Rev. T. Horne has over his flock, who he told the audience who assembled at yesterday's gathering of the Showmen and Vandwellers' Protection Association number some 70,000. Mr. Horne is the ideal man for his post. That the showpeople love and revere their chaplain is apparent almost to the unobservant. He is no mincer of matter; he says what he means and means what he says. This is not surprising, for up to nineteen years of age he was one of them. He is not the son of the manse, but of the "sawdust and canvas," for his people were vandwellers, and at the historic Goose Fair in Notingham he was born. Even when he was a poor, struggling curate at two pounds a week a tempting offer of another pound came, but he remained true to his choice. For many years now he has conducted services on the Sunday for his people, and on the week-day fought their fight in the Press, at public meetings, and with Parliamentarians. For some years he was stationed at Manchester; then he found it necessary to give up his clerical work there, and took up work under the Bishop of London. On leaving Manchester, the Bishop gave him permission, at any time he wished, to minister to the showpeople in the diocese of Manchester. Full of a rich fund of humour, which is used to adorn the moral and tell the tale, the showman parson is a force to be admired and reckoned with."

Pontefract.

Lord George Sanger's circus is here for one day, and the children, young and old, evince great excitement. The procession was imposing, and was witnessed by interested crowds, who flocked to the great tent afternoon and evening, and were rewarded by a very excellent show. Details would be invidious, but "Sanger's" is a byeword.

Leicester Pleasure Fair.

Our Leicester correspondent writes: "The October pleasure fair, the principal one of the year, commenced on Thursday, Oct. 8, and terminated on the following Tuesday. It will be remembered that it formerly was held in Humberstone-gate and abutments, but was, after a struggle, done away with, and is now, owing to the enterprise of Mr. P. Collins, located on a large piece of ground on the Ross's-walk, off the Belgrave-road. On Saturday the usual enormous complement of excursionists arrived, and during the afternoon and evening the fair presented a most animated appearance.

The Shows.—There were a goodly number of shows on the ground, the principal ones being Collins's wonderland, with its beautiful artistic front and splendid orchestration, and a first-rate collection of moving pictures; Kemp's cinema de lux, another work of artistic beauty, and showing the very latest films. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kemp are natives of Leicester, where they are held in the greatest esteem. Sidney Braham's home of mystery and midget show, with Mlle. Small; both Mlle. Annetta as a conjurer and Sidney Braham with his performing troupe of birds and canaries, are entertaining; Collins's lion show, in which Mlle. de Osta goes through a second-sight performance in the lion's den; and Bert MacComo, a grandson of the great trainer, also gives a daring performance with an untamable lion. Other shows were Pook, the 35st. fat boy, who looked as clean and smart as anyone could desire; James Leo's Egyptian Hall, where many mysterious tricks are performed; Professor Cullis's boxing booth, where doughty champions of the noble art have met in friendly rivalry to the admiration of good houses; W. Davis's model colliery, an ingenious show, well worth seeing; and Marwood's freaks of nature and elephant boy, three-legged girl, and tattooed ladies.

Sedgewick's Menagerie.—This popular menagerie's visit is always looked forward to with pleasure, as there is always something fresh to see. There is a cage of young lions and another of leopard cubs, together with a vast number of various wild animals, camels, elephants, &c. A really fine performance is gone through in the lion's den by Zarmah, who, accompanied with his boarhounds, is thoroughly at ease in a pretty show. He also performs with an elephant. Other intrepid performances are given by Herr Olga, with bears and wolves; and Alphonze, with lioness. The band of the establishment enlivens the proceedings with capital selections.

The Fun of the Fair was supplied by P. Collins's motors, J. Collins's airship and razzle-dazzle, P. Collins and Son's horses and cockerels, Collins's Royal yachts, Miller and Glisber's Canadian helter-skelter, juvenile machines by G. Neal, G. Ford, Chaplin, and Mercer; shooting saloons by J. Humphrey, H. Saunt, G. Neal, G. Ford, and Bloomfield; and others on the ground were J. Holmes, A. Warwick, Hart, Hall, Gamfield, &c.

Stratford-on-Avon.

At Stratford-on-Avon bull roast were Clarke's helter-skelter, Wadbrook's cinematograph exbition, Chipperfield's modern show of living pictures, Purchase's menagerie, Chaplin's camera obscura, Robbin's freak shows, and Taylor's boxing saloon.

The machines were Wilson's big wheel, P. Collins's motor-cars, Clarke's motor-cars, Davies's galloping horses and cockerels, Strickland's galloping horses, Butlin's motor-cars, Wright's midget horses, and photo. studios by Messrs. Caddick and Fossett.

Shooting saloons, swing boats, stalls, houp-las, &c., by Messrs. Wilson, Chipperfield, Turner, Kemp, Lewis, Wainwright, Herbert, Butler, and many others.

Evesham.

At Evesham Mop were Clarke's electric motor-cars, Clarke's helter-skelter, Strickland's gallopers, Butlin's midget ponies and motor-cars, Wadbrook's cinematograph, Wilson's shooting saloons, Caddick's photo studios, Wilson's big wheel, and other attractions.

SHOWMEN'S BRIEF AGAINST THE MOVABLE DWELLINGS BILL.

The showmen of England object most strongly to the Movable Dwellings Bill, introduced into Parliament by Lord Clifford of Chudleigh. They regard it as a serious menace to their means of livelihood, an uncalled-for aspersion upon their character, an unwarrantable invasion of their family life, and an unmerited attack on their liberties.

What the Bill Seeks to Do.

It would make every county authority for the purposes of the Act a registration authority, with power to compel the registration of all movable dwellings. It would further enact that

"The Local Government Board shall make regulations—

"For the registration of movable dwellings, including regulations as to certificates of registration and as to the fees in connection with registration; and for the renewal of registration from time to time;

"For the lettering, marking, and numbering of movable dwellings; and

"For registering the number, age, and sex of the persons who may be allowed to use a movable dwelling as a place of abode, having regard to cubic space, ventilation, provision for the separation of the sexes, general healthiness and convenience of accommodation; and

"For promoting cleanliness in and providing for the habitable condition of movable dwellings; and

"For preventing nuisances, fire, and the spread of infectious disease in and in connection with movable dwellings.

"The occupier of any movable dwelling shall produce the certificate of registry thereof when demanded by the police-constable or school attendance officer, and any person failing to do so shall be guilty of an offence under this Act.

Show Vans already under the Law.

Every provision on the Health Acts and the whole body of the sanitary laws of the country apply to van life. In the year 1875 the Public Health Act [38 and 39 Victoria, Ch. 55] set up all over England local sanitary authorities to look after the health conditions of the people. It was a consolidation Act, as well as setting up a perfect network of administrative machinery for preservation of health and the prevention of all dangers to the health of the nation.

Section 91 of that Act is of great importance to our argument, for in a later Act—the Housing of the Working Classes Act [48 and 49, Ch. 72]—mention is made of tents and vans, and the penalties for van-dwellers not fulfilling the law are the same as those imposed upon all house-dwellers by Section 91 of the Public Health Act, 1875. The Housing of the Working Classes Act specifically and clearly states in Section 9 that "(1) A tent, van, shed, or similar structure used for human habitation, which is in such a state as to be a nuisance or injurious to health, or which is so overcrowded as to be injurious to the health of the inmates, whether or not members of the same family, shall be deemed to be a nuisance within the meaning of Section 91 of the Public Health Act, 1875. (2) A sanitary authority may make bye-laws for promoting cleanliness in, and the habitable conditions of tents, vans, sheds, and similar structures used for human habitation and for preventing the spread of infectious disease by persons inhabiting the same, and generally for the prevention of nuisances in connection with the same."

Other clauses in the same section provide for the properly authorised sanitary officer having the right of inspection of vans and tents used for living purposes.

Here we have enough law in all fairness for the possible demands of public health and security for the showman and his family life.

Still More Legislation.

The Infectious Disease (Notification) Act, 1889 [52 and 53, Victoria, Ch. 72], Section 13 (1) provides that the Act applies to "Every tent, van, shed, or similar structure used for human habitation, in like manner, as nearly as may be, as if it were a bulding."

The Infectious Disease (Notification) Extension Act, 1899 [62 and 63, Victoria, Ch. 8] makes the Act of 1889 operative all over the country by extending its operation to all sanitary districts that had not voluntarily adopted it.

Every living van is a house for all health and sanitary purposes. It is as much under the rule and government of the sanitary and health authorities as any other building, permanent or temporary, used for human habitation. There is just the same law and just the same liberty for the van-dweller's home on wheels as the town-dweller's home of wood and stone. In the matter of all necessary safeguards for public health the law as it is is all-sufficient. It is just, because all must obey it. To endeavour to fix special and clearly invidious rules upon the showman that do not apply to householders in permanent homes is an insult and an invasion of his rights and liberties that every showman is bound to resist with all the vigour at his command.

Invidious Class-legislation.

The serious nature of the Movable Dwellings Bill as an attack on the life and character of showmen lies in the fact that it proposes a tremendous change in the law of the land. As the law now stands, it is the sanitary authority that has the power of control of all dwellings in the interest of public health; but under Lord Clifford's Bill the administration would be entirely in the hands of the county police. Thus an invidious stigma is placed upon van-dwellers. Not the sanitary officer, but the county policeman would come to their door in order to be satisfied as to the sanitary conditions of their movable dwellings.

The showmen have pointed out to the promoters of the Bill the insult of this tremendous essay in invidious legislation, but they have refused to amend their Bill so as to deal with this injustice.

Wholesale Powers to Abolish Fairs.

It will have been already seen how the proposed legislation would injure and penalise the life and work of the travelling showman, but that is not all the mischief contemplated by the Bill. Clause 5 provides that "where it appears to the registration authority that the encampment of occupiers of movable dwellings on any specified place or places within their area would be dangerous to public health, or constitute a nuisance to the neighbourhood, the registration authority may by bye-law prohibit such encampment on such specified place or places; and any person acting in contravention of any bye-law under this section shall be guilty of an offence under this Act."

To place such powers in the hands of local governing bodies would in many instances lead to the abolition of the people's fairs, and without any appeal to the people and traders concerned. Showmen know from sad experience that bye-laws primarily intended for the good rule and government of fairs have been strained by the local authorities to prohibit fairs altogether.

The Adequacy of Existing Law.

Already the notification of Infectious Disease Acts and all local health and sanitary bye-laws apply fully to show vans and tents. The Medical Officer of Health and the Sanitary Officer have complete control, in the interests of public health, of every fair in the country. Showmen most readily comply with every requirement of the sanitary authority; they have a clean bill of health throughout the land. The showmen, therefore, view with justifiable alarm the claim for these additional powers. They fear that they will be used as an instrument of oppression, and for the purpose of prohibiting the time-honoured fairs of the people.

Why Not a Gipsies Bill?

The differences between gipsies and squatters on common lands and travelling showpeople are so obvious, and (to right-thinking people) so many and so utterly at variance with each other, that it is a source of perpetual wonderment to them why our statesmen and legislators persist in framing Parliamentary measures that refuse to recognise the open and unmistakable fact that a showman is not a gipsy nor yet a squatter on the commons of the country. If Lord Clifford and his backers mean to exterminate gipsy life, let them say so, and go before the country with an intelligible scheme. A Bill to compel gipsies, tramps, and other nomads to settle in towns or villages would go to the root of the problem. Why not revive the old feudal law that made it a crime to have no settled abode—to be a landless man?

Itinerant Entertainers—a Home Industry.

The great bulk of the business of the fairground is a home industry. The caravan or home on wheels is an essential part of the working plant. The home must be next door to the workshop—the show or booth. When lawmakers speak of regulating, marking, and ticketing gipsy and squatter vans and tents, why cannot they say in the measure they are supporting, "This Act shall not apply to vans, tents, or erections used by travelling showpeople pursuing their lawful and admittedly useful and honourable business"?

A Great and Skilled Industry.

The showman world in these islands of Great Britain and Ireland numbers at the least 70,000 persons, almost all directly employed in the show business; besides these there is a vast army of workers making and handling the goods sold or used upon the fair grounds of the Empire.

The modern showman has no need to be ashamed either of his work or his position in the national economy. To cater for a people's natural relaxation involves no slight share of responsibility in the nation's well being.

The Showmen's Guild of Great Britain speaks for the whole industry of the fair ground, it claims that the whole body of showmen and fair ground traders are law-abiding and industrious citizens. Furthermore, as representing a highly technical and skilled industry (an industry that has grown with the growth of the nation), that they are fully entitled to claim the sanction and liberties of the ordinary laws of the realm, and that invidious class legislation is not necessary for them or their business in life.

At all the principal fairs of the country this year, indignation meetings in opposition to the Bill have been held. Resolutions condemning the measure have been unanimously passed, and a great deal of public sympathy with the showpeople has been manifested.

The organised showmen having failed to obtain from the promotors of the Bill a clause exempting them from its operation, or one clearly restricting its operations to insanitary settlements of gipsies, or to squatters on common lands, now appeal to the justice-loving people of the Kingdom, confident that their appeal for justice will not be made in vain.

ELEPHANTS ON THE CHUTE.

Further proceedings in respect of the performance of elephants on the water-chute at the Ceylon Village, Franco-British Exhibition, were taken before Mr. Garrett, at West London on Monday at the instance of the Royal Society for the prevention of Cruelty to Animals, against Gustave Hagenbeck, the proprietor of the show, and Schreida and Havadia, elephant trainer and attendant respectively. All three defendants were summoned under the Wild Animals in Captivity Protection Act for being concerned in terrifying two elephants on Sept. 26. Hagenbeck was further summoned "to come up for judgment" under certain recognisances into which he entered on Sept. 18.

It will be remembered that on Sept. 18 the same three defendants were, after a hearing of similar summonses, convicted under the Act, and while substantial penalties were imposed on Schreida and Havadia, Hagenbeck, who was then, as on this occasion, charged with permitting the offence, was bound over in the sum of £10 to come up for judgment.

Mr. Stuart Bevan (instructed by Mr. Sidney Polhill, solicitor to the society) appeared for the prosecution; and Mr. R. D. Muir for the defence.

Owing to the pressure of business, the magistrate adjourned the summonses.

The Pembrokeshire fair was maintained by Messrs. Hy. Studt and Sons' magnificent gondolas, &c., Danter's zoological set, J. North's shooters, cokernuts, mollies, &c.; Wm. Haggar's, sen., fine new bioscope; E. Danter's bioscope; and Prince Samuda's home of mysteries. A consignment of Messrs. Bostock's wild beasts arrived at the Pavilion, Mountain Ash, which will remain there until Easter. They were all in beautiful condition. Great crowds witnessed them being discharged at the Great Western Railway.

White's amalgamation of amusements are paying a visit this week to Pricetown. In the bioscope entertainment the varieties are supported by Mazzoni, the handcuff king; Willie Long, comedian; and Walter Gibbons, in his song illustrations.

Messrs. Johnson Brothers opened at Tredegar with their up-to-date theatre on Saturday last to crowded business. Miss Rosa Lind, Tyrolean singer and serio comedienne, was the variety turn, and was recalled before the curtain several times.

Mr. Clement Austin and his smart little orchestral band, assisted by Master George Austin, a clever rising violinist, had a rousing reception by many old friends.

Mr. John Johnson, at Ferndale, of Victoria Theatre fame, is doing excellent business, everything being up to date. Mr. Jos. Traynor is to be complimented as the leader of the orchestra. An old favourite to be noticed is Mr. Fred D'Albert and Mr. Tommy Gough. Messrs. Roberts's big wheel, shooters, and mollies are stationed at Mountain Ash, also Ford's shooting saloon.

Mr. Wm. Haggar, jun., was successful in obtaining a three months' licence at Neath on the 13th inst.

A Texas Elopement is a thrilling dramatic story, in which are interwoven wonderful feats of horsemanship, performed by the principal characters. The opening scene gives us a Texas cowboys' encampment, a grand display of horsemanship, rival cowboys giving a demonstration with revolver and lassoo, and the extraordinary intelligence of the hero's quadruped. Then we get the interior of a rancher's home. His daughter unconsciously plays upon the piano while her father is tempted by the villain—the defeated cowboy of the first scene—to sell the girl. He yields to the tempter, accepts a cheque, and leaves the purchaser in charge. The villain explains the transaction to the indignant girl, and exhibits the cheque counterfoil in proof. He seeks to enforce his right to an embrace. "Hands up!" His successful camp rival appears opportunely, and releases the girl from the attentions of the villain, who departs, vowing vengeance upon the pair. At the camp the villain attends to the trappings of his horse, while his rival gives a finished display of horsemanship before the girl. She consents to an elopement, and mounts her lover's horse, the hero riding behind until his rival is reached, when he dismounts. There is a struggle between the villain and the rival for the possession of the second horse. The villain is defeated, and his enemy rides away. The defeated man fires after him, but is over-powered by the cowboy's chums. Many other incidents occur until the romance ends happily.

The Adventures of a Watch.—Eight minutes of rollicking farce, ridiculous situations, most original incidents—including a Rontgen Ray experiment and a complicated surgical operation of a very unusual character—a clever dog, his unlucky owner, a couple of precocious children, and a loafer, make the sum of one of the best comic and magic pictures of the year. The story is this:—The watch is publicly presented to the deserving but embarrassed recipient. Arrived at home, he hangs up the timepiece, and retires to enjoy a tub. During his absence, his little son enters, secures the watch, and hastily leaves to put certain plans into practice. The father returns and makes search for his valued testimonial. His room is nearly dismantled in the process, when he remembers his son's proclivities, and goes to investigate. The young hopeful has just tied the presentation watch to the tail of his terrier, which flies, followed by the owner. In and out of river barges the man pursues the dog, who enters into the spirit of the "game." Sundry mishaps occur. The owner falls into the mud, and eventually catches his dog, only to lose him again before recovering the watch. Terrier decides upon a swim, and his master follows, still intent upon securing the watch. A ragged urchin assists the dog to land at a pier, but possesses himself of the watch, which is for ever lost to its owner. In a woodland scene a loafer sleeps and snores. The boy is of an original turn of mind. He drops the watch and chain into the open mouth of the sleeper, who wakes with a start and swallows them both. Other amusing situations are presented to the gaze of the spectator.

The Training of a Fighting Bull.—The breeding of animals which are subsequently to figure in the bull rings, or "corridas," of Southern Europe is an occupation largely followed in Camargue, in the delta of the Rhone. The young bulls are first weeded out from the general herd, after which, at the age of eighteen months, they must pass the test of the "tienta," trying conclusions with a horseman armed with a pike. If the animal renews the attack after receiving a prick from the weapon he is branded with a hot iron, and prepared for the "corrida." If, on the contrary, he runs away, he is taken from the herd of fighting bulls, and becomes an ordinary ox. The fighting bull does not make a public appearance until it is four years old, the intervening time between its first selection and the actual conflict being spent in training. During this period the bulls are confined in "ganaderias," where they are familiarised with the methods of fighting adopted by the picadors and the banderilleros, occupations of considerable danger for the men engaged.

The Gorges of the Tarn.—This river is a tributary of the Garonne, one of the most picturesque districts in the south-west of France. Romantic scenes on the banks of the Tarn, a shallow but swiftly-flowing stream, navigable only for punts, reveal fresh beauties of majestic nature at every turn. Dolomite rocks, cliffs, and caverns, chiselled and modelled by rain and frost, are continuously presented in wonderful arched, pointed, groyned, and fantastic designs. Ruins nestling at the feet of majestic escarpments, lend their charm, and simple huts of the peasant population add variety and heighten the general effect, the beauty of which is doubled by the mirroring waters of the Tarn. Amidst foliage, in delightful confusion, rapids whirling and eddying in and out of rocky channels, each turn of the river reserves an agreeable surprise as it defiles in front of the audience. The darkness of the caves, the mountains rising sheer above them, the graceful bridges spanning the waters, and the natural weir over which the skilled boatmen shoot their shallow punts, form views of incomparable nature such as are seldom seen.

Pathé Frères.

Obliged to Consent.—A nice young man, having been refused by a stern father the hand of the girl he loves, comes back and sings his love under her window. The father is so furious that he fires at him, and the poor boy tumbles down in a heap. Then the infuriated old man puts his foot on the motionless body, saying at the same time, "Now you shall not have my daughter." But the nice young man is not dead at all, he has been acting all the time; and having put the doctor into his secret who had been called in after the supposed murder, the young man, with the aid of his friend, wraps himself in a white sheet and plays the spectre before the haunted eyes of the father, who is now a prey to the most acute pangs of remorse. At last, after seeing his daughter in the arms of the spectre, the distracted old man gives in, and says to the horrible spectre that he grants it in advance anything it may wish for provided it does not follow his footsteps so doggedly. On hearing this, the perfect young man throws away his white sheet and resumes his former appearance, at the same time thanking his father-in-law for his forced consent, and removing from him the weight of his supposed crime.

Dowry Hunting.—This film depicts humorously the comedy of the Franco-American marriage of a young Yankee lady, who has, like her countrywomen, a respect for the only luxury which the gold kings of the New World lack, viz., ancient lineage and ancestors, but whose practical and healthy mind despises the useless and empty life of many a young snob who is attracted by her fortune. Yet, as an old name and traditions do not always exclude cowardice, one of her rejected suitors, in order to compel her consent, has the young lady carried off by hired men; but he has not reckoned on the unforeseen presence of a young schoolmaster of the place, who bravely defends the young lady and saves her from her assailants. The American girl, finding in her defender a modest, honest, and devoted lover, offers him at once her hand and her fortune.

DETECTIVES FRITT AND PLOCK.—A lady has had her jewellery stolen at the hotel where she is staying, and she puts in a claim. She picks out one photo amongst those shown to her as that of the thief, who happens to belong to a gang well known to the police for their daring, and whose head is called "Napoleon of Crime." Hoping to be able to arrest the whole party at one and the same time, the authorities put on the track two of their best detectives, Fritt and Plock, after promising a reward of £1,000 to the winner. Then ensues between the two detectives a fight recalling the feats of Sherlock Holmes, the well-known English detective, and those of the French Ganimard. They discover their man at the terrace of a coffee-house; but the thief, scenting danger, beckons a cab and drives to the station. The moment the train steams away an old lady and a swell arrive panting on the platform. "Too late," they both exclaim at the same time, and then Fritt and Plock recognise each other. Yet the train keeps running speedily. Fritt boards a motor-car and grasps the steering-wheel, while Plock lifts a cripple out of his carriage, jumps into his place, and ties his tiny vehicle to the rear of the automobile. The one following the other closely, both detectives follow the same route as the train. The pickpocket puts up at a boarding-house, but as he hears a noise in the hall, he looks through the keyhole and sees his two enemies hiding in his trunks. He darts out, locks his trunks up, and slips out of the house. Freed by the servants, Fritt and Plock are again facing each other. Without wasting a moment they start after the scoundrel, who, seeing himself on the point of being caught, jumps into the water, disappears, and comes out some distance from his diving place; then, thanks to his masterly jump, he is on the bridge. In front of a curiosity shop he hesitates for a second, during which Fritt and Plock disappear each in an armour. The burglar enters and offers the jewellery for sale, but at this very moment the detectives pounce upon him. Fritt and Plock acknowledge each other equally crafty, shake hands loyally, and decide to share the reward.

FEMININE HATE.—An elderly gentleman and his daughter are mountaineering. Suddenly they stop to listen to a song issuing from a sort of cave in the rocks. Several Bohemians are sitting around the singer, a handsome son of their race. The man, noticing an impression of admiration on the face of the lady, has her followed by a child, and thus he finds out her address. But a young girl of his gang who loves him follows him on the sly when he goes to her house. The girl sees the lady descend the mountain in the direction of the beach, where the Bohemian meets her. He beckons a fisherman, and soon they are on the sea, while the heart of the girl seems to be bursting with jealousy and grief. The old gentleman is leaving the house in his turn, when the gipsy girl steps forward and tells him what she has just seen; but he, after listening to her, shrugs his shoulders and resumes his walk. Hidden by a bush, the girl watches for the return of the lovers, and when she sees them on the beach she springs forward and tries to kill the other woman with a stiletto, but the stranger snatches a revolver from her pocket and fires. The last picture shows the Bohemian crying over the body of the girl his fickleness has caused to be so badly injured.

BUYING A TITLE.—That the course of true love never did run smooth is once more proven by a devoted couple who had made up their minds to marry. The trouble begins when Jack interviews papa, and receives the order to quit, as it is a titled husband the latter wants for his daughter. Sad at heart, our bold lover is left to think of a way out of the difficulty. Whilst pa is at the matrimonial agent's enquiring into the credentials of eligible "Noblemen," he is struck by a French Count's noble lineage and bearing, and makes an appointment for him to call and see the prospective future wife. Our lover friend is also struck—but with an idea—and arranges a meeting with his future wife. A plot is now arranged. Nora—maid to Jack's sweetheart—agrees to appear as her mistress. She is dressed for the part, and Jack and his sweetheart make up as butler and maid. The Count now arrives to keep his appointment, and is received by Nora, the bogus mistress, and in his attempts at love-making he is "lead on" to the amusement of the hidden "butler" and his lady love. To prove his undying love the Count embraces Nora just as Dan, her policeman lover, arrives. This arouses the temper of the gentleman in blue, and he proceeds to demonstrate his abilities as a fighting force to the detriment of the Count's personal appearance. The Count is made to look rather undignified, and is finally thrown out.

THE LEPRECHAWN, an Irish fairy story.—One day an Irish landlord, Lord Craven, in making his way across the fields, spies a pretty Irish colleen, Nora, hoeing potatoes. Being struck by her singular beauty he makes advances to her. These are not appreciated, yet he endeavours to kiss her, and is rewarded with a resounding smack on the face. This brings trouble, because the result is a demand by Lord Craven's agent for the overdue rent, which, owing to bad crops, is not forthcoming. The appeals for time made by Nora's mother have no effect, but Lord Craven arriving, he is agreeable to cancel the debt providing Nora will listen to him. Before there is time to parley Barney—Norah's broth of a bhoy—comes into consideration, and his answer gives the noble lord a sore head. Ill-pleased with things in general, meeting a witch-woman Craven allows her to tell him his fortune, and this, not being to his liking, he strikes her with his hunting crop. For his pains she places him under a curse. Now, after consoling her mother, Nora sets out to sell potatoes, but is disheartened by her want of success. Meeting Barney, she is cheered by his promising to catch a Leprechawn and get the money. They now seek the witch-woman's advice, and she paints a rosy picture of their future, at the same time giving Barney a charm. Barney gets away on the task of catching the fairy, and reaching the Fairy Grove, sees a Leprechawn at work. His attempts to lay hands on the little man are futile, but the display and handing over of the witch's charm works wonders. The fairy fairly dazzles Barney's eyes when he shows him the treasure cave, but he is unable to get the better of our friend. Barney's wits are not dazzled, and, knowing if he once lets the fairy go his good fortune goes too, refuses some snuff which is offered to him, preferring to pack a heavy load of gold. We now witness some magic by the Fairy Queen, who, by a wave of her wand, blesses Barney with a new suit of clothes as well as a beautiful steed to carry him and the gold to his beloved Nora. Whilst Barney has been away among the fairies, Lord Craven has sent the soldiers to evict Nora and her mother. Their pleadings being in vain, the soldiers are about to move their belongings when Barney appears, pays the rent, and demands a receipt for the payment. The landlord gives this, taking away the money, and later stops to count it, when he discovers that it has turned to autumn leaves. A scene now occurs between him and Barney, but as the latter refuses to give up the receipt Craven is beaten, and Barney with Nora is happy.

THE SILENT HOTEL.—This is an extremely entertaining film novelty, which is bound to become immensely popular. It begins with the entrance of a visitor to an hotel and his surprise at finding there is no one to welcome him or to wait upon him. But he has really no need for servants, and, by some magical means, tables, inkstands and pens come to him, and he signs his name in the hotel register. His bag now flies out of his hand, travels upstairs unaided, and shows him the way to his bedroom. Subsequently he goes downstairs for dinner. A table, with all its equipments for a meal, is mysteriously placed before him, and the "grub" also arrives as if by magic. Going back to his bedroom, his clothes remove themselves and fly to their respective hooks and chairs. As day breaks our friend is awakened by an alarm clock, and he is shot out of bed, his clothes falling on him again. He is on the point of making his exit from this ghastly hostelry when a mysterious hand seizes him, and compels him to pay his bill as well as the tips.

HERCULES, THE WORLD'S CHAMPION.—Two young people are engaged at the same music hall by the names of "Hercules" and "Miss Sylvia." He is an athlete and she is a riflewoman. The two artists love one another, and it is only Sylvia's mother that prevents them from marrying. A decrepit baron takes an interest in Sylvia, and persuades the manager of the hall to prolong her engagement. While they are busy with the contract the baron is rude to Sylvia; she tears herself away from him and runs out into the hall, where she meets Hercules, just coming back from the stage. She explains to him what has been planned against them. Then they hasten to their cloak-rooms, wrap up the few articles they require, and fly together in a motor-car. We see the young couple again after a year. Hercules has no engagement and is sitting in a bar, discouraged. Sylvia on her way to the music hall, where she is performing, goes in and tries to comfort him. After she has left, two men, who have been talking to the landlady, commence playing cards. Hercules wants to go, but the landlady asks him to stay, gives him money, and invites him to play cards. He gives way to the temptation, plays and wins. All the time he is drinking from the glass, which the landlady keeps filling. Suddenly he discovers that the two fellows are cheating, he jumps up and knocks them down, and they hurry out of the room. Hercules is now half drunk and very excited. He sits down by the table, and now the landlady sits down by him with her arm round his neck. A few minutes later Sylvia comes in, followed by her mother and the baron, who have traced her. She is astounded at seeing the two sitting together, and, without a word, she hurries out of the room. The landlady and Hercules enter a box in a first-class music hall. The curtain is drawn, and Sylvia is seen on the stage. She sees Hercules and the hated rival, takes aim at the box and fires a shot at Hercules, who drops to the ground wounded. Sylvia falls into a swoon, and is carried into her cloak-room. A policeman wants to arrest her as soon as she recovers, but Hercules comes in, tears the bandage away from his forehead, declares himself to be but slightly wounded, and will not allow her to be arrested. He takes the jewellery and money the landlady has presented him with and throws it in her face as she enters the room. She gets angry, takes out a revolver and tries to shoot Sylvia, but Hercules takes Sylvia in his arms and carries her safely away.

THE "PRIMUS" LANTERNIST'S POCKET-BOOK, 1908-9.—This useful little book, edited by Mr. W. F. Butcher, F.C.S., and published by Messrs. Butcher and Sons, Ltd., at Camera House, Farringdon-avenue, is an excellent sixpennyworth of information for cinematograph lanternists. Particularly valuable are the hints as to the employment of electric light and other means of illumination. Thus, under the heading of "Miniature Arc Lamps," the Editor says: Within the last few years miniature arc lamps have been introduced which work off the ordinary house supply. They absorb about four ampères of current and give very good results, illuminating discs from six to eight feet in diameter for ordinary lantern work, and from four to six feet for cinematographs. Wherever the electric current is available they are one of the best forms of illuminant, and have proved very popular, being so easy to handle and so inexpensive. These lamps are sent out complete, and one of the best forms is that which is listed in the catalogue under the title "The Ariel." The most convenient resistance to buy is that which will cut out 250 volts, as it is always better to have rather a large resistance than to have one that is too small, in case at any time, even although the voltage in the home circuit is only 100, occasion may arise to take one's outfit to a district where it is 250, and the resistance occupies very little extra space.

THE booklet also deals with incandescent spirit lamps, as to which the following information is given: Within the last few years spirit lamps which burn with incandescent gas mantles have been introduced for working with projection lanterns, and as these are destined in the future to play a very important part as an illuminant, it is as well for the operator to make himself conversant with the general principles on which these lamps are designed. They have practically cut out entirely the use of the mineral oil lamps, as they are portable and inexpensive; there is no smoke or smell, and they are no more dangerous than an ordinary paraffin lamp. They give a very brilliant light of splendid quality, and an eight-foot picture can be well illuminated.

THE reader is also informed, by means of diagrams and letterpress, how to connect up resistance, arc lamp, ampmeter, and motor with regulator, and tables are given showing the system of electrical current and voltage employed in many of the towns in Great Britain and Ireland. Information is also furnished on the subject of compressed gases and the requirements for an entertainment, and the work, which contains a "diary for engagements, 1908-1909," concludes with a directory of dealers in all manner of photographic and moving picture requisites.

Jury's Imperial Pictures.

CINEMATOGRAPH pictures are now an important item in every programme at the variety theatres, the up-to-date representations of the happenings of the same day being most appreciated. At the Alhambra Jury's Imperial Pictures are permanently established favourites, coming, as they do, immediately after the new ballet Paquita. This week, among other events pictorially presented, are the Marathon race, the sculling championship, and the Gordon-Bennett balloon race; while for those who like fun there is a series illustrating how a bulldog protected a bank from a burglar.

MISS IRENE MONCRIEFF is going into partnership with Mr. Kyburn-Dellar, and will shortly produce a realistic dramatic sketch entitled The Flaming Hussy, in one flame.

MONDAY being the anniversary of his birthday, Mr. H. H. Braham, stage manager of the Gaiety Theatre of Varieties, Chatham, was the recipient of a handsome silver-mounted walking stick, the gift of the orchestra and staff. The presentation was made by the Gaiety musical conductor, Mr. Harry Clements.

HAMMERSMITH PALACE.

Variety halls sometimes are known to somewhat belie their title, and present programmes with very little variety in them; but such a charge could not possibly be made at Hammersmith, for we doubt whether a more varied bill could be arranged. Excellent is practically every turn, and Mr. Coe and his manager, Mr. Lewis Vincent, deserve every congratulation on their well-chosen bill. It is headed by Mr. Van Biene, who, in a clever sketch entitled The Master Musician introduces some of his superb 'cello solos. Mr. Van Biene is ably supported by Miss Mary Mannering, who acts excellently as Jenny, and by Miss Kingston, who is quite satisfactory in the part of Miss Carlisle. Mr. Van Biene's first visit here is certainly a great success.

Another newcomer to Hammersmith is Miss Nellie Wigley, a lady blessed with a charming voice, which she used to great advantage in "Egypt," and another song, both being deeply appreciated. The bottom of the bill this week is Mr. Phil Ray, and he is at his very best. Mr. Ray introduces a lot of new patter, in which he is funnier than ever, and his reception was tumultuous. Hinton and Wootton perform their particularly clever football match on bicycles, and are well received. Miss Edie King proves popular in "Oh domino, pink domino," and "I'm getting rather tired of smart society," finishing up with a clever dance. For clever and novel dancing Ritter and Foster would be hard to beat, and their songs are really good. Mr. Wm. Gourlay is weird in "The Scarecrow," and dances well. Foreman and Fannan, without much alteration in their business for some years, still provoke plenty of mirth.

Two clever children with sweet voices are Dolly and Madge McCalla, and the audience gave them unstinted applause for their two songs, "You're just the girl I'm looking for" and "My palace of ivory I've built for you." Miss Alice Hughes and company present a musical comedietta entitled Star of the Bazaar, in which Miss Hughes acts and sings well. Mr. F. R. Lurin as Rev. Willie Wood and Mr. Charles Dillon as James contribute largely towards its success. Barlee and Smith are a delightful pair of artists. Miss Barlee's song, "Roses bring memories of you," was excellently rendered, and in their comedy duet and dances both proved exceedingly popular. Mr. Will Musgrave's songs, "I'd rather wear the hat that father went to school in" and "It's a good job the sergeant came along" went well with the house; Hurman is a smart hoop manipulator and juggler; and Broom and Broom dance well together and crack some funny motoring jokes. The Edisonograph is responsible for some up-to-date pictures.

MISS BEATRICE FELSTED, of illustrated song fame, has been specially engaged by Mr. J. F. Elliston, of Bolton, for pantomime, 1908-9. Miss Felsted's fine voice should enable her to make a hit.

MISS OLIVE WEST, owing to her success at the Empire, Camberwell, last week, has been engaged as second girl for Mr. Mulholland's pantomime at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, at Christmas.

MISS FANNY ROBINA and Florry Cooper have just finished twelve weeks' provincial tour with very great success, and will rest for a fortnight previous to resuming business at Gloucester, Porth, and other towns.

DOLLY, AGNES, AND MAUD finish to-night six weeks' successful tour in Scotland with their vocal act, fancy box-making, playing four weeks in Glasgow. They open on Monday at the Hippodrome, Wakefield, on a third return visit.

MR. ARTHUR TURLE, after being away in the States for a considerable time, has returned to England much improved in health, and is now at liberty for a position as manager. His experience and smartness should soon secure him a post.

EDISON FILMS

NOW READY FOR SHIPMENT FROM THE FACTORY, ORANGE, N.J., U.S.A.

BUYING A TITLE.

Synopsis of Scenes:

THE COURSE OF TRUE LOVE—A devoted couple decide to marry—Jack interviews Pa, but is told he wants a titled husband for his daughter—Jack retires downcast.

THE MATRIMONIAL BUREAU—Pa looks over an "assorted lot" of "Noblemen"—They display their credentials—A French Count is told to "call around" and meet his future wife.

AMONG THE "LOWER FIVE"—Nora, the maid of Jack's sweetheart, has a policeman lover, and between times entertains him—Jack is in her good graces, and she arranges a meeting.

HATCHING A PLOT—The lovers are interrupted by the arrival of the Count's note stating his intended visit at 4 p.m.—The lovers finally hit upon a plan of action—Nora enters into the fun, and assumes the young lady's place—Attires herself accordingly—The lovers dress as Maid and Butler.

THE COUNT'S FINISH—The Count arrives—Nora, as mistress receives him—He presses his suit ardently, while the hidden lovers enjoy the scene—The Count declares his undying love, and embraces Nora just as Dan, the policeman, arrives—His "Irish up" he "wipes the floor" with the Count—Finally throws him out, to the delight of Nora and the young couple.

No. 6378. Code, "Velox." Length, 935ft.

THE LEPRECHAWN: An Irish Fairy Story.

Synopsis of Scenes:

THE CLOVEN FOOT—Lord Craven, an Irish landlord, sees pretty Nora—Makes advances, which are resented—He tries to kiss her—She slaps his face.

AN UNEXPECTED BLOW—Lord Craven's agent demands rent from Nora's mother—She pleads for time.

AN IRISHMAN'S MIGHT—Craven offers to cancel rent if Nora will listen to him—Barney answers for her—Craven retires with a sore head.

THE WITCH-WOMAN'S CURSE—Craven meets the witch-woman—She tells his fortune—Strikes her—She "puts a curse on him."

RAISING THE RENT—Nora starts out to sell potatoes—Poor success—Meets Barney—He promises to catch a Leprechawn and get the money.

AT THE WITCH-WOMAN'S—She works a charm—Shows a rosy future—Gives Barney a charm for the Leprechawn.

CATCHING A LEPRECHAWN—Barney starts on his errand—Sees a Leprechawn at work—Tries to catch—Gives him the charm.

THE TREASURE CAVE—Leprechawn leads Barney—Barney's eyes dazzled—Is offered snuff—Refuses—Packs the gold—A heavy load.

THE EVICTION—Lord Craven has soldiers evict Nora and her mother—Pleadings are vain—Barney arrives—Pays the rent, demands and gets a receipt.

"FAIRY GOLD"—Gloating over his money, Craven stops to count it—It turns to autumn leaves—Demands receipt from Barney—"Paid once, get out"—Nora and Barney happy.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT BULMER,
The Empire, Liverpool.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT MITCHELL,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. J. CHRISTIE,
Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

THIS WEEK'S NOVELTIES.

DOWRY HUNTING.
Code Word, "FAGOT."

An American heiress wishes to marry in the aristocracy, but as an old name and traditions do not always exclude cowardice, one of her rejected suitors, in order to compel her consent, has the young lady carried off by hired men. But he has not reckoned on the unforeseen presence of a young schoolmaster who bravely defends her and saves her from her assailants. The American girl, finding in her defender a modest, honest, and devoted lover, offers him at once her hand and her fortune.

890ft. The Subject, £14 16s. 8d. Toning extra, £1 10s. 0d.

AN ENERGETIC WOMAN.
Code Word, "FAISAN."

Mrs. Hart learns that her husband is carrying on a flirtation elsewhere, and pushing her hat right back on her head, she goes out in search of him. After a very exciting run she spies the white flannel suit of Mr. Hart in company with a smartly dressed lady. The couple step into a carriage; Mrs. Hart beckons a cab, but as she thinks the cabby is too slow for her impatience, she dislodges him from his box and drives herself. She comes up with the carriage in front and gives the gentleman with the white suit a good thrashing. Her husband happening to come along is very much surprised to see her fighting with a negro.

297ft. The Subject, £4 19s. 0d.

I AM GOING TO MY AUNT'S.
Code Word, "FAIENCE."

Young Teddy, a school boy with bad manners and worse temper, writes to his aunt that he is coming to spend a few days with her. Teddy's manners have not improved since he last came to see his aunt; he smokes his uncle's cigars without asking anyone, stretches himself on the sofa, and eats . . . like a pig. Surely when he goes away the whole household will heave a sigh of relief.

264ft. The Subject, £4 8s. 0d. Toning extra, 5s. 0d.

MODERN MAGIC.
Code Word, "FAITAGE."

The magician puts panes of glass on to water-jugs, which serve as supports. On top of these she places a casket from which issue grimacing faces; smoke of different colours rises from the ground, and there appears in a frame a young woman who takes the shape of a butterfly, whose shining wings flutter and shimmer in the light.

396ft. The Subject, £6 13s. 0d. Colouring extra, £4.

DETECTIVES FRITT AND PLOCK.
Code Word, "EXCITANT."

A very daring thief has been traced by the police, but as he always escapes when they least expect it, a reward of £1000 has been promised to the detective who can catch him. Our friends, Fritt and Plock, who have been given special instructions, see the man as he is enjoying his drink on the terrace of a café; but noticing that he is being watched the scoundrel jumps into a cab and drives to the station; just as the train is steaming out an old lady and a swell arrive in time to see that they are too late. Turning round, they recognise each other. Fritt boards a motor-car, and while he is preparing for the start Plock ties a small carriage belonging to a cripple to the rear of the automobile, and jumps in. And so forth, until at last they are both there to catch the thief in a curiosity shop, and shaking hands loyally they decide to share the reward.

626ft. The Subject, £10 8s. 8d.

SILHOUETTES.
Code Word, "FACTAGE."

Two Chinamen throw on the screen all sorts of personages that silhouette themselves on the dark background, then move and dance very prettily in a series of "tableaux vivants."

379ft. The Subject, £6 6s. 4d. Colouring extra, £3 3s. 0d.

OBLIGED TO CONSENT.
Code Word, "FABLE."

A young man, having been refused by a stern father the hand of the girl he loves, comes back and sings his love under her window. The father is so furious that he fires at him, and the boy tumbles down in a heap. After a time he comes back wrapped in a white sheet and plays the ghost before the haunted eyes of the man who believes himself to be a murderer. The repeated visions are telling on his nerves, and at last he promises the ghost to grant any request he might have to put before him, and so it happens that the young man can marry his lady love, in spite of the strong objection her father had to this marriage at first.

379ft. The Subject, £6 6s. 4d.

FEMININE HATE.
Code Word, "ETEIGNOIR."

An idle young lady has become interested in a handsome Bohemian; and she goes out with him. Yet a gipsy girl of his gang is in love with him, and as this rouses her jealousy she tells the young lady's father of her idyll; he shrugs his shoulders, and resumes his walk. The gipsy runs to the beach where she is sure to find the couple, and she endeavours to kill the other girl with her stiletto; but the stranger snatches a revolver from her side, and fires. The last picture shows the Bohemian crying over the body of the girl his fickleness has caused to be so badly injured.

445ft. The Subject, £7 8s. 4d.

IN THE ARMY—OUR DOG SERVANTS.
Code Word, "ESTAMPE."

Titles of pictures:—The team—On their way to th cantonment—Searching for the wounded—In the wood—A bad spot—After covering twenty miles—A well-earned rest.

297ft. The Subject, £4 19s. 0d.

HOW JANE FOUND HER HUSBAND.
Code Word, "FACULTE."

Jane is twenty-five years of age, and as her father does not seem to be in a hurry to see her married, she helps Fate by bestrewing the pavement in front of her house with broken glass, enough to make fifty tyres burst. What she has anticipated happens, and the gentleman who has met with an accident is very pleased to be introduced to Jane's father; but after h has proposed for her hand and he sees that there is no other way of moving the old man, he runs away with her in his motor-car as soon as same is repaired, and this forces Jane's father to say, "Yes," when he would have fain said "No."

460ft. The Subject, £7 13s. 4d.

IN RUSSIA.
Code Word, "ENCOCHE."

Titles of pictures:—On the Volga—In Caucasus—The river Terol—The port of Odessa—Labourers in the port—Soldiers marching past.

297ft. The Subject, £4 19s. 0d.

LAST WEEK'S NOVELTIES.

NEW YORK.
Code Word, "FANAL."

New York, the city of the huge buildings and crowded streets, is seen at its best in this picture, for there have been chosen for making same some of its finest places:—Broadway—The Brooklyn Bridge—Central Park—The arrival of a liner at the harbour—A few sky scrapers, &c., &c.

510ft. The Subject, £8 10s. 0d.

COLLECTION OF POSTAGE STAMPS.
Code Word, "EVALUABLE."

A very interesting film on account of its charming display of colours, and the pretty dancers that, in their picturesque national dresses, present the different postage stamps of the world, are quite amusing.

528ft. The Subject, £8 16s. 0d. Colouring extra, £5 5s.

A SICILIAN'S REVENGE.
Code Word, "EXPRESS."

The manners and customs of some countries of the South of Europe when revealed to us in all their wildness and passion cannot but astonish us, specially if put before our eyes in a vivid scene, such as the following:—A Sicilian girl has been obliged to choose between two lovers, and as the rejected man tries to kidnap her she struggles with him until she is made powerless by the ropes which bind her. Her lover coming to her rescue has a hand-to-hand fight with the scoundrel, but the girl in order to avenge herself stabs him in the back without a pang of remorse.

412ft. The Subject, £6 17s. 4d.

THE GREAT GORDON BENNETT BALLOON RACE

Berlin, Oct. 11th. A fine picture of this event taken from exceedingly favourable positions. The competing Balloons, inflated and flying their national flags, appear in wonderful panoramic review. Close portrait views also show the cars at the moment of release, amongst them the winning Balloon and the American which came to grief. So clear are the pictures that the sand ballast may be discerned as it is emptied upon the heads—and down the necks—of the spectators.

No. 043. Code "Globes." Length (about) 300ft.

ADVENTURES OF A WATCH.

A winning film for every Exhibitor. Rollicking farce—ridiculous situations—a Rontgen Ray experiment and a remarkably original burlesque surgical operation. No. 2273. Code "Rays." Length 385ft.

THE PROFESSIONALS' MARATHON RACE

Windsor to the Stadium, October 10th. An exceptionally good series of this popular sporting event promoted by the "Evening News." The crowd of Competitors starting from the Great Park, Windsor. VIEWS EN ROUTE:—From Eton College, Craven Park, Harlesden, &c. The entry to the Stadium—Thrilling scenes at the Winning Tape—Close views of the arrival of Siret, White, and Keywood. Tremendous crowd of over 50,000 spectators.

No. 2281. Code "Siret." Length 365ft.

A TEXAS ELOPEMENT.

An episode of life in the Wild West. Camp Scenes—Thrilling Incidents—Clever and Skilful Horsemanship—Dramatic Situations—Delightful Scenery.

No. 2251. Code "Piquant." Length 520ft.

THE GORGES OF TARN.

One of the most picturesque districts in South-West France. Dolomite rocks, cliffs and caverns, chiselled and modelled by rain and frost, are continuously presented in wonderful arched, pointed, groyned, and fantastic designs.

No. 4074. Code "Tarn." Length 352ft.

THE TRAINING OF A FIGHTING BULL AT CAMARGUE.

Weeding out the herd. Bulls of 18 months tested for the "Ganaderia" or Training Farm. Training of young bulls for their first public appearance at four years old in the "Corrida." Roping, throwing, branding, ringing the bulls, &c. No. 3347. Code "Camargue." Length 320ft.

THE BALKAN CRISIS.

A new series of great Topical interest and beauty, especially valuable at the present juncture, as most realistic scenes are presented from every quarter of the district which now menaces the peace of Europe.

SERVIA.

Market, Street and Railway scenes at Nisch, Prokupli, Merusina, and Lapovo. Panoramic views of Belgrade, the Royal Palace, and March Past of the King's Bodyguard, &c., &c.

No. 1995. Code "Servia." Length 435ft.

TIRNOVA.

The ancient capital of Bulgaria and scene of the proclamation of the new Tsar. Picturesque surroundings and superb panoramic views from a train passing through the Gorge of Tirnova.

No. 2276. Code "Capital." Length 200ft.

BOSNIA, HERZEGOVINA, and DALMATIA.

Recently annexed by Austria. Railway and other panoramic scenes of wild and rugged beauty, Defiles, Passes, Cliffs, and Waterfalls. Picturesque city and peasant life, manners, and customs, quaint and unusual, &c., &c. No. 1993. Code "Bosnia." Length 710ft.

THE BULGARIAN ARMY IN THE FIELD.

A frontier post at Baratara, Turkish and Bulgarian Guards holding the line. Bulgarian troops of all arms, men smart and active, horses spirited and handsome. Dashing Charge of Cavalry—Fording the River at a Gallop—Descent of a Mountain and Pass—Brisk and thrilling work by Artillery and Mounted Infantry—Bodyguard of the new King, &c., &c.

No. 2275. Code "Ferdinand." Length 600ft.

GENERAL SCENES IN BULGARIA.

Railway and other panoramas, majestic Mountains, tumultuous Streams, verdant Valleys, and silent Gorges. Native habits and customs—Quaint towns—Typical characters. Bazaar and Street scenes in Sofia, Drenova, Gabrova—Rilo Monastery—Industries. Loading grain at the quaint old Turkish town of Bulgas, &c.

No. 2277. Code "Sofia." Length 305ft.

PANTO WINNERS! PANTO HITS!

Every Artiste, Author, or Manager should examine them. There are a lot of "down the course" .. songs offered this year, but THESE are the only REAL CERTAIN SURE WINNERS. ..

PRINCIPAL BOY–
"I CAN'T GET AWAY FROM THE GIRLS."
"MY LIMELIGHT LOU."

PRINCIPAL GIRL–
"HOLD ME TIGHTER, MR. LIGHTER."
"WHO'D LIKE TO PAY FOR MY HOLIDAY."

BOY or GIRL (very effective)–
"JENNIE, DON'T SWING ON THE GATE."

COMEDIAN–
"GIRLS, GIRLS, NOTHING ELSE BUT GIRLS."

CHORUS SONGS (beautifully harmonised)–
* "LITTLE SILVER MOONBEAM."
(Great for staging purposes. The best since "Pansy Faces.")
* "WHEN THE SUNRISE PAINTS THE DISTANT HILLS WITH ROSE."
* "SWEET BELLS OF HOME."

Band Parts can be had of those marked *, price 1/- per set.

PLEASE ENCLOSE SIX STAMPS FOR POSTAGE. These are the only songs that "stand out" on their merits. They are bound to keep you in the front rank if you are there already, or, if not, are certain to place you there right away.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1908.
Morning Leader, Jan. 18:—
"The Era" Annual is still the supreme record of the "passing show." The new issue for 1908, in addition to being a comprehensive historical survey of the theatrical world, contains a great amount of lighter dramatic fare. Mr. Frank Desprez tells a most entertaining story of the troubles of an understudy, who was called upon at short notice to play an exciting part in "The Crime of Count Corusco"; Mr. Lionel Brough writes on "The Natural Actor"; Mr. Arthur Collins on "A Day at the Telephone"; Mr. Richard Green on "Opera Reminiscences"; Mr. Henry Vibart on "Actors' Christmas Days"; Mr. Alfred Butt on "Double Dummy"; Mr. Ernest Shand on "Fishing"; and Miss Marie Illington on "Betty Bellamy's Burglar."

UP-TO-DATE TESTIMONIALS.

WE LEAD—FOLLOW WHO CAN.

TESTIMONIALS FROM

A MANAGER.

Dear Sir,—It gives me much pleasure to testify to the admirable work done by you in the cleaning of the exceptionally heavy tableaux curtains of this theatre. It must have been no easy task, especially the bringing up of the gold to the state of perfection you have achieved.—Yours truly, HERBERT BEERBOHM TREE, His Majesty's Theatre.

Mr. Harris, The Chemical Cleaning Co.

AN ACTRESS.

May Hargreaves, "His House in Order" Co.,
Drury-lane, Wakefield,
Oct. 17, 1908.

Dear Sir,—I was very pleased with my green costume you cleaned for me about a fortnight ago.—Yours faithfully, MAY HARGREAVES.

A MUSIC HALL ARTIST.

G. H. Chirgwin, "Easdale," Leigham Court-road, Streatham Hill,
September, 1908.

Dear Mr. Harris,—I hardly think you need any testimonial, as the Chemical Cleaning and Dyeing Co. and its very worthy manager are known all over the United Kingdom. You have done my cleaning for many years now, and when my white eye needs cleaning I shall have no hesitation in sending it to you, as I know it will come back practically new, without an eyelash missing.—Yours very truly, G. H. CHIRGWIN.

A MUSIC HALL MANAGER

T. Harris, Esq.,
Chemical Cleaning Co., Argyll-street.

Dear Sir, Your restoration and cleaning of the curtains, draperies, and silk panels is deserving of the highest praise, especially your treatment of the Royal Box.

I am not forgetting the fact that it was all done between the shows, without interfering in any way with the business of the theatre.—Yours truly, H. E. MOSS.

MRS. GEORGE ALEXANDER.

57, Pont St., S.W.
Monday.

Dear Sir,—You have done my gown quite beautifully. I had no idea that dry dyeing was so perfect. Many thanks for the care you have taken with the embroidery.

Truly yours,

Mina Alexander.

AN ACTRESS.

Opera House,
Cheltenham.
17th October, 1908.

Gentlemen, — I received the coat this morning, and am very pleased with it.

Yours truly,

Gladys Deane.

A COURT DRESSMAKER.

Caley,
Court Dressmakers
21st: Sept., 1907

Mr. Harris, Dear Sir —I wish to thank you for cleaning the linen costumes for me, and at such very short notice. I think it simply wonderful being able to do it in the time, and they looked splendid. I need hardly say how pleased I am under the circumstances. Yours Truly L. Hall.

A MANAGER.

Hippodrome, Croydon.
15th October, 1908.

Dear Mr. Harris,—Dresses to hand, many thanks; they are beautifully cleaned. Herewith cheque in payment of same.

Kind regards, yours faithfully,

J. W. Cordiner.

A MANAGER.

Criterion Theatre, W.,
Sept. 23, 1907.

Dear Mr. Harris,—I am glad to be able to state that Miss Mary Moore and Sir Charles Wyndham are very satisfied with the manner in which you have cleaned the tableaux curtain and all the draperies at the New Theatre. They look as good as new.—Yours very truly, A. F. HENDERSON.

A MANAGER.

Fulham Theatre, S.W., Oct. 24, 1907.

Dear Mr. Harris,—It is with pleasure I am able to express Mr. Robert Arthur's entire satisfaction as to the excellent manner the tableaux curtains, draperies, &c., at the Fulham Theatre have been cleaned by your firm. The work has been admirably carried out.—Yours truly, FREDERICK MERER.

A MANAGER.

J. H. Savile, Paisley and Perth Theatres, Oct. 20, 1908.

T. Harris, Esq. Dear Sir,—We were more than satisfied with the excellent manner in which you cleaned the "Dick Whittington" pantomime dresses last year. I am sending you all the dresses from the pantomime, "Puss in Boots," and shall be obliged if you will immediately have them cleaned for me and then forwarded on to me here at Paisley Theatre. I am sure you will do it with quickest despatch.—Yours faithfully, JOHN HENRY SAVILE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDARE.—New Theatre.—Proprietors, the Aberdare, Public Hall, Theatre, and Billposting Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Z. Andrews; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. Richards.—Messrs. Herbert Skardon and H. Sherwood Martin's company presented here, in brilliant style, The Way of the World. Mr. Herbert Skardon gave a capital performance of Cecil Hardy; Miss Sidney Crowe's portrayal of Lady Adela Hardy was effective in every detail; in the rôle of Captain Fred Blake Mr. Victor Gordon gave a good account of himself; as Joe Sparrow Mr. D'Arcy Kelway evokes continual laughter; Miss Violet Vivienne as Polly Bell (the strong woman) caused much fun; an effective rendering of Kate Montague came from Miss Marie Fontaine; Mr. Augustus Hammond was successful as Horatio Bluff; Mr. Clarence Temple gave a manly rendering of Matthew Malyon; and as Sir John Hardy Mr. Pat Quin was commendable.

ABERDEEN.—His Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—The Flower Girl, by Mr. Martin Adeson's company, has drawn good houses this week. Mr. Adeson acts with rollicking humour the part of Joe, and Miss Dorothy Terris sings and plays most vivaciously as the Flower Girl; Mr. Alfred Donohoe, Mr. Norman Bowyer, Mr. R. H. Howard, and Miss Jeannie Holmes are also conspicuously successful, the last-named appearing in the rôle of a Suffragette. The orchestra is skilfully conducted by Mr. Neale.

Palace Theatre.—Lessees, The United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—An exceptionally interesting display of ju-jitsu wrestling is given by Mr. Frank Lyon, the British champion, and Omoye San, the Japanese lady champion; Mr. Albert Wyndham and his able company appear in a sketch based on Othello. Mr. Wyndham acts powerfully as the Moor, and Miss Paula Sheppard pathetically portrays the sorrows of Desdemona; Mr. George Rae, Scotch comedian and dancer, is warmly encored; Spry and Monti are as amusing and resourceful as ever; Olga and Edgar, a pair of cultured musicians, are thoroughly appreciated; Mr. Harry Zetter makes a success as an eccentric comedian and dancer; Allis and Cassati continue popular; and, as usual, Clarke's Nippers earn hearty applause.

Beach Pavilion.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. David Thomson.—The chief feature of attraction this week is the men's beauty competition, for which there is a host of entrants. The excellent variety programme is contributed to by those popular favourites Miss Violet Davidson, Miss Muriel Collie, Mr. David Thomson, Mr. Jack Marson, Mr. Jack Kynoch, and Master George Hendry. Despite the lateness of the season and the recent rough weather at the beach, the audiences continue large.

Alhambra Music Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. John Sinclair; General Manager, Mr. G. B. Lee.—Mr. Tom Melrose, coon comedian, is heartily applauded for his singing and dancing, and no less successful are Miss Vesta Rae, an excellent comedienne and soprano singer, and Mr. Tom Read and Miss Elsie Wright, who are enthusiastically encored for their rendering of the humorous ditty "The Christening of the Kid." The Cinematograph display remains a strong feature of attraction.

Empire Music Hall.—Managers, Messrs. R. Calder and J. Montague.—Among the artists this week are the piquant comedienne Miss Marie Rose; Mr. Archie Murray, a capital coloured comedian; Mr. Henry Mitchell, a dexterous gymnast; and Mr. Arthur Bright, topical vocalist and instrumentalist. An amusing sketch, Obedient Sam, is cleverly depicted by the Empire Sketch Company, and Mr. Alexander Calder's cinematograms are greatly appreciated.

ABERTILLERY.—Metropole Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. J. Seaborn.—An excellent production of the famous drama £1,000 Reward is given at this theatre by Mr. Frank J. Pitt's capable company. Mr. Pitt submits a realistic impersonation of Vincent Rainsworth, the detective of the new school; and Mr. Frank Dallas acts with power and stirring effect in the part of Inspector Gilbert, of the old school. Fred Ingleford is cleverly portrayed by Mr. Edward de Vere; and Mr. J. Wilton enacts with dramatic force the part of Gilbert Lisle. Miss Kathryne Eckart appropriately sustains the character of Madame Sanson; Miss Marjorie Seymour is good as Meg, a flower girl, and her singing is highly appreciated. The mounting of the piece is decidedly good.

Pavilion.—Lessees, Messrs. E. and H. Tilney; Manager, Mr. E. Pryce.—The programme this week is meeting with capital support. Wizard and Irene Stone top the bill in their daring performance in the "Globe of Life." Another interesting feature is Cambo's musical mélange as the man-monkey; and the Itrams are decidedly clever in their pot-pourri act. A pleasing sketch, entitled Devonshire Cream, is given by Jack and May McKenzie; while George Bernard uses his vocal powers with great dramatic force in "The last of the Light Brigade." Harry Claff and company provide a treat in their burlesque pantomime, Demon and Fairy; Minnie D'Aubyn is very successful as a vocalist; and the Bioscope shows several interesting pictures.

ACCRINGTON.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. Frank Bertram's company in the powerful drama The Breed of the Treshams is drawing good houses. Mr. Sydney Bland impersonates the character of Lieut. Beresby with irresistible power and skill; Batty is skilfully portrayed by Miss Grace Harlington; Miss Mildred Hodgson makes a graceful and winning Margaret; Mr. Alfred Holles gives a spirited impersonation of Viscount Dorsington; Mr. W. R. Winning is eminently satisfactory as Clement Hungerford; Mr. George Traill distinguishes himself as Sir Henry Curwen; and Mr. Howard Brenan is an admirable Francis Tresham. The remaining characters are all in good hands. The mounting and stage effects are good.

ALDERSHOT.—Royal and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—Mr. Leonard Boyne and talented company are here this week, and are giving a delightful interpretation of Raffles. Mr. Leonard Boyne's conception of the leading rôle is masterful, his acting throughout proving his marked ability. As the aristocratic Earl Mr. Arthur Willoughby is wonderfully effective; Mr. Cyril Brymer is good as the Viscount; whilst Mr. Harold West's is a meritorious enactment of Bunny; Mr. E. W. Thomas gives a capable personation of the persistent and shrewd detective Bedford; Mr. Buckstone Clair is capital as Crawshay; and Mr. R. Barbour does well as Barraclough, besides attending to the stage-managing. Miss Blanka Stewart as Lady Melrose is decidedly good; Miss Hilda Moore plays the rôle of Gwen with ease and refinement; Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald's Lady Ethel is all that could be wished for; Miss Lillian Hallows' performance of Mrs. Vidal is marked by ability; and Miss Dorothy Gordon as the French maid Marie does well. The play is effectively staged and tastefully dressed, and large audiences are showing keen appreciation of the performance.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Mr. J. W. Turner's company is producing here some well-tried and popular works. On Monday The Bohemian Girl was performed to a good house. Mr. Chas. Le Sueur as Thaddeus sang the music with tunefulness, and his acting was full of vigour and passion; Miss Sarah Williams made a winsome Arline; Mr. Tom Griffiths gave dignity to the Count, and his fine bass voice told excellently in "The heart bowed down"; Mr. Sidney Clifford's Devilshoof was, as usual, full of humour; and the Florestein of Mr. P. Newton was satisfactory. Miss Olive Westwood as the Queen of the Zingari was sufficiently regal as the head of the tribe; and Miss Maud Esdale was also satisfactory in the small rôle of Bada. On Tuesday Martha was given; and on Wednesday Mr. Turner appeared as Tom Tug in the popular old operetta The Waterman.

Empire Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—The "bill" here this week is headed by Sydney Mason and Theresa Moore in the dramatic episode The Usurer. Some good character-acting is witnessed, with Mr. Sydney Mason as a money-lender, Mr. Syd Leslie as an adventurer, and Miss Theresa Moore as the money-lender's wife. Stacey and Williams are a stylish comedy pair; Leo Trainor finds friends as a singing comic; Ajax and George are clever gymnasts; Arthur Bearle sings some taking ditties in an eccentric manner; the Sisters Hardie charm as Scottish duettists and dancers; Milsted Bell Trio appear in a diverting comedietta, Three Sharps in a Flat. Emmie Milsted is a vivacious lady with nimble feet; Mabel Milsted is an expert dancer; and Joe Milsted is laughable. Radie Farman fully justifies her title, the "jolly little Dutch girl"; and the Bioscope figures prominently.

Picturedrome.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.—New animated picture exhibitions are the prominent feature here for the week.

ATTERCLIFFE.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manageress, Miss Ethel J. Hope.—The Imperial Animated Picture Co. still hold the sway here. In addition to illustrated songs by Mr. Glanmore Jones, the following series of films are shown: Brigands of Calabria, A Reveller's Dream, The Magic Sack, Abduction in the Reign of Louis XIV., and A Night of Terror.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Bert Dent; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry Sanders.—The chief item of this week's attractive programme is furnished by Kennedy's Kiddies, who give a capital vocal, dancing, and athletic scene; Elton and Elma are clever as well as funny on the triple bars. Other interesting turns are furnished by Rennie, ventriloquist; Hughes and Elliott, in a singing and dancing act; Mr. Walter Barrett, baritone and character vocalist; the Two Errols, comedy tumblers and leapers; Mr. Eugene Brandt, comedian; and the Attergraph pictures.

AYR.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—The Soldier's Wedding attracted a full house on Monday. Miss Dorothy Richardson as Nancy plays the part with a charm which makes her a strong favourite; Mr. Wingold Lawrence takes the part of the hero with great acceptance; Miss Marie McAulay and Mr. Gerald Jordan make themselves sufficiently detested, which is a tribute to their fine acting; as the old farmer, Nathaniel Lee, Mr. Fred Yarnold makes a decided hit; and the other members of the company give loyal support. The scenery is a feature of the production.

BACUP.—New Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denman-Wood.—Miss Bonwin Carlton's company is paying a welcome return visit here this week, and on Monday night played The Plucky Nipper. Mr. W. Lowther infuses the due amount of military dignity into the character of Colonel Fenwick; and Mr. T. Hadlin as Captain Frank Leslie plays in a manner well in keeping with the part. Richard Vanborough is skilfully represented as a thorough-paced villain by Mr. J. P. Dryden; and Mr. Edward Surrey as Bill Burgess gives a life-like representation of the character. Mr. C. Wilson as Tommy Atkins gets plenty of fun out of the character; Miss Esther Lamont gives evidence of ability as Ina Fenwick; Miss Kitty Maynard gives a pleasing impersonation of a blind girl; and Miss Bonwin Carlton scores heavily in the title-rôle. On Tuesday and the two following evenings, The Old, Old Story was presented by the same company, with Mr. Edward Surrey as William Grimshaw, detective, and Miss Bonwin Carlton as Tilly, the lady bookie.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Royalty Theatre and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Messrs. Jose and Young's company in Amasis is here. Mr. W. H. Denny as Pharaoh thoroughly proves his capabilities as a comedian; and Mr. Edward McKeown is an inspiriting Prince Anhotep. Mr. Arthur Stroud as Cheiro the Scribe sings artistically; Mr. Frank Atree is an eccentric Ptolemy; and Mr. Walter D. Brodie a droll Sebak. Miss Elsie Don is a pleasing Natis; and Miss Mabel Burnage invests Princess Amasis with much sweetness and charm.

Tivoli.—Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edgar G. Laban.—A capital array of talent is here this week. The premier position is held by Shaun Glenville, assisted by Miss Ada Tilley and Mr. Augustine Symonds, in a laughable sketch; The Coastguards, by Drew and Alders, kept the audience in excellent humour; an ingenious miniature vaudeville theatre entertainment is given by Mlle. Haydee; Will Cornish has a fine musical speciality act; Fred Barrs is a pleasing light comedian; some good baritone songs are well rendered by H. Neild; and the entertainment is concluded by some interesting pictures.

New Hippodrome.—Owners and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—The reputation of this house is maintained by the capital pictures that are being shown this week. Mr. Fred Lamb, tenor; Messrs. Fred Williams and W. G. Gilmore render songs and duets during the evening.

BARRY DOCK.—New Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden.—Last night Mr. Geo. A. De Gray presented The Power of the Cross to a well-filled house. Mr. Geo. A. De Gray portrayed the chief rôle capably; Miss Annie Hylton sustained with marked ability the character of Margaret Seaton; another commendable performance was that of Mr. Robert Hall as Gerald Fairfax; Mr. Alex J. Haviland was good as Dr. Leslie Fairfax; and the comedy parts were well sustained by Mr. Tyrone Power and Miss Etta Turner.

BATH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—This week Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson are paying their annual visit, and, as usual, are supported by a body of enthusiastic Shakespearian actors and actresses. On Monday a capital start was made with an excellent all-round performance of The Merchant of Venice, Mr. and Mrs. Benson appearing in their well-known and appreciated impersonations of Shylock and Portia. Mr. Baliol Holloway was a new-comer as Bassanio, as was Miss Helen Haye as Nerissa. Both scored a conspicuous success. On Tuesday The Merry Wives of Windsor was put on.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—During the temporary absence of Mr. Schuberth the management is being entrusted to Mr. Macdonald, who is fortunate enough to be able to present a pleasing programme. Foremost is Miss Kate Traill, whose songs at the piano are given charmingly; hilarity reigns supreme while The Waldrons occupy the stage in their absurdity, The Silly Burglar; Johnson and Devere execute difficult cycling feats upon the high wire and boards; Silvo, on the glasses and silvochimes, is unique; Shrillo is a whistler of wonderful accomplishments; Harold Thorley, who has been seen here in musical comedy, now secures appreciation as a ballad vocalist; Tom Yorke, comedian, also appears; Raymond's Bio-Tableaux remain a fixed attraction.

BATLEY.—Theatre.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Whitty; Manager, Mr. Alfred A. Taylor.—The entertainment this week is provided by Hardie and Von Leer's company in Two Lancashire Lasses in London. The company is one of all-round merit, and the performance on Monday night was greatly appreciated by a capital house. Mr. Herbert Pearson gives a clever impersonation of John Edmonds; Mr. Chris Mason's Samuel Hallett is very realistic; Mr. E. Rayson-Cousens scores heavily with an effective portrayal of the Rev. Frank Selby; Mr. Fred Morgan makes an excellent Jonas Deane; Mr. Jack Millan and Mr. W. Walmsley give powerful delineations of the two burglars, Jim Price and Ratty respectively; Miss Rosslyn Vane and Miss Alice Defoe are successful as the sisters from Lancashire; the part of Bessie Edmonds is capaby portrayed by Miss Marguerite Trevosper; and Miss E. Shaw does well as Mrs. Hallett.

BEDFORD.—Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—Mr. Chas. Macdona's chief company commenced a week's sojourn here on Monday with Are You a Mason? Mr. H. Langdon Bruce amusingly impersonates George Fisher; Mr. Wilton Ross is excellent as Ernest Morrison; and Mr. E. H. Paterson acts well as Amos Bloodgood. A humorous exponent of Frank Perry is Mr. Stanley Groom; and Mr. G. P. Polson as John Halton and Mr. Erskholme E. Clive as Hamilton Travers are well fitted for their parts. Miss Adelaide Grace has a part for which she is well suited, viz., Mrs. Bloodgood; Miss Viola Garland is a capable Mrs. Halton, and Miss Mary Kilpack a charming Lottie. Mrs. Bloodgood's daughters were ably impersonated by Misses Rita Narcelli, Rita Johnson, and Dulcie Verney.

BELFAST.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—We are favoured this week with a visit from Mr. George Edwardes' company, in the musical play, The Girls of Gottenberg, which is meeting with a great reception. Happy Fanny Fields appears as Mitzi, the inn-keeper's daughter, with the most gratifying success, her singing and dancing being frequently encored; Mr. Edmund Payne also achieves a great hit as Max Moddelkoff. His humour is irresistible, and he succeeds in creating the heartiest laughter. As Otto Mr. Leslie Holland is capital; and a delightful impersonation of Elsa is submitted by Miss Thelma Raye; Miss Maisie Gay must be congratulated on her clever impersonation of Clementine, which it would be difficult to excel; Mr. Fred Allandale as Albrecht is much to be commended; and Mr. Fred Payne appears to advantage as Brittlbotti. Miss Florence Phillips as Lucille furnishes a fine exhibition of dancing in the second act. Other rôles are sustained by Miss Kitty Sparrow, Miss Nancy Rich, and Messrs. Jocelyn Hope, Arnold Lucy, and Ernest Arundel. The chorus and augmented orchestra are under the direction of Mr. P. Branam.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—Tarro Myaki, who is described as the champion ju-jitsu wrestler of Japan, tops the bill, and furnishes a good exhibition; Mr. Arthur Boyne's comic songs have been enjoyed; and a sensation has been created by the wonderful rifle performance of Col. Gaston Bordeverry. The comedy bar act of the Three Zaracs is excellent; and Messrs. S. and G. Suer provide a clever jumping act. Mr. Dan Conroy, always welcome here, makes a bit hit; and Miss Ivy Aberdare is an accomplished comedienne and dancer. Also here are Miss Maud Prenton, comedienne; the Ladderites, equilibrists; and the Palace pictures.

Royal Hippodrome.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Will Sley and Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The leading attraction is provided by Mr. J. W. Wilson and Miss Nellie Waring, who have been most successful in their comedy act, An Ugly Duckling; a great hit has been recorded by Probyns' Brooklyn Comedy Four, their performance being decidedly entertaining; and much merriment has been created by Arthur Ferris and Ethel May in their comedy act, Two's Company, Three's ——. Miss Daisy Mayer's coon stories, with music, meet with pleased acceptance; Langslow is aptly described as a wonderful rifle shot; and the Bohemians (Will and May), Heeley and Meeley, in their original scena, The Lucky Tramps, Dancit, Arthur Holland, vocalist, and the Hipposcope, complete the bill.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—The chief position here is filled by the Lukushimas, a troupe of real Japanese entertainers, introducing Otarasan, Japan's premier lady artist, and their reception on Monday was terrific; the Jackson Family return with their refined and clever musical act; and the Schaffers appear to great advantage in their comedy musical act; Phil and Nettie Peters are a very excellent comedy duo; the Brothers Redmond return with their acrobatic act; Spry and Austin take well, and deservedly so; and also here are Miss Marion Scott, comedienne, and the Bioscope.

New Alhambra Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—Packed houses are the rule, and this week the following films have been exhibited, Chieftain's Revenge, I've Lost the Ball, Cliff Climbing, Haunted Bedroom, Indian's Honour, &c. Wragg and Wragg, military athletes, appear with much success; and Mr. Arthur Harris, a capital vocalist, is deservedly encored.

St. George's Hall.—General-Manager, Mr. Robert Wilson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur.—Capital business still continues here. This week many beautiful films have been exhibited, including, The Bargee's Daughter, Wishbone, Kind-hearted Tramp, Alexandra Quadrille, &c. In addition, the charming Sisters Stanley appear; and Mr. Hugh T. Devine's songs are enthusiastically received.

BILSTON.—New Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John M. Dawson; General-Manager, Mr. S. Hadskis Dawson.—Mr. Bulmer's company, presenting The Girl Who Went Astray, drew a capital house on Monday. Mr. John B. Shinton makes a manly hero as Captain Frank Julian; and Miss Ada Ryder acts in a winning manner as Violet Harvey. Miss Gwynne Warren scores a distinct success in the heavy rôle of Madge Harvey, the girl who went astray. Amusement is provided in a generous measure by the capable trio Mr. Tod Squire (James Yellowsocks), Mr. Edwin Roland (Adolphus Boomer), and Miss Mary Dalby (Molly Smart). Mr. Fred Lloyd makes an effective Rupert Murdock; and Mr. Edgar P. Melrose is very good as Sergt. John Harvey, V.C.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant; Secretary, Miss Isabel Morris.—A return visit from H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's Lucky Durham company has attracted crowded houses. Mr. S. Herbert Humber gives a powerful and telling performance of John Durham, securing the sympathy and interest of the audience throughout; Mr. William Heilbronn is conspicuous with a fine rendering of Mr. Valkerton; Mr. Arthur Leigh plays the Hon. Reginald Steighton with irresistible humour and ability; and Mr. T. Renaud Lockwood does full justice to the rôle of Lord Mountfallon. The important character of Helen Vallerton is admirably represented by Miss Alice Esther Bellmore, who sustains the part with much charm and acceptance; Lady Mountfallon is played with considerable tact and effect by Miss Rosabel Dodd; Miss Beatrice Sinclair attains distinction as Mrs. Durham; and Miss Florence Dulhunty is an interesting Hon. Margaret Steighton. Mr. J. H. Gerald is well placed as Arthur Walcombe, and the remaining parts are all adequately filled.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—An excellent programme is contributed by King and Benson, entertaining variety artists and accomplished vocalists; the Six Brothers Luck, in an entertaining sketch, entitled Lift-'Em's, Limited; Miss Marie Blythe, a talented comedienne; Lieut. Travis, the popular ventriloquist; Tom E. Hughes, comedian; Miss May De Rowse, comedienne; George Collins, the popular comedian; Miss Ida Barr, a charming serio; Arthur Woodville, comedian and dancer; and Brown's Royal Bioscope. Mr. Ernest Denney is musical-director.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The Sins of Society has given the patrons of this noted old drama-house of the past a taste of up-to-date or Drury Lane drama, of which they have well availed themselves. The company which Mr. F. W. Bolam presents gives a very vivid portrayal. Miss Grace E. Leslie at once touches the sympathies of the audience with her realistic picture of despair and remorse as Marion; Mr. C. F. Collins plays the villain, Noel Ferrers, in a most accomplished and nonchalant manner; Mr. E. Vassal-Vaughan gives a fine display of acting as the self-sacrificing hero, Dorien March; Miss Dorothy Giles brings out the charms of Lady Gwendoline in full perfection; Mr. Blake Adams, in his cleverly humorous way, does credit to the part of Hogg; and other able supporters are Mr. Fredk. Annerley, Miss Pattie Browne (in a delightfully humorous study of Lady Goldbury), Miss Janet Hodson, and Miss Mabel Murray.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—The Merry Widow has returned upon us with its attractions undiminished, the audiences being large and appreciative. Miss Constance Drever bears the title-rôle very gracefully, her singing, dancing, and acting being really exquisite; Mr. Leonard Mackay as the Prince gives an artistic portrayal, which is complete in every way; Mr. W. Talleur Andrews could not be excelled for his singing and acting as Vicomte de Jolidon; and Mr. Eric Thorne, with his ludicrous make-up and his even more ludicrous capers and witticisms as Popoff, keeps the audience in roars. Mr. W. H. Rawlins is another source of mirth as Nisch; and the characters of Natalie, Olga, and Sylvaine are acted to charming advantage by the Misses Cadman, May, and Courtney. Messrs. Leonard, David, Cotter, Greene, and Whitehouse are also prominent.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—Convict 99 is fulfilling a successful engagement here, the house being full every night. Mr. Frank Beresford is admired for the excellent way he carries out the character of Lawrence Gray; Mr. Benson North does his work well as Ralph Vickers; Mr. Edward Kipling is praiseworthy as James Stinchcombe; Miss Dorothy Milne finds favour for her sympathetic portrayal of Geraldine; Mr. J. Warris Lindon ably sustains the rôle of the father, Christopher Lucas; Mr. Walter Westwood successfully indicates the cruel nature of Warder Gannaway; and Messrs. H. Peachey and W. Fordyce as counsel for the defence and prosecution respectively do well. Miss Jennie Richards as Maggie Mason and Mr. P. L. Julian as Jim Lacy are also well up in their parts.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—The Idol of Paris is playing to big business here with Mr. James Bell's company. Miss Annie Bell creates a very favourable impression with her fine dresses and still finer acting as Flare-Flare; Mr. Gordon Robey is very good as Prince Sergius; the acting of Mr. Wilson Howard as Philippe D'Esterre, is all that the character requires; Mr. Leonard Aardale makes a popular and manly Victor Cashelle; Miss Annie Megson as Ann makes good use of her opportunities; Mr. Frank H. Dale shines as Tatave; and Miss Phena Powell, Miss Grace Noble, Miss Phare Anderson, Mr. Rd. O'Neill, Mr. Phil Rivers, Mr. Chris. Roberts, and Mr. Prindle Roberts complete the excellent cast.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The Shaughraun on Monday commenced a liberal week's fare here, with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Draycott and company. The life and soul of the play, of course, was Mr. Draycott, whose clever treatment of the rôle, Conn, will not easily be forgotten. Mrs. Draycott's portrayal of Clare Ffolliot was a charming performance, and got right to the hearts of the audience; and some very excellent support was given by Mr. Geo. Steel as Molineux, Mr. Wilfred J. Short as Robert Ffolliot, Mr. Geo. Arthur as Kinchela, Mr. Harry Scatchard as Harvey Duff, Miss Isa Steel as Arte O'Neale, and Miss Eva Norman as Moya. The Colleen Bawn, Shadows of a Great City, The Ticket-of-Leave Man, It's Never Too Late to Mend, and A Stolen Birthright have also been done exceedingly well here by this clever company.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Lake.—The Kiss of Judas, Hardie and Von Leer's new production, is recorded in another column.

Palace Theatre, Bordesley.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—The Worst Woman in London is the attraction here, with Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company. Miss Edith Blande essays the title-rôle, Frances Vere, in a clever fashion, and makes the most of it; Miss Dorothy Haigh acts in graceful contrast as Ruth Milford; Mr. George Gaisford makes a very pleasant and manly character of the hero, Jack Felton; Mr. Arthur Preston shows the despicable qualities of Vincent Lyle with much realism; Mr. H. W. Monte depicts the disreputable parent, Drayton, with great skill; Mr. Frank Litchfield gives a good embodiment of Philip Armstrong; Mr. F. Vernon Travers is successful as James Milford; and the comedy parts, Matilda Parker and Bob Goldfinch, are smartly enacted by Miss Polly Marsh and Mr. Willie Scott.

Grand Theatre of Varieties.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—The principal attraction here is Reano and his famous band. George Leyton is presenting his scena The Last Muster, which is applauded. Another popular turn is that of Billy Howard and Cathryn Harris, who are always bright and entertaining. Mildred Bryan renders her selections in an artistic manner; Lottie Govell dances herself into favour; Eddie Hayes and Mona Wynne are expert dancers; Thora's ventriloquism is up to date; the Gandsmidis have a novel acrobatic act; and Gus Le Clerq and Howard and Harris are more amusing than ever.

Empire Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—G. A. Elliott is entertaining crowded houses here. The famous Craggs have a sketch, Billy, the New Steward, which is very funny; Lady Mansell and her Juveniles are on a return visit with "The Concert Rehearsal"; and other popular turns are those of Ray and Calden, Little Zola, Coverdale, Maggie Walsh, W. G. Webber, and the Hartley Wonders.

Hippodrome.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Lyons.—Jan Rudenyi is proving an exceptional draw here. With his company he presents a romance, The Power of Music, in which he excels as a violinist. Leonard Barry is applauded for his song-scena; some clever card manipulating is done by Carlton; the Panamas have a smart pot-pourri act; and the Van Host Trio of comedy acrobats are particularly good. Rosie Revel, Willie Gardner, Joe Conway, Cedar and Elgar, and Kelly and Agnas complete a strong bill.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—Eden Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley, Travis Green, and Arthur Hinton's company opened here to a good house on Monday, in The Power of the King. Mr. Travis Green as Crown Prince Oscar, and Mr. P. Morton Wright as General Stenovie, are excellent; Mr. Gerald Blake gives a fine portrayal of the part of Captain Landgrave; every credit is due to Mr. Charles Witlock for his capital rendition of the King of Vallambrosa; Mr. Wilton Drury keeps the house alive by his funny capers in the part of Fritz Taslheln; and is well assisted by Miss Grace Barton, who makes a pleasing Marget; Miss Leila Zillwood is both charming and admirable as Lady Annastasia; great praise is due to little Miss Ruby Sutherland, an ideal Phillipe; and Miss Georgina V. France fulfils the part of Lady Florina admirably.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—The Beloved Vagabond, very ably enacted by Mr. Frederick Mouillot's company, is this week's draw. Gaston de Nerac is played by Mr. Arthur Royston with conspicuous ability; and Miss Nita Faydon has a part exactly suited to her style in Blanquette de Veau. Mr. Warburton Gamble contributes a very creditable impersonation of the Comte de Verneiul; and Mr. Alfred Drayton faithfully portrays Lord Rushworth. Favourable mention should also be made of Miss Kathleen Harrington, whose impersonation of Joanna Rushworth is distinctly good.

Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmond's company is here this week with Woman and Wine. Mr. Edmonds successfully delineates the character of Dick Seymour; whilst Hugh Seymour is ably accounted for by Mr. J. Milne Taylor. The heartless Marcel Rigadout is excellently played by Miss C. St. Elmo; and Miss Octavia de Noel does equally well as La Colombe. The winsome Mary Andrews is impersonated in the most pleasing manner by Miss Violet Sims; and other parts are in efficient hands.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Vonetta, the wonderful lady illusionist and protean artist, contributes the principal turn here this week, and her performance is loudly applauded. The Denwartz troupe of acrobats are also much appreciated; whilst Jas. E. Walmsley, a fine tenor vocalist; Mabelle May, in song and dance; the Saletos, marvellous balancers; Elton and Edwin, banjoists; Lily Black, vocalist; Merton and Rydon, comedians; and Rossi Ashton, in a scena, are likewise well received.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—The Old Home has been successfully presented by Mr. Roland Yorke, and has aroused much interest. Mr. Yorke as Lord Avondale was a very conspicuous personage; whilst the Daddy Dean of Mr. Harding Thomas won the hearty applause of the large audience. Mr. T. W. Dunscombe won much favour as the Rev. Eric Armstrong; Mr. Fred L. Conynghame as Sam Adams was successful; in the part of Hayle Dean Miss Nina Blake Adams gave a pleasing performance, and won well-merited applause; Mrs. J. W. Braithwait, Miss Mattie Crawford, Messrs. W. Simpson, Walter Osmond, and James L. Air were much in evidence in their respective parets.

Gaiety.—Lessee, Mr. Wm. Yates Gregory; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baugh.—The special turn here is provided by the Royal Quintette of dancers, in special Scotch song scena, which has met with a warm reception; Miss Alice Oakley, serio comedienne, rendered several charming numbers; Charles Ousley, coloured coon vocalist and dancer, is a favourite. The series of pictures on the Bioscope are of a pleasing description.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Tom Doyle.—A grand display of pictures has been on view here, and varieties have been introduced by the Frohmans, musical artists, and George Hirste, Scotch comedian.

BOLTON.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Mr. George Dance's company in The Girls of Gottenberg is here for the week.

CLARK & CO., 24, HALLCROFT ROAD, RETFORD.

Mr. Bertie Wright (an old Bolton favourite) scores heavily as Max Moddlkopf; Mr. Hugh Henson is happily placed as Prince Otto; Mr. Howard Cridland gives a clever presentment of Britti Bottl, Sergeant of Hussars; Miss Ellaline Thorne is clever and versatile as Mitzi, her singing and dancing securing for her much appreciation; Miss May Marshall acts capitally as Clementine; Miss Amie Grey is graceful and effective as Elsa; and Miss Susie Raymond is a captivating Lucille. The play is admirably staged, the dresses and uniforms specially attractive, the chorus strong and tuneful, and the augmented orchestra ably conducted by Mr. Otto Manns.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—The Whiteleys (five in number), Continental speciality artists, are here in their original acrobatic wire-walking and musical pot-pourri act. Also appearing are Eva Chadwick, soprano vocalist; Harry Levaine, eccentric patter comedian; Ralph and Nellie Howard, in a comedy musical sketch, Military Mad; Carl Lynn, animal mimic; Frank Hartley, boy juggler; the Sisters Edwardes, vocalists, dancers, and drummers; Dave Laird, versatile comedian; Dora Harrison, refined comedienne; the Dandies; and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

Empire Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; General-Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. R. Harrison.—A novel show here consists of Maurin's marvellous fountains, of many changes in shape and colour, concluding with living statues inside one of the fountains. Other turns are the Sisters Stuart, smart duettists and dancers; Master Richard May, a young tenor vocalist; Billy Hobbs, coon comedian and dancer; Mlle. Eldee, "the girl in the golden frame"; Jimmy Shields, one-legged comedian and dancer; Lily Lonsdale, vocalist; Ernie Myers, comedian; and the Bioscope.

Temperance Hall.—Mr. W. Hamilton's "Latest Excursions," with a varied company of artists, is now in its second week here, and is being well patronised.

BOSTON.—The Palace.—Lessees, Messrs. Fountian and Holloway; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Cass.—The entertainments this week are being witnessed by crowdeded houses. Globella, globe manipulator, gives a very smart show; Gayne, the unusual comedian, tells some original yarns; Herman and Evelyn, are experts on the tightrope; Miss Lydia Raie, is a clever banjoist; Sylvene, assisted by Mlle. Florence, does some novel and refined equilibristic feats; the dramatic episode, For the Honour of the Family, is presented by Arthur Alexander and Co.; Cosselby gives a very neat, smart table-jumping performance; and Albert Williams, original comedian and patterer, Walkers, "would-be acrobats," and Chas. Grantley, the "erratic entertainer," help to make up a good programme. Miss Lilian Burns and company appear in the interesting military sketch, Betrayed.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company in Mrs. Dot had a flattering reception here on Monday. Miss Decima Moore gives an admirable delineation of the central character, and is well supported by Mr. Frank Lacy, whose acting of James Blenkinsop is decidedly easy and clever. As Gerald Halstane Mr. James Gelderd does well; and Mr. Philip Leslie plays Freddie Perkins with just the right touch of humour. Lady Sellenger is magnificently dressed and artistically played by Miss Emma Hutchison and Miss Ethel Grahame as Nellie Sellenger and Miss Celia Gordon as Eliza Macgregor are successful.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—On Monday night last a large audience greeted very cordially Messrs. G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's excellent company in the time-honoured drama The Silver King. Mr. Fred D. Daviss now fills the character of Wilfred Denver; and Miss Edyth Goodall is the representative of his wife, Nellie. Both parts are finely played; and, with Mr. E. J. George in his old place as Daniel Jaikes and Mr. E. Stanton-Sharp as the exponent of the part of the Spider, it is almost needless to say that the interest in the play is well sustained. Amongst other impersonations calling for special commendation are the Henry Corket of Mr. G. Belmore; the Elijah Coombe of Mr. Arthur Wright, the Olive Skinner of Miss Kathleen Maude, and the Cissy Denver of Miss Flossie Hale Daviss.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—A return visit this week of Mr. Walter Melville's company in the strong drama The Girl Who Took the Wrong Turning is again proving acceptable fare to Mr. Laidler's patrons, who are very demonstrative in their appreciation of the play and the acting. Mr. F. R. Adair is distinctly a success as the rollicking sailor and hero Will Mason; and the villain, James Harcourt, Mr. Raymond Wood represents effectively. As the wayward Sophie Miss Jessie Belmore wins distinction. Other members of the company meriting special notice are Mr. F. Robertson as the disowned son, Miss Kildare as the star of the music hall, Miss Meade as Vesta, and Messrs. S. Saul and F. Ingram in comic parts.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—There is a fine programme here this week, to which the Warsaw Brothers, Australian musical comedians, contribute a lot of fun. Aided by special scenery, Jennie Johns gives in dainty style a good song in naval costume. In Motoring a company of Harry Tate's elicit very hearty laughter; "Makers of History" is a series of most artistic living statues of statesmen and others, with striking scenic arrangements, which impress the audience strongly. Arabella Allen, "the Dickens girl," gives some dramatic impersonations of male characters with exceptional skill; James Stuart, as "the tramp at the piano," is diverting; The Landlord and His Queer Customer is a humorous knockabout sketch by Johnson and Bert; Sid May returns with his clever mimicry and burlesque wrestling; the trick cycling by Narow Brothers is very clever and particularly funny; and there are some entertaining pictures shown by the Bioscope.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Jessie Burnett, comedienne, contributes in pleasing style to a good programme here; and those nimble one-legged acrobats the Donatos elicit well-deserved applause. Steve Bartle contributes some cleverly executed concertina solos; a versatile turn by Gravetta and Parr, American novelty artists, wins applause; as a mimic and whistler Fritz von Liston is distinctly clever; in his usual droll style Wilkie Bard (with company) amuses the audience with familiar songs; Charlie Austin, comedian, in a style all his own, wins hearty laughter with his songs; Harley and Hardon, comedians, give a good turn as deputy for Tony Black, Scotch comedian; and Raymond's Bio-tableaux interest the audience greatly.

BRIDLINGTON.—Royal Prince's Parade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—"The Maids and Middies" costume company commenced on Monday the third and last week of their engagement here. They provide a capital programme, under the able management of Mr. Arthur Randall, whose humorous songs are always encored. Mr. Bryan O'Sullivan sings some capital baritone songs with good taste; and Mr. Bert Williams proves a comedian of great ability. Mr. Pennystone Miles, the able pianist of the party, is also possessed of a fine tenor voice; Miss Ethel Dunbar is delightful with her soprano singing; and Miss Bertha Zander's contralto voice is of great effect in her several songs and the concerted numbers by the company. Miss Dunbar shines in her character songs and dances. The Loyal Dominion Animated Picture Company, under the able direction of Mr. Will H. Emmerson, are showing some of their choicest pictures this week. Mr. Palmer, the accomplished manager of the Parade, is to be congratulated upon the excellent companies he has secured during the season for the entertainment of the thousands who have patronised this popular resort. The season terminates this (Saturday) night.

New Spa Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—The manager is affording his patrons a great treat this week by the engagement of Miss Norah Carton's company in that charming play by Mr. Hubert H. Davis, Captain Drew on Leave. Mr. Charles B. Vaughan as Captain Drew, R.N., acts with consummate skill, and every line came with telling effect; Mr. Willox Cadogan as Ernest White and Mr. Gerald Venning as Chester Hassell availed themselves to the utmost of their opportunities; Mr. Tom Mowbray is effective as George Moxon; Miss Nora Carton is charming as Miss Mills, her genuine and unaffected humour being delightfully realistic. In the character of Mrs. Moxon Miss Cynthia submits a capital rendering of the part. The small part of the Maid is played by Miss Lydia Hayward. The ladies are charmingly gowned, and the staging is very effective.

BRIGHOUSE.—Albert Theatre. — Lessees, Messrs. Beanland and Emerson; Manager, Mr. Charles H. Beanland.—At the top of the bill this week is the Prince Milner Trio, who provide plenty of sensation, novelty, and daring in their pot-pourri act, which includes a number of difficult slack-wire performances, clever juggling, and hoop manipulation; Lozelle, a skilful trapeze artist, is highly appreciated; a typical farmyard scene is realistically presented by the Prinellas; the singing and dancing of the lady in "A Country Flirtation" is very good, and she is ably seconded by her partner; Vowles and Bryan are a couple of capital vocalists, who sing with much effect; Walter Curtis causes merriment with his song "Work" and in his parody on "Twilight"; George Slyam tells funny stories and sings songs in a quaint way; Nancy Renshaw is a fine negro comedienne and clever as a bone soloist; a pretty and entertaining act is given by Nellie Nora; Joe Gill amuses with his funniosities; and animated pictures by the Loyal Dominion Company conclude an interesting programme.

BRIGHTON. — Grand Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company is here this week with The Old Folks at Home. Mr Henry Neilson and Miss Clara Santley as the old folks are realistic and sympathetic, and as their daughter, Dorothy Robin, Miss Maud Warburton displays grace and charm; Mr. Aidan Lovett gives an admirable impersonation of Andrew Ross; Mr. Frank Liston's Lord Howard Kenilworth is a good portrayal; Miss Kate Froude merits praise for her forcible enactment of Patricia Bathurst; and the comic element is furnished by Mr. Frank Caffrey (Ben Jolly) and Miss Nellie Hook (Susan Giles). Plantation ditties are sung by the Excelsior Quartet.

Alhambra.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—There is a good company here this week. The Griffiths Brothers are as clever and mirth-provoking as ever; the Glenroy Troupe, characteristic dancers and speciality artists, appear with success in Sons of Britannia's Empire; Rex Fox's ventriloquial and musical act on the wire is warmly appreciated; Johnny Dwyer is a very entertaining comedian; Baker and Balfe are cordially applauded for their xylophone selections; Chas. J. Johnson, a coloured performer, is a diverting comedian; David Poole is well received in a ventriloquial act; Nat Watkins is a good comedian; Dorma Morgan, a gifted American comedienne, submits a capital turn; and the Alhambrascope pictures are interesting and amusing.

Hippodrome Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. J. Brown.—A capital programme is sustained here this week. Kitty Gordon, a charming songstress, achieves complete success; a fine performance of the operatic burlesque, The Singing Serrant, is given by John Peterman's company; Percival appears in a clever comedy act; Sahib Gustave Fasola is amusing and mystifying as the Eastern Wonder-worker; Billy Williams, "the man in the velvet suit," is heard in his latest successes; Cullen and Carthy, with Little Cluley, are capital comedians; Lillie Lassah is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Hayes and Watson appear in a dancing act on the billiard-table; Dolly and Elsie are charming duettists and dancers; the Moxon Trio submit a good acrobatic turn; the Three Pirmans are well received in their pantomimic gymnastic act; and the Barrascope pictures are entertaining.

West Pier.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—Mr. Lionel Rignold and Miss Ada Blanche, supported by a very good company, are here this week with What the Butler Saw. Mr. Lionel Rignold is highly diverting and humorous as the Butler; Miss Ada Blanche as Mrs. Barrington makes a dainty and vivacious widow; and Mr. Charles Fawcett's Jack Barrington is a very praiseworthy enactment; while others prominently effective in the strong cast include Mr. Raymond Dudley (Sir Charles Foden), Mr. Harry H. Rignold (Abram Weinstein), Mr. George Ascot (General Dunlop), Mr. G. Nelson Wallace (Professor Shale), and Miss Christine Jensen (Miss Foden).

Palace Pier Theatre.—Mr. Frank Stanmore and company opened here on Monday with The Gay Deceivers. Mr. Mark Lester as the butler, Joseph, kept the audience in a merry mood with his amusing impersonation; Mr. Frank Stanmore as Lord Reggie Muddleton was also very entertaining; Miss Dorothy Chard is delightful in her artistic portrayal of Dora Dartrey; Miss Pauline Primm is a fascinating Rosie; Miss Dora Lane's Winnie Winter, and Miss Kate Chard's Mrs. Dewer are admirably sustained, and capital support is given by Mr. Arthur Dennis (Colonel Dewar), Mr. Francis Chamier (Major Kurrie), and Mr. Leslie Hawkins (Pinch).

Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. M. Barrasford; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Fred Bauer.—There is a capital series of animated pictures exhibited here this week. The Brigand's Last Exploit conveys a wonderful tale of daring; Buy Me a Dolly is a touching drama from real life; The Lonely Trappers presents an exciting story; and much amusement is afforded by His First Experiment in Chemistry, Mr. Creepy is Startled, Our Village Marathon Race, and New Laid Eggs. Miss Connie Cook contributes songs in pleasing style.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. George Alexander, Miss Irene Vanbrugh, and the St. James's Theatre company are here with The Thief, and large attendances in all parts of the house have been recorded. Great enthusiasm was created by Mr. Alexander's brilliant performance of Richard Chelford. Miss Irene Vanbrugh's Marise Chelford fully came up to the expectations of the most exacting of critics—at times charming, emotional, and powerful, but always natural. Mr. Dawson Milward acted with much skill as Raymond Leyton; Miss Nina Sevening was a pleasing Isabel Leyton; Mr. Reginald Owen did all that was possible with the difficult part of Harry Leyton; Mr. E. Vivian Reynolds was sufficiently decisive as the Detective Mr. Protheroe; and Mr. Montague Wigan was properly unobtrusive as the servant. The performance commenced with The Nursery Governess, in which Miss Jean Sterling Mackinlay, Mr. Harcourt Williams, Mr. Ashton Pearce, and Miss Barbara Hannay distinguished themselves.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Alty.—Mr. Douglas Bruce's company is here with The Girl Who Lost Her Character, the drama being adequately staged. Miss Violet Ennis Lawson acts with much power as Molly Vernon; Miss Sybil Hare is decidedly good as Rose Seymour; Miss Lydia Mannington displays considerable ability as Marian Franklyn; Mr. Edward Maclean is manly and convincing as the Rev. Robert Everton; Mr. Richard Ferris is effective in the heavy part of Captain Geoffrey Caversham; and all the remaining parts are in competent hands.

Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—The farewell visit of Georg Hackenschmidt is attracting packed houses. Substantial prizes are offered to competitors, and well-known British wrestlers try their luck. The Tally Ho! Trio entertain with comedy and harmony; the Two Clares amuse with Troubles of a Motor-car; McDonald and Huntingdon, eccentric comedians, obtain applause, as also does Bert Danson, comedian; Rene, girl juggler, is expert in her line; Roy Beavis is a competent conjurer; and the performance concludes with up-to-date animated pictures.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—J. C. Piddock and company are successfully presenting a well-staged musical fantasy entitled The Capture of Venus, the parts being creditably taken by Miss Florence Lee, Mr. J. C. Piddock, Mr. George D. Lara, and Mr. Gus Oxley. Annie Purcell, comedienne, does a pleasing turn; Fred Kitchen and Frank Lister's company have a good dramatic swetch entitled No. 99; Horace Lane and Violet Lloyd amuse with their farcical episode That's Torn It; Herbert Bates has a good tenor voice, and he sings with artistic taste; Ruby Emerson is a pleasing comedienne; the Arleys are expert comedy cyclists; Mlle. Pollo is an exceptionally clever gymnast; and Charles Ashdown, eccentric legmania comedian, obtains appreciation. The performance concludes with animated pictures.

Colston Hall.—Ralph Pringle's animated pictures continue to be attractive, the leading speciality this week being a fine set of films depicting A Tale of Two Cities, or, The Only Way.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre, Ltd.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—The Prince of Pilsen commenced a return visit on Monday, when the house was crowded, and Miss Sophie Harriss was presented by the Australian football team with a handsome bouquet. Miss Sophie Harriss as the widow was in excellent humour and voice. Mr. Harry Kilburn as Hans Wagner kept the house in roars of laughter; Miss Nellie Lomas did well as the dainty Nellie Wagner; Mr. Leslie Owen was a fine Prince, and his singing was much applauded; as also was that of Mr. Arthur Geary as Lieut. Tom Wagner. Mr. Charles Rogers was a comical Earl; Mr. Ernest Gifford as Francois and Miss Mabel Dent as Sidonie were an amusing French couple. Miss Dora Christian worked hard as Edith Adams; and Miss Marion Ryder was a clever Jimmie. The scenery and dresses (especially of Miss Harris) were beautiful. The choruses and manœuvres were very pleasing. Many of the songs were encored, and at the end the curtain had to be raised several times.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—There was a splendid audience here on Monday for the opening performance of Leah Kleschna, performed by Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company. Miss Bessie Rignold, an actress of great resource and charm, scores high honours in the title-rôle. Mr. Hamilton Dean pleases greatly in the manly part of Paul Sylvaine; and Mr. William Clayton displays cleverness and power in the exacting rôle of Kleschna. The work of Mr. Charles Barrett as Valentine Favre is good; and Mr. Gilbert Heron is a capital representative of Schram; Raoul Berton is in the capable hands of Mr. Algernon Hicks and Miss Ethel Russell does well as Mme. Berton.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The bill at this house this week goes from start to finish with a swing. The Carmos, on a return visit, in their display of herculean jugglery are greeted with applause; and Harry Thorpe and Zoe Coe, in a comedy sketch by Zoe Coe, entitled My Burglar, thoroughly please; the Sisters Julian receive approbation for pretty duets; Bert Lytton, the swell comique, has two good songs; F. A. Martell is a smart equilibrist; Tony Black, Scotch comedian, is good in song and patter; Odeyne Spark, comedienne, captivates with her songs; and Folay and Francis are a couple of funny fellows. The Empire Theatrescope shows good films.

Palace Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—A new venture which promises to become a successful fixture here is "The Picture Hour." From 3 to 4 daily pictures of the best quality are being exhibited, and the prices—6d., 4d., and 2d.—are so reasonable that success is assured. On Monday night there was a crowded house, when a programme of all-round excellence was put forward. Mr. George Auger, giant actor, and company, including several miniature people, are seen in a beautiful bijou pantomime Jack the Giant Killer. The Kurios, in a "komical koncoction of komicalities," are responsible for bursts of laughter in a really clever turn; Addie Dorina, in Dr. Spot's Patients, is a clever actress, and performs a series of wonderfully quick changes; smart cycling tricks are done by the Bros. St. Clair. A humorous comedy sketch is provided by Geoffreys and Benson; and Elmo and Rego make an impression with comedy acrobatics; Nellie Brierley, a cripple mill girl, has a sweet soprano voice; and Chas. Tuppen, coach-horn blower, is excellent. The Victoria Falls are shown by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — Opera House (New Hippodrome).—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—Chung Ling Soo, the famouse Chinese conjuror, tops the bill here this week, and fairly astounds the crowded houses with his marvellous illusions; Slippere, blind musician, a really clever turn, is received with unstinted applause; Billy Richardson's stump oration is clever and up-to-date; a dressing-room interlude, presented by the Camplins, makes a hit; the Fimans, with clever dances and patter, score in their fire station scene; a clever juggling and comedy turn is provided by Caroze and Keith; Clive Watts, a champion dancer, is worthy of the name; a novel and original singing turn is given by Arthur Gill, the man of many voices; and Bertha Norwood sings sweetly and dances cleverly.

BURY (Lancs.).—Theatre Royal and Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant-Acting-Manager, Mr. H. H. Potter.—The Dunedin Troupe of trick cyclists are paying a welcome visit, and their clever turn is much appreciated. The Pasquali Bros. are also prominent as tumblers and equilibrists; E. Thornley Dodge, entertainer, well known locally, makes his first appearance on the Bury music hall stage, and gives a finished performance. Other good items are Park's Eton Boys and Girton Girls in a musical act; Edna Latonne, an exceedingly smart male impersonator; Cissie Curlette, mimetic vocalist; Jack Barker, light comedian, with some good songs; and Natalia and Diana, who provide an aerial gymnastic display. The Ottograph Pictures conclude.

Circus of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr. H. H. Potter.—An entirely new series of pictures includes some very interesting films, The Photographer's Flirtation being particularly noticeable. Pleasant variety is supplied by Connie Mascot, vocalist and dancer, and T. C. Jaques, actor-vocalist.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baker.—The principal attraction here is Miss Harriett Vernon. Her latest success, "Sunshine and shadow," is well received. Maxford and O'Neill as patter comedians are most entertaining, their patter being distinctly good; Harry Russon shines as an actor-comedian; and Billy Farrell, coloured comedian, gives a capital performance. Tom Morris, whistler; Leslie Race, comedian; the Hentys, in a sketch entitled The Divine Amelia; Emil and Ediss, banjoists; and Western Justice on the Bioscope all add to the success of the show.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS.—Theatre Royal.—General-Manager, Mr. Auguste A. Peuleve.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is playing When Knights Were Bold here to crowded houses. Mr. Bert Beswick is amusing in his portrayal of Sir Guy de Vere; excellent performances of Wittle and Barker come from Mr. Chas. Roadnight and Mr. Sydney Courtnay; Mr. Algernon W. Lee is good as the Hon. Chas. Widdicombe, as is Mr. Colin Johnston as the Rev. Peter Pottlebury. Mr. Chas. Benson (Isaacson) and Mr. Humphrey Warden (Sir Bryan Ballymote) are quite equal to their responsibilities. Miss Edith Anton Laing makes a stately Lady Rowena; Miss Madge Devereux and Miss Nora Kingsley as Sarah Isaacson and Mrs. Waldegrave make the most of their opportunities; a smart Alice Barker is found in Miss Ada Waugh; and the rôles of Lady Millicent and Kate are satisfactorily played by Miss Mary Gorkie and Miss Alice Shepperd.

CAMBRIDGE. — New Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Mr. Ian Maclaren and company are this week paying their usual visit here with a round of Shakespearean and old English plays. On Monday night The Merchant of Venice was presented. The Shylock of Mr. Maclaren is always well worth witnessing; Miss Violet Sterne made an ideal Portia, having a very fine presence and charming voice; Mr. Gordon Phillott made an excellent Launcelot Gobbo.

CARDIFF.—New Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—After a short absence we have a most welcome return visit of grand opera by the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, and on Monday Carmen was repeated before a large and enthusiastic audience. Miss Doris Woodall was the Carmen, and gave a deeply interesting reading of the character; she sang with taste and skill, and acted throughout with much power and grace. Mr. Edward Davies gained great favour by his rendering of Don José, his voice being sweet in tone and flexible; Mr. Hebden Foster as the toreador, Escamillo, won an enthusiastic encore; a special treat was provided by Mme. Ina Hill, who undertook Micaela in a delightful manner, and her singing won the admiration of all. The opera was well performed, and nothing was wanting to make the presentation perfect. On Tuesday Gounod's Faust was underlined, with Miss Elizabeth Burgess as Marguerite, Mr. Walter Wheatley as Faust, and Mr. Arthur Winckworth as Mephistopheles. Cavalleria Rusticana, Pagliacci, Maritana, Don Giovanni, Tannhäuser, and Il Trovatore are also billed.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—A strong programme is drawing packed houses this week. Harry Tate makes a more than welcome re-appearance in his clever skit, Fishing, and achieves an additional triumph in a city where he is already at the height of popularity; a great hit is made by Ernie Mayne, a comedian who gains unbounded applause; the Ten-ji Troupe of jugglers give a remarkable performance; Nellie Wallace obtains full appreciation by her really clever and humorous characterisations; Dutch Daly is as entertaining with his story-telling as he is delightful with his concertina-playing; Lively Lily Langtry is as sprightly as ever, and proves quite up to expectations; the Mayvilles, with their clever Lilliputian entertainment, are excellent exponents of their business; and Alf. Chester opens the programme with a capital nautical song, the Bioscope completing.

Theatre Royal.—Under the Management of Mr. Rollo Balmain.—A capital representation of Monte Cristo is provided at the Royal this week, by Mr. Junius Booth's company. Mr. Booth undertakes the rôle of Edmond Dantes, and submits a delineation worthy of his reputation; Miss Cecelia Dare's interpretation of Mercedes quite charmed the large audiences which nightly fill the theatre; Mr. H. Bannister's rendition of Danglers stamps him as an actor of ability; Mr. Conrad Heywood's representation of M. Nortier is worthy of much praise; as Fernand Mondego Mr. John Howden has full opportunity for the exercise of his histrionic powers; and Mr. C. W. Crowe, Mr. Ralf Leon, Miss Jessie Blake, and Miss Alice West all render effective aid. Mr. Herbert Colley acts cleverly as Caderousse.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—At the head of the bill are Geo. M. Marriott and company, in a sensational dramatic sketch, entitled The Maid of the Alps, which has drawn crowded houses. Mr. Marriott as Mother Potard scores a success; while Mr. Frank Seton made a manly Stratton Towers. Miss Edith Finlay as Louise gained much applause for her acting and for her well-rendered French and Tyrolean songs; quite the most talented animal act seen here for some time is that of Carl and Mary Ohm; Jimmy Laurie proves a first-class comedian; the Balston Boys, comedy duettists, go well; the Two Kays please in a novelty scena, The Cuckoo; Phern and Phern, musical speciality artists, secure well-merited approbation; and Harry Milton, Dutch comedian; Gibbon and Bell, in acrobatic dancing act; and the Bio-tableaux complete the programme.

CARLISLE.—H.M. Theatre.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—A return visit of Mr. Louis Calvert's company in Sunday is proving popular. Miss Ethel Ward in the title-rôle is both pathetic and humorous; as Colonel Brinthorpe, Mr. Pennington Gush is particularly good; of the "boys," Mr. James Skea as Towzer was as solid and emphatic as the part demanded; Mr. James Hussey as Lively was happily humorous; and Mr. Alec Alves played Jacky with a fine appreciation of the character. Mr. A. Colton Holmes as Davy, Mr. T. Norman Walter as Tom Oxley, and Miss Helen G. Edwins as Mrs. Naresby contributed excellent performances.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Morgan.—The Gentle Mackweys, who head the bill this week, contribute a clever knockabout acrobatic act; the Paxton Troupe, on a return visit, in their vaulting and balancing feats, are warmly applauded; Harry Marte has a good song; Rudge Whitworth as a society entertainer meets with favour; and the Raymond Trio as musicians and dancers are popular. Rose Sartella gives a capital turn; and Stuart and Stuart, eccentric comedy entertainers and smart dancers, score an immediate success. The Pepiscope shows some interesting pictures.

CARMARTHEN.—Assembly Rooms.—Public Rooms Co.; Secretary, Mr. Edward Baldwin.—This week delighted audiences have attended the splendid performances of Tom Owens, the Welsh comedian, and his Welsh Pierrots and star variety company. Tom Owens is inimitable in his Welsh impersonations; Miss Ethel Veronica amuses with her serio-comic contributions; Miss Catherine Ray possesses a nice soprano voice, and gives a fine interpretation to the toast song in The Checkers as Lady Lovell; Miss Lilian Therese is an accomplished mandolinist; Miss Mollie Gwynne delights with her contralto songs; Mr. Francis Maxwell-Stewart wins rounds of applause with his tenor solos; Mr. Reginald Bale (tenor) and Mr. Alfred Bale (bass) are likewise successful in their songs; Mr. Harry Vernon is excellent as a descriptive vocalist; Mr. Bert Crosbie shines as a "rag-time" dancer, as does Miss Ethel Vere in her soubrette contributions. The musical comedy sketch Checkers by the company is excellently well played and creates roars of laughter.

CASTLEFORD.—Royal.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Henry Masterman, J.P.—Mr. R. A. Roberts and company, under the direction of Mr. Charles Boult, is appearing here with Straight from the Shoulder. The play is admirably staged, and the acting is good. Mr. Matthew Boulton undertakes the part of the hero, Harry Bletchley, and wins much applause for his vigorous portrayal; Millicent Grant is played by Miss Beatrice Burdett, who does full justice to the part; the scheming villainies of Major Lucas are brought into prominence by the clever acting of Mr. Leonard Clarke; Mr. George H. Child plays the Rev. John Armitage with much refinement and dignity; as the wealthy Miss Brittle Miss Edie Casson acts in a delightfully humorous vein; and the niece, Gladys, finds a bright and vivacious representative in Miss Beatrice Moore, who also sings several good songs. Mr. Fred Beck's songs are also applauded, and his acting as Jim Green causes many a hearty laugh; Mr. George Fisher is excellent as Fred Stafford; Miss Frances Bruce is effective as Mary Gleeson; and Mr. Bertram Carlton makes a capital Sergeant.

Queen's Theatre of Varieties. — Proprietors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and W. H. Emerson; General-Manager, Mr. Will H. Emerson; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Travis.—Burg, Hand, and Wise top the bill with their acrobatic comedy act, Ye Brown Cow Inn, and their many antics are productive of roars of laughter; Tom Kelly and company have a laughable sketch in The Silly Servant; A. G. Spry is a quaint comedian; a couple of pleasing duets are given by Lambert and Hands (Edwin and Emmie) with much feeling and sincerity; Gladys Bushell's songs are sweetly rendered; and Fred Hovis sings in an enjoyable manner some good chorus songs. The Duncans display ability and dexterity in manipulating musical instruments; Fred Burwell adds to the general entertainment as a comedian; and a series of capital pictures are shown by the Loyal Dominion Co.

CHATHAM. — Theatre Royal. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard.—Mr. Seymour Hicks's company is here with The Gay Gordons. Miss Maie Ash and Mr. Frank Lincoln as Peggy Quainton and Angus Graeme revel in their respective parts, and work with unflagging energy; Mr. Tom Graves creates plenty of fun as Nervy Nat; Mr. Edward Nainby is a quaint Edmund Siddons; Miss Ida Laurie makes the most of her opportunities as Charlotte; and the rôle of Victoria was pleasingly played by Miss Nellie Lonnen. Miss Gladys Deane was a very natural Mary McLeod, and as Corporal John Smith Mr. Norman Forrest was amusing.

Barnard's Palace of Varieties.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Maitland Marler and company are appearing here in a musical comedy sketch, entitled His Worship the Mayor, with Mr. Marler in the title-rôle scoring throughout; Chris Van Bern gives a highly creditable scena, in which he displays much versatility; Curwen and Belle contribute a rollicking conception, under the style of The International Club; the Austral Trio are to be commended for their pleasing musical mélange; Jock Campbell scores with "The Cuckoo"; Lacey's Erascope has a screaming film, Percy Wanted a Moustache, and another depicting the doings of Sherlock Holmes; while others billed are Sybil Lester, lady-baritone; the Menzies, in The Suffragette; and Dolly Golden, speciality dancer.

CHELTENHAM.—Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Sir John Hare and his company opened a three days' farewell engagement on Monday in A Pair of Spectacles to a house filled to overflowing. Sir John's realisation of the part of Benjamin Goldsmith is, to say the least, inimitable and beyond praise; Mr. Charles Groves's impersonation of Gregory Goldfinch is a most admirable piece of comedy, true to the life; Mr. Bertram Steer is particularly good as Dick; Miss Mona K. Oram is charming as Mrs. Goldfinch; and Mr. Ivo Dawson as Percy and Miss Amy Brandon Thomas as Lucy Lorrimer are a natural and pleasing pair of lovers. Mr. J. H. Brewer gives a neat little study of the snivelling old shoemaker Bartholomew; Mr. Fred W. Permain is excellent as the faithful butler, Joyce; Mr. W. T. Lovell does well as Lorrimer; and Miss B. Grand and Mr. E. Kean supply effective assumptions. A Quiet Rubber followed the comedy. On Tuesday The Gay Lord Quex was given, and on Wednesday Caste. The latter half of the week Mr. Edward Terry pays a welcome return visit with Sweet Lavender, Liberty Hall, The Magistrate, and Fiander's Widow.

CHORLEY (Lancs.).—Grand Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Santé.—This week we have a very pleasing change, Mr. Reginald Dance's company presenting Raffles. An excellent house assembled on Monday, and the play met with enthusiastic approval. As A. J. Raffles, Mr. Lewis Edgard gave an exceptionally fine and sympathetic portrayal; Mr. Arthur Bell capitally undertook Harry Manders (Bunny); Mr. C. Kean was particularly good as Mr. Curtis Bedford; Lord Amersteth being most effectively rendered by Mr. P. Alexander, as was Crawshay by Mr. Oswald Griffiths. Miss Brenda Gibson's Mrs. Vidal was a highly-finished study; Gwendoline Conron was charmingly interpreted by Miss Frances Titheradge; and Miss Eva Bevington as Marie was a distinct success.

Town Hall.—This hall is occupied for the week by Mr. Chas. W. Poole's up-to-date Myriorama, excellent fare being provided. In addition, there are capital pictures on the Bioscope. The Craig Family, society gymnasts, are a particularly clever troupe; Ray and Miles are smart comedy jugglers; Dai Davies is a capital mimic and whistler; Harland and Rollison are entertaining eccentric musicians; and last, but not least, there is Amasis, the Egyptian man of mystery.

CLACTON-ON-SEA.—Operetta House.—Lessee, Mr. W. F. Jury; Manager, Mr. Dudley Harcourt.—Good business is still being done here. A film showing Wilber Wright's flying machine is a great attraction, and other instructive and amusing pictures are shown. Miss Clairette Florence brings down the house with her illustrated songs.

COLCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Chas. Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Mr. Wentworth Croke presented The Prodigal Son here on Monday, and Hall Caine's play, magnificently staged, dressed, and acted, was received with enthusiasm. Mr. Hugh Montgomery made a powerful Magnus, his fine, manly presence and lucid enunciation being strong points; Mr. Gordon Macintosh undertook with ability the difficult rôle of Oscar; Miss Barbara Gott was a natural Anna; Miss Mildred Cottell acted with dramatic force the part of Helga; Thora and Elin were cleverly portrayed by Miss Valerie Crespin; Mr. Charles Cooper acted with dignity the part of Governor Magnussun; and Miss Marie Harcourt added a spice of dry humour as Margaret Neilson. Mr. Philip Renouf was well suited to the rôle of Factor Neilson; and the very numerous minor parts were in skilful hands.

Hippodrome.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—The Three Royal Dreadnoughts are paying a return visit with their rifle sh

tion; Le Strad, in his impersonations of well-known 'cellists and violinists, contributes a most acceptable turn; Mark Leslie, swell coon comedian and dancer, excels in the latter branch; the Sisters du Cane, duettists and dancers, are a charming pair; Hardie Palm, quaint comedian, is brimful of parodies; and Alice Maple, comedienne and dancer, is most prominent in the last-named rôle. Maud Dennis also appears in a Salome dance.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Mr. T. Arthur Jones and his company are presenting here this week When Other Lips. Miss Marie Daventry is excellent in the rôle of Ruth Lingley, and as Ted Daunton Mr. Jones is equally good; Basil Cunninghame is rendered by Mr. Julian d'Alberti with good effect; and as Tommy Neccles Mr. Cecil Raymond does well. Miss Marie Grace is seen to advantage as Octavia; Mr Arthur A. Felton as Ginger and Miss Lizzie Lennon as Kitty cause much laughter. The remaining parts are well filled.

CORK.—PALACE THEATRE, LTD. — Manager, Mr. Thomas F. O'Brien.—The programme here is full of good things. Edward Crossland's melody makers, five in number, provide a musical turn of great merit; Miss Mi Narom is a dainty comedienne; the Haverleys, American song illustrators, give a meritorious turn; the De Wynne Brothers are refined athletes; the Sisters Casselli are a fetching pair of dancers; Crosby and Walker, jocular Eton Boys, are amusing; Lena Brunton, comedienne and mimic, succeeds in pleasing; and Russell Wallett (the lady in black) contributes humorous stories and songs. The Palascope throws on the screen some laughable films.

COVENTRY.—THE OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—Mr. F. R. Benson's North Shakespearean company is paying a welcome visit here this week with The Merry Wives of Windsor, The School for Scandal, The Taming of the Shrew, Faust, Julius Cæsar, and Hamlet. A good house gathered on Monday night for The Merry Wives, in which Mr. Henry Herbert scored a big success as Sir John, being ably supported by Miss Gladys Vanderzee as Mistress Ford and Miss Violet Farebrother as Mistress Page. Miss May de Launey as Mistress Quickly was amusing; and Mr. Bernard Limpus as Ford was successful.

HIPPODROME THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. E. Wright.—The top turn this week is given by Mr. F. V. St. Clair, who has a hearty reception for his popular songs; a good turn is given by Miss Gertie Gitana, whose songs and dances please the audience immensely; Miss Maude Ford is a good comedienne; some wonderful acrobatic tricks are shown by members of the Royal Tokio Troupe; a good turn is given by the Three Sisters Thurban, vocalists and instrumentalists; Edgar Forrest and company give a farcical comedy, entitled A Great Surprise; Keith and Merson appear in a hunting absurdity, entitled The Meet; and some good pictures on the Bioscope conclude.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Dance; Manager, Mr. K. Draco.—Mr. Fred Edwards and company are paying a welcome return visit here in their capital sketch Kleptomaniacs, which is well acted. Miss May Edouin is a clever impersonator; the Cavallottis Brothers are a couple of smart instrumentalists; Rhoda Paul is well received in her latest success, "It's the Gay Gordons"; Les Voces give some pleasing operatic solos; and Lord, Murray, and Lord give a smart gymnastic comedy display. Olive and Owen appear in their sketch, The Road Tinkers; and Alf. Maynall is a smart comedian.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton.—This week we have Mr. Percy Norman's company in A Woman Worth Winning. Miss Chrissie Dunbar takes the leading part of Roma Pauloff, and gives a powerful rendering of a difficult character; Mr. A. B. Mackay is entrusted with the interpretation of the heavy character, and as General Bomiski he finds full scope for his histrionic powers. Mr. Geo. Edwin Clive gives a masterly impersonation of Fergus Lovinsky, and wins much applause; Mr. Louis Newman as Bertie Scribbles ably combines pathos and humour; Mr. Ernest Kendrick and Miss Ida Mackay as Peter Popples and Katerine Kloes cause much fun and merriment; Mr. Sidney Burton takes the part of Czar Nicholas with dignity and expression; Mr. Gilbert Standing as Amos Pauloff deserves special mention for a fine piece of acting; Mr. Carthage Caldcleugh displays much ability in his able Ivan Bardoff; Miss Trixie Leighton as Lola Kalnorky gives a pleasing rendition; Mr. Jack Corlass as Colonel Mashemoff and Mr. Wynne Davies as Fedor Petronovitch are both well placed.

CREWE.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Howard.—Mr. Frank Mouillot is presenting Tom Jones here. The company is a powerful one, the title-rôle being enacted in a clever manner by Mr. Cyril Thompson. Mr. George Elton as Benjamin Partridge is responsible for much humour; Mr. Fred Seymour does ample justice to the part of Squire Western; Mr. Alfred H. Majilton is a capable Blifil; and Mr. A. J. Nicholls a capital Mr. Alworthy. Miss Alice Moffat is dainty and charming as Sophia, and her singing wins golden opinions; Miss Florrie Saunders also sings and plays excellently as Honour; Miss F. McAvoy is a dignified Miss Western; and Miss Olive Eltone distinguishes herself as Lady Bellaston.

CROYDON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. Roland Daniel; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Archer.—The Compton Comedy Company is here this week, and is being cordially greeted. On Monday Davy Garrick was given, and Mr. Edward Compton submitted an impersonation of the title-rôle, which did him infinite credit; Mr. H. Crocker just touched the right note as Alderman Gresham; Mr. Henry Worrall gave a free and easy portrayal of the Hon. Tom Tallyhaut; Mr. Philip Gordon was very droll as Rumbelow; Mr. Wallace Johnston was capital as Sowerberry; and Mr. Ivan Leslie was a quaint Simpkins. Miss Constance Merton cut a curious figure as Selina; Miss Marie Hassell contributed a smart performance as Mrs. Rumbelow; and Miss Kathleen Leigh made a charming and affectionate Violet. Messrs. J. W. Austin and Laurence Meade completed the cast as John and Davis. The curtain-raiser was Henry Alexander's one-act comedy, The Desperate Lover.

HIPPODROME AND NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Osmond.—Mr. Lingford Carson's company, in The Heart of a Hero, is here this week. Mr. Ernest J. Fare as Jem Resdale proves himself a capable actor; Mr. J. P. Lallen is good as Mark Mari; Mr. James Mailey depicts the villain Wilfred Mari in a telling manner; Mr. Will White as Timothy Heighno is very amusing; Mr. Frank Kelland plays the part of the hero, Jack Collinson, in good style; and Mr. David Donaldson gives an excellent representation of George Winson. Miss Emma Rainbow does well in her dual rôle; Miss Mabel Fare as May Rider is impressive as the heroine; Miss M. Courtney as Susie Slack deserves praise; and Miss Madge Steeple gives a good portrayal of Nell Resdale. The same company is also playing The Shaughraun and The Ticket-of-Leave Man during the week.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Bell; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hal Cummings.—Messrs. Garside and Knowles' company is here with Her Marriage Vow. Miss Lillian Herries as Kate Walters is excellent; Mr. C. B. Bedells as Gilbert Carlton gives a powerful impersonation; Ned Benton is in the able hands of Mr. J. Forbes Knowles; Mr. Edwin Wishaw as Daffy Dan achieves a noteworthy success; Mr. H. Vernon and Miss Winifred Barton in the comedy parts as Larry Leary and Maggie Clare cause a great amount of fun; Mr. Wilford Baily as Eben Chubb is good; Miss Grace Garside is a typical old maid; and Miss Nellie Shirley does justice to the part of Hester Norton.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Theatre, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Hersee.—A good bill this week is headed by the Scottish Meisters in their vocal extravaganza Ancestral Spirits; Albas, on the wire, thrills the house with his daring tricks; George Adams, baritone, goes well; Charles Russell, comedian, is excellent; and other items of the bill are Sisters Warwick, trick cyclists; Ryan and Hall, in an eccentric acrobatic act; Yvonne Lamor, a burlesque singer, and the Pepiscope pictures.

DARWEN.—PUBLIC HALL, PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Lessees, Messrs. Thomson, Leivers, and Bennett; Manager, Mr. J. E. Thomson; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Kerrigan.—The Camerons create roars of laughter in their sketch Plough Boy and Lady Guide; Sandale and Somers earn rounds of applause for their fine dancing; Cissie Carter wins favour with her illustrated songs; and Connie Croston pleases with her singing. The variety turns are interspersed with pictures on the Bioscope.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley.—Miss Ellen Terry is here with Captain Brassbound's Conversion. She is supported by a fine all-round company, including her husband, Mr. James Carew. Miss Terry's Lady Cicely is a consummate piece of acting, and in her hands the character lives; Captain Brassbound has an admirable exponent in Mr. Carew. Other parts calling for special mention are those of Sir Howard Hallam, played in excellent style by Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald; the Rev. Leslie Rankin, very ably accounted for by Mr. Story-Gofton; Drinkwater, the Cockney hooligan, cleverly impersonated by Mr. Max Montesole; and Captain Kearney, capably portrayed by Mr. Frank Powell. The remaining characters are efficiently impersonated by Messrs. Edwin Cushman, Guy Addison, Herbert Lomas, David Hallam, Sydney Travers, H. H. Hay Cameron, Arthur Bachner, Gerard Hoffman, and Master Roberts.

PALACE. — Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes.—An attractive comedy turn heads the bill here this week in the person of Maidie Scott, whose charming manner and excellently-rendered songs gain for her a hearty reception and numerous recalls. Ted Curtis's Piccaninnies are praiseworthy singers and dancers; Terry and Bentley are a smart comedy duo; Ariel and Astarte are clever triple-bar experts; Harry Taylor is an amusing Hebrew comedian; Jack Rae as a gymnast is both amusing and clever; and Morrisey is an entertaining musical equilibrist. The Bioscope is again presenting an exciting film.

DEVONPORT.—THEATRE METROPOLE.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—Mr. Henry Swinerd's company is a strong attraction with the smartly-written musical comedy Dare-Devil Dorothy. Mr. Harry Ugar as Silas Crump is the cause of roars of laughter; Miss Nellie Harcourt, who has already appeared 2,634 times in the part of Judith, shows no signs whatever of staleness; and Miss Dorothy Desmonde as Dorothy and Miss Nellie Valentine as Ruth Montrose also come in for popular approval.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor.—The principal position on the bill is this week allocated to Mr. Fred Bowyer's company in The Little Stowaway, in which a cleverly-worked nautical sketch is presented, the principal parts being undertaken with commendable ability by Messrs. J. H. Walton (captain), Mr. G. Stratton (lieutenant), and Mr. Horace Corbyn (boatswain), while Miss Marjory Armstrong is delightfully sympathetic in the title-rôle. Another attractive item is Miss Mona Garrick, whose scenes and characters from famous plays are followed with earnest attention, and are heartily applauded; the Jackey Trio are a smart little company, in which Whistling George excels; and Henri Bekker mystifies the audience with some well-executed conjuring tricks. Other very acceptable items are furnished by Harry Morris, a clever mimic; the Della Sisters; and Charles Woodward, comedian.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Asquith.—His Wife no Longer is well played by Mr. Stephen Pritt's company. Mr. Clavering Craig as Anthony Merivale makes a consistent and convincing villain; Mr. David Donaldson gives quite a Dickens touch with his exposition of Daniel Trench, the poor, weak-willed, but kindly old clerk; Miss Rosa Mervyn plays the harassed and brutally-used wife, Mrs. Merivale, sympathetically and with dignity; Miss Florrie Hayes shows pleasing tact and delicacy as Marion Jefferies; Messrs. E. Paul Neville and C. Wordley Hulse as Harold Medworth and the Rev. Frank Willacy respectively worthily sustain their parts; Mr. David McFarlane's bucolic policeman (P.C. Michael Flanagan) is genuinely humorous; Miss Nellie Lawson (Lucy Hooper) and Mr. Arthur Beaufort (Tommy Oglethorpe) both work hard to amuse. The play is well mounted and dressed.

DONCASTER. — NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—Alfred Sutro's play The Walls of Jericho has the boards for the week. Mr. Alfred Goddard is a fine exponent of Jack Frobisher; Mr. Russell Barry ably accounts for the part of Hankey Barrister; Mr. Ben Lewin applies a vivid colouring to the Marquis of Steventon; Miss Pauline Straus is happy in the rôle of Miss Mornington; and Miss Ormonde Wynne's conception of Lady Westerby is a lofty one. Lady Lucy Derenham is charmingly presented by Miss Elsie Ross; and Lady Alethea Frobisher is an artistic performance by Miss Nancy Beresford.

DOVER. — ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; District-Manager, Mr. George Egbert.—Among the items of a strong bill is the sketch, cleverly presented by Mr. Fred S. Peake and company; speciality dancing is given by Mr. Harry Barnes and his "Six Idols"; another terpsichorean turn is contributed by the Haydons; the extraordinary suppleness of Sim Maree makes his turn a most notable one; some clever tumbling and acrobatic work is introduced by Griffin and Ardell; Maude Haile is a dainty comedienne; and Charles Harvey is an amusing droll.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Hyland.—Mrs. Dot is presented here by Miss May Palfrey and company to capital houses. Miss Palfrey as the charming widow, Mrs. Worthley, won rounds of applause for her clever and effective portrayal, the part suiting her admirably. In the character of Gerald Halstane Mr. Hugh C. Buckler is highly successful; and Mr. F. Kinsley Peill gives a praiseworthy representation of James Blenkinsop; Freddie Perkins is in the capable hands of Mr. Basil Hallam; Miss Evelyn Beaumont makes a pleasing Nellie Sellinger; and Miss Aida Jenoure submits an excellent reading of Lady Sellinger; Mr. McIntyre Wickstead is conspicuous as Charles; and Mrs. G. Kemmis enacts the part of Miss Macgregor capitally. The comedy is preceded by an amusing curtain-raiser, A Lovely Dinner.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—There was an exceedingly large audience present on Monday, when Mr. Arthur Bourchier, with his company, including Miss Violet Vanbrugh, gave a most impressive performance of The Walls of Jericho, which was heartily appreciated. Miss Vanbrugh as Lady Frobisher was most artistic, and her performance won the highest admiration. Mr. Bourchier acted with feeling and irresistible dramatic power in the character of Jack Frobisher; Mr. Arthur Whitby gave a clever impersonation of the Marquis of Steventon; Mr. Leon Quartermaine was perfect as Hankey Bannister; and Mr. Charles Bryant was all that could be desired as Harry Dallas. Mrs. Henrietta Watson effectively portrayed the rôle of Lady Westerby; and Miss Pamela Gaythorne was charming as Lady Lucy Derenham. The staging was perfect.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. S. Pearce; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Hereford Jones. — The capital programme provided here continues to draw large houses nightly. The new films include The Train Robbery, Fra Diavolo, Over the Sticks, A Separation Wanted, The Mysterious Parcel, The Cruel Stepmother, Caught in His Own Trap, and That's Not Right, Watch Me. Messrs. Edwards and Ward, duettists and dancers, and Mr. Bob Pearson, humorist and guide, contribute successfully to the variety entertainment.

EMPIRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Mendel, the blind pianist, is the centre of attraction here, and receives unstinted applause from a delighted audience for his marvellous performance. Humpsti Bumpsti is a laughable and clever acrobatic act; and Charlie Robinson, an old favourite, gets an enviable reception nightly. Tennyson and Wallis are a smart pair of comedians; and Daisy Martell is a charming singer of popular ditties. Gus Garrick, in his impersonations, is highly amusing; and Marie Goodwin, a daintily humorous comedienne, wins hearty applause. Will Johnson is a capital singing comedian; and Films, Ltd., depicting the Marathon Race, in which Pat White, winner of the second prize, personally describes the race, concludes.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy. — The Vasilescu Troupe, comedy, triple bar, and bicycle performers, head the bill here and score a success; Carr and Rose, presenting A Winning Double, are responsible for some excellent amusement; Kit Keen does remarkably well as a comedian; the Four Maisanos, French musical clowns, submit a much-appreciated turn; and Eileen Douglas, the musical comedy girl, meets with a capital reception. The Fordyces, in their refined act, are really good; and Nellie Ridgeway, a pleasing comedian, does well. Russell Brandow, coloured dancing comedian, makes a decided hit; Nellie Walton, the Lancashire singing girl, is well received; and the Bioscope, with up-to-date pictures, completes the programme.

ROUND ROOM ROTUNDA.—Poole's Myriorama is still here, and the management are to be congratulated on the success of their entertainment, large audiences patronising it at each performance. The variety programme is well sustained by Mr. Harry Dowsett, comedian; Miss Phyllis St. Clair, ballad vocalist; the Snow Family, expert skaters; Learto and his dog Babs; George French troupe of cyclists; and Bert Gates, ventriloquist and Guide.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—Long and Short, comedians and sketch artists; Miss Lilian, vocalist and dancer; Little Bert Allen, comedian and dancer; Mons. Savaro, bird mimic and equilibrist; Alice Leigh, ballad vocalist; Long Amos, comedian and dancer, and the Cinematograph comprise the programme here.

PAVILION, KINGSTOWN.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Jack McDermott.—This is the last week here, after a most successful season, and an attractive and varied programme is securing large audiences. Miss Emilie Tait, soprano vocalist, gives pleasing expression to her songs; Mr. A. F. Dunlop provides much merriment, his patter being decidedly smart; a good reception is accorded Mr. J. W. Hughes, a basso vocalist of more than average ability; the Sisters Elmore are graceful dancers and pleasing singers; Mr. Jack McDermott retains his popularity as a comedian; and Mr. A. W. Parry, solo pianist and accompanist, is also well received. Arrangements are being made to hold a skating ring here during the winter season.

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Man to Man still retains its popularity with Dudley playgoers, and on Monday met with the usual cordial reception. Mr. Edward Lloyd gives a fine representation of George Gordon, and makes a highly popular hero; while as the heroine, Ethel Maythorne, Miss Louie Adair supplies an attractive and pleasing study. The villainous Richard Ellerton is played by Mr. Frank Adair with vigour and power, and is a clever study; Mr. R. Val Shine acts with earnestness and realism as the Rev. Philip Ormond; Mr. Clifford Bown's dry humour as Bill Burkley (the convict) is much appreciated; Mr. Herbert Williams as Samuel Plumtree supplies the comedy element; Miss Adeline Lester is admirably suited to the part of Miss Lavinia Dove; Miss Evelyn Ward acts the gipsy with realistic ferocity; and Miss Ada Martin is a pretty and pert Mary the Maid.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. H. Waters.—The programme is headed by the Five Musical Tritons, a turn pleasing both to the ear and eye; Viviana and company, in scena entitled The Toy Shop, keep their audiences in a very happy mood; the Beau-Ideal Troupe of talented juveniles are greatly appreciated; Stuart and Evans are well described as refined comedians, their songs and patter being clever and clean; Mint and Mart, comedy sketch artists, are much appreciated; as also are the Sisters Redfern, lady banjoists; and Dick Bradley, tramp trick cyclist. The songs of Harry Lawson, eccentric comedian, are decidedly good; Sam Tomson, Scotch character comedian, also contributes to the bill.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—The Merry Widow made her bow to a Dundee audience on Monday, when she completely captivated the audience. Mr. George Edwardes's company is a very strong one, and the scenery, dresses, and chorus are all effective. In the title-rôle Miss Clara Evelyn scored a triumph, her acting and singing throughout being really excellent. As Natalie Miss Mary Grey sang exceedingly well, her acting also being marked by grace and refinement; Miss Mary Morison made an acceptable Prascovia; and as Frou-Frou Miss Dora Langham sang and danced charmingly. Prince Danilo found a capable exponent in Mr. Basil S. Foster, whose nimble dancing and pleasant singing made him a decided favourite; Mr. Lionel Victor simply revelled in the part of Baron Popoff, and as long as he occupied the stage laughter reigned supreme. Mr. Haigh Jackson's fine tenor voice was heard to much advantage in the songs allotted to him as Vicompte Camille de Jolidon; Mr. Albert Kavanagh gave a good account of himself as the Marquis de Cascada; Mr. Tom Redmond gave a very clever and amusing rendering of the part of Nisch; and Mr. Ernest Spalding was ludicrously funny as the waiter. Mr. Harrison Frewin ably conducted the augmented orchestra.

PALACE THEATRE. — Lessees, the United County Theatres, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—Jock Whiteford, the clever Scotch comedian, who tops this week's bill, is in grand form, his various old and new numbers being applauded to the echo. Ferdie's Ma-in-Law is one of the funniest comedy sketches seen here for some time; while the clever act contributed by the Kimberley Boys well deserves the hearty applause bestowed on it. Bernard and Weston, in song and story, meet with a fine reception; Gertie Lewis, male impersonator, is gifted with great vivacity; and Ethel Dove renders her songs in a pleasing and graceful manner. Harris's Nippers in A Promising Pupil provide exhilarating fare; and the turn of Enzer, the soldier juggler, is decidedly good. John Donald is warmly received for his song-scena, and the bioscope completes a very attractive programme.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—The thrilling drama A Traitor Prince is staged here this week, and receives a capital rendering from Mr. Montague Beaudyn's powerful company. The scenery is effective. As the heroic Lieut. Frank Derrick Mr. D. Wynton plays powerfully; and as Lola Vane Miss P. Robson has a part which fits her like the proverbial glove. Several delightful dances are introduced by the Berlin Belles, and all the other parts are in safe keeping.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr R. A. P. Williams; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—Pictures still form the principal feature of the entertainment here. The films, which are clear and remarkably steady, depict incidents both comic and pathetic. The artists also appearing are Sisters Rivers, pleasing duettists; Souplessi, a marvellous contortionist; and Eva Compton, a chic comedienne.

NEWMAN'S PICTURE PALACE.—Mr. Fred Newman's venture here has been attended with gratifying success, large houses nightly assembling. In addition to a capital picture exhibition sparkling varieties are provided by Donaldson and Emslie, comedians; and Alick Melvin, a very promising young vocalist.

KINNAIRD HALL.—The U.S.A. Pictures entered upon the last week of their present visit on Monday before a large and enthusiastic audience. Good houses have been the rule throughout their stay here, and Mr. Victor Hamilton should be pleased with the liberal patronage bestowed on his entertainment.

EASTBOURNE. — PIER PAVILION. — Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—The Moody-Manners Opera company returns here this week. On Monday evening Madame Butterfly was rendered. Miss Enriqueta Crichton as Madame Butterfly united the gift of a beautiful voice with the ability of the actress. Miss M. Dennis as Susuki sang and acted with much feeling; Miss V. Barry did excellently as Kate Pinkerton; and Mr. Charles Carter scored a success as Pinkerton; Mr. Charles Moorhouse being cultured and able as Sharples. Tannhäuser, Carmen, Faust, Cavalleria Rusticana, Pagliacci, and Il Trovatore are also billed.

DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray, King, and Clark.—Mr. Lyn Harding and Mr. Sidney Cooper's company is appearing here in The Flag Lieutenant. The interesting play is remarkably well staged. Mr. Langhorne Burton, breezy and enthusiastic, makes the most of the fine part of Richard Lascelles; Mr. H. Montagu Love plays with feeling and conviction as Major Thesieger; Mr. George Mallet is strong and serenely dignified as Sir Berkley Wynne; Mr. S. Gatling is a refined Christopher Neate; Mr. E. S. Petley undertakes the rôle of Surgeon Crutchley in a very natural manner; two parts extremely well and effectively played are those of Hood and Dormer-Lee, by Mr. Hugh Wakefield and Mr. Lyonel Watts; and finely effective work is contributed by Mr. John Wheatman as Michael Palliser and Mr. Ian Chassereau as Memeti Salos. The graceful and charming work of Miss Florence Jackson as Mrs. Cameron is delightfully prominent; Miss Marjorie Chard is a sympathetic and attractive Lady Hermione; Miss Vivian Birkett does able duty as Viola Hood; and Miss Stella Leigh and Miss Evelyn Robson share honours as Mrs. Gough-Bogle and Lady Dugdale.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; District-Manager, Mr. George Egbert; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Holloway.—Topping the bill this week are the Four Mexicans, and their wonderfully accurate lasso and lariat throwing delights the audience; Daly and O'Brien, clever comedy artists, introduce striking dances; the Victoria Family sing, dance, and play with ability; Miss Diana Hope and company are successful in their sketch, Her Good Name; Frank Sley and Nipper dance smartly; Miss Jenny Lynn, with effective songs, is a capable comedienne; Miss Madge Bryce pleases as a smart-figured contralto comedienne; and new pictures are put on.

ECCLES.—CROWN THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. R. Andrews.—Mr. Lester Collingwood's company is appearing in When London Sleeps. Captain Rodney Haynes is well impersonated by Mr. Harry Wren; Mr. E. E. Ashby makes a good David Engleheart; Mr. Ernest C. Edwards ably fulfils his part as Mr. Furnaby Fuller of Lincoln's Inn; much fun is brought about by the exertions of Mrs. Douglas Campbell, Frank Howard, Tom Royden, and Miss Mona Hall, in the respective rôles of Sammy Blyth, Hon. Bertie Broomhead, Mark Blackwood, and Carrie Jones; Miss Mabel Scudamore depicts Queenie Carruthers ably; and Miss Lilla Wilde acts the part of Hilda Carrode capably.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—The Moody-Manners Opera Company opened their autumn week's engagement on Monday evening, with Wagner's Meistersingers, a work which has not been heard in Edinburgh for a number of years, and its revival, therefore, had much both of interest and novelty. With Mr. Philip Brozel excellent as Walter, Mr. Lewys James a pleasing Hans Sachs, and Miss Kate Anderson and Miss Toni Seiter well placed as Eva and Magdalena, the opera was finely rendered, both vocally and histrionically. Admirable supporters were found in the Beckmesser of Mr. William Dever, the Veit Pognor of Mr. Charles Magrath, and the David of Mr. F. Davis. Mr. Eckhold, who had a very hearty greeting, conducted his forces with untiring zeal and effect, which contributed largely to the success of the production. Faust, presented on Tuesday evening, under the direction of Signor Romualdo Sapio, drew another crowded house, the cast including Madame De Vere Sapio, who sang the Marguerita music most artistically; Mr. Seth Hughes, meritorious alike in his singing and acting of the name part; Mr. Charles Manners, strong as ever in the familiar rôle of Mephistopheles; and Mr. William Dever, always an acceptable Valentine. The chorus was augmented by the Edinburgh Grand Opera Society. Cavalleria Rusticana, in which Madame Sapio and Mr. Hughes were again heard, was given on Wednesday, followed, as usual, by Pagliacci, wherein Mr. Brozel and Miss Anderson took the lead. Thursday was devoted to Madame Butterfly, and the only appearance during the week of Madame Fanny Moody; The Meistersingers being down for repitition on Friday; with Tannhäuser and The Bohemian Girl completing the season's programme on Saturday afternoon and evening. To Mr. Louis Laurier was allotted the part of Tannhäuser, with Madame Sapio as Elizabeth, the Edinburgh Grand Opera Society again assisting in the chorus.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company is paying a welcome return visit to Edinburgh this week, with Tom Jones. The acting and singing reach a high standard, and Mr. Edward German's delightful music is rendered with all the charm that belongs to an artistic performance. Mr. Harry Welchman, in the title-rôle, acts with grace, feeling, and earnestness, and his pleasant voice is heard to much advantage in the airs that fall to his part; Mr. Ambrose Manning shows his versatility as Squire Western, giving due effect to the broad humour of the character, and singing with immense gusto the drinking song in the first act; Mr. Dan Rolyat as Benjamin Partridge is Mr. Rolyat in his best, quaintest style, keeping the audience in the heartiest laughter while he is on the stage; Mr. J. J. Macmillan is extremely amusing as Gregory; and Mr. Walter Rignold as Grizzle, and Mr. Lionel Braham as Dobbin, are very good. Miss Florence Smithson, an actress who possesses not only a charming presence, but a sweet, expressive voice, makes an undoubted hit as Sophia, her numbers being interpreted with much skill; Miss Isabelle Dillon as Honour is bright, intelligent, and genuinely humorous, and sings with taste; and the Lady Bellaston of Miss Alice Oppitz is more than competent, it is a distinctly forcible and clever piece of acting. The remaining parts are in capable hands; the chorus is strong and admirably balanced; and the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Edwin Thornton, contributes to a really excellent and exhilarating performance.

KING'S THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—There is not a weak turn in the admirable programme presented here. Mr. Geo. Dance's company taps a vein that is always enjoyable in the musical sketch The Burglar's Ball, which is played in lively and amusing fashion; Mr. W. B. Raby possesses the true art of the comedian, and his song entitled "Sleep," so greatly tickles the risibilities of the audiences that they are unwilling to permit him to leave the stage; Spangles and Sawdust give a very clever act, in which excellent acrobatic work is seen; Mr. Edwin Barwick's capital comedy sketches and imitations are loudly applauded; the Sisters Wingrove are expressive duettists and dainty dancers; the Glenvills afford much amusement by their droll playing in the comedy act The Slavey and the Yokel; Miss Jane Eyre sings sweetly several ballads; and Rappo and Ella are deft gymnasts. The Bioscope, as usual at this house, displays a variety of interesting views.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Crowded audiences are being attracted here this week, the name of the leading performer, Miss Marie Lloyd, on the bill having much to do with the large houses. Miss Lloyd scores her customary success, her latest song, "The Directoire girl," in which the artist is dressed in a striking costume, evoking great applause; Mr. Herbert Shelley is seen in his playlet, Dan, the Outlaw, which is notable for the quick changes which the actor makes while sustaining the entire weight of the piece on his own shoulders; Miss Rosa Loader, "The Happy Slavey at the Piano," gives a clever musical sketch; Miss Nell Emerald is a smart, vivacious comedienne, whose turn is bright and entertaining; the Great Lumars provide a particularly neat acrobatic act on the horizontal bar, in which a pretty electric effect is introduced; the Brothers Horne well deserve the applause which they call forth by their dexterous and amusing boxing act; and other performers who enliven the programme are Little Keeno, a boy comedian;

A NEW AND CHEAP EDITION OFFERED TO "THE ERA" READERS ON SPECIALLY ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

THERE can be little doubt that the whole profession should have this Edition of the great dramatist's works, arranged as it has been by the greatest Shakespearean actor of modern times, in conjunction with Mr. Frank A. Marshall; with extensive Notes and Introductions by Joseph Knight, O. F. Adams, H. A. Evans, P. L. Round, Dr. Richard Garnett, A. Symons, W. J. Rolfe, A. Wilson Verity, Canon Beeching, P. A. Daniel, and Prof. Edward Dowden.

The Edition has many features to recommend it, which here can merely be touched upon: "Shakespeare as a Playwright" by Sir H. Irving, "An Appreciation of Sir Henry Irving" from the pen of Bram Stoker, "Shakespeare's Country" contributed by Jerome Harrison, being, perhaps, the most important. Whilst the text is given unmutilated, un-Bowdlerized, Sir Henry has specially marked those portions which can, in his judgment, best be omitted in dramatic presentation.

The books have been specially illustrated by celebrated artists and each has a coloured frontisplece.

6/= TO EACH SUBSCRIBER A MAGNIFICENT PHOTOGRAVURE PORTRAIT OF SIR HENRY IRVING AS HAMLET IS PRESENTED.

Send 6/- to-day, and complete edition in 14 volumes will be despatched, carriage paid; nine monthly payments of a similar sum and one payment of 3/- will complete the purchase.

"THE ERA" OFFICE, 5, TAVISTOCK STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

Happy Tom Parker; and Mr. Hal Hughman, mimic; while the Bioscope shows several new films.

EXETER.—Theatre Royal.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. Wentworth Croke presents The Bondman here this week, and it is being welcomed by large audiences. Mr. R. Scrope Quentin as Jason is recalled again and again for his powerful acting; Mr. Lionel Atwill as Michael Sunlocks also earns deserved applause. Miss Georgina Wynter as Greeba is all that could be desired; Mr. W. H. Rotherham ably portrays the dual part of Father Ferrati and the old grandfather; Mr. Oswald Lingard is good as Adam Fairbrother; Miss Madge Lanerton is the match-making Mrs. Fairbrother to the life; and Mr. Alfred Fisher as Governor Testa and Mr. Fred J. Waller as Dr. Boni do well.

FALKIRK.—Grand Theatre and Opera House, —Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—This week Mr. Walter Melville's company is presenting The Girl Who Wrecked His Home. The play is exceedingly well "put on," the greatest attention being paid to scenic aids. Mr. Fred Goddard plays the part of Jack Marshall in a way which suggests cultured acting. He has a fine voice and a handsome stage presence. Mr. Paul Barry Lewers, Mr. Norman B. Cannon, and Mr. Francis Hope are worthy of special mention in a fine all-round combination. Miss Louise Hampton, in the leading part of Bertha Marshall sustains throughout a difficult and trying part with great effect; Miss Lulu Bowes makes a charming and vivacious Winifred Marshall; while Miss George de Lara fulfils the more notorious part of Val Raymond, and gives a faithful portrayal of the character.

FLEETWOOD.—Queen's Theatre. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. J. Snelson.—A powerful company is appearing this week in A Soldier of France. Mr. Percy Ballard is a strong and convincing hero as Corporal Jean; Mr. A. Guyon as Judas Delara gives a clever rendering, as also does Mr. Milton C. Curtis as Count d'Laval; Mr. Freddie Edwards proves himself a talented comedian; Miss Carlotta Anson enacts Pauline Lorraine in finished style; and Miss Maggie Hobart is decidedly good as Rita.

Co-operative Hall.—Manager, Mr. Thos. Robinson.—The Loyal British Empire Animated Picture Co. is again drawing full houses. Several strong dramatic pictures are shown, and a host of humorous films keep the audience in good humour.

FOLKESTONE.—Pleasure Gardens Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company, including Miss Agnes Verity and Mr. Austin Milroy, are playing to good houses in the new comedy-drama From Slave to Princess. Mr. Arthur Milroy as Prince Julian makes a manly hero; and Miss Verity as the cruel-hearted and plotting Princess Claudia is a complete success. The real villain of the play is Michael Bardoni, Chief of Police, spy, and traitor, and this character is skilfully portrayed by Mr. Arthur Elywyn. Miss Dorothy Lart as Vera, the slave, afterwards Princess, is a careful study. Real fun is caused by the low-comedy acting of Mr. Harry Benson as the Irish coachman, and is skilfully assisted by Miss Kitty Sinclair as Amelia, the maid to Princess Claudia; Mr. Dermont Fitzgibbon as Prince Alexis, and Mr. Arthur Estcourt as King Adrian are good. The play is well staged and dressed.

GAINSBOROUGH.—King's Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Stear.—Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Day's company appeared here on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday in For Love of a Woman. Miss May Day gave a clever rendering of the child-part, Nance Manor; Mr. Jerrold Ord was an earnest Ned Merrick; and the villainies of Guy Manor were well brought out by Mr. Frederick Garrett.

Empire Hippodrome.—Proprietors, the Gainsborough Syndicate; Manager Mr. Scott Alexander. —This week we have Mr. Robt. Trebor's new sketch The Reptiles' Devotion, which is fully reported elsewhere. Lieut. Albini and Miss Marie Gautier give a very clever illusionist turn; and the rest of the company includes Miss Lottie Lennon (comedienne), the Sisters Delmore (duettists), Miss Kitty Aven and Mr. Kranlee in a coon cake-walk, and Pictures.

GATESHEAD. — King's Theatre. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager and Licensee, Mr. Harold Arnold.—Florrie Forde in her latest successes has drawn large audiences to this house during the week. J. Gar Kiddie and company are extremely funny in The House of Tinn; Archie Pitt fairly convulses the audience; Daisy Morell is immensely popular; and Rowland Hill excels in the telling of "dry" tales. The Bros. Milford are successful knockabouts, and a clever gymnastic turn is given by Carla Magda.

Metropole Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder.—Mr. Walter Melville's company in A Girl's Cross Roads has proved a great draw here. Mr. Chas. Franmore vividly portrays the old farmer, John Meadows; a masterly assumption of Jack Livingstone is submitted by Mr. Jack Fortescue; Mr. Ed. Chester gives a polished Cuthbert Lumley; Miss Hilda Beverley is an admirable Barbara Wade; Nellie Meadows is ably depicted by Miss Nita Lingford; whilst Constance Cornell is cleverly done by Miss Dorothy Hildebrand.

GLASGOW.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphreys.—Miss Ellaline Terriss and Mr. Seymour Hicks are this week paying their first personal visit in The Gay Gordons. No brighter or more winning lovers have come north than Peggy Quainton and Angus Graeme; Mr. Johnny Danvers is likewise admirably suited as the old Showman; Miss Sidney Fairbrother's Charlotte is another diverting study; and Mr. George Carroll's quaint impersonation of Edmond Siddons completes the comic trio; for the part of Victoria Siddons a bright and attractive exponent is found in Miss Nell Carter; Mr. E. Lugg gives a touch of distinction to the character of Andrew Quainton; as Corporal Smith Mr. Lawrence Caird is good; and the lawyer Speedy is suitably represented by Mr. J. C. Buckstone; the performances of Miss Maud Milton as Janet McLeod and Miss Doris Macintyre as Mary McLeod are very pleasing; the Ladies Graeme are handsomely depicted by Miss Katie Butler and Miss Rosie Chesney; Mr. Will Bishop is funny as McPhrisky; and the young titled sportsmen are successfully represented by Messrs. Harry Ulph, Melville Florance, E. Dewey Gibson, Harry Walter, and Arthur Metcalf.

King's, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—Large and fashionable audiences are assembling nightly to welcome Mr. Fred Terry and his company in The Scarlet Pimpernel, with Mr. Terry as Sir Percy Blakeney, of which he gives his usual vivid impersonation. The Lady Blakeney of the cast, played on former visits by Miss Julia Neilson, is now undertaken by Miss Miriam Lewes, and is an excellent interpretation; Mr. A. E. Anson as Prince of Wales is a courtly and "first-gentlemanly" figure; the mysterious and ever-wary Chauvelin is suitably rendered by Mr. Horace Hodges; Mr. D. J. Williams as Jellyband, the Dover landlord, makes a suitable English host; Sally is well played by Miss Mary Jennings; Brogard, host of the Lion d'Or is sufficiently truculent as played by Mr. J. Carter Edwards; while Mère Brogard, by Miss Marion Sterling, is still more forbidding; the Comtesse de Tournai, by Miss Claire Pauncefort, is a magnificent grande dame, and Miss Kathleen Doyle as her daughter Susanne is charming; Amand St. Just, as depicted by Mr. L. Race Dunrobin, Sir Andrew Ffoulkes by Mr. Alfred Kendrick, and Lord Anthony Dewhurst by Mr. Malcolm Cherry are all fine gentlemen of the period; Mr. Hermann Griffiths as Captain of the Guard is a stern, uncompromising figure. The song, "Eldorado," is still a feature of the performance.

Royalty, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Carpenter.—A neat little costume play, If We Only Knew, by Messrs. Harry Nicholls and George Ross is presented this week to the patrons of the Royalty. Mr. Nicholls takes the part of Slippery Sam, and, being a first-class comedian keeps the audience in good humour; Mr. P. A. Gawthorn as Dick Steen gets through his work in a capable manner, a like remark applying to Messrs. Ernest Young and J. Benedick Butler, as Ensign Wilmott and Mr. Bignell respectively; Miss Sylvia Morris does well as Barbara Wentworth; Miss Margaret Von Hollister makes an ideal Ruth Steen; Miss Kate Kearney an amusing Priscilla; and as landlady of the Hook and Hatchet Inn Miss Violet Langley is seen to advantage.

Grand.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. Christie Grant.—Claudian, as presented by Mr. William Maclaren's company is a fine bill of fare. Mr. William Maclaren's fine stage presence and dignified method fit him admirably as Claudian; In Miss Lily C. Bandmann we find an excellent Almida, her performance being both powerful and graceful; Mr. Ernest Lodge portrays Theorus with telling effect, and the part of Serena, in the hands of Amy Hardcastle, stands out prominently; the character of Thariogalus the Tetrarch is convincingly presented by Mr. Bernard Elliott; Mr. Douglas Earle creditably sustains the part of Agazil; Mr. Chas. T. Chaloner does good work as Belos, and excellent also is the Edessa of Miss Ruth Trafford.

Royal Princess's.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—This week Mr. Waldon introduces his patrons to the new version of Hall Caine's well-known play, The Christian. Mr. Wentworth Croke's company is responsible. Miss Doris Gilham as Glory is most interesting in the various emotional scenes; Mr. Harry Renouf as John Storm bears himself well throughout; Mr. Geo. K. Montford as Lord Robert Ure acts with ability, the same remark being applicable to Mr. Oswald Marshall, a sympathetic Horatio Drake; to Mr. C. T. Turpin, who figured strongly as Archdeacon Wealthy, and Mr. E. R. Holloway; Miss Sinna St. Clair gave a quiet comely rendering of the part of Mrs. Callender, and Miss Margaret Brodie did well in the trying rôle of Polly Love.
